CITY MEN BADLY NEEDED ON FARMS

Shortage of Hired Labor Threatens to Curtail Production of Food.

MEREDITH MAKES AN APPEAL

Increase of Wages From 15 to 25 Per cent Fails to Relieve Situation—Total Acreage Undoubtedly Will Be Reduced.

Washington—With a shortage of hired farm labor, as acute as in 1918, threatening to curtail food production on American farms, E. T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture, has issued an appeal to city men, college students and others to spend their vacations working on farms, particularly as helpers in harvest fields.

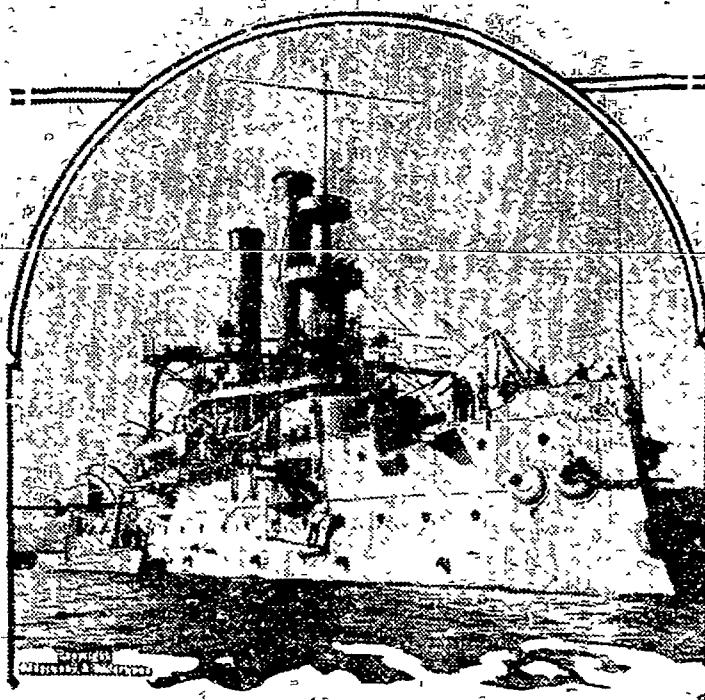

Reports secured by the federal department from its representatives in practically every state in the Union show that the supply of hired farm labor in this country is only about 72 per cent of the normal supply, compared with approximately 84 per cent of a normal supply a year ago. This year's shortage is almost exactly the same as that of two years ago when large numbers of men were in military service.

May Cut Production.

The present shortage has arisen in spite of the fact that farm wages are 15 to 25 per cent higher than last year. The situation, unremedied, cannot fail to have unfavorable effect on production, according to the United States department of agriculture, and will tend to prevent any reduction in the prices of farm products. While the total acreage undoubtedly will be reduced as a result of the present situation, it will not be in as large proportion as the reduction in the labor supply, because the farmers with their families are exerting themselves to the utmost to overcome their handicap. Cultivation this year will be less intensive than formerly. More land will be put into grass and such other crops as require a minimum of labor. It is said, and the field will be less intensively cultivated.

Secretary Meredith calls on all business men and students to spend their summer holidays helping relieve the present situation and so on in combating high living costs. In making

FLAGSHIP TO BE USED AS TARGET

The U. S. S. Iowa, in its day the pride of the American navy and flagship of the late "Fighting Bob" Evans, unless plans of naval experts fail, will be used as a moving target for modern dreadnoughts. Its movements directed by powerful wireless apparatus invented by John Hays Hammond. The Iowa is about thirty years old and is of no further use as a fighting machine.

This appeal is recognized that, at the outset at least, such labor is not as efficient as experienced farm labor, but the excellent results secured in 1918, when city men in large numbers aided the farmers, leave no doubt as to the success of the present drive if the men will respond.

Plan to Help Farmers.

The United States department of agriculture was represented by Asher Hobson at the meeting of the National Farm Labor conference held in Kansas City recently and the office of farm management, of which Mr. Hobson is assistant chief, is laying plans looking toward offering effective aid in dealing with the farm labor situation, particularly in the harvest season. It is expected that definite announcement regarding work along this line will be made in the near future. Until other provision has been made by the department all persons interested in finding work on farms should write to the directors of agricultural extension at the agricultural colleges in the various states. These directors are prepared to supply the names of county agents having farms in their respective counties that need farm labor. By this method anyone desiring to help on a farm can get in direct communication with the farmer.

ONE DRINK JAILS BRIDEGROOM

Brooklyn Judge Lets Him Go to Try to Square Things With His Wife-to-Be.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Tugged out in his wedding dress, a perfectly correct afternoon outfit, Alexander Koschowsky, aged forty, woke up in a cell.

His recollections of what happened were vague. He remembered he had started from his boarding house to make his first venture in married life. His wife-to-be was waiting for him. His disposition to be prompt at the altar was not impaired, but a temper tantrum whiskered him that one little glass of beer would not hurt him. The barman whispered "try whisky" as he was doing him a favor, and he did. That was the last recollection he had until the cell was locked on him and he told him to get ready to go to court.

The facts in the case were fully presented to Magistrate Metzger by John H. McGowan, who had pleaded the important circumstance of the guilty.

"If you don't come to the court with me, I'll have to go alone," said the magistrate.

Koschowsky, dressed with military precision and then stepped out to square things with the woman who had married him.

King Alfonso Was Fined for Walking on Grass

Madrid—King Alfonso was fined two pesetas for walking across the grass in the gardens of the Alcazar. Every member of his suite who followed the king across the greenward likewise was fined.

The first intimation the royal party had that he had committed an offense was when a guard had approached and said: "Your majesty, walking on the grass is forbidden. I must fine you according to my instructions." At first King Alfonso was abashed, then he laughed and paid the money.

Later the mayor of the town called at the palace and apologized to the king, but his majesty told him the guardian had acted properly and should be rewarded for devotion to duty.

COUGHING, WEAK AND RUN-DOWN AFTER FLU

Regained flesh and strength quickly, and tells how.

"I nearly died from flu last October, and it left me with a terrible cough. The doctor gave me one bottle of medicine after another, but it did me no good. Went to Charles W. C. and took treatment of a specialist without any permanent benefit.

"I saw Milk's Emulsion advertised and started using it. It helped me right from the start. I had no appetite and my stomach was in bad shape. But 12 bottles have straightened me out entirely. I eat anything without distress, my cough is gone, and I have gained back my strength and flesh."—Emma W. Rogers, Box 50 Belmont, N. C.

"Don't trifle with a weak, run-down condition. It leaves you open to serious diseases. Get your strength back. Milk's Emulsion is a pleasant nutritious food and a corrective medicine. It restores health, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. It builds up flesh and strength. Milk's Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whose sickness has weakened, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk's Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles, home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results your money will be promptly refunded. Price, $2.00 and $1.00 per bottle. The Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Medical applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Discovers Way to Balk Idiocy

Surgeon Perfects New Method of Treating Tumor of the Human Brain.

SAVES SCORES OF PERSONS

Discovery Is Result of Long Series of Experiments on Animals—Locates Tumors and Obstructions Every Time.

Baltimore, Md.—Dr. Walter B. Dandy, associate in surgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital, has discovered a process by which purified air is pumped into the channels of the human brain, thus making possible a study of the living brain.

The discovery is regarded of tremendous importance in that it already has saved scores of persons from idiocy and premature death, by making possible the exact location of brain tumors, and thus their eventual removal.

The discovery of Doctor Dandy is the result of a long series of experiments on animals.

Fluid That Feeds the Brain.

In each hemisphere of the brain there is a large ventricle or chamber connecting with an elaborate system of channels filled with a fluid produced apparently by one of the glands and delivered to the brain through the spine. This fluid passes slowly to the surface of the brain, there to be absorbed by the brain tissue, and it is this fluid that is the fluid on which the brain feeds.

An excess of this fluid is known as hydrocephalus, or water on the brain. Doctor Dandy has discovered that it frequently follows a tumor which blocks the passage of the fluid. No tumor provides but one method of disposing of it, absorption. When that is prevented by a tumor, the fluid collects and passes against the brain, destroying it. Surgeon's patients will live for years as imbeciles.

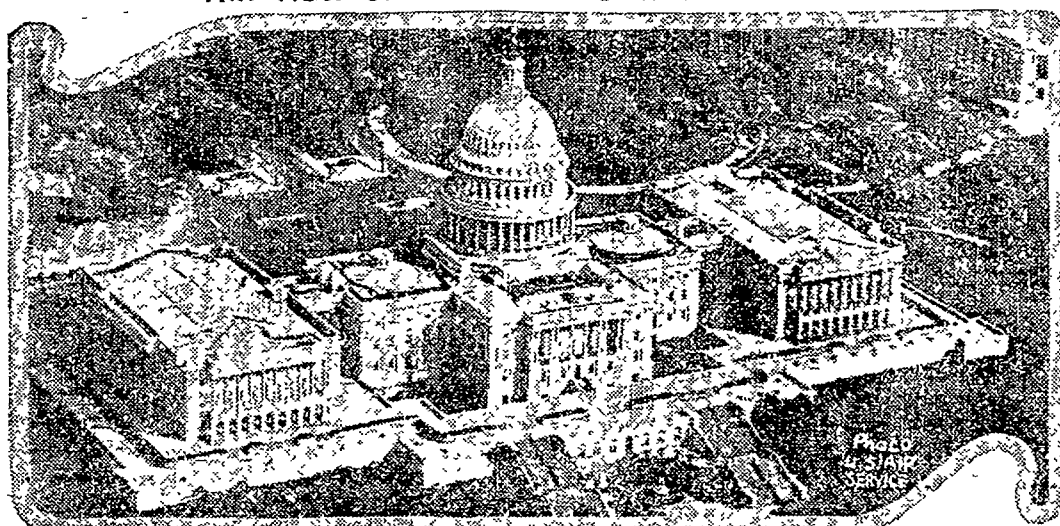

Trials So Far Successful.

In every case where it has been used the method has been successful in locating tumors and other brain obstructions within a half's breadth. One of the most remarkable features of the discovery is that it is most efficacious when only a local anesthetic is used. It was discovered that the patient felt no ill effects and was able to give assistance to the surgeon.

In one case described by Doctor Dandy a patient was operated on half a dozen times for a tumor of the brain without success. Doctor Dandy used his process and located the tumor, which was removed from a point not considered by diagnosticians.

A photograph of the patient prior to the operation showed a face with sagging lines and the vacant stare of imbecility. A photograph a few months after the operation showed a man apparently in full possession of his senses.

The Northville Record.

E. E. BROWN, Publisher.

An Independent Newspaper published every Friday morning at Northville, Michigan, and entered at the Northville post-office as Second-Class matter.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., MAY 21, 1926.

It is now only a little more than a week until Memorial Day, and there is a lot of work that should be done in our cemeteries to put them in attractive condition for the Festival of Flowers. Memorial Day has become more than a day for honoring the memory of our soldier dead. It is a day upon which our memories are quickened, and the lives and kindly deeds of our departed relatives and friends are recalled. Surely if we are to pay proper respect to their memory the silent cities of the dead—God's acre—should be made as attractive and beautiful as possible.

A twelve-year old Nebraska school girl, living in a country district, is the champion speller of her State. William Jennings Bryan of the Plains is still the champion "spell binder," however.

Fewer strikes and more hours devoted to good faithful toil might assist in keeping prices down. Such a program would surely help to supply the people with actual necessities.

The man who is compelled to go without sugar is wondering just what the government at Washington is doing to keep busy these days.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY SALE.

Charles A. Ponsford will observe the week of Saturday, May 22nd to May 29th, as a tenth anniversary sale to commemorate the ten years he has been engaged in business in Northville. Mr. Ponsford purchased the T. J. Perkins stock in April, 1916, and since the opening day of the store under his management his trade has gradually increased. To express his appreciation for the splendid patronage the people have accorded him he will inaugurate this day an announcement of which appears in today's Record. "Keep the date" and remind and remind yourself of some of the bargains Mr. Ponsford has in store for this anniversary.

ATTENDED SERVICES AT REDFORD.

To properly observe a centennial the Northville community brought a number of people to Redford Sunday morning, and the order was represented by forty-eight members from Northville, Plymouth Farmington and Redford. Rev. J. J. McWilliams delivered a very interesting and appropriate discourse and special music was rendered under the direction of Mrs. Edgar Kennedy. The service throughout was impressive and inspiring.

Warren of Detroit member of the republican union for Michigan, informing him of his appointment as one of the sergeants-at-arms at the republican national convention to be held in Chicago beginning June 28th. Mr. Neal attended the national convention of 1916 as an alternate delegate from the Sixth congressional district.

STUTTARD-VOIGT.

Miss Blanch Stutard of Pontiac and Harold L. Voigt of Detroit were united in marriage last Thursday, May 13. Mr. Voigt was a former Northville boy, having spent his entire life here up until a year ago when he left and took up a position with the Wilson Creamery Co. which concern he is still with.

OBITUARY—MISS ELLA WILCOX.

On Tuesday, May 18, after several years of failing health, Miss Ella C. Wilcox, member of one of Northville's old and well known families, passed away at the Wilcox residence on Wing and Cadz streets, where she had shared with her brother and his household the old family home for many years.

Miss Wilcox was born in this village April 20, 1851, and with the exception of a few years, her entire life had been passed here, where she was universally esteemed for her many excellencies of character.

In her earlier life, she became a member of the Presbyterian church but in more recent years many temporary absences and later, continued failing health had prevented her from being identified with its activities.

She leaves three brothers, Fred and David of Northville and Jones of North Farmington and six nephews and a niece, the children of the home which has also been hers during all their lives.

Funeral services were held from the residence Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Edw. and V. Bellis and interment took place in Rural Hill cemetery.

STATE'S SCHOOL LAND ENRICHED.

Michigan's principal school land will receive $6,955 ($4,936 in taxes from railroad express, sleeping car and ear loading associations and telephone and telegraph companies as a result of the work of the state board of education in assessing such corporations at $412,500. The taxes paid last year by these classes of companies were $7,300 ($5,000 in increase the year of $1,265,960 all of which will go to the primary school fund to be used in improving the school district on the basis of school population.

A total assessment of such companies was tentatively fixed by the board at $287,255. As a result of hearings beginning April 27, however, the board has changed its figures. The largest change from the tentatively assessed valuation is that of the Michigan State Telephone company, the assessment being lowered from $22,900,000 to $21,000,000. This decrease is a result of a million dollar over the final assessment of last year.

Western Union Telegraph company, which was tentatively assessed at $2,750,000, which was cut to $2,000,000. The year the figure was $2,500,000.

Dear Friends:

In Shabby town they do not care, if things look seedy everywhere. They have no pep, they've lost their grip, they simply sit around and yip, in envious tones of, Glossyville, the shining village on the hill. Oh, Shabbytown is punk and gray, and it shows symptoms of decay, and strangers passing through remark "It surely dates back to the Ark." It always gives my soul a thrill, when I arrive in Glossyville. The town looks like a blooming bride, the people take a hearty pride, in making things look clean and bright, and in their labor take delight. And strangers when they see the town, say "Here we will come and settle down. And raise us nineteen kids apiece, and live and die as slick as grease." The happy burg goes right ahead while Shabbytown is prone and dead.

Well I am well fixed for good things to sell, and they DO sell, because the price is right and the goods are right. And it is my desire to give the people the best for the least profit it can be handled at. You cannot afford to miss these bargains in canned goods, preserves, jellies, and jelly, powders, baking powders, teas, coffees, breakfast foods, flour bargains, and bulk goods of all descriptions. TO HELP MICHIGAN CANNERS

To prevent loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to Michigan fruit growers the Michigan State Fair has an active work in circulation of a preferential shipping rating for canning plants in Michigan. The majority of the 100 canning plants in the state may be expected to operate on their seasonal campaign because of inability to secure coal and sugar.

Paralysis of the railroads by the recent switchmen's strike and the resulting jam of freight and empty at many important junction points are responsible for the predicament of the canners.

With a good fruit year in prospect and an excellent market in sight, one of the busiest seasons in some time faces the canneries. Practically all of the plants have their cans ordered in the east, but can't get shipment. They are not only having difficulty in getting coal shipped them, but also in the purchase. And sugar, while scarce, is almost prohibitive because of the soaring price.

While these canneries can operate without sugar, they can't without cans and fuel. At this time of the year, usually they are stocked with both. The Interstate Commerce Commission will be appealed to by the farm bureau in efforts to get the canneries that will permit cans and coal to be shipped to them on the grounds that the foodstuffs involved represent a public need.

The sugar problem places the canneries in a quandary. If they can without sugar, they are unable to put out their usual brands, and their usual trade is disappointed. If they use sugar at its present price, a considerably higher price for canned goods next winter is certain. For example, two canneries in Berrien county last year paid approximately $50,000 for the sugar needed. This year the same quantity of sugar will cost approximately $125,000.

To Clean Beeswax

When sewing-room beeswax begins to look dingy, it may be melted and remolded. The grime drops off at once when the wax is melted on the surface of boiling water, and gives a clear piece of beeswax when remolded.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

"The other day. A fellow came into our office and said: I wish I had done like Jim Brown did. He bought a lot, Jim did, and he built himself a little home. The first year And he planned it so he could build more onto his home. The next year And he did, and now he's got a fine big home. Worth a lot of money. And he owns it. And it's his. And I Came to town about the same time. Jim did. And I rented a house. Like a lot of other fellows. And the landlord sold the house. And I had to move. And I did. And I rented another house. And the landlord sold that. And I had to move again. And all I got now is some rent receipts. And I've got to move again. Ain't that luck?"

Some one ought to give some attention to the Phoenix hall. A very little work with scrapers would put the road in a safe and passable condition.

Teams will cart away the rubbish if it is placed at the curb where it can be reached without difficulty. Put rubbish in boxes or barrels if you can do so, but do not make the receptacle too heavy.

Let's all get behind this movement and make next week a real clean-up time.

Building For The Future

The Suit a Man Gets at Gorton's Is Built for Future Satisfaction.

There are suits to be had this spring that will LOOK right, but there's a chance some of them won't AUT right a month hence.

A suit from Gorton's is built for the future as well as today. A man will look good when he goes out of Gorton's in his new spring suit. And the same suit will continue to look good to him.

For Gorton's suits are built that way.

Whether a man chooses one of the fine Michaels-Stern suits or any of the other good Gorton suits or topcoats, he can count on the foundations of integrity on which that suit has been built.

A Gorton suit is right in materials and tailoring and style lines from the rock bottom of making to the last day of wearing.

That is why men are increasingly coming to Gorton's for the clothes that help them build their future.

In the style you want, in the tasteful design, in fabrics that will stand up—you're sure to get the right suit if you come to Gorton's.

Suits are priced $35 to $60.

Topcoats are $12 to $40.

Importance of Dependable CLOTHES FOR THE BOY

No member of the family is quite so much in need of clothes that will stand up under vigorous usage as the boy.

Many mothers are bringing the big boys and little boys to this store for spring suits, coats, hats, shirts, stockings, neckwear. For they know that Gorton's dependability is especially to be desired in wearables for the boy.

Boys' Suits at Gorton's are to be had from $12.50 to $20.75.

Fashioned Union Suits Give the Comfort a Man Likes for Spring

Each of these hute and cotton union suits has been knit separately on a machine which knits elasticity into the garment. The knitting is full, so as to allow evenness without binding. It is a comfortable suit and it will fit. The cuffs are knitted to sleeves and legs. In the full length models, in the three-quarter or the sleeveless. The prices are $1.50 to $2.50.

Athletic underwear, knee length suits, in plain cotton may be had at $1.50 and $2.50.

ZION NATIONAL PARK—The newest of the national park system, established last November—is likely to have many visitors this season. Some will go because it is new. Others will go because of the claim of Utah that Zion equals Yosemite in beauty or form and far exceeds it in beauty of color. And still others will go because of the story of a mysterious cliff dwelling that has been discovered—and is believed to be inaccessible and unexplored by the hand of modern man. Moreover, a second canon, with water and magnificent, has been discovered in Zion National park. White men have been in it—or at least have looked down into it from the plateau thousands of feet above—but they are few. And who knows what relics of its mysterious prehistoric people of the great American Southwest these unexplored canyons may contain?

House of Robespierre Forced to Give Way to March of City Improvement.

The Paris correspondent of The London Times writes: "The house where Robespierre is said to have lived, or, at any rate, passed several nights, is to follow the way of many reminders of the past in the general scheme for improving Paris."

This handsomely fronted building is situated in the Cite du Retro, an antiquated backwater between the Madeleine and the Faubourg Saint Honoré which was overlooked when this quarter was brought up to date. The tenants of the prince of Monaco, to whom the district belongs, have been given notice, but the demolition probably will be postponed for a few years, owing to the action of the law which permits the owners of condemned property to continue using it for five years. The capital will soon be very much improved, and all slums will disappear in accordance with the general scheme for flattening out the fortifications and allowing the city to undergo natural expansion. With this object the underground railway lines are to be extended far into the country with two proposed termini: St. Germain and Maisons Laiffite. The Metropolitan railway reaching the latter will great-

In the British empire there are 62,000,000 white and 376,000,000 colored people. The 62,000,000 white represent capital wealth amounting to $500,000,000,000, as against the $5,000,000,000 possessed by the black, brown and yellow people. The degree of illiteracy among the white people, according to Sir Henry Johnson, is probably not more than 12 per cent. among the colored races it is nearly 90 per cent.

Mother was teaching little daughter proper appellations pointing out the church as "God's house."

Passing one Sunday morning as the congregation was leaving the church after services, little daughter exclaimed:

"Oh, look, mother, at all the crowd. God must be having a party."

There are two very attractive afternoon frocks which present rival claims to pre-eminence in the picture above. One is made of the two most favored silk fabrics—tulle and satinette, and each makes the most of this advantageous start. In spite of the disparity in these materials the two frocks have several features in common, both are made with a tunic, both achieve the desired fit by means which fashion encourages, and both show the bodice extended over the waistline, at the front forming a straight-line girdleless effect. These are all important details for which each of these frocks is distinctly enough to answer for itself. More formal dress than the day or afternoon frock is equal

There is a lot of the same stuff there that is to make up the success of the enterprise. It appears that the thought process is not a new one, but is limited to the same old edge. His future is long and hard, and shortened by the same old and established with the same old order in sight at the end and the same old three minutes.

tier-length sleeves having a narrow band of embroidery at the bottom, and, lest we overlook the original arrangement of the bodice at the front, embroidery emphasizes it and draws attention to the narrow collar.
 Four small, silk covered balls, tied from the ends of the unnecessary but pretty, pretense in collars.

In the taffeta frock the "unic" becomes "an" apron "drapery" at the front and back, edged with a flounce of the silk that goes the drooping and widens the hips at the same time. This flounce has three narrow cords along its edge and is set on to the drapery with a cord, insuring it an considerable full. This frock has an underdrapery too with short kimono sleeves and these sleeves are corded near the edge. Below the cords narrow tails made of folds of taffeta carry a narrow ribbon run through them as a finish. The round neck is finished in similar fashion. Sleeves are short as these are infrequent in American frocks, but there is plenty of authority for them in French illustrations.

OF ALL the things that must be accomplished in order to get our sons and daughters equipped for the elegant and joyous celebration of their wedding, the thing that is most commonly overlooked is the bride's wardrobe. The bride's wardrobe may consist of a gown such as usually, and more often, is reserved even to all the other dignitaries on the occasion, the bride's possession of the wedding party to the legitimate bride.

For the bride's wardrobe, leaving the bride's wardrobe as which is a separate affair, there are many things that must be considered and understood.

To begin at the beginning—there are the invitations. At least three weeks and even a month before the date of the ceremony, these are to be left out to lists of names which include those furnished by the groom whose mother or sister assists in making up his list. The bride's parents furnish the invitations and announcements and the latter are to be mailed immediately after the wedding to friends who have not been invited to attend the ceremony. No near relatives or close friends are to be overlooked, even though they live too far away to come conveniently. The wedding invitations and announcements are to be engraved on heavy white paper, in script or shaded Roman letters, and cards to the reception and "at home" cards enclosed. If the wedding is to take place out of town, train cards are also necessary and if a large city cards for admission to the church may be required.

"At home" cards are enclosed with announcements. If a limited number of people are to be asked to the reception, the card to the reception will be left out of invitations to others. If invitations are enclosed in two envelopes, the inner one bearing the name of the recipient without any address and without first names except when they are necessary to distinguish between members of the same family. The outer envelope carries the name and home address of the recipient and the names of the street and state are spelled out. Invitations are sealed in the name of the bride's parents if only one of them is living or in the name of that one, or if the bride is an orphan, in the name of a near relative. A widow without a near relative to announce her marriage issues a joint announcement with the groom. Upon receipt of a wedding invitation and card to the reception, an acknowledgment is made immediately, written in formal style.

Besides furnishing the invitations the parents of the bride assume all other expenses—the decoration of the ing refreshment for the bride and her attendants. If the bride is an orphan will be close relatives and is married herself. The bride decides upon the dressing of her attendants, her maid or matron of honor, maids and flower girls defraying all outlay to her in this matter. On the day before the wedding the bride entertains her attendants at luncheon and presents each with a souvenir. She selects her attendants from among her own and the groom's relatives including in the cortege close friends as well.

A few days before the wedding the wedding procession is rehearsed, with every member of the bridal party present, and with the music to be played at the wedding. On the day of the wedding the bridesmaids and the maid of honor, who assemble at the home of the bride where they receive their bouquets. At the ceremony the maids are to stand in the positions decided upon and leave the church in pairs or each with an usher. The maid of honor will hold the bride's bouquet or prayer book which the bride hands to her at the proper time, returning them at the end of the rite of "plighting troths." At the end of the ceremony the maid of honor may throw back the face veil if one is worn by the bride and see that the train falls gracefully. When the bridesmaids leave the church each in company with an usher then the maid of honor is escorted by the best man. But if the maids go out two by two, the attendant of honor precedes them alone. In this case the best man goes out by the rear door and goes from there to the place of the reception. The motor which brought him and the groom to the ceremony takes the bride and groom away from it.

A good man's duties fall to the lot of the best man, who is chosen by the groom, who also selects the ushers. These usually include several relatives or friends of the bride. Just before the wedding the groom gives a farewell bachelor dinner to his best man and ushers and presents each with a souvenir usually a scarf pin or other bit of jewelry. He also may instruct his best man to see that the ushers have the best man choose for the ushers and best man are delivered at the houses the day before the wedding.

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

Little Wonder People of That Unhappy
Land Are Blinded by Freedom's Light After Four Centuries of Suffering

By FRANK COMEBORD

For nearly four hundred years Russia waited for morning. It was a terrible night. Brutal dreams tortured her. She writhed in despair. Time moved slowly. The clock ticked agonies. The air was thick with screams. Motherhood bore slaves. The parade was a coffin. Feast days were celebrated by massacres. Czars from Ivan the Terrible, 1544, to Nicholas, the last of the Romanoffs, executed in 1918, used the bodies and souls of human beings as manure to fertilize the soil to which the rank weed of imperialism grew. History calls them emperors, truth labels them brutes, torturers, murderers. They bore the brand of Cain.

It was a hopeless day, a hopeless night, for Russia, which began with the curses of Ivan and ended with the execution of Nicholas. During this night of three hundred and seventy years they marched the treadmill. The world heard the endless tramp of feet. In the dark, great bodies swayed with weakness.—Heavy shoulders were bent forward. Strong legs marked time on the treadmill steps. They kept time to the lash of the whip. It laid bare their backs the backs of young and old, of women and children as well as men. Sweat formed into red froth as it mingled with their blood. They grew blind in the damped darkness. They stumbled and faltered, only to be called back to the foreboding and dangers of the tramp to the lash and the halibone. Their knees rose and fell—they marched, but never forward. It was left, right, left, right; tramp, tramp, and always on the treadmill steps in the hopeless darkness. They mumbled prayers but God would not hear, the curses of their masters drowned, and their pain became so dark in the treadmill that even God could not see, and so God forgave Russia. A forgotten, abandoned, despised people, they kept their great weary backs to the red and the grave, offered red rest— and the wick kind. The only thing they wanted was their peace. They lived in a community of suffering, a socialism of misery.

The revolution of 1917 battered upon the door of the trade-mill. Seized with wild joy, they madly rushed to find the light. When day put out its open eye the light and sun were bowed and low. In the fury of new delight they rushed on. It isn't strange if it be pathetic, that eyes blind to ages of darkness blinked in the light. It isn't surprising that they tried to reach the center of the sun. Suffering in the light is different from suffering in the black the Russians knew.

When their eyes became accustomed to the light they looked around them to see where they were—to learn what had been happening in the strange, painful world.

Tremendous Task Before Them.
They had a task before them, the building of a free man's house, a house in the light, a house without a dark corner. They knew little about freedom, except that they wanted it with all their hearts. Their experience had been with slavery. They knew "little about" the practical work of building a house in which freedom might live pure and secure.

They saw civilization with the eyes of a surgeon. They gasped when they saw that its body was covered with malignant sores. It was an ugly, festering, running, growing sore! They earned its name. It was written in the loudness of chronicles—it was the accusable, horrible leprosy of the world. It was cancer—POVERTY. They were told that it was the cause of the nasty thing religion labeled sin. That poverty had transformed Christ's images—struck in clay into hunch-backed souls, that the sickening matter running from sores caused the red blotches on the world's body known as ree-light districts; that other effects were the swollen blackish blue boils the tenements and slums. They huddled. Even the darkness of the breadmill had not produced worse

They learned about poverty. They read its autobiography. "In it they read how it had robbed children of their childhood, erased faith from the minds of men, mobilized women in dreadful traffic. They learned that such of the thing called crime was everyone's work, that normality and morality are matters of education, that to be good requires knowledge of right and wrong. They read that gentlemen called poverty THE PROBLEM. Returners called it a curse and became unpopular because of their persistent attacks upon it. In the verdict of a thoughtless world those who fought poverty were called long-haired men and short-haired women. People did not stop to remember that these long-haired men and short-haired women gave of their time and strength to the poor. These who were maligned for following in: the footsteps of the first Lover of the Poor were those who cried out against the tenements, demanding for human beings the sunshine and air "citadelmen" give their sick. These unpopular ones were the same who brought ice to keep milk cool in the hot summer for the children of the slums; these were the crusaders against child labor, the protestants against compelling the women who bear the children of the race to work so many hours each day that exhaustion marred and marked the physical and mental strength of children.

So it was that these redeemed, freed children of Russia learned of the cancer and feared it as much as the thing they had escaped.

None Able to Check Disease:
They beheld old-school politicians acting as doctors to sick civilization. These doctors, mis-called statesmen, were agreed as to the cause of the disease and that the symptoms threatened death. Many prescriptions have been given the patient, but none seem to check the disease. These prescriptions had been various formulas of government, the constitutional monarchy, a democracy, a republic. The giving of these various treatments failed to effect a cure. Civilization continued to suffer. At times pain became unendurable and the doctors gave local anesthetics. These were the laws, included under the general designation "Social Welfare Legislation." They made the patient temporarily more easy. They allayed pain that might otherwise have produced convulsions—Revolution.

And then these Russian people, studying the new world into which they had so recently come, discovered that many of these political doctors were quacks, they were unreliable and dishonest. They were more interested in their own fortunes than the fate of the patient. They imposed upon the people who hired and trusted them. Their time and thought was taken up in holding their jobs, rather than in doing their work. That the schools of political medicine, called political parties, responsible for these doctors, were diploma mills, graft rings. That some of the people suspected these physicians of being interested in keeping the patient sick and were not making an honest effort to cure. It had even been rumored that there are people in the world who make profit out of poverty; that special privilege is the powerful motive of our day.

Turned to Old Therapy.
-Plato had spoken about another remedy way back in the fourth century before Christ. So had Marx. An untried remedy—a theory. Its object was to cure poverty. The Russians, believing that the remedies in common use had failed, turned their thoughts to this old remedy which had never been tried. At least it had not failed; it was in its favor. "It was an experiment, to be sure, but 'Nothing ventured nothing gained.' Many agreed that it could not more completely fail than the prescriptions at present in use."

And with the fall of Imperialism they came into Russia one who had been exiled. For many years he had been a teacher and preacher of the estranged friends. Russia saw in him a savior. He came with a message. He said that communism would keep them free, make them happy. They listened, they believed. They were as little children, so great was their faith. To them a promise was a truth fulfilled, the word a covenant; and the promise was that peasants would have their own land, that working men would be their own bosses. It was the word they had waited for, the realization of the dreams they had dreamed in the dark treadmill. The Prophet had come. The new day awaited them. They rejoiced and cried, "Long live the new Messiah!" No one sacrilegiously questioned the preceptibility of the dream. Every one forgot the common, controlling instinct of man—selfishness. Maybe in the intense general selfishness individual selfishness could not be seen.

The man was Lenin—the message
Communism.

Food Smuggling in Germany.
Blight trade in food, with its attendant evils of smuggling and usury, is on the increase throughout Germany, according to newspaper accounts. The rationing system has never been abandoned even in the occupied areas of the Rhineland, and some of the newspapers contend that the average individual can not subsist on the amount of food issued. The authorities are making every effort to check the illegal traffic in foods of all kinds, and the courts are crowded day after Smuggling of potatoes is being carried on this winter in all parts of Germany on a scale greater than in war time. Germany produced an excellent potato crop this year, and the authorities are trying to save it from falling into the hands of the speculators.

Industrial Italy Awakening

One great stride toward freeing industrial-Italy from its dependence upon its supplies of iron ore and steel is announced. This consists in the acquisition of the rights of a big Austrian mining company hitherto known as the Alpine Montan Gesellschaft. These rights comprise control of one of the largest steel-producing districts in Europe. From its foundries at Erzberg in Styria alone the annual pre-war output exceeded 1,000,000 tons of best quality steel. Experts estimate that the mine there can be worked advantageously for at least 200 years to

Saturday, May 22nd, to Saturday, May 29th

IN April, nineteen hundred ten, we took over the T. J. Perkins Co. Dry Goods Store, which had been operating in Northville for then about twelve years, as a first class and up-to-date establishment. We have never deviated from our original and continuous policy of offering to the public at all times, only the very best merchandise obtainable, and at the lowest possible retail price.

A very satisfactory business has been built up, slowly and solidly along these lines until today the buying public has come to look upon our store as a trading place where dependable merchandise can be procured and where service to the customers is a big consideration. During our forty seasons of business in Northville we have learned quite well the tastes and wants of our customers and are now at the beginning of our forty-first season of selling, in a position to handle every dollar's worth of business the buyers of this vicinity may choose to leave with us.

It is a very gratifying incident that whenever we advertise a sale or mention a special price on any line to get immediate response from the trade. It conveys to us the assurance that our customers believe that Ponsford's bargains are genuine.

To commemorate our ten years in business we have taken some time in collecting Ten Special Bargains, one for each year of business, and while our stock just permeates with high-class merchandise and at the very lowest selling price, times and conditions considered, the Ten Specials as here mentioned, are worthy of your most serious consideration.
