WHY NOT A BOYS' BAND FOR NORTHLVILLE?

At a meeting of the Rotary Club on Monday, F. S. Harmon addressed the meeting briefly on the question of a boys' band for Northville, relating the success that has been attained by a similar organization at Greenville, which has a membership of 60 boys from the city schools. He expressed the belief that if the village would expend an amount equal to what is being paid annually for a band during the summer months that the boys and young men of Northville could be interested in the proposition, and that a great deal of good could be accomplished. Mr. Harmon's remarks were well received, and, doubtless, steps will be taken to put the proposition before the boys of the community.

SOME DIFFERENT IN NORTHLVILLE

Monday morning's mail brought a letter from our good old friend, W. E. Ambler, written at Pasadena, Calif., November 30th, in which he told of the delightful summer weather out there in the golden west. He writes:

"We are having fine weather here, about 70 degrees through the day and about 50 at night. Days had two days' rain which is rather early for this country and grass and crops are looking fine. All of the people living here who came from Northville are doing well and all are looking fine. Suppose old Northville is boom as usual."

Mrs. George F. Fowler of Detroit is spending part of the winter in Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ambler's home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ambler expect to go to Thanksgiving. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. and Mrs. G. M. Johnson of Ridgway Beach, Mrs. George F. Fowler of Detroit, Master Billy Schuyler of Northville, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Ambler, and son and Mrs. Eva Clarkson of Pasadena.

OBITUARY

Mr. McLean Burrows passed away on October 2nd, at the home of her daughter on Leonard Kimmel on Franklin Avenue, to whose home she had recently come for a visit. Previous to her coming to Northville, she remained with her daughter, Mrs. G. D. Davis, in Cleveland, Ohio, who with her husband attended the funeral.

She was born in Michigan, November 13, 1846. In 1868, she was united in marriage to Leonard Burrows, and to the union were born three children—two daughters, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Doris Kimmel, and one son, Milton, who passed away in 1916. There are also four grandchildren, Leonard, Albert and Ray Kimmel, and Mrs. Katherine Kimmel Elliott, and four great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Sunday at 12:30, at the home of Leonard Kimmel, and were conducted by Rev. William Richards. Interment took place at Rural Hill cemetery.

GEORGE HIESTON DIED TUESDAY MORNING

George Hieston, who had spent his whole life in this community, died at the Sessions hospital, early Tuesday morning, after a few weeks' illness. He grew to manhood in this locality, and for more than thirty-five years conducted a drug store in Northville.

Since retiring from business, he has lived quietly here, and at times has assisted in local drug stores, and for several months was in charge of the drug store at Waller Lake, which was established by J. L. Johnson.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. H. E. Lake of Detroit and Mrs. Maij Horton of Denver, Colorado. He was a member of Northville Lodge, F. & A. M., and was held in high esteem by the people of this section.

THIS IS HERE TO MAIL EARLY

With only 14 shopping days remaining until Christmas, the Northville postoffice officials are urging early and often mailing of Christmas parcels within the next two weeks. Unless patrons heed the advice there may be congestion on the mail trains out of the state.

Postmaster Neal urges careful wrapping, packing, addressing and handling of Christmas parcels. He emphasizes the necessity of affixing to each parcel the return address of the sender and sufficient postage to pay its transmission.

To assist the regular force of clerks, the postmaster has engaged several extra employees for the Christmas week.

The annual inspection of Northville Commandery will take place on Tuesday night, with a number of Grand Commandery officers in attendance at the meeting.

Provided Breakfastfor Old Santa Claus

"DO YOU think?" inquired small David of his father, "that Santa is coming 'bout this time?"

"Why, not quite so early, son. A little later, perhaps. Still, if you listen carefully, perhaps you can hear his bells."

Small David stood on tip-toe near the window and cocked his pink ears. "I think," he said slowly, "I think I hear 'em!"

The family father forgot small David in the next half hour. There was much to do. But finally father looked up. "Where's the boy?" he asked.

David had disappeared. They scurried about hunting for him in every room. No David. Then some one heard a faint noise on the front porch. Father stepped out to see what it was.

A small, squat figure in very short pants was bending over something.

"Son," called father, "what are you doing out here?"

"S-s-h," warned small David.

Father stepped nearer. "See," said small David reaching up on tip-toe to whisper. "See, I brought out a bowl of breakfast food for Santa Claus. He might get hungry."

Father gathered up his son, amused and pleased.

"That's the very first time I ever knew of any one thinking about Santa's comfort. Bless you, boy! That's the right holiday spirit!"

Next morning small David found a note pinned to his stocking:

THANK YOU
MY BOWL OF BREAKFAST FOOD
FOR SANTA CLAUS

His Christmas Dream and It All Came True

HE WAS such a beautiful little darling that his mother looked at him and forgot what she was going to say, when she was about to give him a lecture about pulling the cat's tail. And when he went with her to the hospital with a basket of flowers, and passed up and down the wards with a smile and a Christmas flower for every sufferer, they told, as though an angel had appeared again, it was an old gozzi from at home that he had a dream, in which he had day dreams as well as night dreams. There he entertained "Mr. Bedouin," and "Betty Bostockle" and his brother "David." On the gloomy shelf was a book for Santa Claus, and now? It was a writer, that registered a name of his own. He preferred "the old chaps" rather than "the new ones."

He confided with his white pony, "Betty," about the chimney that served as a screen for his cottage, because this young automobility. There must have been a smile in the eye. It was an all of happy thoughts and sweet, fair number. "Listen," he said to Mr. Bedouin. "Dear them, darling," "Betty," he cried, "lets most here I look, Betty, look there's the star!"

And it was on that very nice bright night that imagination, like vision, met the darkness and left the glorious light of Christmas morning—Christopher G. Hazell.

Singing Christmas Carols

Christmas carols will, of course, add beauty to the holiday season. Also they will bring about an increase in community singing.

Flowers for Christmas

When flowers are at a premium, why not give a few daffodils or a potted plant as a Christmas present to the woman who loves flowers?

Children and Christmas

It is good to be children sometimes, and never better than at Christmas, when its mighty Founder was a child Himself.—Dickens.

Christmas Team Work—and It Was for Keeps

IT HADN'T been a good Christmas season for the little maiden lady in her little Economy store. Economy was shap name for it—only the strictest economy prevailed there.

The next day was the last before Christmas, she reasoned, and a lot of her cheap toys were not sold.

The little maiden lady made a resolution. She had always wanted to be rich; that she might bestow fine presents upon all the boys and girls. She liked boys and girls, but, so she knew, they always treated her distantly when she made over timid overtures. It was very evident she was never going to be fiddle—she would do something else; so she made a big sign and put it in her window:

"A Christmas toy for each of the first fifty children who come in, at four o'clock, the day before Christmas."

Miss Watkins didn't think there were fifty in the whole town, but she was mistaken. At four o'clock the next day they came trooping in—in such numbers, she never knew how many toys she gave away.

"It was all exciting and very thrilling. It was the most fun she had ever had. The 'Thank-yous' and the 'Merry Christmases' were all so genuine and overwhelming, and right in the midst of it who should appear but the kind-faced, half-hadded gentleman who kept the small candy stores across the street and who invited them all over to take of his wares. He looks like Santa Claus himself with his round, rosy cheeks, blue eyes, and white hair curling over his fur collar.

When everything was quiet once more and Miss Watkins sat with folded hands thinking about the Christmas joy the simple giving had brought to her, Santa Claus from across the street again appeared.

"Pretty good team work we made of it didn't we, Miss Watkins?" he chuckled.

And Miss Watkins uttered a surprised "Yes, indeed!"

Santa Claus chuckled again and put his hands on the surprised lady's shoulders.

"Don't you think we could team it together, the rest of our lives?"

And Miss Watkins looked up and blushingly stammered:

"Yes, indeed!"—Florence Harris

CHRISTMAS TREES

THE only kind of trees that interest me at this time is a year old Christmas tree. I wonder, if you know, that a Christmas tree may be a hundred years old, a century or more, or even a single year, according to an arborist value, but the ones which are the most popular Christmas trees are the

A spruce Christmas tree has stiff needles, sharp and pointed, that stand out stiff and upright.

A hemlock Christmas tree needs that needles that are parted very much like the hemlock only each separate needle seems to be parted on its under side, too. Very likely your tree will be one of those three.

The pine is the well known for much description. It has two forms of leaves—the primary small and scale-like and the secondary—long and in clusters of various numbers. There are many species, from a few feet high to over a hundred.

The cedar is of an old family. It is the well known Cedar of Lebanon. It is of slow growth very hard wood and much used in manufacturing lead pencils. All are fragrant and very popular for Christmas trees.—Frank Herbert Sweet.

The Town's Christmasan Enjoyable Affair

IT WAS the town's idea. Of course you may say how absurd that statement is, that a town cannot have an idea because a town is not a person.

But when many people in a town all have the same public-spirited feelings and interest in others, you can almost say that the town itself is different from other towns—more generous, more thoughtful—just as you will speak of a person.

So the town lined its streets with Christmas trees and lighted them with twinkling lights.

And the town invited all the parents and all the children from the surrounding countryside to come to the town any night during the week from Christmas to New Year's when a concert of Christmas music was given by the village band, and when hot soup and biscuits were served to every Hister.

And the town never enjoyed itself as much before—Mary Graham Bonner.

Northville School Notes

In the preceding weeks, various teachers have been directing assembly programs. Last week, Thursday morning, the program was directed by Miss Hoag. The announcer in the person of Louis Tiffis, did his share toward the success of the entertainment. The program was opened by a poem called, "Ballad of Hard Luck Henry," recited by Marguerite Warner. The curtains were drawn, and the play, entitled "Uncle Dickie's Mistake," was announced. Those taking part were Richard Covington, a fine old gentleman from New York, and who when anything was done or said made a note of it on the spot. This part was taken by Alec Milne, Clarence Covington's nephew, or Mr. Covington was taken by Kenneth Martins. He was a gay sort of a person, and depended on his smile for everything, especially money. He even asked his uncle to propose to his sweetheart for him. Mrs. Livingston, a charming young widow, was also interested in anyone who had money, was taken by Irene Gotts, Little Livingston's niece of Mrs. Livingston, a young lady who could not control her heart, but could control her hand, was taken by Hazel Backing, Sammie's nephew, son of Mrs. Livingston, and who was sad because his mother's dawdling was taken by Tom Woodbury.

The next part of the program was taken by Sammie, son of Mrs. Livingston, a charming young widow, who was interested in anyone who had money, was taken by Irene Gotts, Little Livingston's niece of Mrs. Livingston, a young lady who could not control her heart, but could

Radiator Protection

GLYCERINE

Glycerine and water is undoubtedly the best solution to prevent freezing of automobile radiators in low temperatures, and while comparatively new to the general public, it has been used with marked success and satisfaction for a number of years.

Some of the Proved Advantages are:

1. Glycerine will not evaporate at maximum radiator temperatures, therefore the solution will remain at full strength throughout the winter.
2. Glycerine is practically odorless and non-volatile, therefore in using this solution there are no disagreeable odors or unpleasant volatile vapors. $3.00 per Gallon.

The Magic Touch of Christmas by Thomas Taylor

TRANSFORMED and filled with sacred light,
With music lifting and subduing,
Inspiring like a Gothic arch,
Or like a great Homeric rhyme—
So all appears; again has come
The joys of Christmas time.

What magic power has swept the land?
Good-will to men where yesterday
Most had forgot the lessons taught
That night to shepherds far away!
The prince of peace again has come
With his celestial sway.

More wondrous than the Midas touch
That turned the flowers and walls to gold,
That spirit that transforms where'er
The story of the Christ is told;
And adds a splendor to surpass
All Eden's flames of old.

So in the madding rush of life
Let us remember why he came
And tasted sorrow; let us pause
To honor one, claim his name,
Whose loving kindness and whose law
Will ever be the same.

His plan, though unfulfilled today,
Must last till skies and starlight fade,
Enhancing all the things of life
For human joy and welfare made,
And spreading radiance far and wide
To farthest waste and glade.

The Magi, following the star,
Had learned the golden lesson well
Of why One from beyond those heights
Should come to earth to humbly dwell,
Each knew the thrill we feel today
Of sleigh and Christmas bell.

They saw before the winding way
O'er wastes and plains of striving years—
And farther on, beyond it all,
The shining castles free from tears,
Where some day man shall know the truth
And drop his hates and fears.

Peace on the earth, good-will to men—
At last they'll reign from shore to shore,
Unceasing, bearing perfect light;
Then on the desert sands of yore
The rose and lily shall appear
To bloom forevermore.

AUTOMOBILE CRASHED INTO TRUCK PARKED ON PAVEMENT

A heavy truck parked on the Bennett Avenue, New Hudson, Saturday, Nov. 25, was responsible for a head-on accident early Wednesday morning in which four Brighton people and a Brighton automobile scored conspicuously. Clifford Roberts, driving his own Oakland car, with Harold Seger and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clark, were returning from a dance near Wyandotte at which they had played, and soon after turning west on Grand River crashed into the truck, which, it is said, had no lights or rear light.

All four of the occupants were more or less injured and were brought to the Melius Hospital in Brighton for treatment. Harold Seger, riding in the front seat, was the most seriously hurt. His scalp was badly cut and it took about a hundred stitches to close the wound. Mr. Roberts, at the wheel received only a cut on the forehead. Mr. and Mrs. Clark's injuries were not serious and all four went to their homes after treatment. The automobile was badly damaged.

WAYNE HAST TWO CHAMPION FOOTBALL TEAMS

The town boys' side to a 7-0 victory over Northville Thanksgiving Day for their last game of the season. It was a "tug and tuck" affair up until the last quarter when a cleverly executed pass, Smith to Koester, prevented the game from being a tie.

Field conditions were such that no spectacular open field running could be expected. In fact the running was more on the sliding method of advance. A lot of credit can be given to both teams who fought and the really fought out in the mud and slush of that field. This is one time among many others when the Wayne boys really showed their metal and their worth. Although they were not directly responsible for the goal, indirectly they can be well credited with the victory.

Northville's men had determination written all over their mud-splashed faces when Wayne with the ball on Northville's one yard line, failed to buck it over. It was truly a battle and something to be thankful for in more ways than one. Once again may the town of Wayne blow their trumpet of victory and boast to the neighboring principalities of two champion football teams—Wayne Weekly.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

Grand Rapids—Two-year-old Janet Louise Buys, daughter of Sybil Buys, died recently after having swallowed poison pills, which she found while at play.

Lansing—The state two-cent gasoline tax netted $821,470 in October, according to a report completed by the department of state. In 10 months of this year, the levy has yielded more than $3,000,000.

Mason—L. H. Laylin, Mason farmer, was awarded title of "hay king of the world" at the International Livestock exposition held at Chicago. Laylin's exhibit was a mixed variety of timothy and clover.

Detroit—All records were broken when 20,705 persons paid their state and county taxes for 1926 on the opening day for the collections in Wayne county. On the opening day for the 1925 collections only 3,500 bills were paid.

Detroit—Over a period of 26 years, the number of factories in Detroit has increased from 1,263 to 3,500, and the total number of wage earners from $3,431 to 405,000. The transient industrial history of Detroit is as startling as it is interesting.

Iron River—Ortiz Geissler, 44 years old, was instantly killed in the Rogers Mine as he was walking through a tunnel to the shaft, going off shift. Geissler walked past a spot where another crew was dynamiting as the charges of dynamite were exploded.

Lansing—Measures are being prepared by the assistant attorney general to be presented to the next legislature, providing for the elimination from the statute books of about 150 obsolete laws and more than 300 ineffective sections of various statutes.

Saginaw—Saginaw's junior board of commerce will further plans for establishing an airport in Saginaw, according to Arthur Wenzel, president of the organization. The project was undertaken some time ago and temporarily dropped and it is understood that a new site for the airport will be proposed.

Adrian—Contracts for the construction of three grade buildings, costing $287,825 have been awarded by the Adrian school board. The buildings to be constructed are one of 12 rooms, on the west side; one of 10 rooms in the south part of the city; and another of eight rooms in the northeast part of the city. Construction will start immediately.

Menominee—Whitbying and stamping of his team of farm horses brought aid to W. L. Flynn, of Menominee County, Wis., who was stricken with paralysis while caring for the animals. He was found by his small son, unconscious and lying between the horses, which were crowded to opposite sides of the stall, careful not to harm him.

Michigan—For the loss of his 10-year-old Mary Nagy, 10-year-old of Monroe obtained a judgment against the Michigan Central Railroad of $12,500. This girl was crossing Third Street and the railroad at Monroe on Jan. 2 last when two freight cars were suddenly coupled together, pinning her leg between the couplers of the car. Her father obtained a judgment of $2,000 in addition for loss of her services during her minority.

Saginaw—Fire, believed to have started from defective wiring, destroyed one barn and damaged two other structures on the large dairy farm, near Hemlock, owned by former Representative Joseph W. Fordney. The loss is estimated at $40,000. Fire departments from Saginaw, Hemlock and Merrill responded to the blaze and prevented destruction of all the farm buildings. Farm employees and neighbors rescued prize cattle valued at $20,000.

Detroit—Group life insurance exceeding $10,000,000 has been taken out by General Motors Corporation with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for more than 300,000 employees who have been on the pay roll three months or longer. The policy covers each worker for $1,000 without medical examination. All new employees will become eligible after serving three months. General Motors has plants in 36 cities in the United States and Canada, and in 17 overseas countries.

Custer—The thirtieth anniversary of rural free mail delivery service in the United States was celebrated here at the monthly meeting of the rural letter carriers' association of Kalamazoo County. Postal workers from all parts of Michigan were present. Tribute was paid to Willis Lawrence, one of three rural carriers who inaugurated the service Dec. 3, 1896. Lawrence is still carrying mail on the route which he started 30 years ago. In his 30 years Lawrence used 21 horses and three mules.

Ann Arbor—Appropriation of $18,000 by Daniel Guggenheim, for completion of the aeronautical laboratory and for the establishment of the Daniel Guggenheim professorship of applied aerodynamics at the University of Michigan, has been announced here. Of the appropriation, $28,000 will be used to complete laboratory apparatus and to construct new testing and research instruments. The remainder of the appropriation will be paid in installments of $5,000 a year over a period of 16 years for the establishment of the professorship.

Lansing—Postage service across the straits of Mackinac has been discontinued for the winter months. The letters will be placed in dock at Cheboygan for the winter.

Detroit—Heralding the holidays, the first load of Christmas trees arrived in Detroit recently, and were inspected by United States customs agents. More than 1,300 trees arrived in the first shipment from Terrebonne, Que., and more are expected until the holidays are over. The trees are inspected against a disease spread by the gypsy moth which is found in Canada.

Sault Ste. Marie—As a result of the recent severe storm in the Upper Peninsula, all upper-lakes navigation and automobile traffic was practically at a standstill. Hundreds of cars were abandoned by hunters in their precipitous flight from the snow-swept hunting areas. Many hunters sold their cars for what they could get and hit the trail for lower Michigan. Ice is forming rapidly in rivers and a premature end to the shipping season is predicted.

Alpena—The idea that men's feet are larger than women's is nothing more nor less than a myth, at least this is the opinion of the director of the University of Michigan Union opera, who has just ordered 400 pairs of shoes to be used by the female cast uses of the show this year. Of the 400 pairs of shoes that were ordered very few are larger than the ordinary sizes worn by women. They will be used by the men students playing female roles in the opera "Front Page Story."

Detroit—The Great Lakes carried practically 41 per cent of the entire water-borne commerce of the United States in 1925, a survey by the Bureau of Research, United States Shipping Board, reveals. This commerce last year increased 21,000,000 tons, which represents an increase of 11.7 per cent. Duluth-Superior, with a total of 45,600,000, ranks second to New York. Fifteen other Great Lakes ports, among them Detroit, handled more than 5,000,000 tons of freight each.

Lansing—An American eagle, measuring six feet from tip to wing, was found by Milton Williams while hunting on a farm, north of here. The bird was dead, lying on the ground when found, and on examination was found to be filled with porcupine quills, the disposition being that the eagle had attacked the animal as prey and received injuries in the scuffle that proved fatal. The right side and right wing of the bird were filled with the porcupine quills, wag also its mouth.

Lansing—The abstract of reports in the $31 incorporated state bank and three industrial banks of Michigan show that the combined accounts June 30, were $1,379,032,167.41, up $2,110,546,25,88, an increase of $2,553,198.6. The combined commercial accounts June 30 were $40,552,493.26, and, on Oct. 1, $46,401,757.78, the combined non-current accounts on June 30, were $7,700,151.61, while the commercial deposits show a decrease of $8,417,946. The savings deposits increased $6,772,98.

Lansing—Eight million visitors to Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan this year have yielded a gross income to the three states of some $400,000,000. Michigan drew more than three million, and Minnesota a million and a half, while Wisconsin nearly a million more than its equivalent population. Most of the tourists show an increase of 25 per cent over last year. One accurate compilation is the number of non-resident fishing licenses issued. Michigan sold 75,000 such permits, Wisconsin 60,000 and Minnesota 22,000.

Lansing—William A. Constock's vote for Governor on the Democratic State ticket Nov. 2, was 227,165.

The average vote of the six other candidates on the ticket with him was 152,500. Mr. Constock polled 74,655 more votes than the average for each of the other six candidates on the party state ticket. Except Woodbridge N. Ferris, in his tour campaign for Governor and once for United States Senator, no other Democrat in the history of the State has made such a fine showing record in a Michigan general election.

Marquette—Sliding in a wheel chair into a wogfall which served as a support for his wife, Joseph J. Schnitzler, prominent lawyer of Mount Pleasant, who is legless and has only one arm shot 187 pound buck in the woods near Deer Harbor. His friends carried him in his wheel chair from their hunting camp to a deer runway and left him there while they tramped through the woods around him to "stir up" deer. Within a few minutes a big buck came trotting along the runway and Schnitzler brought him down with one shot.

Saginaw—The case of a boy, 14 years old, who has the highly developed instincts of a hardened criminal, has forced several checks and stolen considerable money, yet who numbers Kras and Kipling among his favored authors and takes keen delight in the works recently published by one of the country's leading criminologists, was taken before Probate Judge Tessin recently. The judge suspended his sentence to the Industrial school at Lansing, pending further consideration of his case.

NORTHVILLE DEBATES AT NEW HUDSON TONIGHT

Hudson High School on the affirmative will debate New Hudson High School on the negative in New Hudson on Friday evening December 16th, tonight.

The subject of this debate is, "Resolved, That the United States Government Should Own the Coal Mines."

The team that will represent the High School in this debate is being coached by Superintendent W. H. Gordon.

On the same date 230 High schools of the state (all members of the Michigan High School Debating League), will meet in 115 debates in which 650 High school pupils will participate.

The subject of all these debates will be, "Resolved, That the United States Government Should Own the Coal Mines."

These debates will be the second of the four preliminary debates sponsored by the Michigan High School Debating League. The remaining two preliminary debates will be held on the following dates:

Third—January 14th, 1927.

Fourth—February 11th, 1927.

After the 230 High schools have participated in these four preliminary debates, the schools with the highest records will enter the elimination series of debates. These elimination series will be by successive debates, eliminate all schools except two which will come to Ann Arbor for the final state championship debate in May.

Rep was just received from the first preliminary debates held on November 19th in which the 230 High schools took part, making an almost even break between the two sides.

Ever since the debates began, stories throughout the state

UNCLE JIM'S CHRISTMAS

By MARION E. REAGAN

IT WAS just a week before Christmas. The Jacksons—that is to say, the J. J.'s, the R. P.'s and the W. J. Jacksons—had all met in the home of the latter to discuss what was bestred to meet their predicament. The oldest son of the W. J. Jacksons had just come into business some few months before and his father and his two brothers, J. L. and R. P., had endorsed his efforts. In the meantime, the business had failed and the Jacksons were now called upon to make things go good. No job, as they certainly would have to do, seemed to sacrifice what little they had, and none of them was any too prosperous.

"How about asking Uncle Jim for the money?" R. P. suggested. "He's rich enough and lenient enough." His wife interrupted his wife. "But you forget he's just as tight as he is rich and there isn't one of us that ever indulges on him's new Census Wife ham, eaten four years ago."

"That's all right," replied her husband. "People get salaries again at Christmas time, and you never get anything in this world unless you ask for it."

Everyone agreed that when R. P. said "wasteful" words, but none would stoop to ask a favor of him. It wouldn't do, that was all. It wouldn't do.

However, after the little gathering broke up and the families went on their various ways, each laid the idea that after all it wouldn't hurt to try Uncle Jim. They would say nothing to the rest and if it did not turn out well no one could get to know.

And so last night three letters were sent to Uncle Jim—the from R. P., the from W. J. and one from J. L. Jackson. All three letters contained the same sort of thing. The Jacksons will give three dollars from their total production of all crops.

Total production of all crops, according to the report, is apparently about 30 per cent below that last year, and in comparison to 1925, total production about 2.1 per cent above the average per capita production of the last five years. The common products of 15 important crops, including cotton, wheat, oats, corn, peas, beans, etc., appear to be about 10 per cent below the last ten-year average.

The change in the purchasing power index number in October is attributed chiefly to lowered cotton prices. All that the downward trend gives the commodity is not explainable in terms of stronger gold. Economy this year is the main crop. "Something must be done to help us," it is said. "It is impossible to say that this can be done, but we can do it."

It is not the first time that Uncle Jim has been asked to help, but the October news from the Ontario Legislature is the first time that he has been asked to do it.

Nothing doing, I suppose," he asked.

"Oh, it's much worse than that,"

said Uncle Jim. "The poor old man—well, he isn't too bad, after all he's nad-

"Let's invite him here for Christmas," suggested Mrs. J. J. It's pretty hard cold him, you know, being alone and old like that."

It was aged Mrs. J. J. who wrote:

"Dear Uncle Jim—

"We are so sorry to have bothered you with our note, but we never knew of your reversal. Won't you come and spend the Christmas holidays with us? The enclosed is a postal order for $2.50 to cover the fare. Do come."

"We are most anxious to see you."

"Your affectionate niece,

"ANN."

The peculiar thing was that precisely the same thing happened in the home of the R. P.'s and W. J.'s, with the result that Uncle Jim again received three letters from his nieces

all enclosing the fare to Cranbury for Christmas dinner.

Old Uncle Jim was genuinely touched. Of all the things that might have happened certainly this was the last he would have expected.

That night, Christmas Eve, the Jacksons met again at the J. J.'s to discuss what could be done about the note which had to be met on the 26th. They had not gotten far with their plans when the noise of a high-powered motor was heard outside and the bell rang.

"Gracious, Uncle Jim!" exclaimed

Mrs. J. J. when she opened the door.

"Of course, Uncle Jim," said the old man. "I was only teasing you when I wrote that letter. I had intended coming all along and paying off the little note. Here take these—just a few

Christmas greetings for each of you."

CHRISTMAS LONERIDGE

By GERTRUDE WALTON

HIS man says we are here for the night, and no way out of it. We're twenty-five miles from John's, too. Repairs will have to be brought four miles in a store and had to work Christmas Eve till ten o'clock. The last train for him, town left at three in the afternoon. And there was no use going up on Christmas day for just an hour, five hours each way on the train, total fare over ten dollars for one hour at home, one-third of a week's pay. No, that would be extravagant. So he had seen his mother two fine silk nightgowns as for his first absence from home on Christmas day. He thought the nightgowns would delight her, she had never had a silk one, and from the way that silk ones were displayed in the city shops, he was sure they were the thing to wear. The night gowns he had sent her, the stockings he had sent his sisters, and the ties for his brothers, had completely emptied his pockets. He always had been generous, but he enjoyed depriving himself for the happiness of others. His generosity this time, however, had gone too far, for he had nothing left with which to buy a gift for Mrs. Addison. Mrs. Addison was a young widow whom he had met recently in the city. She was a very beautiful woman and had been most kind to him. He had already been to her small apartment several times to have supper with her and her son, a college acting father, and sometimes they had all gone to a "movie" together afternoons. But she had never let him pay for their tickets, and he had never done anything to recompense her for her kindness to

IT WAS his first Christmas in the city. He could not afford to go home, nor could he have gone if from John's, too. Repairs will have to be brought four miles in a store and had to work Christmas Eve till ten o'clock. The last train for him, town left at three in the afternoon. And there was no use going up on Christmas day for just an hour, five hours each way on the train, total fare over ten dollars for one hour at home, one-third of a week's pay. No, that would be extravagant. So he had seen his mother two fine silk nightgowns as for his first absence from home on Christmas day. He thought the nightgowns would delight her, she had never had a silk one, and from the way that silk ones were displayed in the city shops, he was sure they were the thing to wear. The night gowns he had sent her, the stockings he had sent his sisters, and the ties for his brothers, had completely emptied his pockets. He always had been generous, but he enjoyed depriving himself for the happiness of others. His generosity this time, however, had gone too far, for he had nothing left with which to buy a gift for Mrs. Addison. Mrs. Addison was a young widow whom he had met recently in the city. She was a very beautiful woman and had been most kind to him. He had already been to her small apartment several times to have supper with her and her son, a college acting father, and sometimes they had all gone to a "movie" together afternoons. But she had never let him pay for their tickets, and he had never done anything to recompense her for her kindness to

These Improvements are Important

There are two general classes of motor car improvements. Those made primarily for their effect on the public—and those made primarily for their effect upon the car.

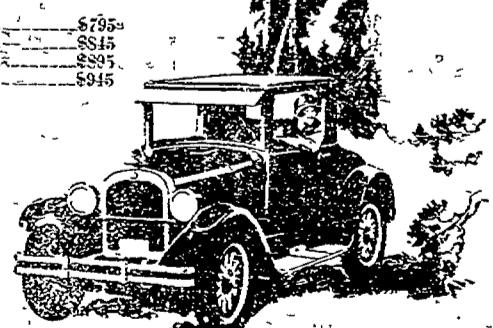

You will perceive at once that Dodge Brothers' new five-bearing crankshaft, two-unit starting and lighting system, air cleaner and other recent improvements, are the sort that represent genuine value.

They are sound and substantial betterments, producing definite and marked results, and as such they are typical of Dodge Brothers' methods and product.

MICHIGAN BELL
TELEPHONE CO.

IT WAS cold along the Seine that Christmas Eve. There was a thin rain, half snow, and a nasty, penetrating wind coming up from the ice that sent chills trembling down one's back.

Little Juliette Caret blew her breath against her hands to warm them and pulled her ragged little coat more tightly about her. She was the sole survivor of a family of four—this little, shivering tot, who stood always before the door of Notre Dame selling hoy cards and medals to people as they passed in and out of the church.

Her mother was very ill and the three other children of the family—safer than Justice—were too tired to do much work. If she would have helped to bring home some thing very special for them this Christmas!

Her way to the church this evening she had stopped to look in at the window of a patisserie shop and her heart was taken with a great cake in the center—all white with dots of large red cherries around the sides. The price was ten francs. She took out her little worn purse and counted two francs, five sous. Slowly she closed the purse and put it back in her pocket. The cake was out of the question. It would have to be a loaf of bread only.

All evening she had stood in front of the church, but had made almost nothing. Great numbers of people were coming to the midnight mass, but they all passed by little Juliette with only an annoyed "Non, non, non." A little later there was almost nobody coming. She could hear the organ playing. Mass had begun.

She would have turned home but her feet were numb with the cold.

Sipped quietly, listening to the organ.

Nothing else I could do except to go in and buy a little something for Mother.

She slipped the lame door of the cathedral, stepped quickly down the steps of the three flights and prayed fervently for her mother and little brother, pointed low, that she might somehow be able to buy them a little Christmas gift.

The last of the church after the intense cold had made her shiver. She went fast to stop and her head fell heavily against the shoulder of a man sitting next to her.

The man was an American. He was at first annoyed when he saw the little towed head with its dirty cap against his coat-sleeve, but on second glance at the pathetic little figure he was overcome with genuine emotion. "Poor little devil," he thought, "wonder what's been your short history, and what will it be in the future." He saw in her dirty little hands the strings of medals and the box of holy cards she had been trying to sell. He reached into his pocket, pulled out two crisp, 1,000-franc notes, folded them carefully and placed them on top of the cards.

Almost everyone had left the church when Juliette awoke. Mass was over; all the candles on the altar had been extinguished, the lights of the church were being put out. Juliette rubbed her eyes proselytically and with a start counted her medals to see that no one had taken any while she slept. They were all quite safe. She next turned to her box of cards and her eyes became two large moons. Two thousand francs, two thousand francs! She couldn't believe it. It was a miracle! Hadn't she prayed for money to buy her people a Christmas gift? She knelt down again, said a fervent prayer in thanksgiving; then gathered all her things together and ran quickly from the church past the confiserie shop. It was closed, of course, but the white cake was still in the window. Tomorrow morning she would go there early and buy it—buy every good thing in the shop. And still there would be enough left to buy them all clothes in the after-Christmas sales. She leaped joyously in the air. She did not feel the cold now.

"Merry Christmas," she called to an old lady who passed her. "Merry Christmas to the whole world!"

The Community Supper Really Like Christmas

"THIS community supper is always so stupid," declared a pretty girl to a small group around her. "I wish we could put some pep and fun into this one and give the people a good time. Some things really like Christmas, and not so dull."

The others looked dubious and scratched their heads. "What'll we do?" they asked.

"I know!" declared the pretty girl. "Just got the idea! Now, listen everyone! Why not imitate the way they used to do in olden times? A man lived in the gallery lots of minstrels singing and playing on horns and things hide them by screens covered with creases. Let the people get seated at the tables then pipe up with 16 songs everyone knows. Dress the minstrels in gay colors. Then have them come down the stairs singing and playing. Let them wind along the tables. Have a jester to sing and make fun of the old-fashioned ways. It will give the others a good time," added the girl, filled with enthusiasm.

"Red garlands on the tables wrapping at all the windows, waitresses with red ribbons about their heads and sprig of holly tucked over one ear."

"Not to mention," laughed a third,

"a dinner of roast turkey, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, rolls, coffee and mince pie."

"Righto!" said the rest.

And so it was done. The very merriest community supper that was ever given in that town. Patience Ed-

Sing Heigh-Ho! Unto

The Christmas Holly

OTHING quite so epitomizes the spirit of Christmas as a bough of beautiful, glowing foliage and scarlet berried holly. Holly is the quintessence of love and should, and generally does, occupy the place of honor in Christmas decorations.

There are states where the holly isn't to be found in great abundance in some sections of the South, imported supply must be used to serve the purpose. For that, decorations of green fashioned from spruce, fir, yes, even for the tree, and holly is good for this use, and in these are the choicest, six boxes from the region will suffice.

Find the best holly on the market or all Christmas trees is the best, and more expensive, but here importations from India, Ceylon, and Japan, in fact, from all parts of the world, are available. The holly is not slow to grow, and if you have a lot of space, it is a good idea to plant a few bushes. We think of it as a shrub, but it is a tree, and it may grow to a height of 15 feet or more. 6 CONVICTS TO DIE; KILLED PEN WARDEN

Joliet, Ill.—Six convicts are to die for the murder of Deputy Warden Peter N. Klein last May, was the decision of a Will county jury here. This is a record in Illinois, and as far as is known before there has been only one other case in the country in which six men were hanged for one murder. That was in New Orleans, La., two years ago.

The men doomed to die are: CHARLES JUCHOWSKI, twenty-five years old, serving a sentence of life for the murder of Police Lt. Dennis Lyons.

CARLTON STADLER, nineteen years old, under a life sentence for being a member of a gang.

WALTER WILLETT, twenty-one years old, serving a sentence of ten to life for robbery.

LEWIS WOOD, 19, serving a life sentence for murder.

CHARLES RIZZO, twenty years old, a Mexican, serving a life sentence for murder.

ROBERT TORREZ, twenty-six years old, a Mexican, serving life for robbery.

All of them but Torrez were convicted in Chicago of the crimes for which they were imprisoned in the Stateville penitentiary on May 5 when they killed Deputy Klein.

Every precaution was taken to prevent break for liberty by the six convicts, as during their trial a steel saw six inches in length was found concealed in a ditch used by Roa.

Warden Chester Green of the penitentiary had a dozen or more armed guards at the courthouse and guard sat beside each of the convicts in Judge Fred A. Hill's court as the verdict was read.

When the words "We do his judgment in this" were pronounced on the first man, Shadrack Stadler, all turned and closed the doors and windows of the courtroom.

A guard was placed over him.

The prisoners then sat silent, looking around, and the guard stood by the door, and the door was closed.

Then the judge said:

"Lew Wood, you are guilty."

"I am," he said.

"Carlton Stadler, you are guilty."

"I am," he said.

"Charles Juchowski, you are guilty."

"I am," he said.

"Charles Rizzo, you are guilty."

"I am," he said.

"Robert Torrez, you are guilty."

"I am," he said.

"Walter Willett, you are guilty."

"I am," he said.

"You are all condemned to die," the judge said.

Then the evidence showed the convicts made in ineffectual efforts to release Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., partner of Richard Loeb in the murder of Robbie Frank, but didn't get Leopold out of the cell in which he had been padlocked for stealing sugar.

The convicts then locked all other prisoners and keepers in cells and forced Capt. John Kelley, of the guards, to lead them out of the prison grounds.

That night they encountered a posse at Leonore, Ill., and five of them were recaptured. Duchowski was taken a few weeks later on the Mexican border. One of the men in the plot, James Price, has since evaded capture.

On July 1, 1926, the strength of the National Guard was 17,000, organized reserves, 6,246 members of reserve officers' training corps attending summer camps in addition to their regular training, and 37,194 young men who attended 1,728 military training camps.

On July 1, 1926, the strength of the National Guard was 17,000, that of the organized reserves 6,246 while the strength of the regular forces after the enrollment of men in the reserve officer training corps was 16,778.

The Postman and CHRISTMAS

EVER since she had been a child she had thought that the postman was about the most interesting person in the world. He it was who brought all the letters and packages and papers and magazines, who always might be bringing any number of surprises.

To be sure he often passed the house without leaving anything, but then there was always the chance that he might bring anything.

As Christmas time he was the most wonderful sort of a person, with his bag filled with presents and cards and calendars and letters from friends she was sure would not forget her, and from friends she was so pleased had not forgotten her.

Sometimes he brought just the most delicious smell of all—sometimes he brought a little cake, or a box of candy that a friend of hers had made.

So it was, that she, Minnie, had a year's loved postman in her heart, and now it seemed as though she were being particularly fond of one postman in particular. He was on their route and he often came in and chatted after the day's work was over.

She had gone to school with him and she and always liked him. The old postman was a dear—no matter how many bundles he was carrying at Christmas time he always seemed to be happy. Her heart was heavy, however, because she knew that it was more than the routine.

But she tried not to let every little thing distract her from him and kept her mind with his wife who always brought up the old story of a boy who was so displeased when his father found her men giving gifts to girls.

Not displeased at all.

Her heart was full of love for the postman's mother. And especially she seemed a little interested in her.

She was not displeased in this.

Not displeased at all.

Christmas Day in the village there would be no mail delivery. She sat with a smile, surprised to see him coming down the street and into the steps of their house.

"I wonder if we're going to have mail after all," she said to herself. "I didn't expect to hear that he was not in his post there uniform and that he was coming just to see her. To be sure he had not been off duty, but she had never quite felt he was so much interested in that he enjoyed the whole family.

She did belong to such a nice family, so jolly and cordial and friendly. They all were, and such fun.

And then it was all so clear as they sat before the fire that Christmas afternoon that he was interested in her very, very much indeed.

More so than she had even thought or hoped or dreamed.

In fact, he told her all about it. And she was not displeased.

Not displeased at all.

Not displeased at all.

For she agreed that to be a postman's wife was not such a bad idea, and that, apart from everything else, it would be so particularly nice to know that the postman was going to come to one's house every single day in the whole year—to their own house.

And, as she said, it was such fun being engaged to a postman in the Christmas season.

He had not been too busy to think of her.

Large Christmas Trees

The white pines are best for community and church Christmas trees, as their size is more adapted to larger spaces. The spruce is one of the most common of Christmas trees.

The Pine Tree and a Christmas Inspiration

THE creasing, crunching snow under foot, as well as the crisp, frosty air, bespoke a temperature some degrees below zero. However, those mid-winterers looked for, anticipated and expected a quantity of snow and cold weather for the Christmas holidays. Their expectations were usually right, with an added cold stretch to go before the days and long after them.

The hard ice of the massive building—one Central Administration building of the college was definitely conversed against the dead white boughs, fair-like snow all about. This building, as did four others, faced a huge stretch of campus, with groves of trees scattered pleasantly about to break the wide expanse. Trees, heavily hung with the almost artifical-looking cottony webbing, formed an artistic group across the road and in front of the building. In the center of the group stood a well formed, tall, perfect specimen of a long-needled pine. It was singled out to be the proud possessor of many colored lights distributed about generously among its branches. Deserving of praise was this awesome tree, and its surroundings.

Silhouetted against the sky, forming a backdrop for the proud pine tree stood the campanile, the pride of every student on the campus. In the bell, a few snowflakes were falling. The chimes were exuding the Christmas carols.

At the foot of the narrow winding staircase of iron which leads to the belfry of the campanile, upon close inspection could be seen a maid and young man—not the first time, nor would it be the last time the campanile should witness such a sight.

The meeting had been planned in view of their separation on the morrow when both would go to their homes. Moved by the sight of the proud pine, its symbolism and the clothes they bore each other farewell in fond, embracing ways, with the spirit of the forest in their hearts.

It was the year of 1920 when they were to meet again.

Defendants

An assession of said court, held at the Court House in the City of Detroit, in said County, on the 24th day of November, A. D. 1926.

Present the Hon. ADOLPH F. MARSCHNER, Circuit Judge.

In this cause, the plaintiff, in the bill of complaint, states that the defendants herein, that William Dunlap, Jabesh M. Mead, James Beat and Rachel Beat, his wife, David Gregory and Rachel S. Gregory, his wife, Mary Wheeler, Sarah Wheeler, Mary H. Wheeler, Juliaette C. Allen, Mary E. Gregory, Benjamin S. Webber and Persis J. Webber, his wife, Edward S. Horton and Frances M. Horton, his wife, Meritt F. Stanley and Minnie L. Stanley, his wife, John Hirsch, Mary Kator and Jacob Dobbins, "or their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns," are necessary and proper defendants herein, and it further appears that after diligent search and inquiry, that the said plaintiffs have been unable to ascertain the present residence of any of the persons named and whom are included as defendants herein.

On motion of William S. McNair, attorney for the plaintiffs, it is ordered that the appearance of the said defendants, William Dunlap, Jabesh M. Mead, James Beat and Rachel Beat, his wife, David Gregory and Rachel S. Gregory, his wife, Mary Wheeler, Sarah Wheeler, Mary H. Wheeler, Juliaette C. Allen, Mary E. Gregory, Benjamin S. Webber and Persis J. Webber, his wife, Edward S. Horton and Frances M. Horton, his wife, Meritt F. Stanley and Minnie L. Stanley, his wife, John Hirsch, Mary Kator and Jacob Dobbins, "or their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns," are necessary and proper defendants herein, and it further appears that after diligent search and inquiry, that the said plaintiffs have been unable to ascertain the present residence of any of the persons named and whom are included as defendants herein.

Beginning with December 1st, a health service for Wayne county schools, outside of systems employing their own school nurses, came under the direction of the county supervisor of commissioners' office. The Wayne County Board of Supervisors, at its annual meeting in October, voted to take over for the county the public health work of the American Red Cross and establish a service for the health department of the county school communities called "the Vagabond King." Another week.

Announcement by the management of the Cass Theatre, Detroit, New downtown playhouse, that "The Vagabond King," the musical play, was approaching the end of its run there, brought realization to many that they may miss this gem of a production, and the attraction brought out audiences of capacity proportions all last week. The play will remain at the Cass but a short time longer, and following its close there will journey to the Pacific coast to fill extensive engagements in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

And it is further ordered, that within twenty days the said plaintiffs serve a copy of this order to be published in the Northville Record, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said county of Wayne, that such publication be continued therein once each week for at least six successive weeks, or that they cause a copy of this order to be personally served on each of the defendants, "or their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns," at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for their appearance.

(A true copy)

ADOLPH F. MARSCHNER, Circuit Judge.

RUSSELL McCABE, Deputy Clerk.

To the Above Named Defendants:

Take notice, that the above bill of complaint is filed to quiet the title of the said plaintiffs in and to certain lands located in the Village of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, described as follows:

Land in the Village of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, described as being a part of lot 9, block 10, in said Village, to-wit: Commencing at a point in the northerly line of Main Street 101 feet 6 inches westerly from the intersection of the north line of Main street, with the west line of Randolph Street, running thence northerly 209 35 feet to a point in the northerly line of said lot 9, which point is marked by an iron pipe and is 102 62 feet westerly from the west line of Randolph Street, thence westerly 43 1/2 feet on the north line of said lot 9 to the west line of the east 45 feet of the original lot 9, as shown on the plat; thence southerly on said west line to the north line of Main Street; thence easterly on said north line 42 1/2 feet, more or less to the place of beginning.

Total of $3,474 Is Paid for Rupert B, Grand Champ at Chicago Exhibit.

Chicago.—The Twenty-seventh annual International Live Stock exposition, which has just closed here, was the greatest in its history, not only from the point of attendance, but also for the high calibre of animals shown, indicating the progress being made in breeding live stock.

Canada made the best showing of years. Among the important victories the provinces scored were in the wheat and oats championship, getting the grand-champion Clydesdale mare and stallion, as well as ribbons in other classes.

Chicago.—The world's record for beef was paid when H. B. Dubois of Wilson and Company bid $2,400 for Rupert B, the grand champion steer of the International Live Stock Show. Rupert B was owned by Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College at Stillwater. Mr. Dubois paid $800 down for the steer, the total price $3,474. The steer was bought for the Shelbourne hotel, Atlantic City, N. J. The previous best price for an International steer was $1,600.

MICHIGAN FISH WIN TOY LETTER BUNCHES

Twenty-three letters of fish which were gathered in Michigan last three years attained the weight of 3,000 pounds recently in the net given out this week by the Michigan Game and Fish department. Fourteen bassed bass, owned and reared by A. C. Landenberger, who won first place in the contest for tipping the scales at 3167 pounds. Second place went to twelve Chester White grades owned by W. S. Drage & Son, Utica.

The highest average weight gun was made by a brief of eight cross-bred Hampshire and Durac Jersey ewes. David Thompson, Akron, Ohio, These ewes averaged 27 pounds when six months old.

NORTHLAKE AUTO NOTES

This club has been a blessing to many an autoist, and the year is closing with great results. The annual meeting will be January 5th, 1927, after which date we hope to give free service with other clubs.

Everybody send the secretary their belated dues by check. The dues will probably be raised $2.00 new year to render better service.
