EXCHANGE CLUB ENJOYED A FINE DINNER.

The members of the Northville Exchange club and their ladies enjoyed a fine dinner at the high school cafeteria on Wednesday night, and the very appetizing repast was served by the members of the domestic science class under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. H. G. White. The tables were attractively spread and the color scheme was in keeping with the approaching St. Patrick season. Members of Schulte's orchestra very kindly offered their services for the occasion, and to the strains of a lively march the guests found their places about the tables. Rev. F. P. Knowles offered the invocation. The young ladies of the class not only prepared all the food served at the dinner, but they waited upon the guests in a manner that brought forth much favorable comment from the banqueters. There was no confusion, each one seemed to know just what to do and the whole affair was directed in a manner that reflected credit upon the young ladies taking the domestic science course but upon their instructor as well.

Superintendent and Mrs. T. J. Knapp of Highland Park were the honor guests and Mr. Knapp gave a very interesting address on the subject of education, making special stress upon what the teachers of today are trying to accomplish in the training of the boys and girls entrusted to their care. He reviewed the advancement that had been made during the past quarter of a century and was bold enough to declare that the pupils of today, while much younger in years, are measuring up well with the accomplishments of the older pupils who were found in our schools twenty-five or thirty years ago. He especially urged the parents to co-operate with the teachers in the direction of the children, because he said, the boys and girls are in school and under the teachers' influence but about five hours out of twenty-four.

M. N. JOHNSON'S STUDEBAKER STOLEN SUNDAY NIGHT.

M. N. Johnson's Studebaker coupe was stolen from in front of E. A. Shafter's residence on Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were spending the evening there and when they were ready to go home discovered their car had been driven away. Marshal Ernie Lyke was at once notified and the telephone was brought into play with the result that the car was located near Highland where it had been abandoned because the gasoline supply gave out. The fellow who stole the car started to walk to Highland for more gasoline, but he evidently became frightened and did not return. Highland officers found the car and Mr. Johnson and Lyke motored over there Monday forenoon and brought the machine home.

As the thief was walking to Highland after abandoning the car he told a chance acquaintance that his name was Allen and that his home was at Northville. This bit of information gave the local officers a clue and they notified officers in surrounding towns and cities to be on the lookout for the fellow.

NEW CASINO AT WALLED LAKE SHORES.

The new pavilion and dance hall at Casino Shore, Walled Lake, being constructed by L. P. Tolettene, on the site of the old hall, is nearing completion and will be thrown open to the public with a grand opening dance on the evening of Monday, April 13th.

The building, one of the largest of its kind in this section, is a handsome structure, substantially built, the great roof being supported by heavy iron trusses which permit of a spacious dancing floor without pillars. The floor of highly polished hardwood will be the delight of the thousands who visit the lake resorts every season for recreation and an outing. The building is 90x140 feet in dimensions with a ball room 70x105.—Farmington Enterprise.

L. C. MEAD INJURED BY STREET CAR IN DETROIT.

On Wednesday afternoon as L. C. Mead of this village, an honored veteran, was crossing Jefferson avenue in Detroit on his way to the interurban station to take a car for Northville, he was struck by a passing city car and received severe injuries to his head and side. He was taken to the receiving hospital and the news of the accident was telephoned to Northville. Wednesday night it was not believed the injuries will prove serious, but X-rays were taken to fully determine their extent.

MONDAY'S ELECTION CREATED BUT LITTLE INTEREST.

But little interest was shown in Monday's village election. No great crowds gathered about the voting places, nor did the voters in their eagerness to support the candidates of their choice storm the battlements of the booths or crowd the ballot boxes to overflowing. Everything was as quiet and peaceful as becomes a satisfied citizen. There was absolutely no crowding at any hour during the day. Every voter who went to the polls, conducted himself and herself, for there were some women who voted, in a very dignified and orderly manner. In fact the day passed so quietly the usual smoke of battle could not roll away because there was no smoke. As a matter of fact it was about the quietest, gloomiest, one-sided election that Northville has ever experienced. Everybody seemed to be too busy to spare the time to go to the polls.

There were 95 votes polled in precinct No. 1 and 50 in precinct No. 2, with the following result:

For President—
Charles A. Dolph	115
For Trustees—
George Hicks	90
Stewart Montgomery	95
Carl R. Ely	95
Charles S. Filkins	93
George W. Hotaling	48
Fred L. Carpenter	44

WALKER-TAYLOR.

The wedding of Miss Marguerite Hazel Walker to Mr. George Taylor of Northville was quietly solemnized at 4:00 p. m. Wednesday, March 4 at the First M. E. church at Pontiac, Michigan, by Rev. D. N. Pacy, pastor.

The bride, who was attired in a pretty white georgette, crepe over satin with silver brocade slippers to match and bandeau of orange blossoms made a very charming appearance. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stillwell of Northville. A reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Walker in the evening, about fifty invited guests being present. The house was prettily decorated in pink and white.

A buffet lunch was served. Dancing and music furnished the amusement for the evening. The couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts of silverware, cut glass, table linen and other useful articles.

Miss Walker was given a shower prior to her marriage by Mrs. Olga Hoffman, where she was presented with a number of gifts.

The well wishes of their many friends go with them.—Farmington Enterprise.

NEW BUS LANE TO DETROIT.

The Mack Motor Coach Corporation of Detroit, has an announcement in today's Record in which they state that a new bus line will be established between Northville and the Ford Motor Company's plant on Woodward Avenue, beginning on Wednesday, March 18th. A little later in the season the line will be extended to Walled Lake, South Lyon, Milford and Highland, and when the new schedule takes effect passengers will be taken to the city hall. Some handsome new busses with a capacity of 30 passengers will be put in commission on the new line.

George Gaudy of Ypsilanti, polled a vote of 795, John Kalmbach of Chelsea, 600, and Herman Dancer also of Chelsea, had 235 votes.

Mr. Pray will run against Herbert D. Witherell, the only democratic candidate from his party, in the election which will be held on April 7th.—Ypsilanti Record.

WEST NOVI SCHOOL NOTES.

The Parent-Teachers' association held its March meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kumba. Forty-four were present. After the business meeting, a program was given by the pupils. The speaker of the evening was Superintendent James of Novi. He gave a most interesting address on "Rural Supervision."

A pot-luck supper was served, and an enjoyable evening was spent by all present.

CHAPMAN SCHOOL NOTES.

The Parent-Teacher association held a box social last month which netted them $25.25. Already they have placed new white curtains in the school room. This fund has also been the means of establishing the Cournis arithmetic tests in our school and the children are making rapid improvement in that subject as a result. Much of the success of the subject is due to the efforts of Mrs. John Christensen, Mrs. George Guntzville and Edward Bailey who acted as auctioneer.

The February meeting was held at the home of Mrs. John Christensen. A short business meeting was followed by games, music and refreshments. A good time was had.

Our honor attendance roll include the following names: Harvey Guntzville, Grade 8, Glenn Salow, Grade

5; Robert Christensen, Grade 4; Helen Christensen, Grade 2.

BOOST BETTER SEED WITH SPECIAL WEEK.

The importance of a safe seed supply for Michigan farmers, and the effect of such seed on the prosperity of agriculture in general will be brought home to the state during the week of March 16 to 20, designated as official "Better Seed" week for Michigan.

During this week practically every farm interest in the state will join the campaign to bring out the importance of an adapted, guaranteed seed supply. Meetings will be held at local points over the state, an effort being made to reach a large percentage of the farmers of the state with informational material on seeds.

An outstanding feature of the Better Seed week will be a series of radio lectures to be given over station WTKR, the Michigan Agricultural College station. These lectures, which will be part of the regular extension radio school from the college station, will be given between 7:15 and 8:00 o'clock eastern time, each evening of the week. Local groups throughout the state will organize radio parties where there are receiving sets, taking in the Better Seed talks in this way.

"Michigan farmers will be sowing ten million dollars worth of seed within the next few days," says C. R. Megee, acting head of the farm crops department at M. A. C. "A two hundred and thirty million dollar crop will depend on the quality of this seed. The Better Seed week will aim to help in the efficient expenditure of this big agricultural investment."

NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

State Will Assume Trunk Line
Costs According to Bill
Passed By House

Lansing—The Ming proposal for the assumption by the state of all responsibility and cost of "construction" and maintenance of trunk line highway has been passed by the house by a vote of 71 to 14. The counties have been paying half of the cost and it is estimated that the Ming scheme will save between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 for the various counties, and saddle that amount, as Ming described it, on the automobiles of the state, where it belongs.

All the work would be done by the state highway department, which operates under the administrative board.

Before the Ming bill passed an attempt was made to amend it. Representative George Watson, of St. Clair county, proposed that the counties be required to pay 10 per cent of the costs of maintenance and 5 per cent of the costs of construction of the highways, simply, he said, so that the counties would be able to have a voice in the state highway commission's operations in their individual cases. Several Wayne county members favored this amendment, which was lost by a vote of 78 to 19.

Handbook Bill Reported Out

The Baborski Anti-Gambling Bill was voted out of the Senate Judiciary Committee with the recommendation that the bill pass.

No opposition to the bill has developed in the Senate and it is expected to ride through to final passage without interruption. In 1922, practically the same measure was adopted unanimously, and there is no reason to believe there has been any serious change in sentiment.

As the bill comes from committee it is unchanged, even in verbiage. When it came up in the Judiciary Committee several suggestions for improving it were made, but in each instance Senator Joseph Baborski, sponsor of the bill and co-author with Detroit judges and other persons interested in stamping out the gambling evil, was able to show that the original wording excelled the suggestions.

School District Bill Passes

Relief for the congestion of Redford Union school districts is seen in the passage by the House of the Bristow bill, providing for the exemption of rural agricultural school districts from the bonding limitation of 8 per cent on districts with from 15,000 to 100,000 population. The bill, introduced by Rep. Fred W. Bristow, of Highland Park, passed unanimously.

The population of this district is now 15,000. Two years ago it was 5,000. Its school facilities consist of an eight-room building erected in 1922, and twice remodeled. The bonding limitation, according to Rep. Bristow, precluded the building of more schools. Under his bill if it becomes law, the district may issue bonds in amounts to provide sufficient schools.

Agree On Transit Bill

William M. Donnelly, attorney for the Detroit Rapid-Transit Commission, John L. Lovett, secretary of the Michigan Manufacturers Association, and Rep. Sherman D. Callender, of Detroit, met here and agreed to the amendments that the Callender Rapid Transit Bill will carry when it is brought up before the House Committee on City Corporations. Most of the amendments were suggested by Mr. Lovett who was responsible for trying up the bill when it seemed that it might be reported out of committee in its original form.

Would Revoke Driver's Licenses

A bill introduced by Rep. Sherman D. Callender, of Detroit, would make it mandatory on the secretary of state to revoke automobile operators' licenses upon conviction of any felony in which a motor car figured, of driving while drunk, or under the influence of drugs, or of leaving the scene of an accident without reporting name and address.

To Limit Christmas Trees

Senator James C. Quinn, of Grand Rapids, would prohibit the cutting of Christmas trees with a butt diameter of less than four inches, and to license wholesalers at $10 each, and retailers $5, according to a bill which he has introduced.

Reports of Tax Collections

Senator James C. Quinn, of Grand Rapids, has introduced a bill to require county treasurers to make monthly reports of tax collections to the state treasurer, and to pay 1 per cent interest on all sums withheld.

Stockholders May Lose Rights

Stockholders in trust, security and deposit companies would be shorn of their present rights to vote for directors under the so-called cumulative plan, if a bill introduced in the House by Rep. Charles H. Culver, of Detroit, is passed. Mr. Culver said that the bill was sent to him by an official of a Detroit trust company, but he declined to divulge the name of the official or of the company. The cumulative plan was created for the small stockholder.

Heating Advice Saves Fuel

We believe we can help owners if they will give us a chance to talk with them about the regulation of their boilers. The important thing is the accurate and sensitive control of fire so that it does not "run away" or "smolder out."

Make the coal pile last longer by better firing and fire control. You may need more advice this year because of the necessity of burning less coal and a different kind of coal probably, than you have been accustomed to. Be prepared and have your plant "tuned up."

If you have an OLD house—let us submit an estimate to you for installing a modern labor and fuel saving Ideal American Heating Outfit in it. It is easy to heat old homes because they are usually well built and it is a quick and easy matter to install radiator heating.

Please do not hesitate to call us in. Our heating advice is free and you will be under no obligation whatever. We make our reputation on our work and OUR PRICES ARE REASONABLE.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., MAR 13, 1925.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Items taken from The Record files of 1899, for the week corresponding to this week.

Elegant sleighing these days. Another eight-inch fall of snow was added Sunday and Monday.

Wm. Blair of Clawson visited Northville friends last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Little celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary this evening.

Miss Maud Stanley is in Detroit selecting spring millinery, preparatory to opening millinery parlors on East Main street.

Another contemplated change in business circles is in the big hardware firm of Carpenter, Yerkes & Harmon. This change is brought about by the fact of F. S. Harmon assuming the management of the new Bell Foundry and W. G. Yerkes engaging in the milling business at Pontiac.

About forty officers and members of Whiting Chapter No. 148, O. E. S., of Milford were the guests of Orient Chapter No. 77, last Friday evening. Farmington and Plymouth Chapters were present also and about one hundred sat down to the banquet which was served after the initiation.

The Star Clothing House, for many years Northville's leading clothing and gent's furnishing house, is to quit business here on Saturday of this week, and next week Manager Brooks will commence packing up of his large stock preparatory to moving it to Fenton, where he will soon move his family and locate permanently.

A RARE TREAT COMING NEXT WEEK.

Northville people will be permitted to enjoy a real treat at the High school auditorium next Wednesday night when the Normal College band of 50 pieces will give a popular concert. In addition to this well known and popular organization there will be a number of special features which will add greatly to the program. The Kwanis Club of Ypsilanti will send along their accordion players and there will also be a stringed quartet and the famous "barber shop" quartet. The admission for the splendid musical entertainment will be but 25 and 35 cents—the former price being for students. Not many towns in Michigan have the pleasure of hearing this organization and Northville people may feel they have been highly favored.

The concert is to be given under the auspices of the Juniors and the hall ought to be filled.

NOVI AND COMMERCE OUGHT TO CELEBRATE.

The year 1925 is centennial year to the townships of Commerce and Novi and it is understood that plans are afoot for making in some kind of a fitting celebration this summer.

The earliest settlement in Commerce is said to have been made in May, 1827 by Abram Wadsworth, who came from New York state and built his pioneer cabin on a site now included in the village of Commerce. The first settler in Novi township is recorded to have been Erastus Ingalls, also a New Yorker, who in April, 1825, arrived in the wilderness that is now Novi and began the clearing of land of which he had made entry in September, previous.—Milford Times.

A FORTUNATE FIRE.

Last Thursday afternoon about six o'clock fire was discovered in the roof of the Park Hotel and an alarm was turned in. Wielding helpers with pails of water soon had the blaze under control, but not until quite a large hole had been burned in the roof. It is believed the fire started from sparks from the chimney, because the furnace sent out a lot of smoke. The roof being shingle and very dry the sparks soon kindled a good sized fire.

TO OBSERVE PASTMASTERS' NIGHT.

Next Monday pastmasters night will be observed by Northville Lodge, F. & A. M., when the M. M. degree will be conferred upon several candidates by the pastmasters of the lodge. Lodge will convene at 4:30 in the afternoon and supper will be enjoyed at 6:30. After a social hour work will again be resumed.

The lodge has enough pastmasters to fill all the officers' stations and a few to spare.

THEOSOPHY FREE LECTURE.

A public lecture will be given in the Ladies Library by Arthur M. Cohn, on Sunday, March 15th. His subject will be "The Esoteric Basis of Christianity."

Attend the caucuses Saturday—afternoon and evening.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

All members of the Young People's society are requested to attend, the rehearsal tonight for the entertainment.

The Lent service next Wednesday will be in German. Theme of sermon, "Jesus in Bonds." Will you spend an evening rich with blessing? Then attend the Lent services.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

Are we making the most of these Lenten days, by increased prayer and meditation, for ourselves and others that Christ may, in a new and larger sense, arise in our hearts and lives.

Sunday morning worship at 10:30. Sermon subject, "A Privilege and a Responsibility."

Sabbath school at noon and Y. P. S. C. E. at 6:30 p. m.

Again we are to have a special service on Sunday evening at 7:30. The Order of DeMolay will worship with us, and the pastor will speak on "The World Waiting for Youth." Special music.

Mid-week service Thursday evening at 7:30.

Everybody is cordially invited to all these services.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

Next Sunday morning will bring us another message for our hearts at 10:30.

The choir will greet us again with special music so let us rally all our friends with devotional interest to the house of God.

The Sabbath school will convene immediately after the service.

In the evening we are looking for a still larger congregation to what we had last Sabbath. You did well. Let's do better next Sabbath evening. Mid-week service in the Esther room at 7:30.

Spiritual Viewpoint.

Every hour, you spend in church makes you that much more of a man. Without the church the world would lurch.

Don't lose time in vain distress; work, not worry, brings success.

Keep your face towards the sunshine, and the shadows will fall behind. Certainty is what greases the axles of the world; some people go through life creaking.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

The average attendance at prayer meeting is about fifty-five. Let us make it one hundred. We can do it if we try.

Sunday school still holds at the one hundred mark.

The men's class is five in the lead in the attendance contest with the women's class. Next Sunday closes the contest. Who will get the feed? Come out Sunday and see.

If the Bible is the inspired word of God many are eternally lost because they do not accept it as God's word. If it is not the word of God millions of people are being and have been fooled. What do you know about it? Starting Sunday evening Mr. MacRae will preach a series of two sermons on the subject. Historical, discoveries and scientific proofs will be presented Sunday evening. Don't fail to hear these sermons. Bring your unbearing friends.

The work on the mens room is progressing fine. The men were not satisfied with working alone on the room but have removed a lot of earth that was in the way.

A St. Patrick's social will be held at the parsonage on the afternoon and evening of the seventeenth. All are invited. — Something good on hand.

PLYMOUTH TO HAVE GREAT SPEEDWAY.

Some weeks ago The Record stated that the prospects were very bright for Plymouth securing a great speedway which was being promoted by Detroit capitalists. Last Wednesday's Detroit News contained the following article regarding the new project:

"The Motor City Speedway, Inc., which will own and operate a speedway in Plymouth's territory for 'motor vehicle and other racing contests,' filed articles of incorporation Tuesday with the secretary of state. The corporation is capitalized for $700,000, with $60,000, according to its articles, subscribed and paid in. The speedway, it is stipulated, will also be available for testing motors and motor vehicles. The incorporators are Hurd B. Guiney, Edward D. Shea and John W. Troster. The corporation's offices are at 303 Hammond Building.

Albion.—It was announced Tuesday by President John L. Seaton of Albion college that a group of friends of the institution whose identity was not disclosed have given $200,000 for a women's dormitory.

Ann Arbor.—In the only contest in the city primaries, Robert A. Campbell, secretary of the University of Michigan, won the republican nomination for mayor, receiving 1,586 votes to Mark B. Segden's 920.

Tuesday was our first real spring day.

THE RESURRECTION OF CHRIST WAS THIS MORNING?

A cruel death—two nights and a day in the grave—then an empty tomb.

There is very little trouble about the resurrection of Jesus 1925 years ago. The facts are too well attested, the proof positive—so much so that millions of lives have been shaped by it—BUT

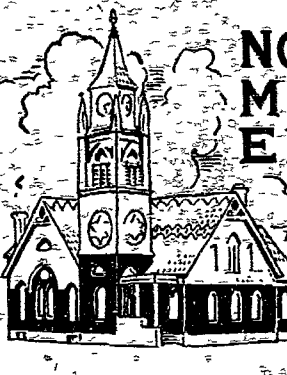

What about today—Have you found the Christ alive—unexpectedly near—revealing himself as He did to Mary Magdalene?

Have you been on some Emmaus trip and had the company of one who made himself known after a while?

He did rise from the grave. He did show humanity that there is a life that is ETERNALLY satisfactory. He was resurrected this morning for all who wanted to know Him.

ROOSEVELT'S SONS HEAD MUSEUM EXPEDITION

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JR.

Chicago—Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt, sons of the late president, will sail from New York next month at the head of a Field Museum expedition to explore and hunt rare animals in Persia, known as the "roof of the world," in Central Asia. It was announced here by Dr. G. Davies, director of the museum.

The expedition, which will penetrate one of the most inaccessible and strangest parts of the world, will be financed by James Simpson, president to Marshall Field and company. It will be known as the "James Simpson-Roosevelt Central Asiatic expedition for the Field Museum."

Mussolini Has Influenza

Rome—Contracted a serious illness has compelled Premier Benito Mussolini to hand over the helm of the Italian state to Federzoni, who now is in fact Prime Minister of Italy. Optimistic bulletins concerning Mussolini's health have been forthcoming daily for the last fortnight, but are unable to conceal the fact the malady seriously threatens his future efficiency. The truth appears to be as follows: Mussolini suffered an attack of influenza in the middle of February. This in itself was not serious but his constitution was already weakened by overwork.

Teapot Dome Fight Opens

Cheyenne, Wyo.—The loudly heralded "battle of Teapot Dome" was opened in federal district court here and surroundings unprecedented in a Wyoming court.

The battle was being staged in the form of an equity case, in which the United States government seeks to recover a 3,000-acre tract of naval oil lands in Wyoming, which it is charged, was leased by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to Harry F. Sinclair's Mammoth Oil Company under circumstances involving bribery and fraud.

Flyers Saved By Parachutes

San Antonio, Tex.—Parachutes saved the lives of Lieutenant C. D. McCallister and Cadet Charles Lindbergh, Kelly Field aviators, when their planes collided in mid air a mile above ground. Both escaped with minor bruises.

The planes were flying in formation with eight others, practicing attack work on a plane piloted by Lieut. Russell Naughton, transcontinental flyer.

Labor Members Leave In Huff

London—The entire labor delegation in the House of Commons, led by former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, walked out of the House when the speaker ordered David Kirkwood, Scotch Labor member, to leave the chamber after having interrupted the speech Foreign Secretary Austin Chamberlain was delivering. The ministerial benches cheered as the Labor members left the House.

Congress Ends Tame

Washington—The sixty-eighth congress, which came in two years ago like a roaring wind, passed out with one of the tamest windups in recent history. Neither house was in session on the eve of adjournment sine die, and except for final action on the second deficiency bill, there was little for either to do in the two hours they were in session before the inauguration proceedings.

Cars Burned In Huge Fire

New York—A five alarm fire in the Long Island railroad plant at Morris Park, Long Island, caused damage estimated at $1,500,000. Thirty railroad cars were destroyed or ruined. Series of explosions of air tanks in cars hindered firemen in fighting the flames. Smoke from the fire drove 300 persons from their homes in the vicinity.

Indiana Kills Blue Law

Indianapolis—The Indiana house killed a "blue Sunday" bill by a vote of 43 to 44. The measure was sponsored by the Lords Day Alliance and provided board restrictions against Sunday amusements.

Walled Lake Warbles.

There is something that may interest Walled Lake people. County Agent Frank S. Jackson is trying to find homes for two boys, brothers, 6 and 8 years of age, whose mother is dead. The boys are bright, merry fellows and would honor any home.

Alfred S. Dutton, who was well known to Walled Lake people, died at his home in Detroit last week.

Mrs. David Ladd of Milford, well known to many people in this section, died last week Thursday on the farm where she had spent nearly all her life. She was 85 years of age.

Walled Lake has a shoe repair shop, Charles Perry of Pontiac having established himself here.

Walter Pack has returned home from the Pontiac hospital where he spent a few weeks, having undergone an operation.

Rev. Wm E. Hall of Melin occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church Sunday, both morning and evening. Mesdames Kentz and Collins sang at the evening service.

William Ruby, who moved from this place to Pontiac seven years ago, died at his home in that city last Saturday morning. He is survived by one son, Roy, of Pontiac.

Walled Lake people are looking forward to a busy building season this summer.

A HARD PROBLEM.

An American in dear old London was bragging about his automobile. He ended the eulogy by declaring: "It runs so smoothly that you can't feel it, so quietly you can't hear it, has such perfect ignition you can't smell it, and as for speed—boy, you can't see it."

"But, my word, old dear," interrupted the Briton anxiously. "How do you know the hally thing is there?" Blue Baboon.

Composition of Chalk

Chalk is a soft, earthy, finely granular variety of limestone, white, grayish white or yellowish in color. Chalk is formed chiefly by sea bottom accumulations of the shells of small foraminifera, combined with numerous minute organisms known as siliceous spicules of sponges and shells of radiolaria. The uses of chalk are many. When mixed with a binding substance it finds wide application as a writing material.

Insects on Plants.

Insects are quite apt to gather on plants after they are taken indoors. To remove this annoyance use soap suds for watering the plants or simply hot water. Fill a cup and with a spoon pour the very hot water, beginning at the edge of the pot and pouring each saucer nearer to the plant, but be careful not to get any on the stalks. If the application does not effectively remove the pests, repeat the process the following day.

When She Opened the Box

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"AND that is all, my dear Miss Rose," and Judge Thatcher patted the small, slight figure which sat so still in the chair beside him. "Of course it was splendid of Uncle Jeremy to remember me at all among so many nieces and nephews and cousins," admitted Rose, the momentary cloud leaving her fair face. "I really haven't seen him for several years, in fact not since I came to the city to earn my own living, but he was very fond of dad and mother, and I did think perhaps there would be a wee bit of money for me when you wrote that I was remembered in his will. It is horrid of me to be so mercenary." "I am afraid I would condemn all the rest of us if I agreed with you, dear child. However, the fact stands that your Uncle Jeremy Bliss did leave his beloved niece, Rose Alice Bliss, one carved sandalwood box, with contents—and of course you must bear in mind that the contents may be nothing but some worthless curios. Your uncle brought home all sorts of things from China."

"It doesn't matter," Judge Thatcher said. "Rose, Alice Bliss, as she wrapped the delicately carved glove box in its layers of soft Chinese tissue paper, and finally in stout wrapping paper. 'I shall not open it until some lonesome rainy day.' The judge shook her head heartily. 'You've got the right spirit,' Miss Rose, and allow me the privilege of an old family friend, and if you find yourself in deep waters—financial or any other difficulty—be sure and come to me for help."

The next day, back at her desk in a busy office, Rose Bliss was giving no thought to the sandalwood box and its unknown contents. She had put the box away at the bottom of her deepest trunk, resolved to keep it for a rainy day. Her cousins, who had shared more or less generously under Uncle Jeremy's will, were squabbling valiantly over the will. Most of them had received cash bequests, but as the estate was not as large as it was expected to be (Uncle Jeremy had squandered much money on a collection of jade which had disappeared just before his death and could not be traced), none of the bequests came up to the expectations of the heirs.

Then came a period of bad luck for Rose Bliss. She had been ill for several weeks, and the doctor's bill was excessive, for while she had had a nurse, and at last she was nearly well, and was thinking of the day when she could return to the office. Her landlady was exacting and her room rent must be paid in advance. So, on a Sunday, when it was raining dismally, Rose felt justified in opening the sandalwood box.

As she held it in her lap, and sniffed its delicious fragrance that whispered secrets of the Orient, she felt a little thrill of excitement. With the tiny golden key in her hand, she hesitated when she tried to guess the contents of the box. What could Uncle Jeremy give her that would represent the value of the money he had hinted at in his last letter? At last she turned the key and lifted the lid. Under the thick folds of soft tissue paper she found innumerable small objects wrapped in silk, when each one had been unwrapped and placed on the table, she found there were fifty exquisite jade carvings—"each a museum piece," as someone said afterwards.

At the bottom was a short letter for her in Uncle Jeremy's stiff handwriting; in brief, he wanted her to sell the jade; gave the address of a famous collector and a letter of introduction.

The next morning Rose found herself ringing the doorbell of a quiet house in the east eighties. When she asked for Mr. Doane, a parlor maid led her into a handsome library, where a tall, gray-eyed young man greeted her courteously.

Rose presented her uncle's letter and explained briefly her errand.

"Have you the jade with you?" he asked eagerly.

The sandalwood box gave up its contents. "These are splendid—Miss Bliss—I hope you are going to let me have them," and he named a sum that seemed a fortune to Rose.

"As much as that?" she asked. "I am afraid I cannot afford to keep even one as a souvenir of Uncle Jeremy."

But Paul Doane insisted upon her choosing one piece, peculiarly beautiful, and she returned it to the sandalwood box with Uncle Jeremy's precious letter. At Mr. Doane's suggestion she telephoned to Anthony Smith, an old friend of her uncle's, who was a connoisseur in gems, though not a collector, and he came and appraised the value of the jade and witnessed the important transaction. With the check for five figures in her bag, Rose felt like an heiress. Two days afterward she dined with Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and found that the other guest was Paul Doane. Rose was wearing a frock of creamy silk and the green jade pendant swung on a thin chain.

It was the happiest day of her life, and weeks afterward, when she met her cousin, Rhoda Bliss, the latter inquired inquisitively: "Were you satisfied with Uncle Jeremy's legacy?"

Rose answered yes, indeed, but of course Rhoda could not guess that Rose was thinking of the husband she had gained, as well as the small fortune found in the sandalwood box.

D. U. R. LINES IN RECEIVERSHIP.

Upon petition of the Yellow Coach Manufacturing company, one of many creditors, the Detroit United Railways were placed in receivership late Tuesday afternoon. The defendants consented to the action.

An ever-decreasing volume of business, with motorbus and general automobile competition daily becoming keener and the mounting cost of operation, are among the factors said to have contributed to a crisis in D. U. R. financial affairs. Assurance was given that the court proceedings would not interfere with defendant company's normal service.

The receivership announcement occasioned little surprise in financial circles, where the predicament of the D. U. R. seemed well known, but hoped, nevertheless, been expressed that Tuesday's denouement might be considered delayed if not averted, by some scheme of financing.—Detroit Free Press.

FAMOUS VERSAILLES COURT IN MARION DAVIES FILM.

All the grandeur and magnificence of the famous Hall of Mirrors at the court of Versailles, is reproduced in "Janice Meredith," Marion Davies' new Cosmopolitan production which will appear at the Alcazar theatre, Friday and Saturday nights, with a matinee on Saturday afternoon.

Every detail of this beautiful scene has been faithfully and accurately constructed by noted artists and skilled artisans, from the smallest candelabrum to the massive mirrors; and the scene at the French court, where Benjamin Franklin pleads for aid for American cause, is one of the most dazzling of any motion picture.

Little Hayward adapted Paul Leicester Ford's stirring romance of the American Revolution to the screen; and E. Mason Hopper directed the production, distributed by Metro-Goldwyn. This picture was recently shown in Detroit at the Adams and drew capacity crowds at each performance. Manager W. J. Thompson is to be commended for having secured this picture for his Northville patrons.

"SIMON CALLED PETER," AT THE GARRICK THEATRE.

It is not too long after the war for a play of the quality of "Simon Called Peter," which comes to the Garrick theatre Sunday night for a return engagement of one week with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, to appeal to everyone. It is one of the plays that the war has brought us. It has provoked much discussion and has stirred no little resentment; but few who condemn it for its utter frankness or who take issue with it in its big problems will question that it is a play of real distinction, both in its manner and in matter. As a war play it is wholly a story of life that existed far behind the lines. Yet in its entire action only one man is killed, and he far behind the lines by a bit of shell in an air raid. It is here that the Rev. Capt. Peter Graham finds that the only consolation he can give to the dying soldier is a cigarette. This experience and many others are quite typical of the one which Peter finds himself facing throughout the action of the play. We find the Church of England minister searching for God and for his own soul in strange places and with strange companions of both sexes. That search is the theme of this daring and remarkable play.

OAKLAND INTERESTED IN NEW ROAD MEASURE.

Oakland county highway officials are greatly interested in the bill which is before the state legislature, introduced at House Bill No. 24, which would permit two or more counties to combine for the purpose of establishing a system of super-highways and to legislate for the regulation of such highways.

G. Ross Thompson, member of the county highway commission, L. V. Belknap, county road engineer; and James H. Lynch, who has been in charge of legal phases of the widening of Woodward road in Oakland county, will go to Lansing to confer with state officials and representatives of the Detroit rapid transit commission regarding the bill and other legislation concerning both Wayne and Oakland counties.

The bill as introduced provides that any two or more counties may combine to establish super-highways not less than 120 feet in width or in certain cases not less than 106 feet. The bill provides for establishment of a commission to handle construction of such highways and their maintenance and control, made up of one state highway commissioner, three county road commissioners from each county concerned, and the rapid transit commission in the largest city in the district so formed, whenever said commission is legally organized under charter provision in said city.—Pontiac Press.

Your Show Window Lighting

It is not every storekeeper who realizes the true value of his show window lighting—the drawing power and business increasing effect of a skillfully lighted window.

Careful tests have shown that raising the level of illumination from 15 foot-candles to approximately 100 foot-candles produced an increase of from 48 to 78% in the number of persons stopping to view the display in the windows of the stores selected for study.

The space occupied by the show window is so small a proportion of the premises, and its importance so great, that the storekeeper can well afford to give it the illumination it needs.

We shall be glad to advise you on this subject. No charge made.

"Satanita," in Gilt Letters

By MARIHA WILLIAMS

"A MASQUERADE! Whatever shall I wear to it?" Prue asked, sighing.

"Joseph's coat of many colors is all I can think of right now," Hope answered, spitefully. "Your dress is green, your slippers blue, and the newest cape your cousin sent a gorgeous yellow."

"Couldn't we dye it black and silver-paint my old slippers?" Prue began. Hope's frown checked her even before she said: "A sin—I'd call that. Clifton won't dye except for professionals. Besides, the cape is a real beauty—if only there's something to go with it. Think of it! Pale, colorless net, straight and very full, over scarlet shirtings with scarlet stockings, gold shoes and a red mask! My! I see myself in such a rig—you'd look a sight with that sorrel mop of yours. Trade me the cape, that's a dear, and let me make Ashton sit and take notice."

"Can't see it, somehow," Prue returned, shrugging. She was distinctly weary, having taken choice of all that was sent her with hardly more than a by your leave.

Pure thought as generous as Hope was selfish, smiled impulsively at the thought of what Hope didn't know. Gently the box Cousin Kate had sent only yesterday.

Overstepping that morning, Prue had rushed off to her school, teaching, leaving if unopened in ambush. Later in the day she was dancing about it, her eyes staring, waving wildly above her head a one-piece bathing suit of scarlet silk, made evidently for some Madame Gollath. Mining deeper, she found pretty near everything she did not need, nor want, but at the bottom lay long curtains of lacy net, delicious, time-yellowed. And then, as by decree of a fairy godmother, golden slippers, faintly tarnished, but so narrow as to explain why they had become dead stock. Prue glanced at her own feet—slimmer than even her slippers warranted. She could wear them—she would—nevertheless, she would feebly buy scarlet silk stockings, also, she'd contrive a cunning scarlet mask from the surplusage of the bathing suit.

The maskers came to the Elliotts' masquerade swathed head-to-foot in bed-sheets—nobody was to speak a word before the midnight unmasking. Character names, boldly written, were pinned to left shoulders. Prue's tag, of scarlet cardboard, bore in gilt letters "Satanita."

Easily she was the sensation of the hour. As she moved, the cape flowed backward, the rich red underneath the yellow made her a figure of flame and gold. Joe and Tony, whooping daintily their delight, rushed at it, dragged it to the middle of the big dancing floor, and cried jointly: "Dance everybody! The queen has come!" "Will she deign to choose a king?" a deep voice asked—one that set Miss Prudence Eddings almost in a panic. She had wondered if Phil Berwick would be there—still more if he would remember their college days together. Hope had boasted of being his best friend there. Prue had said nothing. Through half-shut eyes she saw him step clear of the circle about her. But wicked Tony pushed him back, crying: "Hopeful aspirants must go into the library and approach the queen's back, so she may choose by intuition!"

Chorus of laughter, scurrying feet, then Tony crying: "Victims, approach and swear fealty to Satanita! One at a time, please! No scratching, biting, nor gouging. Now—go to it!"

They came—a rushing, crushing line. Fate fought for Prue—Hope was at ways angrily sure of that—for didn't her head shake like an idol's with machinery inside until Phil Berwick said: "Here"—no more than that—when the queen wheeled and half-fainted in his arms. Then, of course, the applause was wild—then, also, of course, Hope rushed out of sight for a tempestuous weeping. Thus watered, her angry spite grew like Jonah's gourd. Repairing her complexion, she went back to the dance and stopped in the side door to reconnoiter the battlefield. Prue, dancing as though on winged feet, held her head high and delicately away from her partner, although he was Judge Wingfield, the richest bachelor in the state. Of course that toady wanted to make up to the queen, said Hope to herself. Joe Elliot, the incorrigible, had slipped her mask to the back of her yellow head, and was frankly making eyes at Phil—wasting them rather, she herself complained, as they swept by the watcher. The saxophones were waiting their last long notes. Hope stepped clear of the wallflower fringe, and waited the end. As the dancers walked toward the piazza, where moonlight and cool drinks awaited, she said loudly: "So you stole my idea, Prudence Eddings! It's like the rest of your sly ways."

"Explain! You must!" said courtly Major Elliot, shouldering forward and grasping her arm. All in a huddle she told her tale—winding up with, "But it won't do her much good when she has to unmask—she'll show then what a fright she made of herself—a wolf in sheep's clothing—that's what she is for all her baby ways."

"Say rather a lamb in tiger stripes!" Major Elliot laughed. Phil at his elbow said, so all could hear: "Don't we wish there were more like her? Satanita, will you have me for captain of your legion?" "I don't mind," said Satanita, dropping her mask to smile at the world.

Michigan's two United States senators ought to be recalled and retired to private life. When they voted against the confirmation of Charles B. Warren, who had been selected by President Coolidge for the position of attorney general, they proved themselves unworthy to longer represent the great state of Michigan. Mr. Warren stands head and shoulders above either Senator Ferris or Senator Couzens in experience, training and ability and being a Michigan man he ought to have received the hearty support of Michigan's two senators.

By Air—Alone

the way to clean fine rugs

YOUR finest rugs and draperies are most quickly and thoroughly cleaned the Royal Way—by air, alone.

Powerful air suction, scientifically applied by Royal Cleaner, removes both surface litter such as thread, lint and embedded dirt.

This embedded dirt is dangerous to health because it is literally alive with disease germs—too small to be swept out by brooms or revolving brushes.

Embedded dirt also shortens the life of the rug—like sharp sand, it cuts and wears the threads at every footfall.

The strong air suction of the Royal Cleaner gets this doubly dangerous embedded dirt as well as surface litter—removes it all from your finest rugs without the slightest injury.

Let our Royal Man demonstrate in your home, at your convenience and of course without any obligation, the latest model
