Hills and Other Things Give Northville Beauty

Rare Combination of the Old and New May be Found in the Rolling Suburb, Which Grows Nearer to Detroit Year by Year

(By John E. Sanford.) Northville is Detroit's hill suburb and one of its most interesting. Wayne county lies so level that it is refreshing to find a spot in the northwest corner where Mother Nature wearied of her ironing job and left the goods rough dry. Here just 100 years ago this summer, the pioneers unyoked their oxen and built log cabins to house their family treasurers. Here they cleared the forests, built a mill and tilled the rich rolling loam land. Here their descendants lived thriftily, built better homes, some of which have stood for 75 years and still rival the newest architecture. Here they multiplied their manufacturing enterprises until they were capable of industrial independence, with a national market, and here at present is a growing cluster of new home-seekers, fast promises to spread the community until it meets the rapid Detroit growth extending in the direction of the hills.

A Michigan gazetteer of 1839 places Northville 27 miles from Detroit, one of 1864, 26 miles and a 1926 automobile speedometer, slightly less than 25. As a matter of fact, the easterly limit of Northville is less than 10 miles from the new westerly boundary of Detroit and the belt of thickly placed houses is almost continuous. One can get to Northville by a number of routes of the world-famous Wayne county concrete highways. The most direct is out Grand River avenue to Seven Mile road a mile or so beyond old Redford then west along the village. Or one can take the West Grand boulevard and strike Northville 12 1/2 miles north of Plymouth.

The proposed Michigan state highway will cut the northern edge of the village. The Detroit United Light, gas and power company Wayne and Plymouth and north to Farmington where it connects with the Orchard Lake and Pontiac division of the Rock Island and Michigan line to Detroit. Northville also is on the Detroit and St. Clair Motor Co. bus line which runs to Seven Mile road to Livernois avenue, Six Mile road, to Scappell boulevard. It is an attractive city in any direction. The trolley line goes out the highway among fields that will be wooded to some extent and are guided with good homes. The highways wind gracefully and cover rolling country with woods and water courses, and offer a soothing restfulness to the city worker who drives home to dunder among the hills.

You are in need of a vacation Northville by an abrupt turn to the right as you cross the railway and encounter the typical Michigan road and you will find among some of the industrial buildings that show you Northville that it is a place to get into the attractive business.

The Ford Motor Co. has a large plant here with 600 employees and is about to build a $1,000,000 williamette machine water power and also give the town a power line available for heating. With few exceptions all the Ford valves in the world are made here. Not far outside the village 150 women are employed making electric cut out boxes for Ford generators. Near the valve plant is the old Simpson-Sale Co. factory which now has a promising future in connection with the developing airplane industry. Then there is the Bell Foundry Co. which at one time made enough of those old firm dinner bells, mounted on posts or gables to relay the call to roasts, beef and apple pie clear around the world. They tell you that the Waterbury watch of our fathers' time killed the dinner bell industry because for $3 the hired man could carry his dinner hour summons in his pocket. But the foundry continues largely on iron work. Then there is the Globe Furniture Company for church and lodge furniture.

The road which leads to the right under the railway track brings you to an unusual industry, that of bottling water for city consumption and has made its promoters a lot of money. These aren't all the industries of Northville, there's a chemical company for instance that often sends out a half-ton of mail a day.

The Northville Fair grounds are within the village limits. Almost every one in Northville owns shares in the Northville Fair. It is eight years since the old driving park was taken over and the annual exhibitions are looked forward to by thousands in Detroit and elsewhere.

So, passing the picturesque old cobblestone blacksmith shop, you get into the business section which is large and varied enough to take care of the needs of the population. Here the old is mingled with the new. Mrs. Kate Pennington-Allea of Plymouth is building a $140,000 theater. There are the modern bank buildings, and back of one of them is the oldest business structure in town, the Northville Record. Elmer Brown, proprietor, diagonally across the corner is the old hotel, a landmark of pre-Civil War days.

You have passed substantial homey residences under elms and maples that began when the town was young. Beyond the business center, the town spreads out into rows and rows of homes with deep lawns. For instance, there is the beautiful white Colonial style mansion of William Dunlap, one of the pioneers, now owned by Postmaster Frank S. Neal. When George B. Terkes, wealthy Detroit lawyer and former prosecuting attorney, came to replace the country home, built a few years ago, he couldn't find a better or more appropriate style. The old and the new have a striking similarity.

Then there are rows of exquisite bungalows, like that of Rogers Street, where Elmer Smith, village president, lives, and many well planned larger homes. They always build well in Northville. Two styles you won't find—the jerry-built and the shack. One describing Northville should tell of three or four notable institutions—the mammoth Spring Hill Sanatorium of the Detroit Board of Health, the government fish hatchery and its interesting operations and picturesque ponds, the private Edwain Seymour company and old Scottish Inn, the building the own and the Detroit Training School group of buildings near the water tower.

All have the school and the churches. Northville High and elementary schools stand side by side among the trees and shrubs of the public grounds. The High school building is new and the elementary school is still modern. A J. H. H. school is under construction of a block. There are 60 pupils of whom 77 are from outside the district. Twenty-five teachers are employed, 20 boys athletic instructors for boys and girls, and a school nurse. The school is accredited for entrance to the Universities and colleges in the North Central Association.

Not warily among the churches is the Methodist Episcopal, with its pastor, Frank L. Hulbert, opposite the old Dunlap home. Northville has a number of a parsonage, a public library, a building for a Northville product. The stone foundation came from Northville hills, the brick was turned in Northville. The bell was cast here, and both the power and the organ were made there. The Rev. William Richards is pastor. The Presbyterian church is one of the oldest, with the Rev. Frank Knowles, the Baptist church worships under the Rev. A. K. MacRae, the Lutheran has recently installed the Rev. J. J. Reiss. The new white chapel, Our Lady of Victory Catholic church has the boyish and universally popular Rev. Joseph Sciala, a member of the Rotary Club and known as "Joe" among the townspeople here. Jan. 25, 1926.

Northville's public library is a well-honored institution, well-managed. The village is a notable Masonic center. It has the largest Knights Templar commandery in any town of its size in the world, with 205 Sir Knights. There are also a large lodge and chapter. Other strong bodies are the American Legion, Knights of Pythias, Maechesters Foresters of America and Eastern Star.

The Northville postoffice is a second class office, and has increased its receipts from $8,000 to $15,000 a year since the incumbency of Frank S. Neal started three years ago. Delivery is expected in 60 days. The village has a splendid water system from springs on the hills, giving adequate flow; a complete sewer system; pavements on a number of streets, gas for cooking; Edison electric current. It is district headquarters for the Detroit-Edison Co. The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has been making extensive improvements to its plant.

As in most similar towns, 80 per cent of the population own their homes. There are apartments and a few separate houses. When Eddie Stinson, the aviator, and Bill Mara, formerly of the Detroit Board of Commerce, wanted to move there a week ago, Milo Johnson, former state representative, hustled around and dug up houses for them. Frank Neal insists

Johnson had to build the houses over night. Anyway, he got them, and for the engineer of the company, too. You pay from $30 to $50 a month, if you find anything, but the fortunate ones are those who build. Total taxes are somewhat above $10 per $1,000, but the burden is not as heavy as it looks on paper. The village had an assessed valuation of $2,300,570 in 1925, and a bonded indebtedness of $169,000, which, considering the extent of the improvements installed, is moderate. The village administration consists of Elmer Smith, village president, they call him "mayor"; Stewart Montgomery, Chas. Fulkens, C. R. Ely, Courad Langfeld, Ray Van Valkenburg and John R. Walker. Thomas E. Murdock is village clerk.

Supremacy in Fine Steel

In the percentage of costly Chrome Vanadium Steel used, Dodge Brothers Motor Car outranks any other automobile in the World, regardless of cost.

It is everywhere conceded that Chrome Vanadium Steel is the toughest and most enduring metal ever created for use in the vital parts of a motor car.

It may not be so well known, however, that Dodge Brothers Motor Car ranks first in the world in the use of this costly and fatigue-proof material.

Dodge Brothers power assembly is almost entirely Chrome Vanadium—motor, connecting rods, crankshaft, transmission, universal joint, drive shaft, differential and rear axle.

Even the front axle is Chrome Vanadium—the entire steering unit—and every leaf of the springs.

In fact, wherever any manufacturer uses alloy steels, Dodge Brothers use costly Chrome Vanadium. And in numerous instances Dodge Brothers employ it where plain carbon steel, even in the costliest cars, is commonly thought sufficient.

This has been true from the day Dodge Brothers built their first motor car.

This explains why the words Long Life, Safety and Dependability are habitually associated with the name Dodge Brothers wherever motor cars are serving mankind.

ANNUAL CLEAN-UP WEEK

May 17 to 22

LET'S MAKE NORTHVILLE CLEAN

EVERYBODY IN WITH RAKE AND HOE AND BRUSH

Next week, from Monday morning until Saturday night, has been designated Clean-Up Week in Northville and it is the desire of the Village Health Department, as it should be of all our citizens, to give the old home town a thorough cleaning during that period.

Rubbish of all kinds—except ashes—will be carted away if placed in boxes or barrels at the street curbs. Gather up all the old cans, bottles and other accumulations of the winter months and have them carted away.

Clean the front yards and the back yards and do not forget the cellars.

Cleanliness inspires good health both for yourself and your neighbors.

Even if you said of Northville that we have no old unclean or unsightly places this year.

Remember next week and do not wait until the last of the week. Start to clean Monday and keep at the job until your premises are cleaned up.

One unsightly spot will detract from all the attractive ones, so let us make this a real community effort—everybody clean their premises, whether they own them or rent them.

Place your rubbish at the curb by Friday Morning, when wagons will be provided by the Village to cart it away. We ask your hearty co-operation.

Dr. R. Schuyler, Health Officer.

BRITISH STRIKERS RECEIVING SUPPORT

General Tieup Is Being Augmented by Friendly Labor Organizations.

Washington—Officials of the American Federation of Labor declined to make any statement concerning an appeal for financial assistance received from British trade unions now staging the general strike.

London—Trade Union Congress is calling for the intervention of troops to prevent destruction of property and danger to life arising from the effects of the strike. The strike is being extended to the railways, the ports and the coal mines.

Another important incident is a news that British unions have made an appeal for funds to organized workers in the United States.

In Wales wholesale and retail grocers issued a proclamation that beyond strictly normal amounts credit will not be extended to people in the strike areas. These two factors, when considered together, are taken as indicative of the weak financial position of the strikers.

In the meantime reports have trickled into London from various parts of the world showing that support is being given by other labor to the strikers.

From Copenhagen came a report that Danish labor unions had decided to declare a general strike and had sent preliminary notices to their employers. Great Britain gets the major part of its butter and eggs from Denmark.

Approximately 2,000,000 rubles, the second installment of a fund voted for their relief, has been transferred to the English Trades Union Congress by Scandinavian unions.

In Mexico City a committee of the British steamship companies called on the Mexican government to order the British ships to be allowed to call at Mexican ports.

The strike has not only been extended to the ports but also to the railways, the ports and the coal mines.

Formal declaration of war in Mexico City was announced in a message published by the government in the British Cabinet and broadcast to the states.

All ranks of the armed forces of the British army have been informed that they are to be called to the front and that they are to be ready to move at any moment.

The government has announced that it will be prepared to meet the cost of the strike and that it will be prepared to meet the cost of the strike.

O. K. $75,000,000 for New U. S. War Planes

Washington—Development of an army air corps in accordance with the five-year program recommended by its military affairs committee, was approved by the house without serious opposition.

The expenditure of $75,000,000 for new airplanes, two 6,000,000 cubic foot capacity dirigibles, and a number of training balloons, is expected to make available 1,728 airplanes for active flying units of the regular army and 371 for allocation to National Guard and organized reserve units.

Opposes Aid to U. S. in War Manila—The Philippine labor congress passed a resolution recommending that labor remain neutral in a war between the United States and any Pacific power.

Steal $10 but Miss $10,000 Thep. Wis.—Lapham who attempted to enter the vault of the People's State bank here obtained $10,000 over $10,000 when they were frightened away as the burglar alarm sounded.

Grandstand Builder Sentenced Los Angeles Cal.—Paul G. Maloney, contractor, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the New Year's day grandstand crash at the Pasadena rose tournament, has been sentenced to San Quentin penitentiary for from one to ten years.

Five Coal Miners Killed Pottsville Pa.—Five miners were killed and four injured by an explosion of gas in the South Penn. colliery.

Yes, unsightly roofs can be made to look new thereafter—adding new charm to the home—increasing its present valuation—providing fire-safe protection for years to come. NO longer is it necessary to go to the bother and expense of tearing off the old shingles. If not too badly decayed leave them right on. The insulation value of this seasoned wood is too great to be sacrificed. If curbed, these shingles may be straightened out by nailing down at corners in which condition they will remain permanently. Thus prepared and covered with White-Hide Shingles or roll-type roofing the life of the roof is prolonged for many more years. In our stock we have different styles of White-Hide to fit every pocket book. The color will satisfy every taste. Only natural, non-fading glaze is used for surfacing White-Hide. If artificial dyes were used the color would soon bleach under the weather and sun. When covering an old roof it is well to remember that the cost of applying inferior grade materials, time, labor and expense is identical with the cost of applying the better dependable quality. That is why it is good wisdom to select White-Hide at the start. NORTHVILLE MILLING & LUMBER CO. Northville, Mich. "NOT A KICK IN A MILLION FEET" Applies to Everything We Sell

MR. AND MRS. BARNEY TUCK CELEBRATE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Tuck of Northville, was the scene of a joyous anniversary Saturday afternoon and evening when twenty-five relatives and friends gathered to help them celebrate their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served at 6:30, the table being centered by a beautiful wedding cake made by their daughter Helen. Favours of white and silver, and pink and white carnations were also used for decorations.

After the dinner a mock wedding was performed, with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hart of Owosso, and Will Tuck of Detroit, acting as mace-bearers of honor and best men, they having acted as their attendants twenty-five years ago. Leona Garchow, a niece, dressed as the minister, read the ceremony. A poem "The Happenings of the Past Life of Mr. and Mrs. Tuck," composed by Ina Wolfgram, another niece, caused much merriment. The rest of the evening was spent in games and music and songs by the young folks. Guests were present from Farmington, Plymouth, Northville, Livonia, Detroit and Owosso. They departed at a late hour wishing Mr. and Mrs. Tuck many happy returns of the day and beautiful gifts of silverware, cut-glass and silver mugs were left as a remembrance of the day.

SMALL INVESTORS THE "BIG BUSINESS"

The desire to stir bute stock ownership of large banking and industrial corporations is evidenced by the recent move of the Bancitaly Corporation of San Francisco in reducing the par value of its shares from $100 to $25—with the new shares carrying a dividend rate of $2.40 each. The Bancitaly Company is nothing more or less than an investment organization, a holding company, of high grade bank stocks and securities.

"Big business" will let the little fellow in on its operations. It is the thousands of small investors who make "big business" possible.

When a banking or utility corporation has thousands and tens of thousands of stockholders, the campaign thunder of the radicals is to the effect that "big business" tries to "sneeze out" the men of "small means," is gone.

California was the leader in the "customer ownership idea" among utilities, and it is probable that today a greater proportion of the stocks and bonds of its local corporations are owned by its citizens, than is the case in any other state.

No longer is "big business" owned solely by a small group of financiers.

TELEPHONE COMPANY EMPLOYEES TO HOLD INTERESTING CONTEST

Michigan experts in various classifications of telephone workmanship will hold their third annual state-wide vocational contest at the Greca Gardens, Detroit, Saturday evening, May 22nd, as it was inaugurated last year by Roy E. Crowe, manager here for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company. Preliminary contests have been held among the linemen, installers, repairmen, cablemen and other telephone craftsmen in this district for the purpose of choosing "district champions" to take part in the divisional semi-final contests on May 28th. A division contest will be held at Detroit, and those for the southern division embracing all the lower portion of the state with the exception of Detroit and its immediate suburbs, will be held in Kalamazoo. In the northern division, which embraces the upper peninsula, contests are being held locally in the several exchange areas for the purpose of determining who shall go to Detroit to compete on the peninsula in the state-wide competitions.

SANITATION SAVES LIVES OF CHILDREN

United States Aids Great Work in Santiago.

Washington—Should a fire sweep through a children's hospital in Santiago, Chile, and snuff out the lives of 780 little children, millions would feel keenest sympathy and presidents and kings would send messages of condolence.

Less spectacular, but far more cheering, is the actual news that 780 lives of children under one year old have been saved in a six months period in that one city.

And the United States had an important part in this magic boon of modern medicine.

The circumstances emerge into the news because of the announcement of the new sanitary code regulations and the decision of the United States public health service to permit Dr. J. D. Long of its staff to remain in Santiago as technical adviser to the Chilean ministry of hygiene.

Repaying Medicinal Favours.

"It seems only a bit of poetic justice that the United States should minister to the land whose doctors make the world's gardens grow, bind the sores and wounds of mankind, and alleviate the pain of intense suffering in hospitals from New York to Singapore. For those are the effects of the vitamins, the iodine, and the cod-liver fish oil exports," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

"Medicine has wrought powerful changes in the geography of the world," the bulletin continues. "Quite, for example, has been man's chief ally in conquering the tropics. And recent applications of medical science have been estimated to have saved more lives among the allied nations since the World War than were lost in that titanic struggle."

Now, Chile, by the creation of its national health service with the assistance of the expert from our country, has embarked upon a program which she believes will save her 1,000,000 lives a year.

Such a program, however, the length of which has been from the trade lands of the world to the forests of Texas and Florida, and the railroads of the United States, and the ships of the South American sea lanes, is a task bearing upon the future of the world, and upon the world supply of the raw material and resources of the world.

An official report of the work performed by the national health service since its inception last year, just received at the headquarters of the National Geographic society, tells how a $1,000,000 campaign, through reforestation, and certain other sanitary provisions resulted in cutting down the infant mortality rate during the last six months of 1925 by 45.4 per cent over the death rate of 1924, and showed a falling of 31.4 per cent in the number of deaths in 1925 over those of 1924.

What Chile Has Done.

"The slatidated republic, with its one-fourth area of islands, has been divided into ten sanitary zones, a corps of health officers has been created, quarantine regulations have been put into effect, physicians, nurses and compelled to report communicable diseases, sewage disposal plants installed in small communities, municipal sanitary codes drafted and physical examinations of school children are being gradually provided.

"Infant mortality in Chile has been approximately one-third the total mortality. Of those babies that die under one year of age it is 63 per cent die under one month old. Therefore, the report states, a great saving of life, perhaps from 80 to 90 per cent of these deaths, will be prevented by proper hospital maternity provision for mothers.

"Four cities, Santiago, Los Lagos, San Antonio, and Talca, heretofore are to have their water supplies sterilized with chlorine. Certain cities which have had inadequate water for domestic purposes, including Valparaiso, are being surveyed for an augmented supply.

"In the water shortage, many towns suffer from a condition which makes for Chile's prosperity. Northern Chile is the one and region of the world which doesn't want more rain. If the climate changed and heavy rains fell periodically the water would gradually dissolve the nitrate and wash away the country's unique reservoir of wealth."

HAUGEN MEASURE IS DOOMED TO DEFEAT

Tincher Farm Relief Bill is Most Likely to Obtain Final Approval.

Washington.—The Haugen bill providing a $70,000,000 subsidy for the farmers is regarded as dead, according to a canvass of House members. In addition to this President Coolidge told Representative Vestal of Indiana Republican Whip, that he would sign the Tincher farm relief measure if it was passed by the House.

The death of the Haugen bill, indicated by the recent canvass, comes largely as a result of desertion among southern Democrats who had been expected to support it on account of the $100,000,000 subsidy it contained for cotton. The bill has also been abandoned by representatives from metropolitan districts in the North Central states who sought the Republicans of the East in condemning government subsidy of any special group.

The eleven North Central states most vitally interested in the Haugen bill would, according to theory, cast 124 votes for the Haugen bill. It is believed now, however, that this will be cut to 80 and that the total Republican vote for the bill will not be over 110.

The defection of the southern Democrats is ascribed to several factors, among which is the fact that under the terms of the Haugen bill the first equalization levy would be levied in 1928—at the time of the Presidential campaign—and this would not be, it is believed, popular.

Another factor is that many southern Democrats believe that the cotton growers do not need a subsidy, given the fact that they get a part of their crop by a United States tariff. Still another factor is the opposition of the House to the bill, which is expected to be passed by the House in the near future.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS

Two additional officers were appointed to the Federal Bureau of Investigation today.

Washington officials are expected to announce a new measure to prevent the loss of cotton.

On the spacious green that stretches from the capitol where the Federal law was written and passed, dandelion pickers have been busy at work for several days.

Over vigorous protests by Senators Borah, Johnson, Norris, Wheeler and Blaine the United States Senate granted Judge George Washington English of the eastern district of Illinois six months' respite in the trial of his impeachment for misbehavior and misdemeanors in office.

TO AID U. S. IN WAR ON RUM SMUGGLING

Great Britain Offers to Help Stop Illicit Traffic

Washington.—British aid in stamping out the illicit rum traffic between England and the United States, is offered in official memoranda made public by the State department.

The department announced that in response to an invitation from Great Britain's Gen. Lincolnic, Anderson, chief of rum enforcement officer, and other American officials, will see to it that the 22nd for a conference with British officials.

It is understood that several American moves to strengthen the rum laws between Great Britain and this country, as well as to encourage the British to stop rum smuggling from the United States, in 1925, and to the British government a similar trade, the United States, has been in its power to stop rum smuggling.

The British government has announced that it will send a naval force to the United States coast guard vessels to enter islands in the Bahamas and other Caribbean islands, once the rum ships. It is also an offer to the British government was prepared to remove liquor subsidies from British territory upon the demand of the United States.

The British government has also taken an interest in the United States in the West Indies to take special care to prevent rum from being smuggled into the United States.

Daughter Indicted in Metal Case Plot

... daughter indicted in metal case plot.

In the afternoon, the three defendants were arrested in having conspired to prevent the government from taking honest and unbiased judgment from Miller and Daugherty as to the turning over of the metal corporation's assets and securities. Both were acting in an official capacity for the federal administration.

In the indictment the three defendants and the late Jesse W. Smith, partner in the deal, were to share $391,000 in Liberty bonds for arranging the deal. King is charged with receiving that sum in the specified bonds October 1, 1925, also, with accepting a $30,000 check in July, 1925, in connection with the same deal.

It is stated in the indictment that the three defendants and Smith entered into the conspiracy at least two months before Colonel Miller or Daugherty took office in 1921, and that these four men conspired to defraud the government continuously throughout that period of time beginning January 5, 1921, and ending December 1, 1921.

Love and the Loan Exhibit

By JANE OSBORN

WHEN Mr. Michael Sterling preached his apartment one winter night he found his Japanese student servant sitting up in the living room. "A lady telephoned," he said. "She didn't leave her name—just said to call Cedar Valley 772."

Michael Sterling's family had once been closely associated with the picturesque suburban town of Cedar Valley, and it was when Michael himself was keeping a sort of lordly bachelor hall in the old Sterling homestead five or six years ago that he had met and become engaged to the charming Stella Napes. Then there had been a sort of quarrel—Michael didn't even want to remember what it was all about—and he had gone away, telling Stella that he would never come begging for her forgiveness.

Now Michael called the number as he had been requested to do. A voice, very suave and a little too sweet, came back to him.

"Mr. Thornton Manchester, of Cedar Valley," she said. "You may not remember me Mr. Sterling." She paused, while Michael scanned something to indicate that he was quite sure he recalled the name. "We're all very much interested in the children's home out here, and now I'm so busy with this loan exhibit I can't go to see you. And I recalled that there were some lovely miniatures in your family, and well, would you let us borrow those family miniatures of yours for our exhibit? They would be so interesting—and it is really a worthy cause."

Michael Sterling assured the lady on the other end of the wire that he would be quite glad to do so and that he hoped that she would accept a small check for the home. The next day to save himself further concern in the matter, he sent a check for fifty dollars and asked his Japanese student servant to open a certain cabinet and take out a case of miniatures—ancestors of mine," he added, giving the man the cabinet key. "Old time things, you gentlemen in your old country. You are the stars. There's a lot of them. I hope to see them out here in a good museum."

And Michael gave the matter no further thought at least for the moment. He took the following Monday the miniatures and that night when his head came in about 1 in his tape, he was waiting for him. "A lady from Cedar Valley asked to have you call on me. The number is Cedar Valley 772. It is in other lady's—my number."

Michael felt no attraction now at the prospect of speaking to a lady in Cedar Valley. But when the voice came to him over the wire he almost started. Surely it was Stella!

"This is Stella Napes," came the voice that Michael recognized for all it was so unfeeling and formal. "I want to tell you that what you have done has caused me very great distress. Perhaps I shouldn't have called you up—except that everyone here is talking about those miniatures. I never even knew that they existed. I can make no explanation. So please won't you and for them at once? Mrs. Manchester asked you for the Sterling family miniatures which would have been really interesting to people out here in Cedar Valley."

"But—but how do you get them?" called back Michael. "Don't get any Stella! Great Stella! I don't want them any more—the other miniatures. Oh Stella! what can I do for you?"

They met at last on the next day and Stella. It seemed to Michael, looked together at various times she had at various times. It was not until they were seated opposite each other that he made the eye.

"You see Mrs. Manchester asked for the family miniatures and I left my man to attend to it. I did him to take them out of the cabinet. Well, those other miniatures were in the cabinet, but I thought he'd know the difference."

"But where did they come from? I never knew that they existed!"

"They were all made after our quarrel. I had some little photographs—some of them snap shots—and I had to have something to remember you by, something lasting and precious, and so I took those pictures and got the best miniature painter I could find to make them. I have never shown them to anyone."

"Then even after you went away you cared?" asked Stella.

"I cared and I still care—very much," said Michael.

"Then, Michael," suggested Stella, "let's pretend that nothing ever came between us but that we've just had a lovely long engagement."

"But it can't be much longer," he said. "All those in favor of getting married right away." And when the writer returned with the order he was a trifle surprised to hear the lady and the gentleman he was serving unite in a vigorous "Aye."

Cold Water Guides Salmon

The mystery of how salmon find their way year after year to their spawning ground is believed to have been solved recently, says Popular Science Monthly.

Prof. Henry B. Ward of the University of Illinois finds that temperature plays a large part in the fish's life. When it comes to a stream junction the red sockeye salmon, he says, moving against the current always select the colder water.

ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN THEIR LADIES AT DINNER.
The dinner room at the Park Hotel was the scene of a very enjoyable gathering—a family party—on Monday night when members of the Rotary Club entertained their ladies at dinner. Three long tables were required to accommodate the merry company and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Stinson and Mr. and Mrs. Mara were special guests.

After the splendid dinner the regular meeting of the club was held with an interesting address by Frank Copeland of Wayne.

CHILDREN'S CHORUS SINGS AT MAY FESTIVAL.
One of the outstanding features of the coming May festival at Ann Arbor will be the appearance of the Children's Festival Chorus. Friday afternoon, May 21st, in Hall auditorium, when Fletcher's "The Walrus and the Carpenter" will be interpreted.
This remarkable chorus is composed of several hundred youngsters of the public schools of Ann Arbor. It was organized about ten years ago and has participated at each festival since that time.
The organization has performed practically all of the more important compositions for children's choruses, besides many smaller works.

RUSSELL ANGELL DIED SATURDAY AFTER SHORT ILLNESS.
After a few days' illness Russell Angell died at his home on the Base Lane road last Saturday, pneumonia being the cause of his death. Funeral services were held at his late home on Tuesday afternoon and were largely attended. Rev. Davis of Redford and Rev. A. K. MacRae conducted the services. Interment took place at Grand Lawn cemetery.

John Angell, Russell's father, who was very ill at the time of the death of his son, died early Thursday morning.
Suitable obituaries will be published later.

SEYMOUR L. BROWN DIED THURSDAY AFTERNOON.
The many friends of Seymour L. Brown were saddened by the illness which at first was not thought to be serious, but as his condition grew worse it was advisable to remove him to the Sessions hospital, where every care seemed futile, and he passed away Thursday, May 13th, pneumonia followed by complications being the cause of death.

Seymour Layton Brown was born in Nov. 29th, 1869. He was the son of Dr. B. W. Brown and Louisa E. Brown. He came to Northville in 1892 and settled on the farm now owned by his son, Mr. Brown, for 33 years. He was a member of the Northville Baptist church and was a member of the Northville Grange. He was a member of the Northville Grange. He was a member of the Northville Grange. He was a member of the Northville Grange.

Funeral services were held at Schrader Brothers' chapel Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock, being conducted by Rev. A. K. MacRae. Interment at Nov. cemetery.

MOTHER'S DAY AT THE METHODIST CHURCH.
The hearts of the community were touched and the fact was clearly demonstrated when the congregation filled the large auditorium of the church last Sunday.
The pastor said "I owe all I am to my mother." We all felt so. The music from the organ, as well as the voices spoke of the pointlessness of the congregation contributed into one and the subject of the pastor "An Ideal Mother," went un-parallel to this reference to her.
The last word that struggles from the lips of each is "Mother." We came and worshiped God as she is the only argument for God. This service—all the flowers of maternal gifts—though well in their place—what we could give her. This is what she has wanted us to do. It was her training in our thoughts. We were left with memories unutterable by mothers resting after unselfish love and grateful joy for mothers still with us. Gifts at best are but poor symbols of our gathering in her name, is something tangible and far finer. Love for her, and love for God.

Northville—Sunday, May 16th. St. John's Episcopal congregation will again dedicate its church. An invitation to attend the dedication services is extended to all, and especially to those confirmed in this church during the 52 years of its history. Three services will be conducted.

FOR ECONOMICAL BUILDING.
Economical building is not of necessity cheap building. As a result of the experience of a lifetime in home building there has been evolved what its originator terms the "Ideal Method of Construction."
This, it is believed, is the most practical and economical method for the construction of light structures, such as garages and particularly summer cottages, etc. that has appeared in the past fifty years. The plan is also adaptable in reconstruction work where new partitions are to be placed and new rooms, sleeping porches, etc. added.
Insofar as the "ideal method" may be used it effects a saving of from 25% to 50% in the initial investment.
If considering the building of a summer cottage or garage consult George H. Hicks, general contractor, Northville, Michigan, telephone 111.
