A Happy Circumstance

About seven out of every ten boys or girls we have asked the question are ready for school next week.

It speaks well for our school, but better for the youngsters. But why not?

Did you ever stop in front of one of our schools when the young people are gathering just before a session and noted their happy faces and prosperous appearance. They are well dressed, and being well dressed is as essential to a pupil as a good appearance is to anyone in any walk of life.

Have you provided your girl with her new School Dresses, Middies, Hair Bows, Combs, Barrettes, Bloomers and Cadet Stockings and American Lady Corsets?

ENJOYED A PROGRESSIVE LUNCHEON.

A farewell was tendered Mrs. A. E. Stanley on Wednesday afternoon by a number of Northville ladies. The affair was planned as a progressive luncheon by Mesdames W. H. Yerkes, W. G. Yerkes and R. C. Yerkes, and the eighteen ladies who composed the merry company enjoyed the novelty very much. Autos were provided and the guests were driven about the village and out into the country and finally the conveyances were halted at the home of Mrs. W. H. Yerkes where the first course of the splendid luncheon was served. The second stop on the "highway of merriment" was made at the home of Mrs. W. G. Yerkes, where the second course was partaken of and then after more mysterious motoring the third and last stop was made at the home of Mrs. R. C. Yerkes, where the final course was spread and the remainder of the afternoon spent in a most delightful manner. The only out-of-town guest was Mrs. W. B. Penfield of Detroit.

As the guests took their departure late in the afternoon each one expressed the wish that happiness and good fortune might accompany the honored guest of the afternoon, and the hope that she might some day decide to return to Northville to reside.

THEIR TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.
When Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Macomber returned from a drive Sunday, August 29th, they were greeted with a surprise. They were surprised by relatives and friends from Detroit who dressed in ancient costumes, received them at the door and ushered them in to the scenes of Lohengrin's wedding march.

The bride was adorned with a veil of old lace worn on her wedding day and the groom wore the same derby hat, which became him very much.

They were led to the altar by the Rev. Cole followed by the flower girl with trailing "Arbutus" and the maid of honor and the several bridesmaids with picture hats.

They were presaged with a beautiful table lamp and many choice flowers.

Covers were laid for twenty-five and a sumptuous wedding feast was enjoyed.

Guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. T. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. O. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. F. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. F. Grandy, Frank Rea, Carl Carlson, Chas. Cole, Mesdames Mattie Beam, Bell Beam, Louise Albrow and Gene Parker, all of Detroit.

STEALS OVERLAND CAR.

Harold Gamon, fifteen-year-old Detroit boy, attempted to drive away an Overland car belonging to C. V. Bovee, local manager of the Standard Oil Co. station, Saturday morning. Mr. Bovee happened to see the boy as he was starting off and gave chase in another automobile, catching the young man several miles down the cement road. He was brought back to Northville and lodged in the jail, later being taken to the Detention Home in Detroit by Officer Lyke. The boy claims that this was his first offense. He had been wandering around this vicinity for several days.

BUTLER IS IN THE LEAD.

Over in Oakland county the contest for sheriff was a most spirited one with a big field of candidates. James S. Butler was leading the field yesterday morning by a good big vote.

NORTHVILLE CAST A GOOD VOTE TUESDAY

Compared with other sections about the state there was an unusually large vote polled in Northville at the primary election on Tuesday. From all parts of the state the vote was very light, the voters showing but little interest in the outcome of the various contests. In Northville a total of 242 voters went to the polls—135 in precinct one and 107 in precinct two. The real contests of the day locally were between the various candidates for county officers, and that was manifested largely in the nomination of sheriff, prosecuting attorney, treasurer and county auditor. The vote for governor was pretty badly split up, with Leland, Mott and Martindale leading the field in the order named. Leland received 65, Mott 47, Martindale 32, Groesbeck 24, Campbell 20, Dickinson 27, Earl 6, Glasgow 2, Ferris 4, Hamilton 2. For lieutenant governor Read received 90 and Scully 73. For representative in congress Kelly received 177 and Milo Johnson 139 for representative Hayes, for state senator, received 146.

For sheriff Coffin received 133, Williams 19, Martz 5. For prosecuting attorney Voorhies led the field with 139, Cox 55, Bernard 10. For county auditor Green made a good run, and received 148 votes, Guinan 55, Walker 3, VanAntwerp 1.

In the race for county treasurer, in which there were five candidates, Gale led the field with 95, Frievald received 50, Bell 26, Glago 16 and Davy 16.

Burgess carried off the honors in the vote for coroner, receiving 205 votes, Parker 33, Rothacker 41, Grimes 28, Brinkrick 26, Rottenburg 9.

For county surveyor Parker received 148 votes to 25 for Greenburg, and Dingman easily led the field of four candidates for deputy commissioner, receiving 69 votes, Grant had 43, Lawrence 34, Braun 12.

C. A. McCullough and W. H. Sanford were elected delegates to the republican county convention.

KINDNESS APPRECIATED.

Secretary P. S. Neal of the Northville Automobile club received the following letter from Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, department of health commissioner of the city of Detroit, expressing his appreciation of the kindness shown the children at Forest Hill camp by the citizens of this community.

"When at Northville Thursday we learned with great interest of the splendid outing when your association and the children at the open air camp gathered on the hospital property owned by the city of Detroit. We want to express to you our appreciation of your kindness, not only to ourselves but for the youngsters who were more than pleased with the automobile outing. The children at this camp, as you know, have been drawn from home conditions in this city, which are not conducive to good health and are the type of youngsters who know how to appreciate a courtesy of this character."

CAMP TO CLOSE SATURDAY.

Forest Hill fresh air camp which has been conducted by the health department of the city of Detroit among the hills west of Northville for the past few weeks will close Saturday after a most enjoyable and helpful season. For the past few weeks about 150 children from Detroit homes whose parents one or both of them, are suffering from tuberculosis, have been given outings here and judging from their rosy complexions and general appearances they will return to the city better prepared to fight against the plague which is gradually sapping on the lives of father or mother.

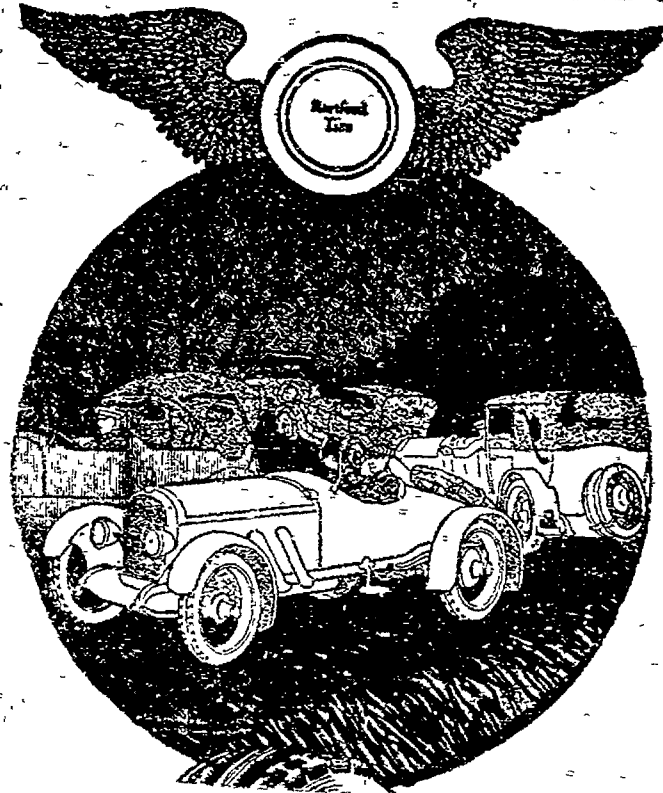

The children have been well cared for and have been taught many things regarding health exercises and helpful foods and it is hoped the training thus acquired may prove of very great value to them.

THREE BIG DAYS AT LAKE ORION.

Thomas M. Reid, property lessee of Island Park, Lake Orion, is perfecting plans for a big three day celebration September 4, 5 and 6. There will be many water feasts and at noon Monday the biggest ox ever roasted in Michigan will be served for dinner to the gathering hosts.

Wm. E. Matheson and daughter, Mrs. Eva Haras and children, left for Albion, Saturday, to visit relatives and friends. They returned Wednesday.

'Laws of Nature Do Not Change With Our Temperamental Changes.'

By LYNN HAROLD HOUGH, Retiring Pres't Northwestern University.

A clever American once described a paradox as a truth which someone has stood on its head in order to attract attention. Gilbert Chesterton has spent most of his life standing truths and some falsehoods on their heads and the process has attracted a good deal of attention. On the whole his influence has made for stability and steadiness, for all of his literary audacity is the expression of a very cautious and conservative mind. Once he was discussing a law and its relation to life. What he said can be put into one sentence: "You cannot break the law of gravitation, you can only illustrate it." The man who jumps from a high cliff, for instance, does not free himself from this law. He surrenders to its inflexible action.

We may not live in a new world since the war. But we do surely live in a world with a new psychology. Artificial restraints are hated and cast off. The very breath of freedom is in the air. It is a golden day for experiments. It is the period of the apotheosis of the untried.

All this means that life has freshness and vigorous incentive. The new mood may be productive of immense good. At the same time we need to remember that the laws of nature do not change with our temperamental changes. And we need to remember that the whole vast system of uniform action in which we find ourselves moves its sure and silent way quite apart from the white caps which show their teeth on the surface of our lives.

There is a real freedom in this world of law. But it is achieved by mastering the meaning of the laws of life and bending them to our purpose by our very conforming to their behests.

The man who ignores the laws of nature and of life is merely courting disaster. However plausible the phrases in which he describes the dauntless freedom of the life.

Freedom and law together make the sum of life. The wise man understands them both and fits them into the structure of his activity. A law becomes your slave when you conform to it.

The aviator has a wonderful freedom in the air. But all this freedom is based upon the observance of law. We may take long flights in this new and wonderful day. But our machines must be built in the closest conformity to the laws of nature and the pilot must be a man whose very audacious freedom is based on obedience.

Fundamental Difference Between Two Schools Concerning Human Body.

By MRS. H. A. D. FISHER, Wife of British Minister of Education.

Courtesy of the British Minister of Education, I am glad to be able to express my views on the fundamental difference between two schools of thought concerning the human body. He did not think that the dancers of the bridge looked their best in their own country, and he thought that the color of the body, holding the mind and the body, would, in consequence, be a matter of importance.

No doubt there are many people who only admire the human form when it is further removed from nature. But, after all, they do not regret at the best of the most pronounced view. It is not really on esthetic grounds that opposition to mixed bathing is based. The plea, it is to be feared, is really a camouflage. The fundamental difference of opinion is between those who hold that the body is something which should be covered and mentioned with adequate reserve, and those who hold that it is beautiful and glorious in itself.

Closely related, in fact, to the first of these is the view that makes even a simple relation, to be referred to only in whispers, to be kept from the knowledge of the young, a secret and a mystery compounded of allurement, danger, and mystery. It is because the view of its modification has so long prevailed that we still have to contend with our annual 40,000 illegitimate children, or young people with lives ruined through ignorance, our children and our youth, by the sins or follies of their parents.

We want them to be beautiful and healthy bodies and to take a whole new pride in their health and beauty. To that end we want a great extension of facilities for physical training, for games, folk dancing, singing, open-air life, sports, and certainly for swimming—one of the most health-giving of all exercises. The old-fashioned view of the body, but it is passing, and most of us had with joy this new era, in which young men and young women meet in healthy and open companionship, believing that the right marriage will be encouraged and firm foundations laid for the happiness and prosperity of the race.

Where the White Race Stands as the Result of the Great World War.

By LOTHROP STODDARD, in "The Rising Tide of Color."

Turning to a racial instead of a political map, one sees that instead of being nine-tenths white, the world is, as a matter of racial fact, only four-tenths white. The rest is occupied by colored races.

Today, against the actual barriers of the white world, the barriers composed of white flesh and blood, the rising tide of color is beating, and will beat yet more fiercely as congested population and quickened self-consciousness and a heightened sense of power impel the colored world to expansion and dominion.

This colored peril has three facets: The peril of arms, the peril of markets and the peril of migration.

As to the peril of arms we must realize that the brown and yellow races possess great military potentialities, likely to be organized at any time for revolt for reasons like overpopulation.

The second, or economic phase, though not a serious factor yet, must be reckoned with as something which will increasingly complicate the relations of the white and non-white worlds, and even today tends to intensify Asiatic desires for expansion.

The third facet, the question of Asiatic immigration, is incomparably the greatest external problem which today faces the white world. It infinitely transcends the peril of arms or markets, since it threatens not merely our supremacy or prosperity, but our very race existence.

The grim truth of the matter is this: The whole white race is exposed, immediately or ultimately, to the possibility of racial sterilization and final replacement by the teeming colored races.

Negligees Revel in Ribbons

HERE is a negligee that will appeal to gentlewomen, being made in graceful and modest fashion, of lace and ribbon—those twin, time-honored companions of beauty. The designer is in such materials, and when she is turned loose to go as far as she likes, we have negligees and negligees; some of them during a few seasons, and some of them adorably simple and consistent, such as the amateur dress-maker may undertake with confidence and finish with satisfaction.

Any of the wide, sheer lace flounce lines and other lace patterns may be used, but a negligee of this kind. They are lovely when lined with crepe or chiffon in a pale color, and with a ribbon chosen to bear out, in another color, perhaps, the color used. A negligee made of lace and unlined may be worn over an undershirt of thin silk. The negligee has lines as delicate and simple as those of a nightgown, develops a little fullness at the front and back and is drawn in at the waistline by ribbon that slips through slashes in the lace and lining. Provoked satin ribbon in two widths is used for decorating it; the little loops along its edges make it easy to adjust and stitch down to curves. It borders and trims the sleeves and finishes the neck on the wider width, utilizing the narrower for a girder and sash.

If the creator of this negligee had gone no farther with ribbons than to use them in bands and borders, the result would have been pretty and "old-fashioned." But it is the addition of ribbon roses, set in a little foliage, at the bottom and in the sleeves that make the final captivating touch which only genius knows how to give. They are a charming element that it will prove it is to give.

Party Frocks for the Younger Set

THE young girl who goes away to school likes to take at least one party frock with her, and to start with, that is quite enough. At this time, before the new designs have been presented to the public and passed upon—or passed up—it is not so easy to decide upon the styles that will prove desirable and develop into fashions. But the earliest showings include some pretty and conservative frocks that will hold their own with any that may follow them.

One of those simple, graceful, inconspicuous frocks that never grows tiresome is shown above. It is made of pale rose batiste and has many frills of narrow lace running up the seams and about the skirt, which is rather full and hangs straight. The bodice is plain with a fichu collar edged with a frill of lace opening over a vestee made entirely of lace frills. The sleeves are long with frills at the wrist. The pride and glory of this frock is its ribbon sash, in pale blue, made of satin ribbon not very wide, but extravagantly long and having a full bow of short loops. It is a prodigal affair, going to extremes after the manner of youth itself. Altogether—design, color and decoration—the ensemble is very youthful and charming.

A sprightly tulle frock is another good choice for the beginning of the school year's gayeres. Made with a full skirt and quaint surplice bodice with elbow sleeves. It may be trimmed with small flat roses in a girder about the waist and set in prim rows as a finish to the sleeves and border about the skirt. Any of the light evening shades are available for a frock of this kind. Colored tulle makes a fine foundation for a frock of shimmer.

A full, straight skirt of net with a border of barb lace at the bottom and inserted something less than half way up the length of it, is joined to a plain bodice with wide fichu of the net. The fichu is edged with lace and terminates at the front in a girder of wide, soft satin ribbon.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR EXPORTING LIVE STOCK AND FARM PRODUCE

American Farm Products That "Go Down to the Sea in Ships."

Up to four years ago but little systematic work had been done by the United States toward the promotion of the interests of American farmers in export trade. Occasionally experts were sent abroad to study demands and methods in foreign countries, but the information furnished was fragmentary and of a general nature.

Then the United States Department of agriculture organized a division of foreign marketing investigations as an adjunct of the bureau of markets. Designed to assist normal trading and the development of foreign markets for American agricultural products, the division's work during the war period was devoted largely to preparation for conditions after the cessation of hostilities. An extensive survey of the fruit markets of the far East and Australia was made; and certain phases of the live stock, meat, dairy and wool industries of Australia were studied.

Plans Got Under Way.

With the signing of the armistice the bureau of markets got under way plans for more extensive work in foreign countries, such as investigations of the European seed markets and an extensive survey of the live stock, meat and dairy situation. The bureau of markets has the cooperation of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and of the consular service of the department of state.

There are many tremendous opportunities for American farmers in agricultural products in foreign markets. In 1910 the total foreign trade in agriculture products approximated $1,016,000,000. In 1919 the business totaled $1,257,900,000. Allowing for the difference in the buying power of the dollar in 1919 and in 1910, these figures still show an increase of more than 100 per cent. In foodstuffs alone, for example, the increase in the quantity exported during the period from 1915 to 1919 inclusive, showed an increase of about 100 per cent over that of 1910-1911.

Of course this tremendous increase was produced largely by war conditions and conditions which resulted from the war, but every effort should be made to maintain this business and to increase it. The bureau of markets is actively engaged to the limit of its capacity in obtaining the fullest information as to the opportunities for the exportation of all surplus farm products and in placing these data before the American farmer.

As an example of what has been accomplished in the live stock to the value of $46,000,000 has been purchased in this country during the past six months by So in American buyers to whom the bureau gave assistance leading up to the sales.

Buy Purebreds in This Country.

Purebred live stock throughout the world are coming in increasing numbers to the United States where they are finding the greatest number of breeds and assurance of every facility for obtaining exactly the animals desired.

The general subjects of investigation by the bureau are:

1. The supply of agricultural products in foreign markets and the export surplus in the principal foreign countries with which the United States competes.
 2. The consumption and demands in the principal importing countries.
 3. The market preferences as to kinds of products and the requirements as to grading, packing and branding.
 4. The channels of trade through which the products pass and the business practice involved.
 5. The methods and costs of marketing both American and foreign products.
 6. Methods of financing, export trade in agricultural products.
 7. The export forwarding, storage, transportation, and insuring of agricultural products.
 8. The economical conditions influencing the marketing of American agricultural products in foreign countries.
 9. Trade opportunities for American agricultural products.
- While few individual producers are in a favorable position, on account of the limited volume of their produce, to enter foreign markets, growers who are members of co-operative organizations find the bureau's service of great value. Not only is general information accorded them upon request, but specific inquiries are constantly answered, regarding prices, trend of the trade, freight and ocean rates, cartage, insurance, grading, packing, methods of shipping, shipping facilities, competition of other countries, stocks on hand, in various parts of the world, customs and trade restrictions. The bureau urges every farmer, whether a member of a co-operative organization or a prospective member, to study foreign marketing conditions.

DOCKAGE MAXIMS

The percentage of dockage is an essential factor in arriving at the true value of a lot of wheat. This dockage may consist of either useful or harmful foreign materials.

The various methods of handling dockage should be carefully investigated and the one that is best suited to the needs of the local conditions should be adopted.

When a large percentage of dockage is present in wheat it is advisable to remove it on the farm or at the point of shipment and thus avoid paying the freight for the dirt, chaff, weed seeds, etc., on the basis of the rate for wheat.

The farmer gets a higher numerical grade for his wheat under the dockage system of the foreign grades than he would under a system of grading that does not require a determination for the dockage but lowers the grade on account of the total foreign material present in the wheat imported at country points.

The dockage system in operation protects the farmer from the possibility of low prices fixed by the local buyers in order to insure a safe purchase on a flat rate basis.

MARKET FOR GUINEA EGG NOT ATTRACTIVE

Cannot Compete Successfully With Ordinary Hens.

Owing to Natural Tendency of Fowl to Nest in Well-Hidden Place, Many of Eggs Are Not Found Until Nearly Spoiled.

As profitable egg producers, guinea hens cannot compete, with ordinary hens, but during the latter part of spring and throughout the summer they are persistent layers. The eggs are smaller than hen eggs, weighing about 1.4 ounces each, while eggs of the common fowl average about two ounces each; consequently guinea eggs sell at a price somewhat lower.

There is no special market for guinea eggs, and they are usually graded by dealers as small hens' eggs. Owing to the natural tendency of the guinea hen to nest in a patch of weeds or some other well-hidden place, many of the eggs are not found until they are no longer fit for market. The shells of guinea eggs are so thick and often so dark that it is difficult to test them by candling. For this reason, and also because the eggs are small, dealers do not like to handle them. For home use, however, guinea eggs can be made to take the place of hen eggs, and many regard them as superior in flavor. In composition the greatest difference is that the shell is thicker and the yolk makes up a slightly larger proportion of the total egg contents than in the case of hen eggs, poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture say.

Seven Things To Be Sure Of

IN THE PURCHASE OF YOUR PIPELESS HEATING SYSTEM

1. That the quality of heating service assures a comfortable, clean, healthful home in any weather.
2. That the convenience of simple operation, regulation, and quick heating compares favorably with much more expensive types of heating systems.
3. That the low first cost is due to economy of material and labor instead of cheapness of construction.
4. That the fuel bill can be reduced from 1-4 to 1-3—enough to save handsome dividends on the amount invested.
5. That the "upkeep" or expense for repairs is positively less than any other types of heating systems.
6. That you are protected at this store, because of the manufacturer's refusal to authorize installation where their trained heating engineers cannot safely guarantee it to operate efficiently in your home, their decision being made after careful study of conditions in your home—no guess work—thus protecting all concerned.
7. That the purchase will increase the value of your property more than the amount invested.

LOWER PRICES STILL IN THE DISTANCE.

During the past few months some people have been led to believe that prices would be lower for all kinds of merchandise with the opening of the fall season. This belief was fostered in many instances by the numerous "reduction sales" conducted by the large city stores, but now that the new fall goods are upon the shelves it is evident that the lower prices are still some distance in the future, and a long way off from realization. In discussing this problem the Free Press gives a very reasonable and sensible review of the situation. "Merchants," says the Free Press, "are not disposed to do much prophesying over the possible advent of lower prices at once—most of them are of the opinion that the decline will surely come, but will be gradual. Too much stress, it is apparent, is being laid upon recent drops in the cost of raw material, and the supposition that a decided drop in the cost, for instance, wool, will bring cheaper clothing—at once is a delusion—for two reasons. The first is that clothing, shoes, millinery, etc., is all made months ahead of the time it appears on display in the retail stores. In fact, almost any line of manufactured goods requires a year from the collection of raw material to the spot of delivery to the ultimate consumer. Fall shoes and clothing now offered was made long ago. Thus a recent drop in raw material prices cannot be of effect. The second reason is that the cost of the raw material is generally an extremely small item in the cost of the article. About four pounds of wool in a suit cost a month ago $3.20. A drop of 30 cents per pound or over 37% makes a difference in the cost of a suit of only $1.20. Yet the drop in the wool price is a sensation on the wool market.

"The same is true of shoes. Only about three feet of leather is required—a sensational drop in hide prices has very little result in the cost of a finished shoe."

WILL MAKE GOOD GOVERNOR.

While many people throughout the state were surprised at the wonderful race made in the gubernatorial contest by Attorney General A. A. Garfield of Detroit, yet none will regret that he is to be the republican standard bearer in Michigan this fall. He is young, vigorous, fearless, and possesses a natural temperament that will stand him in good stead in the executive office at Lansing. No one will need to ask after January 1st next, who is the real governor of Michigan for Garfield will be on the job and let us hope he will clean out some of the rubbish at the state house and let the various departments that have been accumulating for many years.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

The gate wardens of Monroe county have requested the farmers to protect their fall and winter crops, and to provide suitable places for shelter during the cold winter months. The closed season for these little feathered friends will be this fall and unless some concerted action is taken to protect them they will all be killed off in about two Sunday shootings. Farmers tell us that quail have become very tame during the closed season and that they frequently come into the barns and about the feeding places. The proposed plan to protect them is a good suggestion.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

Well, how have you enjoyed your vacation? I trust it has been both pleasant and profitable, and that you are ready to enter with real zest into your work once more. For five Sundays we have had no services in our church except the two union evening meetings. Next Sunday September 5th, we open up "for business" again, with morning service at 10:30, Sunday school at 12:00 and evening service at 7:30. Now, here is a question: Shall we leave a few of the members to start the thing off next Sunday and the rest of us drop in a few at a time as the weeks go by, or shall we all feel that this first day is our day, and make it a really big, inspiring day by all coming to ALL the services and thus proving that a vacation is really a good thing? The question is for YOU to answer. Morning sermon subject: "Impossibilities and Possibilities." Evening: "The Cry of the World's Heart—and Its Answer." Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30.

Value of Youthful Thinking.

We are learning that the fabled foundation of youth lies in our own past is in our own mentality. Perpetual rejuvenation and renewal are possible through right thinking. We look as old as we think and feel. Because thought and feeling maintain or change our appearance in exact accordance with their persistence, in their variations. It is impossible to appear youthful and remain young unless we feel young. Youthful thinking should be a life habit.—Grisen Smith Maiden in Chicago Daily News.

Wesley's Physical Toughness.

Spare diet and constant exercise in the keen morning air helped to endow Wesley with that amazing physical toughness which enabled him, when eight-five years old, to walk six miles to a preaching appointment and declare that the only sign of old age he felt was that "he could not walk nor run quite so fast as he once did."—W. H. Fritchett in "Wesley and His Country."

Similar Cases Being Published in Each Issue.

The following case is but one of many occurring daily in Northville. It is an easy matter to verify it. You cannot ask for better proof.

J. D. Miller, farmer, R. F. D. No. 1, Northville, says: "About a year ago, I had a pretty severe attack of kidney trouble. I got down so I had to try off work for six weeks. The doctor told me I had uremic acid in my system and gave me medicine. He also put me on a diet. For a time it helped me, but the medicine seemed to lose its effect and as if anything I seemed to be getting worse under the doctor's treatment. Backache nearly set me wild and the kidney secretions contained sediment and didn't pass freely enough. Dr. J. D. Miller's pills were recommended to me, so I went to the Northville Drug Co. and got two boxes. It was no time before I was relieved. This remedy seemed to be just what I required and four boxes cured me entirely."

BRUISED REEDS

By GERTRUDE CUSHING.

(Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"And I contend that it is the experiences and exercises of the mind that cause age to appear in the body. It is the knowledge of good and evil and the consequent ever-increasing obligation to discriminate, together with the sorrow incident to failure, intentional or otherwise."

"Then you think that if the brain ceased at any given minute to develop, from that minute the body would remain unchanged in line and color and expression?"

"Something like that."

"Can you give a case in point?"

"The question came from a third man, who up to this point had taken no part in the discussion."

"The three men, until the day before, were gathered in a room in a small hotel in western Massachusetts. A snapping wood fire flamed in the grate, a pack of well-thumbed cards and tall glasses containing some stimulating brew were helping to dispel the monotony of a desperately stormy evening."

"Yes," replied the first man, "in a very few words. Do you remember the oddly dressed young woman on the station platform when we left the train yesterday? Well, this is her story."

"She was a girl in this town when I was a boy, some 20 years ago. The winter she was eighteen she spent in New York, visiting an aunt. In the spring she came back, engaged to be married. In the fall her lover came up for three or four weeks and the wedding took place at the end of that time. They went to New York to live. We all liked him, and her letters home always sounded as though she was entirely happy. The next summer he received a letter calling him to a mining district in Montana. It was said that it was business which demanded his personal attention. He brought her here to stay with her people until his return and from that day to this nothing has been heard from or of him. Whether the letter was a fraud, and that was a way he took to desert her or not, of course, I don't know. I have never thought so, however."

"For a while she put up a good fight. Then one day she collapsed utterly and cried continuously for hours. Nobody could do anything for her. At last it seemed as if something in her brain gave way and a complete change took place. She stopped grieving and declared her belief that her husband would return soon to surprise her and she must be ready for him."

"Each day she dresses with the utmost care, and goes to meet the New York train. Her life is lived at that minute and in that body she seems to be the girl who left her. You've heard my theory. Now, what's yours?"

"There was silence for a minute, then the third man spoke. He was a tall, stoop-shouldered man with extremely white hair and eyebrows and a peculiar, sliding grin. A hand old for his years, one would have said."

"Twenty years ago the 15th of July he began to 'open his eyes in a snuff box in a sort of improvised hospital ward in a mining town in Montana. The cold he had six weeks before had been so on the head by a piece of stone from the roof of a desert which had sprung loose. I was knocked unconscious and had been practically so ever since. When I looked at myself I was as you see me now. To all appearances an old man at twenty-three."

"I gained health and strength rapidly, and soon began to live again, but everything previous to that moment of my awakening on that 15th of July was a blank—an absolute void; and with memory went all capacity for intense feeling of any kind." He paused, deeply, then concluded: "I suppose that woman is my wife."

"That cold blooded statement brought the second man erect in his chair. 'Suppose she is?' My God, man, is that all you have to say? What are you going to do about it?"

"The third man rose slowly, thrusting his long arms upward, his face clenched as though in some dumb, hopeless way he were challenging the Infinite. When he answered, his voice seemed attuned to the play of the elements raging outside."

"She's in a fool's paradise—if I hope. Let her stay there. What can I do? I've got a wife and children in Claremont, Wyo. I married the girl who nursed me back to life. With that he shuffled from the room."

"To the devil with your theories," burst from the second man as he raised his glass unsteadily to his lips. The first man said nothing, but long after midnight he sat before the smoldering ashes."

Greatest Timber States.

The forests of western Oregon and Washington contain the largest reservoirs of virgin timber left in the United States, and a very large proportion of the lumber used by the country comes from this region, says the American Forestry Magazine (Washington D. C.). Washington has since 1905 held foremost place among the states in quantity of lumber produced; Oregon now ranks third in lumber production but first in volume of sawing timber, and it was not long ago that the increasing number of people here at the head or next to head of timber-producing states.

FEDERAL RAILWAYS BOARD RECOMMENDS SERVICE AT COST

Commissioner, Appointed by President Wilson, After Year's Inquiry, Asserts That Rides At Cost Arrangement is Best Solution of Street Car Problems.

M. O. NOT RECOMMENDED UNDER EXISTING CONDITIONS

Washington, Sept. 1.—Sweeping reforms in the electric railway industry, designed to restore public confidence and vitally needed credit, are recommended in a unanimous report made by the Federal Electric Railways commission to President Wilson. The commission has been investigating the condition of the industry for more than a year, during which time it has covered the field thoroughly by hearing ninety-five witnesses and examining hundreds of reports and answers to questionnaires.

Outstanding among the recommendations is that for the installation of the service-at-cost plan of operation. This plan, now operative in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dallas, Montreal and other cities, will, it is believed, remove the industry from the field of speculative gain, furnish rides at the lowest possible cost and restore credit and public confidence. Primarily, the plan provides for furnishing rides at actual cost which shall govern the rate of fares, and for protecting the investor by guaranteeing a fixed return on an agreed valuation of his holdings.

"We strongly recommend the principles of the service-at-cost contract, not as the only solution, but as one means of solving a very difficult problem," the report declares.

Chaos faces the industry unless credit is restored and co-operation between public, management and employees established, the report insists.

Managements are advised that their primary duty is to serve the public with the highest efficiency at the lowest cost, with their cards face upward on the table, and not to use the industry as a means of obtaining profits beyond what may be necessary for upkeep to pay a fair return upon the agreed value of the property and to secure the investment of funds further required. The public duty is declared to be the supervision and control of railway properties, with the view of safeguarding the public interest, and the allowance of such return upon the fair valuation of the property as may be agreed upon in the contract between the city and the company. The reason of such supervision is the future attitude of the public, should be one of friendliness and co-operation.

The commission recommends the elimination so far as practicable of special assessments for sprinkling, paving, etc., for construction and maintenance of bridges which are used by the public for highway purposes. These are burdens it is held, which should be borne by the entire community and should not be shifted from the automobile rider to the street car rider who is usually less able to bear it and whose personal use of such pavements, bridges, etc., is less.

As to the relative merits of public and private ownership and operation the report says: "We are unanimous in the opinion that under existing conditions, private ownership and operation is preferable to public ownership and operation."

Pointing to fare advances to as high as ten cents in many cities, since the outbreak of the war, which frequently have not proportionately increased revenue, the fixed uniform fare is termed a broken reed for the industry of the community to lean upon.

"Unless the usefulness of the electric railway is to be sacrificed," it is declared, "public control must be flexible enough to enable them to secure sufficient revenue to pay the entire cost of service rendered, including the necessary cost of both capital and labor."

One of the most striking features of this report is that it is unanimous, indicating an agreement among men of strong personality whose interests are so divergent as to cause the belief that they would not be able to agree upon the issues involved.

The Chairman, Charles E. Elmquist, was at the time of his appointment president of the National Association of State Utilities Boards; the vice chairman, Edwin F. Sweet is the Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and has served as mayor of Grand Rapids, Mich.; George L. Baker is the present mayor of Portland, Oregon; Philip H. Gadsden is President of the Charleston S. C. Consolidated Railway and Lighting Co. and he represented the American Electric Railways Association.

William D. Mahon is the president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, and Charles W. Beall, a New York banker, represented capital investors. Dr. Royal Meeker, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, was appointed as the representative of the Department of Labor, and Louis B. Wehle represented the Treasury Department.

In a letter to Chairman Charles E. Elmquist of the commission President Wilson declared: "I very much hope that this report will receive the wide publicity which it deserves and that it will be closely studied by all local regulatory authorities having to do with the affairs and interests of public service corporations."

ABOUT OUR NEIGHBORS.

Interesting items from our exchanges —gathered with pencil, paste pot and scissors.

Wm. Gayde of Plymouth has had on display in Gayde Bros' store, a head of cabbage, which he raised, that weighs 14 1/2 pounds.

Sixty relatives were present at the Richmond family reunion held at South Lyon, Aug. 21. The Richmonds trace their ancestry back to the Mayflower.

Harold Cole of Milford, has given up his position as motorcycle officer and will become a pilot for the Heppen Aviation Co. of Dowagiac. Mr. Cole will handle the plane at the Milford fair when flights will be given.

The Wakley wagon shop at Milford, which was established in the early seventies by the late A. S. Wakley, has been sold to R. F. Agnew. The shop was one of the oldest of Milford industries and did a flourishing business in the manner of carriages, carts, etc.

"FRAME-UP" IS CHARGED.

That 14-year-old Marguerite Huger was the victim of a "frame-up" is alleged in a signed statement attributed by police to Mrs. Lilah Crellaw, Northville, Mich.

The Huger girl has been missing since August 19, when she was brought a Detroit from her home in Plymouth.
The police are seeking Aaron M.
Risner, 32, said to be an amateur psychologist, as her abductor. W. F.
has been received in Plymouth that Risner, and the girl were married at Cumberland, Md., three days after leaving.

Police say Mrs. Crellaw's statement declares a man and woman in Norwood. Risner lure the girl from home.

FAST TRAIN WRECKED AND NO ONE INJURED.

A most remarkable wreck occurred on the Wabash railway at Belleville last Monday forenoon, when the westbound flyer was thrown from the track while traveling about fifty miles an hour.

Spreading of the rails is alleged to have been the cause of the accident and every car of the "long train" went into the ditch. Strange as it may seem, however, not a single passenger was injured. One of the brakemen was slightly injured and that was about the extent of the injury inflicted upon any one. The wreck occurred as the train was passing the station and the building was pretty badly wrecked and the platform surrounding the station was torn up.

Three newsboys who were standing on the platform had narrow escapes.

W. H. Safford of this village was in Belleville at the time of the accident and was an eye witness to the wreck.

DATES ARE CHOSEN.

The dates for annual Christmas seal sale of the Michigan Anti-Tuberculosis association are December 1 to December 11 according to the announcement made by Elizabeth L. Parker, secretary of the association. During the ten days an intensive drive will be made in every county and city to bring to light Christmas seals.

The total number of seals ordered for Michigan for this sale is found to be 100,000 to be sold at a price of one cent each.

The sale of the seal is being appointed out by Mrs. Parker that reservations in Michigan is a large problem and must be attacked in a large way.

There are each year some 3,500 deaths from this disease in this state, therefore at present between 75,000 and 80,000 cases of the disease in Michigan and the economic loss from the disease is on less than $15,000,000 a year.

Miss Ruby B. Carlton of Dimonsdale, Mich., will again be the seal sale director this year and she will assume active work on the campaign in September. Preparations for the campaign have been in progress for some time and the state will be thoroughly organized before the intensive campaign in December begins.

They were unattended. After spending some time in this city, Utica and Europe's Potato Crop.

In Europe potatoes are grown of different kinds for different purposes. Certain varieties are raised for cooking and others for starch making and distilling. Over there they have a so-called "stock potato," which is raised for human food at all. It is very large and coarse of texture and is utilized for feeding cattle. The yield to the acre is only the ordinary and the tubers being exceedingly rich in starch are great animal products.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Bowen and son left this week for Oakwood where Mr. Bowen will be superintendent of schools for the coming year. Many friends in this community will wish them an abundance of good fortune.

Remember the all-day bake sale at Elliott's hardware store this Saturday, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. All ladies who are willing to lend a hand to a good cause for our community, are asked to contribute to this bake sale.

The village is doing a fine job of cement work at the Wm. and High street crossings and a step is being constructed along the west side of North Center street, making a great improvement in the appearance of the street.

Kling Allen has purchased a farm of 73 acres in Lapeer county and moved his stock, tools and household goods to his new home the first of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Allen will take immediate possession of their newly acquired home.

Little Ruby Grace, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Grace, who was taken to a Detroit hospital where she had an operation performed by Dr. Kidner is reported to be doing well, although she will have to remain there for several weeks.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKenna at Salem, was the scene of an enjoyable gathering Sunday, August 29th, when the descendants of Silas and Mary C. Noble, old pioneers of Salem township, met for a family reunion. The next meeting will be held in August, 1921, in Gratiot county.

Miss Clara Beard is re-arranging and improving the interior of her millinery parlors the better to enable her to display the splendid assortment of fall millinery she has selected for Northville ladies. She recently returned from Chicago where she visited the display rooms of D. B. Fisk & Co., one of the largest wholesale millinery firms in the country, observing all the newest and latest models.

A Ford car, driven by two young men under the influence of liquor, crashed into a Dodge touring car Wednesday night on the Seven Mile road, near Gus Pankow's. The impact caused the Ford to slide into a deep ditch. The Dodge car which was standing in front of a farm house when the accident occurred, had one wheel damaged. The state police were immediately summoned.

In the announcement of the Columbia Body company, builders of winter tops for pleasure cars and trucks, which appeared in The Record, last week with other Detroit firms, there was a typographical error. This well known firm is located at 21-29 Selden avenue, and not, of course, at 221-29 as printed. Autoists and truck owners desiring to procure winter tops will do well to call upon the Columbia people for estimates.

The Northville Independents will play the Coco Cola team of Detroit on the local grounds Sunday afternoon. The visitors will be given a race for the honors by the new men lined up by the Independents.

Mrs. M. E. Flint of Chino, Calif., who will be remembered by many of our older residents, writes to The Record that she is slowly recovering from an illness of many months. Mrs. Flint has been a subscriber to this paper for over sixteen years.

MADE A FINE SHOWING.

J. W. Clapp writes The Record from Springfield, Ill., that at the largest Illinois State Fair ever held, showing against six other herds the herd of Berkshires shown by Mr. Clapp won 13 out of a possible 14 premiums, four male and one female, championships, and both grand championships. This is the largest winning made by one herd in years at a strong show, and Mr. Clapp's home folk will be glad to learn of his good fortune.

ENTERTAINED VILLAGE AND TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

On Wednesday afternoon the members of the village council and other village officers and the members of the township board, together with Messrs. Cass Benton, C. C. Yerkes, Milo N. Johnson and H. B. Clark were pleasantly entertained at the Sanitarium grounds west of the village by Dr. H. F. Vaughan and W. H. Maybury, commissioners of the Detroit city health department. The Northville party was met at the corner of the city farm and were shown through the grounds and the plans of improvement and ornamentation were fully explained. The cities of the new buildings and the new structures now under construction were also inspected and after a thorough survey of the grounds the party was invited over to headquarters and served to a bountiful chicken dinner.

After the splendid meal had been partaken of a brief impromptu program of speech making was enjoyed. Dr. Vaughan and Mr. Maybury explained the progress of the work upon the buildings and told of the beauty and magnitude of the institution when completed. Messrs. Benton and Yerkes responded for Northville, expressing the delight at the many evidences of progress that were everywhere noticeable.

The Sanitarium is to be a magnificent institution and one that will not only be a distinct credit to Michigan's greatest city, but it will stand as a living monument to the earnest thought and service of many of the city's influential citizens.

What does the church building mean to this community?

What could your town be worth if there were no churches and no worshippers?

Are you doing a very good thing for yourself or others by keeping away? Just what is your duty in this matter anyway?

WHEN TEXAS W

Bank Lawsuit Tried, After Independence, Was in "Stone House" in Town of Macogdoches

The first session of the District Court of Nacogdoches county, Texas, being after the independence of the state had been declared, was in the old, historic stone fort in the town of Nacogdoches March 6, 1837. The Detroit News recalls. The first criminal figure that it is a dangerous business to be establishing a camp for a transient population. Not only every town and city in the United States had one during Mr. McKeen's population in 1920, but in 1925 he is pointing out for the first time that we will see our rural population decreased to the same point. The population will show five million less people living on the farms in this country now than there were in 1910. It will show an increase of population for the nation of twenty millions. This means twenty-five million more people in the towns and cities and five million less people to produce their food. Their own food is a substitute for bread, meat and potatoes, something serious is going to happen.—John A. Simpson, Farmer.

The Small Towns.

about 1,200 small towns in the United States have of them with populations of 500 or less. It is these small towns that the rural people are intimately associated with. They sell their produce there, buy the things they need; in fact, these are a part of the rural community. Some of these small towns will become cities, but a very large per cent of them will remain as they are. It is no disgrace to live in a small town, but the rule is that these people are waiting until next year, or some future year to improve their schools, put in sidewalks, a water system, or a sewer system to safeguard the health of the people, or before taking any steps to improve the social and living conditions of the children.—The Thrift Magazine.

Billboards Indicted.

on the landscape, boardings are, considered an evil in more tangible ways. When they are not strongly supported there is always danger of their falling over in storms. Unless they are of fireproof material they are easily inflammable and often serve to carry fire from one building to another. If the boards are not raised several feet from the ground the space back of them almost invariably becomes a dump for refuse and a convenient place for criminals to hide.

Signboards nearly always shut out sunlight and air. To prevent this as much as possible, some cities limit the height and width of the board. The importance of breathing space around a building is recognized by a number of millionaires.

of introduction.

Writes Mrs. E. L. Griffin from her home in Franklin, N. H. "I feel like a new person. Stomach feels fine after eating—all from taking your wonderful eatonic. It's worth its weight.

Millions of sufferers from sour, acid, gassy stomachs, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, full feeling after eating, should try eatonic. Just try it—that's all, and get relief, new life, strength and pep. It produces quick, sure and safe results, because eatonic takes up the harmful acids and poisons and

The harmful acids and poisons you carries them right out of the body. Of course, when the cause is removed, the sufferer gets well—quick!

Right.
Wee boys have their own way of adding time as six-year-old Johnnie proved the other morning. His mother had taken him on a shopping tour with her. She shopped long and then met an acquaintance and began a discussion on the subject of her purchases. John endured it as long as he could. Then he touched her elbow. "Hurry up, mother," he pleaded. "I would like to go to dinner. Before supper time. Wouldn't you?"

Are you burdened with a dull, nagging backache? Does any little exertion wear you out? Does it seem some times as if you just can't keep going? Modern life with its hurry and worry, and lack of rest, throws a heavy strain on the kidneys. The kidneys slow up and that tired feeling and constant backache are but natural results. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor.

A Michigan Case.

Mr. G. C. Brockington, 517 W. Ludington St., Iron Mountain, Mich., says, "My back bothered me an awful lot and for a time I was feeling so badly that I could not do my washing. Druggists pains were constant and I was worn out and tired I could hardly drag my self and Black spots very often came before me and my kidneys were swollen. Two Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me."

NEARING CULEBRA CUT.

One of Uncle Sam's battle-wagons going through the Panama Canal. This view was taken near Culebra Cut from a Navy seaplane.

The little tug hardly looks large enough to chaperon a battleship, does it? But then the tug is a part of the U. S. Navy too.

Size isn't always the most important thing. The men of the Navy have learned that brains amount to a great deal more.

Tribute to the Pen

The pen, like the sword, has a dark side to its history. Not only has it created a good deal of rubbish, but it has exposed to the evil passions of the ignorant and the dishonest; it has spread anarchy, sedition and hatred. But the pen we are indebted for the loss of the world. It has enabled us to sing to us, Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, philosophers and men of science, and with us their children, it has given us the Bible, the Koran, the Quran. It is a magnificent weapon in the hands of a great man.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed
