FOR THE CUBS

The Base Line Cubs defeated the Northville Independents last Tuesday by the score of 10 to 5. Charley Hamilton, manager of the Cubs, is all full of smiles for this victory and Manager Harry German smiles too, because he is always a good loser. It was a good game up to the seventh as the score at the end of the sixth inning was 1 and 1. Then both teams begin to hit and make errors and the outcome was that the Cubs made more hits and less errors in the remaining innings of the game.

The only alibi offered by the Independents is that two of their regular players were missing and it threw the team out of their regular positions. It might be said also that the weather was warmer to loosen up the joints of several Independents whose ages have reached two score and five.

The Pontiac battery for the Base Line did good work and Perry and Spencer of Wixom were there with the goods.

Arnold Jaska from the Base Line started for the team by getting three hits. The Northville club was free of features, except that Burgess made a spectacular catch at first base in the early part of the game.

Umpires, Earl Stimpson and Ben Goldsmith gave very good satisfaction in their official work and the game was free of arguments.

Both teams have now packed away their ball bats for the season and Ky Stimpson who lives at Plymouth, has promised to telegraph his condition on or about February 1st, as he is fearful of becoming one of the old men players.

GRATIFYING FAIR RESULTS.

The meeting of the stockholders and officials of the Northville Drying club and the Fair association held last week brought out some very gratifying facts. The meeting was well attended, and was also enthusiastic, for good reasons.

A summary of the reports of the various departments of the fair showed that the gross receipts were over $6,000, and that after paying all expenses—including paying for the cost of the new main building, the treasury was the richer by the nice little sum of $1,200.

More than $900 was paid out in premiums, $125 of which was expended in the Woman's department, in which 641 entries were made.

It was the unanimous opinion that at least one entire side of the main building should be given over to this department, and a suggestion that an exclusive woman's building should be erected for next year met with much favorable comment.

IMPROVEMENTS CONTINUE.

Improvements continue to be very noticeable about the Ford building and grounds on Main street, east. The handsome cement drive way is nearly completed and a curbing is being constructed along the Main street walk. Trees and shrubs have been trimmed and the grounds will soon be graded.

The building is being painted—the brick a handsome grey and the windows and door frames will be white. A large force of men are employed about the grounds and buildings and everything is being put in condition to receive the new machinery soon to be installed.

The floors are being laid in the building this week.

FORMER PASTOR HONORED.

The many Northville friends of Rev. William S. Jerome, are very glad to know of the honor that has come to him in his election to the position of Moderator of the Synod of Michigan at the Synodical meeting this week at Alma. Mr. Jerome served the local Presbyterian church as its pastor for thirteen years, and has many warm friends here who feel that there is at least a little reflected honor for Northville in his selection to this important denominational office.

AUTOMOBILE LICENSES FOR 1920.

Arrangements have been completed for branch offices throughout the state for the sale of automobile licenses for 1920, which will greatly facilitate the obtaining of them. The sale of 1920 licenses will begin both at Lansing and Detroit, November 1, in one office in each city. December 1 three more will open in Detroit and branch offices will be established in the larger cities all over Michigan.

D. U. R. CANNOT

INCREASE ITS RATES

A dispatch from Lansing to the Detroit Free Press of Wednesday morning says, in regard to the D. U. R. rate controversy:

"Hopes of the Detroit United railroad that the order of Judge West of the Ingham circuit court for it to return to its old franchise rates would be dissolved went glimmering Tuesday afternoon when they filed an appeal in the Michigan supreme court.

"The court did not dissolve the injunction, pending argument of the main case, whether the company shall be allowed to charge the higher fare. The court fixed next Wednesday as the day for hearing arguments.

"Attorney J. G. Weadock, when he heard the court's decision, asked 'and in the meantime' Chief Justice

Brooker said: 'In the meantime there is no order'.

"The West injunction is left effective, beginning Thursday morning at 4 o'clock. The company's appeal was made possible late in the afternoon after Judge West had decreed that the temporary injunction should be made permanent. The company did not oppose this permanent injunction, not because it wants to be debarred forever from charging the higher fares put into effect on August 14, but because it wanted the appeal.

"Coupled with the appeal to dissolve the injunction, is the company's reiteration of its plea to give a bond guarantee in return of excess amounts collected pending final determination of the case. This plan Judge West refused to sanction. In its petition appealing to the highest court of the state the company takes the position that the legislature had the right without the approval of municipalities to fix rates by statute higher than those named in franchises."

WAR RISK INSURANCE.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance wishes to emphasize the importance to service men of one of the provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act upon the fulfillment of which may depend the validity of their claim to compensation under the Act.

The War Risk Insurance Act provides that "No Compensation shall be payable for death or disability which does not occur prior to or within one year after discharge or resignation from the service, except that where, after a medical examination made pursuant to regulations, at the time of discharge or resignation from the service, or within such reasonable time thereafter, not exceeding one year, as may be allowed by regulations, a certificate has been obtained from the director to the effect that the injured person at the time of his discharge or resignation was suffering from injury likely to result in death or disability."

Many discharged men are not familiar or are inclined to disregard this provision of law and are allowing their rights thereunder to lapse.

Request for the certificate mentioned above should be made to the Chief Medical Advisor, Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Washington, D. C.

N. A. C. STILL ON THE JOB.

In response to an appeal from the Northville Automobile club relative to the improving of the Pere Marquette crossing on the Base Line road near the Northville Condensery, in the interest of public safety and convenience, the secretary of the club has received the following from Frank H. Alfred of Detroit, the general Federal manager for the U. S. Railroad Administration: "Replying to your letter of October 7, we will be glad to widen out our crossing at Northville in line with your request, and I have instructed that it be done. The road in question, under its recent reconstruction, is now twenty feet wide, and the crossing will be widened to conform with this dimension."

TO CONSIDER HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS.

State Highway Commissioner, Frank Rogers of Lansing, and the County Road Commissioner of Wayne county, and ex-Governor Warner are to be guests at the Meadowbrook club house Saturday to look over the proposition to build by the state a seven-mile piece of road leading from a point on the Novi road to the Base Line road and east on the five miles Base line to the Farmington road and to a point on the Farmington road probably to connect with Grand River avenue. This stretch of highway has long been in need of remodeling.

Do You Know Who Made The Calendar?

The calendar nearly as we use it was made under the auspices of Julius Caesar or rather reformed by him. Previous to his time they called a year 365 even days. That 1/4 of a day had been piling up so long that March had slipped back into a winter month. He—or rather the scholars he employed—made March again a spring month. The year then began in March so July was the fifth month called Quintilis, they went on sextilis, Septilis, Octilis, Novenilis, Decemly as you see the words meaning 5th, 6th, etc., up to tenth. Caesar had quintilis changed to July—after his own name Julius—Afterward Augustus Caesar changed sextilis to August after his first name the other four months have remained as they were with the termination "ilis" changed to "ember." In order to avoid the recurrence of the same trouble they made up that 1/4 of a day by putting in the extra day after four years. This calendar was named Caesar after the Julian calendar. But as centuries went on a similar trouble occurred for the year is not quite 1/4 of a day more than 365. In the sixteenth century the discrepancy had amounted to 10 days. Then Pope Gregory assembled scholars and it was decided to drop out the 10 days. October 4, 1582, became October 15. Since they had put in too many days they decided not to call the centennial year a leap year unless it was divisible by 400. So 1900 was not a leap year but 2000 will be. This calendar which we now use was called after the Pope the Gregorian calendar. England being Protestant refused to accept it until 1752 and was by that time 12 days out which she dropped then. Russia being Greek Catholic instead of Roman refused to make the change until during the late war when she was 14 days out. Under the Gregorian calendar it will take many thousands of years before there is an appreciable discrepancy. Of course when the Julian calendar was made the years were reckoned from the founding of Rome. It was not until sometime in the fourth century when at a church council it was decided to count from the birth of Christ. Church scholars at the time of the Gregorian calendar thought they learned that Christ was born near January first so they made January the first month of the year. So September which means seven became the ninth month. October which means eight became the tenth month and so with November and December meaning nine and ten respectively.

COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Complete Text of This Important Document As It Was Signed at Paris and Which Is Now Causing Discussion in This Country.

EVERYONE SHOULD READ IT

The people of the United States have been asked, by both the proponents and the opponents of the peace treaty and League of Nations covenant, to give expression to their desires as to the ratification of the treaty as it stands or with amendments or reservations. Some of them have responded, at the meetings addressed by the president and by the opposing senators, or by communications to their senators. But the vast majority of the people are handicapped by their ignorance of the matter. Probably not one in ten thousand has read the covenant of the League of Nations as it was presented to the senate, mainly because few have had the opportunity. In order that our readers may be prepared to do their full duty as citizens in regard to the controversy, the complete text of the covenant is herewith presented, and they are asked to read it carefully.

THE COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The high contracting parties, in order to promote international co-operation and to add to the peace and security by the acceptance of obligations not to resort to war by the prescription of open, just, and honorable relations between nations, by the firm establishment of the understandings of international law as the basis of conduct among governments, and by the maintenance of justice and a scrupulous respect for all treaty obligations in the dealings of organized peoples with one another, agree to this covenant of the League of Nations.

ARTICLE 1.—The original members of the League of Nations shall be those of the signatories which are named in the annex to this covenant, and also such of those other states named in the annex as shall accede without reservation to this covenant. Such accession shall be effected by a declaration deposited with the secretariat within two months of the coming into force of the covenant. Notice thereof shall be sent to all other members of the league. Any fully self-governing state, dominant or colony not named in the annex may become a member of the league if its accession is agreed to by two-thirds of the assembly, provided that it shall give effective guarantees of its sincere intention to observe its international obligations, and shall accept such regulations as may be prescribed by the league in regard to its military, naval and air forces and armaments.

Any member of the league may, after two years' notice of its intention so to do, withdraw from the league, provided that all its international obligations under this covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal.

ARTICLE 2.—The action of the league under this covenant shall be effected through the instrumentality of an assembly and of a council, with a permanent secretariat.

ARTICLE 3.—The assembly shall consist of representatives of the members of the league.

The assembly shall meet at stated intervals and at the time of each session may require the attendance of the league or at such other place as may be decided upon.

The assembly may deal at its meetings with any matter within the sphere of the action of the league or affecting the peace of the world.

At meetings of the assembly each member of the league shall have one vote, and may have not more than three representatives.

ARTICLE 4.—The council shall consist of representatives of the principal allied and associated powers, together with representatives of four other members of the league. These four members of the league shall be selected by the assembly from time to time in its discretion. Until the appointment of the representatives of the four members of the league first selected by the assembly, representatives of Belgium, Brazil, Spain, and Greece shall be members of the council.

With the approval of the majority of the assembly, the council may name members of the league whose representatives shall always be members of the council, and may increase the number of members of the league to be selected by the assembly for representation on the council.

The council shall meet from time to time as occasion may require, and at least once a year, at the seat of the league or at such other place as may be decided upon.

The council may deal at its meetings with any matter within the sphere of action of the league or affecting the peace of the world.

Any member of the league not represented on the council shall be invited to send a representative to sit as a member at any meeting of the council, during the consideration of matters specially affecting the interests of that member of the league.

At meetings of the council, each member of the league represented on the council shall have one vote, and may have not more than one representative.

ARTICLE 5.—Except where otherwise expressly provided in this covenant or by the terms of the present treaty, decisions at any meeting of the assembly or of the council shall require the agreement of all the members of the league represented at the meeting.

ARTICLE 6.—The permanent secretariat shall be established at the seat of the league. The secretaries shall comprise a secretary general and such secretaries and staff as may be required.

The first secretary general shall be the person named in the annex; thereafter the secretary general shall be appointed by the council with the approval of the majority of the assembly.

The secretaries and staff of the secretariat shall be appointed by the secretary general with the approval of the council.

The secretary general shall act in that capacity at all meetings of the assembly and of the council.

The expenses of the secretariat shall be borne by the members of the league in accordance with the apportionment of the expenses of the international bureau of the universal postal union.

ARTICLE 7.—The seat of the league is established at Geneva.

The council may at any time decide that the seat of the league shall be established elsewhere.

All positions under or in connection with the league, including the secretariat, shall be open equally to men and women.

Representatives of the members of the league and officials of the league when engaged on the business of the league shall enjoy diplomatic privileges and immunities.

The buildings and other property occupied by the league or its officials or by representatives attending its meetings shall be inviolable.

ARTICLE 8.—The members of the league recognize that the maintenance of peace requires the reduction of national armaments to the lowest point compatible with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations.

The council, taking account of the special situation and circumstances of each state, shall formulate plans of such reduction for the consideration and action of the several governments.

Such plans shall be subject to reconsideration and revision at least every ten years.

After these plans shall have been adopted by the council, the limits of armaments therein fixed shall not be exceeded without the concurrence of the council.

The members of the league agree that the manufacture by private enterprise of arms and munitions of war is open to grave objections. The council shall advise how the evil effects attendant upon such manufacture can be prevented, due regard being had to the necessities of those members of the league which are not able to manufacture arms and munitions of war necessary for their safety.

The members of the league undertake to interchange full and frank information as to the scale of their armaments, their military and naval programs, and the condition of their industries as are adaptable to warlike purposes.

ARTICLE 9.—A permanent commission shall be constituted to advise the council on the execution of the provisions of articles 1 and 8, and on military and naval questions generally.

ARTICLE 10.—The members of the league undertake to respect and preserve against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled.

ARTICLE 11.—Any war or threat of war, whether immediately affecting any of the members of the league or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the whole league, and the league shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations. In case any such emergency should arise the council shall be authorized to request any member of the league forthwith to summon a meeting of the council.

It is also declared to be the friendly right of each member of the league to bring to the attention of the assembly or of the council any circumstance whatever affecting international relations which threatens to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends.

ARTICLE 12.—The members of the league agree that if there should arise between them any dispute likely to lead to a rupture, they will submit the matter to arbitration or to inquiry by the council, and they agree in no case to resort to war until three months after the award by the arbitrators or the report by the council.

In any case under this article the award of the arbitrators shall be made within a reasonable time, and the report of the council shall be made within six months after the submission of the dispute.

ARTICLE 13.—The members of the league agree that whenever any dispute shall arise between them which they recognize to be suitable for submission to arbitration and which can be satisfactorily settled by diplomatic means they will submit the whole subject matter to arbitration.

Disputes as to the interpretation of a treaty, as to any question of international law, as to the existence of any fact which if established would constitute a breach of any international obligation, or as to the extent and nature of the reparation to be made for any such breach, are declared to be among those which are generally suitable for submission to arbitration.

For the consideration of any such dispute the court of arbitration to which the dispute is referred shall be a court agreed on by the parties to the dispute or stipulated in any convention existing between them.

The members of the league agree that they will carry out in full good faith any award that may be rendered, and that they will not resort to war which is prohibited by the league which complies therewith. In the event of any failure to carry out such an award, the council shall propose what steps should be taken to give effect thereto.

ARTICLE 14.—The council shall formulate and submit to the members of the league for adoption plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice. The court shall be competent to hear and determine any dispute of an international character which the parties thereto submit to it. The court may also give an advisory opinion upon any dispute or question referred to it by the council or by the assembly.

ARTICLE 15.—If there should arise between members of the league any dispute likely to lead to a rupture, which is not submitted to arbitration in accordance with article 13, the members of the league agree that they will submit the matter to the council. Any party to the dispute may effect such submission by giving notice of the existence of the dispute to the secretary general, who will make all necessary arrangements for a full investigation and consideration thereof.

For this purpose the parties to the dispute will communicate to the secretary general, as promptly as possible, statements of their case with all the relevant facts and papers, and the secretary general will forthwith direct the publication thereof.

The council shall endeavor to effect a settlement of the dispute, and if such efforts are unsuccessful, a statement shall be made public giving such facts and explanations regarding the dispute and the terms of settlement thereof as the council may deem appropriate.

If the dispute is not thus settled, the council either unanimously or by a majority vote shall make and publish a report containing a statement of the facts of the dispute and the recommendations which are deemed just and proper in regard thereto.

Any member of the league represented on the council may make public a statement of the facts of the dispute and of its conclusions regarding the dispute.

If a report by the council is unanimously agreed to by the members thereof other than the representatives of one or more of the parties to the dispute, the members of the league agree that they will not go to war with any party to the dispute which complies with the recommendations of the report.

If the council fails to reach a report which is unanimously agreed to by the members thereof, other than the representatives of one or more of the parties to the dispute, the members of the league agree that they will not go to war with any party to the dispute which complies with the recommendations of the report.

Certain communities formerly belonging to the Turkish empire have reached a stage of development where their existence as independent nations can be provisionally recognized subject to the rendering of administrative advice and assistance by a mandatory until such time as they are able to stand alone. The wishes of these communities must be a principal consideration in the selection of the mandatory.

The character of the mandate must differ according to the stage of development of the people, the geographical situation of the territory, its economic conditions, and other similar circumstances.

ARTICLE 22.—To those colonies and territories which as a consequence of the late war have ceased to be under the sovereignty of the states, which formerly governed them and which are inhabited by peoples not yet able to stand by themselves under the strenuous conditions of the modern world, there should be applied the principle that the well-being and development of such peoples form a sacred trust of civilization and that securities for the performance of this trust should be embodied in this covenant.

The best method of giving practical effect to this principle is that the tutelage of such peoples should be entrusted to advanced nations who by reason of their resources, their experience, or their geographical position can best undertake this responsibility, and who are willing to accept it, and that this tutelage should be exercised by them as mandates on behalf of the league.

The character of the mandate must differ according to the stage of development of the people, the geographical situation of the territory, its economic conditions, and other similar circumstances.

CHINA, SHANTUNG AND JAPAN

The following are the sections of the Peace Treaty that refer to China and to Shantung Province that are the subjects of discussion in all parts of the nation.

CHINA.

ARTICLE 128.—Germany renounces in favor of China all benefits and privileges resulting from the provisions of the final protocol signed at Peking on September 7, 1901, and from all annexes, notes and documents supplementary thereto. She likewise renounces in favor of China any claim to indemnities accruing thereunder subsequent to March 14, 1917.

ARTICLE 129.—From the coming into force of the present treaty the high contracting parties shall apply in so far as concerns them respectively:

1. The arrangement of August 25, 1902, regarding the new Chinese customs tariff.

2. The arrangement of Sept. 2, 1906, regarding the Whang Poo, and the provisional supplementary arrangement of April 4, 1912. China, however, will no longer be bound to grant to Germany the advantages or privileges which she allowed Germany under these arrangements.

ARTICLE 130.—Subject to the provisions of Section VIII of this part, Germany cedes to China all the buildings, wharves and piers, barracks, forts, arms and munitions of war, vessels of the Chinese navy and other public property belonging to the German government, which are situated or may be in the German concessions at Tientsin and Hankow or elsewhere in Chinese territory.

It is understood, however, that premises used as diplomatic or consular residences or offices are not included in the above cession, and, furthermore, that no steps shall be taken by the Chinese government to dispose of the German public and private property situated within the so-called legation quarter at Peking without the consent of the diplomatic representatives of the powers which, on the coming into force of the present treaty, have the right to the final protocol of September 7, 1901.

ARTICLE 131.—Germany undertakes to restore to China within twelve months from the coming into force of the present treaty all the astronomical instruments which her troops in 1900-1901 carried away from China, and to defray all expenses which may be incurred in effecting such restoration, including the expenses of dismounting, packing, insuring, and installing at Peking.

ARTICLE 132.—Germany agrees to the abrogation of the leases from the Chinese government under which the German concessions at Hankow and Tientsin are now held.

China, restored to full exercise of her sovereign rights in the above cession, declares her intention of opening them to international residence and trade. She further declares that the abrogation of the leases under which these concessions are now held shall not affect the property rights of nationals of allied or associated powers who are holders of lots in these concessions.

ARTICLE 133.—Germany waives all claims against the Chinese government or against any allied or associated government arising out of the internment of German nationals in China and their restriction. She equally renounces all claims arising out of the capture and condemnation of German ships in China or the liquidation, sequestration or control of German properties, rights and interests in that country since August 14, 1917. This provision, however, shall not affect the rights of the parties interested in the proceeds of any such liquidation, which shall be governed by the provisions of Part X (economic clauses) of the present treaty.

ARTICLE 134.—Germany renounces, in favor of the government of his Majesty the Emperor of China, the German state property in the British concession at Shanghai in Canton. She renounces in favor of the French and Chinese governments jointly, the property of the German school situated in the French concession at Shanghai.

SHANTUNG.

ARTICLE 135.—Germany renounces, in favor of Japan, all rights, titles and privileges—particularly those concerning the territory of Kiaochow, railways, mines and submarine cables which she acquired in virtue of the treaty concluded by her with China on March 23, 1898, and of all other arrangements relative to the province of Shantung.

All German rights in the Tsing-tao-Tsinan-Fu railway, including its branch lines, together with its subsidiary property of all kinds, stations, telegraph lines, rolling stock, mines, plant and material for the exploitation of the mines are and remain acquired by Japan, together with all rights and privileges attaching thereto.

The German state submarine cables from Tsing-tao to Shanghai and from Tsing-tao to Chefoo, with all the rights, privileges and properties attaching thereto, are similarly acquired by Japan, free and clear of all charges and incumbrances.

ARTICLE 137.—The movable and immovable property owned by the German state in the territory of Kiaochow, China, as well as all the rights which Germany might claim in consequence of the works or improvements made or of the expenses incurred by her, directly or indirectly, in connection with this territory, are and remain acquired by Japan, free and clear of all charges and incumbrances.

ARTICLE 138.—Germany shall hand over to Japan within three months from the coming into force of the present treaty the archives, registers, plans, title deeds and documents of every kind, wherever they may be, relating to the administration, whether civil, military, financial, judicial or other, of the territory of Kiaochow.

Within the same period Germany shall give particulars to Japan of all treaties, arrangements or agreements relating to the rights, title or privileges referred to in the two preceding articles.

The Devil's Own

A Romance of the Black Hawk War

By Randall Parrish

Author of "Contraband," "Shea of the Irish Brigade," "When Wilderness was King," etc. Illustrated by Lewis Myers

"HE'S A BLACK ABOLITIONIST, SAH!"

Synopsis.—In 1852, Lieutenant Knox of the regular army is on duty at Fort Armstrong, Rock Island, Ill., in territory threatened by disaffected Indians. The commandant sends him with dispatches to St. Louis. He takes passage on the steamer Warrior and makes the acquaintance of Judge Beaucaire, rich planter, and of Joe Kirby (the Devil's Own), notorious gambler. Kirby learns Judge Beaucaire has a daughter, Eloise, and a granddaughter, Rene, offspring of a son whom the judge has disowned. Rene's mother is a negress, and she and her daughter, never having been freed, are slaves under the law, although the girls have been brought up as sisters. Kirby induces the judge to stake his plantation and negro servants on a poker hand unfairly dealt by Joe Carver, Kirby's partner. The two hands contain five aces, and Kirby accuses the judge of cheating. Beaucaire, infuriated, rises to attack Kirby, and drops dead. In the confusion Kirby and Carver are enabled to steal away. Kirby tries to induce Kirby to give up his stolen winnings. Kirby refuses and after a hot argument he and Carver throw Knox overboard. The lieutenant swims ashore and reaches a hut. Knox lies unconscious for ten days. Recovering, he finds he is in a cabin owned by Pete, a "free nigger," who had shot him, mistaking him for an enemy. His dispatches have been forwarded.

"Bout a week, maybe mor'n dat, ago, de Warrior brought de body down, sah."

"The Warrior? Did anyone ashore with it?"

"Pears like thar wus two men stopped off at de Landing. I disremember de names, but one ob 'em wus an ol' friend ob de judge's."

I turned my head away silently, but only for a moment. The two men were in all probability Kirby and his satellite, Carver. I doubtless the Beaucaire property was already legally in Kirby's possession, and any possible chance I might have once had to foil him in his nefarious purpose had now completely vanished.

To be sure I had reasoned out no definite means whereby I could circumvent his theft, except to take legal advice, confer with Governor Clark, and warn those threatened girls of their danger. But now it was too late even to do this. And yet it might not be. If Kirby and his confederate believed that I was dead, were convinced that I had perished beneath the waters of the river, they might feel safe in taking time to strengthen their position; might delay final action, hoping thus to make their case seem more plausible. If Kirby was really serious in his intention of marrying Beaucaire's daughter, he would naturally hesitate immediately to acknowledge winning the property at cards, and thus indirectly bring the cause of her father's death. He would be quite likely to keep this hidden from the girl for a while, until he tried his luck at love. If love failed, then the disclosure might be made to drive the young woman to him—a threat to render her complainant.

"Do you know a lawyer named Haines?"

"Livin' down at de Landin'? Yass, sah."

I lifted myself up in bed, too deeply interested to lie still any longer.

"Now listen, Pete," I explained earnestly. "I've got sufficient money to pay you well for all you do, and just as soon as you get me something to eat I want you to go down to the Landing and bring Lawyer Haines back here with you. Just tell him a sick white man wants to see him at once, and not a word to anyone else."

"Yas, sah," the whites of his eyes rolling. "He done know ob Pete, an' I'll sure bring him back yere."

It was dark when they came, the fire alone lighting up the interior of the dingy cabin with a fitful glow of red flames. I had managed to get out of bed and partially dress myself, feeling stronger, and in less pain as I exercised my muscles. Haines was a small, sandy-complexioned man, with a straggling beard and light blue eyes. He appeared competent enough, a bundle of nervous energy, and yet there was something about the fellow which instantly impressed me unfavorably—probably his short, jerky manner of speech and his inability to look straight at you.

"Pete has been telling me who you are, lieutenant," he said, as we shook hands, "and putting some other things together I can guess the rest. You came south on the Warrior?"

"From Fort Armstrong—yes; who told you this?"

"Captain Throckmorton. I saw him in St. Louis, and he seemed deeply grieved by your sudden disappearance. No one on board was able to explain what had occurred."

"Yet there were two men on the boat who could have explained if they had cared to do so," I answered dryly. "I mean Kirby and Carver; they were the ones who threw me overboard."

He dropped into a chair, his keen ferret eyes on my face.

"Kirby and Carver? They went ashore with the judge's body at the Landing. So there is a story back of all this," he exclaimed jerkily. "Don't it, I thought as much. Was Beaucaire killed?"

"No—not at least by any violence. No doubt the shock of his loss hastened his death. Surely you must know that he risked all he possessed on a game of cards and lost?"

"Throckmorton knew something about it, and there were other rumors floating about the Landing, but I have heard no details."

"I have every reason, Haines, to feel convinced that both Kirby and Carver trailed Beaucaire up the river with the intention of plucking him. Kirby practically confessed this to me, boasting afterward. That last night he so manipulated the cards—or rather Carver did, for it was his deal—as to deceive Beaucaire into firmly believing that he held an absolutely unbeatable hand—he was dealt four aces and a king."

The lawyer leaned forward, breathing heavily.

"Four aces! Only one hand is better than that, and it would be impossible to get such a hand out of one pack."

"That is exactly true, Haines. I am no card player, but I do know that much about the game. Yet Kirby took the pot with a straight flush. Now, either he or Carver slipped an extra ace into the pack, or else Beaucaire did. In my opinion the judge had no chance to work such a trick. And that's the case as it stands."

Haines jumped to his feet and began pacing the dirt floor excitedly, his hands clasped behind his back.

"By heaven, man!" he cried, pausing suddenly. "Even if he did have a chance the judge never did it—never. He was a good sport, and always played a straight game. You say he bet everything he had?"

"To the last dollar—Kirby egged him on. Besides the money a deed to his land and a bill of sale for his negroes were on the table."

"The field hands, you mean?"

"Yes, and the house servants. Kirby insisted that he write these words. This includes every chattel slave legally belonging to me, and made Beaucaire sign it in that form."

Haines' face was white, his eyes staring at me incredulously.

"God help us, man! Do you know what that means?" he gasped.

"I am almost afraid I do," I answered, yet startled by his manner.

"That was why I sent for you. Would that include his son's daughter?"

"He buried his face in his hands."

"Yes," he confessed brokenly. "To the best of my knowledge Rene Beaucaire is a slave."

The silence following this blunt statement was sickening. Up to that moment, in spite of every fact brought to my knowledge, I had secretly believed this condition of affairs impossible. Surely somewhere, through some legal form, Judge Beaucaire had guarded the future safety of his young woman, whom he had admitted into his household. Any other conception seemed impossible, too monstrous, too preposterous for consideration. But now the solemn words of the lawyer, his own legal counsel, brought conviction, and for the moment all power of speech deserted me. It was actually true, then—the girl was a slave, a thing belonging to Kirby. Nothing broke the stillness within the cabin except the sharp crackling of flames in the open fireplace, and the heavy breathing of the negro. He was seated on the edge of the bed, his black face showing a greenish tint and revealing puzzled amazement, with wide-opened eyes staring blankly at Haines, who stood motionless before the fire.

"What wus dat yer sed, Mister Haines?" he asked thickly. "You say as how Missus Rene Beaucaire is a slave, sah? Pears like I don't just rightly understand."

"Still, that is true, Pete," and the lawyer lifted his head and surveyed us both. "She is the illegitimate daughter of Della, Judge Beaucaire's housekeeper; her father was Adelbert Beaucaire, the judge's only son. No one knows where he is, dead or alive."

"De good Lord! An' de ol' fudge never set her free?"

The lawyer shook his head, words evidently falling him.

"But are you absolutely certain of this?" I broke in impatiently. "Have you searched the records?"

"Not only searched them, Knox, but before he left for the north on this last trip Beaucaire was in my office, and I practically forced him to acknowledge the negligence. He even authorized me to draw up the necessary papers for him to sign on his return—for both Della and the girl. They are in my desk now, unexecuted. There is no mistake—Rene is legally a slave—together with her mother."

"My God!" I exclaimed. "Could anyone conceive a more horrible position? Here is a young girl, educated, refined, of more than ordinary attractiveness, Throckmorton tells me, brought up amid every comfort, and led to believe herself the honored daughter of the house, awakening in an instant to the fact that she is a slave, with negro blood in her veins—a mere chattel, owned body and soul by a gambler, won in a card game, and to be sold to the highest bidder. Haines, I tell you Kirby knew all this—he either suspected, or had discovered through some source that Rene Beaucaire had never been set free. For some reason he desired possession of her. Beaucaire girls, they meant more to him than either the money or the property. This card game gave him one; the other—"

"Eloise, you mean? Did the fellow threaten her?"

"Here is what he said sneeringly; you can judge yourself what he meant: 'She's worth fifty thousand dollars by her mother's will, and I intend to win her if I can, fair means or foul.'"

Haines did not speak for some moments, his eyes on my face. Then he paced back and forth across the floor, finally stopping before the fire.

"This is as near hell as anything I ever knew," he said, "and so far as I can see there is no legal way out of it. We are utterly helpless to assist."

"We are not," I answered hotly. "If we are men. There may be no legal way in which we can beat this villain, but there is an illegal one, unless we are already too late, and I propose to use it, whether you join me or not. You are sure the girls are still at the plantation house—that they know nothing of this condition?"

"I have reason to believe so. Della was buying provisions at the Landing yesterday; I talked with her a moment."

"And you said that Kirby and Carver were only in town for one night, leaving the next morning on a keel-boat for St. Louis. My idea is they were not quite ready to take possession; that they have gone to St. Louis to file the papers, and will come back with officers prepared to execute them. This means that we must work fast to get out of their way."

"What do you propose doing?"

"Let me ask a question first. Is it true that Eloise Beaucaire is heiress to fifty thousand dollars through her mother's estate?"

"Yes; I invested most of it."

"In what?"

"New Orleans property, principally."

"Then it is safe enough whatever happens. The only thing we can do is this: tell those girls and the mother the whole truth—tell them at once, before Kirby can return, and then help them to get out of this country. It is not necessary for Eloise to go, unless she desires to, but there is no other safe course for Della and Rene. They must reach a northern state before Kirby can lay hands on them. Could Della pass for a white woman?"

"Not in the South; still she could travel as Rene's maid. But I do not believe it is possible for the two to escape in that way, Knox. Understand, I'd be willing to risk it if there were any show. How can it be done? On the average at this time of year there isn't a steamboat along here once a month. If we did get them onto a boat they would have to travel straight south as far as the Ohio. Kirby wouldn't be more than a day or two behind them, with friends on every boat on the river. Illinois is no free state for fugitive slaves—they might just as well be caught in Missouri as over there. There is not one chance in a thousand that they make it."

"And less than that if they remain here for Kirby to get his hands on," I retorted bitterly. "Now look here, Haines. I am going to carry out this plan alone if you will not back me in it. I am not talking about steamboats; they could travel by night, and hide along shore during the day. All they would need would be two negro oarsmen, sufficient food, and a boat big enough to carry them safely. You have small boats, surely?"

"I got one, Massa Knox," burst out Pete eagerly. "She's down by de mouth ob de creek, sah, an' she sure am a mighty good boat. We could load her up right here, an' I'd be one ob de niggers fer ter take dem ladies down ribber. I'se a free boy, an' nobody care whar I done go."

These unexpected words heartened me, strengthened my own resolve, and I obeyed the first impulse, instantly crossing the room and frankly extending my hand to the surprised negro.

"That sounds like a man, Pete," I exclaimed warmly. "Yes, of course I mean it—shake hands. You are white enough for me, boy, and I do not propose letting you do any more than I am willing to do. I'll go along with you on this trip. I have sixty days' furlough."

"And now, what about you, Haines?" I demanded. "Are you ready to help? Come, man, surely this is not something we have any time to debate. Kirby is liable to show up at any moment with full authority, and the sheriff to back him. It is still early in the evening, and we must work to-night if at all."

"You haven't the strength for such a venture," he protested.

"Haven't I?" and I laughed. "Oh, yes, I have. I am young and this wound is nothing. Are you with us?"

He was slow in replying, and as I eagerly watched his face, I could almost comprehend the working of the lawyer's mind. He saw and argued every doubt, considered every danger.

"In spirit, yes," he answered at last, "but not physically. I believe under the circumstances you are justified, Knox. Perhaps I'd do the same thing if I was in your place and had your youth behind me. But I am a lawyer, fifty years old, and this is my home. If the story ever got out that I took part in nigger stealing, that would be the end of me in Missouri. You can take the risk, but about all I can do will be to keep a quiet tongue in my head. I'll promise you that. But that is all I can promise."

"Yet you acknowledge this is the only way? No legal course is open to us?"

"Absolutely none. If there was I should never consent to be a party to this plan, or shield you in any way."

"Have You Ever Assisted Any Slaves to Run Away from Missouri?"

Kirby has undoubtedly got the law with him. We cannot establish fraud; the property actually belongs to him—both mother and daughter are his slaves."

"And how about the other girl—Eloise?"

"He has no legal hold on her; she is a free white woman. He could only hope to overcome her resistance by threats. The plantation is irrevocably lost to the Beaucaires, but she possesses the power to defy him because of her mother's property. If Kirby marries her, it will only be through her consent."

He picked up his hat from the table, and a stout stick he had brought along with him, taking a step toward the door.

"I might as well tell you I consider this a mad scheme," he paused to add gravely, "and that it will probably fail. There is a possible chance of success, I admit, and for that reason I permit you to go ahead with it, and pledge myself to keep the secret. I was rather intimately associated with Beaucaire for a number of years, and to see his granddaughter sold into slavery, even if she does have a drop of nigger blood in her veins, is more than I can stand, without giving her a chance to get away. That is why I consent to abet a crime, and keep still about it. But beyond that I'll not go. Do you understand the position this infernal affair puts me into?"

"Yes, I do, Haines," and I held out my hand to him, with fresh cordiality. "It is uncommonly white of you to even go that far. I'll pledge you this—for Pete here, as well as myself—that if we are caught, your name shall never be mentioned. Have you any advice to give?"

He paused uncertainly, his hand on the latch, the firelight flashing up into his face.

"Only this," he said slowly. "If I were you I'd never attempt to go south. Below St. Louis bargains are numerous, and you would be almost certain to be discovered. If Kirby chases you—and I know him well enough to be sure he will—he will naturally take it for granted that you have headed for the Ohio. The very fact that the fugitives are women would convince him of this. To my mind the one chance of your getting away, lies to the north—up the Illinois. Anyhow, good luck to you both, and good night."

The door closed behind him, and the negro and I were alone. The die was cast; I had pledged myself to action; was fully committed to the attempted rescue of Rene Beaucaire, and no thought of any retreat once occurred to me. The negro still remained seated on the edge of the bed, digging his toes into the hard earth of the floor.

"Pete," I began earnestly. "You trust me, don't you? You do not suspect me of being any slave-hunter?"

"No, sah, Massa Knox, I ain't feared ob yer—yers one ob dem down-easters."

"Well, not exactly that. I came from a slave state, but my family is of New England blood and breeding. I am just as much your friend as though you were white. Now, you and I have got a hard job before us."

"Yas, sah, we sure has."

"And the first thing we have to do, is to trust each other. Now I am going to ask you a question—is that the best way for us to go, up the Illinois?"

He was slow to answer, evidently turning the whole matter over in his mind. I waited impatiently, feeling the delay to be a serious loss of time.

"Well then, let me put this differently. Have you ever assisted any slaves to run away from Missouri?"

"Well, Massa Knox, I reckon the maybe, I know'd 'bout som' gittin away—pears like I did, sah."

"And these escaped by way of the Illinois?"

His dumb, almost pathetic eyes met mine pleadingly, but some expression of my face served to yield him courage.

"I-I reckon I-I don't know much 'bout all dis, Massa Knox," he stammered doubtfully, his hands locking and unclipping nervously. "I-I sure don't; an' fer de mattah ob dat, ther sh't no body whut does, sah. All-I does know, fer sure, is dat if a nigger onct gets as fer as a certain white man ap de ribber, 'bout whar de mouth ob de Illinois is, he's got a mighty good chance fer ter reach Canada. De next place whar he's most likely ter stop is Beardstown, long wid som' sorter preacher whut lives thar. An' thet's as fer as dey ever done fol' me, sah."

"About this first white man—the one near de mouth of the Illinois—do you know his name?"

Pete rose to his feet, and crossed the room to where I stood, bending down until his lips were close to my ear. His answer was spoken in a thick whisper.

"Massa Knox, I never did spect to say dis, ter no white man, but it seems I just nat'ally got fer ter tell yer. He's got a cabin hid way back in de bluffs, whar nobody don't go, 'cept dem who know whar it is. I reckon he don't do nuthin' but hunt an' fish now—leastways he don't raise no corn, nor truck fer ter sell. He's a tall, lanky man, sah, sorter thin, with a long beard, an' his name wus Amos Shunk. I reckon maybe he's a Black Abolitionist, sah."

"Quite likely, I should say. And you could take a boat from here to his place?"

"Sure, de darkest night-fer ever see."

This knowledge greatly simplified matters. If there was already in operation an organized scheme by means of which fugitives from this side of the great river were taken through to Canada, protected and assisted along the way, then all we would be required to do in this case would be to safely convey the unfortunate Rene and her mother in Pete's boat up the river, and there turn them over to the care of this Amos Shunk. Undoubtedly he could be trusted to see to it that they were promptly forwarded to others, fanatics like himself, who would swiftly pass them along at night across the Illinois prairies, until beyond all danger of pursuit. The distance to the mouth of the Illinois could not be far, surely not to exceed fifty miles as the river ran. It ought not to prove difficult to baffle Kirby for that short distance, and then we would be free to return, and no one could prove any charge against us. The only important fact fronting us was that we must act quickly, before Kirby and his aides, armed with legal authority, could return—this very night.

"Pete," I said shortly, my tone unconsciously one of authority, "we must be out of here before daylight, and safely hidden somewhere up the river. The first thing to be done, and the hardest, is to explain to those women the situation, and persuade them to accompany us. They may not believe my story; that was why I was so anxious to have Haines go to the house. They would have confidence in him. Do they know you?"

"Lord love yer—ob course dey do. I'se knowed all ob 'em for a long while, sah. Dey'll sure believe ob Pete."

"Well, we can only try our best. Have you any conveyance here?"

"Any whut, sah?"

"Any wheeled vehicle in which we can ride to Beaucaire, and by means of which we can bring the women back? The distance is too far to walk."

"I'se got a sorter kharf, an' an' ol' mule, sah. Dey's out yonder in de bush."

"Hitch them up at once, while I put a few things we may need in the boat. Show me how to find it."

He pointed out the path, with the directions necessary, and disappeared, while I returned to the cabin, dragged a blanket from off the bed, and filled it with whatever miscellaneous articles of food I was able to discover about the place. My wound, now that I was busily engaged, troubled me very little, and I easily transported this stock of provisions to the river bank, and safely stowed them away in the boat found there. I returned to discover the mule and cart ready, and a few moments later we were creaking slowly along a gloomy wood road, jolting over the stumps, with Pete walking beside the animal's head, whispering encouragement into the napping ear. The great adventure had begun.

PIE, THE POPULAR DESSERT.

In spite of the fact that pies and pastry have been condemned as indigestible, the sentence has never been passed upon them, for they still hold forth on all bills of fare.

Plain Custard Pie.—Line a plate with a good rich crust, having the rim stand up above the plate. Fill with a custard mixture, using two beaten eggs, one-third of a cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt and two cupfuls of milk. Finish with a grating of nutmeg and bake at first in a hot oven to set and brown the pastry, then lower the heat to cook the custard. An orange filling may be made by using the juice of an orange with the grated rind, adding milk enough to make the two cupfuls of liquid and proceed as in custard pie. A meringue on a pie always adds to its appearance as well as making it more nourishing.

Lemon and Apple Pie.—Add a cupful of sugar to half a cupful of chopped apple, one beaten egg, one-fourth of a cupful of rolled crackers, two tablespoonsful of lemon juice, the grated rind of a lemon and one tablespoonful of butter. Bake with two crusts.

Date Custard Pie.—Cook a third of a pound of dates, washed and stoned, with two cupfuls of milk in a double boiler. Rub through a sieve, add two beaten eggs, salt and sugar if needed, with a few gratings of nutmeg. Bake and cover with a meringue in which four or five marshmallows are placed.

Prune Pie.—Soak three-fourths of a pound of prunes in cold water, stew until tender, cool and stone. Arrange them in a lined pie plate, add half a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonsful of butter and the juice of half a lemon, salt, two tablespoonsful of flour and the juice from the prunes. Bake, cover with a meringue and brown.

Rhubarb and raisins make a good combination for a pie filling. Use a half a cupful of raisins to two cupfuls of rhubarb, sugar, salt and flavoring with two tablespoonsful of flour to thicken the juice to keep the pie from boiling over. Cover with a crust and bake in a slow oven.

Do the work you have to do With a purpose strong and true. Every day.

FOODS WHICH APPEAL TO A VARIETY OF TASTES.

For those who are fond of coconut the following drop cakes will be enjoyed:

Rice Drop Cakes.—Mix two cupfuls of boiled rice with half a cupful of milk and one beaten egg; add two tablespoonsful of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder with half a cupful of shredded coconut (the unsweetened kind). Beat well and drop on a lightly greased griddle. Cook brown on both sides and serve hot with syrup or honey.

Rich Golden Frozen Pudding.—Scald a pint of rich milk. Beat the yolks of six eggs, add one cupful of sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt and beat again. Cook the two mixtures until smooth and thick; cool and add a tablespoonful of vanilla and one and one-half cupfuls of cream. Freeze. Have ready one and one-half cupfuls of sultana raisins and candied cherries, pineapple and citron cut in pieces and covered with lemon juice and allowed to stand overnight. Stir this mixture into the frozen custard and let stand to ripen two hours. Serve alone or with whipped cream or with the following sauce:

Beat the yolks of three eggs until thick; add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of mace or nutmeg, one-half cupful of sugar; stir and cook over hot water until thick. Cut and fold in the beaten whites of the eggs; stand over hot water to cook. When cold add one-fourth of a cup of lemon juice and one cupful of cream beaten stiff. Serve very cold or pack in ice and partly freeze.

Chestnut Bavarian Cream.—Soak half a package of gelatin in half a cupful of cold water. Press one cupful of preserved chestnuts through a sieve. To this puree and the gelatin add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and three tablespoonsful of fruit juice or a tablespoonful of vanilla. Set the dish in ice water, stir constantly until the mixture begins to thicken, then fold in two cupfuls of cream, one cupful thin, the other whipping cream, both beaten thick. Mix the two mixtures until the mass will hold its shape, then dispose in small molds decorated with candied fruit. Rinse the bottom of the molds with some of the gelatin mixture, then chill before placing the fruit, which will keep them in place.

Chestnut Dessert.—Make a simple custard; add a pint of mashed chestnuts or less; flavor with almond or vanilla and add a spoonful of gelatin. Mold, then serve with flavored and sweetened whipped cream.

The Northville Record.

E. E. BROWN, Publisher.

An Independent Newspaper published every Friday morning at Northville, Michigan, and entered at the Northville post-office as Second-Class matter.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., OCT. 17, 1919.

AN ECHO FROM THE FAIR.

The following article from The Sportsman's Review, written by H. B. Hall of this place will be of interest to many readers of The Record, not only those specially interested in shooting but those having at heart everything pertaining to the success of the recent and future Northville fairs:

"The feature of the opening day of the Northville Wayne County Fair was the registered trapshooting tournament held under the auspices of the Northville Gun Club, at Northville, Mich., September 24. The large crowd of interested spectators watched thirty-three sportsmen make punts of smoke of the flying black saucers."

"George Volk, a prominent gunner of Toledo, Ohio, motored over with his family and won high amateur and high general average, scoring 98 out of 100 on the registered targets, and 46 out of 50 from 21 yards in the handicap event. Fifty-three dollars and fifty cents was the reward the cashier handed George for his clever work on the firing line."

"In the handicap event for the Michigan Handicap Championship trophy Frank Holzangl of Birmingham, and A. M. Wesner of Flint, tied with 45 out of 50; Wesner shooting from 21 yards, Holzangl from 20. The shoot-off between these two popular boys furnished the crowd a real thrill, the entire population of the fair grounds congregated behind the one to watch the shoot-off. The old-timer from Flint missed one in the second frame, Holzangl missed one in the third. They were tied for a few rounds until Wesner let two slip in succession, going out with 22 to Holzangl's 23. The cool, deliberate manner in which the Birmingham representative went after the scalp of that experienced shooter from the automobile city was a matter of much delight to the crowd. Charles Foss, D. J. Peabody, S. A. Bone, James Cobb and James Balbirne were close on Wesner and Holzangl's heels with 43 out of 50."

In the event all 100 registered targets the following scores were made:

Geo. Volk	98	Jas Cobb	90
H. Kennicott	87	J. A. Fessler	90
A. M. Wesner	96	H. Passag	90
B. S. Gaylor	96	Stambro	89
Thos Houghton	95	B. Hardy	88
E. E. Daniels	95	Fred Miles	89
Geo. Veller	93	C. VanBuskirk	87
W. J. Dierrich	93	J. H. Coy	86
H. Baugnach	92	Mrs. L. Vogel	87
Chas Foss	92	F. Hills	83
J. B. Peabody	92	S. A. Bone	83
F. Holzangl	91	Wm Story	80
R. Porritt	91	M. Powell	79
J. Balbirne	91	F. Merritt	75
J. M. Barks	92	E. Feitz	26

* Shot at 50 targets
The Flint squad, headed by T. Houghton, the auto king Max Barks, Chas. Foss, Mal. Wesner and Kennicott, broke 471 out of 500 a fraction better than 94%. Some shooting these Flint boys sure do pull together—not only in their sports but in business affairs as well. Every member of this famous squad has been instrumental in putting Flint on the map.

"Our old friend Fred Miles of Lapeer, made his first appearance of the season, and was given a hearty welcome by the old-timers. A sextette of star shooters from Birmingham were on the firing line. At the start Ed Daniels led the entire field, smashing 78 out of 80, but had a bad half hour in the fifth finishing with 95 out of 150."

"Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Vogel motored out with a party of friends. Although Nan has not had the pleasure of shooting this year she broke 87 out of 100. Bert Gaylor, of Owosso, missed two in the first event and then made a straight run of 66, finishing with 96 out of 100. This tied him with Wesner for second money."

"Charlie VanBuskirk of Pontiac, ran 46 straight, and lost his gig lamps. Missed a hatful the last three times up."

"Although James Balbirne of Muskegon, assumed considerable responsibility as judge at the Baby Show he succeeded in breaking better than 90% of the elusive clays."

"The Gypsy fortune teller had wisely located her tent near the shooting grounds, and proved to be as popular with the boys as a joker trap. She took no chances on picking high amateur, as without any exception she found a winner in every hand."

"Frank Hills, secretary of the club, is one of the most popular, most likeable shooters in the game. Frank was a busy boy, acting as chief assistant to the manager and entertaining the visiting ladies."

"Next year the management plans to stage a two-day tournament."

NORTHVILLE DEFEATS DEARBORN

Last Friday on the fair grounds, Northville's football team again won by a big score. When the two teams lined up for the fray the odds were in favor of Dearborn's husky team. Northville advanced the ball by end runs and line smashes right up and under Dearborn's goal. Northville completed only one forward pass, while Dearborn was able to get away with at least six.

Northville line held against the attack of the Dearborn warriors, and the interference and running of Stilwell, Green, Freydl and Chapman was superb. Watts, Bentley and Taylor played like veterans and several times made tackles behind the line. Carpenter and Dey started at ends but Carpenter, who had an off day, was replaced by Moffat. Dey was able to get away with only one pass, while the defensive work of the ends was above reproach. Thorpe and Kestell were like a stone wall with very few yards being gained there. Litsenberger was on the job all the time meeting every play. Wilcox, who was substituted for Stilwell, showed good judgment and ran the team in good shape.

FARM BUREAU BULLETIN.

Hog cholera, the worst disease of hogs, has again broken out in one of the communities of Wayne county. It has probably been entirely checked, although forty pigs died in the herds diseased. This could have been kept down to a very small number if the Farm Bureau office had been notified as soon as the disease started. This is one of the ways in which the County Agent can help.

The House Demonstration Agent and the County Agent will devote a large portion of their time, in the next two months to culling poultry for any individual in the county wishing to have the work done. As the work is done free of charge it is hoped a large number will avail themselves of this chance to have the non-producers taken out.

SUGAR FACTORIES START.

A Saginaw dispatch says: Relief from the sugar shortage in Michigan is already on the way. The 1919 output of the state's sugar factories will soon be available. Factories in the Michigan sugar group have started and some of them have turned out the finished product. Relief is looked for by the end of this week at the latest.

Holly—Searching for eggs in a barn by candle light proved a costly pastime for the 4-year-old son of B. D. Norton, of Holly. The lad set fire to a haymow, and the farm barns were destroyed with a loss of 200 bushels of beans, 30 tons of hay and 150 bushels of grain. The loss was covered by insurance.

ALL AMERICA HONORS
MEMORY OF COLONEL

GEN. PAYTON C. MARCHE, Chief of Staff, U. S. Army—The plan for erecting a permanent memorial to Col. Roosevelt appeals in a peculiar manner to the officers of the United States Army. Col. Roosevelt's virility, force, and aggressive Americanism are qualities which are desired in every soldier, and he typifies to us the fighting American.

REAR ADMIRAL WM. S. SIMS, U. S. Navy—It is really difficult for me to express my admiration and appreciation of the late Theodore Roosevelt in adequate terms. I am glad that his friends are planning to erect a memorial to him, for certainly this country has never had a finer son or a more staunch supporter than he was. I was fortunate enough to have been closely associated with Col. Roosevelt, and my admiration of him as a man and a loyal citizen is unbounded.

IRVING S. COBB, Author—He could be wrong more often as a politician and right more often as an American than any man since Andy Jackson. He had visions to see what menace threatened us long before the danger became apparent to most of the men of his generation. He had courage to beg his countrymen to prepare themselves against impending peril. To the struggle he gave himself and his sons, and he died for America as surely as though he had died on the field of battle with the uniform of a soldier on his back and a bullet through his breast. Through all the years of his life he served his land, and of his land Theodore Roosevelt deserves a memorial which shall speak to future ages of his valor, his work, and his splendid Americanism.

FRANKLIN K. LANE, Secretary of the Interior—"The impress that Theodore Roosevelt's personality has made up on the world does not need emphasis. Whatever his fame as a statesman, it can never outrun his fame as a man. However widely men may differ from him in matters of national policy, this thing men in their hearts would all wish: that their sons might have within them the spirit, the will, the strength, the manliness, the Americanism of Roosevelt. He was made of that stuff and never lost when when legends of lights to play. The idylls and sagas and illads have been woven about men of his mold."

JAMES CARDINAL GIBBONS—"The memory of Colonel Roosevelt will be always fresh and green in the hearts of the American people. He was the most conspicuous statesman of his day. We honored him while living; it is only fitting that we should honor him now dead."

Has Detroit Found the Same?

The Answer is Found in the Straightforward Statement of a Detroit Resident.

We have been reading week after week in the local press of Northville citizens who have been rid of distressing kidney and bladder troubles by Doan's Kidney Pills, and we have often wondered whether the same high opinion of this medicine is to be found in our neighboring towns. This frank and earnest statement by a well-known and respected resident of Detroit will set this doubt at rest.

J. A. Hopp, butcher, Mack Ave., Detroit, Mich., says: "I have considerable heavy lifting to do and I blame this for putting my kidneys out of order. My back ached terribly and my kidneys were in bad shape. I had to pass the kidney secretions too frequently and they were highly colored. I knew something would have to be done, so I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and started using them. Doan's fixed me up in good shape and I gladly recommend them."

The-Northville Record.
E. E. BROWN, Publisher.

An Independent Newspaper published every Friday morning at Northville, Michigan, and entered at the Northville post-office as Second-Class matter.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., OCT. 17, 1919.

"Cement all the way" may well be adopted as Northville's slogan now, since the opening of the new pavement. Now let's complete the job by cleaning up the accumulation of dirt and gravel left along the streets by the construction crews.

The benefits to be derived from the coming to Northville of the Ford interests are already being made manifest about the property purchased at the foot of Main street. The old buildings have been torn down and the grounds leveled and now a handsome cement driveway with curbing is being constructed. Mr. Ford made but few promises, regarding his plans in Northville, but he is a man of action and not of words. It was a happy day for this community when he decided to come here.

Pontiac, Grand Rapids, Adrian and many other cities and villages are protesting the action of Detroit's council in regard to the change of time required by law, deciding to alter that city's time in name only. It is considered that, as other places desire to adopt the slower time as required by the repeal of the daylight-saving law, Detroit or a few men there should not be allowed to dictate the time for the whole state, as the other places must keep the fast time if Detroit does so, or be involved in just such confusion as has resulted previously from different standards of time in different localities.

The week of October 20-27th will be observed as Roosevelt Memorial Week, when the people will be given an opportunity to contribute toward a fund being raised for the erection and establishment of suitable memorials to that great American. All may have a part in the contributing—the children with their pennies and dimes, as well as those who can afford to contribute their thousands. Men of all political beliefs have expressed their desire and willingness to assist in this great movement out of respect to the memory of this wonderful man, who contributed so much to the well-being of all mankind and whose last days were spent in an effort to awaken a true American spirit among the people whom he served and loved so well.

PRaise a Little—Knock Less.

The village council is to be commended for many things they have accomplished this season, although they have been compelled to work under somewhat discouraging conditions. Among the things which commend the members of the council is the action taken at their last meeting in deciding to offer the village water power and pond for sale, and to submit the matter to the people for their approval.

Somehow, it has become a habit, and it is general all over to condemn public officials and it seems that those who receive no compensation for their services are often the objects of our severest condemnation. If the fault-finders and grumblers will tender their services we have no doubt but that there are members of the council who would gladly vacate their seats in behalf of those who seem to know so much better just how matters ought to be conducted.

Candid, honest criticism when merited, is not objected to by any public official who is endeavoring to do his duty but continual harping, fault-finding with everything is not fair or just. An occasional word of appreciation will accomplish much more than this everlasting grumbling, though it might take some time for the average village council to become accustomed to the new order, if such a condition should ever exist.

SHOULD TEMPER JUSTICE WITH MERCY.

The great public heart has been touched in a most unusual manner by the case of Edna and Shirley Luikart, who were given poison by their mother in their home at Royal Oak, and many private and public prayers have been uttered in their behalf. In a fit of despondency their poor afflicted mother administered the deadly poison to her babies and for days their little lives were despaired of. After some days treatment in a Detroit hospital the children were rushed to Chicago and placed under the skillful treatment of one of America's most noted specialists and from last reports the children will recover.

The stricken husband and father accompanied the children to the Chicago hospital and kept constant vigil at their bedside, not leaving them long enough to get his meals or to catch a few hours sleep. In the midst of the great sorrow which came to him so suddenly and unexpectedly, the physician in charge of the children asked that the mother be permitted to visit her little ones, and an appeal was made to the prosecuting attorney of Oakland county, who refused the very humane request upon the ground that it would be in violation of the law. Judged from the strict interpretation of law his ruling was probably correct, but in the light of the great fellowship about which we have heard so much lately, it would seem that justice might have been tempered with mercy; just a little in this case and the poor demented mother allowed to join her family for a brief time. No mother possessing her right mind would take the life of her little ones, but rather would she sacrifice her own in their behalf. Had she been permitted to visit her family for a little while the re-uniting of the family might have been the means of bringing her back to her sensibilities and her consciousness. Surely confinement in an asylum will not bring a quick relief.

HOT SCHOOL LUNCH PLAN.

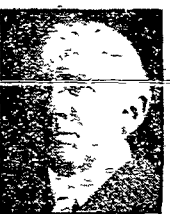

The movement to serve one hot dish to supplement lunches brought from home to children attending the rural schools is becoming more and more looked upon as a necessity each year. Should you be anxious to know how this could be worked out for your own school, to benefit your children, write to your County Club leader, village hall, Dearborn, for literature and information about this project. In this critical period the field of rural programs along educational lines, the rural schools will be called upon to play a little part. Then shall we not have the most efficient boys and girls to take the parts? Plan on having a hot school lunch project NOW!

IN MEMORIAM

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

A PROCLAMATION

To the People of the State of Michigan:

The people of the United States of America and its possessions, under the leadership of a nonpartisan association of friends and admirers of the Great American, are about to provide suitable memorials to the late Theodore Roosevelt.

It has been decided, during the week of October 20th to 27th, inclusive, to set forth the aims and purposes of the movement to the end that all shall have the opportunity to contribute to the fund for such memorials.

Theodore Roosevelt was an outstanding exponent of the "square deal" in all the relations of life, a champion of the common people, a passionate lover of his country, and an uncompromising defender of its institutions, its laws and its highest traditions.

Therefore, as Chief Executive of the State of Michigan, I deem it a high privilege to urge a universal participation in this movement, without regard to political ties, and the hearty co-operation of all citizens of the state in contributing their efforts and their gifts to the perpetuation of Roosevelt's memory. In honoring him we honor the principles for which he stood and inspire in this and future generations a greater reverence for our beloved country.

It would seem fitting to observe in some special manner the twenty-seventh day of October, the anniversary of Roosevelt's birth, and I, therefore, suggest appropriate exercises in our schools and the holding of public meetings in all communities to mark the event.

Given under my hand and seal of the State of Michigan this twenty-fourth day of September, 1919.

ALBERT E. SLEEPER,
Governor of Michigan.

NATIONAL OFFICIALS HONOR ROOSEVELT

MEMBERS OF ADMINISTRATION
SPOKE FEELINGLY OF COL-ONEL'S AMERICANISM AT TIME OF HIS DEATH.

The death of Col. Roosevelt, last January, caused a wave of sincere mourning to spread itself over the entire country. Of the thousands of expressions of appreciation from every class of citizenship, there were none more eloquent than those of the officials of the national government, at Washington.

William G. McAdoo, then Secretary of the Treasury, said:

"Theodore Roosevelt incarnated the fighting spirit of America. He did not shirk the battle from afar. He was deeply of its fire at the storm's centre. Whether upon the field of war or in the political arena, he struck with mighty blows. He preferred the battle-axe to the rapier because he could cut deeper, and the trip-hammer to the sledge because he could hit harder.

"Like all men of genius, Mr. Roosevelt had his eccentricities, and like all men of impetuous force, his judgments were not always right. He could not have been human if he had been infallible. No one will claim infallibility for Mr. Roosevelt, or for any man, and while it was not always possible to agree with his views and policies, no one could be so partisan or blind as to deny his great virtues or to give just recognition to the invaluable services he rendered to his country."

SECRETARY BAKER:—During his long and brilliant career he touched the public life of America in more ways than any other of our public men. It is the close of a great career, typically American and marked at every point by loyalty to American ideals as well as by resistless energy and determination.

SPEAKER CHAMP CLARK:—He exercised his talents and industry in many fields of human endeavor, and in every one of them was distinguished to a remarkable degree. He will hold a high place in American history.

STATE'S FIGHTERS
PROMISE TO HELP

AMERICAN LEGION MEN READY FOR BIG PART IN ROOSEVELT
MEMORIAL CAMPAIGN.

HAVE DAY OF THEIR OWN

Various Posts in Michigan Appoint
Committees for Work During Week of "Drive", Oct. 20 to 27.

Much of the success of the campaign in Michigan to raise a fund of $5,000,000 to provide memorials to the late Theodore Roosevelt will be due to the efforts of the Michigan men who fought in the great war. Soldiers and sailors who have returned from overseas and from posts in this country, and are now banded together in the American Legion, have enlisted as a unit to carry on the work of the intensive campaign. They have pledged themselves to give their best efforts and state leaders feel certain that Monday, Oct. 20, which has been set for the fighting men, will see their share of the state's $200,000 raised without trouble.

The men of the Legion were enthusiastic when invited to participate in the campaign. They knew and loved Roosevelt as a fighter who never weakened, even in the face of discouraging odds. They hailed him as a brother for those qualities of Americanism which they themselves displayed when answering the country's call. Many of the men knew the late leader of the Rough Riders personally through his frequent visits to Michigan and through their calls at his home when they were stationed at the embarkation post, Camp Mills, Long Island, only a short distance from Sagamore Hill.

The organization plans of the Legion for the campaign are such that committees are to be appointed in every community where a post exists, for co-operation with the other leaders of the movement.

"Mr. Roosevelt had punch and personality which made him immensely popular as an orator. He was also very human, and his robustness and ready accessibility endeared him to the public."

Silly Old Superstitions.

In the highlands of Scotland it is taken as a terribly unlucky sign if a dog should run between the bridal pair on their wedding day, and brides still tell the bees of their wedding and decorate the hives for the occasion. Says the Philadelphia North American: In parts of England and Scotland there exists an ancient custom for which no one seems to know the reason, by which part of the wedding cake is broken over the head of the bride and the guests all scramble for a piece.

MILK PRODUCERS
MEET AT M. A. C.

The Michigan Milk Producers' association has dated its third annual meeting for next week—Tuesday, October 21, at Michigan Agricultural college. The session opens at 10 a. m. on that day, with dinner at noon and afternoon meeting at one o'clock. Many topics of interest to dairymen will be discussed and speakers of prominence will address the meeting. The names on the program include Hon. Milo D. Campbell, president of the National Milk Producers' Federation, Prof. Oscar Erf of Columbus University, Hon. D. D. Atken, president of the National Holstein Friesian association and President N. P. Hull of the M. M. P. A. One of the topics for general discussion—"Is the farmer a profiteer?" is expected to bring out some very interesting information ascertained through the investigation of last year. A number of the farmers and dairymen of Northville and vicinity are planning to be at the meeting, which is of great importance and will be largely attended from all parts of the state.

The hermit thrush is declared to be the most talented and brilliant singer in the world, not even excepting the nightingale, says the American Forester association. ### PROMINENT PEOPLE ACTIVE Dominant Figures of Every Political Affiliation Lend Their Aid to Plans for Monument to Great American.

One of the pleasing features of the campaign to provide funds for a monument and fitting memorial to Theodore Roosevelt is the fact that the movement is non-partisan.

In the long list of names of the various state committees now interested in the work of obtaining such funds, as well as in the national executive committee, appear the names of many of the most prominent Democrats in the United States, as well as the names of Republicans and men prominent in other walks of life aside from politics.

Leading men throughout the country, regardless of political or personal views, responded instantly to the call for leaders when the plan was mentioned, and the movement since has grown to such an extent that there remains but the one thought—that of making certain the success of the plan. A glance down the list of Roosevelt Memorial Association members discloses the following men prominent in Democratic circles:

Thomas F. Smith, a member of the national committee, Tammany secretary and congressman; Alton B. Parker, former chief justice of the Court of Appeals, who was the Democratic presidential candidate against Col. Roosevelt in 1904; Hon. Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior; Robert Adamson, former secretary to Mayor Gaynor of New York City and former fire commissioner of the city of New York; Thomas L. Chubb, former University of Michigan football star, now a prominent New York lawyer; George Harvey, editor of the North American Review and Harvard Weekly; Congressman James A. Gallivan, of Massachusetts; Theodore Francis Green and Richard B. Connors, both of Providence, R. I.; Hon. Samuel M. Ralston, former governor of Indiana; Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic national campaign in 1904, who has accepted the honorary chairmanship for Indiana; Hon. George Turner, of Spokane, Wash., former United States senator; Senator George E. Chamberlain, of Oregon, who is a member of the National Committee, Luke E. Wright, former governor general of the Philippines, former Gov. Luke Lea, of Nashville, Tenn., colonel in the American Expeditionary Forces, the late John Mitchell, noted labor leader and member of the New York State Industrial Commission, and John M. Parker, of Louisiana, a member of the National Committee.

READY FOR ROOSEVELT DRIVE

Leaders, At Detroit Meeting, Enthusiastic for Work for Memorial Fund.

An oversubscription of the $200,000 quota assigned to Michigan in the campaign to raise a $5,000,000 fund for suitable memorials to the late Theodore Roosevelt was the pledge made by county chairman, members of the executive committees and other workers representing every section of the state at the first meeting of the organization leaders in Detroit, Thursday, Sept. 5. There was a determined enthusiasm displayed for what one speaker characterized as "the worst recognition for a great American that America has ever undertaken."

Col. Chas. B. Warren, of Detroit, chairman of the executive committee, presided. Opening addresses were delivered by Col. Raymond Robins, of Chicago, a close personal friend of Mr. Roosevelt, William Franklin Edwards, of New York, regional director and representative of the National Association, and Paul H. King, chairman for Michigan.

While the campaign to obtain funds for permanent memorials to the late Theodore Roosevelt is being waged throughout every state in the Union, similar activities will be in evidence in the colonial and peninsular possessions of United States.

DORT

Quality Goes Clear Through

The Easy-Riding Balance

It is acknowledged that cantilever springs are the easy-riding form of suspension for cars of comparatively short wheelbase.

Yet there is an individuality in Dort's manner of traversing rough roads. It has a difference in its easy swing and freedom from "kick-up" in the tonneau.

There are two contributing factors to this difference. One is in the proper size, weight and hanging of the springs themselves. The other is in the proper distribution of body weight.

The Dort "hangs right." Its balance is at the correct place to obviate disagreeable throw from either the front or rear springs.

The very best test of Dort riding qualities is at your disposal. Ask us to drive you fast over rough roads. Convince yourself by a demonstration, gladly given.

ABOUT OUR NEIGHBORS.

Interesting Items from our exchanges—gathered with pencil, paste pot and scissors.

The Plymouth Agricultural association expects to finish the season's run on tomatoes this week. They have put up over 9,000 five-gallon cans of tomato pulp during the past few weeks—Plymouth Mail.

Many of our exchanges point out that the greatest menace at night on the roads is the driver who fails to dim his lights when approaching another machine. They're right—South Lyon Herald.

The Gratiot road, in Macomb county, from the Wayne county line to the Clinton river in Mt. Clemens, is now open. It is one of the most important roads in the vicinity of Detroit. The 34-foot ten-mile road cost $650,000.

Just before the recent heavy frosts the Orion Review had the following item: "The raspberry bushes on the McNally farm on Atwater street are in full bloom and with favorable weather a second crop of berries will be gathered."

The baseball games played at Northville during the fair held in that village brought together a number of enthusiasts with the result that it was proposed that next season should see several of the better teams comprising a league. Holly, Howell, Plymouth, and Northville have dashed up some real games this season and a league these four teams as a nucleus would be a winner next season. Six teams according to general opinion among those discussing the matter, are favored as comprising the league—Holly, Plymouth, Northville, Howell, Wayne and Redford—Wayne Weekly.

With the view of being useful to the community the Methodist church of Farmington will be equipped to serve the people as efficiently as possible. The first step in this direction has been taken by the purchase of a moving picture equipment of the most approved type. Pictures of the highest grade will be shown constantly. All motion picture events will be open to the public. Special children's programs will be given regularly. Also plans are to be prepared for the erection of a community house on the church property which will be equipped for social, recreational and educational purposes. Provisions will be made for suppers, socials, concerts, lectures and recreational events. It is expected that the building will be ready early this winter—Farmington Enterprise.

Deputy Sheriff Colby was called down to Duncan Crawford's last Sunday morning and took into custody four Detroiters who were helping themselves to walnuts from the trees in front of Mr. Crawford's home. They were brought before Justice Lovejoy who required them to put up security for their appearance before him next Saturday. This appears to be a typical case of city parties who need to be impressed with the fact that farmers have some rights they are bound to respect. Mr. Crawford says he politely informed them that they had no right to the nuts at the roadside, but instead of moving on, they became so downright impudent that there was nothing for him to do but phone in to Deputy Colby. The latter made a hurry-up trip and it was a surprised and crest-fallen quartette who were invited to get into his car—Milford Times.

Northville Newslets.

Mrs. Thomas B. Henry has been ill this week.

Get your calling cards at The Record office. Printed or engraved in any quantity.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crocker have returned from Houghton Lake, Mich., to their Northville home.

Olin Pepper has been suffering with blood poisoning, caused by getting a silver in one of his hands.

Rev. and Mrs. Marsh have moved from Chesaning to their new home in the Methodist parsonage here.

Fred Hicks and family have rented the Ryder residence on Center street north, and will soon move there.

Thomas Gleason and family are occupying their home on Wing street, recently vacated by George Henry and family.

If you like The Record tell your neighbor who is not a subscriber, and thus boost an enterprise that is constantly boosting Northville.

Mrs. Herbener entertained a party of Northville ladies at noon luncheon Wednesday, and at bridge in the afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Hinkley.

"Men's winter clothes will be dear and bad" says a headline in a daily newspaper. A whole lot of 'em are "bad" already because of the "dear-ness" of new ones.

George Henry and family have moved from the Gleason house on Wing street to their own property on Rogers street, where their new house is nearing completion.

Mrs. Sloan, senior, and daughters, who are to occupy a part of Mrs. Carson's residence at the corner of Cady and Wing streets this winter, have been moving there from the farm this week.

The D. U. R. has testified in its appeal to the courts against the recent decision ordering a return to its former fare schedule that a loss of revenue amounting to upwards of $1,000 a day will result for the company if the recent increase of fares is not permitted.

The rebuilt half-mile on the Base line from Center street to the Novi road is now completed and is pronounced one of the finest dirt roads anywhere. It is twenty feet wide and is a model of expert road-building. Highway Commissioner Montgomery certainly has reason to be proud of the job.

The Community reception at the High school this Friday evening promises to be a very pleasant affair. The committee in charge have planned a unique way of "get-acquainted" procedure, and there is no reason why it should not result most delightfully for all concerned. The hours are from seven-thirty to ten o'clock.

The annual Halloween masque of the Northville schools is to take place Wednesday evening, October 29, in the gymnasium. These occasions are always very enjoyable, and this one will be no exception. The young people are looking forward to the frolic with keen anticipation of a lot of fun and the spectators' seats also will, no doubt, be well filled, as usual.

Mrs. O. B. Ociden has been quite ill all this week.

Albert Stene is again in school after his recent illness.

Mrs. George Grinnell was on the sick list the first of the week.

Mrs. Ardella Brooks entertained the Fleur de Lis club at her home Monday evening.

The King's Daughters will meet next Tuesday evening, October 21, with Mrs. E. C. Hinkley.

Mrs. Charles Schoutz taught the Fifth grade Thursday and Friday, in the absence of the regular teacher, Miss Munro.

Charles Evans, superintendent of the tuberculosis farm here, has been appointed township chairman for the Roosevelt Memorial fund drive.

Arthur Todd and family of Plymouth have rented Mrs. Tom Henry's house on Duclap street, where they will reside during the winter.

While hunting near the outlet of Walley lake on Wednesday last, Averell Henry killed a rattlesnake about three feet long and carrying seven rattles.

George Stimpson has resigned his position as teamster at the Bell Foundry and expects to make Plymouth his future home, having purchased a residence there.

Mrs. William Hilborn, formerly a resident of Northville, underwent a severe operation at the home of Mrs. Boyce on Friday last. At last reports she was progressing nicely.

The many Northville friends of Mrs. Charles Bristol will regret to know that she is very ill at her home in Detroit. The family lived in this village for many years before going to the city.

The members of the Methodist church and congregation and their families are to hold a reception next Monday evening in their church building for the new pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Marsh.

Work was commenced Tuesday preparatory to the lowering of the sidewalks on Main street east, to conform with the street grade. This necessitates the removal of a number of shade trees, which is greatly to be regretted.

Mrs. E. E. Perrin is gaining nicely since her surgical operation.

The second house on the A. C. Balden lots on Wing street south is now in process of erection, after several weeks' delay on account of the non-arrival of material. The basement was built many weeks ago.

Hills Brothers completed the harvesting of their apple crop this week. Fruit in one of their orchards was badly damaged by the recent hail storm, necessitating putting the crop into cider, but as a whole the season's crop has been very satisfactory and good prices have prevailed.

Hills Bros. are meeting with very gratifying success in their sale of the Dort cars, for which they recently secured the agency. They have a Dort car that has been driven 13,374 miles without changing a spark plug or touching a wrench to the motor in any way. That is a pretty big boost, but it is a fact just the same and speaks well for the Dort.

A large touring car belonging to Mr. Potts of the East Main street garage, and driven by Roy Hollis, was struck by a Pere Marquette train Sunday at the Phoenix crossing. The car was wrecked, but of the load of young fellows occupying the machine, all miraculously escaped injury of any account, except young Hollis, who suffered a broken nose, and other facial hurts.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Mulvaney of Tecumseh, guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Westcott of this place, were both severely injured Friday when their car skidded on the wet pavement as they were returning from Detroit. Mrs. Mulvaney's collar bone was broken and her husband's head was so badly cut that more than half a dozen stitches were required to close the wound.

The number of automobiles stolen in the city of Detroit in September was 335, the value of which was $312,443 as learned by official reports. Of these, 244, worth $243,539 were recovered by the police automobile recovery squad, besides 18 cars from other cities, values at $18,525. Automobile ownership may certainly be classed among the dangerous "occupations."

The Baptist Ladies' Aid society will meet next Wednesday, October 22, at the home of Mrs. William H. White, with the ladies whose birthdays occur in September and October as hostesses. Supper will be served from five o'clock p. m. until all are cared for, and a program will follow. A general invitation is extended, which it is hoped will be accepted by many friends from the community besides the members of the Baptist congregation.

The Fleur de Lis club most delightfully entertained a party of fourteen ladies, Tuesday, at the beautiful home of Mrs. Charles Bloom, at a three-course luncheon, with Five Hundred as the recreation for the afternoon. The guests of honor were Mrs. A. G. Newman and Mrs. Mills of Pontiac and Mrs. Harry Blake and daughter of Detroit. The honors of the occasion were very appropriately carried off by the honor guests.

The Westminster Guild will meet Tuesday evening, October 21, at the Presbyterian Manse. Further announcement will be made Sunday.

Dr. Alexander Lambert of New York met Dr. Tom Henry in consultation over Miss Carolyn Babbitt Sunday last. Miss Babbitt continues seriously ill, despite the best that medical science can do.

One improvement calls for another. Now that we have our new pavements some plan must be adopted to keep them clean and to keep down the dust. From all sections comes reports that the fur will return again this season and street dust is one of the agencies for spreading the disease.

The deer hunters are getting ready for the north woods. Northville will send two parties this year, both of which camp at Kenton, Northern Michigan. The old Henry party will consist of Drs. Dan and Tom Henry, A. C. Balden, Wm. Tinham, George Hills, Scott Lovewell, Carl Ely of Farmington, Cass Benton, Dr. E. E. Cavell and Lou Rose, cook, of South Lyon. They leave for the north November 6th.

The reception to be given in honor of the teachers of the public schools this evening ought to be attended by every patron in the district. It is a good plan to become personally acquainted with those who are training the children of Northville and as you come to know them better you will more fully appreciate the efforts they are making in your behalf to inspire your children to greater efforts in their school work. To attain the best results in our schools teachers and parents must work hand in hand.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

Services will be held at the usual hours next Sunday, morning and evening. Rev. M. Johnson of Pontiac will occupy the pulpit.

Do not forget "the birthdays" next Wednesday at the Wm. H. White home. Supper begins at five o'clock.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS NOTES.

Regular meeting next Wednesday evening, October 22, in Forester hall. Let us have a good attendance, as there will be initiatory work.

Two more members were added to our numbers by initiation at last week's meeting, one elected to membership and one application received. We are gaining steadily.

Annual inspection at our first regular meeting in November, with Mrs. Anna M. Earle of Detroit as inspector.

INSPECTED CITY FARM.

A party including Mayor Couzens and the members of the Common Council of Detroit and the officers of the Detroit House of Correction were in town last Friday on a visit of inspection to the Detroit Tuberculosis Sanatorium property west of the village. The party was entertained at luncheon at the residence of Superintendent Charles Evans.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

Sunday morning combined services at ten o'clock. Lesson study for one hour, followed by sermon. Why not keep up at least to our Rally Day mark in attendance or go beyond it? And why not plan now to come every Sunday unless providentially hindered? And then there is the evening service at seven-thirty, why not come to that and see if it is worth coming to, and if not try to make it worth while? And the prayer meeting on Thursday evening, why not give that the same treatment? And remember there are other people in town who might be benefited by the church, why not give them your own personal invitation? Why not? Why not? Sure enough, WHY NOT? There are at least two thousand good reasons why you should do these things; are there more reasons why not?

ARRANGING FOR CAMPAIGN.

Charles Evans, township chairman of the Roosevelt Memorial committee, is busy making plans for the campaign for raising funds which will be conducted from October 20th to 27th. Committees for Northville township are being selected and arrangements are being made for a mass meeting to be held next week, the time and place for holding the meeting will be announced in all the churches of the village next Sunday. The meeting will be addressed by speakers of prominence and it is desired that all should attend.

People of all classes and of all political affiliations are rallying to the support of this campaign to raise funds for the erecting of suitable memorials for this great American and it is desired that Northville shall meet its quota in this drive, as this community has met all other drives of a patriotic nature. No man rendered greater service to his country and the world than did Theodore Roosevelt and it should be regarded as a privilege to contribute toward the fund.

Watch for the time and place of the mass meeting and be in attendance.

If Constipated, Bilious or Headachy, take "Cascarets"

Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, or sour, gassy stomach—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissues it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—Adv.

COATS THAT COMBINE CHARM AND UTILITY

Now is the time when the warm coat for midwinter comes up for consideration and the buyer goes cheerfully forth to see what she can see. She is destined to find quite a number of new coatings represented in thick, soft weaves and, if gifted with a retentive mind, she may be able to commit their various names to memory. They all seem to be variations of cloths that we have known in the past as Bolivia, zibeline, duvety, rough mixtures and other heavy, wooly fabrics that are cozy looking. Some of them we know to be strong and sturdy, others look as promising. Taken as a whole, coatings are richer looking than they have ever been, which is a pleasant thing to contemplate—and measured by prices they certainly ought to look rich.

Some of the new coats are extravagantly high priced and there has been an increase in nearly all of them. The cheerfulness of the buyer is apt to be somewhat dampened unless her purse is long, for fur-trimmed coats must be classed among the luxuries of the rich. Pig fabrics are warm and rich looking and have proved to be most durable. Coats of these plushes sell at a reasonable price and so do those of heavy wools that are woven like steamer rugs or army blankets. Leather coats have been introduced to provide warm coats at a medium price.

The two coats shown in the picture above are good examples of styles for all-round general wear. They are cut on the most practical lines with muffer collars, big pockets and foamy sleeves. The coat at the left has a narrow belt of cloth with long ends that loop over at the front. A few, bone buttons make themselves useful for fastening at the waistline and collar and ornamenting the cuffs. In the coat at the right, the buttons are cloth-covered and the belt slips through a slide at the front. A luxurious collar of skunk fur may be brought up and fastened at the throat, in the face of stormy weather or before the teeth of an icy wind. These are both attractive coats and types of styles that are soft and becoming as well as warm and durable.

Alluring Veils for Autumn Hats

There is something very alluring about veils. They are among the belongings of women, that are peculiarly their own; mere man having no share in this kind of apparel. The wedding veil is a vision that girlhood cherishes and thrills over. Veils are significant and charming—and have in most cases no other reason for existence. But they contribute to neatness, if one must be practical, and they are often very flattering. It is the element of style in them, with becomingness, that makes them dear to the hearts of women and provides us with ever-changing weaves and patterns to choose from.

Some modistes have featured veils as an essential part of the trimming of hats, in their displays of fall millinery. The all-over lace patterns appear to have given place to mesh veils with borders, these borders being often in a lace pattern or having a floral design applied to the mesh. Veils fall about the face and head from small and medium-sized hats in ways that seem casual but are not. They are sometimes draped with the border about the hat and the plain edge hanging down, but this is exceptional; nearly always the plain edge is placed about the snape and the border defines the bottom of the veil.

Among the very elegant veils used on dressy hats those of chantilly lace are conspicuous. The mesh is fine in these, and the border a floral pattern above a scalloped edge usually. Black and taupe gray are the favored colors for veils, either color proving practical for the street and becoming to the wearer. There is a great variety of shapes in meshes—square, diamond shaped, hexagonal and oblong, with all sorts of inconspicuous crossbars and figures to add interest to them. Street veils have light woven-in borders and they are worn either hanging free or fastened about the neck, after the manner of the three veils shown in the picture.

Veils should be tried on and selected for becomingness, as hat shapes are. Some meshes make the face look more youthful and others seem to reveal wrinkles. For clearing up the skin and bringing out color dark blue, sapphire, and national blue are all effective. Taupe and black find more admirers than any other colors.

There are some small face veils only large enough to extend from hat brim to chin, and they are made to be pinned or to be slipped on and held in place with small, round elastic cord. The floating veils shown at the right and bottom of the group are knotted in at the back sometimes as in the hat shown at the upper left side. These are popular styles, soft, becoming, and desirable.

In Small Furs

In small furs there are noticeable styles that may be adjusted so as to be worn in several unique ways, and among the recently presented models of this type are many of gray squirrel and of Hudson seal.

HOME

By SUSAN F. HAYFORD.

"For goodness sake, Jim, Graham, what a looking room! If you aren't enough, to try the patience of Job."

The usually soft voice was high-pitched and querulous.

"Why, what's the matter, what's up now?" inquired Mr. Graham from the depths of his newspaper.

"Well, if you would use your eyes you'd see what was the matter. Just look at that rug, and after I've cleaned all day, too." And his wife, pointing an accusing finger at the mud tracks that spread across the floor.

He gave a hearty laugh. "So that's all, is it; well, I'm sorry, but come and give me a kiss and say that you forgive it this time." And putting an arm about the trim little waist he drew her down to the arm of his chair. But she was not to be so easily appeased, and with an angry jerk she pulled herself away.

"Oh, that's just like you—you never take anything seriously, and I work all day trying to keep things neat. Look at your coat on one chair, your hat right on the mantel and—"

Mr. Graham laid down his paper with a sigh.

"Well, Agnes, I suppose we might as well get this settled. I'm getting tired of being nagged every night lately. I never complain about what you do, and after all I furnish the house for a home," he ended angrily.

It was a very unfortunate remark just at that moment, and the tears filled Mrs. Graham's eyes in spite of her efforts to keep them back. "Very well, if that's the way you feel, I think I had better earn my own living—I did once without any trouble, and you can have your house just as you please," she said with sarcasm.

Her husband arose from his chair and spoke severely: "Don't talk nonsense; what is the use of making a fuss over nothing?"

"Nonsense—it's more nonsense to be a slave for a man, and I'm tired of it," she flung back over her shoulder as she hastened to the kitchen, partly to attend to the cooking supper and partly to hide the falling tears.

Presently her husband appeared at the dining room door in hat and coat.

"You needn't wait up for me; I have a key." Good evening," he said coldly, and was gone.

"Wait, Jim," she cried, but the front door closed before she could finish the sentence.

Regardless of the over-brown chicken in the oven she put her head on the kitchen table and wept.

"Oh, why did I ever say such things! But then he might have known that I didn't mean them, and he didn't seem to care if I did leave; probably he'd be glad," and a fresh flood of tears came, but after a while she arose with an air of determination, and taking the done dinner from the stove consulted the mirror, to be confronted with her new and swollen eyes, and her new silk waist all spotted with tears.

Half an hour later, a veil hiding her tear-stained eyes, she locked the door and started for her dear chum Isabelle's apartments, to let Jim see that she could get along without him.

She hurried along the avenue, intent on taking the car just coming in sight, then a fall and a sharp pain in her ankle.

From around the corner someone appeared, and a familiar voice was in her ear:

"Are you hurt, Puss? Tell me quick."

"Not much, Oh, Jimmy, where were you?" she gasped.

"Just been talking around the block the last hour," he replied carelessly. With his arm to support her she bubbled home in silence, but once inside the cheery living room the tears started afresh as her husband turned towards the hall to hang his hat and overcoat.

"Don't please," she cried; "just throw them anywhere—I love to see them 'round; and, Jimmy, I was all tired and cross, and I truly didn't mean it," she concluded from the depths of his shoulder.

The dinner had lost its flavor, but the diners were radiantly happy enough to overlook it, and a fragrant cup of coffee made a pleasant finish.

"Jimmy," she said, "just think, married most a year and our first quarrel. Wasn't it silly?"

"So silly it will be the last," said Mr. Graham lighting his cigar.

His wife went softly over to his chair and put her arms about his neck. "We'll both do just as we like, won't we? And nobody'll fuss, for it's truly home, isn't it?"

She paused as her husband for the second time that evening, but now all unresisting, drew her to his knee.

"It's home where my little wife is," he ended.

Smoked Salt With Tobacco.

The strangest way of taking his salt was probably Doctor Parr's. Tal- four records that he used to fill his pipe half with the finest tobacco and half with salt. After that it is not very surprising to learn that he smoked "with a philosophical calmness."

On one occasion when the two met, Charles Lamb's furious smoking of the strongest tobacco filled Doctor Parr with astonishment. Gently laying down his pipe, he inquired how Lamb had arrived at his power of smoking at such a rate.

"I tolled after it, sir, as some men toll after virtue," Lamb's reply.—London Chronicle.

HALEY'S COMET 61 YEARS AGO

Is Same Terrible Wanderer in Space That Has Appeared Down the Ages.

The world was up all night September 12, 1910. Haley's comet blazed across the roof of the world. This "great comet," whose revolution occupied 292 years, was first seen in August, 1835, by a gentleman in Albion, but Haley's comet, named after the astronomer who calculated its progress, is the same terrible wanderer in depths of space that has appeared down the ages, and to which successive names have been given—Bela's comet, Donati's comet, etc. From the records of history it seems that the comet appears to foretell some world disaster. It appeared before the fall of Jerusalem under Titus; in the reign of Louis the Debonair, 887, and the king died shortly after; it appeared before the death of Caesar, 43 B. C. Again it appeared three years after the capture of Constantinople by the Turks, 1456. It appeared in 1861, just before the Civil war, and in 1910, before the great war.

What is a comet? It is a member of the solar republic—a hirsute star, a vagabond orb, that travels at almost incalculable speed, whose tail is fifty-five million miles long—whose approach the sun, not to be consumed in it, but to draw from that radiant source the energy necessary for its future travels in the unknown abyss of the firmament. It has its own orbit which it follows. What mind dare follow that?

"No, dear; your temperature is a little over 100, but the doctor thinks you will be better in a day or so."

Smiles broke through Marjorie's tears. "Now, mamma, I can have my quarter. Papa said he would give it to me if I could get 100 on anything."

WAR RECORD OF LEVIATHAN

Monster Transport Carried Many Thousands of Soldiers to French Ports.

The giant transport Leviathan, following her arrival in New York harbor with Gen. Pershing and troops of the First division, brought to a close her important service in helping win the war. The big ship, after being refitted for passenger service, is to be turned back to the United States Shipping Board, the agency which seized it when the United States entered the war. While the future of the ship is uncertain, it is reported that she will be assigned to American passenger trade between New York and Liverpool, with possible extension in the future of a service to Hamburg.

The Leviathan, formerly the Vindicator, the second largest ship in the world, was intercepted in New York by the Germans in 1914. She was "wfully damaged" to the extent of more than $1,000,000. After being reconditioned by American engineers, she was assigned as a transport, and during and since the war made 19 round trips on the Atlantic, carrying a total of 185,500 soldiers, of whom 98,321 were carried overseas through submarine-infested seas. She was always a mark for U-boats, but her speed and the armament with which she was equipped saved her.

They Have to Be Good. Sociologists estimate that among every thousand bachelors there are 38 criminals, whereas married men produce 18 per thousand.

Few men are able to achieve greatness without advertising the fact.

POULTRY FACTS

MAKE PROFITABLE SIDE LINE

Success May Be Attained With Pigeons by Careful Attention to Many Little Details.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many people can keep pigeons successfully as a side issue, although this requires constant oversight and careful attention to details. The greatest difficulties confronting the successful raiser of pigeons seem to be in securing good breeding stock, and finding a market for the produce of a small flock. Pigeons are a profitable source of income on general farms where they may secure much of their feed from the fields, provided they are not a nuisance and the loss by shooting and by hawks, owls and cats is not large. They can also be raised successfully on farms where they are closely confined, provided the squabs can be marketed to good advantage.

Of the squab-raising varieties the Homer is considered the most popular variety. The habit of this bird of returning home if allowed freedom makes it necessary to confine pigeons purchased from other lofts. The Carneau pigeon has recently become popular as a squab producer. This variety is somewhat larger than the Homer and it is stated is about as prolific. Several other varieties of pigeons larger than the Homer are used on a small scale in squab raising, especially in crossing with the Homer and Carneau, to increase the size of squabs. The Runf

Homer Pigeon Is Most Popular.

Is one of the largest, but is not as prolific or as good a breeder or feeder as the Homer.

Some of the other varieties reported used as squab breeders are the Dragon, White Maltese, or hen pigeon, the White King, and the common pigeon.

BIG RETURNS FROM POULTRY

Arizona Farmer Made Profit of Nearly $300 From Small Flock in Short Space of Time.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A net return of nearly $300 in two and one-half months from a side line on the farm is the record made by a Glendale, Ariz., farmer who is carrying on his operations under the direction of a poultry extension expert of the United States department of agriculture. In connection with his general farm work he kept a flock of 210 hens, which produced an average of ten dozen eggs during the four winter months. During February the eggs brought an average of 55 cents a dozen, or approximately $150, while the feed bill, including the feed for the young chicks, amounted to $50. The following month the flock showed a profit of a little over $100. During the first half of April the gross receipts were $97.50. In April the extension specialist conducted a culling demonstration on this farm and weeded 56 hens from the flock. The culled hens were kept in a separate pen for a week following the demonstration, and made practically no returns in egg yields. This indicates, the specialist says, that the remaining 154 hens probably made the record with which the entire 210 had been credited.

SMALL BACK YARD FOR HENS

THEY TURNED AWAY DAZEDLY

Young Couple in Search of an Apartment Run Into Unusual Landlord.

"Have you an apartment to rent?" piped the young husband.

"Have you any children?" roared the landlord, running a sinewy hand through his whiskers.

"No," replied the young husband, promptly.

"Any dogs?" blared the landlord.

"Not a one," chirped the young wife.

"Well, then," said the landlord triumphantly, "you can't get in here. We never rent apartments to people who haven't children or dogs."

The door slammed in their faces and they turned away dazedly.

Honest Advertising.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher honestly advertised, honestly placed before the public and from which he honestly expects to receive his reward.

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.
