DRIVE FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN MEETING WITH SUCCESS.

Wayne county, in common with other communities throughout the state, this week, has turned sympathetic ears to the pitiful appeal of its thousands of crippled children, as voiced through the Michigan Society for Crippled Children.

The society, in an intensive campaign that was launched from church pulpits last Sunday, is asking every one in this county and state to share with helpless little tots a tithe of the many blessings for which he will give formal thanks this week.

More than sixty men—members of the Rotary and Exchange Clubs of this place—entered upon the membership drive Monday afternoon, with enthusiasm, and they were well rewarded for their efforts. They were not turned away from many homes without receiving at least one membership, and in some instances they secured 100 per cent subscription.

As a rule the people responded generously and displayed a keen interest in the great movement to help the unfortunate children of our state, who are handicapped because of some physical defect or deformity.

As a result of this state-wide drive,

NORTHVILLE PLAYED WAYNE AT YPSILANTI WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Wayne, a Northville High school football team, contested for the suburban league championship at Ypsilanti, Wednesday afternoon, and board of education very thoughtfully decided to close school at noon to permit all the students who cared to attend the game to do so. It had been planned to close the school Wednesday night for the Thanksgiving holidays before the date for the championship game was decided upon, and the action of the board in making the change of a few hours was greatly appreciated by the pupils. For who among the number did not want to go to Ypsilanti to see their team in a championship contest?

The team was accompanied by a large number of students and the contest created a great deal of interest and enthusiasm.

Wayne has a strong team, they having defeated Plymouth last Friday, and a week before, they took the Roosevelt High team of Ypsilanti to camp to the tune of 27 to 0. It will be a hard fight, but of course, Northville expected to win.

OBITUARY

The passing of John Buckley came as a surprise to many of his friends. For a week he had been suffering which became a problem to medical skill until it was found necessary to operate. All seemed to be successful when a relapse came and he passed away Wednesday, November 17th.

Funeral services were held by his pastor Rev. Wm. Richards, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, November 21st, at his home residence on Verbeck street. Burial took place in Rural Hill cemetery.

He was born in Milford April 15th 1866 and died at the age of 54 years. He had been a resident of Northville for thirty-five years and was in the employ of the White Furniture Company during the 12th year.

He died suddenly on December 19th, 1919, at Jean McLean's home in Plymouth, and two of whom are his children, Charles and Alice, wife of Charles, were present.

The mother buried deeply the absence of a hand to her and husband.

The hearts of many friends are heavy in sympathy to the family in their bereavement.

LESLIE, DIED OF HEART FAILURE

There were reports current about the village, the Friday and Saturday in the past that Mrs. Leslie, wife of Plymouth, a member of the Northville family, had been accidentally killed while in the woods.

Naturally the report of the accident caused considerable worry here among those who have relatives in the woods but The Record is able to state that Leslie was not shot, but had died from natural causes.

Heart failure being given as the cause of death on the burial certificate.

He had just finished a hearty meal when stricken. The body of the young man was shipped to Plymouth and was taken from the train to his home by Schrader Brothers, funeral directors of that place.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from his late home. He was the son of James Leslie and was well known to many Northville people.

NORTHVILLE WON FIRST DEBATE

Northville High school debating team won a unanimous decision over the team representing the Milford school at the debate which was held at the High school auditorium, last Friday night, all three judges voting in favor of the home team. This was the first of the preliminary debates, in which 230 High schools of the state will take part. The subject for the debate was "Resolved: That the United States government should own the coal mines," and Northville's debaters presented the affirmative side of the argument in a very forcible and convincing manner.

The Northville team is composed of Margaret Safford, Sam Salter, Russell Atchison, and Lyle Loydell and they are to be congratulated upon the fine start they have made.

RUSSELL WILLIAMS PLACED UNDER ARREST.

Russell Williams was placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff W. H. Safrord last Saturday and taken to the Plymouth jail for safe keeping. He was arraigned before Justice E. R. Perrin on Monday upon the charge of breaking and entering.

The offense for which he was arrested was committed on the night of September 21st, when some one forced an entrance to the White Star oil and gas station in this village. Williams pleaded not guilty and his hearing was set for next Wednesday.

In default of $2,000 bail he was taken to the county jail by Mr. Safrord Monday evening.

RENEW DEMANDS FOR RELIEF FOR FARMER

Envoy of 6 Northern and 6 Southern States Urge Action by Congress.

SELFRIDGE FIELD TO BE MADE PERMANENT DEPOT.

The permanent status of Selfridge Field, MacClellan, as a United States flying base seems to be assured, following the revision of plans for the construction of permanent buildings at an approximate cost of $1,500,000. These plans have been approved by the highest army officials.

St. Louis, Mo.—Renewed demand for Congress to produce legislation for the relief of agriculture is contained in a declaration of principles announced by representatives of six southern and six northern states at a meeting here.

The "farm surplus control" plan, which is the basis of the new McNary-Haugen bill, was one of the measures.

Chief of the steps advocated in the conference's declaration is the creation of a federal farm board possessed power to deal with certain facts if surpluses of basic farm products are found to be depressing the price below the cost of production, and protecting growers of the commodities affected are sufficiently organized on a co-operative basis, the board would have authority to order the co-operatives to take control of such surpluses.

Producers would bear the cost of distribution under such a plan.

The price, the statement proceeds, would not be determined by either the governor or governing board, but the co-operative, like any other industry, would study all conditions and sell at values consistent with profit.

In this regard, points of similarity are noted with respect to the McNary-Haugen and another proposal. One of the chief points of one measure, suggests collection of an equalization fee from all producers involved at the processing point, such as the mill, or gin in case of cotton. Under the McNary-Haugen house bill now pending it is provided that the government may an-dicipitate the collection of such an equalization fee by borrowing from banks

the money to be returned when collections are made.

The conference urges members of the House and Senate to immediately introduce their own legislation to prevent the congressional session in December. Members of both houses, who had worked hard, voted for a comprehensive and practical solution to the agricultural problem.

Mr. Fish has not decided whether to seek the appointment of a special committee to try his charges indefinite as yet, before the house military affairs committee. His announcement comes as a climax to the grim billing of senators, congressmen, and others who have been complaining that instead of their usual allotment of six tickets to the game only four were received this year.

Mr. Fish declares he has information that the secretaries of some senators and congressmen have obtained tickets in the names of their employees and turned them over to speculators, who are reselling them at prices ranging from $25 to $50 apiece.

The proposed investigation according to Representative Fish, should in clude current charges that Cheever

Fitzharris, cornered blocks of ticketers and sold them to scalpers who then转售 them to Washington and other eastern cities for twice the price.

I. S. Investigator Would Not Close Doc Against Complete Independence

Seattle, Wash.—Five months and four days after sailing to investigate political and economic conditions in the Philippine Islands for President Coolidge, Capt. A. Thompson of Cleveland has returned from Manila.

The President's personal representative declined to dismiss his report before handing it to Mr. Coolidge, but it is known that it will contain the following recommendations and suggestions:

1. Empathetic; advise the President Coolidge to take immediate action to re-establish co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of the regular government, breaking the deadlock between Gov. Gen. Edward Wood and the Philippine legislature.

2. Transfer of authority over the Philippines, as well as all other of

ANNUAL RED CROSS ROLL CALL

The annual Red Cross roll call for Northville village and township will be conducted this week, and every citizen is urged to contribute their dollar toward the annual fund. One-half the amount collected will remain here to be used as the local committee sees fit.

When hurricanes and storms strike unguarded cities suffering is certain to follow. When great rivers overflow and flood vast areas, misery and want abide after the water recedes. When sudden disaster strikes there is immediate need of outside assistance.

To whom do the American people entrust the duty of being prepared for such emergencies? The American Red Cross, founded by the American government, demonstrates its value in a series of organization which comes every year. The storm struck areas of Florida and the winter-cold areas of the west bear recent witness to the presence of Red Cross efficiency in extending prompt relief, which can save life and prevent great suffering.

In these and other great calamities the Red Cross serves as your personal representative, rendering a service you would be glad to render if you were able to do so. The organization is ready and equipped to render prompt and efficient service, and it is always the first on the field where suffering and need make their appeal.

This annual membership is but $1.00, and you will thus be helping in a national and world-wide movement.

Heart disease caused 1,571 deaths in Detroit last year, which is an increase of 200 over the previous year.

Lou B. Winsor of Grand Rapids is credited with having more Masonic titles than any other living Mason in the state of Michigan.

Washington—Packard Motor Company of Detroit has reported sure to have been the purchaser last week of some 40 acres a mile south of Dixie and four miles south of this place.

Employment Insurance

An effort to prevent the international organization from getting off the ground was made by a group of American business leaders during a meeting of the Dodge brothers, the three millionaires who founded the company.

A memorandum for the U. S. Senate for next year's session, signed by the Dodge brothers, states that the proposed bill "is not only unnecessary but also undesirable."

The memorandum, written by the Dodge brothers, states that the bill "is not only unnecessary but also undesirable" and that "the proposed bill, if adopted, would result in local interference with the federal government's powers—thus, future actions of the national government would necessarily, on the contrary, affect and extend the influence of economy until the time comes for concrete action."

The improvement of the Philippine educational system with special emphasis on technical training in agriculture, commerce and finance and more rapid and widespread dissemination of the English language.

No amendment to Philippine land laws by congress such as that desired by American rubber interests to open up large tracts of public domain for private exploitation.

Stronger American control in the Moro country, including withdrawal of Philippine constabulary from that region.

The Thompson report is not likely either wholly to condemn or wholly to endorse the Wood administration. If its information appears to point toward the advisability of a change in administration this will not imply criticism of General Wood so much as it will emphasize the need for men experienced in civil administration.

TINY ANIMAL QUICK- CHANGE SENSATION

Can Transform Into An other Animals and Back.

Philadelphia.—The result of two years of intensive research, Dr. Martha Bunting, working in the zoological laboratory of the University of Pennsylvania, has discovered a rare form of molecular transformation which changes into another animal and then back again, was revealed at the laboratory recently.

It resembles a minute drop of jelly and is as soft only one thousandth inch in length, but it is trained successfully with a microscope it performs some unusual and strange interesting features.

The animal belongs to the leech family, the most familiar types of which are the earthworms, and its orientation in nature is only to transform itself into a complicated segmented and then after a retransformation which makes it an insect.

The transformation of caterpillars into butterflies and other similar transformations among the lower animals are well known.

None of these animals, however, can reverse the transformation process as can the rare animal which Dr. Bunting has found, and it is this ability which makes it distinctive.

Found in Rat-intestine: According to Doctor Bunting, the animal was first seen as a flagellate in a culture which had been taken from the intestine of a rat and in which there had been nothing but simple amoebae. The appearance of the flagellate was entirely unexpected and it was at first thought to have gotten into the culture accidentally.

Its presence, however, was sufficient to awaken the curiosity of Doctor Bunting, and with evidence tend to show that the appearance of the flagellate was not accidental but the result of an unusual transformation he began the two years of tedious research which has now ended with a definite contribution to biological knowledge.

The principal work he did was to find out what the animal was and what it did.

He found that the animal was a leech which had been introduced into his culture, he probably in a jarred fish, the next day he found it had changed into a caterpillar.

He then took the caterpillar and put it in a jar with a fly.

After a few days the caterpillar had turned into a butterfly.

SEES INCREASE IN SUN'S VIOLET RAYS

Scientist Says 1927 Will Be Great Year for Tan.

Pasadena, Calif.—The ultra-violet rays of the sun, the part of sunlight that causes sunburn and gives some diseases, are more copious as the spots on the sun grow more numerous, and there are indications that when the eleventh-year maximum of spots is reached within the next year or so, the sun will give off about two and a half times as much ultra-violet light as it did in 1923 when the spots were least numerous.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Edison Pettit, of the Mount Wilson Observatory here who is conducting a study of this invisible but important part of sunshine.

Doctor Pettit's method depends on the fact that the ultra-violet radiation passes through a thin layer of silver but not of gold, while a similar layer of gold transmits visible green light. As glass is opaque to the ultra-violet, two lenses of quartz are used, one of which is silvered and the other gilded. These lenses can form an image of the sun on a vacuum thermocouple, which gives an electric current when light falls on it.

This current is measured with a galvanometer, and from it can be determined the intensity of the ultra-violet or the green radiation, depending on whether the silvered or gilded lens is used. As the intensity of the green light remains relatively constant, it is used as a standard with which to compare the ultra-violet.

Doctor Pettit finds that, when he plots the variation of the ultra-violet light and the numbers of spots visible on the surface of the sun, the two curves show close agreement. Since October, 1925, he says, the ultra-violet light has been about 40 per cent greater than it was in June, 1924, when he began his researches.

As the spots are apparently still on the increase, he anticipates that the intensity of the ultra-violet on the sun during the summer of 1928 will be 50 per cent brighter than it was in the beginning of the year of record, indicating that about two and a half times as great.

Additional research of the past 18 months has shown that the problem of the solar flare in the sun itself, and the variations in the intensity of the sunspot are an added interest to the scientist. According to Doctor Pettit, "the variation of the sunspot area is the best criterion of the solar flare, because the sunspot area is the largest part of the sun, and the ratio of sunspot area to solar disk is about 3 per cent, and in all the observations made here nothing like the ratio would differ by more than 3 per cent."

New Black Walnut Found
Splits Like English Type

New York A young American black walnut which splits like the wood of the standard English walnut at the age of one year. In two years it is the promise of Prof. J. Russell Smith of the Bureau of Agriculture School of Botany, who reports that he has several grafted specimens growing on his farm near Roanoke, Va. The hard woody partitions in the shell that just enough work for the nut to split away black & tenuis are found in the new variety which probably are called a chance mutant or "sport" in the nut and timber.

It is pointed out that native walnut trees of this kind offer considerable promise for the development of an American nut-growing industry. English walnuts which in point of fact came to this country from Sicily and southern France, are too tender to grow profitably north of California, Florida and other Southern states, whereas the native black walnut thrives in the woods clear up to the Canadian border and beyond.

The Northern Nut Growers' association, of which Professor Smith is a member, is offering a prize of $50 for the discovery of the best black walnut trees in America.

United at Prison Gate

Pontiac, Mich.—A father and son aged respectively ninety and fifty, who had never seen each other before, met for the first time. The meeting was conducted with great solemnity at the prison gate.

Fifty years ago a peasant from the interior of Sicily was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder. He was told that on the same day his wife had given birth to a son.

When the convict's son was twenty, he learned his father had been convicted on the false testimony of two witnesses. These the son promptly exonerated and set free. For this crime the son was sentenced to 30 years penal servitude. On the day of the son's release, the father received a pardon.

BRIGHTON MAN VOTED FOR 17
PRESIDENTS

After John J. Tauter walked through the voting booths here on Tuesday a week ago, he cast his thirty-third ballot at a general election, a record of which few people can boast.

Mr. Tauter is now past 88 years of age. He cast his first vote in the fall of 1860 for Abraham Lincoln, the first Republican candidate ever elected to the chief office of the United States, and he has voted at sixteen presidential elections since that time every time for the Republican candidate. His choice was elected every time but four.

He was living in the state of New York when he cast his ballot for Lincoln in 1860 and 1864, but since that time he has voted in Brighton.

The Missing Magazine

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

"MOTHER, darling, honestly, I don't think there's anyone in the whole world who can collect more magazines than you can. You just been up in the lost and found barrels and trunks, everything stuffed full of old magazines."

"Mother, darling," Endi grinned. "Just think how useful they would be if we wanted to start a shop. Once when I was in London I saw a shop filled with old magazines, and they were all selling for six pence and three pence. Years and years old they were, too, so—"

"My word, I'd like to have ten cents for everyone about this place. Mother!" she broke out as inspiration seized her. "I could start around in the old bus and sell magazines to all the country people who never get a look at one—wouldn't that be a grand idea? It would help Dad a lot if I could make a little money, so easily."

"What an idea—you mean you would drive about with a car full of magazines, just like an old clothes man?"

"Just about," laughed Endi. "Only I wouldn't ring a bell all the time. I would just go about to the isolated people and I'll bet it will be a blessing to them—magazines don't go out of date as far as reading matter goes."

"It is really a good idea and we can buy father some of those new incubators he wants so badly."

"I think mother wants them as much as Dad," laughed Endi again, and you really think you can sacrifice some of the magazines?"

"I can start right away to collect more," laughed her mother.

It was no time at all before Endi was started on her route. She had painted up the old delivery wagon that her father delivered chicks in and fitted it with shelves. Outside she had a large sign bearing the words "The Magazine Shop."

Endi found her way to the straggling clumps of small houses in outlying districts that boasted nothing more than mud roads. It was remarkable how seemingly starved some of the country people were for somethings in the nature of reading material and poor books, and got very close to the lives of many of her friends and how thoroughly they knew her. Many times her mother came along with her and Mrs. Crawford took to bringing along a loaf of tamales, coffee, tops and little sandwiches, eating them here and there which she made in her spare time. They sold well.

The new incubators could be purchased almost any time so she set off for the laundry shop.

But there was just space in store for them than any of the suspected nests, least until Jack Darvin rode into the scene on his bicycle.

The two women ate the far glad to know at first whether he was following them for illicit possibilities or whether he was merely trying to see if he could cover the road at the same speed as Endi.

Instead, he was trying to let them know that he wanted to see their wives. "I want something to read," he breathlessly informed them.

Swiftly observing that he was not the type of person she had been selling to, she sold a lovely smile. "We only have very old magazines—nothing of later vintage than last November."

Darwin laughed. "Nine months is young for a baby, but a magazine! Still, some stories are useless. Let's have a look."

Endi opened the doors of the van and let Darwin take his time at her neatly arranged shelves.

"I say, you have some old ones," he muttered. Then, suddenly, he turned. "Is there a chance in the world that you would have any Ramblers that would have any Ramblers of ten years back? If you had the one I want, well—it might mean a small fortune for all of us."

"What's it all about?" inquired Mrs. Crawford. "Yes, I had all the Ramblers once—but you see we have sold heaps of magazines—the one you want might be gone."

Darwin was quite excited by now. "I had a story in the Rambler of December, either nine or ten years ago. It has been put on the screen—with my name—well, in fact it's been stolen. My lawyers are at work. I've been a bit up against it since I have lost the only published copy I had. It—"

"It," said Endi, suddenly, "you can put your bike on the top and hop in with us you can go up in the loft and have a look. It's well worth it."

A moment later the three now excited people were speeding up toward home and mother's collection of magazines.

Dusty and covered with cobwebs, three hours later Endi and Jack came triumphantly down with the magazine they sought.

"If I win my case—and there's no reason why I can't—it will mean something like a fifty thousand-dollar check—they've made a super-picture from this story." He was laughing and so was Endi and it was not entirely due to the finding of the story.

Endi, one another had much to do with it."

"Mother, darling," Endi shouted, "your passion for magazine collecting will probably be the means of giving Mr. Darvin a big success and—"

"Far greater success than anyone can for the moment suspect," said Jack Darvin and dashed a look toward Endi.

INHERITS FORTUNE AS GIRL SAYS YES

Youth Needed Bride to Collect Inheritance.

Chicago—There is romance in Chicago—urban girls included.

A tiny, three-letter word, spoken by a pretty Chicago model, not only sealed the fate of $12,000,000 and fortune in Texas ranchland, but so altered the duties of a squad of motorcycle policemen that they carried the girl and her sweetheart to and from the altar into wealth and happiness.

Martha Marcelline O'Hara, 2613 Magnolia Avenue, is the heroine of the fantastic chapter, out of real life.

Her husband, Pat F. O'Hara, Chicago's newest multi-millionaire, is now in Texas, where he awaits the final word that will make him the master of a veritable kingdom of wealth in the Lone Star state.

O'Hara is heir to the estate of his foster mother, the late Mrs. Claude King of Kingsville, Texas, valued at more than $12,500,000.

It was in a Niles Center cafe that O'Hara made his last proposal to the girl who is now his wife.

Within six months he must be married or lose the estate. That was one of the conditions of the inheritance.

Once more he asked the girl,

"Yes," came the gleaming reply.

O'Hara blushed. "It was hard to believe."

The clock struck eleven. A hurried consultation of the assembled friends followed—a borrowed ring—whispered word to a motorcycle cop, and soon O'Hara, his Finnish bride-to-be and their friends were sailing over the roads of Niles Center.

In a tiny, gable-roofed building that serves Niles Center both as firehouse and courtroom, the pair were married at midnight by Judge Pat J. Collins. O'Hara had obtained the license two days previous.

It was the magistrate's first ceremony. Mrs. O'Hara smiled, and while the wedding group waited, the magistrate, with a gracious gesture ordered a police car for the couple out of Niles Center.

Our policeman responded. Peering the way, the police soon brought the girls to the station. There, with a quick consultation, the wedding was completed.

They will not come into exposure of the state until the next birth day, November 26. Until that date, she will be twenty-five years old, the bride, 26, twelve four.

Swiss "Cowgirl," Chic

Dresser Likes Pipe

Geneva, Miss Helene Cottin, is a Swiss "cowgirl" who rides the valley and mountains of the canton of Valais looking after her numerous herd of cattle.

"But what the cattle see, if they look her way, is not the sharp and bright shirts of the Western cowgirls but the softness of a silk-robed woman dressed in the swankiest things in riding togs, smart boots and tailored houses fast in gay of a quantity.

Miss Cottin has her reddish hair in the confines of a bright red bandkerchief and sometimes she smokes a pipe.

Miss Cottin prefers the tailored outfit it fits her physique but when cigarettes dwindle away as they will on the range, out comes her pipe.

Many suitors seek out Miss Cottin in the seduction of her Swiss valley, but Miss Cottin is a particular young lady, and until recently was riding her range alone.

TWO LITTLE WANDERERS FOUND REAR NOVE

Hungry and too tired to be much interested in what was going on about them, John Stack, 11 years, and Frank Stanis, who could not give his age, were picked up late Saturday afternoon by Deputy Myron B. McGrath at Novi. Orphans at the St. Vincent home in Detroit, they have been "farmed" out to the home of William Gaffey, seven miles north of Howell and had become weary of staying there.

"We had to work too long hours and got tired of it," they told Sheriff Frank Schram and deputies, Saturday night when brought to the jail. Their clothing was threadbare, and Stanis, the spokesman, was wearing an army coat and men's boots, which he admitted, had become "pretty heavy" during the long walk Saturday.

The boys were placed in the detention home, and were to be sent back to the Detroit institution—Pontiac Daily Press.

U. S. TO RECOGNIZE DIAZ IN NICARAGUA

Other Nations Are Warned to Keep Their Hands Off.

Washington—Secretary of State Kellogg has announced that the United States government has accorded formal recognition to the government of President Diaz in Nicaragua. At the same time Secretary Kellogg sounded a warning to outside nations to cease gun-running and all forms of interference in the affairs of Nicaragua.

It developed that there was more than the formal recognition of the Diaz regime. It became known that immediately upon his recognition President Diaz had made an appeal for American aid against the machinations of President Calles of Mexico and that the significance of Secretary Kellogg's statement became doubly impressive.

What action the administration will take on the Diaz request for intervention cannot be foretold. It is known that the administration has had knowledge of the filibustering expeditions to Nicaragua and Guatemala and it is said that these expeditions indicate that there may have been connivance on the part of Mexico.

It is believed that recent developments only add to the seriousness of the relations between the United States and Mexico.

The language which was inserted as a warning to other nations to let Nicaragua alone in the future was used by Secretary Kellogg in connection with an expression of hope that the Liberals will accept offers of amnesty, which it is understood President Diaz will make to them.

"I sincerely hope," said Secretary Kellogg, "that this offer, if made, will be accepted by the Liberals since only by co-operation between all factions can peace and tranquility be restored to that country now so unhappy by revolutions, a condition which has invited interference from outside sources, a state of affairs which must cause concern to every friend of stability in Central America."

WASHINGTON BRIEFS

Men entrusted with drafting bills to supply the money for the rural government are so far advanced that the whole batch of supply measures should be passed by January 20, Representative Martin Mandel, chairman of the house ways and means committee, announced.

The Navy department was asked to adopt the Henry Ford plan of a five-day week in all naval yards. The request was made by James O'Connell, head of the metal trades section of the American Federation of Labor. He also asked that the wage scale for metal workers be increased.

Queen Marie Hurrying Back to the Sick King

Bucharest—Rumania—Official denial was issued by the government to stories that Queen Marie had been recalled from her tour of the United States because of King Ferdinand's health. The king is better, the statement added.

New York—Queen Marie is returning to Rumania on her own initiative because of her concern over the condition of King Ferdinand, said a statement issued in her behalf after she had read a Bucharest dispatch saying government officials had not asked her early return. It stated:

"Her Majesty has received no official call to return, but since there have been so many conflicting reports regarding the king's health and she has not had any definite news she feels she must return at once to ascertain truth in these reports. She is therefore leaving on her private liner the Berengaria on November 24."
