VOL. XLIX. NO. 33.

THE RECORD: NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1919.

$1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

VILLAGE ELECTION

NEXT WEEK MONDAY

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD TRY OUT HER NEW PREROGATIVE.

Next Monday occurs the annual village election and while there appears no opposition to the various candidates at the same time it gives a good opportunity for the women to take a practice shot at the voting game.

The township election occurring early in April will provide two tickets all the way along the line and may prove more exciting.

The instructions for voting at the election are to first put a cross in the circle at the top of your party (Workingmen's or People's) ticket. Then place an X in front of the candidate for whom you wish to vote in the other column (or the other ticket).

There will be plenty of sample ballots on hand on election day, so that experimental markings may be made if necessary.

WOMEN WILL RECEIVE

VOTING INSTRUCTIONS

It is planned to hold a school of instruction in Northville next week for women voters who wish to learn the proper process of marking their ballots. While the demonstrations will be given at the request of, and especially for the benefit of the women voters, there will be no objection to men attending. According to the reports that have been heard after every election of the number of ballots invalidated all over the country by improper marking, it is evident that a good many men need instruction along this line, as well as do women.

A PATRIOTIC SUGGESTION.

Our village council is again to be commended for providing a new flag for the community staff, and it is in no spirit of criticism that the writer of this article makes the following suggestions in regard to the preservation of the successive ones needed, and also for some valuable patriotic instruction for our young citizens. Military rules for the care of "Old Glory" require that all flags be lowered at sunset, protected from contact with the ground when taken down and burned when too faded and ragged to make a decent appearance. The use of the flag in the last named condition is listed as flag-desecration, but is not legally punishable. Realizing that the taking down of the flag every evening involves considerable care and trouble the writer suggests that here is the opportunity for our Boy Scouts, or for any of our school students who are willing to make arrangements for helping to take care of our Star Spangled Banner in proper form. The boys and girls could form a "Flag Corps" and take regular turns in lowering and putting it up again in the morning. As a matter of both patriotism and economy we believe this suggestion would meet with general approval in Northville.

A RELIEF CORPS MEMBER. (And a Voter).

ENJOYABLE WINTER PICNIC.

In spite of the terrible though fortunately brief storm Friday evening, the "winter picnic" at the Presbyterian church was an unqualified success in every way. About 200 people were present, including nearly the entire Sunday school membership. Besides some of the parents of the children and other friends to enjoy the abundant and excellent supper, the pleasant social meeting and the clever magic of Mr. Sartello of Detroit. Eight or ten beautiful specimens of the skill of some of the best cake artists in town and vicinity were entered in the cake contest, and the very difficult task of deciding between them finally resulted in Mrs. Harry Jacobs winning the prize of $2 offered, the judges being required to make the award to the "best looking" cake. With Mr. Sartello and "Charlie" Altman as salesmen, the cakes were then sold at auction, bringing the nice little sum of $28.50. A number of the boys did some lively bidding, several times giving the purchase back to be resold. N. C. Schrader carried off the prize cake on a $5 bid and D. P. Yerkes, B. H. Lapham, Floyd Northrop, L. A. Babbitt and perhaps several others whom the Record reporter failed to catch in the act were among the contributors to the fun, the funds and several home-larders by taking active part in the bidding and buying.

ANOTHER NORTHVILLE SOLDIER DEAD.

A letter received by the Record from Mrs. Augusta Filley of Ewart, Mich., formerly of this place, gives the information that her son, James Roche, died in France, October 18, 1918, as the result of a railroad accident. No particulars were given the Record.

FARMINGTON PEOPLE ENTERTAINED AND FED

TWO SOLDIER BOYS JUST HOME FROM FRANCE GAVE INTERESTING TALKS.

The Farmington M. E. Sunday school class gave a supper and entertainment in the town hall in that village last Friday that was some show. The supper was excellent and the play and speaking was simply great. Upwards of three hundred were present and the society netted $137.00.

Lieutenant Harley Warner and Private Hugo Schaeffer gave very interesting talks. Warner had been in the airplane ordnance service in France for over a year and Schaeffer had been in a number of battles, there with the famous 32nd. He was severely wounded in one leg in one of the Marne battles and was sent home in January last.

Their experiences were certainly exciting as well as interesting.

Lieutenant Warner says in the make-up of a bombing expedition some fifteen planes go out with bombs enough to blow up a whole town if they all struck just right. The bombs are gauged to drop on the objective from a height of two to three miles and some of the thirty or forty pieces are quite sure to do the work intended. However from such a height no one can definitely locate a bomb stopping place and that hospitals and innocent buildings are sometimes the victims is not to be wondered at.

DEATH OF JAMES FORD.

James Ford, a respected resident of Northville for the past 25 years, during 11 of which he was in business, died Tuesday, March 4 at his home here, after a three months' illness, during which everything that medical skill could accomplish was done for him, but to no avail.

Mr. Ford was born in Canada August 17, 1868. He was twice married and two children were born to each marriage. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, here, his mother, Mrs. Frank Lyon, a son, Will, and a sister, Mrs. Mae McFarland, all of Detroit, and a brother, George, of this place. Funeral services were held from the Methodist church Thursday afternoon the pastor, Rev. W. C. Francis, officiating. The body was placed in the vault in Oakwood.

WOMAN FOR TOWNSHIP TREASURER.

Urged by her many friends, Mrs. Emma Knapp has consented to allow her name to be presented for the nomination as township treasurer on the Republican ticket. Mrs. Knapp is a member of the King's Daughters' society, the Presbyterian church society and is one of the trustees of the Ladies' Library board. She has always been popular in Northville, where the greater part of her life has been spent, and also has a wide acquaintance outside the village. The duties of the office will be well filled if placed in Mrs. Knapp's hands.

AN UNJUST ACCUSATION.

Albert Minehart, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Minehart, living south of Northville, is being unjustly accused of failing to register in the 18-year class last fall and the Record, having been supplied with the facts in the case, is glad to give them publicity. The appointed date of the registration, as all know, was September 12, 1918 and it was explicitly stated that no boy under that age was to register. According to his parents and his birth certificate—which are pretty good authority—Albert was born September 11, 1901 and hence lacked a year and a day of being eligible to registration. These facts should be sufficient to silence all unjust critics.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED?

Attention is again called to the fact that not half the women of Northville township have, as yet, recorded their intention to assume full citizenship, by registering. It is to the women that the decent element of Michigan is looking for help in beating the brewers. No respectable woman can afford to be a "slacker" now.

PRIMARY VOTE LIGHT.

As in most other towns, the voting in Northville's primary election Wednesday was very light. Of the normal male voting strength of about 700, 85 ballots were cast, and of the 318 women registrants so far listed, 34 took advantage of their opportunity to "practice up."

KEEP THE LOAN FIRES BURNING.

Liberty Loan officials for Chicago and the rest of the Seventh Federal Reserve district issued statements today warning the workers in the organization that nothing should be permitted to delay the carrying out of the plans for the flotation of the Victory Liberty Loan, which positively, according to Secretary of the Treasury will be placed before the people not later than April 21.

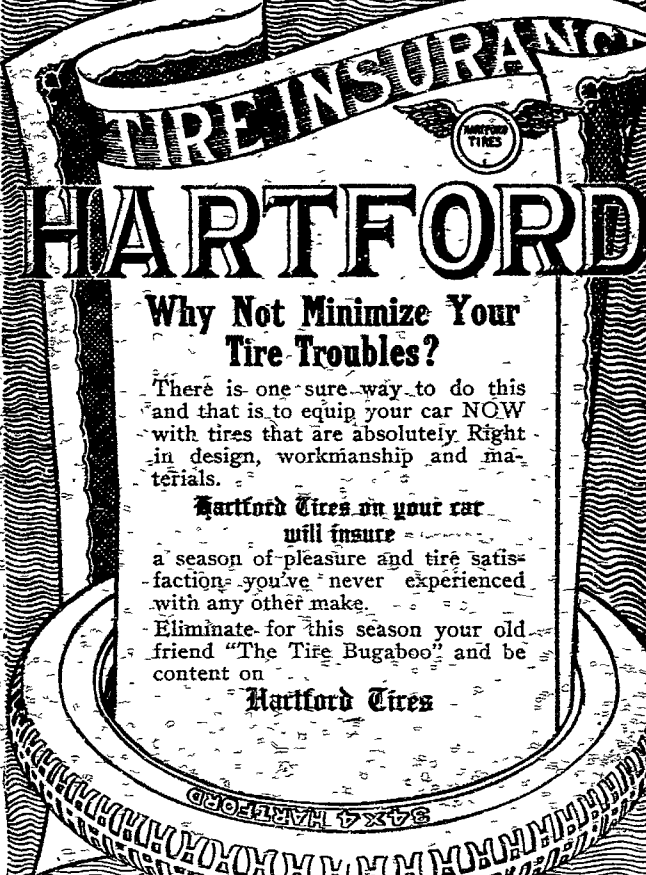

It is pointed out by the Liberty Loan officials that the reports from Washington are merely concerning the details of the big loan to be floated in the spring, and that no matter what the nature of the securities, whether notes or bonds, the Liberty Loan details of the big loan to be floated in, and they must move swiftly and with greater vim and determination than ever before.

RED CROSS NOTES.

The local unit has received from headquarters a quota of 35 pairs of children's stockings to be sent overseas. Also, there are still a number of sweaters to be made for "Northville's Own." Knitters to the rescue!

It seems, unfortunately, that it is again necessary to appeal for help at the work-rooms. The few ladies who attend cannot possibly accomplish all that is needed. Remember that there is yet much work to be done in the cause of suffering humanity. Are you still wearing your Red Cross button?

Leopard Has Not Changed His Spots; Hun Quit, but Waits His Chance

By GENERAL GOURAUD, Fourth French Army

In 1871 Bismarck said in the reichstag that the war just finished was child's play compared with what the next would be. He was right. The war we have passed through is but child's play compared to the next if it comes. Therefore we have got to see to it that Germany does not start the next war.

I know it is altogether natural for American soldiers to be impressed with the beauties of the Rhine. It is altogether natural for them to be impressed with one of the garden spots of the world. But they must not forget that out of these beautiful valleys and down from these beautiful hills came the band of brigands and robbers who tried to ruin civilization.

It is now an open secret that on November 14 the allies were to have launched an attack on Lorraine which would have brought disaster to the German army. The Germans knew that, and so they surrendered. Did they in their hearts surrender? Their army has been received not as a conquered army. I ask if anyone has heard the Germans express any real repentance for waging history's most brutal war?

Now, when peace is signed, the Americans are going home across the seas. The English are going home, too. But France stays where she is. Marshal Foch has said that France is a barrier protecting civilization, and so France and civilization must be protected.

We know the character of the Germans along the Rhine. We know there is no democracy in their hearts. We know their feeling attitude is as false as it can be. France wants no such people in her republic. We do not want to annex Germany up to the Rhine, but we do intend to see that the German military machine stays behind the river. That is what Marshal Foch meant.

If we don't have that protection France must maintain always an enormous army to guard civilization. With our great loss of life in the war that would be a terrible burden for France. We must have a natural barrier or else it would be madness to demobilize our armies. I hope the Americans will see it the same way. I hope the soft words of the Germans will not convince the Americans that the leopard has changed his spots.

So far I am not convinced that the Germans of today are not the Germans of yesterday, the foes of the ideals of America, the ideals of France, the ideals of civilization, the foes of all that is desired in the hearts of mankind.

German Coal Will Help Pay Huge War Indemnity Demanded by Allies

By JOHN J. ARNOLD, Chicago Banker

Germany can probably pay an indemnity of $3,500,000,000 annually. But if the financial demands of the victors in the war are too heavy they will result in Germany's ruin and the spread of anarchy throughout that country and eventually over a still greater part of Europe.

In estimating Germany's wealth I find that the question of her raw materials with which she is abundantly supplied, is not taken into consideration by those who discuss this subject. They base their estimates all on the developed wealth of the country, which is far less than the value of its undeveloped resources. Let us take, for example, Germany's coal supply. This is estimated to be around 409,000,000,000 tons, while France has only about 17,000,000,000 tons. Of this total Germany may lose 20 per cent through the taking of Alsace-Lorraine by France. She may lose some coal deposits on the left bank of the Rhine also, but assume that she will have left 300,000,000,000 tons in her mines and place a conservative estimate of $1 a ton on this and you will begin to get some idea of the value of the country's great natural resources. This one item amounts to $300,000,000,000. Suppose the allies should decide to take one-fourth of this coal supply of Germany and apply it on their bill for damages. This would reduce their claims by more than $75,000,000,000.

The nation which has a big supply of coal is bound to be a great industrial nation, because coal is the basis of all industrial development. The biggest coal fields of Germany are in Westphalia. France and the rest of continental Europe would be much better off in the long run if Germany were called upon to give up a part of her Westphalian coal fields. And what applies to her coal supply applies as well to her potash industry.

Like Prohibition, Movement for Good Roads Now Sweeps the Country

By W. G. EDENS, Pres't Illinois Highway Improvement Association

Just as prohibition, once started, spread so quickly over the nation that the states rushed to get on the "dry" bandwagon, so the good-roads movement is sweeping over the country. The vigorous manner in which the states have taken up the cry to pull themselves out of the mud indicates that at last the public has come to a realization of the sound economic basis of improved highways.

Illinois, once the most backward of states, has come suddenly to the forefront. Illinois, in its $60,000,000 bond issue project, solved a question that has puzzled good-roads enthusiasts from the beginning of their propaganda for better highways. This was the question of a sound, economical and fair method of financing a state system of main highways to which all other roads could be tributary.

The taxation problem always is with us, and if an attempt were made right now to levy a general tax for good roads it would be met with very serious and powerful opposition.

But Illinois got around this question through the expedient of the application of the automobile license fees to the principal and interest of a bond issue. Motorists generally co-operated in advocating this method of taxing themselves, realizing that the saving in depreciation and running expenses would more than meet the burden.

Thus the "Illinois plan" was evolved and today we have dozens of sister states looking into it and preparing to adopt it all, or so much of it as their constitution or other local conditions will permit.

There is a general disposition to await price readjustment before ambitious construction plans are put under way for 1919. I believe that broad-visioned business men will go half way in meeting public officials

BRITISH OUTWIT GERMAN SPIES

Intelligence Office Kept Huns Busy by Supplying Prepared "Facts."

FOOLED KAISER'S ADVISERS

Information Sent to Germany Which Kept Hindenburg's Staff Busy Protecting Themselves Against Peril That Did Not Exist.

London—Not the least of the many honours of the war has been the outwitting in every direction of the much vaunted and elaborate German spy system by the English Directorate of Special Intelligence, which long ago won the admiration of its American co-workers. Had England been less indifferent to the German spy system which governs the country years and years before the war, she might have saved herself an immense amount of trouble; but what was done during the war in circumventing German treachery and cunning has been amazing. It would seem to have been a gigantic failure. And the explanation of that failure appears to lie in a very real understanding of the German mind on the part of the intelligence department. They realized that the German has not yet been born who can resist a fact. Give a German one little fact to play with and it will keep him busy for hours.

Therefore, the industries of Germany were supplied with facts, and the English intelligence department watched quietly while they played with them. The facts were entirely unimportant and sometimes they were not facts at all but they served their purpose and revealed the identity of still more members of the German service.

Darkened Hun Counsels.

There were occasions when they served an even greater purpose, for they were sent all the way to Germany, or were allowed to go, where they helped to darken the counsels of the Kaiser's advisers and set the German headquarters hard at work protecting themselves against a peril which did not exist. Meanwhile the British intelligence department went cheerily on with their real business, and prepared various little surprises for the Hun, and delivered them in due course, such surprises, for instance, as the tanks, of which the Germans knew nothing until they were upon them.

Cudoubtedly the failure of the enormously costly German intelligence system had much to do with the ultimate defeat of Germany. They were beaten at their own game. Brig Gen C. K. Cockrell, who has been director of special intelligence, has just disclosed some secrets in a farewell message.

PLANE FOR TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT

This huge seaplane is being built by the Wittman-Lewis Aircraft company, and is to be piloted by Capt. Hugo Stenstedt, a Swedish aviator, for a transatlantic flight for the $50,000 Lord Northcliffe prize. The plane when rigged will have a wing span of 100 feet and a boat length of 72 feet. The boat is to be inclosed to protect against the cold and will carry three passengers besides the pilot. Its speed is 80 miles per hour and it is of the pusher type.

War Souvenirs

Bomb U. S. Home

Port Chester, N. Y.—Explosives from the Marne battle field wrecked the bedroom of Sgt. Joseph Hamilton and Private Ralph Hamilton, returned soldiers of the American expeditionary force, at the home of their uncle, George H. Lowden, here.

The Hamilton brothers brought back as souvenirs from France a number of hand grenades, a German helmet, a pistol and 49 machine gun cartridges. One of the grenades, under a bureau, exploded, tearing a two-foot hole through the bedroom floor and setting off many of the machine gun cartridges. Mr. Lowden and his nephews narrowly escaped death or injury.

No man is at all times wise.—Pitkin

TWO DEVOTED WAR WORKERS

Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., son of the late Colonel Roosevelt, with his wife at Romagne, Meuse, France. Mrs. Roosevelt has been doing canvas work for the Y. M. C. A. in France for some time. Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt, as denoted by the service stripes on his sleeve, has been with the American forces in France for a year.

Piled Up Contraband Evidence. "It will interest you to know that in practically every case of contraband which has been brought before the prize court, the evidence on which the Crown relies has been furnished by you. The significance of this statement will be better appreciated when it is added that the estimated value of prize cargoes, exclusive of ships, is over $30,000,000. You have, moreover, stopped enemy remittances to the value of about $70,000,000, and you have completely destroyed the enemy's overseas communications, so far as they were vulnerable. I am conscious that there are many other activities of the directorate that I have not touched upon. Important decisions have been given in the realm of military international law, much trouble has been taken in the selection of intelligence personnel for the field, and investigations demanding technical qualifications of a high order have been conducted. "As typical examples I may mention the highly skilled work of the staff of the chemical laboratory in connection with secret ink; of the photographic and code experts; and of the professors of uncommon languages. Much of the work has been so secret that no reference to it is as yet permissible."

FLIGHT OVERSEA IS NAVY ORDER

Washington—Navy aviation experts are planning a flight across the Atlantic. Commander John H. Towers was ordered to take charge of "the development of plans and assembly of material and personnel for the proposed transatlantic flight."

Commander Towers has been in charge of the naval reserve flying corps and is considered an expert of the service in this branch.

Much attention has been given to the project by the navy and recent reports of similar plans by the British naval aviation service have lent great impetus to the work on this side.

The navy department during the war developed a monster seaplane equipped with three Liberty motors, giving it about 1,200 horse-power. This machine has a body a substantially built boat and has carried as high as fifty-one persons in flights of considerable length. It has been tested out along the Atlantic coast with great success within the last few weeks.

Land to Land Trip in 20 Hours.

When the project of a transatlantic flight was urged here by Major Gen. Brucker of the British air service last year it was brought out that the shortest distance would be from Newfoundland to the Irish coast. This is approximately 2,000 miles, and given a plane capable of a sustained speed of 100 miles an hour, it could be made in twenty hours. So far as known, however, no plane has yet been built which could make the trip without stopping for refueling.

The route most generally favored in naval circles, however, is by way of the Azores, with a stop at these islands for fuel and oil. This would make the first leg 1,300 miles and the final leg 700. Some officers favor a halfway stop at sea to refuel from a destroyer if it is considered impossible to make the trip in a single flight.

In a general way it has been said heretofore that the crew of any plane attempting to cross the Atlantic would be composed of at least five men, two pilots to provide relief at the levers, two mechanics to care for the engines and a navigating officer to chart the course.

Conditions Ripe About June.

As to the weather it was said that probably not before June would conditions become stable enough to warrant an attempt. Another quiet period occurs in early fall. It is regarded as doubtful that all preparations could be made by the summer period, although this is one of the things Commander Tower will have to determine by careful study.

A FAIR EXCHANGE

By DOROTHY D. MUIR

It has never been quite decided whether Bob was wakeful that night or whether the burglar, being an inexperienced burglar, made too much noise, but everybody does agree that though the burglary itself was unsuccessful, the affair turned out in a way that pleased all concerned, and much better, to be sure, than had been expected. The whole thing began when Bob awoke with an awful start to discover that there was surely a burglar in his apartment. Now Bob, having his own ideas on the management of burglars, soon had his very bright, hitherto unused, and he feared, unloaded revolver, cocked before him, and stood ready to draw the curtains separating his room from the small living room adjoining it.

"Glad you seem to be enjoying your self," this from Bob, as he stood, rather dramatically, between the drawn portieres, the revolver leveled at the intruder.

"Oh!" A very startled and almost feminine exclamation from the burglar.

"Ah!" A very admiring and extremely amazed exclamation from Bob, as the burglar, as perhaps we should say, burglarless, faced him. Bob knew how to manage some species of burglar, for though he did not, this particular specimen baffled him.

"Please, I'm sorry!" She raised a pathetic face to his, an extremely pretty face, with very large brown eyes, and very red lips. For a moment the lips trembled and strange to say it seemed as though she was struggling to suppress laughter rather than tears.

"Hysterical!" concluded Bob, though it was hard to explain the odd twinkle which he felt sure he could detect in her eyes.

"Please don't send for the police," she said.

"Oh, don't explain. I think I understand—you were poor and discouraged, and tempted."

"Yes! that was the reason. I was so poor and tired. But now will you let me go?"

"Of course, in a moment, but won't you let me be of assistance to you?" He disappeared into his room, and when he returned held out to her a bill of as large a denomination as he had felt he could afford.

"Please accept it, and try not to steal again."

He felt that he was hauling the situation admirably. He possessed no great amount of wealth, but what he did have he would use to help the unfortunate, and, incidentally, the beautiful.

"Thank you," replied the fair burglar, after a brief moment of hesitation, and she took the proffered gift. "You are very good." The sentence was left unfinished as she buried her head in her arms.

"Absolutely overcome," thought Bob, with much sympathy. Some time later, when she seemed to have recovered and had promised to lead a worthier life, he led her to the door, and sent her away, then returned to his disturbed slumber, inwardly regretting that a girl with such a lovely face, should be a mere thief of the slums. All that night, and all the next day he thought of her. He was disgusted with himself for not getting her address and managing to see more of her if only to be of pecuniary assistance—and then the unexpected happened. A letter came from Betty. Betty was Bob's sister, who lived some distance away with the rest of his family, but who was in the same town, with friends, at the present time, on a visit. As he opened the envelope, a rather crumpled greenback fluttered out of it and as it was a bill of the same amount that he had made a gift of the night before, he hastened to read sister Betty's letter for an explanation.

Dear Bobbie—at ran, I am, returning the inclosed, with much praise for your generosity and many thanks from my friend, Margaret Allan, a perfect dream of a girl, whose acquaintance you have made under strange circumstances. They have a perfectly delightful club over here and last night they initiated Margaret—(I suggested the initiation as you probably suspect, for you remember I had a key to your apartments)—and that's why she played burglar, Bobbie, dear.

"Hope you won't be cross! Margaret was a good sport, anyway, for it was a daring thing to do! And she carried it off fine, even if you did discover her. I will tell you that she was very favorably impressed, if you won't get too conceited and, of course, I can arrange a meeting if you wish. But oh, Bobbie, what will happen to you if I introduce you to Margaret? Love, from Betty."

It hardly needs to be said that, at his eager request, Betty soon arranged for the meeting, and Margaret, with her irresistible smile and altogether charming manner, was even more wonderful than he had pictured she would be.

The acquaintance ripened into friendship, and the friendship grew deeper and stronger, until one day Bob said, very tenderly, to Margaret: "Don't pretend you're a lady, Margaret, for you're only a little burglar after all. Margaret, dear, do you know you have stolen my heart?"

But Margaret, her eyes beaming with love light, answered: "Oh, no, Bobbie, dear. I have not stolen your heart. It is only a fair exchange." (Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Dandertine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Dandertine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Dandertine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference—how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy. Just moisten a cloth with Dandertine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Dandertine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that all you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Dandertine.—Adv.

Forest Waste.

We have used up about half the forests we originally possessed. Although there are forest associations in nearly every state, supplementing the excellent work of the national forest service, trees are being used up faster than they are being grown. When a tree is cut less than half of it reaches the consumer. The sawmill wastes amount to 49 per cent of the tree. Forest fires cause a loss of $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 yearly. There are 137 national forests in the United States, consisting of 155,106,619 acres.—Thrill Magazine.

BATTERY STANDS SEVERE WEATHER

Discharged One Will Freeze at Temperature of 20 Degrees Above, Says Expert.

FREEZING WILL BURST JARS

Test Should Be Made With Hydrometer at Intervals of Two Weeks or Less—No Set Rules Can Be Given for Care.

The storage battery should be kept fully charged during the winter, according to E. V. Collins, instructor in steam and gas engineering in the Kansas State agricultural college.

"The charged battery," said Mr. Collins, "will stand very low temperatures while a discharged battery will freeze at 20 degrees above zero. Freezing will burst jars, and as a result the battery must be rebuilt."

Battery in Cold Weather.

"In cold weather the starting battery is especially likely to become discharged. The engine is difficult to crank because the oil is cold. It must also be cranked longer each time it is started because the gasoline does not vaporize readily in cold weather. Long trips are few and the charging periods are shorter. The lights which are needed earlier in the evening help in discharging the battery."

"The battery should be tested with a hydrometer at intervals of two weeks or less. If it is found to be discharged, it should be charged as soon as possible either by driving the car or from an outside source."

No-Set Rules Given.

"The conditions under which cars operate vary, and there are so many starting systems, that no set rules can be given for the care of the storage battery. If the starter turns the engine with difficulty, the motor should be cranked by hand when starting on a cold morning. The engine may be made to start more easily by priming it through the priming cups or by pulling the choke when it is stopped. The lights should be turned on only when necessary and in many cases the dimmers may be used to save the current."

TALCUM BLOWERS ARE HANDY

Essential That Chalk Be Thoroughly Distributed Over Inside Casing of Tire.

When replacing tire tubes it is essential that talc or French chalk should be thoroughly distributed over the inside of the casing. This operation is greatly facilitated by the use of a small blower such as is used for spraying insect powder. A blower of this kind may be obtained in any drug store, and its use results in the talc being evenly distributed all over the inside of the casing, a very important matter.

MATERIAL FOR WIND SHIELDS

"Super-Glass" Made by Welding Layer of Transparent Celluloid Between Glass Sheets.

A material known as "super-glass" used in making automobile wind shields is made by welding a layer of transparent celluloid between two sheets of plate glass. If struck by a heavy object super-glass will crack but the occupants of the car will not be injured by flying splinters.

WRAP TOOLS IN OILED CLOTH

Prevents Implements From Becoming Rusty When Stowed Away in Tool Compartment.

It is an admirable idea to wrap good tools, such as drills, wrenches, etc., in oiled cloths before stowing them away in the tool compartment. The oiled cloth prevents the implements from becoming rusty, which is quite likely to happen in the course of a strenuous season's running.

ELECTRIC WARMER ON WHEEL

One of Simplest Conveniences Invented for Automobile—Storage Battery Is Used.

One of the simplest electrical conveniences to make for the automobile is an electric hand-warmer. On the half of the steering wheel that comes toward the driver's body, or where he will grasp the wheel, wind a layer of heavy silk cloth, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Mica will do just as well, and if one is sure the wheel will never become wet no silk layer is necessary. Next, cut some asbestos in strips and wind it over the silk. Then wind some resistance wire carefully upon the asbestos, with each turn one-fourth of an inch from the next, being careful that no two turns touch.

A Little Electric Current From the Storage Battery on the Car, Passing Through Resistance Wire Wound on the Steering Wheel, Keeps the Driver's Hands Warm on the Coldest Days.

Over this wire tire-tape, extending it also over the other half of the wheel, for the sake of uniform appearance. To the ends of the resistance wire connect insulated, stranded copper wires, that reach down the steering post to a connection with the storage battery of the car. Place a switch in the line so that the circuit can be broken. A good enough resistance material for this purpose is bare iron wire.

KEEP OFF EMERGENCY BRAKE

Good Driver of Motorcar Permits Momentum to Carry Machine to Proper Stopping Place.

The good driver of a motorcar never applies brakes swiftly except in an emergency. When drawing up at a street side she cuts off ignition early and allows momentum to carry the car to the stopping place. The good driver thus saves gasoline and wear upon brakes, coasting to a stop with the smoothness of operation of an easy start.

A good driver never uses the emergency brake, because she never has emergencies. She sees and avoids the emergency before it arrives; the poor driver rushes into trouble and depends upon quickness in grabbing the emergency lever to save life. More than one accident has followed a futile attempt to find the seldom-used emergency-lever in a hurry.

The good driver rounds sharp corners to the right and goes over extremely rough stretches of road or hits unexpected "thank you, ma'ams," with clutch disengaged to save the rear axle mechanism.

The good driver uses the wheel with the least possible motion. She does not drag it suddenly from side to side, but turns it so gradually that passengers are unconscious of the fact. In rounding a corner she commences to straighten the car up before it is half way around.—Woman's Home Companion.

FAN SPEED CAUSES TROUBLE

Belt May Be Oily, Greasy, or It Simply May Have Been Stretched—Until Loose.

When the fan does not run at the proper speed there are certain definite causes behind the trouble. The belt itself may be oily, greasy, or it may simply have stretched so that it is too loose. The fan may be too tight on its bearing, which may be caused from lack of lubrication. The pulley may be loose on the shaft. By process of elimination it is easy to run down the cause of the trouble, and the remedy is obvious in each case.

SEED TREATMENT OF IMPORTANCE

Productive Power of Corn Plant Influenced by Attention Given to Kernel.

MUTILATION MOST HARMFUL

Chipping, Cracking and Breaking That Take Place in Shellers and Planters Reduce Productiveness of Plants.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Conclusive evidence has been obtained from several lines of work conducted by the United States department of Agriculture to prove that the productive power of a corn plant is influenced by the treatment received by the kernel from which the plant grew from the time it ripened until it was planted. It has been common knowledge that injury to seed corn would reduce its germinability. These investigations have extended beyond germinability and determined the effects of seed treatment upon productivity independent of germinability.

Obtain Good Stand.

A good stand may be obtained by the thick planting of poor seed, but with an optimum stand of plants from injured seed such plants are less productive than the same number from uninjured seed. These results follow when the seed is injured by normal weather conditions, as well as when injured by subjection to moisture, freezing and thawing. Mechanical mutilations of kernels similar to the chipping, cracking, and breaking that to some extent take place in shellers and planters reduce the productiveness of the plants that grow from such kernels.

Reduce Power of Seed.

The point of value that has been established is that, independent of heredity and independent of germinability, any injury to dormant seed corn reduces the power of such seed to produce a good crop. Seed corn of 100 per cent germination, laboriously secured from injured seed by individual ear-germination tests, is less productive than seed that matured well and was so cared for as to make individual ear testing unnecessary.

Tests under the same environmental conditions of widely dissimilar varieties have brought out the value in long-season districts of making plantings at different periods and using at least two varieties of different seasonal requirements in order better to meet the exigencies of the season and to insure a crop.

FEED BOXES AND HAY RACKS

Faulty Construction Cause of Animals Not Getting Feed Intended for Them.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In many instances animals do not get the feed actually intended for them, due to improper and faulty construction of boxes and hay racks. Many feed boxes are so shallow and small that much feed is wasted as the animals eat from them. In order to prevent this waste the feed boxes should be repaired. They should be at least 18 inches wide and 24 inches long and 12 to 14 inches deep. It is often advisable to feed the concentrates with silage to prevent waste.

Hay racks should be constructed to prevent animals from tossing or pulling hay under their feet. All hay racks should have a tight bottom to prevent the loss of leaves and finer particles of hay. The leaves of hay, especially of the legumes, contain most of the protein and are, therefore, that part of the roughage which the animals need. A few hours work in repairing boxes and hay racks, and at a very small cost, will result in saving sufficient feed to maintain the animals in a satisfactory condition.

AT SERVICE OF ALL FARMERS

United States Department of Agriculture Gives Assistance Costing Nothing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The United States department of agriculture is at the service of every farmer. Not every farmer, however, takes advantage of that service. The department's advice costs the farmer nothing, but the assistance given may save him a great deal—both in time and money.

MAKE PREPARATIONS FOR FARM WOODLAND

War Has Brought Matter Directly to Attention of Farmer.

Poor Species of Trees Should Be Gradually Eliminated and Openings Filled—Consideration Will Bring Returns.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The various demands which the war made upon the farm woodlands in the way of wood fuel, walnut for gunstocks and airplane propellers, locust for tree-nails, oak and hickory for vehicle construction and other purposes, to say nothing of the numerous lesser demands, have brought woodlands more directly to the attention of farmers than ever before. During the next month or so farmers should decide definitely ly what land is to be kept in woods and what is to be cleared for farm purposes. On many farms there are small areas unprofitable for farm purposes which should be reforested as soon as the price of nursery stock and labor becomes normal. Now is the time to make the plans for the future, laying out with the assistance of the county agent a program of woodland improvement which shall have for its object the growing on the land available of the most valuable or most rapid-growing trees. Then, as time and labor become available, the plans can be carried out. The poorer species of trees should be gradually eliminated and openings in the woodland filled in just as the farmer replants the failed place in his cornfield. A few days spent now in carefully considering these subjects will bring ample returns in the future.

USE MOST PRODUCTIVE LAND

Every Acre Planted Should Be Put into Condition to Yield Well—Prices Are High.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The food and feed program for this year is much the same as in 1918. Then it was pointed out that on account of the scarcity and high price of labor, the high prices of everything that went into the making of a crop, and the necessity for a full harvest, the farmer's efforts should be concentrated on his most productive land. That policy brought the biggest returns under war conditions. The same plan should be pursued this year. Prices for everything that go into making the crop are still on a war basis, consequently every acre planted should be put into condition to yield well. It is no time to endeavor to improve the poorest fields. That should be deferred until the prices of labor and fertilizer again become normal. It will then be most practicable if done as a supplement to farming better land. This year every stroke of work should be made to count on the best land of each farm, so that good yields may offset the high expense of putting in the crops this spring.

SEED TREATMENT AIDS OATS

As Result of Efforts of Farmer's and County Agents Million More Acres Succeeded.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

More than 50,000 farmers co-operated with the agricultural county agents last year in the 33 northern and western states in treating seed oats for smut. Their efforts resulted in more than 1,000,000 additional acres of oats being sown with treated seed. Based on reports made the previous year the results of this work increased the yield an average of about four bushels an acre, and this increase was brought about in most cases by less than ten cents' worth of seed treatment.

Remarkable, Indeed.

The other evening the little girl in question suddenly seeing one of Charleston's "finest" coming down the street, said to her mother:

"Oh, mother, did you know that policemen have wives?"

"What's that, dear?" queried the mother in a tone that implied to the child's ears disbelief.

"Well, they have," said the little one, "cause I saw a woman and she was a policeman's wife. I didn't know they had wives either until I saw her."—Charleston (W. Va.) Mail.

THE SACRAMENTAL WINE.

One of the stock "scare heads" of the whisky faction propaganda in favor of the booze amendment is that if it fails of passage wine cannot be obtained for church communion services. This is absolutely false, as the law specifically provides for that very thing; but even if it did not, what would it matter? Churches in thousands of places, including our own village of Northville have for many years administered the sacrament with unfermented wine—the juice of the grape without the alcoholic element. In fact, countless church organizations believe it wrong to use anything else, and have so long held that view that numberless communicants, even of advanced years, have never tasted fermented wine from a communion cup. It is nothing less than sacrilege for the friends of the most soul-destroying traffic on earth to even allude to such a matter by way of argument.

The Record believes that if the suggestion made in another part of this issue could be carried out it would be an excellent solution of the question of proper care of our municipally owned flag.

Platonic Friendship.
"Do you believe in platonic friendship?" "Well, not altogether. My personal opinion is that to believe more in platonic friendship if it were carried on with the full knowledge and consent of the husband of the one and the wife of the other."—Detroit Free Press.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative power of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CENNEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

OLIVER DIX*When Her Back Aches*A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Northville women know—how the aches and pains that often comes when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, are frequent indications of weak kidneys and should be checked in time. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause.

Con Northville sufferers desire stronger proof than this Ann Arbor woman's word?

Thomas Burke, 123 E. Ann Street, Ann Arbor, Mich., says: "Off and on for the past few years I have been subject to kidney complaint. At times my back has been weak and lame and ached dreadfully. The kidney secretions have been highly colored, too. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to relieve the complaint. I think Doan's is a fine kidney medicine."

Price 60¢, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Burke had. Foster-Milburn Co.,

many nice things said of the Herald

Coming, as these compliments do, from of whom publish mighty nice papers themselves, they make us feel mighty good toward our fellow men.—South

Charles Gohing of Detroit and Camp Custer, member of a motor convoy on his way from Fort Wayne to Chicago was almost instantly killed at Elsie.
February 23, by an interurban car.
The soldier had left the truck to see if the road was clear when he was hit by the car. The driver of the truck noticing the accident drove his machine over the injured man. He was removed to the hospital at Elsie where he died shortly after the accident.—Wayne Weekly.

The worst damage reported in this vicinity from Friday's storm—and it was pretty bad damage at that—was the killing by lightning, of 12 head of valuable registered dairy cows belonging to E. M. Starkweather and Mr.
Lennox. The cattle were in a barn on the Lennox farm, and it is evident the steel stanchions by which they were secured were the means of attracting the deadly electric current, which is said to have left no other mark of its passage than the dead animals.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark went to Ann Arbor Wednesday, where the former was operated on for the removal of his tonsils, the bad condition of which is believed by his physician to be the cause of his severe attack of muscular rheumatism.

The many individuals whom you see wearing that wild and haunted "expression are not fugitives from justice the unfortunate (?) persons whose annual incomes are expressible in four or more figures, and they are think-

"Wanted—Boy with bicycle 16 or 17 years old." Lined in Wednesday's Detroit News. In our opinion it would be much easier to find a 1902 or 1903 boy than a 1902 or 1903 bicycle.
You certainly won't see anything in a model of that age at the auto show

Mrs. D. S. Kysor has received a very interesting collection of German war souvenirs from her son in France including a beautifully ornamented, vase made from a large shell also buttons, buckles and several other small articles, the exact use of which will have to be explained "when the her birthday. Those present were Mrs. J. M. Burgess, Miss Mabel Burgess, Mrs. Kate Humman, Miss Ruth Humman, all of Detroit, Mrs. Charles Bloom, Harold Bloom and Mrs. Fred Toussy of Northville.

Corporal Carl VanValkenburg has seen army life in quite a variety of camps since he left Northville a year ago Wednesday of this week, March 5. He was at Camp Greenleaf, Ga.
for a month, then eleven months at Taylor Field, Ala., and is now stationed at the Post Hospital, Chapman Field, Miami, Fla. He writes home that the weather is fine there,
and he likes the place very much.

Mr. Elmer Law of Dearborn and Miss Mamie A. Snyder of Wayne were married Wednesday, March 5, in the Northville Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. W. C. Francis. The couple and friends came in automobiles, and the car carrying the bridal couple was decorated in chalk with various phrases such as "Here we go,"
"Just married," etc. A cow bell was attached to the auto and jingled merrily on the way through town.

The bridegroom is a son of John
Law of this place.

Holly is one of the few towns in this vicinity, and perhaps in the state, which does not have at least one woman on its village ticket. The reason, as much as any other, is probably that the women did not appear to be interested in the matter themselves. In Northville there are women candidates for treasurer and assessor; Milford has women candidates for clerk, treasurer, assessor and two trustees, and Fenton has women candidates for treasurer and two trustees.—Holly Advertiser.

The L. O. T.-M. supper and entertainment Monday night, which was enjoyed by 160 guests, was one of the social successes of the season. It was asserted that, "judging from the quantity of baked beans, scalloped potatoes, salads, pickles, cakes, etc., etc., even G. M. for once must have had enough to eat, as he had plenty of strength for dancing later on."
The program was greatly applauded, especially "Hooligan's band." There will be opportunity to hear more of this wonderful band in the near future.

As usual this vicinity was fortunate in escaping without much damage (business of "rapping on wood") from the "tail-end" of a wind-storm that worked much havoc in the neighoring counties, especially Genesee, last Friday afternoon. A lot of our village residents got a bad scare when it seemed for a few minutes as if a solid wall of wind and water were battering against our weather defenses and those who happened to be out of doors were nearly reduced to pulp, but luckily the gale and its accompanying flood passed on in a very short

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or get naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig-Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

RHEUMATISM IS PAIN ONLY, RUB IT AWAY

Instant relief from pain, soreness, stiffness following a rubbing with "St. Jacobs Liniment."

Stop "dosing" rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment" right on the "tender spot" and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. "St. Jacobs Liniment" conquers pain! It is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia and reduces swelling. Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.—Adv.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. ## Spot Where France Wept

The Place de la Concorde.

THE spot where France weeps has been a place of gladness since last November 11. What will be the next distinguishing feature of the Place de la Concorde, one of Paris' great places, and perhaps the most magnificent public square in the world? asks the Kansas City Star. Will it, too, be tragic? For an air of tragedy has clung to this splendid product of engineering and art.

Thousands died there in the blood madness of the French Revolution. The allied armies of Napoleon held a solemn deum there in 1814; in 1871 the hated Prussians encamped in the beautiful square; later the same year it was the scene of fierce and bloody conflicts between Versailles troops and the Communards, who had erected barricades at one of the entrances; since 1871 the statue dedicated to the city of Strassburg had been continuously draped in mourning and known as the "Lost Sister," keeping alive in the minds of Frenchmen the theft of Alsace-Lorraine.

A Place of Beauty.
It is a place of lovely fountains and statues. Originally it was intended as a center of commemoration, where statues and monuments might be erected to celebrate the memory of great Frenchmen and their deeds. Louis XV modestly gave it a start with a statue of himself, but this no longer stands there. It disappeared in the Revolution. There are in it now eight colossal statues representing eight principal cities of France—Lille, Rouen, Nantes, Bordeaux, Brest, Marseilles, Lyons and Strassburg. There is now talk of erecting in it some immortal conception of the present conflict and its victorious outcome.

On one side of the Place de la Concorde runs the broad Rue Royale, a tending to the majestic church of La Madeleine. On the opposite side is the River Seine. On its right is the Garden of the Tuilleries and on the left the famous promenade of the Champs Elysees. In the old peace times the Place de la Concorde was a scene of gaiety. Came to it tourists from all parts of the world, about it promenaded the fashionables of Paris.

The note of gaiety would die out of the voices of Frenchmen as they passed the figure of the "Lost Sister" with its ever present crepe and somber wreaths of mourning. It signified that France had neither forgotten nor forgiven.

The day the armistice was declared unparalleled scenes of joy occurred in the Place de la Concorde. Captured German guns were brought to its confines; soldiers, civilians, women and children gathered there and laughed and sang and cheered with all the abandon of the Gaul. The mourning wreaths were torn away from the Strassburg monument and the statue decked with a crown of gold leaves.

The crown is still upon the colossal figure of what is now the "Redeemed Sister."

The dreams of many men of genius have gone into the making of the Place de la Concorde. Gabriel, the architect, and an unnamed engineer of great imagination, constructed the pavilions and balustrades, laid the groundwork for the achievement in the middle of the eighteenth century. The equestrian figure of Louis XV, which stood in the square until the Revolution, was the work of Bouchardon. Pigalle, one of his contemporaries, surrounded this statue with figures emblematic of Strength, Wisdom, Justice and Peace. The square received its present form in 1834 from designs by Hittorf. The great statues of the cities were made by four famous French sculptors, each of whom did two figures. At the entrance to the Champs Elysees, which forms the western boundary of the place, are the famous "Horses of Marly," by Guillaume Coustou, and at the eastern side at the entrance to the Garden of the Tuilleries, are the "Renomees" of Coyssieux—Mercury and Fame bestride the horses.

Obelisk of Ramesses II.
In the center rises the obelisk of Ramesses II, towering 76 feet and weighing 240 tons. It is a single block of reddish granite, more than three thousand years old and it once stood before the temple of Amenhotep near Thebes. It was brought to Paris in 1836.

It was on the present site of the obelisk that the guillotine was erected in 1792 and Louis XVI died beneath its blade in 1793. Among those who died in the red days of the square were Charlotte Corday, Marie Antoinette, Danton, Camille Desmoulins and Robespierre, and in all upwards of 2,800.

But the French remember those days of tragedy with less sorrow than they do the crowning indignity of the presence of the Prussians on the Place de la Concorde in 1871. The soldiers of William I showed the usual German disrespect for art by hanging their accoutrements on the great statues, by littering the place with the refuse of army camps, even at times by hitching their horses in and about the square.

"Should some heroic figure commemorative of the great war be erected there the spot where France has sorrowed for more than 40 years will become a spot where France can rejoice. Even without this final tribute of the artist's imagery, the garden crowned figure of the "Redeemed Sister" will remain forever a thing of joy to the true son and daughter of France, as well as to the lovers of liberty throughout the world.

TRIBUTE TO DESERT PINES

Well Called, Boon to Mankind, Flourishing in Land Where Vegetation Does Not Thrive.

They are strong, those pines. Their soft and low-toned converse is the pent-up quietness of force. Their shade is dark and cool, their every whisper music; their green a blessed thing, and the aid they give to man is far beyond all computation in a land where other forests do not thrive. They are not cheerful in a common way; their looks are somber, and their shade too deep. But there is a quiet, a reposeful peace beyond light joy, and when you seek for that the pines stretch forth their shadowy arms to fold you closely in.

They rear their dark green shoulders up above the gray green chaparral, saving the country from the stain of being but a waste of brush. Where an old placer dump would lie an ugly scar on nature's face springs up a clump of straight brown boles holding aloft thick plumes of long green needles, crowning the bare and rocky mound with shafts of sylvan beauty. They are not pretty—far too big for that.

Their steadfastness, their calm, unswerving growth, will shame all little-ness, and where the giants of that mighty race rear their proud tips in lofty majesty, drinking in sunlight from the blue toward which they are advancing, or where they stand like warriors of old against the fiercest blows, there weakness may not comfortably dwell nor aught of littleness.—Orville Leonard.

Eskimo Characteristics.
The Eskimo are heavy, strong of arm and back, and very light on their feet. They are short-legged, but very fleet-footed and great jumpers. They begin to practice jumping as soon as they can walk. The favorite way of jumping is to spring up and kick with the toes of both feet and come down again on the feet. Many of them can in this way touch a point from 12 to 30 inches above their heads. In looks they resemble the Japanese far more than the Chinese, but they are lighter in complexion and very ruddy-faced. The girls and young women are good looking. Some are handsome. Their eyes are a clear brown and very bright, and their eyesight is marvelous. Their food is what the sea produces, seal, walrus, whale and fish. The hair seal is the most useful. It furnishes the skin for footwear, mittens, trousers, material for nets, rope and bags for oil. The flesh is used for food. The blubber, which is the largest part of the seal, furnishes oil for food, light and heat. The quantity of seals seems to be unlimited. Unlike the fur seals, the hair seal never comes ashore. It is captured by nets and when the ice forms it is shot.

PEACE BRIDES IN THEIR GAY GOWNS

New York.—Peace brides will have more splendid weddings than war brides. There will be less of tragedy attached to them, less of nervous emotionalism, and probably less of haste in selection, observes a leading fashion writer.

There was much to be said against the epidemic of war weddings; but the public remained quiet because the world was a lover, and loves even better a fighter, and with the two combined the rash of super-emotion which filled America since April 1917, tolerated much that was done in the name of love and war.

Sumptuous weddings were taboo in war. Marriages took place in the simple meaning of the term. To a large majority of minds there is an acute difference between a marriage and a wedding, and this difference has been sharply impressed upon the public mind during the last twenty months.

These war brides are getting a glimpse of what a wedding may be through the new trousseaus that are ordered for the belated honeymoon, and the peace bride is swinging into the full regalia of a splendid wedding, now that the trumpet has ceased to call for the man to go and the whistles blow to show that the man has come home.

The world is again turned topsy-turvy, and all our conditions and emotions, our mannerisms and expenditures turn an even somersault with it. It is thus that the world is kept from losing its balance. When we all turn together we do not feel abnormal.

Eighteenth Century Pageantry.

In the centuries that have gone before this one, weddings were spectacles differing in degree between royalty and peasantry, between the landed millionaire and the salaried worker. A revolt against the spectacular side of a wedding controlled a majority of people on this continent for several years before the war, but the present hour seems a fit time for sumptuousness; it is an expression of the riotous gaiety in every heart.

Peace brides have been quick to catch this feeling in the air, and weddings are planned for the early spring that might almost be termed pageants. It's youth getting its revenge. Debutantes have not been allowed to make their bow to society for two years. Youngsters have been thrust into the furnace of war-work here and on the battlefields, learning more of the fragility of the world in twelve months than they might have learned in a lifetime during other epochs. Now youth must have its fling, for it is the quickest to rebound from tragedy. The old and have been called in for consultation to provide new and agreeable features for the wedding service.

The old-fashioned of dancing, which for many generations ruled the customs in America, where it was carried from Europe, is again on the cards. The bride remains for the festivities instead of creeping away after unnumerable hand-shakings. She opens the dance with the groom, and at a recent wedding, in which all the costumes were copied from the eighteenth century, the entire bridal party danced the minuet before the guests as a bit of pageantry. The bridesmaids wore the gowns that once flitted through Versailles—gowns which now look down from canvas upon the peace commissioners. The bride wore a frock of brocade fashioned after the same style, and her lace veil, mounted on net, was held low on the forehead by a chain of diamonds.

Bridesmaid-frock of mauve georgette embroidered with gold thread and trimmed with narrow lace. The bag and the trimming on the hat are of blue ostrich. Narrow gold and brocade ribbon form the sash.

Medievalism and Modern Weddings.
There is also a drop to centuries that make the eighteenth seem modern. Medievalism, with its splendor, barbaric as it seems to us now, suggests the pageantry for weddings and balls. It was then that royalty spent the millions given in taxes by the poor for such weddings as that of Catherine de Medici to the young king of France.

The entire trend of fashion having gone toward medievalism since the end of the war, it is not difficult to arrange these wedding pageants in keeping with modern costumes. The lattice work of metal threads and seed pearls, which distinguished that era in history, was revived several decades ago, and is now being worn by brides, but for those afternoon gowns intended for something more formal than tea at a restaurant.

One apparel scheme for a bridal group includes a wedding gown of satin embroidered in pearls without price and silk and silver threads. The lattice work is carried up to the knees, downward from the hips, and covers the train, which is lined with cloth of silver. The slim, high-necked bodice has an outstanding medieval collar of lace sewn with silver threads, and the long tight sleeves of lace have a lattice work of pearls from shoulder to elbow.

The bridesmaids' gowns are of pale rose velvet, an exquisite soft weave of this fabric, which clings to the body like chiton. The frocks are made with straight panels back and front, over a sheath slip; the panels are embroidered with a lattice work of silver, and there are small ornaments of seed pearls placed at intervals.

A Wedding of the Directoire.
The first empire and the directoire, which preceded it, are again handing down inspiration to the French dress-maker, and each month sees a strong grouping together of the accessories of fashion during that time. So weddings also reflect this age. The clothes for a pageant of this kind are a bit mixed in the political eras they suggest, but who cares?

The bride wears the full regalia of Josephine, empress of the French, with heeled slippers, white silk stockings, and white satin gown with the velvet court train, lined with silver and caught at the shoulder with silver ornaments. The coiffure is copied from the one that Josephine made famous, with its ringlets at the top and at the temples. The bridesmaids are appared in pure directoire costumes—in the red and blue of France. Their cut-away coats are of red satin, and the skirts are blue. The high-crowned hats are of soft white straw faced with French blue.

White Furs Again.
White fox, "the fur of peace," was one of the most popular furs at the big St. Louis fur sale. Buyers claim the vogue for white fox this spring will exceed the craze that swept over the country two winters or so ago.

What Is the Cause of Backache?

BY DOCTOR CORNELL

Backache is perhaps the most common ailment from which women suffer. Rarely do you find anybody free from it. Sometimes the cause is obscure, but Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., a high medical authority, says the cause is very often a form of catarrh that settles in the delicate membranes of the feminine organs. When these organs are inflamed, the first symptom is backache, accompanied by bearing down sensations, weakness, unhealthy discharges, irregularity, painful periods, irritation, headache and a general run-down condition. Any woman in this condition is to be pitied, but pity does not cure. The trouble, calls for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is a separate and distinct medicine for women.

It is made of roots and herbs put up without alcohol or opiate of any kind, for Dr. Pierce uses nothing else in his prescription. Favorite Prescription is a natural remedy for women, for the vegetable growths of which it is made seem to have been intended by Nature for that very purpose. Thousands of girls and women, young and old, have taken it and thousands have written grateful letters to Dr. Pierce, saying it made them well. In taking Favorite Prescription, it is reassuring to know that it goes straight to the cause of the trouble. There is but one way to overcome sickness, and that is to overcome the cause. That is precisely what Favorite Prescription is intended to do.

SYNOPSIS.
Lucile Green, charming, but with faded hair, is visited at the Green's summer island home by Monty Blainey. She proposes a week's fast. All food is banished. Frank Bopp, a rival suitor, appears unexpectedly. To get food for himself he attempts the mainland by motorboat. The boat breaks down and Bopp is marooned.

"The dame will be all right in a minute. I always carry this just on purpose for ladies when they pull a fade-away." He sampled the lady's hair, himself reflectively and returned the flask to his pocket. "I'm the telephone repair man. What've been doing to the wires over here? They been trying to get you from the main office all day."

"I told him where the trouble lay, and he departed in the rain to patch it up. Shortly afterward Mrs. Green opened one eye. She looked at me for a moment and then smiled.
"Hol' your head steady a minute," she requested gravely. "Wanna see who I are?"

"I'm Mr. Blainey," I explained. "Everything is all right."
"Course it's a right. But I don't think I'll get up till the boat stops rockin'."

"You're not in a boat, Mrs. Green. This is your own home."
"It's a boat, I tell you. I guess I know when I'm seasick. Besides, a home ain't got so many pictures of purple sunsets."

"But there aren't any pictures of purple sunsets here," I protested.
"You're mistaken, my friend, there's two of 'em over there." She pointed limply in the arc of a circle which took in the entire opposite side of the room. "I'll show you. Hol' this board steady while I step on it."

She gravely made an effort to rise, but, failing in that, fell back limply into my arms.
"It's no use. Ship rocks so I can't stan' up. Have to roll over there."

I tried to prevent her, but it was useless. She insisted on rolling on the floor. She was engaged in that pleasant pastime when her daughter and Mr. Bopp entered, dripping from the rainstorm.

I tried to pick Mrs. Green up. With a cry of alarm Lucile rushed to her mother's side, then started back, sniffing the air.
"Mr. Blainey," she cried in horror-stricken tones, "you've been drinkin'!"

"Don't scold my lil' fren," Mrs. Green protested, patting my arm. "He's mos' beautiful fren I got."
A light of understanding began to dawn in Lucile's eye.

"She fainted," I explained, "and a man who was here to repair the telephone gave it to her to revive her. It was too much on an empty stomach."
"Is the telephone fixed?" demanded Bopp, springing up. "Maybe I can get a launch to come for me yet."

The look which Lucile gave him warmed my heart and made up to me for the hours I had spent alone that day. He sank back into his chair.
"Will you call up Dr. Stone, Montecency," she requested sweetly, "and ask him to come over to see mother?"

"Surely," I replied. I soon had the doctor on the wire. I told him that we wanted him to come over.
"I don't believe that it is possible," came the answer over the wire.
"Not possible?" I echoed. "Why not?"

"Haven't you seen the sea that is running? It wouldn't be safe for any kind of a boat to land at Green's island the way it is blowing now. You know the shore is very rocky there, and if you miss the entrance to the cove you'd be dashed to pieces sure."
I told that to Lucile.
"Ask him what we should do for mother ourselves," she instructed. "Tell him she has some fever and seems very weak."

CHAPTER IV.

The Raid on the Kitchen.
THEN we were left alone together. I could tell by the scowl on Bopp's face that he had fallen heir to the headache I had possessed the day before.

"Cheer up, Bopp," I admonished, more to make conversation than anything else. "I am just as hungry as you are."
"No one has ever been as hungry as I am," he declared.

"Probably I am more hungry than you are," I insisted. "I have more room to be hungry in."
"Tootles came romping in. 'Roof pup!' commiserated Bopp. 'I suppose she is starved too.'"

"No; that isn't the reason she's barkin'. She has been fed."
"Fed? What?"
"Dog biscuit."

"Where are they?"
"In the kitchen," I replied unthinkingly. "From the way she is behaving there must be some one outside."
It was almost dark. I went to the door and peered out. There was a man coming up the path.

"Who is it?" Bopp demanded.
"I can't make out."
"Maybe it's a man off the supply boat."

"Impossible," I explained. "The supply boat isn't due until tomorrow, and even if she were here they couldn't land from her in this storm."
The telephone repair man appeared.

"I guess I got to stay here all night," he announced. "The storm is getting so bad I don't dare try to row back to town. I don't care much for water unless it's mixed with something else."

Lucile came downstairs. I explained the situation to her. "Of course you can stay all night, but it will be impossible to give you anything to eat," she said.

"Why not?" he asked. "I don't expect to go to the trough with the family. I'll feed with the help in the kitchen without a murmur. As far as that goes, though, I'm a union man and as good as anybody."

"Certainly," agreed Lucile. "You are welcome to anything we have, but we have nothing. We are all fasting. We decided not to eat anything for a week."

"Bugs," he decided briefly; then, turning to Bopp and myself: "Gents, put the right. Do I or do I not coal at this station?"

"The lady has told you correctly," I assured him. "There is no food in the house."
"And you're doing it, too?" He laughed sarcastically. "When I come here the old lady was pulling a Brodie on the floor, and now the fat guy ain't eating anything. A bunch of dips all right."

stairs Bopp yelled down, "Monty, Lucile Green wants you to come up!"
I started, but Lucile stopped me. "Ask her what she wants."

In a minute Bopp had the answer. "She says she isn't going to sleep until she sees her beautiful friend Monty. If he doesn't come up she'll come down."

Lucile, blushing, went up to explain to her mother that her request was impossible. From behind the closed door of Mrs. Green's room there issued sounds of an argument supplemented by weeping.

Eventually Lucile came to the top of the stairs and called, "Monty!"
"How different that name sounded when she used it! I bounded up the stairs. When I saw 'boudied' I mean it. It was the first time that I had done anything like that in years."

Lucile stood leaning over the banister, perplexed and troubled, her face flushed and her hair becomingly disarranged, as if she had been engaged in a physical contest of some sort. I stopped on the stairs below her.

"The blessed damsel leaned out from the gold-bar of heaven," I quoted.
"Don't be silly," she said in a tone of voice that told me she liked it. "I have to ask you a dreadfully embarrassing question."

"All right," I commanded. "Shoot!"
"Would you mind very much kissing a lady who is not as young as she was once?"

"Would I mind?" I said, taking her hands. "I've been thinking of nothing else for two years."
"I meant," disengaging her hands gently, "would you mind kissing mother good night?" She is acting very peculiarly this evening, as you know, and she says she won't go to sleep until you kiss her."

I was touched at the old lady's fondness for me. "We wait in." She was lying tucked up in bed, with a nightcap tied firmly under her chin.
"Lucile made me come to bed," Mrs. Green volunteered, her bright eyes snapping with wakefulness. "It's all nonsense. Don't wanna be in bed. I wanna get up and go somewhere with you and eat."

"There, there," said Lucile, "the doctor says not to eat anything."
"Yes," snapped her mother, "and I'll bet he had just had his dinner when he said it. I know a place to eat over in town; beautiful Blainey's—lots of fine steaks, chops and roasts. Guess I'll get up."

She started to throw back the covers, but Lucile forcibly restrained her. "You said you would go to sleep if I brought Mr. Blainey in to see you," she said.

The old lady eyed me with evident suspicion. "Is he going to kiss me good night?" she demanded.
I assured her that I was there for no other purpose.

"A right," she sighed; "then I'll go to sleep."
And she did, or at least we didn't hear another sound from her that evening.

When we left the room and closed the door softly Lucile put her hand on my arm and said: "Thanks, Monty. It was awfully silly, but I didn't know how else to quiet her. You won't think anything of it, will you?"

"Of course not. It's all in the family anyhow, or if it isn't I wish it were," I hazarded, emboldened by the pressure on my arm. "For the moment I could not have been any happier if I had been fed."

After awhile the telephone man came downstairs in a suit of Bopp's clothes—light flannel trousers, outing shoes, fancy shirt, soft collar, tie and blue serge coat. The togs fitted him remarkably well, and except for a veridical line of conversation the man did not seem ill suited to the clothes. At any rate, I liked him better than I did Bopp.

What to do with him seemed to be puzzling Lucile. It didn't seem right to ask him to go out in the kitchen and drink water all by himself, and there was no other place to put him unless he stayed in the living room with us. Before she could decide one way or the other he seated himself comfortably and proceeded to entertain us with considerable conversation about himself.

"I ain't a Rube," he volunteered. "I've been near enough Fifth Avenue to know good clothes when I see 'em, and I have to admit that Mr. Bopp is a swell dresser. I only work here in the summer time. In the winter I stick around within sight of the statue of Liberty. I'm a wire tapper."

"A wire tapper?" repeated Bopp. "Isn't a wire tapper a sort of crook?"
"Not compared to a burglar. Wire tapping is just high finance."

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR
It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

"Don't stay gray!" Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Adv.

Form Clothes for Men; Sprightly, Inspirational

Form clothes will be the vogue during the present year. So decrees the National Association of Merchant Tailors. All delegates emphasize the form-fitting trend of the times. Some of them go so far as to suggest that mature gentlemen of a plump, if not corpulent, tendency will need "stays" to get away with the newest things in masculine adornment.

According to the terms of the trade masculine styles for the ensuing twelve months are to be sprightly without conspicuousness; dashing without verging on extremes; youthful in temperament and inspirational in place of the inevitable summer flannels of the past men will wear recreational garments, fashioned of silk, fine line, and other delicate fabrics. Even the prosaic sack suit of business is to have a "swing" imparted to it by a high waistline and a long vent back.

But it is in sporty toggery that the styles are going to go the limit. Coats will be strapped and tabbed and plaited. Riding coats are to have flaring skirts, a back vent running to the high waisted diagonal jected pockets, and upon both sides with an additional outside pocket, neatly flapped, to carry change.

So there is every opportunity for the shapely tenderfoot to go the limit this year by the seashore and in the mountains in the way of fearful and wonderful costumes; this should be a glad season for him.

Out in the Rockies the natives swear that some of the outfits adorning the tourist from the East and the middle West actually make the grim granite peaks shake with mirth. This is probably an exaggeration, but veteran guides assert that the mountain sheep in Rocky Mountain National park never will learn to trust man until something is done to tone down the tenderfoot.

It is now in order for the hammers and the bootmakers to get up something in their respective lines in keeping with this gorgeousness.

New Calendar: Thirteenth Month Added. Lucky?

PLANS to save $50,000,000 a year in time and $15,000,000 in money by the addition of a month to the present 12-month calendar have been launched by the American Equal Month Association. The idea is to divide the year into 13 months of 28 days each, making each month begin with a Monday. This, of course, will leave one day lying around loose in an ordinary year, so it is proposed to make that day New Year's day, an independent legal holiday, located between the last calendar day of the previous year and the first day of the following year. In leap years the extra day will also be made an independent holiday and will be slipped in between two months, where it will not be noticed. The thirteenth month, or rather the extra month under the proposed system, will be called "Liberty," to make the calendar more American, the officials of the association say. Thus, the calendar will read January, February, Liberty, March, etc. The saving in money will be through the abolishment of printed calendars. That is where the saving of time and labor will come in, it is averred.

The officials of the association state that the bill has been very carefully drawn for presentation to congress, and provides that the change will take place on Sunday, the first day of 1922.

Nothing is said about an enthusiastic endorsement of this bill by printers and others, who do not seem to object to getting out calendars.

The bill should be promptly introduced, or 1922 will get around before congress takes action.

 Lapham, last week.

And you may even buy an airplane
 at the auto show in Detroit—if you can. The machines are actually on sale, no foolin' about it.

Benjamin Cook, known as "blind Benjie," for some years, a resident of this place, has suffered a paralytic stroke. He is at the home of a relative in North Farmington.

 at Camp Custer last week from overseas service.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Carlson of Detroit were last week visitors at the home of Mrs. Carlson's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Macomber.

 son, Joseph.

Mrs. D. S. Kysor arrived at her home here Tuesday from a three weeks' visit with her daughters in New York City. On reaching North-announcing that one of her soldier sons, Corporal Asa B. Kysor, of the Motor Mechanics Air service, had landed in New York from overseas

CARD OF THANKS.

To the church, fraternal societies and the Woman's club for the pre-fusions of flowers sent her during her illness, also for the many kind acts of neighbors and friends, Mrs. J. B.
 Cook is most profoundly grateful.

Familiar Misquotations.

"Where there's a will there are many quibbling rejections."

MICHIGAN CITIES HONORED.

Two fine new ships of the Emergency Fleet corporation will soon be honoring the state of Michigan by carrying to the commercial ports of the world the names, "City of Flint" and "City of Detroit." These are the names selected by the two Michigan cities awarded the prize for the greatest percentage of subscribers in the Fourth Liberty Loan. The government set aside two ships for this purpose for each of the five states in the Chicago federal district. Arrangements are being now completed for the christening of the two honor ships awarded Michigan.

 Blood and low conditions of the system.
