FATAL ACCIDENT MONDAY AFTERNOON

DANIEL SHAFER, 75 YEARS OF AGE
DIES FROM INJURIES RECEIVED
WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE.

A lamentable accident, apparently one of those for which no blame can be attached to any one person, occurred Monday, May 19, near the D. U. R. freight depot, when Daniel Shafer alighted from a wagon just as W. H. Cattermole was turning the corner. And, in the bewildering moment natural under the circumstances, Mr. Shafer, in trying to escape, stepped directly into the path of the automobile, as it was hastily swerved to one side to avoid striking him. The injured man was taken to the residence of his son, on Mill street near his own home, to partially defer the terrible shock to his wife, who is ill in bed. He lived nearly two hours, perfectly conscious, and practically free from pain by reason of hypodermics administered by Dr. Malloy for that purpose. It was found that the ribs on his right side were crushed in, penetrating the lungs, in addition to minor injuries.

Mr. Shafer had been a resident of Northville for 35 years of his 75 years of life, and his friendly and generous nature had won for him general esteem, while his unflagging industry made him still an active and efficient worker at his trade, that of a carpenter, even at five years past three score and ten.

Besides the widow, the near relatives are two sons, Frank B. and George of this place, a widowed sister, Mrs. Dowdy, who had made her home in his family for a few months past, several grandchildren and great-grandchildren, also two brothers, Wm. and David, who live in distant parts of the country, and whom he had not seen for many years.

Funeral services, in charge of Rev. F. A. Brass of Wixom, were held from the home Thursday afternoon.

NORTHVILLE PEOPLE HAVE CLOSE CALL

Mrs. T. E. Murdock, her daughter, Helen, her two sons, Sherman and Clausen, with Star Herrick, Miss Gertrude Brown and Carl Hunt, had a hair-raising adventure about two o'clock Sunday morning four miles from Tecumseh, Mich. The party left Northville late Saturday night, in young Hunt's automobile to go to Adrian to visit Mrs. Murdock's mother, Mrs. A. C. Worthing and sister, Mrs. Bailey. While on an up-grade, going slowly, Mr. Hunt saw some men under the trees by the roadside and supposing them to be state constabulary, expected an order to stop. Receiving none he put on more speed to pass them, when one of the men jumped on the running board. Now believing the affair to be a regular hold-up, the young driver started his car into a faster pace, dislodging the intruder. The four men then opened fire on the automobile, recklessly shooting at the car anywhere, several shots passing through the body of the machine, two through the top and others riddling two of the tires. No attempt was made to follow the auto, which it seems would naturally have been done had the attackers been deputies. The occupants of the car were badly frightened of course, and young Hunt suffered a rather severe attack of heart trouble, to which he has sometimes been subject.

NOVI-NORTHVILLE ROAD.

A sufficient amount of money was voted at the Novi town meeting in April to build the mile of Novi-to-Northville road from the South Lyon road south to the Thornton corners. However, some taxpayer over in the northeast corner of Novi town found out that there had been voted a little more than the legal amount ($5 on a $1,000 valuation) and a monkey wrench thus got in the machinery stopping proceedings, at least temporarily.

This road, one of the most travelled in Michigan, is almost impassable a part of the year on this particular mile and supervisor Bogart is now trying to find some way in which he will be able to get it put in travelable condition, at least until another election or some other means can be found to make permanent improvement.

HUFF GETS STOLEN PROPERTY.

James Huff went over to Toledo Wednesday to identify a lot of guns, spark plugs, search lights, etc., found on some suspicious acting characters picked up by the police in that city a few days ago.

In the party gathered in were four discharged soldier boys with very foreign-sounding names, and one Italian. They confessed to the entering of Huff's store and borrowing the artillery and also to stopping at Bunn's garage and helping themselves to gasoline later at night while holding a conversation with Mr. Perrin.

Whether these men entered Huff's store the same night or the one following is not yet known.

AUCTION SALE.

This Friday afternoon, May 23, at 1:00 o'clock there is to be an auction sale of 20 head of dairy cattle on the Lee West farm 1 1/2 miles east of Novi on Grand River road. The cattle are from the Matthews Bros.' herd, also a few from the Bassett stock. Sam Pickard is sales manager and George Rattenbury auctioneer.

WOODMAN BECOMES DEP. STATE TREASURER

NORTHVILLE BOY WHO HAS STEADILY CLIMBED TO HIGH POSITION.

STARTED AS CLERK IN AUDITOR
GENERAL'S OFFICE 10 YEARS AGO.

Governor Sleeper has named State Treasurer Samuel O'Dell as a member of the State Utilities board and Frank Gorman, deputy treasurer, as State treasurer. Treasurer Gorman has announced as his deputy, Hoyt Woodman, a well known Northville boy.

Woodman started in as a clerk under Auditor General Perry F. Powers some ten years ago and by his genial ways, ability and diligence gradually rose from one position to another until within 3 years he was cashier in the Auditor's office. Later his services were sought by those in charge of the State Treasury. He was made chief clerk in that office six years ago and when Mr. O'Dell was elected treasurer, Woodman was made cashier to succeed Frank Gorman, who was appointed deputy by O'Dell. Now that Gorman has been appointed treasurer, Woodman gets the deputyship, one of the most responsible appointive positions in the state.

Woodman is a splendid fellow and everybody will be glad to know of his steady march upward. Besides holding this position, Woodman is at the head of a big gravel supply company in the capital city, so that he has developed special business ability as well as clerical achievements.

Frank Gorman, who becomes State treasurer, is a man of remarkable ability and a most splendid gentleman and official. He too has been a steppet-up in the treasurer's office, having started as a clerk there something like a dozen years ago and has in turn filled the office of chief clerk, cashier, and deputy until now he reaches the summit of honors in that office and also becomes a member of the State Board of Auditors. Gorman and Woodman have always been intimate friends and they will stick together with their new honors in fine shape.

Many years ago—so many we hardly remember it—the publisher of this paper ran a grocery store and Woody for some time was the delivery boy at $3 a week. But he was a good one. He showed the same marked attention to his work then that he has since in his labor at the capitol and that he will now in his new job at $67 a week. Woodman still retains his residence here where he always votes and calls it his home town.

ATTENTION, SOLDIER BOYS!

The young soldiers who are to be in line for the Memorial day parade, are to meet with Lieut. Murphy for drill next Monday and Thursday evenings at seven o'clock. It is expected that the rifles and blank cartridges loaned by Uncle Sam in response to the efforts of Congressman Kelley of the U. S. Naval affairs committee, will be here in time for the drills. Northville will probably be one of a very small number of communities in the entire U. S. to be thus favored with a loan of the above supplies for this especially significant Memorial day.

PAST COMMANDERS TO WORK TEMPLE DEGREE.

Northville Commandery will have the unexpected pleasure of using all its Past Commanders next Tuesday evening to fill the various offices while the Order of the Temple is conferred. Barton A. Wheeler, Commander in 1907-08, will confer the degree. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m. to the candidates, members and visitors.

The Commandery will also be in the line of march Memorial day.

CANADIAN MONEY AT DISCOUNT.

Look out when you take Canadian bills, unless you are willing to get rid of them at a discount. Michigan banks will only accept them at a discount of 3%. This only applies to bills; coin is acceptable at par.

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM.

The Memorial day services next week Friday will be carried out according to program published last week and which will again be printed next Friday morning.

MERELY PIECE OF FOOLING

Course Taken by Germany Resembles Closely Next Trick That Is Credited to Sheridan.

"The Germans, by fooling us with German bolshevism, hoped to escape the payment of war indemnities," said a congressman.

"It reminds me of a story about Sheridan, the spendthrift playwright," Gunter, the confectioneer, left his statement with Sheridan one morning and a few hours later Hudson, the lispomonger, called.

"Hanson was very blessing on the subject of his account. He harangued and he harangued," Sheridan, broke, as usual, paced the floor in despair.

"But suddenly an idea struck the spendthrift and he said:

"You know Gunter?"

"One of the safest men in London," Hanson replied.

"Then you will be satisfied if I gave you his bill for the amount?"

"Certainly."

"Sheridan thereupon handed the frommopser Gunter's neatly folded account, snatched up his hat and rushed forth."

Suffered for Years

Miserable From Kidney Trouble.
Doan's Made Mr. Barnett
Strong and Well.

"I suffered untold agony with my kidneys for years," says John Barnett, 30 Virginia Place, Buffalo, N. Y. "Sometimes I felt that I would burn up with fever, but every now and then would have a severe chill. Often my clothes were wringing wet with perspiration. The kidney secretions were unnatural in color and odor and burned terribly. At night my shoes were so tight on my feet that I could hardly get them off. And my back swelled so I couldn't hold a teaspoon. My back! Oh, how it ached! I walked with two canes and was all bent over like an aged man. When the terrible pains shot through my kidneys, my knees would give way and many times I had to be lifted to my feet by people on the street. I didn't care whether I lived or died, I was so miserable. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me of all kidney trouble. Doan's made me strong and well."

LOOKED LIKE LABOR WASTED

Board's Visit Over; Small Boy Couldn't
See Further Necessity for So Much Soap and Water.

He was a new little boy at the orphanage and was much impressed by all the scrubbing and cleaning he saw done there, more so because he had come from a home in which disorder and dirt had held sway. He could not understand it; more than that, it irritated him and when he got the job of scrubbing the dining room steps he was almost ready to leave.

But just then came a new excitement to the home. The board was coming to make its annual tour of inspection, and the cleaning was doubled. "Get ready for the board," was the home watchword, it seemed, and he, being very human, decided to stay until that big event was over.

The day of visiting came and passed. The next morning the new youngster sought the matron. "Now that them boards has been here, I don't see no use of scrubbing them steps so often—do you?" he asked.

FAN

By JACK LAWTON.

The Rev. Roland Reed had not been in Cartersville two hours before he heard of Fan. Everybody heard of Fan eventually. Were not her miseries the town's chief topic of gossip?

Mrs. Randolph, sister of this merry hearted visitor, had settled among them a few years ago, and Fan, left homeless, came to live with her. Mrs. Randolph was exclusive. "Struck up," Cartersville called her—but this busy mother of young and mischievous children had no time to spend in village visits.

Quietly each day she made her round of the stores, while her big husband returned at evening from his city office. Fan was the one speculative element of the family. Frequently she disappeared and reappeared again with no explanation or notice of absence in the village paper. Having sufficient at her command: it was known that no necessary occupation called her to the city. Neither, she cheerfully informed a curious inquirer, did she spend the time there visiting friends. Further particulars of her trips were not given.

"Goes after the beaux, I reckon," said Mrs. Evans. And if that were Fan's purpose she surely succeeded. So soon was she known to return home unattended from a meeting.

"Did she not tell you," Mrs. Randolph would regretfully ask an abject caller, "that she intended going away? She is in the city?"

If it was the young rector's housekeeper who pointed Fan out to him soon after his arrival.

"There goes that wild Hatter girl in her brother-in-law's car," she said, "seems to me I'd had a better companion for my children."

The Reverend Roland, looking through his study window, saw an automobile which appeared to be filled to overflowing with laughing children and—so the Reverend Roland thought—the loveliest girl he had ever seen, at the wheel.

"Wish you'd talk to the frivolous creature," Mrs. Evans later bemoaned him. "Our last rector tried. Fan listened real attentive he said, but it didn't do good."

The Reverend Roland was troubled. As time went on he grew more troubled. Fan seemed to play in his church on Sunday, and the sympathetic quality of her voice testified his honest heart with an influence which would not be dismissed. "Careless" with a voice like that, the rector reproved his own thought. In a way he and Fan became friendly, but when he would have walked with her down the village streets she refused at her own laughing, positive refusal.

"Your people wouldn't like it," said Fan.

The continued trouble against the girl now tormented him; then came a night when the young rector was called prematurely to the city. He had barely time to catch the midnight train, and had been thinking pleasantly when the phone call came of his evening with Fan; for she had allowed him to walk from choir practice with her as far as his own door, and had promised to bring him flowers to the church in the morning. Perhaps then he might be able to talk with her.

As the rector reflected the midnight train rolled on its cityward way, a low laugh caused him to glance up quickly. Fan was there in the car seat beside him.

"A late trip into the city, Miss Hutton?"

"Yes," she nodded noncommittally. "You said nothing about intending to leave town when I saw you tonight," he persisted.

Fan smiled wickedly. "I decided to leave only twenty minutes ago," she said.

Confidentially she leaned toward him.

"I thought it better to get away without argument before my sister and her husband returned from the theater," she added.

The young minister frowned. "I am afraid," he said, "that I do not understand you."

"I am afraid you don't," Fan cheerfully agreed.

"You will at least," he stiffly requested, "allow me to see you safely to your destination. It will be long after midnight when we reach the city."

"Thanks," Fan carelessly replied; "no need. I'll call a taxi."

For some miles they rode on in silence.

"Would you mind," Fan asked plaintively, "if I use your coat for a while as a pillow? I'm dreadfully tired."

She looked tired, childish also, and in need of protecting care. A great tenderness filled the heart of Roland Reed.

"Fan," he burst out, "will you tell me why you are hurrying into the city tonight?"

The girl's dark eyes softened. "Yes," she answered, "I will tell you. I'm a settlement worker there. Interested in a home for destitute children. They phoned me tonight that an epidemic has broken out among them, and that the urgent need of nurses is more than can be supplied, so I'm going in—to take care of the sick babies. Do I meet with your approval, reverend sir?"

But already Fan knew the answer to her question.

HOW SOME MEN GET RICH

Probably in Years to Come This Trade Will Boast of His Great Financial Ability.

"Some years ago," says an old trader, "I was standing by the ticker in a dull and reactionary market. An acquaintance came up and asked me what to buy. At the time I was absolutely benumbed and could see nothing good on the list. It was early afternoon and just then the time came on the tape, 'I. p. m.' So, with a laugh, I turned away, remarking: 'I guess I'm as good as anything.'"

"Some months later I was accosted in the street by the same man, who greeted me with the greatest cordiality. 'That was some tip you gave me,' he said. 'I plunged on it and cleaned up a whole lot of coin.'"

"Tip?" I said. "When did I ever give you a tip?"

"Sure," he replied. "You said to buy Pacific Mail and I bought all I could carry."

Keeping It Up.

A maid servant applied for a week-end off, as her home was distant, for the purpose of being at home on her parents' silver wedding day.

The leave was granted, and the maid returned.

"Well," said her mistress, "did everything go off satisfactory?"

"Oh, yes, thank you, ma'am," said the girl, "and mother told me to say she is very grateful to you for letting me off."

"And what did your father say?" asked the lady.

"Oh, lor! ma'am," replied the girl, "he wasn't there. He's been dead this 30 years."

He stood amid the blaze and splendor of his magnificent mansion, and in his hand he held the portrait of a beautiful woman. His face was pale and haggard, and his lips moved convulsively.

What was this mystery. Was this the picture of his departed wife?

Was it the portrait of his dead but dearly remembered daughter?

No.

What, then, was the cause of his haggard face?

"Was it not the same portrait that two minutes ago had fallen from its nail, and raised a lump as big as a hen's egg on his head?"

It was.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The best inheritance any parent can possibly give a child is a good education. This is something that nobody can take away, and something which will be a joy forever, for we believe that what we acquire here we will use hereafter.

WHAT TO EAT.

There are any number of kinds and flavors of gelatine desserts on the market which, by the addition of boiling water, are ready, when cold, to serve with cream and sugar. These desserts are good, easy to prepare, and easy of digestion, qualifications which make them popular; but one tires of things too easy and unvaried.

Here is a dessert, very dainty and rich, which will be good to serve the "grown-ups" who have good digestion:

Frangipan Pie.—Roll out very thin a rich pastry and cut it in rounds, using a pie tin for a marker. Bake three of these cakes, and put them together with a filling of crushed strawberries and cream, covering the top with the berries and sweetened whipped cream. Cut in pie-shaped pieces.

Stewed Lettuce.—This is a dish not sufficiently used to become common. When one is tired of serving the fresh lettuce, steam it until tender, and serve as a greens, with butter, salt, pepper and a dash of vinegar, if liked. Cucumbers are good, cooked. Peel and cook until tender in boiling water or over steam, then serve with a drawn butter sauce. Onion juice may be added for variety of flavor.

Canterbury Chicken.—Cook together three and one-half tablespoons of butter with one tablespoonful of finely chopped onion (when the onion is yellow, add one tablespoonful of corn starch) and pour over one and one-half cups of chicken stock. Bring to the boiling point and simmer for ten minutes, add one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of paprika, and one and one-half cups of chopped cooked chicken. Serve very hot, garnished with toast points and parsley.

Fillet of Beef With Bananas.—Cook the fillet cut one and a quarter inch thick, and arrange on a hot platter with the liquor from the pan poured over them. Cook quartered bananas in a little butter until well cooked, then place these quarters on the fillet and serve.

POPULAR DISHES.

The busy housewife with but one pair of hands at her command must do away with frills in cookery, no matter how much she may enjoy them. A few minutes spent in arranging and garnishing a dish, however, is never wasted effort.

Carrot Pudding.—Take one cupful of grated carrot, one cupful of grated potato, one egg, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of shortening, one-half cupful of raisins, one teaspoonful of soda and one cupful of flour. Steam one hour.

Drop Doughnuts.—Take one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of milk, one and one-half cups of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder, one egg, a little salt, ginger and grated lemon rind. Beat the egg white stiff, then add the sugar gradually, then add the beaten yolk, lemon rind, salt and ginger and milk with the flour. Drop from a teaspoon into hot fat and fry brown. Roll in powdered sugar.

Chocolate Cookies.—Cream half a cupful of shortening with one cupful of sugar, one egg. Add one-half cupful of sour milk with one-half teaspoonful of soda, two squares of chocolate melted over hot water and one and one-half cups of flour. A half cupful of nuts may be added if desired. Cover with a frosting, using one whole egg beaten, adding three cupfuls of confectioners' sugar and three tablespoonfuls of cream. This frosting will keep for some time. Put on the cookies when they are nearly cold.

Sour Cream Pie.—Mix together one cupful of chopped raisins, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of sour cream and one egg well beaten. One-half a teaspoonful each of cinnamon, nutmeg and salt, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cloves and a teaspoonful of vinegar. Bake this in two crusts.

Cabbage Salad.—Shred very fine one small firm head of cabbage, add half a cupful of chopped almonds that have been blanched, four or five ripe bananas finely cut, mixed with a cupful or more of thick sour cream. Season with salt, red pepper and paprika and add a dash of vinegar, if it is not sufficiently acid.

Mock Rabbit.—Take a pound each of corned beef and veal, two onions and a green pepper; put all through the meat chopper, add three eggs and crumbs to make a loaf. Place in a baking pan with strips of bacon on top; bake three-quarters of an hour.

Asparagus Salad.—Tie a bunch of asparagus tips together and steam until tender. Cut rings of red peppers and thrust the tips through the rings. Serve on lettuce leaves with a spoonful of thick salad dressing.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send 10 cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Truly, the Mother Pays!

Here is an account from a Farm paper of what was said at his trial by the mother of Cottin, the young anarchist who shot Clemenceau: "Cottin's mother stops. She wants to speak, but tears choke her words. She makes an effort and one hears a voice that is nothing but a sob: 'I did not come to defend him. But I don't want that they should call him unpatriotic. He was so sad to see all those soldiers die. He wept when he spoke to me about all those boys dying with the word "mother" on their lips. He wanted to enlist. It's a pity they did not accept him. He was brave. They might have given him dangerous errands, and at least he would be dead by now.' But she hasn't strength to finish what she wants to say. She turns back and collapses on a bench, sobbing."

Trees to Honor Roosevelt.

A group of red oaks in Bedford park, Brooklyn, have been set out with appropriate ceremony in honor of the late Colonel Roosevelt, and because of his interest in the conservation movement and in outdoor life, the American Forestry association of Washington points out that no more fitting memorial than trees can be erected to his memory. The association is making a national honor roll of all memorial trees planted to men who served in the army or navy during the great war.

The Star Performer.

The Modest Violet—Watch me shrink.

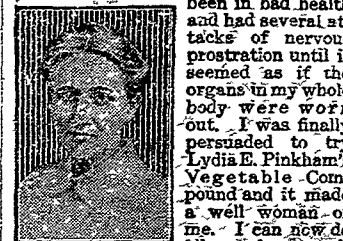

The Soda Water Glass—I can beat you at that.

The farmer who would like to see his children do their best should call on them to do big things.

West Philadelphia, Pa.—"During the thirty years I have been married, I have been in bad health and had several attacks of nervous prostration until it seemed as if the organs in my whole body were worn out. I was finally persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made a well woman of me. I can now do all my housework and advise all ailing women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I will guarantee they will derive great benefit from it."—Mrs. FRANK FITZGERALD, 25 N. 41st Street, West Philadelphia, Pa.

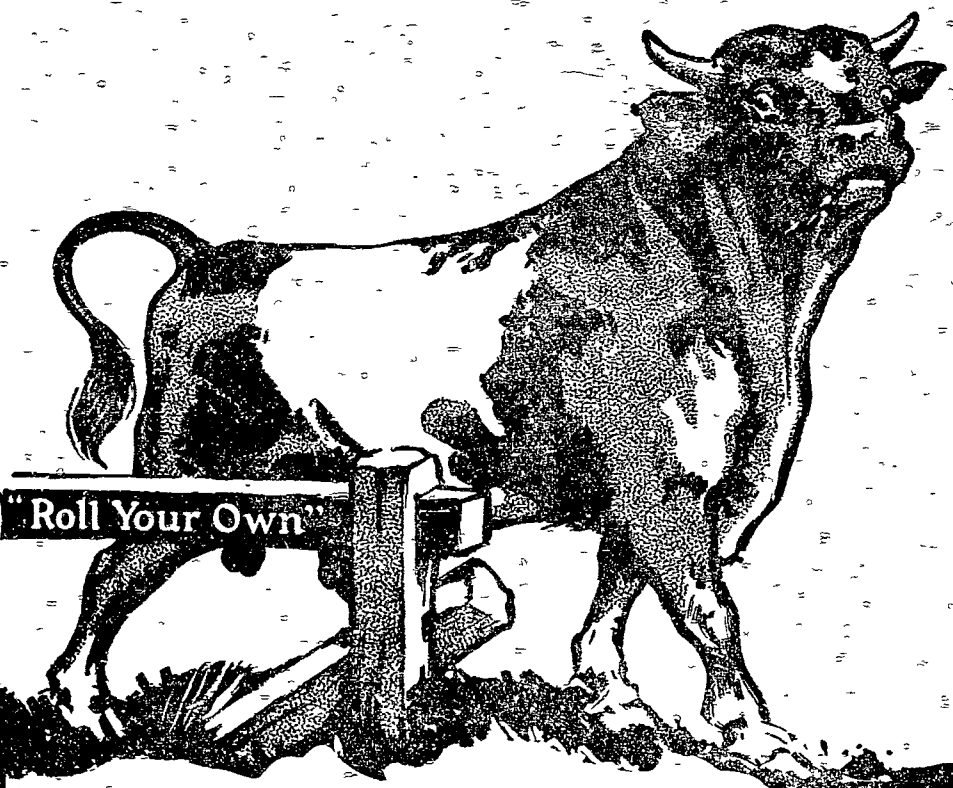

There are thousands of women everywhere in Mrs. Fitzgerald's condition, suffering from nervousness, backache, headaches, and other symptoms of a functional derangement. G. J. McKahn had a sudden severe attack of illness Wednesday, and was hurriedly taken by his physician, Dr. Malloy, to Providence hospital, Detroit where he was immediately operated upon for ulceration of the stomach and other complications. His condition was found to be very serious. At latest reports, however, Mr. McKahn was said to be doing well.

Petitions were circulated here this week asking the council to submit a bonding proposition to the voters to raise money for concreting, in connection with the County Road Commissioners, certain streets through the village. The petitions were very freely signed, and a special election will soon be called for the purpose.

The decorations were in the national colors, and the dinner was served by an expert cook from Detroit.

To be used as a dust preventive, four carloads of calcium chloride have been ordered by the county road commission in an effort to reduce the damage to heavy travelled gravel roads caused by having the surface blown away in dust this summer. Last season an experiment was made on the state specification gravel road between Drayton Plains and Clarkston, but the chloride was applied so late in the season that its value during the dry, hot summer days was not shown. The county commissioners are convinced, however, from inspections of roads in other counties where the salts have been used, that the treatment is a valuable help to the maintenance of surfaces receiving heavy traffic.—Pontiac Press Gazette.

SAFETY-FIRST WARNING TO AUTOISTS.

Marshal Lyke gives warning that speeding up of autos in the village and neglect to observe the "Go-to-Right" traffic rules around the flag pole, must be stopped. The constantly increased auto traffic about the village demands the observance of all "safety-first" rules and laws, and drivers are called upon to assist in this endeavor on the part of the police to protect so far as possible, lives and property.

Speed limit in the business section is 10 miles per hour; other parts of the village, 15 miles.

Stops for passengers getting on or off street cars. The streets are narrow when street cars are standing here.

Drive slowly around the flag pole and keep to right.

Watch out for children around the school grounds. Watch for children every where. They are not old enough to guess what an auto driver is going to do more than an auto driver is able to guess which way a child intends to run.

Don't back up your car any distance on the street to turn around. Go to the next corner or head up an alley. Remember.

WAS A BIG AFFAIR.

The gathering at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening, commemorating the returned soldiers of its honor roll, was one of the largest social affairs ever enjoyed there. Over 200 people were served with a delicious supper. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tinham providing their always charming music during the time of feasting. After supper, an orchestra, including Scott Montgomery, Dr. P. R. Alexander, Harry Richardson and C. D. Kilgour furnished pleasing selections at intervals and Miss Margaret Schulling of Detroit delighted the audience with several beautiful vocal numbers, graciously responding to insistent encores.

About a dozen soldiers were present and of these, Major T. B. Henry, Lieut. C. F. Murphy, Sergeant James F. Dubur and Corporal John V. Couch gave most entertaining talks, each of course giving facts relating to his own branch of the service, thus supplying a variety of information from four different chapters of the great war story. Each speaker's narration coming from his own especial view-point, revealed his particular personality in a manner extremely interesting to his hearers. All were listened to with closest attention, and much regret was voiced that lack of time prevented others of the boys from speaking.

Merchants by Advertising Can Help to Get Business Going Once More

By ROGER W. BABSON, Department of Labor

Business is reviving after the war, but the process is slow. Reasonable stimulation is highly desirable in order that unemployment and business stagnation may not threaten. There are opportunities in foreign trade and in the rebuilding of Europe, to say nothing of the restoration of our own stocks which were depleted by the war. America is short of almost everything except articles manufactured for war uses, but hesitation about wages and prices is preventing action.

English economists agree with Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale and with the experts of the department of labor that there is no economic basis for the expectation of much lower wages and prices. There will probably be reductions, but they may not be large. The opinion of these economists is that we have reached a new price level, just as we reached a new level when the aftermath of the Klondike rush brought a great mass of gold into this country.

If we have reached a new price level obviously little is to be gained by delay, and a great deal may be lost. Furthermore, reductions in wages cannot be seriously considered, particularly when prices are remaining so high. Wages, according to department of labor figures, have not kept pace by any means with prices. Some wage-earners received no increases at all during the war, and the average was only 28 per cent. On the other hand the average increase in commodities making up the family budget—the cost of living—was 65 per cent. These figures speak for themselves, and direct serious attention to the fact that wages in goods are real, while wages in dollars are often deceptive.

To revive business there must be a market for goods. Business is a matter of buying and selling. If people have no money they cannot buy; if wages are low purchasing power is diminished.

It will be no disadvantage to anyone if wages and prices stay about where they are. To my mind the solution of the business problem now is this: Let the public buy now the things it needs; there are plenty of them, because during the war the government besought people not to buy and to devote all their energies toward winning the war. Let the manufacturers go ahead as rapidly as it is safe to do so with production. And let every man who has anything to sell tell his neighbors about it by judicious advertising.

Only by advertising can a demand be created and only through advertising are people enabled to buy wisely and well. Advertising is heavy, but it can't be too heavy so long as legitimate goods are advertised. In the long run everything depends on the consumer. If the consumer creates a demand business will go ahead. Merchants by advertising can help create the demand that will get business going once more.

It Is Up to America to Justify the Experiment of Marriage by Proxy

By the MARCHIONESS OF TOWNSEND

The announcement that "American soldiers in France are to be permitted to marry by proxy in states where the law allows such procedure" has created a boom in the American marriage market; and a very good thing, too.

I am interested to see the result of marriage by proxy. Curiously enough, Australia would have none of it. In fact, the mere suggestion of such a law was literally howled down in Australia.

Though I object to the proposal on principle it has its good points. Bearing a man's name, for instance, often protects a woman from attentions from other men.

Then marriage in these mad days is an anchor which keeps many a weak human bark off the quicksands, and gives a girl a better social standing than a long-drawn-out engagement.

And marriage by proxy would be a financial benefit in many cases. It would give a man an opportunity to help financially the woman he loves, or endow her with his world's goods without Mrs. Grundy turning up her nose.

But I think marriage by proxy a dangerous innovation, and not at all likely to cure the unrest on the part of separated lovers, nor will it revive "waning affections."

Human nature and modern conditions are against it. Both men and women find separation a strain. Faithful in thought, they miss the companionship which is natural. Some day the loneliness becomes unbearable, and there's the rub.

However, it is up to America to justify this bold experiment, as she has justified many another.

Camps for Physical Training Are Just as Necessary for Girls as for Boys

By JOSEPHINE DASKAM BACON

Camps to teach citizenship and give physical training are just as necessary for girls as for boys; all classes of girls need the outdoor life and the training. The daughters of the wealthy families like the camp life and need some of the things it offers, just as much as the girls from poor districts. The needs of one group of girls may not be those of another group, but all can find work to do that will make them happier and more useful citizens. The Girl Scout camps supply something that the home and the church and the school have failed to give.

I believe that the state should recognize the benefits that can be derived from the training camps for girls. But the camps should be recreational and should provide the things that the girls themselves want.

As a parent I find that having my daughter a member of the scouts is a means of teaching her many things that she would not care to learn if I tried to give them to her as part of the routine of home-life. In the scout work we have been able to get young girls to do housework, dishwashing and the drudgery that every woman should learn, and without a whimper from the girls. We try to supply every activity which they desire and give them the training to make themselves efficient. When you can make girls do dishwashing you can teach them anything they ought to learn and not make them unhappy.

GOOD CROPS FOR PRODUCING PORK

Industry in Irrigation Country Subject to Periods of Expansion and Depression.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE NOTED

Department of Agriculture Has Been Making Observations in Its Western Projects on Utilization of Field Crops.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
"Gum shoe" farming for ham and bacon production does not presuppose web-footed hogs. It merely means that irrigation as practiced by some western farmers involves conservative use of moisture for production of forage crops which may be harvested directly in the fields by the porkers. The swine industry in the rubber-boot country has been subject to periods of expansion and depression. One cause is lack of knowledge as to the possibility of using certain irrigated field crops; and as to the value of these crops when measured in terms of pork production. If full advantage is taken of the wide range of feeds available to swine growers on irrigated lands, pork production can be conducted more extensively, and with more assurance of success.

Irrigation farmers interested in pork production have had to rely on results obtained in nonirrigated sections, and applied to localities where web-footed crops grow. This lack of definite information was especially noteworthy in the case of field crops, which in other sections of the country are pastured by hogs or hogged off. Hence, since 1912 the department has been making observations in its western irrigation projects on the utilization of irrigated field crops as hog pasture. These investigations include pasture tests with 149 lots, consisting of 3,725 hogs pastured on alfalfa, sweet clover, field peas, and milo.

Alfalfa Needs Supplementary Ration.
Pasturing alfalfa with hogs has been demonstrated a satisfactory method of utilizing the forage, and one of the cheapest ways to produce pork. However, to obtain satisfactory results, the alfalfa pasture must be supplemented with some carbonaceous feed, such as a 2 per cent ration of corn, barley, milo, wheat, or shorts. Under such conditions one good acre of good alfalfa pasture will produce, with reasonable surety, about 2,500 pounds of pork a season. Exceptional gains, as high as 4,292 pounds an acre, were reported in the case of one lot of hogs pastured on alfalfa, and given a 3 per cent supplementary ration of corn. Naturally the gains on alfalfa depend on the size and quantity and quality of the supplementary feed. It is poor policy to try to make pork on alfalfa pasturage alone without supplementary feed.

Hogs on alfalfa pasture, supplemented with about a 2 per cent ration of corn, barley, wheat, shorts, or milo, will consume from 250 to 350 pounds of grain for each hundredweight of gain. In general the grain requirement increases as the hogs get larger. The feeding values of corn, barley, shorts, and milo as supplements to alfalfa pasturage are so nearly identical that the choice among these side dishes should depend on prices, cultural adaptability, and general economic conditions. Where the grain is to be grown by the swine raiser, preference usually is given to corn, barley, and the grain sorghums, depending upon the adaptability of these crops to local conditions. An acre of good alfalfa pasture supplemented with a 2 per cent ration of grain will support 2,500 pounds of hogs during the entire growing season. The carrying capacity of alfalfa pastures increases rapidly with greater grain allowance, and it varies somewhat during the growing season with the rate of crop growth.

According to specialists of the United States department of agriculture an acre of good alfalfa pasture, if supplemented with a 2 per cent ration of corn, or barley, will support six to eight sows and 50 to 70 sucking spring pigs for about 60 days in early summer, during which the pigs should gain from 25 to 30 pounds apiece.

Sweet Clover Often Valuable.
A few tests have been conducted to try out the value of sweet clover as hog pasture, and the results have proved that this crop cannot be regarded as a rival of alfalfa. However, on soils which are too wet or too salty for alfalfa, the irrigation farmers find sweet clover a valuable forage crop. Rubber-boot farmers are coming to appreciate hogged-down corn and field peas as a desirable combination for pork production, in that it saves labor, produces satisfactory gains in the hogs, and adds manure to the soil. Extensive tests of "hogging corn" reported in the bulletin show gains of from 183 to 1,048 pounds an acre of corn when no supplementary feed was provided, and from 335 to 1,377 pounds an acre where the corn was supplemented with other feed. It is estimated that in these tests an average of about 450 pounds of corn was required to produce 100 pounds of gain when no supplement was used, as compared with an average of 409 pounds when the corn was not in combination with forage, late alfalfa pasture, or rape. Alfalfa pasture is preferable as an adjunct to hogged-down corn on irrigated lands, because of its cheapness, relative abundance, and reliability.

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR-BEET SEED IN 1921

American Producers Urged to Grow Supply for Their Needs.

Situation Considered Serious Because of Lack in Europe Compared With Former Years—Prices in Netherlands High.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
That there is likely to be a serious shortage of sugar-beet seed for the spring of 1921 unless arrangements are made immediately by beet-sugar companies in the United States for their planting requirements in that year is indicated by recent cablegrams from a representative of the United States department of agriculture in the Netherlands, taken in connection with information regarding stocks on hand and contemplated plantings for seed in this country. The situation for 1921 is serious, because of the shortage of sugar-beet seed in Europe as compared with former years, and because of the increased activity in beet-sugar production in European countries, which will probably require a large part of the European beet seed on hand and of the European production this year and next.

The present indications are that there is sufficient sugar-beet seed now in the hands of the beet-sugar companies in the United States to take care of the entire acreage to be planted to sugar beets in 1919. The most recent information in regard to the sugar-beet seed supply for 1920 indicates that there is at present a shortage of from 25,000 to 40,000 bags. This is being met through importations in order to provide sufficient seed for a normal planting next year.

Harvesting Sugar-Beet Seed.

Dutch growers and dealers are unable to book further orders for 1919 seed and orders for 1920 delivery must be received by them quickly. At the present time surplus stocks in the Netherlands are selling at 1.3 florins a kilogram (approximately 25 cents a pound) and up, though some dealers are holding for from 2 to 2.5 florins a kilogram (approximately 35 to 45 cents a pound).

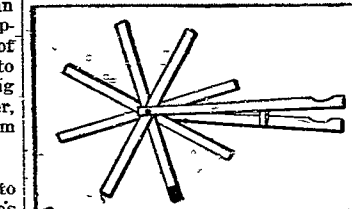

It is possible that subsequent information may modify the situation somewhat, but department of agriculture officials believe every effort should be made to produce in this country during 1919, and especially in 1920, all the good quality sugar-beet seed possible.

The accompanying illustration shows a contrivance that is handy for ascertaining the number of rods of fence you need or to find how many acres are in a field.

measure even feet in one revolution, or if preferred, a half rod. Various forms of tallying are used, but painting one end of a spoke is very practical. It is easy to count the revolutions as the painted end comes round, while following as one follows a cultivator, the handles being fastened together by a small strip. The number of revolutions times the number of feet a revolution gives the distance.

KEEPING OF FARM ACCOUNTS

Considerable Thought and Painstaking Attention Is Required in Their Recording.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The keeping of farm cost accounts requires considerable thought and painstaking attention in their recording, summarizing, and interpretation, but are well worth it to the farmer who wishes to know just what he is doing.

The DAIRY

NEW QUEEN AT BELTSVILLE

Calamity Wayne Pauline II Completes Year Test, Producing Eleven Tons of Milk.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A new queen reigns in the herd of Holsteins on the government experimental farm at Beltsville, Md. She is as unassuming and peace loving as any of her subjects, although she bears the name Calamity Wayne-Pauline II, and has just completed a test in which she produced in a year more than 11 tons of milk. In 365 days she produced 22,547.8 pounds of milk which averaged 3.805 per cent butter fat, the total fat being 855.4 pounds.

This animal was selected by dairy specialists of the United States department of agriculture from a Michigan herd in July, 1917. She was brought to the Beltsville farm, where she produced a heifer calf, and was started on her test December 7, 1917, at the age of eight years. The test was run through the coldest winter that section had experienced in 40 years, and a summer that was extremely hot. The test for advanced registry was conducted under the rules of the Holstein-Friesian association. During the year the animal was handled by two different herdsmen.

A son of Calamity Wayne Pauline II has been placed at one of the government substations, and one of her half-sisters is making a fine record at the Michigan Agricultural college. Calamity's 365-day record was 10,256.6 pounds of milk, averaging 3.7 per cent butter fat, making a total of 718.13 pounds of fat.

All the dairy cattle on the Beltsville farm are used for experimental purposes, and will be given at least two advanced registry tests to determine their capacity for production.

SUPERVISE PURITY OF MILK

List of Equipment Necessary to Furnish Laboratory Is Sent Out by Dairy Division.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A letter has been sent by the dairy division of the United States department of agriculture to 1,500 health officers in cities having over 5,000 population urging the city governments to supply the health officers with proper laboratory equipment so they can adequately guard the city milk supply. A health department without a laboratory equipment is as helpless as a soldier without arms, says the letter. A city government has no right to hold its health department responsible for the health of the community unless it has provided the department with the equipment necessary to wage the fight against disease.

The work of supervising the safety, cleanliness, and purity of its city milk supply is one of the most important duties of the modern health department. Bacteria, dirt, added water and preservatives in milk cannot be determined without chemical and bacteriological apparatus. The letter gives a list of the equipment necessary to furnish a laboratory for milk analysis.

DAIRY COW MOST PROFITABLE

Animal Never Fails to Return Profit for Feed and Care—Keep Her Comfortable.

The dairy cow is the most profitable animal on the farm if rightly managed, as, under ordinary conditions, she never fails to return a profit for her care and feed, if she is given the right kind of food and just the right quantity. If she is underfed, her product will be correspondingly small, and if she is overfed, she will be unhealthy. Feed the cow just right, keep her quiet and comfortable, and she will be equal in value to the goose that laid golden eggs.

COOKING GRAINS FOR COWS

Act Does Not Ordinarily Add Much to Palatability—May Decrease Digestibility.

While some unpalatable feeds may be consumed by dairy cows in larger quantities if they are cooked, the cooking does not ordinarily add much to the palatability of the grains and may even decrease their digestibility.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued.

"Why, lemme see. I must have jumped 'em in the wastebasket. But the fire was all out."

"Any further discussion was cut short by the violent ringing of the telephone bell inside the burning building."

"Who can be calling up at this time of night?" wondered Vida, voicing the general curiosity.

"We probably will never know," Bopp gazed dreamily into the fire. "Maybe some one saw the blaze from the mainland and is calling up about it."

"No," said Lucile, with conviction; "it's my mother. She has seen the fire from Huntington's and wants to know if I am safe. We must answer it and tell her that everything is all right."

"No one could go in there," I protested. "The fire is raging in the living room, and the walls may fall any moment."

"But mother will worry."

"What if she does?" A man under stress of excitement is sometimes unintentionally brutal.

"If you men are not brave enough," Lucile declared, with eyes flashing, "I'm going in to answer that telephone myself and tell my mother that I am safe."

"You wouldn't be safe if you were talking over that telephone," I was exasperated, but it was impossible to allow a girl in a flimsy negligee to go into that furnace. "Since you put it that way, I'll go."

I groped my way to the instrument, jammed the receiver to my ear and shouted, "Hello!"

"Sorry to wake you, old chap," said a male voice apologetically, "but I simply must speak to Miss Dunmore."

"You go to Halifax!" I requested loudly, and dropping the receiver, made a wild dash for the door, from which I emerged with my clothing on fire in only one or two spots.

"Thank you!" Lucile was very sweet in bestowing her gratitude. "Was she very much worried?"

"It wasn't your mother," I said shortly. "It was Mr. Blaney."

"Ned?" asked Vida, then, without waiting for an answer, "I must speak to him."

I gently restrained her.

"Blaney?" queried Lucile blankly; then, turning to me, "Your brother?"

"No relation," I returned.

"He's my fiancé," Vida explained. "Just the dearest old Blaney that ever lived. He's waiting for me at Fair View. We were to have been married today, or yesterday, rather."

"Oh!" Lucile retired to her inner consciousness to think.

I told Vida that Blaney knew she was safe, as he had called up several times during the day.

"Where was I?"

"You were always out somewhere with Mr. Clair," I explained.

"You didn't tell Ned that, did you?"

"Why, yes, I guess I did. Why?"

"He's so jealous," sighed Vida. "It makes him furious when I talk to other men. Of course after we're married I'll train him differently, but now I have to be careful."

Our attention was distracted from the burning building by the arrival of Bill Johnson, who walked unannounced into the circle of light. The noise of the Merry Widow arriving had apparently been lost in the crackling of the flames.

"Well," I inquired, "were Mrs. Green and Mr. Clair all right?"

"I shall not know it," Bill replied phlegmatically. "Can't, by Yimminy, find 'em."

"Can't find them? Nonsense! Did you go up to the house?"

"Yes, sare. And I look in all the rooms. No one shall be in each."

"They can't have left. Mrs. Green said she wouldn't."

"What's up now?" Bopp inquired.

"Mrs. Green has disappeared once more."

"Roped with Lipton S. Clair?"

"Impossible! You haven't seen him since he left here."

"What else could have happened?"

"I can't imagine. It's a small island, and there would be no sense in supposing that she was hiding anywhere outside of the house. Besides, they both knew that the boat was coming back soon to get them."

"Mrs. Green is so elusive," Bopp criticized, "that I should think that when once you located her you would have kept your eye on her."

"If I had," I reminded him, "you would probably all be buried to cinders now. There must be some plausible reason for Mrs. Green's disappearance. Suppose we don't tell her daughter right away until we try to find out what has happened. It would only cause her additional worry."

That was agreed upon.

"At any rate," Bopp said, "we can all go over to the mainland in the Merry Widow and get breakfast."

"No," declared Bill, shaking his head. "Merry Widow she shan't run. She broke her wale spring. Maybe it take all day to fix she up."

"Then for heaven's sake get at it!" Bopp growled crossly.

"I fix him up wit' some wire maybe," Bill cheerfully promised as he departed.

Lucile and Vida rejoined us presently.

"I have some breakfast for you," I announced.

"Soup?" Bopp uttered the word sarcastically.

"Oh, Tootles!" murmured Lucile.

"I forgot," I said. "Tootles is found. I found Tootles last night."

"Where is my little sweetheart now?"

"In the summer house," I replied.

"Oh, my Tootles girl," she exclaimed, "locked up in that cold barn of a place all night?"

"I was there," I reminded her. "I stood it all right."

Lucile started out as fast as she could for the summer house.

"Wait a minute," I protested, wishing to explain about the reporter.

"Wait," she flashed at me, "when Tootles wants me? Never!"

Lucile broke into a run when she saw that I was following her and reached the door of the summer house first. When I arrived I heard a scream.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE picture was a trifle startling. On the floor lay the reporter, his face twisted up into an agonized expression, while Tootles stood over him, feebly licking his face, her little red tongue hardly able to reach.

"Oh!" Lucile screamed jumping up and down in her excitement. "He's killing Tootles!"

"I'm afraid I laughed. Anyway, she cast a look of reproach at me and made a dive for the tired little pup. Tootles went through the door and dashed, barking, up the beach. Lucile followed after."

They were too fast for me. The last I saw of them was a tiny hobbling speck—that was Tootles—and a larger graceful figure with hair blowing free and kimono flying back, which was Lucile.

"What's all the excitement?" the reporter demanded. "Who's the pippin?"

"We had a fire," I returned wearily. "Mr. Green's house burned down."

"Everybody asleep, I suppose." The reporter sketched in the story from imagination. "You, the faithful watchman, see the flames, dash into the burning building and rescue the owner's beautiful daughter. It's a peach of a story. It's too bad you can't marry her," he added, eyeing me ruefully. "You've got a wife and seven kids, I suppose."

"I have not," I retorted.

"Then you can marry her."

"Thanks."

"I mean you're not so terribly old and you might look all right if you washed your face and had some decent clothes."

For the first time I realized that I must be a pretty sad looking object. My clothes were wet, worn, soiled and thoroughly mussed from having been slept in and rained on.

I looked at him sharply. "What size collar do you wear?"

"Fourteen and a half," he replied glibly.

I grunted. "I'll have a look, anyway."

I rolled him over and removed the collar and necktie as carefully as possible. It was a fifteen and a half.

"Because you lied I shall confiscate the necktie also."

"No," he shouted, interpreting my glance, "you couldn't wear another thing of mine."

"I'm afraid we coincide only in the neck," I sighed regretfully.

"Look here," he began belligerently, "don't you think this farce has gone far enough? I demand to be released. If you let me go now I'll promise not to have you put in jail, and if you'll get me a picture of Miss Green I'll give you $25."

"No," I decided absently.

"What will you do with me?"

"I don't know. It has been puzzling me. You know more about crime than I do. What do you suggest? I measured the height of his collar with my eye. 'I can't say that I care much for your selection of collar style.'"

"If you aren't going to let me go," continued the young man, whose mind seemed to dwell constantly on himself, "when is breakfast?"

"There, you have ruined an otherwise perfect day. No one knows when, where or what breakfast is."

"No breakfast?" he questioned.

"Nope, nary breakfast."

"He sighed. 'There's a cigar in my'— He started to tell me which pocket when he recollected my propensity for confiscating his property.

"It's all right," I assured him. "I'm not smoking at present."

"In my left hand upper-vest pocket," he finished.

I found a flat leather case in the pocket he had indicated. I opened the case, and a handful of crumpled tobacco fell out.

"I'm afraid I sat on it," I said apologetically.

He turned his face to the wall without a word. I left him alone with the dust of his last cigar.

When I had gone a short distance I heard him sneeze.

When I was satisfied that I had done the best I could to rearrange my disordered clothes and linen I rejoined the disconsolate group at the site of the one time house. There were only four of them—Captain Perkins, Jim, Vida and Kent. Lucile had not returned.

"Where's Lucile?" Vida inquired.

"Tootles got away," I explained, "and she chased her."

"But Tootles is here," Vida indicated the dog playing around the shed. "She came back quite a while ago with this in her mouth."

Vida held up the torn and dirty remnants of what had been Lucile's kimono.

"That's Lucile's kimono!" I cried.

An idea struck me. "What was she wearing under that?"

"I helped her put on my costume," Vida vouchsafed, "the one that was drying in the shed. It fits her beautifully."

"Then I presume that you will find Lucile over there behind that clump of bushes," I hazarded in a loud tone.

There was a sound of branches breaking and leaves rustling as if some one were beating a hasty retreat.

"Oh, I see!" Light dawned on Vida.

"Just let her alone. She'll get used to them in an hour or so. You do feel kind of funny at first. Now about that breakfast?"

"Yes," Bopp chimed in, "produce that feast you were speaking of. With the dog in sight we'll take a chance on anything you've prepared."

"Sail ho!" cried Jim.

"Where be she?" demanded his superior.

"Coming around the point," Jim replied.

"Sure enough, a fat little tugboat was nosing her way comfortably through the waves into the cove. 'It's the revenue tug!' exclaimed Captain Perkins, whose knowledge of lake craft was naturally superior to that of the rest of us.

"A revenue tug?" Bopp repeated.

"What is she doing here?"

"Let's go and find out."

The tug came in as far as she dared, and then an officer came ashore in a dinghy.

"Pardon me, ladies and gentlemen," he began suavely, taking no notice of our disheveled appearance, "I am the revenue officer in charge of this district."

A cry from the tug startled us.

"What's that?" we exclaimed.

"The yell was repeated, this time with a smothered finish.

"It's just a couple of prisoners we captured this morning," explained the officer.

"We are very glad to see you and your boat," Bopp stated, doing the honors. "We have had a terrible fire here, and if you will set us safely ashore at Fair View we shall be forever in your debt."

"I'm sorry," he replied, "but I cannot carry your party as passengers. Being on government service, my duties are very exacting. However, I shall be glad to notify the first vessel I meet and request them to call for you."

"But, man," Bopp exclaimed, "we have been without anything to eat for three days! Surely you can't refuse to take us to some place where food may be had."

"You forget that I have provided food," I interposed.

"I'm trying to forget it," Bopp replied, with ungracious impatience. "I want regular food."

"The lake is calming down," the officer pointed out, "and you can surely get aid soon. As it happens, we are hot on the trail of a gang of smugglers, and if we delay now the chief operator may escape us. He is posing as a telephone repair man employed by the local company in Fair View, but merely uses that position to cloak his criminal operations. He was sent to Green's island before the storm and has not reported back to the office, so we presume that he is here now."

By a common impulse we looked for Kent. He was not among us. Apparently he had waited to hear no more after Captain Perkins had identified the boat as in the government revenue service.

"I can't believe that he is a smuggler," Vida argued. She, like the rest of us, had conceived a liking for the young man whose career had been so varied and interesting. "He doesn't look like a smuggler."

"TYPIST" TYPES SELF INTO POLICE CELL

Gives Weird Demonstration When Police Demand Proof of Proficiency.

Chicago.—A man with a typewriter under his arm was seen to enter a State street saloon by Detectives Fitzpatrick and Lynch of the South Clark street station. They suspected he had stolen the machine and followed him.

The man offered it to the bartender for a pint of whisky. He was arrested and taken to the station, where he gave the name of William McDermott.

Lynch Dictated.

"Now tell us where you stole this typewriter?" Fitzpatrick demanded.

"I didn't steal no typewriter," protested the man. "I brought it with me from Pittsburgh."

"Do you take dictation?" asked the detective.

"I take anything."

"I think you took the machine," interjected Fitzpatrick.

"Is that so?" said the suspect. "You got another think coming." He spat on his hands and remailed. "You may fire when ready, Guidley."

Lynch dictated: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party."

After ten minutes of pounding at the keys, with perspiration rolling down his face, he produced this:

now is THE time for (ALL % GOOD men x to come to the aid of THE & Party.

"Lock him up," said Lieutenant Wolf.

SOLDIER SHOTS TEACHER

Attention Spurred, He Buys Revolver and Follows Girl to Classroom.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—With her death expected at any moment, pretty Irma Casler, nineteen-year-old teacher of the Rentschler school in Washtenaw county, lies in the University hospital with five bullet wounds while Robert Warner, nineteen, a discharged soldier, is held in the county jail.

He admits having shot the teacher in her schoolroom.

Warner says he planned the night before to kill the girl because she refused to talk with him.

He bought the revolver four days ago.

Friends of Miss Casler say that Warner, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Warner of Jackson, Mich., has been forcing his attentions on the teacher and that she tried to prevent his coming to Lodi to see her.

She refused to let him accompany her from her boarding place to the school.

Fling With Girls

Costs Him $600

London.—Having received an engagement ring from George William Wilkinson, who went to Woolwich on munition work, Miss Eva Lunt spent $130 on articles for the "bottom drawer."

The courtship lasted two years. Then the young man wrote that he "had something on his mind" which he wished to tell the girl, and he went on: "I think it would be best if we broke our friendship."

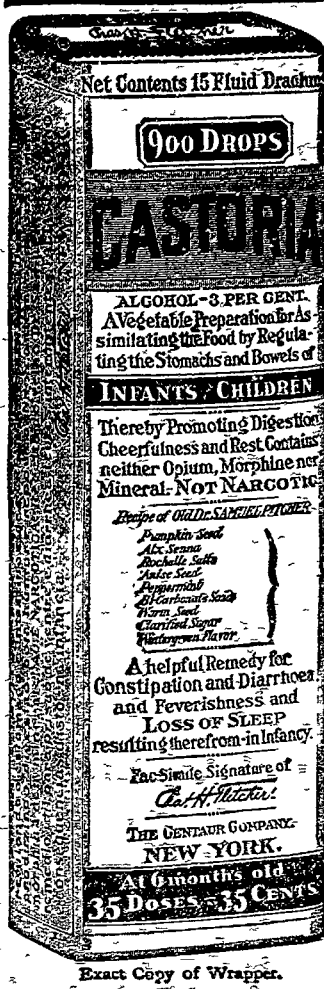

"I am spending most of my time down here with other girls, and I can see the way I am going. I shall be no good to anybody."

"I cannot be working with girls all day and act straight toward you. I would never be right, as down here I have had my fling."

A breach of promise action brought against him was undefended. Miss Lunt was awarded $600 damages.

Make This Test For Acid-Stomach

There are millions of people who suffer almost daily from the horrors of an acid-stomach—indigestion; sour, gassy, stomach; distressing heartburn; sickening food-repeating; painful bloating and that miserable, puffed up, lumpy feeling after eating. Many of these people have tried treatment after treatment; medicine after medicine; others have gone to doctors and stomach specialists and some to hospitals, but in spite of all of their efforts, they have obtained no lasting relief or a permanent cure.

These symptoms simply mean acid-stomach. If allowed to run on, they are very likely to cause a lot of serious trouble. Dyspepsia; rheumatism; gout; lumbago, sciatica, splitting headache, dizzy spells, nervousness, sleeplessness, mental depression, melancholia, a feeling of listlessness and all-goneness—these are just a few of the disorders which can be traced to acid-stomach. As a matter of fact, acid-stomach is often the direct cause of those almost incurable conditions known as catarrh of the stomach, intestinal ulcer, and cancer of the stomach.

The lives of those who suffer from these serious troubles are nothing short of daily agony. Surely, then, you must see how important it is to go at once to the seat of the trouble—acid-stomach. You know what acid-mouth does to the teeth—how it eats right through the hard enamel and causes them to decay. Thank! then of the havoc that must be caused by excess acid in the stomach.

Even if you are not suffering any immediate stomach pains, but are not feeling just as fit and fine as you should, you should by all means make this test: Go to your drug-store at once and get a big box of EATONIC. It is in the form of pleasant-tasting tablets—you eat them like a bit of candy. EATONIC is prepared for just one purpose—correcting acid-stomach by driving out the excess acid. EATONIC literally absorbs the excess acid. It brings instant relief from the pains of indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour, gassy stomach, bloating, etc. It makes the stomach pure, sweet, cool and comfortable, puts it in a normal, healthy condition, so that your food is properly digested. You need every bit of strength you can possibly get out of the food you eat—and EATONIC helps you get it.

Don't put this test off if you value your future good health and happiness. You run no chance at all because EATONIC is absolutely guaranteed to give you relief, or your drug-gist will refund your money. The cost is a mere trifle.

Counterfeiter Caught! The New York health authorities had a Brooklyn manufacturer sentenced to the penitentiary for selling throughout the United States millions of "Talcum powder" tablets as Aspirin Tablets.

Aspirin "DON'TS"

Don't ask for Aspirin Tablets—say "Bayer!"
Don't buy Aspirin in a pill box! Get Bayer package!
Don't forget that the "Bayer Cross" is your only protection against dangerous counterfeits.

Don't fail to say to druggist: "I want 'Bayer Tablets of Aspirin' in a Bayer package." The genuine! Buy only the regular Bayer package with the safety "Bayer Cross" upon it and on each tablet inside.
