DEATH CLAIMED HER.

Mrs. Emma Richardson, mentioned whose serious illness was made last week, passed peacefully away Saturday night about nine o'clock, never having fully regained consciousness since she was stricken Monday night. Everything was done for her than medical skill and loving friends and neighbors could do, but all efforts to revive her proved futile and the end came peacefully, both of Mrs. Richardson's children being present at her bedside.

Mrs. Richardson was born at Novi, August 9th, where she grew to womanhood; her maiden name being Emma Bogart and she was one of a large family. She was married to C. R. Richardson, who preceded her to the great beyond a little over eleven years. The union was blessed with two children, both of whom survive—Messdames Sylvia Nordman and Pearl Wigle. She is also survived by three grandchildren, Helen and Winifred Nordman and Mrs. Foster Hale three sisters and three brothers.

The deceased was an honored member of Orient Chapter, O. E. S., and of the local Relief Corps and by her kind and sunny disposition enjoyed the close friendship of all who came within the circle of her acquaintance. By her passing a devoted mother and a generous and obliging neighbor has passed through the valley of the shadows to hold communion with those who have obeyed the final summons.

Funeral services were held at her late home on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. E. V. Belles officiating. Burial took place in Rural Hill cemetery.

J. B. PALMER DIES.

Residents of this village were shocked to hear of the death of James B. Palmer at his home on Saturday morning, July 24th death being caused by a complication of diseases resulting from an attack of influenza suffered in the spring.

James B. Palmer, youngest son of L. M. and Sarah Palmer, was born Sept. 2, 1862, on a farm five miles west of Northville, and moved to this village in April, 1882, where he has since resided. In 1892 he married Miss Caddie Vogt of Trenton, and this union was blessed with three children Mrs. Hazel Janner of Wayne, Walter R. of Detroit and Lee M., who resides at home. The deceased is also survived by his wife and one sister, Mrs. Will Tinham.

Funeral services were held from his late residence on Plymouth Avenue, Monday afternoon, Rev. E. V. Belles of the Presbyterian church officiating. Burial was in Rural Hill cemetery.

Mr. Palmer was a member of the K. O. P. M. and a happy and jovial nature, which won him many friends. The bereaved family have the sympathy of this community.

WILL ASK HIGHER TELEPHONE RATES.

The Michigan State Telephone company is preparing to ask the public utilities commission for increased telephone rates in the 154 municipalities outside Detroit where it has exchanges according to information received by members of the commission from Frank Kuhr, president of the company.

No formal petition has yet been filed, but the company has presented memoranda to the commission to show that the net income from the exchanges outside Detroit is not sufficient to maintain a depreciation fund. No money is available for payment of interest on bonds or dividends on stock, Mr. Kuhr declares.

The net annual deficiency resulting from operation under present rates is one million three hundred eleven thousand dollars, according to the figures presented by the company. To make this up subscribers would have to pay a general increase of 23%.

CHAUTAUQUA ATTRACTING GOOD CROWDS.

The children's regatta will be given Saturday afternoon and a very attractive feature of the week.

Northville's Chautauqua opened Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance and the first program was enthusiastically received by a good-sized audience. E. A. Sigler is the superintendent in charge and he is a very agreeable gentleman. Miss Beulah Margolis is the junior superintendent and is the genuine favorite of all the Northville boys and girls this week.

There are still three full days of the Chautauqua—six high-class entertainments—and those who have not purchased season tickets are urged to do so.

Any one desiring an announcement in the Northville Fair premium book should bring their copy to this office as soon as possible.

TELEPHONE OFFICE A BUSY PLACE.

In company with a few gentlemen a representative of The Record made a visit of inspection of the offices of the Michigan State Telephone Company in this village last Thursday forenoon and we were very kindly shown through all the various departments by Manager A. A. Hall. In a very interesting manner he explained all the intricate workings of the system and told us a whole lot of things that have always aroused our curiosity.

In most business concerns no one "looks" for trouble, but it seems that in the telephone business they are constantly on the look out for something out of the ordinary to "turn up." In fact the matter of hunting trouble is regarded of so much importance in the plan of telephone construction that all plants are especially equipped with devices which help the line-men in locating the numerous little annoyances which sometimes interfere with the service.

Through a maze of wires and switches, tubes and cables, out past lightning arresters and through meters and testing devices, go and come the messages received and sent over the local lines. Every piece of wire, insulation, glass, tape, cord and countless other accessories seem to have their particular part to play in giving service to the patrons of the exchange and to keep all these things in proper condition to make the service prompt and efficient is the one great care and thought of all connected with the local exchange—from the manager to the last fellow whose name has been added to the pay roll, and who boasts that he "is now working for the telephone company."

The time of our visit was about 10:20 and as we stood by the switch-board and saw the signals coming and going and the "plugs" being placed in rapid succession about the board by the faithful operators, we discovered tickets for eleven long distance calls to Detroit, and then we realized why it was that it frequently takes a long time to reach a Detroit business house with whom we desire to transact business.

The calls for local business were all coming in rapidly and frequently as we heard the operator say "line is busy," we could in imagination hear some one declare, "I wonder why I cannot get my party." In fact as we watched the operator at work we concluded that if the patrons of the exchange would take a half hour and visit the office during the busy periods of the day, they would have more patience and would realize that they were not only ones who were using the line.

Manager Hall and his obliging force of helpers are striving to do their best to maintain the service to a high degree of efficiency and they merit the cooperation of all their patrons of the exchange.

HIT IT TOE, 3 FORDS IN A ROW.

Tuesday evening a Ford car driven by Lowell Smith turned from Main street on Center street at such a speed that it crossed over quickly into Floyd Northrop's car which was parked by Huff's store. Mrs. Northrop and her mother, Mrs. Welsh were seated in the car and the latter was slightly bruised. The force of the collision caused the Northrop auto to slide over against Ralph Horton's car, and banged up the running board to some extent. Chief of Police Lyke was promptly on the scene, and ordered Smith to appear before Judge Ambler Wednesday morning.

Before Judge Ambler Tuesday morning Mr. Smith pleaded not guilty as to fast or reckless driving. He said he lost control of his car as he turned the corner when he pulled the throttle wide open by accidentally catching the lever with his finger in turning his steering wheel. Judge Ambler adjourned the case for two weeks.

PASTIME CLUB TO HOLD PICNIC AND DANCE.

The Pastime Dancing club of this village has made arrangements to have the exclusive use of the Taylor dancing pavilion at Walled Lake for next Tuesday evening, when its members will enjoy a picnic and dance. Supper will be served on the veranda at six o'clock and dancing will follow. All members are requested to bring whatever they desire to eat and coffee and ice cream will be supplied by the committee in charge of the affair. Members will be permitted to bring their house guests, the same as they did last winter. It is desired to have all members present.

Further information regarding the supper may be obtained by communicating with Mrs. B. G. Perkins. Phone 12-W.

Phippis opened fire from the river and Ironsides's guns replied from the heights with such good aim that the English fleet retired. In the lower town today stands a pretentious little church, Notre-Dame des Victoires which was struck by some of the English cannon balls, and received its name from the victory over Phippis, and for another deliverance in 1711 when a second English fleet under Sir Howard Walker was almost wholly destroyed by a storm in the Gulf of St. Lawrence while on its way to attack Quebec. Wolfe's batteries at Lévis, across the river, also partially destroyed it. In 1759, Notre Dame square, upon which this church faces is the oldest part of Quebec. Here stood Champlain's "Habitation," a house and fort and the first building erected in 1608 when Champlain founded the city. All traces of it have long since disappeared, and even the place where the intrepid soldier governor, was buried is unknown.

Chic Gowns for the Warm Days

The first warm days often find us quite unprepared in the matter of clothes. This is especially true after a cold, late-spring such as the one just passed which offered little incentive to buying thin frocks. So, if we have delayed in our shopping, arrives a prominent fashion correspondent, it means that we confront a real problem—that of getting a suitable warm-weather wardrobe together quickly. The difficulty is so not clothes that will give service for the greatest number of seasons. In the summer we frequently face the unpleasant fact that we have not the right dress for the occasion and nothing is more discomforting than the feeling of being unsuitably dressed.

We are realizing more and more the need of the practical combined with beauty in our clothes. The sensible woman, however, never sacrifices beauty for the purely utilitarian. In the dark geometric crepe frocks we have this compromise. No frills, no "yet again" attempts to simulate the good substance of navy, blue, or green crepe for wear on dry days, or being used to do the "springing" of coolness and light-

There are those who, in their desire to reduce the cost of living, are in the wrong, or glibly but superficially, stress the need for an economy which it is not to be enforced in the first place, guns, boats, cars, but inexpensive cars, trucks made from inexpensive materials and careful decaying which under existing conditions means permanent loss. Additional expenditure with the best of care they will probably get the same after a visit to the lumber.

Real Organic Flowers.

Although we have seen a great deal of stuff in the last year its quality has not yet been diminished. We have it combined with organdy in many different ways, but no longer in one of these two has appeared that is seen in the models made entirely of silk and decked with huge and ornate flowers applied with the assistance of dark thread. These are not cut out from flannel or cotton but are twisted tightly around so that they are big and soft like the perfect stimulating ones I saw with the dark thread in some of the soft white open work in the house. In the form of a bow which extends over the skirt and hangs down the dark blue tulle with white cord bow at the back of the collar also is bound with this fine net sleeves have a tiny ruffled edge or of organdy worked with thin net long long and short

To wear the hit afternoon or as in dress and summer evening dress nothing could be more suitable than the sophisticated, festive robes which have a romantic touch. We have a collection of solid and elegant combinations—the 17-18s themselves are just little straightline affairs which tend to show off the beauty of the needlework. A great deal of care is exercised in the selection of fabrics for such dresses. Wonderful ribbons are chosen.

The embroidered batiste robe is given further elaboration by the introduction of a lovely square mesh lace. A remarkable ribbon is used for the girdle. It is about an-inch wide and of three shades of blue, one running into the other, giving the appearance of three separate ribbons stitched together

Another method of introducing a bright-colored ribbon into an embroidered batiste robe is seen in a frock, having cherry-red satin ribbon with a rough surface starting at the neckline in the form of panels, slipping through medallions at the is life and continuing down rather of the front until they are caught under the beam

Another frock shows ribbon again, this time as the distinctive note. This is interesting as a simple adaptation of the Egyptian style, which many people have been inclined to think of as representing elaboration only. Here a beautiful broadened ribbon still red and silver is used to give the Egyptian effect in the simplest and most practical sort of chiffon frock.

Lace With Batiste or Organdé.
It is interesting to observe another way in which lace and batiste are combined. Brown lace is used in the top cut just like a long smock, reaching to a low hipline. A double piece of each batiste is attached to the bottom of the smock to make a straight skirt. Where the two are joined a garland of hawthorn flowers, tinted with brown is applied. A sash of narrow brown ribbon girdles the waistline.

The same idea might be carried out in lace and organdie. Brown lace with organdie of the same color but slightly lighter in shade is effective, or lace may be dyed any color and used with white organdie. With the wonderful choice of ribbons that we have now a very distinctive effect may be given by the sash.

Still another pleasing use of brown is seen in an evening frock. This is one of the dancing frocks made with a somewhat high neck and cap sleeves, which are beginning to take the place of the extreme décolletage—another instance of the turning away from extravagance toward simpler things. The bodice and tunic of the skirt are composed of brown taffeta and the trimming is only bows of the silk. The ruffled petals have an inch-wide edging of lighter brown tulle. • Beneath the tunic are three tulle-skirts also cut in the form of petals. The first is of a very dark shade of brown crepe with dull orange. There is a narrow foundation skirt of silk, making in all four skirts, one above the other.

Evening Frock With Billowing Skirts.
Black taffeta and black tulle are used in a similar way, the only real difference being in the skirt which consists of four tiers of black tulle petals, so that the "idea" of the four skirts is carried out, but entirely in the net. The bodice is plain almost to the point of severity. It is cut to fit the figure rather snugly and crumple at the waistline. As in the black lace dresses brought out earlier in the season and which still enjoy considerable prestige, a bit of bright color is introduced by velvety scarlet flowers with net. The bodice boasts of no trimming other than a quaint little corsage-bouquet, also bright red.

Only the slender woman may aspire to the Cheruit evening frock, with its billowing skirts composed of irregular loops of pink taffeta. These long draperies, brought out by Cheruit earlier in the season, were looked upon by many as being exceedingly impractical. This, however, has not proved true. They have been eminently successful in evening attire and are

Ribbons Deftly Used in Frocks

RIBBONS have always played a prominent part in the apparel of women, but they were never so important as they are now. Their manufacturers look to the ingenuity of designers of dress accessories of millinery and of innumerable pretty furnishings to extend the demand for their products, and these designers have accomplished more than was expected of them. The beauty of the ribbon itself proves an inspiration and they have long since ceased to be used merely as decoration. In millinery they make entire hats and have for several seasons so that the ribbon has its established place which it will continue to fill.

By way of showing what can be done with it in the hands of artists, several stars in the American filmment of dress creators took a comical ribbons in summer frocks—and in all sorts of frocks for morning, afternoon and evening. The results were in a border and rows on a funny paragon make it a sister to the lovely frock. After the accomplishments of these artists in summer frocks, cutlery makes whatever they fall present for fall already interesting to the fashion reporter.

Late Summer and Its Brides

ALTHOUGH tradition gives June the preference for summer weddings, the orange blossoms set on the dings and October proves to be the bride's next choice, no month is entirely forsaken by them. The maid that decides for late summer has some advantages, and among them is the chance to profit by the experience of June brides when she chooses her wedding gown. There were so many innovations in the gowling of this year's brides, great costumers made excursions away from the traditional all-white and gave us white with sil-

Never were bridesmaids more daintily-clad in fanciful and gay colors than those who ushered in the brides of June. Taffeta, and organdie made a majority of their flowerlike frocks, and they were designed with exhaustless ingenuity. The petal frocks and apron frocks, many frills and lovely embroidery made the achievements of the designers seem to excel all efforts of other Junes. The bride of late summer may follow these precedents ver, white and gold and even wedding veils in pale gold. It is for the bride of tomorrow to say whether she will regard these new ideas with favor or fix her allegiance upon the all-white bridal costume.

Experimenting with the wedding veil brought out some new and ingenious adjustments of it and also the veil of chiffon instead of tulle. Fremet gave to this particular June, a chiffon veil embroidered in silver roses and edged with pearl beads, clinging to the head and revealing the uncovered face through a slit at the front. The bride, shown in the picture has chosen this madonna-like draping of the veil, but clings to traditional orange blossoms in wreaths that encircle her head. Her frock of chiffon is laid in deep rucks below the hips, caught up a little at the sides and embellished with occasional flounces.

The Northville Record.

R. E. BROWN, Publisher.

An Independent Newspaper published every Friday morning at Northville, Michigan, and entered at the Northville post-office as Second-Class matter.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., JULY 30, 1926

FIFTY-ONE YEARS OLD.

With its last issue The Record entered upon its fifty-first year of existence and the present publisher entered upon his second year as a resident of Northville. So far as the editor is individually concerned he is glad to have this splendid community, and judging from the very liberal patronage that has been accorded the paper during the past year there are but few regrets because we came. The past year has been a most trying one for the newspaper and printing industry all over the country, and many a hard working editor has been forced from the field owing to the increasing high cost of everything entering into the business. As for The Record we have been able to "ride the storm" and we expect to "stick to the ship" until things become normal again. But with a year's experience to guide us we shall soon be compelled to increase both our subscription and advertising rates in order to partially meet the increasing costs of operating this business. We could cheapen the paper in many ways, but we do not believe our patrons desire that this should be done and we do not desire to publish a cheap looking newspaper. We never have done so and we have been too long at the business to begin to do so now. So in due time we shall make such advances in prices as we shall consider necessary and trust to the good judgment and fairness of our customers to meet the new conditions without complaint.

No great industry in America today is in such a critical condition as the printing industry in all its branches. All kinds of paper are becoming scarce and the prices asked by manufacturers and jobbers seem outrageously high. Common white print paper is now selling at $320 a ton, when it was sold for $280 to $45 a ton, a few years ago. And this is but one item entering into the newspaper business. Other expenses have increased in proportion and the only way small town newspapers can remain in the field is to increase their prices accordingly. Any other policy will mean financial ruin and suspension of business.

For the patronage we have received during the past year we are truly grateful and shall strive to repay this community during the coming year better than in the past, and with confidence in the future growth and prosperity of Northville and the surrounding country we shall endeavor to do our full share in advancing all the interests of the community.

WHO WILL BE THE NEXT?

Frederick C. Martindale of Detroit is the last Wayne county man to announce himself as a candidate for governor in the republican ticket at the August primaries. This in fact three Wayne county men who expect to bat for honor and it all of them come in the race the vote in the county will be so divided that neither of them will be able to win. Francis B. Leight and Alex. Groshock have already announced their candidacy, and there may be other residents of Wayne county who would like the job.

In view of the splendid vote received by Mr. Leland in the primaries four years ago he is the logical candidate for the republicans of Wayne county to put forward and if he could receive the undivided party support of the county could easily be nominated over any candidate in the field, coming from out in the state. But to have three candidates among Wayne county men contending for the same office is very poor politics. At the present time there are seven candidates for the republican nomination in the field, and there may be more before the entries are all in. If the republicans do not watch out the democrats will name Woodbridge N. Ferriss as their candidate and he will give them a real race in November.

From all indications President Wilson and Candidate Cox are in perfect accord on all the great issues of the approaching campaign, and it is said that Mr. Wilson will take the stump in behalf of the democratic nominee. If Mr. Cox and his friends really desire to win they will do well to keep the President in the confines of the White House or at Wood's Hole, his summer home, and if possible push the "hole" in after him. If he stumps for Mr. Cox the Ohio publisher will be defeated. With all due respect to the late Theodore Roosevelt, had he not taken the stump in behalf of Mr. Hughes four years ago the republican candidate would have received more votes, and would, in all probability, have been elected. Americans do not take kindly to too much advice from certain would-be leaders, who have had their day.

State troopers from Plymouth came to Northville Monday and searched a house, going through everything from cellar to garret, even going so far as to dig up some of the cement in the basement, but they did not find any booze. The occupant of the house was not at home when the troopers called and so they gained entrance to the dwelling by forcing the door. It is also alleged they took a revolver with them—an old keep-sake of the family—that was really of no account as a weapon. It would seem these fellows might make these visits of inspection while people were at home just as well as to force their way into homes that have been left for the day.

The East End Republican club of Detroit will have a picnic at Tashmoo Park August 5th. Senator Townsend, Governor Sleeper and other prominent men will be speakers for the occasion.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

Methodist church service Sunday at 10 a. m. Sunday school at 11:30. No evening service.

Wednesday, August 4th, fourth quarterly conference—last business meeting of the year. A full attendance is desired. Rev. E. J. Warren, district superintendent, will be present. Potluck supper at 6:30. Everybody come.

TOILETS-BEING INSTALLED.

The board of education has awarded a contract to Lyke & Lang for the installation of sanitary toilets in the grade school building. These will be placed on the first and second floors, the basement being too low to permit connection with the sewer running from the high school building. This will be a very great improvement and one that the little children and their teachers will appreciate.

Oil Cracking Shoes.

Have you a pair of shoes that take cracking spells much for a quantity for your comfort and the street? It can have simply put a small quantity of kerosene oil in a shallow dish or pan and stand the shoe in it for a few hours. This treatment will not only effectively prevent the shoe from cracking, but it will also make the shoe last longer.

The "Huns" in History.

Hedekin in his study and Her in the study of the Huns, prior to their European invasion. But for our son, that is the source of information. It is dark concerning them. That source is the history of them. If the Huns be the Huns, whose ravages are recorded in their history, then we have a volume of some of the darkest for centuries before the Christian era.

BRIGHTS SCHOOL REUNION.

These Tires Are a Revelation

The Brunswick is frankly a combination of the best in tire building.

There is one tread that's supreme beyond question. And that is now on Brunswicks.

There is one side-wall construction, which, by every test, holds the summit place for endurance. And that one was adopted for Brunswicks.

Fabrics differ—up to 30 per cent—in their strength tests. On Brunswicks the maximum long-fiber is the standard.

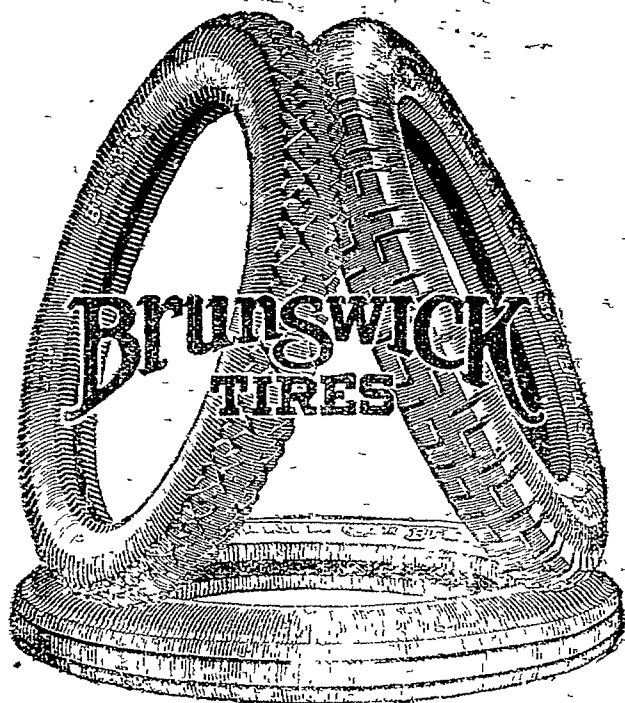

There are certain additions, each one expensive, which add vastly to tire mileage. The Brunswick embodies all these extras.

There are no patents, no secret formulas to prevent any maker from building the best. It is simply a question of knowledge and skill—cost plus care.

Brunswick standards are known the world over. The very name certifies an extraordinary tire. Yet Brunswicks cost no more than like-type tires.

Buy ONE Brunswick. It will prove that a better tire cannot be bought, regardless of price.

LIEUT. FAGAN'S BRIDE IS HEROINE OF WAR

A Heroine of the World War is Mrs. John Fagan, bride of one of the officers of the Michigan State Police. She was Miss Delphine Cordoreau and served as nurse all through the war, receiving a medal for bravery at the hands of Field Marshal Joffre in connection with her devotion to the wounded in field hospital and trench work. She was exposed to artillery and rifle fire a number of times, but escaped unharmed. Lieut. Fagan met his bride while she was nursing in an army hospital and on his return to this country in September, 1919, it was agreed that she should later follow him. Miss Cordoreau reached New York May 27, 1920, and was married to Lieut. Fagan in St. Mary's church the same day.

EVEN A PATIENT MAN MUST BALK SOMETIME

J. C. Harvey, who lives near Flint, is an even-tempered, mild-mannered man. Fortunately and unfortunately, his property extends along the road for a number of rods and his orchards always look inviting and his shade trees are very attractive in the summer time. But Mr. Harvey is in trouble. And like lots of other folks, when he is in trouble he tells the State Police about it. He says that people insist upon making an amusement park out of his barnyard; they run his cattle, ride his horses, steal his fruit and tear up his gardens. Last summer the marauders climbed over the fence and rode a valuable horse bareback around the farm. The animal was left in such a condition that Mr. Harvey was forced to sell it at a great loss. A few days ago some boys chased his Holstein cow all over the lot and staged a miniature bull fight to the delight of several of the fair sex, who thought it best not to venture over the wire fence Mr. Harvey has asked that a State Police Trooper be permitted to spend Sunday afternoon with him in the very near future in an effort to prevent further depredations. He has been assured of all the assistance and co-operation necessary.

FARMERS ASK FOR HELP AGAINST THIEVING GANGS

Farmers in the vicinity of Union Pier are petitioning the State Police for assistance in their effort to protect their fruit trees during the summer. A letter has just been received at the State Police headquarters asking for a patrol in this region because of the fact that many persons are in the habit of stealing fruit each year and carrying it for winter use. The letter is, in part, as follows:

"I am writing to ask if it will be possible for you to give us one or more members of your troops in this section of Berrien County this summer."

"We have, for many years had our orchards and berry patches raided by a lot of summer rascals who come here and expect to cut their expenses to a minimum while resorting by stealing fruit and carrying it for winter use."

"Last year we had Corp Moon of your force and he did excellent work while here. He was a thorough gentleman, attended to his business well, and appeared to me to be very efficient and to use good judgment in arrest matters."

HEAD OF STATE POLICE WILL REMEMBER JUNE 16

It is a strange coincidence that Major Robert B. Marsh assumed command of the Michigan State Police just one year, to a day, after he was shot and seriously wounded by a whisky-runner near Crystal Falls. In June 1919, there was considerable lawlessness along the Wisconsin border of the upper peninsula and Capt. Marsh, then in command of the upper peninsula troop, was on an inspection trip with Lieuts. Vandervoort and High when they encountered two forgers with a carload of whisky. The two men were arrested but one of them drew a revolver and wounded Capt. Marsh in the back of the neck. Lieut. Vandervoort shot and killed the prisoner who had done the shooting and also wounded the other whisky-runner who was attempting to escape.

THESE STATE TROOPERS WERE SURELY ECONOMICAL

If the example set by four members of the detachment of the Michigan State Police in Kent County is followed generally traveling items in state expenses this year will be very light. After paroling the country roads spending seven days in all visiting Ottawa, Allegan and Kent counties, these four troopers turned in an expense account of only $33, including maintenance for their horses, upon returning to their post after completing their assignment.

The troopers were E. J. Marsden and Annie Taylor, working as one team, and Frank Stevenson and Max Truman working as the other team. The Marsden-Taylor duo spent $17 and the Stevenson-Truman pair $16.

Fire which damaged the A. & P. store and Schroeder's meat market Thursday evening, caused a loss of $1,000. The blaze started at 11:00 o'clock and got quite a start before being noticed. Sparks from a bonfire started in the afternoon were the indirect cause of the fire.

Secret of Leadership.

The secret of the world's leadership is right in our keeping. To understand men we look at ourselves. To know who is without, we must study what is within. To lead others we must lead ourselves. Our power will soon grow as will our influence. Exchange.

PLACE YOUR ORDER NOW

Make sure of getting the Fordson on your farm quickly so that you may become thoroughly familiar with its operation and be able to use it to the best advantage right at the beginning of your Fall work.

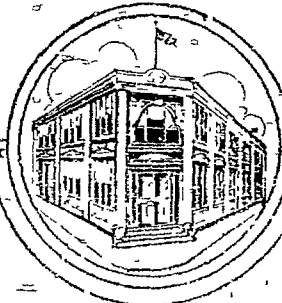

Being small, light and economical the Fordson Tractor is adapted for use on small farms, as well as the largest. It will pull all farm implements and do the work generally done by horses on the farm. In addition, by its belt pulley, the tractor will drive farm machinery such as thrasher, ensilage cutter, saw mill, etc., making the Fordson a truly "universal" tractor.

Shows interest in hospital plan.

That the new tuberculosis sanatorium idea launched at the recent meeting of representatives from St. Clair, Macomb, Lapeer and Oakland counties, is meeting with an enthusiastic reception is the statement of committee members who are working obtaining prospective sites for such an institution. The project has every chance of success, it is declared. If brought to a successful conclusion, this will be the first sanatorium built under the joint county sanatorium law passed by the legislature in 1917 and amended in 1919.

The project started with St. Clair, Macomb and Oakland counties and later Lapeer county joined in the project.

taxed according to population, thus making Oakland county the largest stockholder. For that reason it is generally believed that Oakland county should be selected as the site for the hospital.

Early in August a meeting will be held of representatives of the four counties for the purpose of joining forces for the erection of a joint county tuberculosis sanatorium. Preliminary meetings have been held in the different counties and representatives chosen to attend the joint-county gathering held recently in Mt. Clemens. At that time a committee was named to look up possible sites.

COLLEGE LATCHSTRING OUT FOR FARM PEOPLE

Saturday, August 7, is to be Farmers' Day at the Michigan Agricultural college, and preparations for the entertainment of a great crowd of rural visitors are going forward at East Lansing. Business and pleasure will be mixed in equal proportion, and every effort is being made by the college authorities to make the day the biggest summer meeting of its kind in the history of Michigan agriculture.

Problems of vital and timely interest to farmers will be taken up throughout the day. During the inspection of the college plant in the morning, and the general meeting in the afternoon, questions of practical and immediate value will be emphasized. Such matters as the clover seed situation in the state, the use of lime, the Hessian Fly, the Michigan Soil Survey, fall planting and fertilizer requirements, and many other things of like nature will be discussed.

Speakers of both local and national reputation are being lined up. L. Whitney Watkins, of Manchester, will preside at the afternoon meeting which is to be held on the college campus, while two or three of the leading agricultural authorities of the county will be on the program.

Rest rooms and headquarters for women will be established in the Women's building, where matters of interest to farm women will be handled. The college gymnasium is to be thrown open to the children. Games will be handled under the direction of the department of athletics, and physical training, while the big pool will be open during the day—certain hours for boys and others for girls.

Information and exhibit booths under the trees on the campus, picnic facilities for the basket lunch at noon and other special entertainment features are being arranged to add to the comfort and pleasure of the visitors.

If there are any farmers in this section who have never spent a day or a week at the college, here is a splendid opportunity, and one that ought to be taken advantage of by farmers and fruit growers generally. A day or two more will prove of very great interest and value.

Talks on Russia—4th Day

"Russia's Red Riddle"—Dr. Cläre Subject

DR. JOSEPH CLÄRE.

It is a fortunate turn of affairs which makes Dr. Joseph Cläre available for lectures at this particular time. For six years Dr. Cläre was in Petrograd, Russia, and had the best possible opportunity to observe the progress of events in that country. He is one of the few men who are qualified to speak on the great problems growing out of the upheaval and turmoil there, and Community Chautauquas are bringing him from Europe to speak to Community audiences—to you! Dr. Cläre was on the streets of Petrograd in the very heart of the Revolution and his story, "Russia's Red Riddle," is a very thrilling one. He tells of his dealings with the well known Russian leader, Lenin, with Bolshevik prisons, with Cossacks; in fact there is not an angle of the colossal Russian problem on which Dr. Cläre is unable to enlighten us.

This interesting speaker appears here on the fourth day of our Community Chautauqua and his lecture, "Russia's Red Riddle," is bound to thrill and hold the attention of every union at Orion, Wednesday. More than 40 were present.

The Girl at Central

Not long ago, near Flint, Michigan, in a fire that threatened a huge loss of life and property, a brave telephone operator remained at her post sending out calls for help until her switchboard was put out of commission and her clothing enveloped in flames.

This is only one of hundreds of cases that are on record where operators, on their own initiative saved entire communities from burning, floods or other danger by calling all available help from surrounding districts.

The Michigan State Telephone Company is naturally very proud of its operators—proud of their heroism and unflinching courage, but it is prouder still of this rare sense of duty that has always prompted the operators to stick to their posts in the face of danger, epidemics and storms.

It is this kind of devotion to service that has given telephone operators, not only a conspicuous place in the hall of fame, but a prominent place, too, in the hearts of the community they serve.

For your telephone operator, highly trained, as she must be, proficient to a wonderful degree in her work and unflinching in her traditional devotion to her service, is, after all, just an ordinary girl.

She is the kind of bright, active, intelligent girl that you, if you knew her, would go out of your way to show every courtesy.

In most cases she is a home girl and in every case, we know, she is the best protected girl in any kind of work in the city.

We want to tell you many things about your telephone operator—of the motherly care that is taken of her during working hours, of the care that is taken of her health in her work. We want everyone to know why a telephone girl finds her work so inspirational, personal and serviceful—of her opportunities and her happiness in her work that go so far to make your telephone service better.

Now, we are introducing your telephone girl to you, because we know that in this closer acquaintanceship you will find much that is helpful in your relations with the most personal service you command—your telephone.

It's The Little Things That Count

In Garage work it is the little things that really count—the proper adjustment, and the proper tuning up of your motor, together with countless other little details, give you service and satisfaction. We strive to give special attention to the little details and to permit no car to leave here until it is "fit" for the road. Upon this basis of satisfactory service we solicit your patronage and we assure you prompt attention. We permit no long, unnecessary delays because we realize that motorists do not want to wait about a garage, but want to be up and doing.

Bring your car troubles here and we will send you away a satisfied customer.

TO MEET AT SAGINAW.

The call for the Republican State convention to meet in Saginaw, September 23, was issued Saturday by D. E. Alvard, secretary of the state central committee. The county convention is called to meet Tuesday, September 24, and the district caucuses at Saginaw 9:30 a. m., the day of the state convention.

The convention is especially interesting in that it has more nominations to make than any previous fall convention.

since the state primary law became effective. Besides the usual nominations for state offices, there are two nominations for places on the supreme court bench to fill, unexpired terms to which the governor has made temporary appointments.

LABOR LACK CUTS CROPS IN OAKLAND.

Idle land in Oakland county will cut the total yield to about 70 per cent of normal, according to County Agent C. B. Cook, who has just completed a survey of the county.

The fruit crop, he says, will be moderate, with apples leading in importance. The apple outlook is said to be good in orchards that have been tended properly, but lack of help this spring has been a deterring factor in that respect.

Although the wheat crop of the state is said to be about 20 per cent below normal, that in Oakland county will fall 30 per cent, says Cook, due to dry hot weather earlier in the season. Oats planted earlier also suffered from drought, but later plantings are in excellent condition and both oats and corn are expected to be a heavy yield. The difficulty is all in getting labor, says Cook. "Many acres are idle on that score. Orchards, particularly peaches, did not get the care they needed, and the yield reflects it. If the state crop report is not oversanguine, Oakland will fall behind the rest of the state on the 30 per cent normal estimate."

Snails as Barometers.
Snails make good barometers. When the snail crawls in the open the weather will be fair, but when the snail takes to cover, under a twig or a clump of grass rain will come.

MAKING GREAT PLANS FOR STATE FAIR.

An announcement has just been made by G. W. Dickinson, secretary-manager, that the Michigan state fair this year will introduce a new big feature for the stimulation of food production in the state. Corps of farm experts from Michigan Agricultural college and from the United States department of agriculture will give a joint exhibit at the fair, September 3-12. Experts with international reputation will seek to show the farmers of Michigan how to obtain maximum crops with the minimum of human labor.

Interest in food production here to date has been stimulated at the fair through competition among the farmers of the state. Good results were obtained, according to Mr. Dickinson, but the active head of the state's big exposition believes greater results will be given this year.

This year's fair will be the seventy-first annual exposition. It has grown steadily in size and attendance figures have leaped upward each year. The fair is the property of the people of the state and all revenue over the actual cost of goes back into the property each year to make it a greater force for education and a larger entertainment for the people. More than 1,000 persons are expected to visit the fair grounds at Detroit during the 10 days and nights of this year's exposition.

One of the most extraordinary recent discoveries in regard to plants is that they are "conscious" of wireless messages, says the Radio Amateur News. Experts who have experimented in the matter declare that plants receive wireless messages, and that the response can be detected by the newer electrical instruments. The latter are so sensitive that they can detect and register the minutest internal movements in plants.

When the train came in back in 1910

TEN years ago you might have seen one or two automobiles waiting outside the station, when the weather was pleasant.

Today the square is crowded with them. And most of the cars you generally see there are moderate-price cars.

Anybody who tells you that owners of moderate-price cars are not interested in the quality of their tires has never met very many of them.

We come in contact with the small car owner every day and we have found that he is just as much interested as the big car owner.

There is one tire, at least, that makes no distinction between small cars and large cars so far as quality is concerned—the U. S. Tire.

Every U. S. Tire is just like every other in quality—the best its builders know how to build.

Whatever the size of your car, the service you get out of U. S. Tires is the same. It isn't the car, but the man who owns the car, that sets the standard to which U. S. tires are made.

We feel the same way about it. That's why we represent U. S. Tires in this community.

Northville Newslets.

W. E. Ambler is enjoying a motor trip through the east.

A Bible conference is being held at Lake Orion this week.

The J. B. Watts residence on Dunlap street has been stuccoed.

Copies of the premium list of the Michigan State Fair may be obtained at this office.

The Oddfellows' association of Oakland county will hold a picnic at Walled Lake on Saturday.

Sunday was the coldest day of the summer and fires were kindled in numerous homes about town.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Richardson and children expect to leave in a day or so for Walled Lake, having rented a cottage there for the month of August.

The Northville Fair has received enquiry from as far away as Iowa Falls, Ia., for premium lists and entrance blanks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitzgerald and children of Monroe, motored to Northville Thursday. The family were former residents of this village.

This is Chautauqua week. There will be no band concert Saturday but there will be a fine program rendered by the Swiss entertainers at the Chautauqua tent.

Owing to the Chautauqua, the Library will only be open on Saturday from four to five in the afternoon, and six thirty to eight in the evening. All patrons are requested to keep this in mind.

The Detroit Sunday News contained a full page of engraving showing the activities at Camp Forest Hill, west of Northville, where a merry company of Detroit children are enjoying camp life.

Ralph L. Richardson has taken a lease on the building on North Center street, occupied by the Parmelee Novelty store, and when some alterations are made will open a Dodge motor car sales room.

Northville's Community Chautauqua is now in full swing and there are still three days of splendid entertainment to be given—To-day, Saturday and Sunday. If you have not already purchased a season ticket it will pay you to do so for the remaining numbers, six in all.

The Redford Granite Works, located just across Grand River avenue from Grand Lawn cemetery, have an announcement in The Record today. Parties in this section ordering monuments, markers or cemetery work of any kind will do well to communicate with this reliable firm.

The attendance at the school play ground was large last Friday, and it is the desire of those having the affair in charge to have all the boys and girls of the community take part. Children living in the country are bringing their dinners and others are invited to do so.

If you have an out of town friend visiting you, or you are visiting out-of-town yourself, or know of anyone who is, see that The Record is notified. Even such an item is of interest to some of our readers. We endeavor to make this feature of the paper please oblige us just this once.

In our 25 years ago items last week it was stated that the receipts of the local postoffice for the past year were $3,937.54. Just to show the business of the office is still on the increase and going strong Postmaster Timman gave us the figures representing the receipts for the year ending July 1st. They were $6,140.88.

At the Yerkes' family reunion held at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. C. C. Yerkes on July 4th, there were sixty six guests present, among them being Mrs. Gertrude Yerkes, aged 96 and a little boy aged seven months. The day was delightfully spent with visiting and a sumptuous dinner was served at noon.

The Detroit Automobile club has selected a new auto route from the city by the lake to Ann Arbor and the new motorway has been marked with the colors of the U. of M. painted on telephone poles along the way. The new route passing through Redford and Northville and on to Salem has been a popular route for some time by those who "know the way."

Motorcycle officer Clarence Squibb and Mrs. Squibb, who were recently married, were tendered a miscellaneous shower last Wednesday evening, at the summer home of Dr. and Mrs. August Holcomb at Walled Lake. A six o'clock dinner was served followed by a social evening and dancing. The newlyweds were presented with a number of gifts.—Piquette Press.

DEATH OF MRS. S. E. DOLPH.
After many years of suffering, during which time she was confined to her bed, Mrs. Samuel Dolph passed away at her home Monday morning, July 26th, at 12:30 o'clock. She had been cared for by her niece, Mrs. Roy VanSickle since the death of her husband, S. E. Dolph two years ago. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, Rev. H. J. B. Marsh officiating. Burial was in Rural Hill cemetery.

H. A. Marshall of the Marshall Garage is adding a lot of new equipment for the proper charging of batteries.

E. H. Lapham and daughter, Elizabeth, left Thursday for Elkhart, Ind., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Lapham. Mr. Lapham returns to Northville the first of next week, and Miss Elizabeth will stay for a few days longer and then go to Blissfield, for a week's visit with relatives before returning home.

The near-collision of a Ford truck and one of the big trucks of the Arctic Ice Cream Co. at the corner of Dunlap and Horton streets yesterday noon calls the attention in a most forceful manner to the dangerous condition of that portion of our village streets. But for a telephone pole the handsome big truck would have rolled down the steep embankment.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

For Chautauqua—Swiss Entertainers, Coming Fourth Day.

RUDELPH'S SWISS ENTERTAINERS

Switzerland—the land of the Alps—has sent us this novelty company Rudolph's Swiss Entertainers. They come from that picturesque country, dressed in their quaint costumes, rendering in English, the beautiful yodling and warbling songs. In addition, they will sing popular songs which have been added to their repertoire since touring this country and Europe. Their program is replete with variety and novelty, vocally and instrumentally, and will be decidedly interesting and educational. It will not be amiss to mention the fact that good wholesome humor is woven into their entertainment.

On the fourth afternoon of our Chautauqua Rudolph's Swiss Entertainers will appear in a full concert, in the evening they will prelude the big lecture by Dr. Joseph Clare.

Early Rising

A Chicago advertising man drove through to the advertising convention in Indianapolis. A few miles outside of Indianapolis he had bad luck. His car skidded into the ditch and he had to wait till daylight to get someone to pull him out.

At 3:30 a. m. he went to a nearby farmhouse, knocked at the door and the farmer's wife answered the call. The advertising man asked: "Could I get your husband to pull my car out of the ditch?"

"Well, that's too bad," she replied. "You should have got here before breakfast. He took the horses over half an hour ago and is down the road two miles there and plowing by now."

HOT WEATHER

Hits the Stomach Hardest

Chicago, Ill.—Hot weather upsets the strongest stomach and causes serious trouble for the weak ones. So word is now going out to thousands of stomach users that they should, during this hot weather, be on the safe side and take one Eutonic tablet about half an hour before meals, as well as after eating. Do this and keep the excess acids and poisonous gases from forming in stomach and bowels. Eutonic acts quickly; it will help the appetite and take away the hot-weather, feverish, thirsty feeling from mouth and stomach, because it takes up the excess acids, poisons and gases and carries them out of the body and of course, when the cause of the trouble is removed, there can be no bad feeling. Eutonic is like a bit of candy, and is recommended to all as a safe, sure remedy, chases hot days for stomach and bowels, brings relief from overeating and drinking cold things.—Adv.

The House of Whispers

By WILLIAM JOHNSTON

"I guess so," said Wick. "That's where his room is. He's only been here to the Granddeck a few days. I don't know much about him."

"And that's all you know about it?" said the detective, turning to me again. I hesitated. Should I or should I not tell them of the wall safe that I had seen Mr. Wick closing? There was no way, I could prove it. Undoubtedly Wick would deny having done so. It would be his word against mine. As superintendent this word would undoubtedly carry. I decided it would be best to withhold my information to a more propitious time.

"That's all I know, except what Mr. Wick has told you," I said.

"Very well," said the detective in charge. "You can go now, and you, too, Doctor."

Mr. Wick was escorting the doctor to the door. The detectives had withdrawn to the room where the body lay and were holding a whispered conference. I stepped quickly to the wall safe, and looking over it I was suddenly arrested. The knob it was so recently fastened, I congratulated myself on having said nothing about it. Wick, I felt certain, would deny having shut it, and there was no proof that it had been opened when we had entered.

As I returned to my own apartment upstairs, nearing the top of the short flight of steps between the floors I was astounded to see a female figure sitting across the hall and enervating the Bradford apartment. Though I had opportunity for only a brief glimpse, I recognized her at once. It was Claire Bradford.

The door of my apartment was standing wide open. I remembered that as I had run downstairs a few minutes ago I had neglected to close it after me. From the direction in which she had come, it was plain that Claire Bradford had been paying my other surreptitious visit to my quarters. What could have been her purpose? There must have been some strong impelling motive to make her dare the perilous journey along the window ledge, and now, at the imminent risk of discovery, to pay me a second visit. I began seriously to doubt whether the explanation she had offered to me was the true one. I was beginning to feel that there was more than a possibility that she was again in the clutches of the unscrupulous rascal who had once been her husband.

Greatly puzzled, I made a hasty survey of the apartment, but could find nothing that appeared to have been disturbed. Going back to my own room I hastened to place a handkerchief out of my window as a signal to Barbara. For I knew she would be anxious to know the meaning of the signal we had heard below. In a very few moments I heard the tap of her rubber shoe on my sill and hurried to answer.

"What was it?" she asked in an excited whisper.

"Miss Lutan, an actress who lived on the floor below, has been murdered."

"Who did it?"

"I don't know. Mr. Wick and I went into the apartment together. There was no one there."

"How terrible!" she exclaimed.

"It is indeed," I answered, "but it may help us."

"Who do you mean?"

"With the police in the house making investigations, there'll be no more threats from the blackmailers for a while. They won't dare bother you for the present."

"Do you really think so?" she questioned with a little sigh of relief.

"I'm sure of it."

"Have the police been called in?"

"Yes; the detectives are downstairs now."

"That's good," she said. "With the detectives here, they won't dare molest us, will they?"

"Of course not," I answered. "Is your sister at home?"

"Yes," she answered. "Our guests have just gone. Mother has retired and Claire is in the living room writing a note. They heard nothing, so I did not tell them anything about it."

"That was wise. They'll hear it soon enough. Has your sister been in the apartment all evening?"

"She hasn't been out all day unless she went out just to drop the letter she was writing down the mail chute in the hall. Why do you ask?"

"I was merely wondering if there was any way she could learn of the murder."

"How could she? Isn't that too terrible about Miss Lutan? But I mustn't talk any longer. Good night."

"Wait a moment," I cried. "There are some things I must discuss with you before I meet Gorman. How about meeting me at the Astor at eleven?"

"I can't promise, but I'll try. Good night."

There was nothing further that I could do, and I felt sadly in need of rest. Throwing off my coat and waiting until I had made preparations for bed, the notion took me to once more review the secret passageway. I applied my eye to the panel as I had done before, but this time I could not budge it. I tugged and worked and pounded but it stuck fast in spite of all my efforts. As I was struggling to force it open, there came a sharp ring at the bell of the apartment. As I was in my shirt sleeves I answered it. The two detectives I had seen downstairs stood there.

"What is it?" I asked.

"I arrest you for the murder of Daisy Lutan," said one of them, and with that they sprang forward and pinned my arms.

"Why this is absurd," I laughed in their faces, conscious of my utter innocence of the crime. "I had nothing to do with it."

"That remains to be seen. Put on your coat and come along."

Still holding me fast they went back with me to my bedroom. Clutching me tight they made me put on my coat, and no sooner had I done so than one of them snapped hand cuffs on me.

"Look at this, Jim," said one of them, pointing to a spot on the front of my coat.

"That's blood all right," said the other after inspecting it.

"I got that when I was helping Mr. Wick lift the body to the couch," I protested.

"Tell that to the judge," the detective called him scoffed. "Better look around for the gun, Cullen."

"You'll find no gun here," I cried. "I never owned one."

Nevertheless Cullen began rummaging through the drawers of my dresser. Suddenly he gave a triumphant exclamation and drew something from beneath a pile of shirts in the second drawer.

"Here it is," he announced, holding up a small, automatic revolver.

How had she got possession of the revolver after the murder?

Come what may, I had no intention of telling any one—not even Gorman—of Claire's second visit to my apartment. For Barbara's sake I made up my mind I would keep my lips closed about that incident, even if I had to stay in prison indefinitely. At the police station when the detectives had brought me in, I had quietly but firmly refused to answer any questions, although they had badgered me for nearly two hours before they let me alone.

"Where did you see before you came to the Granddeck?"

"Where did you work?"

"Where is Rufus Gaston?"

"Where do your people live?"

"Why did you kill Daisy Lutan?"

"Where did you get the money you have?"

"Where did you get the goods on you. Why don't you confess?"

There were the sort of questions that were sure to be first by one and then the other. Evidently at first they had had hopes of breaking me down.

I had nothing to say, I had been preparing myself to answer all their questions.

For they gave it up and looked for a cell for the night, leaving me to sleep in the Granddeck. The honor of being a suspected murderer relieved me from the coil with some of the friends of the police. I saw brought past my door.

"Did you have any friends you would like to have notified?" was the last question they asked as they left me.

"I have nothing to say," I repeated once more.

It was this answer this time that they took notice of. Who was there that I could notify of my plight? Barba and I, my two intimates were sure to be on the high seas. The men whom I had known in the office where I had worked, for obvious reasons were not to be called on. I had no idea of the whereabouts of my next of kin beyond the fact that they lived somewhere in Maine.

I had no intention whatever of committing the act of my arrest to a reporter. Indeed, I was hoping that I would not hear of it until after my innocence was established.

I thought of Gorman. I said I was a friend of his counsel, but I remember that I did not know where he was. He had told me he was giving up his position at the hotel. It would be useless to try to find him until morning.

Yet in spite of my apparent friendlessness, although to all appearances there was no one in New York whom I could turn to in this time of trouble, it was a wonderful comfort to feel that I was sure of one staunch friend—Barbara Bradford.

Although we had been separated for a few days, and although hardly a word of love had passed between us, I knew that her feeling for me already was something greater than friendship. I knew that she trusted me, and that she would remain faithful to me in my prison, no matter what temptations were brought against me. I had been madly in love with her from the first time I saw her. What ever happened, I must keep her out of it. I must find some means of warning her to say nothing to any one. I knew that her first impulse as soon as she heard of my arrest would be to come to my rescue, regardless of the fact that in espousing an alibi for me she would be blasting her own reputation. Under no circumstances, even if I was convicted, must she be permitted to speak. No explanation can account for the presence of a young girl alone in a man's room at eleven o'clock at night, even though she and I both knew how utterly undeserving of censure her presence there was and how important had been her motive in coming there.

Mention of Barbara's name in any way in connection with a murder case would be certain to wreck her sister's matrimonial plans. It would mean the ruin of her mother's ambitions and the unmasking of the pious convention of their finances. It would mean that the reproaches of her mother and sister would be heaped on my Barbara's poor head.

I was still unsatisfied in my own mind as to just what part Claire Bradford was playing in the web of mystery about us. She was emotional and flighty, given to doing rash things. I felt that there was a strong possibility that relations with her ex-husband had been in some way re-established. I felt at times that she was being used as a tool by the conspirators in the Granddeck mystery. If Claire was involved in any way, it behooved me to move carefully lest she should be betrayed in my efforts to clear myself.

There was nothing for me to do but to sit tight and take my plight as philosophically as I could until I could get in touch with Gorman. As soon as it was morning, I bribed a jail attendant to bring me a morning newspaper. On the first page I found an account of the murder under glaring headlines and read it with intense interest. My conviction growing with each line that I read that the police case against me was far better backed up than I ever imagined it could be.

Then and there I made up my mind never again to believe anything on purely circumstantial evidence. No one knew better than I how utterly innocent I was of that crime, how up-right my conduct in New York had been, and how honest my motives for all my recent actions had been, yet this is what I read in the newspaper:

BURGlar: MURDERERS WILL KNOWN ACTRESS

Miss Daisy Lutan Mysteriously Shot at her Luxurious Apartment in the Granddeck.

Marks on Floor Where Murderer Had Crouched Her

Police Street John S. Nelson, a Clerk at Work in Whose Rooms They Found a Revolver.

Daisy Lutan, an actress, whose matrimonial affairs recently brought her name before the public, was found last night murdered in her apartment in the Granddeck. She had been instantly killed by a bullet which had passed through the heart and there were marks on her throat where her assailant had fired to choke her. John S. Nelson, a clerk out of work, who had been acting as caretaker for one of the tenants in the building, was arrested.

There was no one in his room when Detectives Cullen and Edwards took him prisoner and they found in his room a revolver in one chamber empty, loaded with a pile of shirts in the drawer.

The apartment Nelson is occupying is directly above that of Miss Lutan. The police theorize that Nelson let himself into the apartment by swinging down from his window and that Miss Lutan, returning unexpectedly, found him crouching in her room.

The crime was covered by James Wick, superintendent of the apartment house, who, as in the elevator when he heard the shot, was followed by a crowd of curious on-lookers to the scene, where he found Nelson at the door of the Granddeck.

Nelson, who had been told that he had been arrested, was taken to the police station and is now being held in the city jail.

Mr. Wick's name was raised by his manager, who told Nelson that he had been told to try to find him until morning.

Yet in spite of my apparent friendlessness, although to all appearances there was no one in New York whom I could turn to in this time of trouble, it was a wonderful comfort to feel that I was sure of one staunch friend—Barbara Bradford.

Although we had been separated for a few days, and although hardly a word of love had passed between us, I knew that her feeling for me already was something greater than friendship. I knew that she trusted me, and that she would remain faithful to me in my prison, no matter what temptations were brought against me. I had been madly in love with her from the first time I saw her. What ever happened, I must keep her out of it. I must find some means of warning her to say nothing to any one. I knew that her first impulse as soon as she heard of my arrest would be to come to my rescue, regardless of the fact that in espousing an alibi for me she would be blasting her own reputation. Under no circumstances, even if I was convicted, must she be permitted to speak. No explanation can account for the presence of a young girl alone in a man's room at eleven o'clock at night, even though she and I both knew how utterly undeserving of censure her presence there was and how important had been her motive in coming there.

Mention of Barbara's name in any way in connection with a murder case would be certain to wreck her sister's matrimonial plans. It would mean the ruin of her mother's ambitions and the unmasking of the pious convention of their finances. It would mean that the reproaches of her mother and sister would be heaped on my Barbara's poor head.

I was still unsatisfied in my own mind as to just what part Claire Bradford was playing in the web of mystery about us. She was emotional and flighty, given to doing rash things. I felt that there was a strong possibility that relations with her ex-husband had been in some way re-established. I felt at times that she was being used as a tool by the conspirators in the Granddeck mystery. If Claire was involved in any way, it behooved me to move carefully lest she should be betrayed in my efforts to clear myself.

There was nothing for me to do but to sit tight and take my plight as philosophically as I could until I could get in touch with Gorman. As soon as it was morning, I bribed a jail attendant to bring me a morning newspaper. On the first page I found an account of the murder under glaring headlines and read it with intense interest. My conviction growing with each line that I read that the police case against me was far better backed up than I ever imagined it could be.

Then and there I made up my mind never again to believe anything on purely circumstantial evidence. No one knew better than I how utterly innocent I was of that crime, how up-right my conduct in New York had been, and how honest my motives for all my recent actions had been, yet this is what I read in the newspaper:

BURGlar: MURDERERS WILL KNOWN ACTRESS

Miss Daisy Lutan Mysteriously Shot at her Luxurious Apartment in the Granddeck.

Marks on Floor Where Murderer Had Crouched Her

Police Street John S. Nelson, a Clerk at Work in Whose Rooms They Found a Revolver.

Daisy Lutan, an actress, whose matrimonial affairs recently brought her name before the public, was found last night murdered in her apartment in the Granddeck. She had been instantly killed by a bullet which had passed through the heart and there were marks on her throat where her assailant had fired to choke her. John S. Nelson, a clerk out of work, who had been acting as caretaker for one of the tenants in the building, was arrested.

There was no one in his room when Detectives Cullen and Edwards took him prisoner and they found in his room a revolver in one chamber empty, loaded with a pile of shirts in the drawer.

The crime was covered by James Wick, superintendent of the apartment house, who, as in the elevator when he heard the shot, was followed by a crowd of curious on-lookers to the scene, where he found Nelson at the door of the Granddeck.

Nelson, who had been told that he had been arrested, was taken to the police station and is now being held in the city jail.

Mr. Wick's name was raised by his manager, who told Nelson that he had been told to try to find him until morning.

Yet in spite of my apparent friendlessness, although to all appearances there was no one in New York whom I could turn to in this time of trouble, it was a wonderful comfort to feel that I was sure of one staunch friend—Barbara Bradford.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent, it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kalmers' Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By mail, five cents, to Dr. Kalmers & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. You may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

Auto Numbers
If you are tired of riding on the pikes with automobile numbers, let the other fellow ride yours. It costs him for every one that carries a pair. Most numbers show at least a pair of New Bedford and a pair of his sorrow—the other side.

The father of the water were that he was to receive a quarter for every number looking a pair and to pay a quarter for every one that had a pair. It was all right to him and he was all right. He had a pair of New Bedford and a pair of his sorrow—the other side.

T.bei's Sacred Mountain.
Inland, 40 days' march from the last British outpost of the Irrawaddy, lies the Mecca of the worshippers of Bud dha, the sacred mountain of eastern Tibet. Toward this shrine of the great Chinese god travel each year thousands of pilgrims, dirty, ill-kempt, ignorant and cheerful, writes P. Kingston Ward, in the Wide World magazine. The season for pilgrimages to the mountain begins in October and ends in February, these months being the best suited for travel in mountainous Tibet.

Sandpaper Label.
A device for protecting people from taking doses from poison bottles by mistake is a sandpaper label. The ordinary label is pasted in a piece of sandpaper large enough to go all around the bottle, so that when any one takes up the bottle in the night, no matter how dazed from sleep he may be, the rough, unfamiliar feel of the sandpaper rouses him and he recognizes at once that the bottle contains poison of some description. The printed label tells the kind of poison in the bottle.
