STINSON PLANE USED IN CREATING NEW AIR RECORDS

Local Craft Makes Longest Ocean Flight in all History.

Two thousand, six hundred twenty-five miles over ocean flying, the greatest distance ever accomplished by any flier in the record, just created by Ruth Elder in her attempt to cross the Atlantic.

And a Northville made aeroplane, a stock monoplane equipped just as all monoplanes produced in the local factory are with the exception of additional gas tanks, was used in the longest ocean flight ever made.

Miss Elder flew a thousand miles further over the ocean than Col. Lindbergh did in his flight from New York to Paris, as half of his trip was over land and all of Miss Elder's flight was over water.

Not only did Miss Elder break a new record in over ocean flying, but she made a new record for women flyers, the other aviators ever having made such a long continuous flight as Miss Elder.

Driven off her course by a terrible storm that prevailed for over 48 hours the girl and her companion landed near the Azores Islands, and were rescued by a tanker ship at sea.

The Stinson monoplane used by the girl made forced landing, and she landed in the ocean without being damaged under the water, in another accomplishment no other pilot planned to his credit.

The trip was made with perfect ease. Besides carrying two passengers, the plane was loaded with over 500 gallons of gas and 20 gallons of oil, besides 14 pounds of food. No other single plane never has been able to leave the ground with such a load.

The last portion taken of the Stinson craft as it sailed out over the ocean at New York, show that its getaway was ideal. According to statements made by Miss Elder and her pilot, no aeroplane ever ran more perfectly than did this machine, and the forced landing in the ocean due to a broken oil line, was a slight mishap that probably ended what would have been the most remarkable air flight in all history.

Even though the trip ended before the goal was reached, new records were created and new fame added to the product of Northville's fastest growing industry.

PRES. SCHRADER TELLS WHERE TO GET ROAD DATA
Says all Tourists Going South Should Have Information

President N. C. Schrader of the Northville Automobile Club, has issued a special notice to members who are contemplating driving to southern states to get in touch with the secretary of the Knoxville, Tennessee club, either by letter, or stop there and consult with him before proceeding beyond that point.

The secretary of the Knoxville club can provide you with all information needed as to what routes to follow to Florida and other southern points beyond that place. Information can be provided relative to every road to St. Petersburg, Jacksonville, Pensacola, Mobile or New Orleans.

All service is free to A. A. A. members. Scouts are on the road to give help. Due to conditions made by the Mississippi river last spring, the A. A. A. teams of mules are ready to assist motorists when the roads are bad. Northville membership will give you free service. Otherwise you pay $10 or stay stuck.

All those inquiring information, not members, are charged $1.00 by any automobile club.

Join the club Dollar Day and get the privilege from the secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. William Van Sickle, started the Dodge Hamlet Association at Wixom, Sunday, October 15, 1927.

EXCHANGE CLUB ENTERTAINED BY DETROIT VISITORS

Musical Selections Delight Members—Fred Lyke Has Charge of Program

Local Craft Makes Longest Ocean Flight in all History.

Members of the Exchange Club Wednesday noon had the pleasure of hearing two remarkably good musicians, Harold Parmalee and Wilford Hunt of Detroit. The two were guests of Fred Lyke, who had charge of the program for the day, and it proved to be one of the best in a long time.

Mr. Parmalee sang a number of selections, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Hunt. Mr. Hunt also played a number of piano selections. The two greatly delighted the large audience at the meeting and President Bunn expressed to the visitors in behalf of the organization the sincere thanks for the program they provided.

President Bunn announced that the meeting next week would be in charge of Dr. Sparling and Dr. Holcomb.

"We'll have an operation," declared Charles Pensford, as the announcement was made.

A number of Ruth doctors present opposed the Pensford suggestion and it remains to be seen what the two popular and well known doctors decide to present to the club.

Miss Whipple is highly elated over the arrival of a first premium at the Northville Wayne County Fair to her for a corn stalk she had on display. The stalk was grown this summer from seed that has laid dormant in her home for the past 23 years. It was given by her father, J. D. Thompson, and he had said it was seed corn. However, it was not planted the first year and believing that it was no good after that, the corn was permitted to grow in the soil unnoticed during the 23 years.

Miss Whipple decided to plant some of the corn to see if it would grow. Planting all of the seed produced record breaking ears and the remains of the plant is highly pleasing to Miss Whipple.

Naturally when she did not know it, the newspaper writer at once saw a chance to score a "hot" story in itself is sufficient to believe that a real crop is reported.

Aviation News, business associate of Mr. Stinson, thought at the news stories out of Boston, He knew the kind of pure Radio was flying, and that it could do—and he knew too,

STINSON'S GIANT OF AIR RIDES BIG STORM WITH EASE

Alarm of Eastern Papers when Storm Broke Meant Nothing to Local Flier.

Eastern newspaper men have not yet learned that a Stinson aeroplane is made to ride any storm and can successfully encounter all kinds of weather conditions and that a New England "nor'easter"—the kind of a storm that brings destruction and terror to land and water traffic means nothing to the Gaunts of the Air made in Northville.

NORTHVILLE IS ADVERTISED BY
PERE MARQUETTE
Big Railroad Places This City Among Furniture
Mfg. Points

Northville as an important producing point for furniture gets a very favorable mention in the last issue of the Pere Marquette Service Bulletin issued by the Pere Marquette railroad. The Bulletin goes into hundreds of communities about the state and the mention of this place as one of the important shipping points for furniture on the Pere Marquette system is naturally of great advertising value to the community.

Following is in part the article published:

"Till take 1,000 box cars and send up 250 hopper cars." That, in substance, was what Mr. W. C. Achert, purchasing agent, recently said, following a shopping tour. What he did, of course, was to call upon the various manufacturers of each of these two classes of equipment by letter for bids after having submitted plans and specifications which were prepared in the office of the superintendent of motive power. Of course, even the latter had not set out to prepare these until so directed by the president and general manager, who, in turn, must necessarily secure the approval of the board of directors. The first of the box cars was delivered a few weeks ago, while the hoppers started moving from the shops more recently.

The automobile and furniture industries are again being advertised to the world along with the Pere Marquette territory, where these thrive, for they bear the legend Automobile and Furniture on each side. Of course, the legend at once conjures up to the imagination such automobile and accessories centers as Detroit, Flint, Lansing, Muskegon, Alma, Saginaw, Milwaukee, Wis., Ford City and Walkerville, Ontario. The furniture legend brings to mind Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Allegan, Ionia, Portland, Northville, Grand Ledge and Big Rapids as the leading centers of production of this latter commodity, which also has won world-wide popularity. These box cars in certain particulars were developed to meet the peculiar needs of these two industries, and they have since been adopted by many of the railroads, which are situated away from the centers of automobile production, but which handle a considerable volume of these two commodities.

The new series of automobile and furniture cars are numbered from 88,350 to 88,349, and they follow the series of 88,000 to 88,349, which were placed in international service a year ago.

It's getting so a man can't afford to be prompt for an appointment or people will think his time is no good.

Bible Thoughts for the Week

Sunday.

Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things.—Phil. 4:8

Monday.

He that by usury and unjust gain increaseth his substance, he shall gather it for him that will pity the poor. A faithful man shall abound in blessings, but he that maketh haste to be rich shall not be innocent.—Prov. 28:8, 20

Tuesday.

Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such a one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself; lest thou also be tempted.—Gal. 6:1

Wednesday.

Thou shalt love the lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength; and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself.—Luke 10:27

Thursday.

Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock; His work is perfect: for all His ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is He.—Deut. 32:3, 4

Friday.

Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him.—I Cor. 2:9

Saturday.

The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.—Phil. 4:7

HICK TOWNS

Sometimes you wonder why it is that some towns are called "hick" places when other communities not so favorably located and possibly not so large, are known as progressive, live communities where you like to go and spend a little time; as well as money, as often as possible. The answer is easy. You have got a wonderful demonstration over on Grand River. During the past few years Grand River, through the fact that it has been paved, way across the state, has become one of the main traveled arteries of Michigan. Howell, Brighton and Webberville are situated on Grand River. Howell and Brighton officials apparently realizing the necessity of keeping traffic moving, have arranged their stop lights so that if you happen to meet them just right, it is unnecessary to stop at any of the intersections. A speed limit of ten miles per hour can generally regulate his speed as far as to conform to the traffic lights without stopping. In this way traffic in all directions is benefited. Both Howell and Brighton do what they can to assist the law-abiding automobile driver. They have traffic officers, and in the past year or so, have heard no complaints on their work. In fact, they realize that their job is to assist traffic rather than do what they can to retard it.

Nearly everyone speaks well of the treatment accorded motorists in these places—and as a result both of them profit by it. As proof of this, look at the development in Brighton, due entirely to Grand River traffic.

Now as to the "hick" towns. Webberville is a short ways to the west of Brighton. Apparently some "boob" or "boobs" living over in Webberville has hit upon the great idea that stopping all traffic on Grand River in Webberville, because the town has two stop lights, lets them half a block apart on two little travelled intersecting streets, that are set in such a way that all Grand River traffic must stop at either one or the other of the stop lights.

Webberville is a nice little town, and it should be generally regarded as one of the pleasant rural communities of the state.

But it isn't. You never drive over on Grand River but what you hear it condemned from one end of the road to the other. The absurdity of the situation can be realized when it is generally agreed that the two streets where the lights are located are barely 200 feet apart and on one of the streets the drivers would run out of their houses in their night shirts to see what had happened if, by chance, some auto driver should get befuddled and turn on one of them.

Of course, there is a possibility that this is not an intended condition. If it is not, the village authorities or some of the numerous bootleggers running up and down Grand River should for convenience sake set the lights aright.

If the lights have been arranged by direction of village officials then the governor of the state should kick the whole caboodle out of office and have them arrested and tried for obstructing traffic.

JOHNNY SMITH'S WAR-WHOOP

Back in reform days when the voters over in Detroit were reforming things, they enacted a law which requires two elections to elect officials to run the affairs of the city to our east. In the primary the two getting the highest number of votes shall go into another election to see how things stack up again.

The primary took place the other day, and Mayor Johnny Polkuse Smith received what might be termed a regular trouncing. In fact, when it was all over he hardly knew he was a candidate. Our neighbors had decided that John Lodge, was the kind of a citizen they wanted for mayor and they said so emphatically.

After election inspectors had become tired of counting Lodge votes and quit. Johnny decided there was one chance left, and that was to appeal to all the ill-jackers, blind-pig operators, root-leggers and thugs to help him save his neck at the November election.

He frankly said he wanted their support, and declared that his opponent had been nominated by the so-called drys. By that he meant that Mr. Lodge had been nominated by law-abiding, respectable folks of Detroit.

His declaration has forced but one issue in the coming Detroit election. Will ill-jackers and thugs control the polls on election day, or will the people of Detroit turn out and elect a candidate in sympathy with decency and progress?

And it is safe bet that Mr. Lodge will receive the greatest number of votes any candidate for mayor in America's fastest growing city ever received.

THE AIRPORT

Business men of Northville who backed the effort to secure for this community the Stinson-Northville Airport acted wisely. There has never been any question about that. The Michigan Good Roads and Pavements Magazine in its last issue speaking of the problem of airports said:

"One of the most pressing problems which is now attracting the attention of municipalities is the matter of public landing places for airplanes, and seems to be indicated that other municipalities must help to solve the problem. A nation has come to the realization that the airplane is here to stay."

Crop Rotation

The folly of growing the same crop on the same land for several successive years was noted by the Romans, but the attention was first called to the subject of crop rotations in a tractate by Dickson of Dundee, Scotland.

CHARTER GIVEN TO NEW ROTARY CLUB AT FORDSON

Many from Northville Present at Banquet in the Nearby City

President Don O'Leary, Sr., of the Northville Rotary Club, accompanied by former President Edward Langford, Frank Hills, Charles Thornton, Edward Mills, Eddie Keeney, Harry M. Miller, Louis German, Mark Seeley, Charles Schubert and Wellington Roberts, Tuesday night attended the charter presentation of the new Rotary Club at Fordson.

Hundreds of Rotarians from nearby communities were present at the dinner which proved to be the first charter presentation under the present administration of District Omar Snell of Mt. Clemens.

The meeting was an intensely interesting one, made so by the officials of the new club, Toastmaster Howard Coffey of Detroit, Paul King, former district governor of Rotary, and Mayor Joseph Karmán of Fordson.

Following the serving of an extremely elaborate menu, Warren J. Pachow, president of the United States Bank of Amherstburg, Ontario

LOCAL OFFICERS ATTEND PYTHIAN
PONTIAC SESSION

T. G. Masters and Glen Charter at Session with Grand Lodge Officers

T. G. Masters, Chancellor commander of Northville Lodge, No. 100, Knights of Pythias, and Glen Charter, keeper of records and seals, have returned from a meeting of the Pythian lodge officers of Michigan held Tuesday in Pontiac. All members of the Grand Lodge were present, and discussed with officers of the various lodges from about the state of how best to build up the various local organizations.

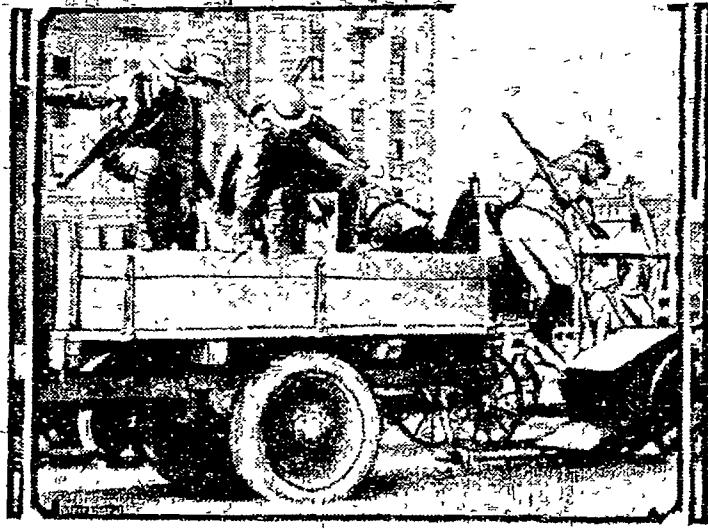

The entire afternoon was given over to consideration of this question, and according to the local Pythian representatives, the meeting was a most interesting one.

Following a dinner given to all the visitors, the Pontiac lodge exemplified the work of the first degree. The work was put on in a most interesting way. The Northville visitors not only had a very profitable time, but a pleasant one as well. It is hoped to considerably enlarge the local Pythian lodge during the next year.

Bridging the Seasons

The function of the Electric Air Heater is to make a room comfortably warm in the chilly mornings and evenings that come so frequently before the house furnace is started.

The Electric Air Heater does not take the place of the furnace. It supplements it. An electric heater is simply a quick, convenient, and inexpensive means of heating a cold room when you want it warmed, and for as long or short a time as you may desire.

Even in full furnace season it will often be found desirable to have it at hand, especially in the bathroom mornings.

The Electric Air Heater is portable and can be used in any room where there is electrical connection. It consumes about 2½ cents worth of current an hour. It sells for as little as

KISSING THE PART

"Give me mother, dear; she'll kiss it and make it better." Isn't this the regular thing when a child receives an injury, real or imagined? And many a grownup child, married to another grownup child, turns to him a wry face with a half-pained half-playful indication of a squeezed thumb or a stubbed toe. And he kisses it and makes it better.

Little do they realize those innocent mothers and husbands that in this mock ministrations they are, but imitating the practice of old-time sorcerers who pretended to cure diseases by sucking the affected part. In their superstitious, myth-reinforced age they found the people easy prey to their impositions, but today even the baby is skeptical of the curative powers of a kiss on a bruised knee!

They burned witches in old New England; what shall we do with the pretenders today?

DOCTOR SPARLING IS NO ENTHUSIAST FOR SUNNY FLORIDA

Well Known Northville Couple back After a Trip
of Many Weeks

After a number of weeks spent touring the south Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Sparling have returned to Northville firm in the belief that Michigan is the finest part of the country in which to live.

Florida may be bright two or three days in the winter, but it is certainly anything but a desirable place to live at this time of the year.

We were there about the middle of September and it was intensely hot. The tires on my car were not in bad shape, but it was so hot that two of them blew up when we were driving along the coast near Daytona Beach," he said.

You didn't dare get off the roadside. There was only swamps and waste land most of the time, and snakes. I never saw so many of them.

I saw one great big fellow lying on the ground ahead of the machine, but before we got to it he crawled out beside the road. And bugs there were plenty of them.

Real estate signs everywhere, but I saw nothing which would induce me to live there for a minute. It is interesting to go down there.

We drove at the resort where Ponce de Leon thought he had found perpetual youth and we watched the ocean waves roll in.

"There wasn't much difference between the ocean and lake Michigan.

Possibly there was a little more foam along the sea coast and the waves were somewhat larger. I am not at all sold on Florida and I wasn't interested in it.

Between Florida and Ohio we had some wonderful mountain driving. We met Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lanning at Ashville, South Carolina and it was fortunate that we did. Soon after my auto developed engine trouble and Floyd had to push us through mountains for something like 40 miles before I found a service station that could take care of our troubles. The natives got quite a treat in seeing him bump us along over the hills.

I would like to go down to the south and spend several months there just studying conditions and looking around. I have reference to the other southern states. I am sure it would be exceedingly interesting and instructive.

The doctor and wife, who is also a physician, have resumed their practice after spending a vacation almost entirely in their automobile.

A remarkable Himalayan tribe, the members of which have not been seen for nine years, is reported by a British medical officer. Their diet consists

DISCOVERY OF OLD CANE BRINGS BACK MEMORIES OF ABLE LINCOLN CAMPAIGN

Reminiscences of the days when Republicans of Oakland county rallied around the standard for Abraham Lincoln were brought forth this week when a tamarack cane with a long and curious history was discovered in the possession of Mrs. Ella Irish of Farmington.

Sixty-seven years ago, when Abraham Lincoln campaigned for the first time for president, the Republicans of this section raised a pole in celebration of his candidacy.

The Democrats, as was the custom raised a pole of hickory, the wood they adopted as their symbol after Andrew Jackson.

Old Hickory had led them to victory in presidential campaigns.

One of the witnesses to the raising of the Republican pole, was E. S. Dart, then a young man.

He was impressed by the celebration, but had not thought of it for years until a few days ago.

Mr. Dart, who has lived for many years in Grand Rapids, recently paid a visit to Mrs. Irish, his sister.

During his visit, Mrs. Irish offered her brother a cane to carry in his jaunts about Farmington. As she took the cane, she told him its history.

For years after the Republicans had raised the pole for "Honest Abe" the standard remained aloft.

Finally, it broke down, however, but was retrieved by some stalwart Republicans, who carried it in eight canes, one of which came into the possession of Mrs.

Irish, and 67 years later was loaned by her to her brother, who had seen the raising of the pole from which the cane later was made—Farmington

Only Buick has an engine Vibrationless beyond belief

Body by Fisher

BUICK'S remarkable freedom from vibration is due primarily to three vitally important factors. First—the inherent smoothness of the Buick Valve-in-Head six-cylinder engine. Second—rubber engine mountings, front and rear. And third—the scientific and almost perfect balance of the entire Buick crankshaft assembly.

Only Buick enjoys these advantages. And only Buick provides the silken performance—the unvarying smoothness at all speeds—the longer life and greater serviceability of an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

PHONE OFFICIAL IS SPEAKER BEFORE LOCAL ROTARIANS

Albert Peckman Gives Most Interesting Talk at Recent Meeting

Mr. J. Peckman, division commercial superintendent of the Michigan Bell Telephone company at Grand Rapids, spoke to the Rotary club at its noonday luncheon Monday, October 10th, giving to Northville Rotarians one of the best talks they have had in sometime.

Mr. Peckman used as his subject the telephone business and stated that it was to a large extent much the same as any other business in that it's service or product had to be a satisfactory one. The United States as a nation is what might be termed a wealthy one, ever demanding a better service, and the telephone business like the automobile industry, had made extensive improvement in its product to meet the demands for something better.

The telephone business must, of course have rates that are satisfactory.
They must be low enough to permit a general use of the service by all classes of people, they must be sufficient to meet the requirements of the business such as salaries and wages of its employees, purchases of material, insurance, taxes, etc., there should be enough left over as a dividend that will interest and attract new money into the business, and at the same time lay aside something for a rainy day.

The telephone business is also directed from other business enterprises that it cannot add to its plant or its earnings as frequently done by other industries. It is permitted to earn a fair rate of return on its existing investment, this constantly in the market for new capital.

At the present time its requirements along this line is about one million dollars per day.

The telephone business is a monopoly and this is a natural condition as no one can justify competitive exchanges for any community. As a monopoly the business realizes its responsibility and endeavors to have at all times a safe margin of plant that is ready to meet the demands of the community for its service. It does not seek an abnormal return for the money invested.

Some of its problems consist of for-casting the growth of the business. At the present time we are operating on a five year budget that is made up from a forecast or estimate of the stations to be added to the service each year. In 1925, 15,000 stations were added in Michigan, in 1926, 46,000 stations were added. It is estimated that in 1927, 41,000 will be added, in 1928
44,000, and in 1929, 1930, 1931, 46,000 each year. To meet this growth something around $25,000,000 in new capital is required. In reaching the station gains referred to the telephone company has to install three telephones and take out two to form an incuse of one station. To illustrate this point it might be noted that in Michigan last year it was necessary to install 18,000 telephones and remove 90,000 to gain 41,000. It can be seen from the performance record that we must last a considerable length of time and that by not earning the full margin must be closely minded in order that we will be able to serve and at the same time avoid an excessive burden on the existing subscribers.

Additions to the telephone base have necessarily been made at an increasing cost. This has been due to increased wages, increased cost of materials, more complex plant, demand for better service, etc., all of which is reflected in an increased investment per telephone.

In 1925 it was $167.64 per station, and in 1926, $180.38. It is estimated that by 1930, the investment will grow to $248.51 per station.

The ownership of the telephone business is in the hands of the people no one has even one percent (1%) of its stock. At the present time there are over 420,000 stockholders in the business.

In speaking of recent developments in the business, Mr. Peckman mentioned machines transported by telephone lines are now being "extensively" used by the newspapers throughout the country. Television has been perfected and is practical although no commercial demand is apparent.

Trans-Atlantic telephony has proved popular with the people of the United States, but does not appear attractive on the other side. International service with Mexico is now available at times when the rebels will leave the wire up long enough for a conversation.

DR. KESTELL TELLS HOW TUBERCULOSIS GETS ITS START

Interest in his old Address Revived by Campaign Against Disease

Re-newed activities on the part of the Michigan Anti-Tuberculosis Society to wake out as far as possible the disease in Michigan has revived interest in an address made back in 1899 by Dr. John R. Kestell of Northville before members of the Wayne County Medical Society relative to the causes and beginnings of tuberculosis. The paper, which created a mild sensation at the time it was presented, because of the ideas expressed, is of more than ordinary interest.

It is published in full so that the many friends of Dr. Kestell may know of his ideas, pertaining to a disease that he made a special study of over a period of a great number of years. It follows:

During the last twenty years tuberculosis throughout this country and Europe has increased out of all proportion to any other disease. We may ask the cause. In my opinion the environment contingent upon what we are pleased to term "modern civilization" may be held responsible for this state of affairs. Whereas the savage answers the demands of nature by eating twice a large proportion of raw meat and five to eat. The latter class furnishes the vast majority of the one hundred and fifty thousand or more who die annually of consumption in the United States and Canada. Man resembles an animal in that he may be made to burn fat very rapidly by an excessive use of carbon. This may take place during the period of growth. With our activity, acute appetite need of material and meaty meat in eating, tends soon in the period the stomach receives more food than it can digest and is imperfectly prepared material is rushed into the circulation through the emerged avenues of supply thus forming a suitable soil for the thriving of bacilli.

The origin of the bacillus remains a mystery, though it is generally supposed to come from without. The etiology for the bacillus, however, is not under discussion, the field of operation it chooses for its destructive work is the point in hand. The latter I hold to be the result of an abnormally sensitive nervous organization, amia, poor sanitation and generally unfavorable surroundings.

These conditions pertaining tuberculosis is the result. The disease originates largely in the alimentary canal as a digestive disturbance, sometimes producing an intoxication which so lowers the vitality of the organism that the bacillus may thrive and multiply.

As we do not have a tubercle of the stomach, it is assumed that the hydrochloric acid has a destructive action on the tubercle bacilli or that the acidity of the stomach is such that the organ quickly empties itself into the duodenum and in this has the bacilli after the intestines. Duodenal indigestion results and prevents the proper conversion of the fats and starches, thus impeding absorption by the ileum.

The disease is confined to the intestinal tract until the mucous surfaces become so paralyzed as to lose their normal selective power when poisonous products are conveyed to the blood, destroying its red corpuscles and lessening its nutritive power. The nervous system is deprived of its proper nourishment, and its natural irritability is increased. Some trifling exposure in bad weather readily overpowers such a hypersensitive nervous system, causing pulmonary congestion when the system is unable to throw off, because of the previous long drain on vitality.

The constant congestion of the lungs leads to the formation of the tubercular tissues, which is nothing but rudimentary synovial structure poorly organized, which having no nervous supply, is prone to degeneration.

This tubercular tissue antedates bacillus infection and is not caused by it. This is shown by the fact that the sputum of consumptives sometimes contain bacilli and sometimes does not.

Moreover, when consumptives are intelligently treated they are often cured even after the disease has wrought considerable havoc.

If the germs were the cause their action would be persistent and continuous. A diseased alimentary tract is the prime cause of tuberculosis and allied diseases.

A year of chronic indigestion will so deplete the system that it will require months of professional supervision to restore it to anything like a normal condition. I admit that in certain individuals there is lowered vitality from birth, hence an hereditary predisposition toward tuberculosis; also that in some of the tissues are so highly vitalized as to resist the most flagrant abuse, while in others the physiological equilibrium is constantly tottering, finally yielding to disease.

In any event careful attention should be given to certain essentials, namely, proper nourishment, an abundance of pure air, even temperature, stimulating baths, and a continual effectiveness of digestion, including assimilation and excretion.

In my opinion the increase of tuberculosis is due largely to the excessive use of pork, veal, potatoes, white bread and sweets. Pork and veal, as we all know, are a heavy tax on the digestive tract, and the resulting toxin is from imperfect assimilation in the alimentary canal.

Potatoes cooked with the jackets removed, are especially injurious. The nitrates, phosphates, etc., are dissolved in water and we have left the starch and an organic acid which is one of the most favorite substances known for early fermentation.

Too much cannot be said against the use of white bread. The bolting cloth of the miller will become the shroud of the American people is a saying which is most pertinent for in the process of making flour white flour of commerce the bran necessary as bulk or waste wood, the germ and a large part of the gluten are removed and thus a considerable proportion of what nature intended for our use is destroyed.

Sweets, with the exception of fruit which they set us, are also harmful, producing decompositions of the tissues.

What is the proper nourishment?

Primarily foods should be selected which are rich in albumen, phosphates and fat with a moderate amount of carbohydrates, but always of such a nature and kind as may be most easily digested and absorbed by the system. Diet should, of course, be modified according to the individual patient's digestive condition. However, there is now a resuscitative process going on to supply disintegration of tissue or cell life. Symptoms are the result and I believe that the only hope for the patient is in the destruction of these toxic elements.

In a communication like the present, though it is based upon careful observation, it is impossible to give more than impressions and generalizations as it is obviously impracticable to give in detail reports of any of the cases in which I have had splendid success in my efforts to alleviate conditions and eradicate the dread disease.

There are in the course of every case of tubercular consumption a number of symptoms which change with the general and local conditions to such an extent that by them that we may measure the anatomical lesions and calculate the prognosis. It is my custom to pay especial attention to the hepatic system with calomel, peach and soda, and to strengthen the general condition of the blood with strychnine, arsenic, digitalis, iron, etc., as the case indicates. Then I give creosote in the drop doses in capsules three times a day, increasing one drop daily until ten or twenty drops are reached, or as tolerance indicates. I have had none of the unpleasant results from giving this as an emetic stomach feared by some, and generally given before meals. For some time I used creosote baths as far as somewhat with some modifications. If I make a combination it is with the phosphate of calcium or salt extract instead of oils. Sommerich insists also that creosote begins to act as soon as it is taken, observing certain ripples laid down, does not often disturb digestion but rather the opposite. Creosote acts as a preventative of fermentation and is a diuringe germicide. It reduces the quantity of bronchial secretions and moderates not enough of those suffering from asthma, especially of the cold and mucus purulent type. I have always found in its use an improvement in appetite, increase in weight, and diminution of the cough. Klempner says creosote not only has a beneficial influence upon the stomach secretions but also promotes its motor functions. I do not hold that creosote has any action on tubercle bacilli, but it prevents the further destruction of lung tissue proper induced by streptococcus. Gethran, it is shown, that 1-4000 creosote will prevent the growth of bacilli.

Halscher's theory as to the favorable influence of creosote is that the phagocyt passes into the blood with the toxic albuminoids, rendering them nontoxic and assisting in their elimination. It is therefore, natural to conclude that the drug affects the condition of the tissue in such a way as to prevent the bacilli from forming sputum.

Redfern has lately gained much adherents as a concurrent inhibitor of the tubercular bacilli.

As to its affection I cannot say.

I am inclined to feel that in its internal medication as in many instances the stomach will not tolerate it without disturbance.

If you loan a woman money and don't leave her pay you back, she is insulted. But if you do, she is disappointed.

When a girl starts treatin' you bad, you gotta consider seriously whether to leave her walk on you, or tell her where she gets off.

It all depends on whether you want to be discarded from strength or weakness.

Do You Know ??~ That:~??~

THIS expression "eavesdropper" had its origin in Saxon times when the owners of private estates (nobles), allowed to cultivate their possessions to the extremity, but were obliged to leave no space for the eggs. This space was known as the eaves dry. An eavesdropper is one who stands under the eaves dry or near a window or door of the house to overhear what is being said inside the house.

And so "eavesdropper" has come to denote one who listens secretly to what is told in private. — Aspin & Threlkeld, 1922, Western New York Union.

Helium May Reveal Sea's Buried Secrets

Washington—More secrets of the sea may be revealed in the future than in the past, through a discovery for the use of helium in deep-sea diving. Experiments are being conducted by the Bureau of Mines along lines already followed in laboratory and practical tests.

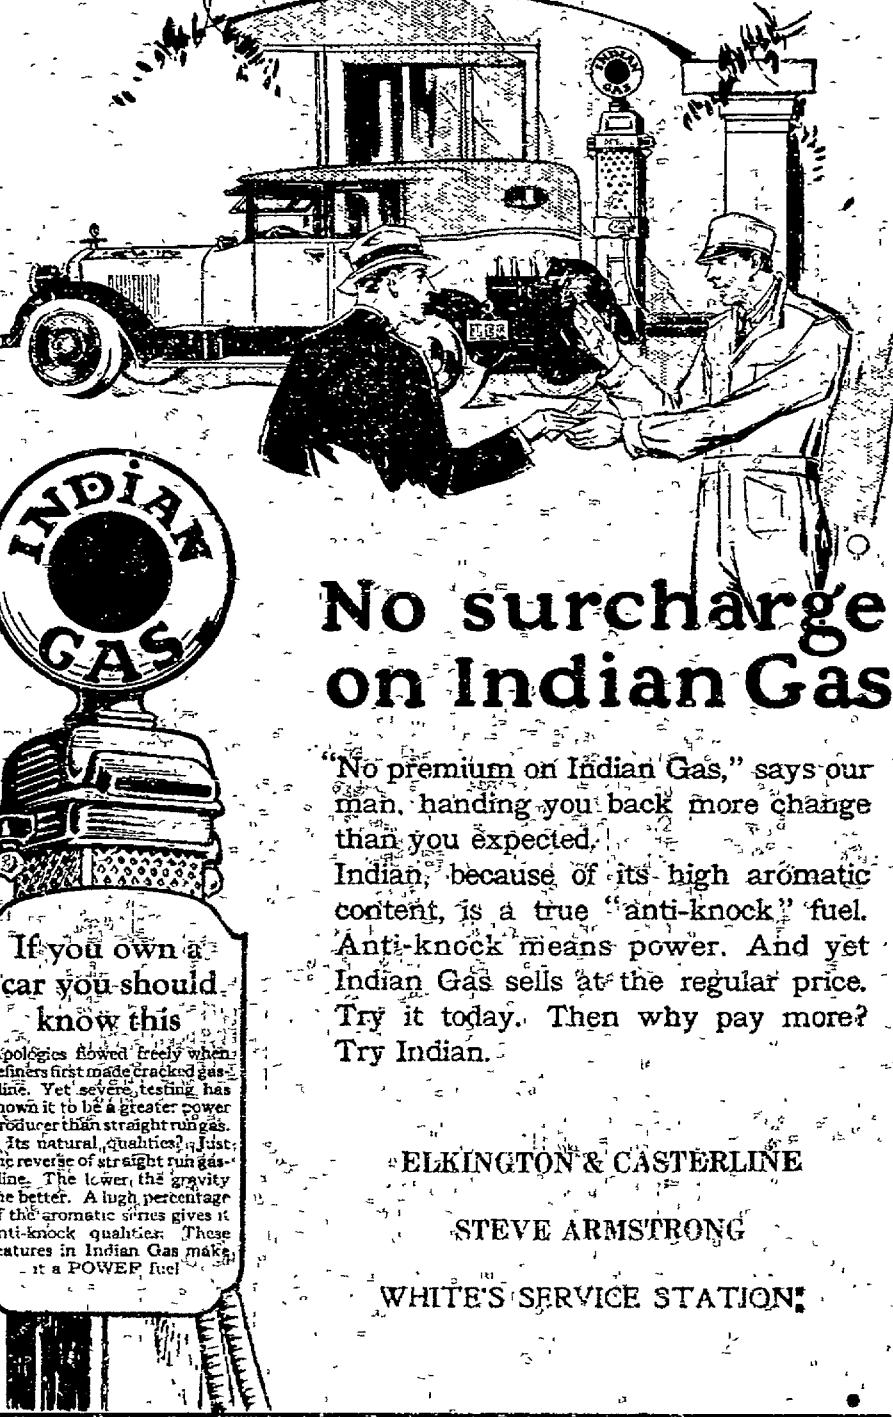

Helium was used in salvaging the hull of the submarine S-31, near Newport, R. I., and during an inspection of the Lakeland, a Cleveland ship, which was sunk several years ago in Lake Michigan.

The extent of helium's importance in underwater exploration depends upon investigation now being conducted at Pittsburgh and Norfolk.

Helium promises to extend greatly both time and depths of underwater operation by divers and thus enlarge the whole range of submarine engineering.

Naval Observatory Stops Giving Time Over Phone

Washington—The naval observatory, which corrects the nation's time pieces twice daily through its accommodations to various telegraph and wireless services, announces discontinuance of telling the time to individuals over the telephone. Since the Western Union company discontinued giving the time by telephone, it was explained, the number of calls to the observatory had increased from 850 to 2,000 daily, overwhelming the observatory's exchange and interfering with other telephone calls.

No surcharge on Indian Gas

"No premium on Indian Gas," says our man, handing you back more change than you expected. Indian, because of its high aromatic content, is a true "anti-knock" fuel. Anti-knock means power. And yet Indian Gas sells at the regular price. Try it today. Then why pay more? Try Indian.

A Brilliant New Line of Cars

America discovered the value of this brilliant new car with a swiftness only rivaled by the car itself. Everything about it appeals to the mood of the hour. Its amazing pick-up—from 0 to 25 miles thru gears in less than 7 seconds! Its effortless mastery of distance at a mile a minute! It's trim, streamline beauty—finished in the smartest colors.

The way it grips the road at sharp turns—cushions passengers over rough roads—travels in "high" up steep grades!

Its economy at the curb—17½ feet of parking space suffice! Its economy on the road—25 miles per gallon at 25 miles per hour!

Never have Dodge Brothers sold a sedan so low in price—so high in value—so thoroughly in tune with the taste and spirit of the time.

ROSEDALE'S NEW SCHOOL IS READY FOR OCCUPANCY

Dedication on October 10th Brings Out a Large Attendance

The formal dedication of the new Rosedale school building was held on Monday evening, October 10th. The beautiful kindergarten room had been decorated for the occasion by the teachers, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Lee and Miss Belden. Autumn leaves in all of their high coloring, together with flowers, gave a cheerful welcome to a large number of patrons and friends as they came together on this most happy occasion.

While the assembly was gathering, the Schaffer orchestra entertained with a number of selections, which created great enthusiasm for the splendid program which had been arranged by the chairman, E. L. Sullivan, of Rosedale Gardens.

The first speaker, introduced by the chairman, was Byron E. Mills, architect, who explained the type of building and how it could be added to as the need should arise. John L. Rechner, general contractor, followed Mr. Mills, and in his talk paid a high tribute to him when he said, "The builder can build only as the architect designs."

George N. Bentley, treasurer of the school board, was then introduced and in behalf of the board and patrons accepted the building as submitted.

Mr. Bentley then gave the figures on the cost of the building, as to each line of expenditure. Fred Schaffer, moderator, and Joseph Schaeffer, director of the school board, were then introduced. Mr. Bechert, in his remarks spoke of the splendid spirit of interest and cooperation shown by the members of the school board all during the process of building.

The ladies' quartet of Strathmoor gave a most pleasing rendition of the Rosary, which was highly encored; and the quartet responded graciously. Another enjoyable musical number was given by Mrs. Walbridge, pianist of Rosedale Gardens.

Fred G. Fisher, assistant commissioner of Wayne county schools, was the next speaker and his subject was upon the functions of the school with the view of worthy citizenship for our boys and girls. Mrs. Jewett sang beautifully "Just Axeazin' for You," and "Smile Through Your Tears," accompanied by Mr. Walbridge at the piano.

The ladies' quartet of Strathmoor then generously gave two more numbers, which were greatly appreciated.

George A. Smith, superintendent of the Plymouth schools, gave a splendid address on Education and Loyalty. E. L. Sullivan sang "On the Road to Mandalay," followed by an encore, "My Wild Irish Rose."

Mrs. G. N. Bentley spoke of the organization of a Parent-Teacher association, and it was decided to hold a meeting for that purpose on next Monday evening, Oct. 24, 1927.

At the close of the program, refreshments were served and a social hour and dancing enjoyed. Plymouth Mill Singing teakettles have been manufactured and used by the Japanese for many centuries. Musical sounds come forth only when the water boils, for they are produced by steam bubbles escaping from beneath thin sheets of iron fastened closely together near the bottom of the kettle.

Eton College scholars dress according to their height. Those five feet four inches or more in height wear morning coats, while their shorter brother students must wear the famous Eton jacket.

NEWEST DIPLOMAT

A bit of garlic rubbed around the salad bowl—just enough to give a mere suggestion of flavor—makes an acceptable improvement in flavor for many people.

A little kerosene in clear water helps in window washing. Wash with even overlapping strokes and rub dry with soft paper or clean cloth. A rubber wiper can be used on large windows.

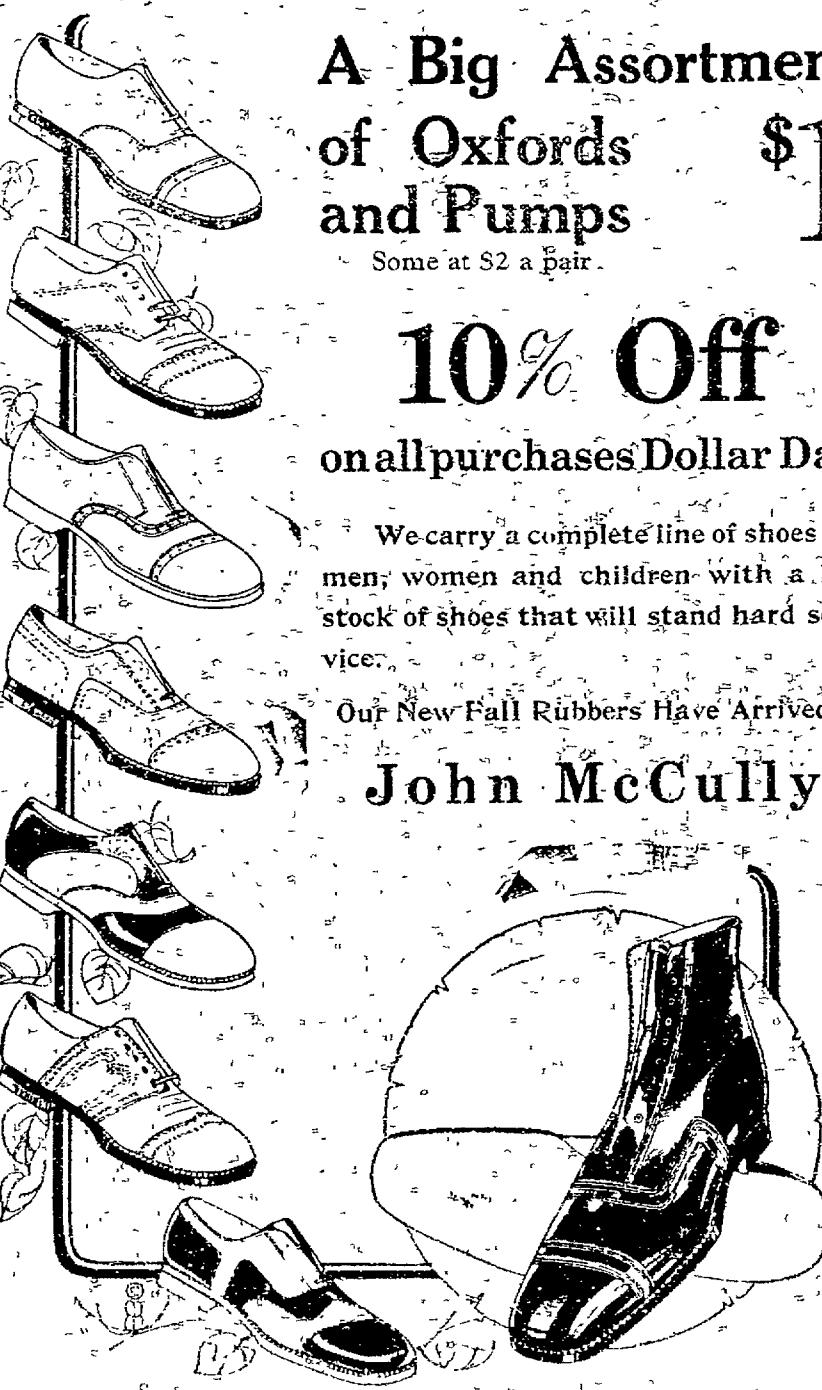

A machine, enabling music composers to write their music rapidly has been devised in Budapest. The musical ideas can be typed down as they come to the composer.

These New Draperies Cost Me Only 35¢

"I was about to discard them when another told me of a wonderful cleaning soap called Solvite which, she said, would make them just like new and save me the cost of another pair. They look new to everyone who sees them, but they really cost me only thirty-five cents."

* * *

There is no cost or way of saving five or ten dollars by buying those thousand-dollar drapes which would be ruined by old, worn-out wash. The world-wide sales of Solvite have doubled every year since its introduction. It is the best soap ever made for washing draperies. Save more do less by using Solvite.

HIGH SCHOOL WILL AGAIN ENTER INTO DEBATING CONTEST

Supt. Gordon Decided to have Students try for New State Honors

Northville High school has become a member of the Michigan High School Debating League this year. The school will compete for the Inter-scholastic debate championship of the state according to an announcement by Professor G. E. Denison, the manager of the University of Michigan, the manager of the league.

The first step in the forensics race for state honors will be held November 18th, when the local high school debating team, coached by Superintendent W. H. Gordon, of the High School faculty will meet one of the neighboring schools in a debate on the subject. Resolved, that the Direct Primary System of nominating Candidates for Public Office in the United States Should Be Abolished.

This debate followed by three others on December 9th, January 13th and January 27th, will constitute the four debates of the preliminary series, in which every high school must participate in order to qualify for the elimination series of debates which will culminate in the eleventh annual state championship debate to be held at Ann Arbor in Hill Auditorium on April 26th.

The two schools participating in this final debate will each receive a trophy presented by the University of Michigan wall plaque trophy which is a triangular shield eighteen inches high by fifteen inches wide, upon which is superimposed a gaine inch solid brass medallion with embossed lettering.

A large number of high schools from all parts of the state have already joined the League, and it is expected that by October 22nd, the date when the lease enrollment closes, the membership for the year will surpass last year's record membership of 235 high schools.

Any four-year high school in the state may become a member of the Michigan High School Debating League by applying for membership to Professor G. E. Denison, manager of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The Michigan High School Debating League was organized by the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan in 1917 and has for the past ten years conducted debates among the high schools of the state.

COUNTY BANKS ORGANIZED TO FIGHT BANK ROBBERS

—SYSTEM IS MOST EFFICIENT

Most of the 83 counties in Michigan are organized under the vigilante campaign, launched by the Michigan Bankers Association last spring according to E. W. Yeat, vice-president of the Trenton State Bank and president of the Wayne County Bankers Federation.

The success of our vigilante system is already apparent. The bankers are thankful for the co-operation we have received from all law-abiding citizens. We realize, as does the public in general, the fact that we are simply co-operating with the law enforcement officers of our state, county and community. The officers have cordially assisted us in every practical way.

The three counties which are as yet unorganized will be in step with the program within two weeks.

The next important step under our vigilante program, is the training of men organized; the equipping of our forces with modern and efficient arms; the establishment of target ranges and a systematic procedure for local target practice. We realize that the efficiency of our program is dependent on the carefulness with which all of these details are worked out.

The best evidence of the success of the vigilante program, as put in operation throughout the state, is in the evident fact that the professional bank robbers have decided to operate in other fields less amply protected and less vigilante.

Our work gives lasting satisfaction secured against their methods.

It will be interesting to the public to know that the vigilante program is now in operation in six states.

The number of bank robberies in Michigan have been reduced 34% in this one year and bank losses have been reduced 33%. The reports from our state headquarters indicate that the officers and members of the vigilante committee in each state are taking as much interest in the success of the campaign as they would in a successful military operation.

As checks upon floods, forestry and its allied forms of natural storage take secondary place. Immediate relief must be sought through the skill of the engineer but behind land supplementing the levees, or other structures that must be built we get back to the land. And we should not fail to restore as far as may be done, the natural storage and protection from erosion that may be derived from fire-free forests and other practical correctives in our everyday use of land.

Thorough, otherwise all the tiny wrinkles will not be stretched away before the curtain is dried. Wringing with the hands force is sufficient, leaving them wet enough for the purpose. Wringer drying makes them too dry. This process does away with both ironing and drying, and in the case of lace curtains with hems, with stretching.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
By F. A. WALKER

WATCHING THE CLOCK

HOW far back the measurement of time goes is lost in the three record events of prehistoric times. It is altogether probable that early man reckoned the passage of time by the length of shadows cast on the ground and later perhaps an instrument similar to the hour glass served to measure the divisions of the day. Certain it is that clocks, as we know them, were not invented until the Ninth century and the credit for the idea is given to a man of Verona named Pacificus.

Like all things mortal the clock had faults as well as virtues. Before the hours were automatically measured for him man worked until he was tired and then "scaled it a day." With the coming of the clock he began measuring his efforts by time and acquired the habit of "watching the clock."

There is one certain thing, however, not endowed with more than two eyes can watch his job and the clock at the same time.

When a man is looking at a clock his sole interest is the answer to the question, "What time is it?"

In the Post Office Office in Washington during the year 1916, one particular office boy of the Navy Department, in that big room there, was neither a caterpillar nor a clock.

The head of that bureau said to the boy: "I do not want any one here who cares what day it is, or what time it is. The measure of a day here is the finishing of the work to hand, then we can all go home."

No truly interested worker was ever able to quite finish his day's task. There always remains some portion upon which he would like to spend a little longer time.

The really worthy earnest worker watches the clock because his mind is not in his labors and his pride is not in their results.

Don't be a clock-watcher. Work with your work with so much energy, so much interest, so much intensity that time doesn't matter.

Play when you play with so much abandon, so much enjoyment, so much enthusiasm that the day passes without your measurement.

The great who measures time in units of inches is not great.

This man has completed his education, learning which there is no knowledge and can.

You can play yesterday night, if you like, but it is not worth doing that. But you can do that if you want the result.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE
By JOSEPH KANE

43-21.—Lee Shubert Did Not Own One Theater.

AT THIS time my brother, Sam and I were managing road companies. It was almost impossible then for independent managers to get a house in which to play for even one night, the theaters being controlled by a syndicate and we soon run up against this snare. All the best theaters were closed to us so we got hold of old run down places and fixed them up as well as we could. We rented halls, anything we could find, so we could play our companies. Lee Shubert.

TODAY—As if destiny had played a designing hand in the case, the Shuberts own and direct more theaters in this country than anyone else in the theatrical profession, and have the greatest theatrical organization in the world.

The Shuberts are also the producers of numerous plays and musical pieces every year, giving them such almost institutional productions as the Winter Garden shows.

HOTLY CONDEMNS OFFICIALS WHO ATTENDED FIGHT

Rotary Speaker Says Asso- ciation of Officials And Pugs Bad Example

Things are coming to a pretty pass when the Governor of a great state, the mayor of a great city and other high public officials rubbing elbows with pickpockets, thugs and gamblers at a prize fight. I abhor the fact that a man like Gene Tunney should stoop so low as to enter the fight arena to make his fortune," declared John Enright of the William H. Maybury Sanatorium, in an address Monday, before members of the Rotary club.

Mr. Enright was speaking of the trend of the present times, and he strongly urged a fight about face attitude relative to some matters, especially as it pertains to a higher moral standard.

"We should not be opposed to boxing, but when it comes to prize fighting that is something entirely different. I cannot understand why men who have been honored by their fellow citizens by being elevated to high office should lower the dignity of their positions and of themselves by having their pictures taken with just an ordinary pug. It's a pretty poor example to set before the young people of today."

Then, too, there should be a check made on the efforts of young girls to break into the movies. "Some sort of a plan should be devised to keep them away from the picture houses. A few are selected for the great army of young girls who turn to Hollywood for fame and fortune. Hundreds of them are constantly stranded out in the far west, far away from home and friends. Of course, this is a nation motion picture producers can help, but it is something that concerns the welfare of the public, and it should receive public attention. Possibly it is in the home where first thoughts should be given to the matter."

"These are things which should receive constant and every day thought. We are striving for a higher business standard, but, in order to bring it about, we must give some attention to the moral side of things."

"As to business, it was unfortunate for myself that I ever got into politics. I started out in the banking business, and my employer was selected for a high political office. He placed me in a political position, and I followed politics for many years as a result of the environment I was thrown into. How much better the young man is today if he will give his time and attention to business. It is far more profitable for him, and he will be better off in the end, even though the early struggles may be severe and disheartening."

A COMMUNICATION

Editor Record,
Northville, Mich.

Dear Sir:

I have observed with great interest the agitation in favor of a new highway leading from the Seven Mile road into Northville. When the Eight Mile road and the new over-head bridge are completed, the Seven Mile road will cease to be the main highway out and in to Northville. The crossing over the P. M. tracks on the Seven Mile road is not a dangerous or hazardous one in any respect because the road is very good from that point.

Can you imagine a more delightful approach to any town than the Bay Base Line cement highway will afford.

Spacious homes and grounds of Harry B. Clark, Arthur Smith, Mrs. Margaret Yerkes and George B. Yerkes, and on into the village over the new cement bridge. From the bridge one will get a view of Northville that far surpasses any vision the proposed new highway will afford.

Some have the people of Northville will erect a suitable memorial building, because there is great need of a public auditorium. In the new building, there will be placed tablets suitably inscribed, telling of the heroic deeds of our soldier boys, including the faith and fortitude of the sturdy pioneers who laid the foundation for this splendid community. The expense of a memorial bridge will go toward the completion of such a building that will supply all the wants of the people.

Very truly yours,

E. E. BROWN

It is interesting to watch children play; to see the uses to which they put their toys, the combinations, plans, devices and processes which they will work out; to notice how they use what they have seen, how they collect experience of the qualities of substances, how they bring all their knowledge to bear; and to reflect that they possess at five or six years of age a store of facts, knowledge, skill, and the like which it cost the human race thousands of years to accumulate.

Much dust and dirt can be kept out of the house by taking precautions. If the roads near your home are not oiled, keep some of the dust at doors and windows. Dust window sills, porches, steps and walks daily. Cover the pantry and storeroom window screens with cheese cloth to keep dust out but let in air. If the walks about the house are muddy get the family to use shoe scrapers and leave muddy rubbers and boots outside.

When choosing linoleum for the kitchen floor, bear in mind the three kinds—plain, printed and inlaid. Plain linoleum is likely to show foot prints and other marks easily. Printed linoleum has to be varnished often to preserve the design. Inlaid linoleum has a design which goes clear through to the backing. It is consequently more expensive, but the pattern does not wear off.

Meatloaf is one of the most appetizing meat dishes you can serve. Any lean meat may be used if gristle and skin are trimmed off. From a fourth to a fifth as much pork as beef is a good proportion. If pork is not added, a small amount of suet should be put through the chopper with the meat.

TOO COSTLY A PRICE

THE asbestos curtain was pulled down at least twice, until after a disastrous fire in a Chicago theater, it cost the price of many lives before stage managers were compelled by law to protect the public. An old man with a red lantern, charged with the responsibility of signing autographs of the audience, lit the first lantern and, going out, the lights of distinguished theatergoers, lights on moving automobiles, with the result that men gave up their seats in the dark. After the price of the lives of those still living had been paid, the superstitious is ended, and the curtain drawn over on electric lights, an engineer fails to stop the third. The curtain is suspended, lives are lost. After the last gasp a man is seated which faints on his seat to work more than enough, since the boats without life.

The Supreme Court said that a court of criminal justice of the law must be given and no other, for the plaintiff is entitled to justice. The choice of routes and decisions as to start, continuation and termination of the fight rests with the commanding officer. Los Angeles gave back safety. But the freedom granted to the commanding officer was possible only through the sacrifice of certain lives sent to their doom through the wrath of the Standard Oil. Greed is not legal, but it is.

The world as a human life. The safeguarding of life should be the first consideration on the part of any corporation or institution. The saving of human life is too costly a price to pay for our knowledge and experience, especially when it is needlessly sacrificed.

Why must so heavy a price be paid before the public can have the protection it deserves?

To store farm butter for winter use the best method is to wrap the rolls or prints in parchment paper and pack them in a stone crock, covering them with a strong brine and store in a cool place. The butter intended for winter use should be made from sweet pasteurized cream curdled at low temperature, washed thoroughly and worked merely enough to dissolve the salt.

Superstitions peasants of Germany say a lottery ticket bought with stolen money is usually a winner. Copper rings are worn on the fingers in Turkey to prevent erysipelas. If the ring has been stolen from someone it is supposed to answer its purpose twice as well. These superstitions arise from the desire of the criminal to find some excuse for his delinquencies.

NORTHVILLE TURNS WAYNE FOR YEARS THIRD STRAIGHT WIN

Thompson Scores all of Northville's Touchdowns.

About the time the clock was beginning to show and the birds were well coming the day's first appearance of Old Sol way out in California, Northville's bravest sons were preparing for battle on the gridiron of Wayne High school. Last Saturday, October 8th, Northville's 19 to 9 victory over Wayne was her third win of the season.

Northville has triumphed successively over Plymouth, Detroit Eastern and Wayne. She is justly proud of her unblemished record.

Northville faced a team that won the Suburban League championship last year and had defeated twice so they were out after revenge.

Terry Thompson, Northville's captain, starred. Thompson scored all of Northville's touchdowns and featured with several long runs, two resulting directly and another indirectly in touch- downs.

Ware and Godeke played very well on the line and the whole line was a credit to Coach Docken.

Northville played rather listlessly during the first quarter and prospects were not so bright. The backfield stumbled, stammered and could not seem to get started. The line did not seem to display its usual drive, however a slight first down is natural after playing as they did against Eastern. Ted Weitz was injured in making a block which hampered his play for the entire game.

In the second period Coach Docken's training seemed to take effect and the line stepped up a great deal. The line began to take Wayne's forward pass back and to open the holes.

Thompson took the ball on a direct and right around right end for about 35 yards when he lost control of the ball. A line buck-failed to gain.

Thompson, took the ball again and plunged 2 yards for a touchdown.

In the third period Thompson caught a Wayne punt on Northville's 26 yard line. He fumbled it picked it up and ran 74 yards to a touchdown. Thompson was aided by excellent interference on this play. Murdoch was laid out but resumed his position at end to catch a pass scoring the 1st-for-point after the touch-down.

Later in the quarter Thompson again took the ball and circled left end for 25 yards and his series of passes that took them to Northville's 16 yard line. Here Northville held him and McCord punted out of danger.

The last quarter was scoreless with Northville very nearly scoring now. Goodie blocked and received a Wayne punt on the 30 yard line and then faked to right. Wayne blocked and held him on the 25 yard line.

Coach Docken: "Where is the next big game?"

Answer: "Home-field." "Why?" "Only" "I expect all of us girls from school."

REPORT CARDS-LACES

ARE KEYS TO MARKS

Since Laces like "surprise" all these and many more were done are seen on the faces of the pupils when reports are made.

The quite studious girl smiles a very smug self-satisfied smile as she gazes at her card.

The boy who is bright, who could but won't, simply because he is, too lazy, sneers just a little when he shows his card. He is showing, in his own estimation what a "daredevil" he is, by slipping on the lowest possible marks.

Then the girl with a brilliant mind, whose thoughts are completely taken up with pleasure—at the first of the year she made a big "show". She talked to the teacher, had perfect recitations, did home-work. All this lasted but a week—she had gained a "reputation" for good work, and intended to show through-on that her face is a study in shocked surprise.

Afterwards she will probably recover enough to rush protestingly to Mr. Gordon, blame the teacher, tell her parents and in the end go into hysterics and drop the course.

And last of all there are a few who are "big bluffers" who by various devices convince the teacher that they know a lot. They receive higher marks than they really hoped for, and their faces reflect their surprise for a moment. They act condescendingly of the girl across the aisle. "What did you get on your card?" They smile a very superior, nose-in-the-air smile (and inwardly sigh with relief). How do I know? Well, that's hard to tell.

NORTHVILLE "COME TO"

"What's the matter with Northville?" "Maybe they're all right, but why don't they prove it?"

"Game after game our Northville crowd was played. Their support was for a week. Our cheer leaders were notice-ably absent. Our band was not, townspeople there all women by the way, and we wish to say that their own plucky efforts and hot to support from their school.

All good things can come to an end. One was the fact that there

Belleville, a town with about a third, was no regular yell-leader; two eighth graders leading the yell—one a girl.

Some people say that it all depends on the team. But when eleven Northville boys got out on a field and realized that from their side of the grid would come only a few weak-need: cheers, and for the other side there would be music, good peppy backing from the whole town and above all our boys must have realized that their school cared little or nothing for their efforts.

What's the use of trying anyhow? Northville, wake up!

PONY EXPRESS IS REVIVED BY HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS

(By Madeline Cole)

The Belleville football game last Friday was the scene of more than one shocking occurrence.

At the end of the half, the attention of spectators was drawn to the western end of the field. And "Horrors!"

There sat Mrs. Chapman, our esteemed history teacher, in a pony cart and she chattered and laughed in childish glee as she was driven around the field by Mrs. William Stage.

A few minutes later Miss Lathers ascended the royal carriage and she too had a hilarious ride. But the climax came when Miss Edna Parks, journalism instructor, took the lines from the protesting pony and tore around the track at breath-taking pace. The fiery steed sensed a strange hand at the reins and galloped completely from under the control of the frantic girl and dashed round the grandstand, and thereby gaining everlasting fame for our dear teacher Louis Tiffin was appointed chairman of initiation committee.

BIOLOGY CLASSES GO ON FIELD TRIP

(By Madeline Cole)

On Wednesday morning the biology classes went out on a field trip over Baldwin's Mills south of Northville.

The students got specimens of leaves of the different trees and plants. The boys got a dead garter snake with which they scaled the girls so that they ran all the way up the hill, and over the other side. The leaves were discussed. The classes went out for 4 hours.

The first hour class was out from 8:30 to 9:45 and then they came back and were shown the result of an experiment which had been carried on while they were gone.

The third hour class was gone from 10:00 to 11:45.

APPLESAUCE IS COMING

(By Madeline Cole)

Applesauce is coming to Northville High school according to signs which have decorated the bulletin board for the past two weeks.

Some of the students believe it to be another mysterious club trying to recruit the "lightweight". Others believe it is a play which is going to be given as one of the classes.

The two cut signs, the sent man, eighth grader to saving, or taking somebody's card.

Nearly every student in the high school hopes something will happen soon so that their suspense will be broken.

Playshop continues for Northville is known out in some play as Belleville might "tough it out".

Whisk broom-making begins to a Northville's back to Belleville, but in the third quarter, and Belleville didn't get far. They two runs not faded, and Willis was hurt in same play.

Northville's left a pass is fired but failed. Then Willis makes long gain, through the air. Thompson follows with another Northville numbers and Ware of Northville recovers it. Again fumble is made, Leavenworth of Northville, falls on it, Tiffin is knocked out in same play.

Northville is penalized 15 yards, and the third quarter ends. Willis was taken out in the middle of the final period because he was hurt, and Cawell put in. Northville began to take up in the last game. It was then Belleville's ball, after Northville failing to make their yards. Then Belleville makes long end run, and then completes pass which they were good at.

Willis blows whistle, and Belleville's back to Belleville, but in the third quarter, and Belleville didn't get far. They two runs not faded, and Willis was hurt in same play.

Northville's left a pass is fired but failed. Then Willis makes long gain, through the air. Thompson follows with another Northville numbers and Ware of Northville recovers it. Again fumble is made, Leavenworth of Northville, falls on it, Tiffin is knocked out in same play.

Northville is penalized 15 yards, and the third quarter ends. Willis was taken out in the middle of the final period because he was hurt, and Cawell put in. Northville began to take up in the last game. It was then Belleville's ball, after Northville failing to make their yards. Then Belleville makes long end run, and then completes pass which they were good at.

DAY

Just a good old-fashioned "Surprise Party" for dollar savers that turns the hands of time back to the days when one dollar bought as much as two does today. Never before have we offered such values as you will see here Wednesday. Everything has been cut to an irreducible minimum—the prices in many instances being so low that they actually seem fabulous. Please bear in mind that many items are limited in quantity—and in every case we reserve the right to limit the quantity requested by a single purchaser!

The Baptist Mission Band was entertained at the home of Mrs. W. D. Flint last Thursday afternoon. President Mrs. L. B. Flint presided. A number of business details were taken care of, and the date and further arrangements for the bazaar were determined. Friday, November 4th, the supper, in connection with the bazaar will be served at 6:00 p.m. Anyone who would like to make a gift to the bazaar please consult Mrs. Flint, who can tell you any number of the many things being planned. Mrs. Kairis, who was in charge of the program, secured the kindly service of Wayde VanDyne, who sang several solos, much to the delight of those present. Little Dawn Grange sang sweetly, "Psalms of My Cradle Days" and "Tied to Your Mother's Apron String." Mrs. Vit Hoffman gave a very impressive reading, entitled "The Suppliant." A delightful luncheon was served by the committee, and all decided it was an afternoon well spent.

Fifteen teachers, including Miss Ethel O'Connor, the helping teacher, were present at the Zone meeting, held in the school building last Saturday. This was the organization meeting for the year. Miss Chamberlain, acting as hostess, gave the address of welcome. Miss O'Connor, gave a talk on primary reading, which was followed by a demonstration lesson taught by Mrs. Esther Woodworth Nelson. Much credit was accorded Mrs. Nelson for her very efficient teaching. The helping teacher explained that this was health month and taught a demonstration lesson on hygiene, using fifth grade pupils. Luncheon was served in the primary room by the Misses Patricia and Jean Gaffney, Olive Holmes and Evelyn Baker, older girls from the school. The following officers were elected: President Mrs. Josephine Papaupeau; vice president Miss Mabel Chamberlain; secretary Miss Mabel Root.

The Wixom Farmers' Club met with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rice, Wednesday, October 12th. A pot-luck dinner was served at noon, and about thirty people enjoyed the excellent repast. The afternoon was given to the program, which was helpful to all. Mrs. Grace Shim gave two readings, "Difference of an Egg" and "The Spirit's Voice," which were very appropriate for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Rice sang "Take Me Back to Old Virginia" and "Love's Old Sweet Song." The question period resolved that the building of a new hall was a definite goal.

The Wixom Community Improvement System is unjust, and ought to be discontinued," was very ably discussed by Mrs. Eugene Root. In addressing those present she first gave the following little poem, "I'll Try," as an indication of her willingness to attempt the task assigned to her:

"Two frogs fell in a can of milk,
And neither could reach the top;
They found no way up the slippery sides,

And no place to stand and hop.
One said, 'It's no use; I can't get out.'

"And sank to the bottom to die,
The other said, 'I see no way out.
But anyway, I'll try.'

"So he kicked and kicked with all his might,
And just as he almost got out,

The butter came and he clung on top,
And out of the can he hopped."

Mrs. Root first explained the Covert system, and told how Frank Covert now our circuit judge introduced the bill when he was a member of the state legislature in 1915, although it has been amended many times since then.

In a direct communication from Mr. Covert, he says: "The law was enacted to meet those cases where the state and county had built good roads, and it was desired to connect the two by cross roads, there being at that time no system or method of doing this. After the enactment of the law, however, there was such a demand for roads that it was used far in excess of what anybody supposed it would be."

The county road commissioners report shows there have been approximately 634 miles of Covert roads built in Oakland County. From the local commissioners she found 8 miles of gravel and 62 miles of concrete road had been built in the township.

There are 82 sections of this law, and about 70 sections have been amended. Mrs. Root believes the law as originally enacted served the purpose well but that under present conditions the public is no better off. It should bear more of the expense and the property owners on the highway adjacent thereto to be relieved of some of the burden.

She said she would recommend a gasoline tax in preference to the law as it now stands.

A question box conducted by Mr. Stephens aided the discussion and proved helpful in answering a number of questions on current topics.

TO THE CITIZENS OF NOVI

Never before since the organization of the Red Cross has it been called into action, as it has in the twelve months just passed. It has solved in 75 domestic disasters, helping in several foreign countries, besides Florida and Mississippi.

There was donated alone to the Mississippi flood over one million and a half dollars. Can we not make a noble effort to go over the top this year with our membership in thankfulness that we are not included in the list of cyclones, floods or any serious disaster?

"BEAUTIFUL ISLE" NOT VULGAR STATES LOCAL MINISTER Takes Issue with Assertion of Boston Cardinal in the Matter

Rev. William Richards is not quite agreed with what William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, has to say relative to the hymn "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

"Of course the hymn is not probably just as definite as it should be; but I do not believe it is traddle and vulgar," said the Northville pastor.

The song so loved by President McKinley, that he asked that it be sung at his funeral, has in the past few days been subjected to criticism on the part of some church dignitaries, but Rev. Richards believes it will be sung for many years to come.

"The one thing about it is the indecisiveness of its expression. 'Somewhere' is the word that to my mind gives rise to the objection," said Rev. Richards.

According to Boston dispatches, the singing at funerals of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" is forbidden by William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Boston. His action has received public endorsement from several Boston Protestant clergymen.

The hymn the cardinal says is not only "vulgar" but "vain" and "trashy."

After identifying "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" as among several English compositions composed by people who have no faith, yet plenty of赚钱 sentiment, the cardinal gives notice that organists and choir directors, who permit its use will be immediately suspended or discharged.

I call this to the attention of the pastors and the people in order that this revolting experience will not be repeated," says an official pronouncement made public today through the Pilot, official organ of the archdiocese. The cardinal terms the hymn a "vagrant outcast" to faith and a "favorite sub-producer."

The Rev. J. C. Massé, Baptist pastor of the Tremont Temple, said he would prefer never to have the hymn sung in his church. He agreed with Cardinal O'Connell that it "verged on the mauldin." He explained that he thought the popularity was due in a large part to the fact that the music was particularly well adapted to singing by a quartet, but he said it "carried a religious message or meaning."

Dr. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street church, Congregationalist Methodist, pastor of the Dame Dorchester Memorial church, said he would not go quite such lengths as the Catholic priests in criticizing the hymn but would be glad to have fewer such songs in church and funeral use.

The words are as follows:

Somewhere the sun is shining,
Somewhere the song-birds dwell;
Bush, then thy sad repining,
God lives and all is well.

Refrain:

Somewhere, somewhere,
Beautiful Isle of Somewhere!
Land of the true where we live anew,
Beautiful Isle of Somewhere.

Somewhere the day is longer,
Somewhere the task is done;
Somewhere the heart is stronger,
Somewhere the guardian won.

Somewhere the load is lifted,

Close by an open gate;

Somewhere the clouds are rifted;

Somewhere the angels wait.

The words of the hymn were written by Jessie B. Pounds, the music by J. S. Farns. The hymn was copyrighted in 1897.

There is no foundation for the widespread notion that fish is particularly valuable as a brain food. The idea seems to have originally gained headway because fish was supposed to contain relatively large proportions of phosphorus. There is, however, no experimental evidence to warrant the assumption that phosphorus is any more essential to the brain than nitrogen, potassium or any other element that occurs in its tissues. Various other foods furnish a higher proportion of phosphorus than fish.

The population problem is one of immediate concern to the globe, warns Professor E. A. East of Harvard University. Available food supply, he states, can eventually sustain a total of only 8,000,000 persons, which number, judging by the current rate of increase, will be reached in about 100 years.

CHAMPIONS OF BASEBALL SERIES ATTEND BANQUET

Capt. Denniston Honors Men Who Aided His Team To Win Cup

Capt. Edward Denniston, of the Detroit House of Corrections, was the host Saturday night, at a banquet given at the Statler hotel in Detroit, in honor of the De-Ho-Co baseball team, winners of the Inter-County League championship. The event was a most pleasant one, and reflected high credit upon everyone who had anything to do with its arrangement. The program, a classic for printing, was a product of the Detroit House of Correction print shop.

It was shortly after 8:00 o'clock when the 200 guests entered the beautifully decorated banquet hall. Michael J. Quan, of Chicago, a personal friend of Capt. Denniston, acted as toastmaster of the evening. Mayor John W. Smith, who was to have been one of the speakers, was unable to be present, but President Thomas F. O'Mara of the Inter-County League, and Edward J. Lyon, president of the Municipal Employees club, and one or two other speakers provided an interesting program.

Capt. Denniston and his players were highly complimented upon their victory in the baseball series.

To each of the players was presented with a check, a trophy and a picture of the team by Capt. Denniston, at the end of the program. He stated that it was a pleasure to him to be able to greet the visitors, and that he was more elated than they were over their victory, as such a thing were possible.

The program contained the following sketch of baseball history at the House of Correction from a very interesting article.

Tonight we gather together to pay homage to you our Champions. Very distinctly and vividly we remember the first game of ball, every played by a De-Ho-Co team, in September, 1920.

Wouldn't we like to turn time backward and see that game all over again, to see those long, lean, awkward boys—mostly inmates—hungry for victory, and fighting desperately until the last man was out in the ninth.

There was our right fielder, one of our brood of inmates, weighing only a few pounds less than a horse, but how he could bust the ol' apple. And over on first base was another inmate, an old man, scarcely under sixty years of age, thin and pale, and had tall thumbs and had to be put in the hole because he was a bad boy, but he had that fighting spirit.

A championship team was in the making, though, and each succeeding year has seen a better team.

You have proved what can be accomplished by the power of continuous efforts. Sometimes the line between victory and defeat lies so fine you didn't know it. How many of you have felt like throwing up your hands when a little more effort, a little more determination would have achieved victory?

In baseball, sometimes prospects may seem darker when really they were on the turn. That little persistence, that little extra effort, and what seemed like a certain defeat was turned into a glorious victory.

With our boys there was no failure, except in no longer trying. There was no defeat, except from within, no really insurmountable barrier save your own inherent weakness of purpose.

The success of any great team sometimes hinges on the good judgment of their manager, and still the efforts of that one man might count for little unless he has the full co-operation of his men to carry out his plans.

In every successful adventure, whether it be a baseball team, a bank, a school, a factory or a prison, the spirit of team play and co-operation runs through and inspires the entire team. The success or failure of any team depends largely upon the mental and moral qualities of each player.

A Ball Club such as you are, that is imbued with an earnest fighting spirit, an unswerving desire to do the thing that should be done and always with determination and good sportsmanship, should be ranked with the great.

So, our congratulations go out to you, team, because we can conceive of no greater, nobler, more heroic bunch of ball players, and you brought back what seven other teams went after—THE BACON.

EFFICIENCY OF NORTHLVILLE AND SALEM FIRE DEPTS.
SAVES YOUNG'S CREAMERY

Timely work on the part of neighbors and the Northville fire department in putting out the small blaze last Monday at the Young's farm, when the creamery caught on fire, prevented a big loss.

The large boiler in the creamery became overheated and started some nearby sawdust on fire. The flames rapidly spread to the roof, but before much damage was done the Northville and Salem fire departments had the blaze well in control. This was the second time this building has been on fire.

About the only damage that will need immediate attention will be the repairing of the roof or replacing it.

Girls in search of husbands are advised to "go west." In the state of Washington there are 27,195 more men of marriageable age than there are girls; Idaho has a surplus of more than 30,000 men while Montana and Oregon are also girl shy. Alaska's surplus of bachelors now totals 2,567.

The Indian government has instructed its censors to eliminate from motion picture scenes depicting illicit love between white men and women, revolutions, night life, and other features which might lower the Indians' idea of western civilization.
