'T WAS REAL MERRY CHRISTMAS HERE

SATURDAY NIGHT'S CELEBRATION
ATTRACTED A GREAT CROWD OF PEOPLE.

Not since the years when Northville had its community Christmas trees has a Christmas celebration been held here equal to the one which took place on the streets Saturday night. Some weeks ago it was suggested by members of the Northville Exchange club that the band stand be decorated with Christmas greens and made attractive during the Christmas season. The suggestion took deep root and after a week or so had passed other members proposed that the club arrange for a real celebration on Saturday night before Christmas, which the whole community should be asked to take part in. The idea was approved immediately and committees were appointed to arrange for the event. N. C. Schrader being named as chairman. Friday the band stand was decorated with evergreen boughs, colored lights and Christmas tree decorations and was made most attractive. The committee prepared 500 "stockings" which were filled with candies, nuts and a big orange and purchased horns enough so that one could be given with each Christmas stocking.

Through the efforts of W. H. Safford a number of the members of the band offered their services and at 7:30 Saturday night one imagined it was along some time in June with a real summer Saturday night crowd. Every available space about the streets was occupied with autos and the business section was filled with a happy crowd of children and grown-ups, and the latter seemed to enjoy the event as well as the little ones. The band played several selections and then a truck bearing boxes filled with gifts was parked near the stand. President Charles A. Dolph called the assemblage to order and introduced E. D. Brown as "the man who had found Santa Claus." In responding to the introduction Mr. Brown said he was happy in the thought that he had found Santa Claus and that he had found him many years ago, but that he never seemed more real than upon that occasion when so many happy faced boys and girls were eagerly awaiting his arrival. He said Santa Claus was in Northville and he would continue to visit Northville so long as love endures. Continuing his address Mr. Brown said:

"It has been said that a mirror is typical of life, inasmuch as it gives back to you all that you put into it. If you look in a mirror it reflects your image perfectly. If you smile it smiles back at you. If you frown it frowns at you, if you are happy it indicates your happiness and if you are sad it indicates your sadness. It is important then what we put into our lives each day and each year, because we have no right to expect that we shall get more out of our lives than we are willing to put into them in helpful, kindly service and good cheer. The man or woman or the boy or girl who puts the most into their lives will be the one who will reap the richest reward. The girl or boy at school who strives to do their best, to be obedient and courteous to teachers who strive to master each day's problems, who chooses good companions, who is careful of their personal conduct, who are considerate of their parents and who endeavor to make their home life sweet and to bring happiness to those with whom they associate, will get infinitely more out of their school life and out of all the years which are to follow than those who are careless and indifferent regarding the higher things of life.

"There is something upon this tree and about this tree that you cannot see, but it is there. Without it there would never have been a Christmas tree or a Christmas. It causes the joy bells to ring, it warms the heart of all, it inspires us to nobler thoughts and to helpful service. You cannot see it, but it is there; you cannot feel it but you realize it is ever present. It is love.

"What is Christmas? Christmas is the embodiment of love. It is of divine origin. The Heavenly Father who had created all things gave to the world His only begotten son because He loved His children. The Christ-child came to earth in a manger in Bethlehem of Judea. His birth was a lowly one, but the mission upon which he was sent was one of service, one of love. He spent his life in helpful, inspiring service. He healed the sick, caused the lame to walk, he spoke words of cheer to the discouraged and oppressed, he offered pardon to all who believed, and finally he gave himself as a sacrifice that all might enjoy eternal life. But a few years transpired between the cradle and the cross, but they were years crowded full of love and sacrifice, and today the principles for which he lived and for which he gave his life, are the greatest, most compelling force in the world.

"We have met tonight to join our hearts and voices in this Christmas celebration and it is well that we should thus gather. At Christmas time we meet upon a common level. Old and young feel the blessed influence of this sacred festival, and our hearts are warmed by the glow of the Christmas star. Let us remember however, that those who put the most into their Christmas are those who will get the most joy out of its celebration. I do not mean by that the man who can write the largest check or the woman who can give the most costly gifts, or the boy or girl who is loaded down with gifts by over-indulgent parents and admiring friends, will get the most joy out of Christmas. But those who render some loving service to those less fortunate than themselves, who remember those in need, will be greatly blessed and will receive untold blessings this happy Christmas season.

"As we have gathered to honor childhood, may we turn our faces toward that star in the east which has been the inspiration and the hope of the world for more than 2,000 years. May we appreciate the gift of the Christ child to the world and prove ourselves worthy. His goodness and His love.

"At the conclusion of this talk Mr. Brown announced the arrival of Santa Claus who has secreted himself (as) in the evening in the cap and band stand. The jolly old fellow climbed down the ladder and took his place upon the platform and began the distribution of the gifts. The children, many of them alone, some accompanied by their fathers or mothers were formed in line and as they marched past each child was given the gifts arranged by the committee and there was a steady stream of humanity until 500 gifts had been distributed. And that stream of humanity was about the happiest, liveliest and most uproarious procession that was ever formed in this community. Everybody was happy and the great crowd was certainly imbued with the Christmas spirit.

The members of the committee having the celebration in charge are to be congratulated upon its success and the desire to publicly express their appreciation to all who contributed in any way in the undertaking. They have promised a bigger and better celebration next year.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS REMEMBERED MANY:

The King's Daughters made their annual distribution of Christmas baskets last Saturday afternoon and upwards of 25 families and individuals were kindly remembered with a lot of good things. Each basket contained a chicken, tea, coffee, sugar, milk jelly or canned fruit, nuts and candy oranges, canned vegetables, etc., and a sack of potatoes and carrots, was sent with each basket. A number of children were supplied with toys through the kindness of one of our generous hearted childless citizens.

It was the plan of The King's Daughters to provide a bountiful dinner to every family and individual who might otherwise not enjoy that blessing on Christmas and if any one was overlooked it was not the fault of the committee for they made diligent inquiry.

The ladies who had the affair in charge are very grateful to all who contributed toward the fund and to those who contributed articles for the baskets. It was a service of love in which the whole community gladly took part.

Members of the class of 1920 of the Northville High school held a very enjoyable reunion last night. They formed a theatre party early in the evening and after enjoying the show at the Alseium they gathered at the home of Miss Genevieve Parmenter where a pot-luck "feed" was partaken of.

In the bowling tournament now being conducted in Detroit Harry S. German of this village and John C. Clark of Farmington are leading in the doubles, German is leading in the all events and German and Clark are members of the Heart Club which is in

With the production of a dozen car-loads of alfalfa seed during the past season, Monroe county has taken rank as one of the leading alfalfa seed producing counties of the country, according to Prof. J. F. Cox, head of the farm crops department at the Michigan Agricultural college, who has

Though far away from the cold and snow in which the old home town was blanketed at Christmas time, Fred P. Simmons did not forget his friends in Northville. He very kindly donated $10 to The King's Daughters' Christmas fund.

Last Saturday afternoon some Northville boys were out hunting and noticing some pheasants "blazed away," shooting a leg off from one of the birds which flew away and could not be found. These boys might have done this without thinking about the seriousness of the matter but it should be a warning to others. These birds are protected by law and it might prove a pretty serious matter if any one was caught in the act of killing one of them.

Relic of Saxon Days

THE New Year begins precisely at midnight on the last day of the year...

The first of the year this occasion... says the old calendar...

We now begin New Year on January 1... the first of the year...

It was Julius Caesar, in the year 46 B. C., who first reformed the calendar...

After the French revolution France decided to set up an entirely new order of things...

Instead of the mythological names of the months, others deduced from the prevailing seasons of the year were substituted...

Everything was to be based upon reason. The Norse Dama was converted to a Temple of Reason...

The month was chosen and given French names which were thought to be characteristic of them...

Each month began somewhere between the 13th and the 22nd—according to our reckoning...

With the restoration of a stable government in France, this calendar was repealed, and the usual one substituted...

YOUR "LITTLE NEW YEAR"

By MARTHA B. THOMAS

THE "Little New Year" is a very eager youngster...

He pops into view overnight; in fact, the second difference is the margin between us being nothing at all...

He is your Little New Year, and you've got to decide just what to do with him...

Are you going to make him a present of manumission by feeding him on irregular meals of prohibition?

Are you going to run his character (and maybe your own) by the mill and towns of pleasant fibs to prevent a feeling of discomfort about his showing up into a hard scaram box?

Let's send him out a fine "study fellow!"

HOW JAPAN GREETES NEW YEAR

Custom of Oriental Countries Is to Give Special Performances in the Play Houses

THE Oriental methods of greeting the New Year differ greatly from ours. In Japan, as well as in other Oriental countries, special performances are given in the theaters...

By the temples and shrines priests and attendants entertain the people with special dances. The Kagura, or Sacred Dance With Music, is the favorite, for while it is being given prayers are offered for the continued happiness of the nation during the coming year...

Another ceremonial, which has been handed down for centuries, is the Shu-Sai, or Dance of the Ancestral Sanctuary. This is given within the palace by the imperial family on January 3 and it celebrates the founding of the imperial house centuries ago.

A NEW YEAR'S CARD

Now what is there a word of cheer To herald in another year, May all its days be free of blame— A little nobler than your aim, May all its labors be content A little better than your best, And all the joys within its scope A little brighter than your hope, And may each year be found, when past, A little dearer than the last.

—Arthur Guernsey in Woman's Home Companion.

NORTHVILLE MILLING and LUMBER CO.

MRS. RICHARDSON FATALLY INJURED

SLIPPED AND FELL ON MAIN STREET RECEIVING INJURIES WHICH CAUSED HER DEATH.

How true is it that in the midst of life we are in death. The distressing and fatal accident which befell Mrs. F. E. Richardson on Main street in this village Saturday night occurred within fifteen minutes after the last gift was presented to the children who had gathered to enjoy the Christmas celebration. This kindly woman, who loved children dearly, had come from the library building to watch the celebration, given in honor of the children of this community. In attempting to cross the street she slipped and fell and struck the pavement with sufficient force to cause concussion of the brain. Those standing near rushed to her assistance and she was carried to the Ambler Hotel and physicians were called. She was unconscious when lifted from the pavement and after the physicians had made a brief examination she was taken to her home in Schrader Brothers ambulance. A more thorough examination disclosed the fact that she had suffered a concussion and she remained in an unconscious condition until death claimed her about ten o'clock. Her son, Ralph

L. Richardson who lives in the city about the time the accident occurred, was located and reached her bedside a few minutes before death came.

The suddenness of the calamity, coming so soon after a great crowd had gathered in a happy Christmas celebration, was a shock to every one and strong men could not hide their great sorrow.

A daughter, Mrs. Portier, whose home is in Ft. Wayne, Ind. was summoned and she arrived Sunday morning. Arrangements were made for the funeral and for the shipment of the remains to the old home at Union City, Pa. for burial. Brief services were held from the house at ten o'clock Monday morning being conducted by Rev. William Richards and the funeral party left Detroit for the east about noon.

The deceased had spent her whole life in Pennsylvania until about four years ago when she came to Michigan to be with her son and maintain a home for him. She had been a resident of Northville about two years and by her gracious and kindly manner by the many Christian attributes with which she was endowed, she endeared herself to all who came to know her. Quiet and unassuming in manner she exerted an impelling influence upon all who enjoyed her acquaintance and her sudden death caused great sorrow among her friends here. Her home life was a most happy one and mother and son lived for one another in that sweet harmony that was both a benediction and a blessing.

The deceased is survived by four daughters and two sons all of whom were present at the funeral at Union City except one daughter who is in Paris with her family. Mrs. Richardson was 72 years of age.

A contributing cause for this accident was the fact that an automobile driven by Aldora Cusson approached as Mrs. Richardson started to cross the street and in her efforts to turn about or step aside to permit the machine to pass she lost her footing and slipped under the car. The car was stopped within a few feet, but not until one of the front wheels had passed over her and she was pushed along on the pavement for some distance. Later in the evening Cusson was taken to the city for questioning by the prosecuting attorney and after making an explanation he was permitted to return home. He went to the city again Tuesday when the hearing was continued.

An inquest was held before Justice of the Peace G. H. Baker at Forester hall yesterday afternoon.

PLYMOUTH TO HAVE POULTRY SHOW.

The premium lists for the fourth annual show of the Plymouth Poultry association are out, and are now being distributed. The show this year promises to be the biggest and best ever pulled off by the chicken fanciers of Plymouth, and the officers of the local association are making all arrangements for a large number of birds here on January 10, 11, 12 and 13, 1923, the dates for the big event.

The show will be held in Penniman hall. Among the prizes to be competed for are sixteen beautiful silver trophy cups. The grand prize of the show, a most beautiful trophy cup, has been donated by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. This cup is now on display in C. G. Draper's store window. Anyone desiring entry blanks, premium lists, or any information regarding the coming show, phone or write Wm. P. Wernick, secretary, Route 1 Plymouth—Plymouth Mail.

EXCHANGE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

At the meeting of the Northville Exchange club, held at the Ambler Hotel on Wednesday, the following officers were elected for the ensuing six months: President, C. A. Dolph; vice-president, J. A. Huff; secretary, P. R. Alexander; treasurer, L. A. Babbitt; members board of control, R. R. Brown, C. R. Ely, E. L. Smith.

Reports were submitted by the secretary showing the organization to be in a good financial condition. N. C. Schrader, who was chairman of the Christmas booth committee submitted his report. This organization directed the celebration last Saturday night and with the co-operation of other citizens was able to make it a gratifying success. The celebration cost each contributor but little, but the unity of effort resulted in a community celebration that reflected credit upon Northville. Members of the Exchange Club are willing and anxious to take the lead in these matters for the community, but the organization does not have funds to finance them. The willingness with which all who were solicited responded to the Christmas fund indicated that the whole community in sympathy with the movement. Without the combined efforts of all who assisted it would not have been possible to have held the celebration.

ELECTRIC FLAT IRON CAUSES FIRE.

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Mike Sassanelli, who has rooms over Miss

Beard's millinery store on North Center street, left an electric flat iron connected and about four o'clock Miss Beard discovered smoke issuing from the ceiling of her store. An investigation disclosed the flat iron, which had burned through the ironing board and dropping to the floor, had burned a hole in the floor. The iron was removed and the fire soon extinguished, but it was a pretty close call.

Mrs. Beard is very grateful to all who willingly responded to the alarm and stood in readiness to render assistance if needed.

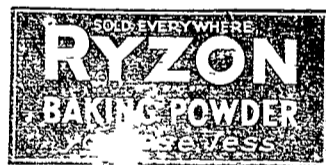

About an hour previous the fire department responded to an alarm of fire at the house occupied by John Bucher and daughter on Dunlap street, but fortunately it proved a false alarm.
