NEW PRISON WILL COST $2,500,000

The city council Monday authorized the commissioner of the Detroit House of correction to proceed with the construction of a new prison on the prison farm, southwest of Northville. The structure will cost $2,500,000, to be raised by bond issue, the sinking fund charges on which will be raised from revenue derived from mairals sold by the prison chair factory. Construction will begin at once with 300 inmates to the institution doing the grading, and the rough work. The commissioners now have $600,000 for grading and preliminary construction. The remainder will be included in next year's budget. The house of correction is a self-supporting institution.

Completion of the new structure will mean the abandonment of the old structure, at Russell and Alfred streets, no longer accommodating twice as many prisoners as it was intended for when erected. The new building will be on a farm of 225 acres, purchased some years ago.

Something over a year ago the first prisoners were received at the House of Correction farm and the experiment of employing the men on the farm and upon the county roads in this section has proven very satisfactory and very profitable. Under the direction of Superintendent Deppendorf, the farm produced an immense amount of vegetables and fruit the past season and as the trees and vines develop the output will be much larger. The men that don't do their duty and many express regret at having to leave the institution at the expiration of their sentence.

When completed the new prison will be the finest institution of its kind in the country.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO HOLD CONFERENCE.

Beginning next Friday evening, the 13th, and continuing through till the following Sunday afternoon, gathering of young people and Sunday school and Epworth League workers from the northern half of Ann Arbor district of the Detroit Conference of the Methodist church will be held at the local Methodist church. About 75 young people and their leaders in Sunday school and Epworth League are expected. The program opens on Friday night with a banquet that will of course overlap with youthful enthusiasm and interest. Throughout Saturday and Saturday evening, conferences will be held that will be of vital interest to young people and young people's workers. On Sunday morning Dr. Leeson of Ann Arbor, superintendent of Ann Arbor district, will preach. On Sunday afternoon, the closing session of the conference will be held at 3:00 o'clock led by Dr. and Mrs. P. F. Star of Ann Arbor, and members of Desop Henderson's staff of workers, who are giving their whole time to the work of the young people throughout Michigan—Plymouth Mail.

PRE-SEYTERIAN CHOIR OF ROYAL OAK GIVES THE NEW MINISTER.

The New Minister, a humorous cantata will be presented by the choir and chorus of the Royal Oak Presbyterian church Monday evening, January 16th, at the High school auditorium. The cantata is written in a very humorous vein and reveals human nature in the selection of a new minister. The "old maids" want a young man, the college boys demand one who can play baseball; the Ladies Auxiliary insists upon a man who will marry one of their daughters; the music committee has its own requirements.

Rev. J. E. Webber as Professor Topnotch directs the chorus. Mrs. Webber and Mrs. Grace Stanley play leading roles.

The January Circle of the local Presbyterian church is very anxious to make this entertainment a success, and solicits your patronage. Thirty-five cents will be charged for admission, and tickets can be secured at Ponsford's.

FIRE AT CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL.

PEACE TREATY IS RATIFIED BY DAIL

CENTURIES OLD STRUGGLE WITH ENGLAND IS ENDED BY 54 TO 57 VOTE.

IRELAND NOW IRISH FREE STATE

De Valera, Angered by Decision, Resigns Again, Says Republic of Ireland Still Exists.

Dublin.—By a majority of seven votes, the Dail Éireann last Saturday night ratified the Irish Free State treaty, establishing tranquil relations between Great Britain and Ireland after more than seven centuries of strife. The vote stood:

For ratification, 54.

Against ratification, 57.

The result was defeat for Eamonn de Valera, president of the provisional Irish republic, who led the fight for rejection of the pact.

As soon as the result was announced officially by Speaker MacNeill, De Valera announced that his resignation offered in the Dail previously is in effect. He had consented to hold it in abeyance until the Treaty vote was taken.

In announcing that his resignation now is effective, De Valera said:

"A republic has been established by the will of the Irish people. It can only be disestablished by the will of the people."

Ireland Monday night is without a government of its own. Eamonn de Valera resigned from the presidency, and the proposal for his reelection to that office, which includes the office of premier, was defeated in the Dail because of a vote of 57 to 55.

De Valera made it clear that all the members of his ministry, whether they remain or not, must support the Treaty.

Victor Gollancz, a leader in one of the anti-Treaty army, and Alastair MacNaughton of the Sinn Féin, said the Sinn Féin support of the Treaty would end and encourage many to do the same.

De Valera's speech was followed by a speech of his own, in which he said that the Sinn Féin had proved even larger than they had expected.

A number of speakers addressed from the floor, the most prominent being a lay observer who drew a verdict that the Free State had won.

Word of the election immediately went out in British cities in London.

The next step will be the introduction of a bill in the British Parliament at London creating the Irish Free State. In making the provisions of the Treaty part of the original law of the land, this bill will be introduced immediately after Parliament convenes in mid-Session Jan. 31.

This bill will come into effect in Ireland on Dec. 6, 1922. It gives the Free State of the British empire a status, however, which it did not have.

De Valera's status unless she decides to join the Irish Free State.

TEN POISONED AT COMMUNION

Furniture Polish Mistaken for Sacramental Wine at Service.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Morning service in the Second Reformed church here, Sunday, 11, to an amateur and when first set up, toppled over on the floor of the church near the pulpit, whereupon the organist from the adjacent organ, which had been prepared a day before, instead of the organist, stepped up instead of the organist.

The organist was Crown, who confided to her John Reynolds, an elder, that he had to stop the organ fell voice. A second victim dropped near the organ, and a neighbor, who had just succeeded in saving men who were placed in anteroom and called to their homes.

"My God, we've been poisoned," cried H. Berkeurst, a prominent furniture dealer, rushing from the church. Members of the congregation followed him into the street. They ran to a water tank more than a block away, and plunged into it.

Naval Officer Commits Suicide.

Los Angeles—Lieut John Eberwine, officer on the destroyer tender, Melville, was found dead in his quarters on that vessel with a bullet wound in his body. Fellow officers said he had been despondent. He was one of several hundred officers who would suffer loss of rank as a result of changes recently ordered in the Navy.

Woman's Best Killers Sisters.

Corfu, in the Ionian Islands, 17 miles off, and Chios, 9 miles, about 100 miles north of Athens, were turned to death by a fire which apparently was started by the explosion of a shell. The home of Dennis L. Moran, father of the public grocer, was destroyed. A small and severely injured moonfawn, 10 days old, was found in the ruins. Moran had his wife and three small children escaped.

Roots Wine Cellar Raided.

Utica, N. Y.—A reward of $1,000 was offered in local papers for the arrest and conviction of thieves who recently raided the residence of Elijah Root on College Hill, Clinton, disclosing the fact that the thieves took from the house a choice stock of wines, some of which were of great age and rare vintage. The stock is said to amount to many thousands of dollars.

New York Bars "Demif-Virgin" Play.

New York—The Ad Hoc Woods production, "The Demi-Virgin," was ordered withdrawn from the stage, when Justice Wagner denied the producer an injunction against John F. Gilchrist, restraining him, after revoking the license of the Eltinge Theater, where the play is being played. The play had been declared immoral by Chief City Magistrate McAdoo.

Alchemist Says Burch is Sane.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Arthur C. Burch, on trial for the alleged murder of J. Fulton-Lenzend, acts as if he were pretending that he does not want to be thought insane, but really wants that thing to happen according to testimony of Dr. Thomas J. Carson, alchemist, called by the prosecution. Dr. Orson declared he failed to find the "slightest symptom" of insanity in the defendant.

Stolen $1,000 Certificates Recovered.

St. Louis, Mo.—Six of the 12 treasury certificates for $1,000 each, obtained December 10 in the robbery of a messenger of the Hamilton County bank of Cincinnati, have been recovered, federal secret service operatives have announced. John Miller, a local pawnbroker, is being held here and John Hickey, of this city, was arrested in Chicago in connection with the finding of the securities, it was stated.

Congress Asked to Keep Off.

Washington—The Administration will regard with disfavor any effort on the part of Congress to "force its hand" or any "international matters growing out of the Arms Conference, it can be stated. For this reason the resolution introduced in the House by Rep. Reavis of Nebraska, aimed to compel France to pay her debt to this Government, will be opposed by the Administration and the Administration's spokesmen in Congress.

Says Brains Go To Cities.

Ypsilanti, Mich.—Professor M. S. THE FINS AND BEARS BOTH LOSE
BUT TROLLEY LEAGUE GOES ON AS EVER.

Something happened in the northwest corner of the northwest section of the northwest quarter of the northwest section of the Northwest League last Thursday night. That particular description refers to the Huckleberry Fins and Jim's Bears of Northville.

The Huckleberry Fins' least cake failed to rise and Jim's Bears crawled back into their den. Of all the jumbled up, tumbled up, gumbled up, rumbled up and pumbled up teams these two looked like a spoiled bunch in a new deck. The Farmington boys, five in each team, made no noise for their opponents that they were as hot as a cat and dog race in Florida. Down there, it is told, that it is so hot when a bulldog chases a cat that both walk.

The Fins met the Lapham Five at Novi and the visitors made a regular Huckleberry tail of them. Farmington took three games and was back to their home town before the Northville boys realized they were coming up for air the third time. Jim's and Max's of the visitors did good bowling here and their team mates were good help to them. On the other side, the Huckleberries, who were a little bit worse than the others, the captain later, in the evening presented each of his attack smacking, hay-chewing sod busters with a lemon and said that he was out of bowling into the skunk business. He said that he could suffice handing chit from what he had seen of his son trying to bowl. So the very next day the captain took his spade and went into his potato field to dig out a skunk that had buried himself in a hole. About the time he dug there, the animal was the game was approached.

"He said, 'My young man, do you know that it is against the law to dig out a skunk? I am digging a potato field and the bowler hit me,' said the official, 'this is a pretty strong odor.' Jim said the old bowler but didn't understand that rotten potatoes are not sold for permanent.

So it is quite possible that the manager of the Fins will be right on deck again next plain day night. Turned my traps.

While the Fins were being jumbled up in the Northville alley, Jim's Bears were at Farmington. The bear went in the alleys just like real bears but they came out into the barns the barns & tunnels substituted them from the start. It was not long before the farm animals would get right out of their lairs. The bear were in the lot of confusion and their wild, ungentle spilling & pins won out three to nothing in time.

This was the first real defeat that the Bears had met. They had been through jungles, ravines, streams and woods to their Redford allies and for the first time got tangled up in the mess of the Trolley League.

The old big bear whom they call Jim could be boasting about his cubs that even appealed to him. They were so erratic that he could not guess they would have a score of 100 or 200. At that he could guess nearer their score than he could his own. The big bear, for the first time this season, emerged as a bit of a scoundrel and was accepted by the Farmington bowlers. They claimed it was the first time that he, as ever presented an excuse for not being able to roll the ball right. The captain is going to keep his eyes on the bear until Thursday night. Jim's will go to the end and make a last effort to cap the May be? Yes, for it is the Fins against the Bears again at the Northville alley. No one, after the bad defeat of both teams are asking "Which team will win?" for if possible, at is thought that both teams will lose.

By the all-around boozing of last week it has placed Jim's Bears in second place. The Plymouth Rocks have jumped to the lead while the Huckleberry Fins are a little nearer the cellar.

Now that we understand each other, and I agree to accept the nomination, provided that the Sinn Feiners of Ireland are no relation to the Fin Siders of the Trolley League and that an enormous bounty be placed upon Bears, so that they might be terminated without hibernating with the Ku Klux Klan, will state that of eight teams in the Trolley League there are only six that have anything to do with the two Northville outfit.

TELLS TALES OF ADVENTURE

Ship Disappeared When Vessel Went Out of Commission and Officers of Navy Department Have Since
Sailed High and Low.

Boston.—The logbook of the frigate Constitution, missing for fifteen years, has been found at the Boston navy yard.

High-and-low the officials of the department have sought the volume ever since the famous old ship went out of commission for the last time in 1807.

They walked accumulations of ancient documents hunted through official files and the records of the rusty past, investigated гарант and cellars in the department at Washington and at the various navy yards. All in vain.

The disappearance of the logbook was a complete mystery and the department had come to the conclusion that some person had purloined the book and that it would probably never again come to light.

Covered With Grime.

And now quite accidentally, it has turned up covered with grime and cobwebs in the uppermost corner of building 52, at the Boston yard, where apparently it had lain, with a lot of other rubbish, since her captain buried down his log for the last time.

The logbook, which is in manuscript, of course, is very well preserved and its entries are remarkable clear and legible. They bear the signatures written in flowing script of past generation of Captains. Fifty men were set to clean up the logbook. Carpenter's work on the side of an Andrew shop which was being built when the old ship lay in the stocks of the Amherst.

Man's months were consumed in cleaning along the coast of Turkey, many ports being visited. American and American counsel paid an official visit to the ship, and was given aousing reception.

On the return voyage through the Mediterranean John Richards went ashore to the mainmast and the sea, and before a boat could be lowered an undivided took him to the bottom.

When the Constitution sailed into the harbor of Gibraltar April 23, she fired a salute of 21 guns from the broadside in honor of the signature of King George IV of Great Britain which took place at noon on that day.

Another chapter soon blew up—the death and the west morning to the frigate was soon laid and cast on the rocks. Fifty men were set to clean up the logbook. Carpenter's work on the side of an Andrew shop which was being built when the old ship lay in the stocks of the Amherst.

After four weeks in the stocks of the Constitution, the crew became dirty by the flagrant practice of the food and water being thrown over the men.

At the end of four weeks the crew was reduced to 100 men. The ship was taken into the stocks of the Amherst.

It is thought that the crew was reduced to 100 men.

During the arrival of the Constitution in Boston, it was reported that the crew was reduced to 100 men.

She was expected to be sent to the South in 1813, when Congress authorized the President to supply armament for coast, sea and fleet to the University of Michigan.

In 1814, the Constitution was sent to the stocks of the Amherst.

TO CONSTRUCT WAYNE-FARMINGTON HIGHWAY THIS YEAR.

A high-speed highway, free of all dead ends, will be constructed this summer connecting Wayne, Plymouth, Dearborn and Farmington, the Wayne and Dearborn ends being first to be completed.

The highway will be built through the center of the village and the two ends will be connected by a bridge across the river.

The highway will be built through the center of the village and the two ends will be connected by a bridge across the river.

The people of Wayne, after a recent special election voted almost unanimously to pave their end of this highway as it enters the village. They will construct two eighteen-foot drives from Michigan Avenue to the village limits and the street car tracks will be placed between the two drives, making a very attractive as well as a convenient entrance to Wayne.

The completion of the new highway is being looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure by the people of Wayne, who will thus be given an outlet to the wonderful Oakland country, and it is also believed that the new road will soon become a very popular route for motorists who will seek to get away from the congested condition on Michigan Avenue from the city to Wayne.

Two cement bridges are now in course of construction on the Farmington end of the line between the Five Mile and the Seven-Mile road.

William Rooney, who is employed at William Spencer, can tell just now when he was at the bottom of the sea. If he wants to go skating on the Phoenix pond every night ago he broke through twice into about twenty feet of real water. Fortunately help was near and he was pulled out with no results, except a good "ducking." He says he prefers to take his baths under different conditions.

Ask your neighbors just what they think of Elliott's Fresh Roasted Coffee. They tell us they like the blends and they are coming back for more. That is pretty good evidence, don't you think? If you have not tried a pound we invited you to do so, and you will find it to your interest to accept our invitation.

We make our own blends, roast and grind our own Coffees and serve them to our customers while they are fresh and wholesome.

A FIRE THAT MADE 7000 PEOPLE WAKE UP

The great fire was at Mt. Carmel, in the western part of Israel on a day after three years of drought. The people came to bear what Elijah should say. They wanted to see if the prophet had something better than Baal had been.

The religion which could bring fire from heaven vindicated itself as it always does.

That fire on Mt. Carmel woke 7000 in Israel to their senses—warmed cold hearts—burned up evil desires—filled homes—with mighty inspirations.

Folks in Northville are quite like those people on Mt. Carmel—halving between two opinions—hanging between both sides. Not very good yet nor very bad.

Why not get the Elijah brand—the A-1—top notch value—result—getting religion.

Do a little straight thinking in a noisy world.

ARMS PACT SOON TO BE SUBMITTED

ONLY DETAILS REMAIN BEFORE "FIVE POWERS" ARE GIVEN TREATY TO APPROVE.

WILL PUSH FAR EAST PROBLEM

Negotiations on Shantung Turn to New Channels and May Result in Early Agreement.

Washington.—Only details of technical phraseology remain to be worked out before the treaty for limitation of armaments is ready for signature by the plenipotentiaries of the five great powers.

Passing on its last question of policy, the armament committee in the Washington Conference early in the week decided against present attempt to limit or regulate aerial warfare and voted to refer the problem to a continuing commission for future study.

SEPARATE MEETINGS OF DELEGATES.

Then each of the five delegations, meeting separately, began an examination of the tentative treaty draft prepared by the sub-committee of experts. The delegation heads were to come together to compare opinions, and it is expected that the complete text will be ready for publication to the world at a plenary session of the conference late in the week.

Questions of definition, particularly with reference to the status of merchant vessels in war time, are understood to be the chief concern of the delegates in their efforts to agree on a wording acceptable to every one.

With the armament end of the conference approaching final disposition, the delegates are preparing to press the Far Eastern discussions also to an early conclusion. The Shantung question still is in deadlock, the fresh hope of a settlement was aroused Monday night when it became apparent that the negotiations on that subject were turning into new channels. The other remaining elements of discord in the Far East are not generally considered of a character to lead to extended debate.

The important agreements up to this point include the four-power treaty on naval and trade questions, the limiting of submarine warfare, armament schedules and the outlawing of the use of poison gas.

MODERN DAY MIRACLES

The Story of a London School Boy Who Stumbled Upon the Secret of Making Dyes from Coal Tar

(Told in Eight Sketches)

BY JOHN RAYMOND

No. II

POETS OF SCIENCE

William Henry Perkin was an odd creature of the road, a poor youngster. When he was 13, the explosive that years old and a student in the City of London School, he heard of a series of lectures on chemistry during the noon recess. Young William Henry decided that the lectures would be of sweetest of honey. He took up the lectures. Apparently the lectures made a deep impression upon the boy. Two years later he entered the laboratory of a chemist named Hoffman in the Royal College of London and by the time he was 18 had started upon his Science, urging the chemists to isolate the dyes from coal tar and prepared artificial quinine. In order to speed the day when his task would be done he set up a private laboratory and worked overtime. While at work in this laboratory in the spring of 1856, he found in his test tube while oxidizing some oil, a black, sticky mass instead of clear crystals. He attempted to wash it out with alcohol when, to his surprise, he produced a wonderful purple solution—mauve, the first of the aniline dyes.

Ten years later Perkin achieved his greatest triumph when he produced "Kermes," or Turkey red, formerly made only from the root of the madder. Years later the British government knighted the man who first discovered the vast possibilities contained with coal tar but gave him little financial support or encouragement. It was left to German researchers to build up the industry and finally to obtain a strangle hold upon the trade—a hold so firm that in 1914 the Kaiser was convinced that, with the aid of his chemists, he was in a position to conquer the world.

Creative chemists—the successors of Perkin—lately have been called the "Poets of Science." They will mount an armful of prizes, wages and hours of labor, and exhort their unchanged patents and trade secrets, imagination has found. They will divide the foreign business on an even basis and share the profits.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS TO KNOW

An opportunity to learn the latest and most approved methods of the science of living will be afforded Michigan women during Farmers' Week, January 30 to February 3, at the Michigan Agricultural College in East Lansing. At this time addresses and demonstrations touching upon the newer aspects of practical economics, with the given daily nutrition, dress, health—questions which are of immediate concern not only to the farm wife but to every woman.

The topics which have been presented in this column during the past month have been primarily those relating to food and nutrition, with emphasis upon their importance to children. No amount of lecturing, however, and no amount of reading, can be of half so much value as seeing the actual demonstrations of the truths and principles which have been discovered by the most eminent exponents of Home Economics.

Among the more noted women's program speakers who will be present during Farmers' Week are Dr. Caroline Hedges of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial Fund; Professor Barbara Bartlett, director of Public Health Nursing; Miss Martha Phillips of the American Dye Corporation, who will lecture upon and demonstrate the ease and economy with which old clothes can be made like new; and Dr. R. W. Bunting, president of the Michigan Dental Association, who will discuss the care of children's teeth. Other experts will give daily lectures, with demonstrations, upon clothing and textiles, millinery, meat canning, pastry making—all the multifold activities of interest to the modern woman.

Arrangements have also been made for unusual forms of entertainment—musical programs, plays, and teas for all visitors.

DETROIT THEATRE

A warm fire is warming the epistles of their dear old heart undoubtedly awaiting "Mutt and Jeff" when they appear at the Shubert-McLing in the new Detroit community Sunday matinee and continuing for the week with the usual madness.

The famous Bird Fisher couple are to appear in a brand new two-act musical play entitled, "Mutt and Jeff in China Town." The pure gaiety is well defined plot, telling a story certain to interest and immediately appeal to all taste of love, youth, frolic, mischief, comedy and romance, with youth triumphant in the end.

One of the many things which makes this most exceptional offering is the highly-amusing final scene in which Mutt figures. This bit is said to be a scream from start to finish. Little

Jeff, as formerly, is made the buffer and "goat" of the "big fellow," but in the final comes into his own outfitting his trainer and tormenter.

Pretty girls, handsome and gorgeous gowns, a superabundance of up-to-the-minute hits, songs, hits, tuneful melody, situations and features, are domestic. Mutt and Jeff are in in-sitation and on this occasion they have something unusual to do, and which they accomplish in their unique and unusual way.

One of the greatest charms of "The Rose Girl" which will be the colorful musical attraction at the Garrick theatre next week beginning Sunday night is that it is the happiest possible blending of comedy with romance.

Most of the music is said to be very graceful, and tuneful and completely free from jazz or any other musical vulgarity. "The Rose Girl" scored an instant hit on the occasion of its presentation at the ornate and newest theatre in New York, the Ambassador, last year, and has just repeated this success during a run of many weeks at the Wilbur theatre in Boston.

The production comes to Detroit under the able guidance of the Messrs. Shubert and great attention has been paid to the elaborate details of scenes and costuming. Some of the foremost stage directors were concerned in the building of this ornate production; the musical score is the work of Dr. Anselm Goetzl, composer of "The Royal Vagabond," the book and lyrics are by William Cary Duncan assisted by Louis Simon the comedian.

The story tells of a little French maid, by the name of Rosebud, who is being defrauded out of her inheritance by one Grouchy, overseer of the famous rose gardens of Perrier, Ltd., in Southern France. The child is really the heiress to this vast estate and this fact comes to the notice of Madame Donnat, who conducts a gambling house in Paris, which induces that adventure with her partner, Gaston Lamont—to lure the girl to the French capital with the promise that a musical future with wealth and luxury await her there. From this point it is a tug-of-war between two sets of rascals for Rosebud and her money, but at length Philippe Jelot, a Parisian journalist and his darling Fleurette, aided by two impudent Americans of friendly disposition are able to circumvent the villains, unite Rosebud to her lover, who has been driven away from her by lies and representations of her right-hand man,

HAVE BIG HIGHWAY PROGRAM PLANNED

The Wayne County Highway Commissioners have finalized an extensive highway construction plan for 1922 and they are planning to expend about three million dollars this season. The year's program contemplates the construction of fifty miles of concrete surface highway and the replacement for a number of bridges and the improvement of other highways.

A nine-mile stretch will be constructed on the town line between Dearborn and Greenfield, connecting with the Seven Mile road.

For many years the board has considered a middle belt route running north and south and bisecting the county almost in equal halves, as absolutely essential to greater flexibility for the county's east and west roads. A start will be made this year with a five-mile stretch of 20-foot concrete from the Plymouth road south to Michigan Avenue.

Phoenix road is to be paved with concrete, making accessible the penitentiary farm of the house of correction. The road will be built by prisoners under the direction of the board of county road commissioners.

A concrete road 20 feet wide and 11 miles long is to be started as soon as cement arrives at the Oakland county line. It will connect Farmington with W. M.

The Wayne commissioners expects to receive upwards of a million dollars from the federal government this year and among the projects upon which this aid has been granted is the construction of the road from Plymouth to Northville and then on through Northville to Ann Arbor, connecting all the cities in the university city.

Northville School Notes.

Next Tuesday evening a general meeting of parents and those otherwise interested in the school will be held in the auditorium of the High School. At the King Street Church, the meeting is expected to be about the beginning of classes in the Northville schools. All present will be asked to pay 50 cents and give a general lecture on the most important subjects in education. Miss Lawrence, the local Red Cross worker, will talk on the subject of first aid defects. As a result of these examinations, 150 children from Kindergarten through the eighth grade girls and children were found to be undernourished. A letter to the parents of all these children has been sent by the superintendent of schools inviting them to attend the meeting. It is felt a great amount of good will be accomplished if the parents will cooperate in this undertaking. Be sure and come next Tuesday evening at seven-thirty and hear these health talks and be free to ask questions.

Hoyle Club project was organized Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of pupils remaining at school during the noon hour. Miss Marion Beckman will have charge of the 125 girls and will be assisted by Mrs. Holcomb, who supervised the work last year. The average cost of hot lunches last year was 25¢. The wind was small indeed, bringing the highest total sales of $100.00.

On Saturday morning at 10 Mrs. Pearce of Union College delivered one of the best and most interesting speeches we have had the pleasure of hearing, for some time. The main theme of his lecture was "How One Gets Out of the Just Society." He is willing to put into it all we are to accomplish anything in this world we must put our soul to the wheel and push instead of just idle dreaming and wishing for things to come our way.

It was rough the courtesy of Rev. H. J. B. Marsh that we were able to have Prof. Pearce with us.

A number of letters were sent to parents of pupils doing poor work for the month of December and it is hoped the letters will help to encourage better work for the present month.

The Northville basket ball fans witnessed three snappy games in the local gym last Friday night, all of which were won by the High school teams. The High school girls won from the alumni girls by a 22 to 6 score, while the boys' team won from the Pontiac team by a 16 to 13 score and from the Maroons by a 16 to 19 score.

NORTHVILLE AND PLYMOUTH GIRLS' TEAMS TO PLAY.

A good snappy game is promised in the contest between the Plymouth and Northville girls' basketball teams when they meet on the local floor this Friday evening.

The Northville girls have a splendid lineup. The forwards, Helen Vanatta and Virginia Smith, are hard to beat. Ask anyone who has ever played against them. The centers, Irene Thompson and Vivian Parmenter, show fine head work, while the guards, Ida Rose Cavall and Margaret Murdoch, are certainly making trouble for the visiting forwards by breaking up their plays.

All of the team do excellent team work and all have the fighting spirit. Although for the past few years Plymouth teams have taken the honor from our girls, we are sure that with this lineup we will go "over the top" with victory for our school.

D. U. R. APPEALS FARE SUIT.

Judge D. W. Carr in the Ingham circuit court, Tuesday denied the application of the D. U. R. for dismissal of the injunction under which the company is compelled to observe the rates of interurban fare established in the Glaspey act. The company is expected to appeal immediately to the supreme court in an effort to have the Glaspey act declared unconstitutional.

This act provides that interurban roads whose gross passenger earnings in '20-21 exceed $14,000 a mile may not charge more than one and one half cents a mile, those earning less than $14,000 may charge two cents a mile, those earning less than $2,000 a mile may charge two and one-half cents, and those earning less than $1,000 a mile may charge three and one-half cents.

When the act went into effect in August, the D. U. R. turned to the state under it but proceeded to charge the fares previously in effect. The utility commission requested the attorney general to sue against the company. An injunction was issued in Graham circuit court late in August compelling the D. U. R. to reduce its rates to the Glaspey act levels.

The company filed a petition for dissolution of the injunction. This was denied. It then filed a petition for dismissal of the bill of complaint and a supplementary petition for dissolution of the injunction. These were rejected by Judge Carr Tuesday.
