FORD TO CONTINUE TO PAY BONUSES

Bonus checks aggregating more than $7,000,000 for employees of the Ford Motor company are now being written, and their distribution will start January 1 next according to announcement Wednesday morning by Basel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor company.

Mr. Ford also announced a forthcoming extra three per cent dividend for the six months ending December 31, on Ford investment certificates held by employees of the company. This Mr. Ford said, is in addition to the guaranteed six per cent. He added that eight per cent had been paid July 31 last, making a total of 14 per cent on the certificates for 1920. Mr. Ford's statement was made, it was announced, to correct what was said was an erroneous report of testimony by S. S. Marquis, director of the Ford Educational department before Judge Alschuler in Chicago recently, to the effect that "recent reductions in the price of Ford cars had resulted in the bonus to employees being practically cut off."

The statement that 6,000 men of the Detroit force had quit work within the last 90 days was corrected, it was said at the executive offices of the company here, but the men had left voluntarily, and increased production of the remaining employees had made it unnecessary to replace them.

COUNTY HOLSTEIN BREEDERS TO HOLD IMPORTANT MEETING

The Holstein cattle breeders and dairymen of Wayne county are planning to hold a big meeting at Plymouth High school on Thursday, December 9th, at 7:00 p. m. for time.

This is one of a series of thirty meetings which will be held over the state for the purpose of interesting the Holstein breeders in what is known as the accredited herd plan of tuberculosis eradication. The meeting has been arranged for in co-operation with the Michigan Holstein-Friesian association and the state and federal authorities in charge of bovine tuberculosis eradication in Michigan.

Under the accredited herd plan, the herds are placed directly under supervision of the state and federal authorities as far as disease control is concerned and the tuberculin test is applied at regular intervals to the entire herd. The subcutaneous or temperature test, the most commonly employed, though the intradermal and ophthalmic tests are used in some cases. These tests can only be applied satisfactorily by experts and only men who can qualify as such are employed. State supervision of this work comes within the domain of H. B. Halladay, Commissioner of Animal Industry while the work done by the federal government in this state is supervised by Dr. T. S. Eick.

GREEN SHIPLEY

Married at the Presbyterian parsonage on Wednesday evening, November 24th, at seven o'clock, by the Rev. E. V. Bailey, Judd Green of Northville, to Miss Pearl Shipley. The couple were also led by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Anderson. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to a company of eight at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Kincaid at Plymouth. Mr. and Mrs. Green will make their home in Northville in the Cranston house on South Center street. The groom is employed by the Detroit Edison Co. and the bride is the fourth grade teacher in the Northville schools, and both are well known young people. Their many friends extend best wishes for a happy future.

NO NEED MNCING MATTERS

Much propaganda has been issued and circulated in Wayne county looking toward the uniting of the city and county governments. The Northville Record "wants none of it," and speaks out in meeting against such proceedings.—South Lyon Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clark entertained the following guests on Thanksgiving day: Miss Pauline Lockhart and Miss Blanche Clark of Albion, Bert Clark of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. James Sessions of Northville.

On his return from the upper peninsula Glenn Richardson stopped over in Chicago and spent a few days with Mrs. Richardson and the children who had been visiting relatives in that city. They visited Mr. and Mrs. N. I. Cofl and found them pleasantly situated. Mr. Richardson attended the stock show on Saturday. They all returned home Monday.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL GOES PAST $300 MARK

Northville did well in the recent Red Cross roll call, and fully sustained the township's reputation of former years. A total of $317 was realized and the ladies having the matter in charge are very grateful to all who assisted in making the splendid record.

The ladies in charge of the roll call were Mrs. C. L. Dubuak, chairman; Mesdames Emory Van Valkenburg, C. O. Yerkes, John Knapp, Frank Hedge, Flora Larkin, M. R. Seeley, Cass Benton, S. E. Cranston, Flora VanDyng, Linnie Cook, Ida Hendry, F. J. Cochran, Abi Meyers, May Stewart, Tina Doughman, Myrtle Laug, P. B. Alexander and the Misses Bertha White, Aline McCully, Viola McCully, Jessie Clark, Jessie Roe and Margaret Yerkes.

CHILD WELFARE EDUCATION

Ignorance of parental care on the part of Michigan mothers is said to have caused the deaths of 2,940 of the 2,569 babies under one month of age that died during the first 10 months of the present year, according to a statement issued today by the Michigan department of health.

To combat what is characterized as a needless waste of life, a state-wide program of child welfare education has been instituted by Miss Harriet Leck, state director of the bureau of child hygiene and public health nursing in co-operation with county visiting public health nurses.

Parent-teacher associations, women's clubs, and other interested agencies are being addressed by Miss Leck and her assistants, Miss Hope Rogahn, and are organizing for the purpose of cutting down Michigan's infant death rate. With 23 counties already visited and pledged to the program at the bureau, it is expected that the entire state will be drafted into the "Save the Babies" campaign by early spring.

Twenty-five per cent of all infant deaths up to November 1, or 1,792 are attributed by Miss Leck to artificial feeding. Fully one-half of all mothers in the state, through the practice of bottle-feeding their babies, reduce the chance of these babies living from 9 in 10 to 1 in 10, she says, pneumonia, digestive troubles, cholera, and all other ailments being more fatal to artificially fed babies than to those that are nursed.

Though Michigan with a rate of 59 infant deaths to each 1,000 births, ranks sixth of all states in the registration area of the United States, the number of deaths can be appreciably lowered, officials of the department of health assert.

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

As chairman of the local committee during the revival meetings, I wish to thank the pastors and members of the churches for their cordial co-operation in the work. On behalf of the churches to express an appreciation of the helpfulness of our local business men, of the Northville Record for the liberal space accorded to the cause in its columns and to Mr. W. J. Thompson for his courtesy in placing the Algema theatre at our disposal for special Sunday afternoon meetings. H. J. E. MARSH

TIBBITS-HOSKINS NUPTIALS

After the serving of dainty refreshments, Mr. and Mrs. Tibbits went directly to their home which is located at 518 Navahce street.

LIMBERG-McFARLAND WEDDING

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Susie McFarland, 1017 Roosevelt avenue, Detroit, Thanksgiving day at six o'clock, when Mrs. McFarland's daughter, Elsie, was united in marriage to Frank Limberg of that city, in the presence of about fifty guests. The young people received many beautiful gifts from friends in Detroit, Buffalo, Muskegon and Northville. Mr. and Mrs. Limberg will reside with the bride's mother.

The King's Daughters will meet next Tuesday afternoon, the 7th, with Mrs. Lillian Blake. A good attendance is desired because of important business.

POSTSCRIPT ABOUT FUR TRIMMED SUITS

A POSTSCRIPT written to the story of suits in the just now and may be briefly written, since the story itself was not a long one this season. There has been great uniformity of style and considerable variety in details of finishing, and the points that distinguished suits of the season proved to be very popular, so that there has been no good reason for running after strange gods. Now that the season is over, and designers are turning their attention to spring, we are not likely to find any startling innovations in winter styles.

The two suits pictured are found among the liberal quota of fur-trimmed models that have made up a part of all representative collections. The suit at the left is one of the few that have shown themselves independent of the yogue for coats reaching almost to the knees. There are a few models that keep it company, so that it is not wholly uncharacteristic, but they are very becoming and good in style. The coat shown in the picture has placements of fur at each side of the front and back, with two large buttons seen in the space between the fur pieces, and a luscious shawl collar. The long skirt of the material is finished at the ends with barrel-shaped ornaments, made of the fur. Squirrel skins were chosen for this suit's trimming and the way velvet turban bordered with teased sprays of incrimpled ostrich or gray looks well with it.

The suit at the right reveals a coat a little longer than the average, with a plain and fairly wide skirt. It is a fine model for a matronly wearer, with its straight coat and line of cloth-covered buttons from waist to neck. These buttons disappear at the sides where the coat splits, and add to the general trimness of this suit. Popular furs for suits include seal, minkskin, squirrel, skunk-haired fox, Australian opossum and iker. Another feathered coat but one spots that velvet and fur are not contraindicated by anything else for wear on the street, and here a velvet-trimmed toque makes the background of such uncutted ostrich

The Kitchen Cabinet

"The beauty of the house is order; The blessing of the house is contentment; The good will of the house is hospitality; The inspiration of the house is goodliness; But the glory of the house is love."
 SEASONABLE DISHES.

A doughnut which keeps moist until used may be made from the following recipe:
Potato Doughnuts.—Take four and one-half cups of pastry flour, four level teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt one-third of a nutmeg, grated, one-half teaspoonful of soda, three eggs beaten light, one cupful of granulated sugar, one cupful of mashed potatoes, three tablespoonfuls of melted butter and three-fourths of a cupful of sour milk. Sift the dry ingredients, add sugar to the eggs, the butter to the potatoes, and combine the two mixtures; add sour milk and stir in the dry ingredients. Take a little of the dough at a time, knead lightly, roll into a sheet, cut in rounds and fry it deep fat. Keep the dough as soft as possible. A good way to do this is to chill it and roll and fry quickly before the mixture is softened.

Fresh Fish Salad.—Separate a white surface of fresh cold fish into flakes while the fish is still warm. Squeeze the juice of a lemon over a pint of the fish, sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper and set aside to become chilled. When ready to serve, drain off the water, mix with enough Russian salad dressing to hold the ingredients together, and shape in a mound on a serving dish. Lettuce may replace the dress.

Russian Dressing for Fish.—Shred four anchovies, freed from oil or freshened in water, add four hard cooked eggs, yolks, and a tablespoonful of prepared mustard; pour with a pestle to a smooth paste, then press through a sieve. Add the paste to one and one-half cups of mayonnaise dressing; mix the paste in a little of the dressing, then add more until all is smoothly blended. Finish with half a cupful of smoked salmon, cut in quarter-inch slices.

Crushed fruit served with grape juice is a most desirable way of serving the well liked breakfast fruit.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS
 Chicken served in the ordinary way may be made more palatable, so something new appeals, try this:
 Chopped in Casserole.—Dr. John and use the best joints, roll in seasoned flour and saute in salt pork fat until browned delicately on all sides. Cut a carrot in even slices, add an onion for each person to be served. From peeled potatoes, cut out a dozen and a half balls. Cook the vegetables in a little of the fat until slightly browned then dispose the pieces of the chicken and the vegetables in the casserole. With the giblets, neck and other pieces make some chicken broth, by covering with cold water; pour this while hot over the chicken and vegetables, and after seasoning cover and let cook in the oven until the chicken is tender. It will take about two hours. The broth should be prepared two hours or more before the chicken is ready to cook.

Fruit and Nut Rolls.—Mix and sift together two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one teaspoonful of salt. Work in one tablespoonful of butter and one of lard. Add one-third of a cupful of milk, the same of water and mix to a soft dough, using a knife. More liquid may be needed. Toss on a floured board; roll lightly to one-fourth inch thickness; cover with one-fourth of a cupful each of brown sugar and raisins and one-third of a cupful of broken walnuts. Over all pour one-fourth of a cupful of melted butter. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg and roll up like a jelly roll. Fasten the end by moistening with milk or water. Cut in three-fourths inch pieces and bake in a hot oven twenty minutes.

Chestnut Croquettes.—Shell and blanch a pint of large chestnuts and cook them in a highly-seasoned broth until tender. When cool, slice in thin slices. Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter; add one-third of a cupful of flour, a teaspoonful of salt, and a dash of pepper; stir and cook until the flour is absorbed; add one cupful of rich, highly-seasoned broth and half a cupful of cream; stir and cook until smooth and thick, then add the chestnuts. Turn out on a buttered plate and cool. When cold, shape into croquettes, egg cream and fry in deep fat.

Home Town Helps

THE DRIFT FROM THE CITY

Foresighted Corporations Are Now Building Their Factories in the Rural Districts.

American corporations have sought, as a rule, to build plants at or near large cities, where there, supposedly, was an ample supply of suitable labor. But the building of factories at big cities has not proved altogether satisfactory. It has been found that labor union agitators can exercise more inflammatory influence in large centers than where plants are located in the smaller communities. The large city plant often finds it difficult to establish close, intimate personal relations with its work people, whereas in a smaller town the executives who run the principal industries can and do very often get closer to their folk and build up harmonious relationships which outside professional agitators cannot disturb.

From now on there will be witnessed more building of new plants away from congested centers. The most progressive employers today attach very great importance to bringing about a spirit of loyalty among their people, and they find that it is not so difficult to do this when their plant is either the only one or one of a few in a community.

This movement away from crowded industrial centers is to be welcomed by those who are in favor of rural life. Texas has an Fall River new steel mill, the Middle West has a Lawrence, Mass., and large new automobile plants in small towns than in Detroit.

It may not be feasible for millions of workers to go back to nature in the sense of returning to the tillage of the soil, but it is feasible and desirable to draw millions of industrial workers away from metropolitan cities and into more rural districts. —Forbes Magazine.

HOME OWNER BEST CITIZEN

Can Be Relied On as a Bulwark of the State in These Times of Unrest.

In a message to the voters of the United States, John L. Weaver, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said that no more important campaign could be undertaken in these times of unrest than to be supported by the "home-owning" citizen.

"The 'home-owning' citizen," said Mr. Weaver, "is the backbone of the nation. It is responsible, comfortable and unshakable in every citizenship. When the own your own home, you have worked its benefits better than any other citizen."

There will be found organized patriotic citizenship composed of men and women who are not only law-abiding, but they are ready to strike for their country or state whenever called upon to do so.

So long you to give the own-owning movement the added impetus of your personal effort, to give national thrift, support your own support."

Referring to the "own-your-own" movement, John Peole, chairman of the district executive committee of national thrift, said, "Persons who at home may feel sure their family circles will be much happier under other conditions. From a national standpoint, persons waste time, money and energy by living at home. Practically speaking, the nation's welfare depends upon the home. A home life center the characteristics that make a nation weak or strong." —Washington Star.

War Gardens in Peace Times.

From out the chaos and the debris of the World War there shine here and there benefits the value of which we have hardly begun to appreciate. The war garden carried over into the time of peace is one of these benefits which, if encouraged and continued to the best degree, will work an incalculable blessing upon not only the individuals immediately concerned, but upon the nation at large.

It has been conservatively estimated that during the year 1913 to less than 2,500,000 children had gardens and produced fully $48,000,000 worth of food. In 1919 and 1920 there was an increase in the number, and value of these gardens in some sections and, unfortunately, a falling off in other sections.

Numerous as these gardens were and are, there is opportunity to multiply them tenfold, perhaps one hundredfold—and this without appreciable financial outlay.

Aimed at Billboards.

A bill recommended by a commission appointed by the Boston city council provides that the owner or user of a sign shall be liable for all damages in any highway accident of which the sign is the approximate cause. The bill provides that no sign shall be placed or be of such a nature that it tends to distract the attention of persons driving on a highway, and every public officer is given authority to destroy any sign which is so placed as to prevent an unobstructed view of a highway from any part thereof for a distance of 300 feet in either direction.

HYPO-COD PUT HIM BACK ON HIS FEET

Coughed So Much Nights He Couldn't Rest—His Health Falling Fast.

TOOK HYPO-COD AND TROUBLES STOPPED

"I had bronchial trouble for a long time. It kept getting worse and I coughed and coughed until my whole system was wrecked in sympathy with it. I coughed most all night and I would keep me awake and restless and I honestly was feeling so bad I took medicine and more medicine. Seemed like nothing helped me though, and I kept getting worse until along came Earle's Hypo-Cod and ended all my troubles like magic."

"I had even lost my appetite when I got hold of Hypo-Cod, but right away I began to improve. Pretty soon that old cough that had stuck to me for ages began to get better. Then I began wanting to get my head off at meal times, and now since taking two bottles I am not troubled at all with my throat and the old cough has gone. I feel as good as I ever did and can say Earle's Hypo-Cod is certainly wonderful medicine and am glad to recommend such a tonic to all my friends," declared Mr. L. S. McDuff, of Detroit, Mich., living at 1304 Zosier St.

Thousands suffer as Mr. Duffy did. Cough, cold, throat troubles, clogged up head, throat and nose. Bad breath possibly, and as a result people's mouths have bad digestion or other stomach troubles.

Thousands have used Earle's Hypo-Cod and found it an ideal tonic. Druggists, chemists and experts assert it as the most powerful tonic of its kind made. Yet you will be surprised at its pleasant taste, and how nicely it agrees with your stomach if it has become in a weakened condition. Just read the formula that they say is so good. Take home a bottle tonight and see how nicely it does the work.

Earle's Hypo-Cod is sold here by all druggists and the leading druggists in all nearby towns. —Advt.

Definition of a Friend.

Some one defined a friend as "one who is truer to me than I am to myself." We are not always true to ourselves, and one of the highest offices of friendship is to hold the life true to the best. The life that does not make us long to be better and stronger for its sake, and in gratitude for its possession, is not the highest type of love.

Important to Mothers.

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher in Use for Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

Known to Fame.

"Speaking of fame, said the Observer of Events and Things, 'I believe it was Uncle Tom who first put his foot in it.' —Franklin S. S. S. S."

50 Years Ago

A young man who practiced medicine in a rural district became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce who afterward moved to Buffalo, N. Y. He made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and he put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state in the Union.

For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has sold more largely throughout the United States than any other medicine of like character. It's the testimony of thousands of women that it has benefited or entirely eradicated such distressing ailments as women are prone to. It is now sold by druggists in tablet form as well as liquid.

"WATERBURY, Wis." "About eighteen years ago I was ill, doctor's medicine did not seem to give me the relief. I thought I should have a try by taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it cured me in a short space of time. I have never had any return of my ailment." — MRS. ## Hats That Smile At Winter

IN A GROUP of hats for little girls, it is not without intention that a plain felt is placed at the top; for of all millinery for children, the hams holds its own as always above criticism and always appropriate. These beavers and felts, plain as they are, come in an unbelievable variety of shapes and endlessly ingenious ribbon trims, and in all needed sizes and colors. They are here and have been for many years and are as certain of return each year as the seasons are. Occasionally one comes across a model that has a little additional embellishment besides the ribbon band or such and in those pictured there is a flat, stitched band of felt about the brim-edge.

But even these lovely beavers and felts have rivals in pretty hats of velvet, each enhancing the girrue of the other. Just below the felt hat, at the left there is shown a delightful, bonnet-like shape with soft crown of velvet. Its brim is made of ribbon. The velvet side-crown is gaily embroidered and ribbon is looped at the side with long ends falling. Little misses are much dressed up when they wear pretty head coverings of this description.

The hat at the right is simpler and is also made of velvet. Two colors are used for it, the trim in a lighter tone than the crown, and a sash of ribbon finishes it.

A charming hat at the bottom of the group is an amusing miniature made like hats for grownups. It is also made of velvet with sectional crown and has an upturned brim split at each side. Silk cord edges the brim and outlines the seams in the crown and bright motifs in silk embroidery help the gaiety of the winter season. No wonder its small wearer is so pleased with life in general and her hat in particular. It is a clever piece of designing in which the means used for developing a matured headwear have been perfectly adopted to childhood. Hats as elaborate as this look best with plain coats, and it happens that coats for girls are plain this season.

Work Poor. Charles M. Schwan at one of his Loretto dinner parties was talking about a man who was vainly beseeching the banks for a loan. "How rich man, too," said Mr. Schwan. "But he's work poor." "Work poor?" said a guest. "Yes, work poor," Mr. Schwan repeated. "You see, he's always got so many operations in hand that he's always short of money to finance them. Work poor, I call it. Then he stilled and added: 'He's one of those fellows who dig so much that they're always in a hole.'"

HOOVER URGES SUPPORT OF SEAL SALE.

Herbert Hoover believes that the Christmas Seal Sale, that is to begin throughout the United States on December 1 and continue until December 11 should be generously supported by the American people. In a letter to Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, of the National Tuberculosis Association, Mr. Hoover says:

"I am glad to avail myself of the opportunity of expressing my opinion in regard to your coming sale of Christmas Seals for the National Tuberculosis Association. There is, perhaps, no problem of a health nature that we have to meet as a nation that is more serious than that of tuberculosis. The National Tuberculosis Association has been and is still making a superb fight against the ravages of this disease and it deserves the support of every citizen who wishes to see a real improvement in the health statistics of his community and this nation. I wish you every success in your sale of Christmas Seals and in the splendid efforts which the sale of these seals will allow you to continue."

Throughout Michigan the workers in the various counties and cities are on their toes to begin the sale on December first. The National Tuberculosis Association hopes to sell 30,000,000 seals during the first eleven days of December.

200 REMAIN AT CAMP CUSTER

One Battalion, Part of 10th Infantry, Guards $19,000,000 Property.

Battle Creek.—Camp Custer, the 7,000-acre tract that a few years ago rang with the tread of thousands of marching feet, now presents a lonely and dejected appearance. A single battalion of 200 men now guards the great military reservation, and its $19,000,000 worth of Government property. The battalion is a part of the 10th Infantry and is in command of Maj. H. E. Coates.

The headquarters of the 10th Infantry was moved to Camp Sherman recently and the only other unit, the 14th Infantry, that remained after the 14th Division was demobilized, left more than a month ago for Camp Clayton, Panama Canal Zone. There has been no definite order to salvage the camp or abandon the reservation.

Plazer left a note for Sheriff Johnson thanking the officer for the treatment he had received. The note added: "When my brother phoned in Chicago his house to get notes I did not think it right that bail was to be set so I am going to get out what I have the chance."

HEALTH DRIVES PROVE SUCCESS

Red Cross Centers Are Teaching Public How to Keep in Condition.

Realizing the importance of combating and preventing diseases this winter, the American Red Cross Health Centers are centering their efforts on health campaigns in the various states of the central division.

The health center is of even greater service to the well than the sick, for, by means of health education, it prevents diseases, and conducts its health campaigns to meet local needs. A Red Cross health center may be only a room with a volunteer or paid lay worker in charge, yet it can be a most important factor in the prevention of diseases and the promotion of health in the community. The health center work has advanced so rapidly during the last year it now is a part of the civic welfare organization in the majority of towns.

For the coming health campaigns in the states, particular attention is being paid to the small community and to the outlying districts. The influence of the chapter's headquarters is being considerably increased or extended throughout the county by the establishment of small branch health centers in the more remote sections.

Volunteers Aid Work
In most cases these branch centers are being placed entirely under volunteer management and the exhibits, demonstrations, lectures and the like of the main health service are being repeated at each of the branches.

In reports from many chapters it is found that the health center director is resourceful to the extent that she does not wait until people call individually at the health center for information. She will stimulate constant demand for health information and provoke inquiry. In this way she reaches many who otherwise would be neglected. In still other counties where trained workers are not available at this time, some women have stepped in and organized the work and carried it on until they have received assistance.

The Red Cross health centers, governed by business practices, applies business methods, and in its more simple form can be established and conducted by lay people.

Uses Business Methods

It proceeds upon the demonstrated fact that health is a commodity that can be bought and sold like business and goods. Therefore, it establishes itself in a store room in the principal business section of the community. It displays its goods in the form of attractive health exhibits in its show windows. It advertises continually and extensively. And it uses every business and social device to attract customers.

The Red Cross health center is of service to the sick in that it obtains reliable and complete information about existing clinics, hospitals, sanatoria and other institutions for the sick and the defective; about available nurses, both trained and practical; about when to consult a physician and why to spurn the quack and his nostrums.

The central division has thirty-three health centers in operation. Many of them also conduct medical clinics, but the one chief outstanding feature of the American Red Cross health center is its health education service which teaches well people to keep fit.

RED CROSS ALWAYS READY IN DISASTER

The Red Cross is always prepared. When disaster hits a community, this organization can be depended upon a fellow right at its heels with help for the stricken people.

Red Cross relief is always forthcoming—food, clothing, shelter and funds; doctors, nurses and special workers with long experience in handling similar. No matter what the disaster may be—fire, flood, earthquake, explosion, bad wreck or tornado—the Red Cross is always able to cope with the situation.

During the last year there was an average of four disasters a month in the United States. One hundred and fifty communities in twenty-seven states suffered. The largest and most destructive of these were the tidal wave at Corpus Christi, Tex., and tornadoes in Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

In these events of horror, 850 persons were killed, 1,500 were injured, 13,000 were made homeless, about 30,000 families needed help, the property loss was nearly $100,000,000 and almost $1,000,000 in relief funds, not including emergency supplies, was expended.

To the sufferers from all disasters during the year the American Red Cross sent $120,000 worth of supplies, 110 Red Cross nurses and seven special relief trains. To meet the needs of the stricken, the organization set up ten relief stations, operated thirty food canteens and as many emergency hospitals. One hundred and twenty-five Red Cross chapters gave disaster relief service.

If disaster ever strikes this town or county, the citizens can be absolutely sure the Red Cross will be on hand to help them in every way.

OF VELOURS AND FUR

Whoever fails to be pleased with the superb example of good design in suits which appears above will look far to find anything better. It is made of velours with collar and pockets of fur, and is decorated with silk embroidery.

INVITE EMBROIDERY

If it were not for the vogue for embroidery the story of many caprice frocks would be as simple as a nursery rhyme—long, almost unbroken lines—make them graceful, but this lack of drapery invites decoration, which is one way of saying that there are many lovely embroidered frocks among recent offerings. But, however many, none will have more to commend it than the handsome model shown here. Notice—it has the long waist line, flaring sleeves and broad silk sash which are delightful contributions of the new season.

Cement Work Now

Cement is very much cheaper in price than it has been for a long time, and now is a good time to do your cement work before winter sets in. There are a lot of places about the farm and the average home where some cement work would affect a real saving and add to the home comforts. We have a good supply and shall be glad to fill your orders.

Winter is only around the corner. Have you supplied your needs in coal?

TEACHERS WANT CHANGE IN LAW

NEW PENSION BILL FRAMED TO REMEDY DEFECTS OF PRESENT LAW.

ASK STATE TO SHARE EXPENSE

Full Return of All Contributions, With Four Per Cent Interest, Provided in New Bill.

Lansing—State financial support will be asked in a proposed bill to be presented to the state legislature, which, in effect, will create a new retirement system for Michigan teachers. The present law adopted in 1915, is cited by proposers of the new law to be rescinded.

Among provisions of the new bill is one that will make possible the raising of the Detroit teachers' fund and fund with the new system. The measure has been approved by a joint committee of the legislature and the state federation of teachers.

Weaknesses in the present bill are pointed out by the educators and the correction is provided in the proposed legislation. Among the most important is the "unfair arrangement" in which the financial burden is placed on the teacher with no aid from the state. In the new bill, it is proposed to have equal division of this burden.

A second defect is seen in the failure to award a full return of contributions to a retiring teacher resigning from service. To benefit under the new legislation, teachers must be employed 25 years of service has been required. The new act proposes that a retiring teacher on leaving the service receive full return on all contributions with a four per cent compound interest.

Teachers have no protection against removal of their names during their careers. This is brought out as the third defect. Under the present law, the names of teachers are returned at the age of 25 and 32. Such early removal is a loss to the state and an unwarranted abuse of the law. The proposed law would give a limit of 60 years with early retirement in case of mental or physical disability.

Teachers are not allowed to take a leave of absence for a year or more. This is a hardship on all teachers and is a defect in the law. The proposed law would allow a leave of absence for a year or more, with full pay during the absence. This would be a benefit to all teachers and a defect in the law.

Mob Gets Victim In Court

Fayetteville, Miss.—Harry Jacobs, Negro, on trial for an assault on a white woman, was taken from the court and lynched by a mob which got in by breaking down two doors. A rope was placed about his neck and he was dragged two blocks through the main street of the town, after which the rope was tied to the axle of an automobile which dragged him to a bridge, where the lifeless body was swung to the limb of a tree and riddled with bullets.

THE WORDS OF MY MOUTH

People sometimes have to go far from home to hear the news, as evidenced from the following taken from the Detroit Journal of Tuesday, December 2, 1929.

Detroit, business men, working under the Laymen's Evangelistic union, report more than 160 religious meetings held in churches in and around the city in the last three months.

Three weeks' union meetings recently closed at Northville showed a total of 300 conversions, including all the members of the high school football team, the coach, school principal and 70 students.

Striking incidents were numerous—a former minister who had given up not only his pastorate but his active christian life created a stirring scene as he renewed his vows. The Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches were united under the leadership of these Detroit laymen.

FARMINGTON FLASHES

Kind Fate

By AUGUSTUS G. SHERWIN

(© 1920 Western Newspaper Union)

A man with a cane, a dog leading him at the end of a rope, slowly, cautiously crossed the road feeling his way. His ear bent at painful tension to catch the meager echo that might indicate danger in his uncertain course. Albion Drake, one-armed only, hastened to guide him safely over the street. The helpless one smiled his gratitude and went his way, gratefully.

A girl with a broken wing fluttered down from a tree bough, clumsily dropping rather than flying, secured a stray piece of bread in its bill, and laboriously ascended to its nest by climbing. Its infant brood hungrily welcomed it and the mother bird, proud and triumphant at accomplishing its purpose crippled as it was, burst forth into a full flood of glorious triumphant song.

"A double lesson, I'll take to heart," Albion Drake told himself. There were scars on his face besides the empty sleeve that commemorated the Argonne. He had left the service on the shelf so far as active warfare was concerned, and it was a gloomy outlook ahead. He had given up his position to offer his services for his country, and there was no hook or corner in the old place of employment. For a time the home coming seemed a flowery path. There were archaic and wreaths and music for the returned heroes' receptions, newspaper mention of the warm plaudits of friends. Then, as if the public had done its duty, many like himself were allowed to drift. The unfit were relegated to forced idleness.

The highest spot in the situation was Myrtle Farr. She and Albion had been nothing more than very dear friends when he went overseas, but she had been a faithful correspondent and her cheering, encouraging words she had written him had meant, longed for and longed for. He had come back to find her orphaned, cast on the world homeless and his spirit gloomed as he realized that he could offer her no glowing promise of fortune in the present, no assurance of care and support in the future.

Like a broken reed he must seek support from others instead of hoping to be able to take his place in the world as a helper. He felt that he stood in the way of Myrtle by remaining in his home town, for she badly favored the company of her own kind. She loved him, this he knew, and although he knew that she would smilingly meet desertion, and poverty with him if he asked her he was too much of a man to ask her becoming a possible burden to her.

Albion's chance in superintending a small business in Dover, he told Myrtle in a young "with a prospect of being acquired" share in it.

"You're going away?" asked Myrtle in a desolate tone.

"I must. There is nothing here for me. People are kind enough, but they do not know where to fit me in for work. Don't look for me, Myrtle. You will hear from me regularly. You'll be glad to see some mementoes that I will try to keep, and Albion placed a pound on the table. They are good remembrances of the first dish we made at Vealton. A poor fellow I think he was a Persian, had a very great name, to me for some time. I showed him and after he was dead from a certain wound he could not touch his kit as a relic. I'll guarantee. There is an excellent opportunity for an 'old' one here. I believed that he was a young man of some importance in his own country. I suppose his relatives' selfishly, naturally such objects are the rag and the idol, but I did not know who or where they were.

Albion went away and the first letter Myrtle received from him was an encouraging one. Albion regretted that he had not a certain comparatively small amount of capital that would purchase an interest in an enterprise in which he could be useful, and where the assurance of a permanent competence was certain.

It was at the end of two months that Albion Drake was greeted with the surprise of his life. Going home he found a young lady awaiting him in the parlor. She was Myrtle Farr. Her eyes glistened with the fervor of some event that had led to her traveling over 200 miles to tell of it to Albion.

"The prayer rug, the idol—Oh, Albion!" she flattered. "The lonely foreigner, you was so good to be a member of a noted family in Teheran. When his relatives learned of his death they sent an envoy to secure his body and the rug and the idol that were sacred, treasured relics to them! You had left for home, but they traced you. Yesterday a consular agent came seeking for you, learned of my possession of the relics, and—oh, have I done right? For their possession, and as a token of gratitude, of his family for your kindness the agent insisted on leaving for you the sum of $5,000. Now you can buy that share in the business, can't you, Albion?"

"It must be the business," replied Albion. "Half the amount will insure me an interest that will bring me an income for life. Myrtle, dear, you must surmise the dearest wish of my heart. Will you share it with me?"

The Sir Knights of the Macabees will give a sh-dow social with pot-luck, supper and old-time dance on Friday evening, December 10th. Though the days last week were unseasonably cold, the rain was very welcome in this section. Many wells and cisterns needed replenishing before winter sets in. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stockman entertained fourteen relatives and friends at a six o'clock dinner last Wednesday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baumeyer of Cincinnati, O. It is evident that certain trees at the intersection of Main and Rogers streets will have to be removed. Chas. There were about fifty guests present and the young people were presented with numerous beautiful gifts. The concert given at the High school gym on Monday evening proved a delightful treat. The program given by Messrs. Greenbaum, Curtis and Rollings was varied and interesting and the large audience present enjoyed every number. The Athletic association notified a program from the entertainment. Thursday morning Scott Montgomery, Oswald, Wilson and Harry Mills left for an overland trip to the sunny south. They are making the journey in a Ford car and are camping out along the way. They have a tent and a complete camping outfit and expect to see the country thoroughly before spring. The Thanksgiving party given Wednesday night by the Northville High school student association was well attended and the dancers had a merry time. There were 125 couples present and they thoroughly enjoyed the extended program rendered by Montgomery's orchestra. From the records of the dance the association has paid all its indebtedness and has a surplus.

The Pastime Dancing club held its first party of the season at the High school gym Wednesday evening and the affair was enjoyed by a large company. Montgomery's orchestra furnished a delightful program for the dancers and so well did they please all present that a rising vote of thanks was extended to Northville's splendid musical organization. Other parties will be given during the winter.

FRET AND WORRY HAVE NO MARKET VALUE

If they did there would be some huge savings accounts and the bank totals would be larger than they are. Fretting and worrying will not conquer giant wrongs. The evil that men do defeats its own purpose and their effort merely delays the outcome of good. The time element is the big factor in the growth of any great cause. The power of years in the hour cannot be resisted. Put the good to work and the results will be sure. Eventually, even if now—the good—the best—the highest—will win. Do not be in the stampede of anxious ones but join those who about 11:30 Sunday will visit the C. A. DOLPH BIBLE CLASS, METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Disapproval Resented

She was two years old, and could feed herself, but being an imperious child she preferred to have her father feed her. Her father used a soup spoon, but the child did very nicely. This apparently annoyed his daughter, because she pushed him away, saying, "Stop it, you crazy thing."

Memory Bells

CONNIE looked down to the busy street through a blur of snowflakes. At least, Connie told herself, determinedly that snowflakes were accountable for the blur; then, she wiped her eyes.

"It's Merry Christmas time," Connie said to her old yellow cat. "Who ever heard of Christmas without the Merry? So cheer-up, Frowler, and let's join in the game."

At the little "Shoppes" just around the corner she stood longest of all. And all at once into Connie's bright eyes came a speculative light. The window was full of small framed pictures, most of them with the Christmas spirit. There were the usual night-cad, children looking up broad chimneys, there were landscapes of snowy fields with distant windows afloat. Connie studied them all; she was seeing in vision the winding hill road of the place, where she had spent her last summer vacation; the church with its swaying bell in the steeple, the queer little bridge over the deep and beautiful stream—a bridge with seats along its sides where countless lovers had sat and courted! The old lady who had been Connie's volunteer hostess told her, with the pink coming and going in her withered cheeks, about the lovers. For it was there, that her own husband had asked, and had been answered—his question. The way that Connie had changed to visit this beautiful country place and to meet there the dear old lady was quite remarkable chance too. She had started out on the trolley car for our restless day in the country and had chosen this station at random. And when she had stopped to admire the wonderful trees in the old lady's garden—and they had spent some agreeable time together—the old lady, Mrs. Martha Snow by name, had said:

"My dear! Why don't you come on and visit me for a week or two? I'm lonely for a young sweet face."
And Connie had gone, that was all. But her winter colors had been glorified memories of that delightful visit. Now Connie had a new inspiration. She would print the queer little bridge over an icy stream; and its seats about it covered with snow. She could fancy just how the trees would look, waiting naked branches. And she'd get the church in the background with its bell in the steeple, looking over the snow and the bell in the lower background for Christmas.

Oh, Connie was very happy as she hurried home to her attic, but there, in the temperamental way artists have, she began to draw instead working in a fever of enthusiasm—the sitting room of the old house where she had been a guest, with Martha Snow herself seated in the fireplace just half of her peaceful profile, sitting beneath its halo of white hair.

There was holly above the old fireplace and a boy's stocking hanging there. Connie never stopped until she had completed the picture, then ran with it breathlessly to the "Shoppes" around the corner.

"Yes, we will display it," a smiling old man agreed.

The picture sold. Of course you were prepared for that; but the strange part was that before it was sold Connie had had other views to the "Shoppes" manager and her discerning purchaser had bought them every one. While the other Christmas studies pleased him not at all; Connie could not count the number of times that she passed that window, first gazing her eyes childishly in the hope that her picture would not be there when she opened them. And it was the day but one before Christmas that the "Shoppes" manager seeing her peering about, beckoned her inside.

"You have pleased one of our best customers," said the manager, "and when we mentioned your peculiar condition of sale he suggested talking the matter over with you that you might both come to a satisfactory bargain. Our customer thinks that you possess wonderful artistic ability. We have given him your address."

"Is he?" asked Connie falteringly, "a philanthropist?"
"Some way she did not want her purchaser to be just a philanthropist and spoil all future ambitious hope."
"Mr. Armstrong is a man who usually drives a pretty shrewd bargain," the "Shoppes" manager said.

So, though it was early afternoon, Connie hurried home to turn on a gas blaze and don her most presentable dress so that she might make a favorable impression as a successful young vendor of the brush. The purchaser might arrive any minute. But it was the next afternoon when he came and Connie was wearing a bungalow apron.

The purchaser was young and tall and good looking, and the golden cat greeted him with a purring rub, which was to Connie a recommendation as to his honesty.

Mr. Hubert Armstrong came directly to business. "Your sketches here for me a double interest, Miss Carroll," he said. "You have drawn remarkably some of the happiest scenes of my boyhood. Scenes which I am ashamed to say I had half-forgotten. The world of business absorbs much of human kindness I am afraid, and sometimes a struggle for success causes us to leave much that is tender behind. I am grateful to you for awakening in me that tenderness which I had almost buried."

The man's voice broke huskily. He drew forth an old sitting-room picture.

"Peace on Earth" was the name she had given it.

"That," said Hubert Armstrong, "is the living room of my home in Hillcrest—the place where I was born. This white-haired woman's profile is the peaceful profile of my long-lost mother. That little bulging stocking might have been my own stocking, just as it used to hang there years ago—Tell me—his tone was eager, "how did you come by your dream?"

"I visited last summer," Connie told him, "in that same old house in Hillcrest with Mrs. Martha Snow, who invited me."

The man nodded hastily. "I see," he said, "it is quite simple after all. Martha Snow is my mother's widowed sister." A dull red crept to his cheek.

"I had almost forgotten that Aunt Martha asked me years ago to allow her to continue on in the old home-stead. It was left mine by will. So she's there yet, and the church bell still chimes out for Christmas!"

"You have sounded the memory bells for me, Miss Carroll."

It seemed that the purchaser had almost forgotten her in his musings. Now that she looked at him closely his face was threaded by lines of care, his one eye sorrowful beneath their sternness. Connie put forth a friendly hand.

"Why," she said, "so you are Martha Snow's nephew. Then there can be no question of bargain between us, the pictures are freely yours."

The man spoke abruptly. "You paint to sell do you not?" he asked. "Isn't that what your studio is for?"

Connie shook her head ruefully. "Mostly," she replied, "my studio is just to live in."

"And you live alone?"

"I am quite alone in the world," she told him gravely.

Then her irrepressible smile broke forth.

"Unless," she added, "you would count Frowler?" She caught this out in her eyes.

"I live—alone—(qu)" Hubert Armstrong said slowly.

"I know what it means. There's not a word between the picture walls of my apartment and these walls of yours here."

"Not when it comes to loneliness," Connie agreed. "We were going to look much more cheerful," she went on, "when you interrupted us with your knock. I was climbing the ladder to hang a holly wreath."

"Let me do it for you," the man said. Before she could refuse his assistance, he was on the ladder, the wreath in his hands.

"That's better," Connie told him as side by side they stood looking up at the crimson berries.

"It's the first time in years," Hubert Armstrong said, with a boyish laugh, "that I've done that sort of thing. Gives me a thrill of old Christmas. Makes me wish for a fireplace with a filled, stocking before it. The fireplace of your picture makes me long to go skating on a creek—your creek, back at Hillcrest. Makes me want to taste turkey again over the old dining-room table."

"Yes," breathed Connie, "and hear the church bell ring out across the snow."

Eager-eyed the man gazed into those other eager eyes beneath his own.

"Let's do it," he said impulsively.

"Let us have a real, joyful old-fashioned sort of Christmas, you and I, back at Aunt Martha's. I will call her on the phone. It would delight her heart."

"It would be just 'peace on earth' to me," Connie said happily.

And that Christmas eve as she gazed wide awake through her attic window the moon shone down through the holly wreath.

"Merry Christmas," whispered Connie while the old moon smiled benignly with a promise of happy Christmas to come.

It's Wonderful

the amount of good that can be done with a little money, contributed each week by several persons.

Take "The Loan" for instance, where persons pay 25c and up per week, each payment. Alone is not very great, but the total of all the payments counts up and this money is loaned, and the borrower at once commences to make his payments, so there will be more money to loan again.

In fact, in "The Loan" the money goes round and round and round and round—like—like—like a dog chasing its tail, Lizzie.

Yes Blanch, just about as fast, and the faster it goes the more satisfied are the members.
