THE COLTS GIVEN A HEARTY FAREWELL

The Methodist church parlors were the scene of a most delightful gathering Monday evening when upwards of seventy-five people gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. N. I. Colt, and sons, Stuart and Howard. The affair was arranged under the auspices of the C. A. Dolph Bible class and was complete in every detail. The supper, which was planned as a pot-luck spread, became a real banquet when all the good things that were brought were arranged upon the handsomely laden tables, which were made most attractive with numerous bouquets of cut flowers. After all had partaken of the evening meal, C. A. Dolph assumed the duties of toastmaster and announced a most enjoyable impromptu program. He expressed his regrets and the regrets of the whole community in his reference to the moving away from Northville of the Colt family. George Henry spoke for the Bible class, Mrs. F. S. Neal for the Ladies' Aid and Rev. H. J. B. Marsh for the church and society, and all spoke feelingly of the service Mr. and Mrs. Colt had rendered the church and the community during all the years of their residence in Northville. In behalf of the church and its various organizations, F. S. Neal presented Mr. and Mrs. Colt with a chest of handsome silver cutlery. The Colts responded briefly to the many kindly expressions of friendship.

Mr. and Mrs. Colt expect to leave this week for Chicago where Mr. Colt has accepted a lucrative position with a scale company as production superintendent. They have been residents of Northville about fifteen years and if it is true, and it is, that "he who serves best, lives most" then the years of their sojourn here have been most happy and fruitful ones, for they have given themselves freely in public service for the church, for the Masonic bodies and for the whole community, and it will not be an easy matter to find any one to take their places. They have given this splendid service unselfishly and without any thought of remuneration, except that which comes to those who strive to make the community a better place in which to live.

Mr. Colt's co-workers in the Stumpson Scale company plant presented him a handsome gold watch as an expression of their friendship. The best wishes of Northville people will accompany them to their new home.

TO MEET IN BAY CITY.

The sixty-four members of the Northville conference of the Methodist Episcopal church are to be held in Bay City, Sept. 10-12. The conference will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church, 400 Franklin street, Bay City, Mich.

One boy will be sent to Bay City from each Methodist church in the eastern part of Lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula to take part in the older boys' conference. Bishop Theodore S. Henderson will preside and among the prominent speakers are Bishop W. E. McDowell, Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, former president of Northwestern University, and now pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church of Detroit. George B. Dean, secretary of the conference and a member of the Board of Home Missions; the Rev. L. P. W. Lesemann, president of the Chicago Training School; Dr. True Wilson, prohibition and moral worker of Washington, D. C.; Dr. Arlo Ayres Brown and Dr. H. C. Wilson, of the Sunday school board; Dr. George Elliott, formerly pastor of the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of Bay City, now editor of the Methodist Review; Dr. M. S. Rice, pastor of the North Woodward Church, Detroit, and Dr. R. J. Wade, secretary of the conservatism and advancement committee.

FARMINGTON TO HAVE HOME-COMING.

Plans for the Farmington homecoming, to be held on Saturday, September 4, are rapidly nearing completion. Different committees in charge of arrangements have practically finished their plans. A parade with floats and decorated automobiles and the Plymouth band is to be one of the features of the day. Other attractions will be races, water battle, greased pig, base ball games, speeches, singing, out-of-door movies dancing on the pavement and fireworks. Everyone is invited to come and help make the day one long to be remembered.

JONES B. WILCOX DIED TUESDAY MORNING

Jones B. Wilcox died at his home in North Farmington Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be held from his late residence this Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, Rev. C. E. Mieras of the First Presbyterian church of Detroit, officiating. Burial will be in Rural Hill cemetery. Mr. Wilcox was born March 4, 1852 in Northville, and was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox. He was engaged in the shoe business in Northville with his father for over twenty years, later selling out to Charles Sessions.

In 1882 he was married to Julia Downey of Fenton and about 1893 they moved on a farm near North Farmington where they have since resided. Mr. Wilcox had been in failing health for several years but his condition was not considered serious until last Sunday when he grew rapidly worse, passing away Tuesday morning. The surviving relatives are his wife, and two brothers, Fred and David Wilcox, both of Northville.

HARRY GERMAN SHOWED THE FANS.

In its account of a ball game played in Plymouth recently between the Burs of that village and the Detroit Greater team, the Mail had the following to say regarding the splendid pitching work of Harry German: "Harry German demonstrated to the fans last Saturday that he is still able to deliver the goods with the same old accuracy that he did a quarter of a century ago. Hats-off to German." In this game Pitcher German shut out the fast Detroit team and allowed but three hits. Then just to fully test his right arm he pitched at Carleton the next day and helped to defeat his old playmates to the tune of 12 to 0. Mr. German enjoys a ball game just as much as he ever did and it is really quite remarkable how his arm holds up after all these years of ball playing.

FIELD ARTILLERY TO MEET.

Former members of the 32nd Field Artillery are requested to attend the meeting of the 32nd Field Artillery Association to be held Wednesday, September 8th, 7:30 P. M. in the Exchange Rooms of the Builders & Trades Exchange, 400 Franklin street, Bay City, Mich.

At this meeting will be the election of permanent officers of said Association as well as the commemorative of the formation of the regiment during the year of 1917. The matter of organization and by-laws has been previously discussed and will be taken up at this meeting.

A member of said regiment who has served sixty days or more without being discharged by was transferred from or discharged from said regiment is eligible to membership.

HAD TWO GOOD GAMES.

The double header ball game played Saturday afternoon, staged under the direction of the Foresters' team of this village, proved an enjoyable base ball meet. In the first game Northville defeated Wixom to the tune of 10 to 6, and the second game was between Commerce and the Central M. E. church team of Detroit. This team was called for a game with Farmington and the members made a mistake and came to Northville. The Foresters, with their characteristic good fellowship, permitted them to play the game with Commerce, and the country boys defeated the city chaps by a score of six to two.

GAVE CHILDREN AUTO RIDE.

The children of Forest Hill fresh air camp were given an auto ride Tuesday, the very enjoyable affair being arranged under the auspices of the Northville Automobile club. Seventeen machines were required to accommodate the merry company of boys and girls and a delightful ride was taken to Plymouth and return and about Northville. The children with their songs and laughter let the people along the route know they were from Forest Hills camp.

TO GO TO HARTLAND.

Thomas B. Couch has decided to locate at Hartland, having purchased a business block there. He will put in new stock of groceries, meats, feeds and seeds and some ready-to-wear garments. Mr. Couch has many friends in Northville, who will wish him abundant success in his new field. The people of Hartland will find him honorable and straightforward in his business dealings.

'T WAS SAID

The other day a boy went to a provision store and asked for "half a dozen black hen's eggs."

The grocer laughed. "Eggs from a black hen?" he exclaimed. "How can you tell them, my little man?"

"I can," My mother told me how."

"Well, here you are. Let me see can you tell them, my little man?"

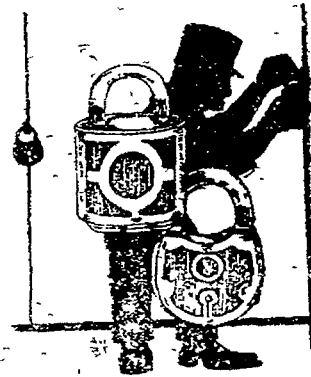

The boy carefully selected the six biggest eggs he could find, put down the money on the counter and said:

"These are black hen's eggs I have taken."

"Nothing doing," he sneered. "Any crook daring enough to steal those pearls, once he had got his hands on them, never would return them. Pearls are too easily disposed of. You've got to dig up a better explanation than that."

"What did Mr. Gaston think? What did he say when he found them there?"

"He had nothing to say. He was so tickled at finding them again that he hustled with them right away to the safe deposit vaults and did not rest until he had them safely locked up. He took both jewel cases with him and made me go along with him to protect them."

"Didn't you look at all for the secret passageway I told you about?"

"Silly dreaming about that, are you?" scoffed Gorman. "No, we didn't. On the way up to the Granddeck the old man spoke about it and I told him that in my opinion there was nothing to it. After he recovered the pearls he was too excited to think about anything else. It seemed to break him all up, and I took him back to his hotel, and left him there. He said he had some writing to do, and that he would meet me at my office at noon today."

"How do you account for the return of the pearls?" I cried desperately. "What's your theory about them?"

"I haven't any," he replied. "It's up to you to explain it. Maybe by the time I come to see you tomorrow you'll have thought up a new yarn to spin."

"Please, please," I called after him as he turned away, "do look tomorrow and see if that secret passage is not where I said it was."

"He walked away without answering. Back once more to my cell I stretched myself despondently on my little iron cot, and, closing my eyes, tried to concentrate my thought on an attempt to solve this new mystery which I could plainly see had all but destroyed Gorman's faith in my honesty. I must solve it if I was to retain him in adding me to get free yet the whole thing seemed impossible. I could hardly blame him for doubting me. The great value of the pearls had been motive enough for their theft, but what possible motive could there have been for the thief returning them?"

With a shock it came to me, too, that the restoration of the pearls practically upset the whole theory of my defense. If I could have established the fact of this theft a juror might be persuaded to believe my tale of anonymous notes mysteriously appearing, and a secret passage by which the thief had gained access to the apartment but without the knowledge of the man who had been the witness and an accomplice. I either evidence surely would be incredible of belief.

I had just one hope left. Old Rufus must find that secret passage and see whether it led, that, with our knowledge of the identity of the telephone girl and the possibility of proving Gorman's belief that Wick was an ex-convict, would be to my only salvation. Old Rufus must find that passageway. He must! He must!

For hours I lay there racking my brains over the insoluble problems. My conscience was brought in our waves it away untouched. Wearily I wondered whether the recovery of the pearls had destroyed my aged relative's faith in me, as it seemed to have destroyed Gorman's. I could hardly blame him for his doubt after finding that my story of the disappearance of the pearls was apparently untrue. In my brief experience as a prisoner I had learned as well the bitter fact that once a man is discredited, henceforth no one trusts him. If Rufus Gaston failed me at this juncture I did not see how I could possibly extricate myself unscathed from the web that unseen hands had so skillfully and maliciously woven around me. The only ray of comfort that I could find anywhere in the whole situation was in my firm belief that though old Rufus and Gorman and the whole world doubted me, Barbara Bradford—my Barbara, I ventured to call her in my innermost heart—would continue to believe in me. She would be sure, no matter how much appearances went against me, that I was telling the truth. Barbara and I knew. Even if she had not known that I could not possibly have fired the shot that killed Miss Lutan, I was certain that she still would have trusted me.

Thinking about Barbara I recalled that it was the day of her sister's wedding. I had one of the prison attendants get me the evening papers to see what they had to say about it. For I was fearful lest some breath of scandal at the last moment involving the Bradfords might bring about a postponement. Eagerly I was hoping that nothing had happened to prevent the marriage taking place. With the assurance of her sister assured and my own name safe I realized that I was free of my relations with much.

Smother sailing, provided of course that I was acquitted. In the few chats I had had with her, I had realized that wealth and luxury and social position meant nothing to Barbara's happiness. She was the sort of girl who for a man she loved gladly would brave poverty, hardship, everything—a sincere, true-hearted woman with a clear vision of the real values of existence.

My messenger returned with the newspapers, and as I poked them up, everything went black. "Millionaire Gaston Found Murderer" was the startling headline that flashed before me, right there in the column next to the account of the Bradford wedding.

The sinister effect of this terrible news dawned on me instantly. With my great-uncle Rufus dead, without the possibility of his corroborating any part of my story, my case was hopeless, desperate. Unquestionably it would mean that I would be found guilty of murder and sentenced to death in the electric chair. As soon as I could sufficiently compose myself I read, every word there was in the newspapers about this new tragedy, smiling grimly at the thought that at least, they could not blame this murder on me.

Mr. Gaston, it appeared, had come to the Granddeck about two o'clock in the morning and had gone at once to his apartment. On his arrival he had been greeted by the telephone girl and had informed her that he was only in the city for a few days and was staying at a hotel. He had added that he would not be occupying the apartment for several weeks until his wife's return to the city. About half-past twelve there had come a telephone call for him. The girl had been unable to get any response from the apartment. Knowing that he had not gone out, and fearing that he might have had a sudden attack of illness she had become alarmed and notified Mr. Wick, the superintendent.

The superintendent, the account continued, had summoned Mr. Henry Kent, the owner of the Granddeck apartments. Together they had gone to Mr. Gaston's room. Being unable to get any reply to their rings and knocks they had finally entered themselves with a pass key in possession of the owner of the building.

In his study in the rear of the apartment they were forced to find old Rufus Gaston fully dead, lying on the floor, face down, still dead. A giant wound on the back of his head showed that he had been killed, probably instantly, by a terrific blow from some sort of a blunt instrument. A search of the rooms failed to show any sort of a weapon.

The police story was that the crime was committed by the work of a burglar who had been trapped by the return of Mr. Gaston so unexpectedly to his apartment. How the murderer escaped after attacking Mr. Gaston was a puzzle to the detectives at work on the case. The superintendent of the building expressed the opinion that the murderer had had access to the apartment in a manner inpector Attendants in the building recalled that there had been such a commotion in the building that morning. As he wore the usual uniform and possessed the customary credentials, he had been permitted to enter and leave the building unharmed.

There followed a long review of Rufus Gaston's business career and an estimate of some of his extensive holdings in stocks, bonds and real estate.

"Millionaire Gaston Found Murdered" Was the Startling Headline That Flashed Before Me.

from which it appeared that his fortune was likely to run to over ten million dollars. It was with some surprise that I learned that a score or more of years ago the old man apparently had been a powerful figure in the life of the metropolis, active both in its business and social life.

What interested me most was the attention paid to the remarkable coincidence that only a few weeks before a murder had taken place in the apartment just below, under practically the same circumstances. The police, the account stated, were inclined to believe that the murderer was one of the gang to which young Nelson, now in prison charged with the murder of Miss Lutan, undoubtedly belonged. Their theory was that a burglar gang succeeded in planting Nelson in the apartment as a caretaker, and that this enabled them to get their bearings in the building and provide themselves with false keys for ransacking the rooms at their leisure. The guilt of young Nelson, the police say, is established beyond question, and they are hopeful of being able to round up his associates.

There was also a brief interview with Wick, in which he was quoted as saying:

"I was suspicious of Nelson from the start and tried to keep an eye on him. He was very secretive about his comings and goings and was always prying about trying to learn something about the other tenants. How Mr. Gaston came to employ him as caretaker I never learned, but it would be no hard matter for a slick young crook like him to impose on so old a man as Mr. Gaston with a cock and bull story."

I shifted indifferently as I read this. I knew that Wick was deliberately trying to still further discredit me. I recalled that he himself had told me that Mr. Gaston had mentioned our relationship. It was obvious that he was deliberately withholding this information with a sinister purpose.

That Wick knew well who had killed Rufus Gaston, just as he knew who had shot Daisy Lutan, I was morally certain. I was inclined to agree with Gorman that Wick himself was not the murderer. The fact that he was of a cowardly and cringing nature seemed to argue against associating him actively with crimes of violence. Yet the virulent way in which he was showing himself to be industriously engaged in masking the real murderer.

Who could the murderer be? I was confident that the same person who had killed Miss Lutan had killed my great-uncle. I could only conjecture as to the motive. The police theory that it was purely avarice was logical as any. The more I pondered over the matter the more truly I became convinced that there was a numerous criminal band at the back of it all. No one man or two men could carry out all the devilry, even with the help of the telephone girl.

I recalled, too, how I had been skillfully shadowed work that evidently required organization and employees. I was now convinced that Wick and the telephone girl were only two—more than likely two minor members—of a gang that had its headquarters in the city. It was this, the most certain fact that had caused my change of mind. The office I was now sure. This sort of thing took brains far bigger than those that Wick gave any evidence of possessing.

A powerful apathy came over me as I thought of the account. Never before had I so fully understood how thorough an assassin a man could be. I knew—by a cruel, bitter evidence I knew—that this man, this I was absolutely innocent. I doubted much if we could get anyone else to believe it. The cunning web I'd been woven with such malicious thoroughness that escape seemed impossible. What was the use of my fighting further?

CHAPTER XIII.

Coming as it did as a dire climax to all my other troubles, the shock of old Rufus Gaston's murder sent me into an apathetic state from which it seemed impossible for me to arouse myself. Without hope and even without interest I duly awaited the approach of my trial for murder.

While there never had been an opportunity for a bond of affection to become established between my aged relative and myself—in fact, I had seen him only three or four times in my whole life, and then only for brief periods—his unexpected and dreadful end had bereft me of practically every hope of being acquitted of the absurd charge against me. Wick, it was plain, intended to disclaim all knowledge of my relationship to Mr. Gaston, and now there was no one else to explain how I happened to be living in the building at the time of Miss Lutan's murder. Unfortunately I had destroyed both Mr. Gaston's letter to me and the note from my mother which had first told me of the old man's intention. My great-uncle, I learned from the newspapers, had been completely prostrated by the tragedy and had been unable to come to the funeral. The shock of the news of her husband's violent end had left her in a very critical condition. It seemed to have wholly deranged her aged brain, and the physicians summoned to the Maine camp where she was refused to permit her to be removed from there or to let anyone talk with her, declaring that the least excitement of any sort would be apt to have fatal results.

To be sure there was my mother, who could prove my relationship, but I felt there was little use of dragging her into it. On reading of her uncle's death, she had hastened on from the West to attend his funeral and had been puzzled and alarmed by not finding me there. All the time I had been in prison I had been writing her my usual weekly letter, affecting a cheerfulness I was far from feeling and telling her nothing of what had happened. Her letters to me, addressed to the Granddeck, had been forwarded by the post office, so that until after she arrived in the city she knew nothing of my plight. It had been my hope that I would be able to conceal everything from her until after I had been triumphantly acquitted. If I were not she would know the worst soon enough.

When she first learned, or from what source of my predicament I was unaware. I did not even know of her presence in the city until the day after my great-uncle's funeral, when—just twenty-four hours before my trial was to begin—a keeper brought me word that she was waiting downstairs to see me.

I steeled myself for the interview with her. Naturally I expected that she would be terribly horror-stricken and shocked at my plight, but what her attitude toward me would be I could not conjecture. I fully expected nothing but reproaches from her. She had been so opposed to my coming to

"Oh My Boy, My Boy!" She Had Cried as She Saw Me, "I Know You Didn't Do It!"

New York that I felt certain that she would insist that my conduct must be responsible for my being where I now was. For years, it seemed to me, the relations between my mother and myself had been nothing but continuous misunderstandings. To my great amazement and bewilderment not a unkind word nor the suggestion of a reproachful thought came from her lips.

"Oh, my boy, my boy," she had cried as she saw me, "I know you didn't do it. I know my boy is innocent! What can I do to help you?"

In that glorious, wonderful moment of reaction all resentment I had felt toward her forever vanished. I had one sacred, unforgettable glimpse of the eternal greatness of the Mother-heart, ever ready to forgive, ever quick to comprehend, ever prompt to aid. For one sweet hour we talked together more understandingly than ever before in our lives. Freely and fully I told her everything, even to my wonderful but hopeless love for Barbara Bradford. She was willing, anxious, eager to aid me—but what was there that she could do?—what was there that anyone could do?

It was hopeless for a lone woman of limited means unacquainted with the big city and unaided to its ways, to attempt to battle against such powerful and desperate criminals as were concerned in the far-reaching plot to make me the scapegoat of their heinous misdeeds. I could only advise her that she see McGregor and Gorman and be guided by what they suggested.

When the morning of my trial actually arrived I entered the courtroom in a state of dull apathy. The night before I had not slept at all. I had spent all the black hours reviewing my life, especially the last year, thinking with what high hopes and great expectations I had come to the metropolis and how miserably everything had turned out for me. Step by step I had reviewed the events that had brought me, discredited, all but friendless, all but penniless, into this dismal courtroom accused of a horrible, cowardly deed, seeking to see wherein I might have altered my recent actions or changed the course of my life to avoid having arrived at this shameful goal. Yet, strange to say, I found myself after mature reflection convinced that had I this last year to live over again not in one iota would I have done differently—no, not even if I could have foretold what the future had in store for me.

"Oh, no," answered Margaret; "I just run out of time."

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Reliable Information

All American women know of the great success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in restoring to health women who suffered from ailments peculiar to their sex, yet there are some who are skeptical and do not realize that all that is claimed for it is absolutely true—if they did, our laboratory would not be half large enough to supply the demand, though today it is the largest in the country used for the manufacture of one particular medicine.

The Facts contained in the following two letters should prove of benefit to many women:

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I suffered with organic inflammation and displacement. When hitting I had such pain of my side that I could not stand on my feet or even let the bed clothes touch my side. I gave up my work thinking I would not be able to go back for months. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it had saved her life at one time, and it put me in a wonderful condition in a couple of weeks, so I can keep on working. I work in a department store and have to stand on my feet all day and I do not have any more pain. I surely recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—BETHEL J. PARKER, 3320 M St., Sacramento, Calif.

Suggestion for Plumbers.
A plumber working in a North Side home recently encountered unusual hospitality. Katherine, age six, was watching the plumber cut the concrete floor in the basement in order to get to a pipe. After working several minutes the plumber leaned back against the wall and remarked that the concrete certainly was hard to cut. "If you are tired, come upstairs and take a bath and then take a nap," was the child's suggestion.—Indianapolis News.

Fall Modes as Seen in Paris

From Paris, the source of fashion inspiration, there come at this season little fashions filled with significance. They are pertinent signs, observes a Paris fashion correspondent, to be regarded with due attention and all seriousness if one would know the general fashion tendencies for the season to come.

Now is the psychological moment to think of gowns that will develop by the time cold weather sets in. The original scheme may be changed and juggled, but in that way it becomes perfected and one's wardrobe, instead of being a matter of chance, becomes Evening gown showing manner in which lace is being used. Callot putting her own particular stamp upon the design.

An individual achievement. That is the way to be really well dressed.

The lessons to be learned from the French women in this respect are numerous. A French woman regards primarily the lines of her own figure, the shape of her own head, and the setup of her own personality. A certain line suits her figure. She looks upon that as a fixed point and around it revolves the building of the clothes of a new season. She does not see styles as things in themselves, she sees them only as possible adaptations to herself. And if she finds a new thing that fits in with her ideas of herself she bites at it like a fruit at a fly. She never buys a gown lightly because it is beautiful. She never allows herself to stay out of the picture long enough to consider the dress as a separate entity, and what is more, she accomplishes her end with cleverness and thought and usually with great artistic success.

Importance of the Lines.
The general lines are the first to be considered, and all others point to certain changes in silhouette. For instance, the fullness over the hips is gradually declining. That seems to be a certainty, for all the reports from the English and French fashions say that the lines of the silhouette are straight and uncompromising. They say the chemise dress is still in favor. For that fact many will give thanks, for this dress has come to be greatly loved. So much can be done with it in the way of variations. It is so vastly becoming to many figures and its possibilities of adaptation are too wonderful to be lightly cast aside. Proof of its desirability lies in the fact that it returns repeatedly to the fore ranks of fashion.

There is a heated discussion going on about the ever-variable length of sleeves and skirts. Last year at this time our skirts in America were nearly touched the ground and clung about the feet. Now they have sprung sky high, and everybody—even those who swore they could not do it—is pleased as can be over the change. Will the short skirt stay with us for another season? French and English society women predicted that skirts would lengthen, but, as a matter of fact, they do not seem to be one whit longer. All the photographs which are being sent from the races show skirts that well alight touch the knees by way of length, for the French always have worn them much shorter than ours. American women, too, have become used to the more abbreviated skirt lengths, and common sense would lead one to suppose that the skirt would remain short for the coming season. However, the only fault in that heavy reasoning is that common sense does not always rule the ways of fashion, and for the actual decision one will have to wait until the fall styles have actually been created and imported. All that can be said is that skirts are still short. Not a long one has been seen upon the landscape.

The Sleeve Lengths.
Sleeve lengths are almost as important. In fact, just at this season they are really more important, for sleeves have taken on such a tendency to fluctuate that one scarcely knows what is right and what is wrong about them. Anything goes as long as it is well done, and whether the long sleeve or the short sleeve or the three-quarter sleeve is the most fashionable is a fact that is hard to establish. Many of the latest Parisian reports tell of sleeves which are longer than they have been, but then, Parisian sleeves have always been extremely short—shorter, in fact, than most of ours. They are showing and wearing sleeves of three-quarter length and sleeves that end below the elbow, having there a wide and flowing opening.

There are some very chic new things, too, that show long and tightly fitting sleeves clasping snugly over the hands. They look beautiful, after so great a quantity of abbreviation as has been our portion during the last couple of years. But here, as with the skirts, there is no telling what will be the wild popularity after the fall openings have actually been held and after the winter modes have been launched. Only a change is one, and just how it will come or what form it will take is hard to foretell exactly. At present any length of sleeve is a good length, and there is ample opportunity to adapt the length and the shape of the sleeve to the proportions of the individual arm and figure. In playing with the lengths and the general tightness much that is beautiful can be and has been accomplished this last season. Also much that is execrable has been allowed to live because not enough conscientious thought and attention has been applied to the problem in hand.

Plaits have had a wonderful run of popularity, but upon many of the new models plaits are seen revived in many ways.

Evening Gowns in Paris

The between-season evening gowns that are being created in Paris, mostly for the Parisian trade, are extremely simple in outline. Many of them, a report says, are made of heavy crepes in solid colors. The skirts are draped and the bodices are made quite simply, with little or no sleeves about them. Since lace is so extremely popular one finds additions of lace on otherwise quite simple fashions—as an edging for an underskirt (this is an extremely good fashion) or as a trifling addition to a bodice. The whole lace gown is certainly popular. It is seen everywhere, and every day the leading designers are adding new lace fashions to their collections. At the fashionable evening gatherings in Paris many lace fashions are seen, many of them being of black chintilly draped over cream-colored satin. One lace frock was made in chemise fashion and had a train square in shape set on at the shoulders and allowed to sweep over the floor after the gown, which was quite short as to skirt. This was of black lace over white, and the train was also built from the lace laid over the satin.

Braid on Two Sides.
Braid appears in bolero suits, but used in a very novel fashion, being arranged on the two sides.

KEEP UP WARFARE ON WEEDS

Allowed to Grow Until They Seed, They Become a Menace to Whole Community.

Weeds growing on vacant lots throughout a city are a menace to the home gardener. In European cities such a condition is not permitted. Property owners are forced to keep the weeds out.

Weeds should be cut at least before going to seed. This cutting will prevent the seed from ripening and spreading into adjacent gardens. After the weeds have been cut and dried they should be burned to destroy the seed and prevent a new crop from developing the next season.

Many of our common weeds are annuals, such as the wild flax, pigweed, horse or butter weed, ragweed, milkweed, mustard and sand bars. They reproduce themselves each year from seed only. Thus if they are destroyed before they go to seed, there will be no seed from which they can develop the following year. In the garden these weeds can be pulled up by the roots, cut off with a hoe, or turned up by hand cultivation.

The burdock and wild carrot, which thrive on nearly all parts of the city, are biennials. They develop a thickened or fleshy root during the first year, and produce the seed during the second year. Because of the fleshy root the plant cannot be killed by cutting off the top. It will prevent the development of seed, but in order to kill the plant it must be grubbed out, root and all. The surest way is to cut off the crown, just below the surface of the ground and cut them as soon as they appear, because the older and stouter they grow, the greater is their resisting power.—Chicago Daily News

TREATING WOUNDS OF TREES

Park Board of Washington City Gives Some Valuable Information on Important Subject.

The Washington park board committee has issued the following bulletin regarding the treatment of tree wounds.

Tree wounds, due to removal of large limbs or to injury from any cause, should be promptly disinfected and treated with a waterproof covering. An exposed surface is subject to attack by fungi and wood boring insects unless properly cared for. As soon as a cut is made the wound should be treated with a disinfectant such as common creosote, which will penetrate and sterilize the wood. This may be applied with a small brush. After creosoting, the wood should be protected from moisture by means of a heavy coat of coal tar. Instead of using the materials separately, they may be combined, using one-third creosote and two-thirds coal tar. In case cracking occurs, surface should be treated. A pure white lead and flaked oil paint is sometimes employed for tree wounds, and, while not as satisfactory as the coal tar-creosote paint, it is a good deal better than nothing. Ordinary grafting wax will give good results for small wounds.

Hone Owner Best Citizen.

The man who owns his own home is a good citizen, for he has increased his assets of self-respect and independence. He has high ideals and a deep sense of the responsibilities of life.

This sort of man studies civic problems. He takes pride and comfort in the fact that if he is taken away his family will have a roof over their heads and will be kept intact through the ownership of the home.

It is worth a lifetime of economy if in the evening of life you can be seated before your own fireplace, ample provision having been made to care for you and yours. It will pay you to save money and buy your home.—The Thrift Magazine.

Count the Trees.

A census of trees to determine the extent of American forests, both in the country and in towns and cities, may be begun.

"Block-by-block" listing, including the size and variety of the tree, may be done by Boy Scouts and children, under supervision of civic leaders. Planting of memorial trees, it is believed, will swell the figures by many thousands.

Planters will register new trees with the American Forestry association, which will also keep the "census" records taken by children and scouts.

Aroused Community Spirit.

Children of the town of Duke Otto, in Ohio, played a "tin can game" under Red Cross auspices, with the result that a community which was an eyesore to its own people has been cleared of its litter and made spick and span. Best of all, the community spirit has been aroused and the initial movement carried on by the youngsters marks the beginning of general progress toward better things—the things which the people of every small town can do for themselves to improve conditions of health and make life more worth while.—Exchange.

HONEYMOON SURELY AT END

Brute's Return Proved That the Affairs of Cupid Must Have Lost Their Sharpness.

Sad it is when the brief story of the honeymoon departs, leaving only the prospect of the endless monotony of ordinary life ahead.

But this was where the Smiths stood. Their honeymoon had soon ended in the stress of modern life. In fact, Mrs. Smith was already adopting the policy of quietly inactivity, even hubby's most loving endearment couldn't get a kind word out of her.

The rift happened on Wednesday and lasted till Sunday morning, when he attended to his usual stroll, asked her:

"What is for dinner today, my dear?" His suave voice and winning smile agreed for him a brief effort. "The lady replied with more force than grace."

"Oh, rats!" But he was not caught unawares. With a sweet smile he countered with the remark:

"Well, don't cook one for me, darling; I think I'll have dinner out."

Father and Daughter Get Relief by Eaton's

R. J. Powell, Sweetwater, Texas, says, "Eaton's helped me at once, but it was my daughter who got the marvelous benefits. She could not even take a drink of water without awful misery, but it relieved her; she is feeling much better. All this from one box, so send me four more at once."

Hundreds of people now take Eaton's; one or two tablets after each meal keeps them in good health, feeling fine, full of pep. Eaton's simply takes up the excess acidity and poisons and carries them right out of the system. Of course, when the cause of the misery is removed, the sufferer cannot help but get well. You will find it a quick, sure relief for heartburn, indigestion, sour, peptic, gassy, bloated stomach. It costs but a trifle and your druggist will supply you. If you don't feel well, you give Eaton's a test. Adv.

SCORE ONE FOR DIPLOMACY

Will Be General Agreement That Little Joe Deserved the Treat He Was Looking For.

"Little Joe had been told that he could not go to grandmother's house before the end of the week. And he wished very much to go right away, for grandmother had a new kind of cooky. He asked mother, but to no avail so he decided to try strategy. 'Mother,' he said sweetly, 'when I get to be grown and away from home I'm still a-going to come back and see you every day.'"

Mother was delighted. "That will be grand," she said. "I do hope you will remember that promise."

"Yes," Joe was positive, "and if anything should happen that I couldn't come any day I'm going to be sure to send your grandchildren to make up for me, so you'll know I remembered you."

He made the trip to grandmother's house that afternoon.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., AUG. 27, 1920

A BIG MAN WITH A BIG HEART.

The Detroit Free Press of Monday paid a very fitting and appropriate tribute to Frank B. Leland, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for governor at the primary election next Tuesday. After telling many of his good qualities as a banker and business man, the Free Press said: "In Detroit the candidate's public work looms big, and again it was based upon his idea of practical helpfulness and humanity. He established the first open air school for tubercular children, and with such success that the city has adopted the plan for the entire school system. Today thousands of Detroit children and adults owe strong, healthy bodies and minds to a work begun privately by him. He also conceived and carried through the establishment and maintenance of the Detroit Tuberculosis Sanitarium, with such success that again not only the city, but Wayne county also, took up the work of conserving human life that hitherto had constituted a center of suffering and misery."

Detroit has scores of other men who have accumulated vast fortunes whose ambition seems to be to pile up more, but Mr. Leland has thought in terms of the other fellow. He has helped countless hundreds of boys and girls back to health and strength and made it possible for them to travel the broad highway of good cheer and happiness. And the seed he has sown in his home city is bearing rich fruitage in our own community where the city of Detroit is now spending millions of dollars in the erection of a sanitarium for the proper treatment of those who may be afflicted with the white plague. The institution will not only be a credit to a great city but it will be a monument to a great man with a great heart who has a vision and who has laid the foundation for his own peace.

In the primary four years ago Mr. Leland was second in the race for the republican nomination for governor and in view of the splendid showing made at that time it would seem that he was the logical candidate for Wayne county yet it is to be expected that he will not be.

Over to Washington county the people will have a opportunity to express their approval of a candidate very recently elected to the Michigan legislature by the people of that county. Mr. Leland is a candidate for re-election this year. For a first term he has been an excellent record and the people of Washington county are very anxious to have him back. He is a man who is willing to do his duty to his constituents and to the state. He is a man who is willing to do his duty to his constituents and to the state. He is a man who is willing to do his duty to his constituents and to the state.

The government is pressing orders at Washington is without with fresh orders for printed copies of the congressional record. It is at the present time a very important thing that there is now order on hand and that there is no delay in the delivery of these documents. As these are usually mailed in envelopes it is a requirement of many envelopes and this requires a large amount of paper. The waste of paper will run into the thousands of tons. Probably about every eight out of ten copies of these documents go straight to the waste basket and the public has to foot the bill.

PLYMOUTH GIRL IS MISSING.

Questioned in the sheriff's office Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Belle Leavenworth Morey and her brother, James Leavenworth, both of Novi, who were with 14-year-old Marguerite Huger, Plymouth church worker, the night she disappeared in Detroit, denied a confession they were alleged to have made to Deputy Sheriff Burman and Brooks, that they had assisted in the girl's abduction.

Their story was the same as that told when they were first examined in connection with the case, and after hearing it George C. Sayers, assistant prosecuting attorney, ordered them set at liberty.

Marguerite came to town with Mrs. Morey, according to their statements, and there they were met by Leavenworth and the middle-aged man suspected of responsibility for the girl's disappearance. The four went to an eating place, they said, and then to an amusement resort, the second man transporting the party in his automobile. They asserted that Marguerite left them at Fourteenth and Michigan avenues, saying she would take an electric car home. That they missed, was the last time they saw her. Leavenworth admitted having received a letter from the other man, dated at Grand Rapids in which were enclosed two post cards to the girl's family which were to be mailed in Detroit, so that the family might believe the girl still in this city—Free Press.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Items taken from The Record files of 1895, for the week corresponding to this week.

Mrs. Rachel Light-Beal, mother of Francis R. Beal, died Monday morning, after a long illness. The funeral occurred Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Beal officiating. Mrs. Beal on account of illness had lived a retired life so that her acquaintances were limited in number. Those who did know her, held her in high esteem. She was born in the state of Connecticut in 1818, later moving to New York state, thence to Michigan. In 1835 she was united in marriage to James Beal and to this union were born six children: F. R., Susan, Alfred (deceased), Ellen, James (deceased), and Alice (deceased). Mrs. Beal was a member of the Presbyterian church, her membership dating back sixty years. The census enumerator finds 414 school-aged children in the village district.

The Dr. Kingsbury place is being remodeled. About 20 couple from the village had a delightful time Tuesday evening christening a new floor in one of Frank Butler's farm barns. Tinham's orchestra furnished the music. N. Nevison will soon open a branch bakery in the Kellogg block.

Mr. Neelan's little boy fell into a cistern last week but was rescued with little damage besides the involuntary bath. Superintendent Clark has established a fishing camp on the Ausable river near Grayling. A. T. Stewart has been placed in charge.

Jas. Taylor of Novi with John Farmer of this place applied to Justice Webster Wednesday morning, for a warrant for Frank Touze, who is said to have stolen a mortgage and a deed from Taylor, and coat and vest from Farmer.

The postoffice department has advertised for bids for carrying the mail between the office and depot.

John Highland with his family moved to East Jordan this week, where they will make their future home.

The Record types are taking their annual vacation. The Priest will return Monday from a two weeks' outing and then Mrs. Felt will take a week's rest.

Born August 26, 1920, and Mrs. A. T. Stewart, a son.

Minchie and her children, having returned from Michigan, where they have been visiting.

Mrs. J. C. Conroy is expected to arrive Wednesday after a long her order to William Novak.

NEW CLOVER VARIETY LOOKS GOOD IN STATE

Annual white sweet clover, a new crop which was introduced to the state only two years ago, gives promise of developing into an invaluable annual leguminous hay according to J. F. Cox, professor of farm crops at the Michigan Agricultural College. That this clover may revolutionize crop rotations on lighter soils of western and northern Michigan is said to be possible. The largest acreage of this new crop in the United States, planted for increase purposes, has been grown on the experiment station farm at the agricultural college this year. In addition to the six acres grown for seed purposes at the college, a like amount has been planted by members of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association at various places over the state, thus giving Michigan the chief seed supply of the whole country. The seed sold during the past season for $5.00 an ounce, and still brings from 200 to 300 dollars a bushel.

"This is a short season hay crop, which when planted in the spring will mature hay in July and seed by late August or early September," says Professor Cox. "It's rapid increase in the state will give Michigan farmers particularly those located on light soils, a highly valuable hay, pasture, green manuring and seed crop. The bee men of the state will also be greatly interested in the new crop for bee pasture."

"The increase in Michigan has been made from a small amount of the seed of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association secured two years ago from Prof. H. D. Hughes, of the Iowa Experiment Station. This year the M. A. C. Experiment Station should have between 20 and 40 bushels for distribution to members of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association and the Farm Bureau for planting next spring. It will be increased as rapidly as possible, in order to secure enough seed to furnish Michigan farmers at reasonable prices. The Farm Bureau Seed Department has made arrangements to co-operate in the marketing of the seed."

THE WHITE FAMILY REUNION.

The eighth annual reunion of the White family was held at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Will White in Northville, August 21st, 1920. About seventy-five were present, ages ranging from five months to eighty-five years, four generations being represented.

It was not long before preparations were made for a big feast out on the lawn where tables and seats had been provided. It is needless to say that it was enjoyed by all, the men in particular, who certainly did justice to it. Among other good things was a huge birthday cake upon which were 85 candles in honor of the birthday of Henry W. White of Fowerville. All were united in wishing him many more happy birthdays and that God might bestow His richest blessings upon him during his declining years.

After the dinner was served, Chas. H. White called the meeting to order and all joined in singing "America." The recording secretary, Mrs. Howard White, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved. This was followed by the report of the treasurer, Mrs. Thomas Sharpe, Jr. Mrs. Charles White was asked to give an account of some of the changes taken place. During the year there were four births, Judson Dillingham, Jr., Everett Lawrence White, Glendon Henry Sharpe and Lawrence Clayton Johnson.

Six of our young people, as follows, have been joined in holy wedlock, Harry Huck and Alta Berry, Will White, Jr. and Mae England, Roy Taylor and Eva Donnelly. The All-Wise Father has removed from our number, Chester White of Williamston and Little Judson Dillingham, Jr., whose memory we cherish dearly.

The president then turned the meeting over to the chairman of the program committee, Fred Dillingham. A recitation, "Courtship After Marriage," was given by Miss Winnifred Hoag recitation, "City, Life and Country Life" Laura Trombly; music, Anna Dillingham; recitation, "The Inventor's Wife," Mrs. Wilbur Huck; recitation, Esther Stewart; recitation, "Our Flag," Thomas Sharpe III; Laura Trombly sang a solo in French then recited it in English, recitation, "My Own Dolly," Gertrude Hoag; recitation, Will White, Sr.; music, Winnifred Hoag. We then listened to some remarks by Rev. Grimwood of Northville which were full of wit and humor and very appropriate for the occasion. After a solo by Gertrude Hoag all joined in singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The committees were appointed as follows:

Program: Mrs. Harry Huck, Mrs. Clayton White, Miss Laura White. Entertainment: Mrs. Henry White, Mrs. Fred Dillingham, Mrs. Charles White.

Devoted and seconded to meet July 4th, 1921 with Mr. and Mrs. George White of Flint.

Those present from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Doyle from Tulsa, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Will White and son, Ralph, from Avon, New York, and others from St. Johns, Jackson, Detroit, Flint, Lansing, Ann Arbor, Fowlerville, Howell, Belle Oak, Royal Oak and South Bend, Ind.

After supper was served, ice cream and cake being in abundance, all returned to their homes feeling that the day had been well spent.

PAUL W.
VOORHIESHE STANDS FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Detroit News Says:

"By making Paul W. Voorhies to become a candidate for the nomination for prosecuting attorney the people of Detroit have accomplished a distinct forward step in the movement to make Detroit a safe place to live, of which the new municipal court is the point of focus."

"In this instance it is emphatically true that the office has sought the man. The people of Detroit could hardly do a better thing for themselves and for the cause of good order and obedience, to the law than to elect Mr. Voorhies. He is decidedly the right man for the place."—Editorial, June 28, 1920.

The Detroit Free Press Says:

"In the opinion of the Free Press the candidacy of Paul W. Voorhies for the position of prosecuting attorney given the voters of Wayne county an opportunity they cannot afford to overlook. Mr. Voorhies had had extensive experience as assistant and as chief of staff in the office he now appears to conduct and his record for conscientiousness and efficiency is exceptional. * * * When all of Mr. Voorhies' qualifications are taken into consideration, he seems to us to be decidedly the man Wayne county needs in the job. The voters may cast their ballots for him confident that they are performing an duty to the community."—Editorial, July 20, 1920.

FARMERS ON WATCH FOR EUROPEAN CORN BORER.

A close watch of Michigan corn fields in order to detect possible signs of the ravages of European corn borers is a dangerous pest imported to this country within recent years, is being kept by farmers over the state, according to the Entomology Department. No definite report of the corn borer has been made in the state as yet, but the fact that they have been found in New York, Mass. and Pennsylvania shows that the destructive worms have gained a foothold in the country, and the possibility of their showing up in Michigan is said to demand the attention of all corn growers. Wherever prevalent the corn borer is capable of practically ruining the crop, and the promptest measures would be necessary to stop the spread of the worms if they made a start in the state.

FRUIT GROWERS ARE WORRIED.

Michigan fruit growers are now worrying for fear they will not be able to obtain refrigerator cars for shipping their products. The trouble is not in this state alone, but is general in fruit belts all over the country. Some dealers say they face disaster unless relief is assured for their early pickings must be shipped in iced cars. The peach crop is particularly delicate and it is often only a matter of hours between sound and over-ripe fruit when proper facilities are lacking. In a general way this dubious outlook has been in force for several months. It is said cars, ordinarily moved into Michigan and other, eastern fruit belts are being sent to the far west. As this is by order of the interstate commerce commission the roads have no discretion and can only follow instructions of the national body. The car situation, together with the high prices being asked by manufacturers of barrels, make the fruit growers of the state wear long faces. Those who did not contract for their barrels early are up against a hard proposition—very high prices and inability to place their order at all.

FOUR AMENDMENTS FOR FALL ELECTION.

Notwithstanding the fact that the "school amendment" and the "home rule" amendment will be left out of the official ballot this fall, the voters at the November election will have four amendments to vote upon. One amendment, which it appears now will be submitted to referendum, is designed to empower the legislature to fix the compensation of the secretary of state, the state treasurer and the auditor general. Their salaries are now limited by the constitution to $2,500 a year. It is the consensus of opinion about the state house that these officials are underpaid with the cost of living at the present level. In all three departments the deputies are paid higher salaries than the heads. For these second in command $3,000 a year while their superiors receive but $2,500. Officials have found it impossible, however, to find competent men who will act as deputies for $2,500.

The attorney general and governor receive $500 while the superintendent of public instruction is paid $4,000. There is some question in state circles as to whether the superintendent's salary is $10,000.

The effect of the second amendment which is proposed to be made to Article III, would be to provide that every male inhabitant of foreign birth and the wife of such inhabitant, who, having resided in the state two years and six months before the eighth day of November 1894 and having declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States two years and six months before that date and who shall have completed his naturalization prior to January 1, 1924, shall be an elector and entitled to vote; also to extend the privileges accorded to absent voters to include any person engaged in teaching in the public schools of the state, and the immediate family of any member of the legislature during any session of that general assembly. Article V would be changed by the third proposal, which in effect would empower the legislature to enact laws relative to the hours and conditions under which women, as well as men and children can be employed.

GREEN IS CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY AUDITOR.

MAN WHO EXPOSED COUNTY BUILDING ROTIENNESS HAS OTHER REVELATIONS IN MIND.

Wm. H. Green, Jr. present County Treasurer, is a candidate for County Auditor at the primary next Tuesday, Aug. 31st, on the Republican ticket. It is just three years since Mr. Green exposed the rotten conditions in the County Building, in which more than $100,000. of the taxpayers money was stolen. Before taking office he had demanded an audit, but this was refused and in an official letter it was announced that the books in the Treasurer's Office had been audited. William Gutman, present Auditor and Candidate for re-election, who signed that letter, later admitted on the stand he had known for many months of the stealings; also in a final settlement with the bonding companies for defalcations there was no money repaid that was taken from the date.

Mr. Gutman admitted he first knew of the stealings under the late bonding companies were no longer liable. How many thousands of dollars the taxpayers lost was never revealed, but it was on account of this suppression by Mr. Gutman and his associates that caused the loss.

Mr. Green paid for the audit personally that cost of the refunding of more than $50,000 and he further pledged revelations that will get back into the treasury other money illegally taken provided he is elected County Auditor by the people and given the cooperation of other officials.

During the past three years as County Treasurer Mr. Green has given the public a very efficient administration of the affairs of that office, installing new business methods that have proven of great benefit to the taxpayers. Previous to that time he was for twelve years in the office of the County Auditor, which has given him a very close insight into the public affairs of Wayne County. It was on account of his knowledge of county affairs gained in this way that induced the friends of Green to induce him into this new, taxing the public with the job of house-keeping that he had started so long ago.

Mr. Green is a lifelong Republican, born in the city of Detroit and has always been active in the affairs of his party and in matters of interest to the city, county and state. After the upheaval in the county legislature three years ago he became known as "The Man Who Dared" and he promises to live up to that reputation if selected by the people as their Republican candidate for County Auditor next Tuesday August 31st. Concerning Increased Rates

For Electric Supply

Commercial Lighting Rate

Bills due in September covering current consumption for July will be reckoned at the new rate, which is an advance over the former rate, of One Cent per kilowatt-hour on the second and third step of the commercial lighting rate—that is, kilowatt-hours formerly charged at Four cents per kilowatt-hour will be charged at Five cents per kilowatt-hour, and kilowatt-hours formerly charged at Two cents per kilowatt-hour will be charged at Three cents per kilowatt-hour.

NOTE: The base rate of Ten cents per kilowatt-hour remains unchanged.

OPEN ORDER POWER

Power formerly charged for at Four cents per kilowatt-hour will be charged at Five cents per kilowatt-hour.

RESIDENCE LIGHTING RATE

There has been no change in the price per kilowatt-hour in either step of the Residence Lighting Rate, but the number of kilowatt-hours billed at the Fourteen cent rate has been increased by one-half. Example: An account formerly billed on a monthly base of Six kilowatt-hours will have, under the new rate, a monthly base of Nine kilowatt-hours.

DISCOUNTS

On ALL bills paid on or before the due date a discount of 10 per cent is allowed on lighting bills and 5 per cent on power bills.

Any questions concerning the application of new rate to your account will be answered by mail or telephone.

TRADE MARK

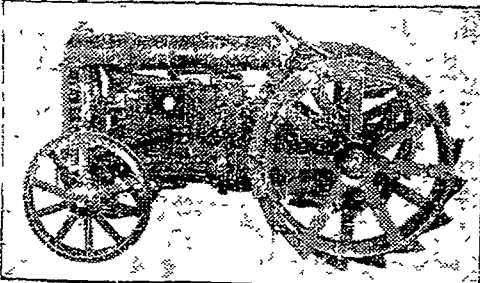

Farm Tractor

The Fordson cuts the cost of preparing land almost to half of what it costs with horses. But even more important is the fact that the Fordson saves from 30 to 50% of the farmer's time. And time saved—getting fields in shape to plant in the proper season; getting things done when they should be done—means money to the farmer. Besides it solves the labor problem.

As ever, the machine way is proving efficient, faster, easier than the old hand way. In the factory, the machinery increases production, saves labor—produces more at less cost. And that is what the Fordson does on the farm. The Fordson way is the machine way of farming. Besides it solves the labor problem.

The Fordson's first cost is the lowest in the market; and the after operating cost is lowest. It is a compact easily handled tractor, backed by the greatest tractor service organization in the United States. We are Fordson dealers. Not only do we sell Fordson tractors, but we carry a stock of Fordson parts and employ Fordson mechanics to help the farmers get the best results from the Fordson.

The Great Lunkhead Mystery

Follow the Travels of the Famous Medal Designed to be Worn by the Person Proving the Right to be Known to the World as the Biggest Lunkhead.

EPISODE IX.

When the Man WHO ALWAYS WAS SARCASMIC saw that a Fellow Worker was pinning the BIGGEST LUNKHEAD Medal on him he stopped framing up biting remarks long enough to think over WHY he had received the Medal.

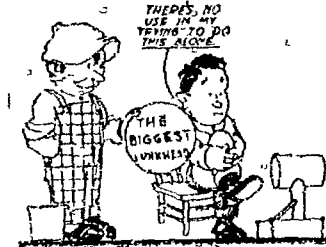

Taking time to think about himself, he found that though he was an expert worker he was not getting THE BEST JOBS and he was not put on the BIG JOBS where he would have to work with a number of his FELLOW WORKERS. Then he saw that his Fellow Workers did not like him because of his habit of MAKING MEAN REMARKS, and he saw that he was kept off the BEST JOBS because the Foreman wanted HARMONY among the Workers on the BEST JOBS. He saw that though he was a good workman he was HURTING HIMSELF BY BEING SARCASMIC to others all the time. That he lost the friendship of his Fellow Workers and the confidence of his employer.

He decided that SARCASM DOES NOT PAY and when he made this discovery the BIGGEST LUNKHEAD Medal no longer belonged to him and he took it and pinned it on the Man WHO IS ALWAYS SORRY FOR HIMSELF.

The Great Lunkhead Mystery

Follow the Travels of the Famous Medal Designed to be Worn by the Person Proving the Right to be Known to the World as the Biggest Lunkhead.

EPISODE X

When the Man WHO CARELESSLY WASTES THINGS found that the BIGGEST LUNKHEAD Medal had been pinned on him he was just as careless about it as he was in earlier days for anything that turned over to him BUT HE COULD NOT LOSE THE MEDAL.

This made him think about how he could get rid of it, and then he saw that he was holding the Medal because he had FAILED TO SEE that every bit of waste, every bit of material spoiled by him WAS PAID FOR BY HIM. Every bit of Spoiled Stock and Careless Work in the place where he worked meant INCREASED OPERATING EXPENSES and as the expense for running the plant went up the chances of getting higher wages WENT DOWN. As he thought this over he saw that the wasted material has to BE PAID FOR and he saw that HE WAS THE ONE WHO PAID THE BILL. And he saw that his CARELESS WASTED hurt not only himself but HURT EVERY ONE OF HIS FELLOW WORKERS. And he saw that when he CHECKED HIS WASTE he became a CAREFUL and a BETTER worker.

When he saw this he decided that he would not be entitled to any BIGGEST LUNKHEAD Medal any longer so he took it off and went and pinned it on the Man WHO WAITS FOR OTHERS TO HELP HIM.

Tears coursed down Mrs. Spaulding's cheeks. Keith was going to be married; after that fact there could be nothing. Her son was her world and he would leave her. Mrs. Spaulding could think of no happiness apart from his presence, while the thought of another ruling where she had ruled, sharing where she had shared, was bitter. For Mrs. Spaulding's love, in its absorption, was wholly selfish. Keith had dreamed of making his announcement even before his mother's grief-stricken face it had been difficult to conceal the joy of his own. Babs was such a dear girl, he had known from the moment his clear eyes looked into his that all his mother's remonstrance could make no difference in the determination of his choice. Babs, all unaware of opposition, knew only one code--to be happy and make others happy. This to her was the most beautiful thing in the world. So the coldness of Mrs. Spaulding's manner when Keith took her to call was due Babs' decision, to the slight indignation which the son had explained presented as no longer from making the visit of acquaintance himself. The girl climbed the public porch where Mrs. Spaulding anxiously received her, she admired the flower beds in the garden, but her lover's mother was indifferently unresponsive. The only sign of friendliness which, so Babs thought, Mrs. Spaulding exhibited, was when as the girl was about to take her departure, she complimented her upon her soft wool sweater.

"Keith, glancing anxiously into his sweet face, was surprised to find that not the disappointment he feared but a certain light of pleasure shone in his eyes. "You are so very happy in your lovely love, Keith," Babs had said. His mother's words were different in tone.

"That simple little maid is your final choice, Keith," she asked falteringly and slowly. And though he tried to say in a casual way as time passed that he was not so sure, Babs noticed that her mother's thoughts against the girl were constant and quiet.

It was some time after the first of the summer that Keith and Babs were sitting on the porch, looking at the flowers in the garden. Keith was looking at the flowers, Babs was looking at Keith.

The Nisco Spreader can't clog and spreads at will, 3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18 loads per acre. It has a chain drive--no gears to break or strip from cold or under sudden strain. Wide tires fit the "Nisco" for use on soft soil. With proper care it will last a lifetime.

AMERICAN RED CROSS TO GIVE RURAL HELP

Program for Public Health and Community Welfare Is Now
Well Under Way.

Rural communities and towns of less than 8,000 population benefit in a very large part by the public health and community welfare work of the American Red Cross. Almost all of the 8,600 Red Cross chapters have some rural sections in their territory. Therefore the Red Cross Rural Service.

Briefly, the purpose of Rural Service is to assist people to get out of life more health, wealth and happiness. In this purpose public health instruction and general educational progress of both children and adults play a big part.

Recreation is found to be one of the biggest needs in rural life. There is lack of sufficient play-life for the children and social life for the adults. Picnics, pageants, debating clubs, baseball leagues, community singing and other social events which bring the people of surrounding communities together have been organized and carried on under the guidance of Red Cross rural workers to great advantage. In many instances solving recreational problems and getting people together proves to be the awakening of the community to other conditions which may be improved by united action.

As a result of community organization, townships in which there had been neither plans nor interest in community progress have been organized to work together with the united purpose of bringing their community up to the most enlightened standards. Lecture and musical entertainment courses have been started as a result of community meetings, as well as circulating libraries, Red Cross schools of instruction in Home Nursing, Care of the Sick and First Aid. In the larger towns the need for restrooms and public comfort stations is being met. Law-grounds for the children have been established and recreational activities worked out for the year.

In order that there may be concerted effort in carrying on the progress of the various welfare agencies in the rural districts, Red Cross Rural Service helps the organizations already on the ground. The main object of the service is to lend a hand everywhere and take the lead only where necessary.

JUNIOR RED CROSS ACTIVE IN EUROPE

Garden seeds for Polish orphans, milk for anemic Greek babies, carpenter's tools for Czech Slavonian cripples—these are only a few of the gifts that young Americans are sending to the war-crushed children of the Old World.

Through the Junior Red Cross the boys and girls of the United States are giving a fresh start in life to little war orphans scattered all over Europe. They have set up orphan homes in France, scholastic colonies in Belgium and Montenegro, and day schools in Albania.

They are sending dozens of young Syrians, Montenegrins, and Albanians to American colleges in Constantinople and Beirut, and maintaining more than a hundred orphans of French soldiers at colleges and trade schools. In orphanages and farm schools up and down the peninsula of Italy there are nearly 500 wards of American Juniors.

Last winter a thousand French children from the inadequate shelters of the devastated regions were sent by the Junior Red Cross to spend the cold months in warmer parts of France. At the same time five thousand little Belgians were having a hot lunch every day at Junior Red Cross school canteens.

American school children have already raised something like a million dollars for these enterprises, and they are still hard at work.

In China, through campaigns of education, the Junior Red Cross is helping to combat widely prevalent blindness and cholera.

RED CROSS RELIEF IN CENTRAL EUROPE

But for timely assistance of the American Red Cross during the last year, a large proportion of the 20,000,000 population of the Balkan States might have starved or perished from disease or exposure. Six million dollars worth of food, clothing and medical supplies have been sent to the Balkans—Rumania, Bulgaria, Albania, Montenegro, Serbia, Bosnia and Greece—since the beginning of Red Cross relief operations in Central Europe, while millions of dollars worth of food alone has been sent to the needy in these states.

The money expended by the Red Cross in this stricken portion of Europe has been used to set up hospitals, orphanages, dispensaries, mobile medical units and to help in the general reconstruction of devastated areas. American tractors and other farming implements have been sent to the agricultural regions where aid has been given in plowing the land.

By the last of this year probably all American Red Cross agencies administering relief in Central Europe will have withdrawn. By that time, it is believed, the people will have approached a normal state of living and will be able through their own agencies which the Red Cross has helped set up to provide for themselves.

FAIR IS COLLEGE AND PLAYGROUND

MICHIGAN'S OWN EXPOSITION
PEOPLE'S PROPERTY—OCCUPIES FIRST PLACE AMONG STATE FAIRS.

PROFITS GO BACK INTO PREMIUMS, IMPROVEMENTS

When the Michigan State Fair gates are thrown open to the public Sept. 3, the seventy-first annual exposition of the largest state fair in America will be under way. This statement may cause surprise, among many persons in the state for there are many who do not realize that in the Michigan State Fair they have the most influential institution of its kind.

The first Michigan State Fair was held in 1849 and it has been a prominent institution ever since. Although in the last 71 years its come has been in several different places, it has been located on the big fair grounds fronting on Woodward avenue in Detroit since 1905.

The organization of the institution which operates the fair is not completely understood among all of the people of the state and there are many persons who do not understand that the fair property actually is the property of the people of the state.

The Michigan Agricultural Society, which operates the fair, was created by a special act of the legislature for the purpose of conducting the state fair. The property is vested in the society, to which an person in the state may become a member by purchasing a season ticket to the fair. Although the actual title of the fair is in the name of the society, in case of disbandment all of the assets now grown into millions, would revert back to the state.

All money taken in by the fair above actual expenses goes into premiums and permanent improvements. It is through the surplus added up annually that the fair property has been built up to its present state.

Growth of the fair has actually started in 1849, just when modern business methods were installed and when G. W. Dickinson was made its first manager.

When the fair was placed on the basis of a non-profit institution, the first almost voluntary act in its history was to make it a non-profit institution. It was agreed to adopt a policy of building up which in many instances were directly opposed to the fundamental principle which it was created to serve. Any addition to the fund had to be in the past, however, and has been overlooked by the great work now being done by the entire state.

It has become a great annual celebration for the people of Michigan. It is a fair, a recreation for the people of the state. It is in service to the people and entertainment for the people. It is entirely for the benefit of the people and for the benefit of the state.

The Michigan State Fair is drawing the interest of the youth of Michigan to the fair. It has become a great university of farming and a big school for the state of many other sciences and trades. And with its opportunity for serious application to the gaining of valuable knowledge it offers entertainment and recreation to hundreds of thousands of persons each year. Last year the attendance was 750,000. This year it will reach 1,000,000 it is believed.

It is the aim of the fair association to offer something to each one of these 1,000,000 visitors. The purpose of the management is to make the Michigan State Fair, owned by the people of Michigan, and institution from which all the people of Michigan can obtain something of real worth to themselves.

TRY A LINE IN THE RECORD.

THE RIGHT MAN FOR THE RIGHT PLACE.

One of the most important offices—it is not the most important one—to be voted for next Tuesday, is that of county treasurer. The man nominated for this office will, during his term of office have the handling of thousands of dollars, belonging to the taxpayers of the county. The office consequently demands an intelligent, efficient and experienced business man.

For this office Chas. O. Bell, formerly chief bookkeeper in the county treasurer's office, probably is receiving more support and more mention than any other candidate. Mr. Bell is an experienced bookkeeper, accountant and financial man, having installed bookkeeping systems in many of the large firms in Detroit. Not only is he experienced along these lines, but his many years' experience in the county treasurer's office, has given him an insight into the needs of this office, that no other candidate possesses.

Thousands upon thousands of voters all over Wayne county will remember Mr. Bell as the man who first caught the falsifications and shortages of Tony Kloka and reported them to the county auditors nearly 9 months before that body of officials made them public. For this reason alone Mr. Bell has been persona non grata, with the editors every since, and accounts for the fact that they are against him to a man, just as they were against "Bully" Green. Like Mr. Green, however, Mr. Bell is making his campaign direct with the voters, and is not letting a few politicians, who have been in the trough for a decade, decide whether or not he can run for office.

If the voters of Wayne county consult their own interests, they will see that Mr. Bell is nominated for county treasurer next Tuesday.

Punctuality Valuable Asset.

Many of young men have failed of promotion or lost good positions because of the lack of punctuality. There is no more desirable business qualification than this and no other so indispensable to a man of affairs, or to any one who would save his own time and that of others. "If a man has no regard for the time of other men," said Horace Greeley, "why should he have for their money? What is the difference between taking a man's hour and taking his $5? There are many men to whom each hour of the business day is worth many times $5."—Chicago Daily News.

Motive Power Weak.

Lura Florence has heard a great deal of talk about mamma's electric being without power and the necessity of charging it. One day she was told to remove her rubbers and take them to her room. She failed to do this and later was asked why she had not done so. She replied: "I did not have power enough; I had to stop and charge up."

OAKLAND COUNTY BOY SEEKS NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR

THE HUMAN SIDE OF FRANK R. LELAND PRESENTS INTERESTING BIT OF READING.

A candidate for office should not be judged by what he promises but by what he already has accomplished and by what the people know he really stands for. Measured by that rule, what kind of a man is Frank B. Leland, candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket at the primaries to be held the 31st of August?

Business Qualifications.
Mr. Leland first demonstrated his business capacity when he entered the University of Michigan with one hundred dollars as his total resources, which sum he borrowed, took six full years of college work in that time, each summer by canvassing earning sufficient to pay one year's expenses in the University, and at the end not owing a dollar in the world and having received no financial assistance whatever from any person.

Interest in Education.
Mr. Leland always has been actively interested in educational matters. At sixteen he was a teacher in a district school in Michigan, and for over twelve years has been one of the Regents of our University, acting continuously as chairman of the finance committee of the University during nearly the whole of that time and still occupying that position.

His Human Side.
No one in Michigan ever has shown greater interest in the health and welfare of the poor than has Mr. Leland, his greatest endeavor in this direction being evidenced by his efforts toward bettering the condition of those of our people afflicted with tuberculosis, both in Detroit and elsewhere.

For five years he was president of the Michigan State Sanitarium. This position he resigned for the purpose of taking up the work in Detroit where he first suggested the plan of erecting the Detroit Tuberculosis Sanitarium. This institution is now in its eleventh year, having cared for upwards of four thousand of the tuberculosis poor of Detroit and vicinity.

Mr. Leland designed and erected the first school for tuberculosis children in this country at his own expense and presented it to the city of Detroit. In addition to an open air school room, containing dining room, kitchen, bath room and a large rest room. The success of the school was such that the city following its opening, at the suggestion of the Detroit Board of Education, Mr. Leland erected another school of similar design and presented it to the city for both these schools being furnished by the Detroit Board of Education.

A volunteer single American soldier having tuberculosis returned from Europe, Mr. Leland anticipated the fact that this disease was sure to make more the ranks of our men. He is now in the Detroit Board of Education, Mr. Leland erected another school of similar design and presented it to the city for both these schools being furnished by the Detroit Board of Education.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Cudaback returned to their home at Flint, Saturday, after spending the week visiting relatives and friends in Northville and Novi. Mrs. Geo. Ford accompanied them as far as Pontiac.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ford of Northville, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cudaback of Flint, and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Taylor and son of Novi, motored to Belle Isle last Thursday and spent the day.

Mrs. E. A. Kohler and two sons, were guests of Mrs. Kohler's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Merrill, at their Walled-Lake cottage, from Thursday until Saturday of last week.

Earl Stimpson, who is playing ball with the New Haven, Conn. team this season is temporarily out of the game with a broken rib. He has been going strong with the "d" on "easters" and friends here will regret to learn of his misfortune.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lawrence and two children, accompanied by the latter's sister Miss Gladys Black, motored to Michigan Wednesday to visit relatives. They intend to stop at Lansing, and will return to Northville next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Riggs left Plymouth Tuesday for Venice, Calif., where they expect to make their future home. They have purchased a home in that city and will be pleasantly situated in that beautiful coast city. Friends in this section will join The Record in the wish that the change of climate may prove beneficial to Mr. Riggs' health.

Fred E. Field, a former Milford resident, but who has been in Detroit for a number of years, has purchased the H. J. Wilde & Son stock of groceries and meats and will continue the business. He contemplates carrying a very complete line of fancy and staple groceries and choice meats, and improving the service of the store in many ways.

An all-day bake sale will be held in Elliott's hardware store, Saturday, Sept. 4th, under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Not only members of the Union but all ladies who are willing to lend a hand to a good cause for our community are asked to contribute to this bake sale. The goods sold ready if they are only brought in. "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

The Northville schools will reopen Monday, September 6th, for the registering of students, regular classes beginning on Tuesday, September 7th. Remember the primary election next Tuesday. It is an important matter, and one that is too often neglected by the voters of the state. Go to the polls and do your part in selecting the best men to be candidates at the November election.

WANTS ALL HE BOUGHT.
Claiming that the defendants refuse to deal him as much property as was included in his original deal, Dr. A. T. Holcomb of Novi, has started proceedings in circuit court against Herman and Pauline Czenkusch of Walled Lake. Dr. Holcomb claims he contracted to buy four lots with lake frontage from the defendants but that when he recently demanded a deed they refused to deed him the portion of land lying between a road and the lake which would deprive the lots of all lake frontage. The Novi physician asks that the defendants be compelled to deed to him the amount of land included in his contract.—Pontiac Press.

Seven Things To Be Sure Of

IN THE PURCHASE OF YOUR PIPELESS HEATING SYSTEM

1. That the quality of heating service assures a comfortable, clean, healthful home in any weather.
2. That the convenience of simple operation, regulation, and quick heating compares favorably with much more expensive types of heating systems.
3. That the low first cost is due to economy of material and labor instead of cheapness of construction.
4. That the fuel bill can be reduced from 1-4 to 1-3—enough to save handsome dividends on the amount invested.
5. That the "upkeep" or expense for repairs is positively less than any other types of heating systems.
6. That you are protected at this store, because of the manufacturer's refusal to authorize installation where their trained heating engineers cannot safely guarantee it to operate efficiently in your home, their decision being made after careful study of conditions in your home—no guess work—thus protecting all concerned.
7. That the purchase will increase the value of your property more than the amount invested.

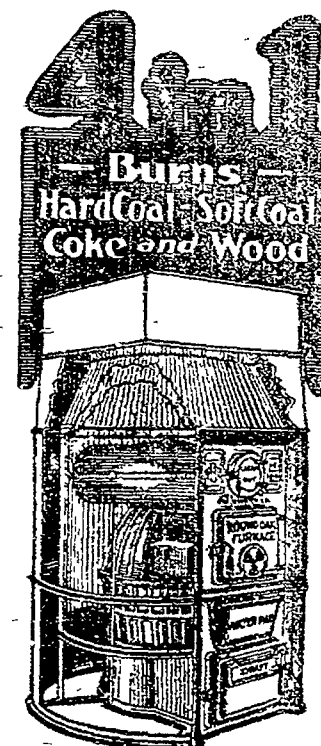

ALL ARE TRUE OF THE ROUND OAK
THAT'S WHY WE SELL AND RECOMMEND IT
