It is especially desired that the residences and business places of the village be appropriately decorated for the day.

CLUB ENTERTAINED AT PLYMOUTH

After having become well settled in her splendid new home at Plymouth, Mrs. E. Simmons entertained the members of her club on Friday last. The ladies made good use of the occasion by bringing a shower for Mrs. Marlin Simmons (Stella Pangborn) of Newburg, the spring bride of their membership.

Everybody had assembled ahead of the rain so that the shower within put in the background the shower without.

Mrs. Simmons, Jr., received many beautiful gifts and the event was as joyous as only old friends and past matrons of the culinary art could make it. The next meeting will occur with the Misses Snerman on Meadowbrook road.

GEORGE B. CRUMBIE DIED MONDAY

George B. Crumbie, known to every one in this section as Bert Crumbie, a contractor and builder, died Monday in a Detroit hospital after an illness of but three days of pneumonia. Mr. Crumbie had the contract for the erection of the new houses being built by E. C. Langfield & Son and was in Northville on Thursday afternoon and seemed as well as ever. He had planned to begin the erection of E. L. Smith's new residence on Friday. Mr. Crumbie was a good workman and was reliable in his business dealings. The tenderest sympathy of many Northville friends are extended to the grief-stricken wife and family.

BASE BALL AT PRISON FARM

The game last Sunday of the House of Correction and the Athletics of Windsor was called at the end of the first inning on account of rain. Score at the end of the first inning 3 to 0 for the farm.

The House of Correction Farm will play the Baker Shamrocks of Detroit at the farm grounds at 3 p. m., Friday, May 30th.

The House of Correction will play the Hamilton merchants of Detroit next Sunday at the farm grounds at 3:00 p. m.

NORTHVILLE HAS ONE CONTESTANT

BURGLAR CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS

Three strangers entered Bruno Freydl's clothing store Monday forenoon upon the pretense of buying a pair of pantaloons and securing another pair that one of the trio had ordered one-day last week. Charles Freydl was alone in the store and while he was waiting upon the fellow one of them took two suits of clothes from a rack and bundled them under his overcoat. Mr. Freydl was suspicious of his visitors and he thought one of the fellows looked strange and followed the visitors to the door. As he reached the door he discovered one of the fellows had some clothing under his coat and he decided to register the plunder without further ceremony. The stranger, seeing he was being followed, dodged into the stairway leading to the rooms over C. A. Ponsford's store where he was discovered when Mr. Freydl opened the door. Charles grappled with the stranger and called for help, and in the meantime he had taken the clothing away from the thief. Bystanders soon came to his assistance and the fellow was turned over to local officers. His two companions, however, made their getaway.

The fellow arrested gave his name as Phillip Luna, and Detroit as his home, but Pontiac officers with whom the local officers communicated, declared the fellow's name was Phillip Tria and that he was a member of a bad gang. Luna's companions were also residents of Pontiac and were known to Oakland county officers. The three fellows put up at the Ambler Hotel, over Sunday night.

Tria was taken before Justice G. H. Baker and being unable to furnish $500 bonds for his appearance he was taken to Plymouth jail for safe keeping over night.

His hearing was set for Tuesday afternoon in Justice Baker's court, but owing to the inability of an assistant prosecuting attorney to reach here on time, he waived examination and was released on a bond in the sum of $500 with two sureties.

MEMORIAL SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED

The union memorial services held at the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning were attended by a large assemblage of people and were very impressive. Members of the W. R. C. and American Legion were given seats of honor while the only veterans present at the service, George Goodell and Frank Woodmansee were shown to comfortable chairs directly in front of the pews. The church was attractively decorated with white flowers and green foliage while two chairs were draped in black, one on either side of the pulpit. Rev. William Richards led in the responsive reading and offered prayer, and Rev. A. K. MacRae read the morning scripture lesson. The choir led the congregation in singing a number of old familiar patriotic hymns and Carl H. Bryan sang a solo. Rev. F. P. Knowles gave the sermon, taking his text from Paul's words—"I have fought a good fight. I have kept the faith."

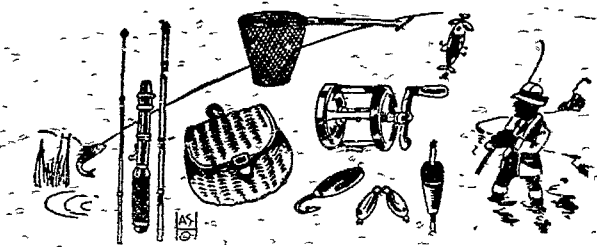

He paid a fine compliment to our soldiers, living and dead and extolled their heroic deeds, declaring that America had never taken up arms except in the cause of right and humanity, that those who had offered themselves had "fought a good fight" because their cause was just, and "they had kept the faith" because they had never waged warfare for conquest or for material gain.

BAND CONCERTS AGAIN THIS SUMMER

Northville people will be glad to know that we are to have weekly concerts again this season and that the first one will be given on Saturday night, June 7th. The village council has very generously and wisely made these concerts possible for another summer and no small town can boast of a better musical organization than Manager W. H. Safford brings together. People come from many of the surrounding towns to spend the evening here because of these concerts and these visitors are always welcome.

Just tell your neighbors that the first concert of the season will be given next week Saturday night and invite them to enjoy the music with you.

The many friends of W. H. Hutton in this section will regret to learn that he suffered a slight stroke at his home at Walled Lake several days ago. He was in Northville Monday and was not moving about with his usual snap and vigor.

Hupmobile

The Hupmobile axle drive Gear is drop-forged 3 1/2 per cent nickel steel. Case hardened, double heat treated, 30 per cent stronger than weight of car requires. Lesser construction involves only straight carbon steel—not nearly so long-wearing—and much lighter.

A Futile Hope

Don't Expect Hupmobile Quality in a Car Less Finely Built.

You know what a marvel the Hupmobile has been—you know its rugged performance over long periods—you know the high resale value it has always commanded.

The Hupmobile parts shown in the Parts Display and the processes of manufacture described, not only tell why, but they reveal the fallacy of hoping to get Hupmobile qualities in any car less finely built.

BONUS REQUEST FLOOD OPENS

Besieged War Department Issues Appeal to Veterans

Washington—Already besieged by veterans for adjusted compensation under the bonus law, the War Department has issued a statement pointing out to former service men the futility of writing or calling for bonus payments at the present time.

In this connection the War Department has made arrangements for the distribution through the Postoffice Department, the American Legion, various military headquarters and civic societies. Printed instructions will be distributed containing all information relative to the bonus and the application blank itself will contain specific instructions as to how they should be filled out.

URGES STRICTER DRIVER'S TEST

Make Applicants Fill in Own Papers Demand Requests of Police

Lansing—An appeal to the heads of city police departments to maintain more rigid examination of applicants for automobile drivers' licenses and to at least require each applicant personally to fill out his own application, has been issued in the interests of safety, by Secretary of State Charles J. Deland.

In making this appeal, Mr. DeLand displayed 100 or more approved applications, many of which were entirely filled out by some police officer sitting as an examiner and not a public. Many of the applications are so poorly made out that they are not readable.

Mr. DeLand points out that once licenses are issued they cannot be revoked except on a hearing before the Secretary of State, after the holder of the license has been convicted of reckless driving, driving while intoxicated or leaving the scene of an accident.

VETERAN DIES, FIGHTING THUGS

Slain While Defending $1,000 Payroll in Attempted Robbery

Detroit—Shot three times by bandits who attempted to rob him of $1,075 31, Edward C. Hinkley, 50 years old, a collector for the White Star Refining Co., and a veteran of two wars, died of the wounds he received. Two bandits forcing a large green touring car, forced Hinkley's automobile to the curb. When they commanded him to hand over a leather satchel, Hinkley drew his revolver and fired two shots in quick succession. His fire was returned, one bullet piercing his heart, while two others lodged in his arm and right leg.

Grabbing the satchel, the bandits fled. Witnesses called the police. Hinkley's clothing revealed the money which it is thought he concealed in anticipation of a hold-up. The satchel obtained by the bandits contained nothing of value, officials of the refining company told the police.

British Want Air Metal Sea Planes. London—The march of progress goes on apace in aircraft construction and researchers now proceeding aim to evolve winged ships of metal with staunch sea-going hulls which will be able to stay out cruising, fly over oceans, and only require to replenish fuel occasionally from some surface tender. Secret development in metal construction will be incorporated in the new planes, which will be larger than those just tested to carry 12 passengers at 100 miles an hour.

Father Getting Fitted

By CLARA DELAFIELD

"O H, CHILDREN!" Mrs. Robert's son fairly sobbed. "Father's new suit has come home." The twins, May and Ethel, frowned. That meant hard times in the Robertson family for several days to come. Father arrived home soon after. "Hello, here's my new suit!" he exclaimed eagerly. "I'll be able to wear it tomorrow, then. That high-priced tailor Jones recommended me to certainly is one good little niter."

Father took the suit upstairs. Mother and the twins heard him grunting and groaning. Presently he came down. "What's the matter, dear?" asked mother. "The darned fool never did a thing to these sleeves! Look, they're in wrong! They want to be turned—so!" "Are you going to take it back to him?" It seems a pretty good fit to me. "Huh, that shows how much a woman understands about a man's clothes. Look here! The hump's too loose. And the trousers are five-eighths long. I'm going to give Simpson a piece of my mind!"

Next morning father went out with the new suit in a package. That night was a very distressing time. Father kept lamenting about his suit. "Eighty dollars!" he snorted. "And Simpson's no better than Greenberg, the corner tailor!"

Next evening the suit was back again. Father took it upstairs to try it on and came back in a fury. "Look at it!" he snorted. "Just look at it! First the right sleeve was too long and the left too short, and now the left's too long and the right's too short. I'm going to get my money back or sue Simpson!"

"Why don't you wear it a day or two and see how you like it, dear?" asked mother. "Wear it? I—"

"Couldn't you make Simpson alter it just as you want it?" "No. That man has the head of a pin. It's no use going back to him. Throw it on the dustheap!" shouted father, flinging the suit on the floor. "Take it out of my sight! Never let me see it again! That's what comes of trusting Jones to find a high class tailor for me! Well, what are you waiting for? Take it away! Give it to a heap!"

Mother picked up the suit and carried it away to one of those mysterious places that only housewives know about.

Father was in a terrific rage all the evening. "Eighty dollars thrown away!" he snorted. "No use suing the fellow! He'll get out of it one way or another. They're a slippery lot, these cheap fellows. He's simply digging his own grave with his needle, because he'll never keep any of his customers if he treats them that way!"

Father grumbled and complained for several days. "I'll have to wait for a suit now till I've saved up eighty dollars more," he would say. Or, "I'm trying to raise twenty-five to have a suit made by Greenberg, on the corner. Those little fellows fit you best, and they haven't big rents to pay."

Three weeks passed. Father had stepped grumbling. Mother said:

"My dear, did you remember we are going to the Williamses tonight? Your suit looks rather shabby."

"I know it does," said father, "but what are you to do when there isn't a tailor can make a suit that fits? I'll have to go into the tailoring business!"

Mother produced something in a paper package. "Why not wear this just for this evening, dear?" she suggested. "The Williamses won't notice it's a misfit by the electric light."

The twins grinned at each other. "Well, I suppose I may as well," said father.

He took the suit and went upstairs. They heard him grunting and groaning as he got into it. Mother smiled. Presently father reappeared.

"Why, my dear, I never saw you look so nice!" said mother. "I don't think that suit's such a terrible misfit after all."

"Misfit?" said father. "Of course it isn't. I wish you wouldn't try to persuade me that my clothes don't fit me. This is the best-fitting suit I've ever had in my life."

Too Much Argument. Two drivers were sitting in the inn of an English village. They had been sitting there for nearly an hour, and so far neither had spoken. At last one of them opened his mouth.

"Didst see old brown cow on the moor?" he asked.

Another half-hour elapsed. Then the second driver spoke. "It wasn't brown cow," he said. "Twas brown bull."

Silence again for another half hour. The first man rose and made for the door.

Puretest Rubbing Alcohol Compound is a wonderful formula in every way. It contains 85% pure grain alcohol, which is a larger percentage than any similar preparation.

It has an alcohol smell that is not at all unpleasant, but this goes off, as it dries in a very few seconds, leaving a faint rose odor which is very pleasing.

For headaches, you can always obtain some relief by diluting Puretest. Rubbing Alcohol and rubbing on the head gently, being careful not to get it into the eyes.

For bruises and sprains, soreness, stiffness of muscles and joints, use the full strength. Puretest Rubbing Alcohol should always be kept on the farm to use on horses and cattle, in cases of bruises or injury to the muscles, tendons and ligaments.

TO MEN

This is one of the nicest preparations you could possibly use on the face after shaving. It gives just the right "sting" that leaves the cool, clean feeling that is so appreciated after shaving and the slight astringent action will close the pores that have been opened up by the use of hot water in shaving.

Our streets became veritable rivers and the blinding flashes of the electric king with the terrible roar of thunder drove many people to their cellars for safety. It was so dark at noon that lamps had to be lighted. A man could have come from Salem to Northville in a boat just as well as not.

TO PROPERLY DISPLAY THE FLAG

Robert C. Davis, Adjutant General of the United States, recently issued the following relative to the proper display of the American flag:

"When the national flag is carried, as in a procession, with another flag or flags, its place is on the right.

"When the national flag and another flag are displayed together, as against a wall from crossed staffs, the national flag should be on the right, the observer's left, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

"When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs the national flag should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

"When the national flag is hung either horizontally or vertically against a wall the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, the observer's left.

"When displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from a window or the front of the building the same rule should be observed; the union should go clear to the peak of the staff unless the flag be at half-staff.

"When the flag is suspended between buildings so as to hang over the middle of a street, a simple rule is to hang the union to the north in an east and west street, or to the east in a north and south street.

"When flown from a staff the flag should always be hung flat whether indoors or out. It should not be festooned over doorways or arches or tied into a bowknot or fashioned in a rosette. When used on a rickshaw it should be displayed above and behind the speaker's desk. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk nor to drape over the front of the platform. Under no circumstances should the flag be draped over chairs or benches, nor should any object or emblem of any kind be placed above or upon it, nor should it be hung where it can be easily contaminated or soiled. No lettering of any kind should ever be placed upon the flag."

The information contained in the above regulations was furnished thru the courtesy of the postoffice department at Washington.

O. O. McINTYRE'S "WHITE LIGHT NIGHTS."

In his review of Mr. McIntyre's new book, Peter B. Eyné, writes "In his book 'White Light Nights,' Mr. McIntyre turns New York inside out. He exposes its foibles and shame as well as its magic and splendor. He realizes that New York is the Aladdin of cities and so daily he conjures up vignettes—of the magnificently rich and the pitifully poor. He finds the quaint spots where history peeps through.

McIntyre lives somewhat after the fashion of Remy de Gourmont's theory—If life is worth living there must be no dull moments. So even while New York sleeps he is prowling about hunting for the unusual and the bizarre which he faithfully transcribes for millions of readers daily in swift, elliptical phrasing.

McIntyre knows confidence men and he knows millionaires. He has been a press agent for Ziegfeld and studied the stage from the inside. He has crossed continents and oceans and is a true cosmopolite yet one of the best chapters of his book is devoted to the folks back home. You will recall each one of the characters that he portrays. They belong to every Main Street.

"White Light Nights" is really a visit to New York. It is spangled with vivid coloring. Those who have never been to the metropolis will see it torn wide open in McIntyre's book. And those who are frequent visitors will read it and realize that they have only scratched the surface.

Michigan and Her Railroads

Since 1920, when the Government returned Railroad operation to private enterprise, service in Michigan has become yearly more dependable—more nearly adequate.

That Service is today the best Michigan has ever enjoyed.

As a result there has come into being between the State's 24 steam Railroads and the public they serve, a spirit of pride and mutual good will.

Geographical isolation has made railroad service a local more than a national problem in both Peninsulas of Michigan. Within the enveloping barriers established by our Great Lakes, Michigan and her Railroads can prosper only by prospering together. State and carriers become thus members of a close community of interest.

Michigan Railroads realize this fact and make it fundamental in all details of management and operation.

The public can also recognize this situation by neighborly cooperation and by insisting that the roads be repaid by receiving, in national and state supervision, the same square deal.

We invite from you any suggestion of more ways in which we can consistently better our service.

MEMORIAL DAY.

It is fitting and proper and just. That a day of remembrance be set aside To mark the turning of the tide...

Their life blood; they were willing to give, Not for the sake of themselves alone...

And whether they fought in 'Seventy Six,' In the War of the States; or in 'Ninety Eight'...

And we, to the very lowliest man, Whatever our station or riches be...

The above original poem came through the mails on Tuesday from a Record reader...

PRESIDENT SIGNS JAP EXCLUSION ACT

IMMIGRATION BILL INCLUDING COMPLETE BAN ON NIPPON RACE IS NOW LAW

BECOMES EFFECTIVE ON JULY 1

New Law Cuts Alien Immigration for Next Three Years to One-half of Present Quota.

Washington — President Coolidge has signed the new immigration restriction bill, providing for exclusion of Japanese and other orientals after July 1...

The extension of Japanese and all other orientals becomes effective on July 1.

The president and Secretary of State Hughes has made a hard fight to have congress delay the Japanese ban for a year...

The new immigration law contains the following provisions:

Preserve the basic immigration law of 1917.

Retains the principle of numerical limitations as inaugurated in the act of May 19, 1921.

Changes the quota base from the census of 1910 to the census of 1890.

Reduces the percentage from three to two, plus a small base quota for each country.

Counts certificates, not persons.

Provides for preliminary examination of visas.

Exempts wives of children under 15 and parents over 55 of American citizens.

Places burden of proof on alien rather than on the United States.

The new immigration law also provides for a reduction by more than half of the number of aliens who may enter the United States during the next three years.

Beginning in 1927, "national origin quotas" will go into effect, further reducing the number of immigrants to 150,000.

Under both the 1917 and 1927 provisions, northwestern European countries will be favored over the southwestern countries.

LOCAL TELEPHONE EXCHANGE EXTENDING TO MEET LOCAL NEEDS.

More than $4,000 will be spent in Northville this summer by the Michigan Bell Telephone company, in additions to and partial replacements of present outside telephone plant, it is announced by Manager Roy E. Crowe.

The new plant extensions will permit meeting a growing demand for service and will provide outside plant facilities for sometime in the future, particularly in the new Orchard Heights subdivision in which 35 homes have been constructed during the past three years.

Considerable of the existing telephone cable is to be replaced on account of duplication. The old cable, it is stated, is sheathed in pure lead, some of which has become crystallized.

The work to be done this summer contemplates placing approximately 7,880 feet of aerial cable and 355 feet of underground cable.

Northville has 655 telephone stations and has experienced a considerable growth each year for several years past.

Fifteen people comprise the force of the Michigan Telephone company here.

Northville people make 3,600 local telephone calls per day, on an average and more than 4,500 toll or out-of-town calls.

Under this method, the subscriber calls by the telephone number of the party with whom he wishes to speak.
