OBITUARY

Emma Elmer, daughter of the late Charles and Ethel Elmer, was born in Northville, June 2nd, 1891. She died on December 28, 1927, at the Arden home in Detroit. A twin of Mrs. Elmer, her brother, Fred, died in 1926. Her mother, Mrs. Elmer, died in 1921. She is still living the part of the family. In the fall of 1927, she was visited in and around Novi, by Mr. and Mrs. John and Mrs. Willard, of Detroit, also four grandchildren, Donald, Margaret, Florence and Gladys. There are also four great grandchildren. She was a good Christian woman of a sunny disposition and much stricken helpless a year ago by apoplexy, was a faithful mother not only to her own children but to her grandchildren their mothers having died when they were small.

The funeral was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Siskoff, December 29th, burial taking place in Rural Hill cemetery.

PONTIAC SIX IS SHOWING ITS NEW MODELS FOR 1928

Attractive Car. Bound to Make Hit With Autocists.

The second "birthday" anniversary of the Pontiac Six was marked Thursday, January 5th, by the first public display in dealers' showrooms of the New Series Pontiac Six, which is said to surpass in beauty, power and performance all previous offerings of the Oakland Motor Car Company in the field of the low-priced six-cylinder field.

The new Pontiac Six chassis with four-wheel brakes, gasoline pump, an entirely new radiator which prevents evaporation, semi-coincidental lock, improved carburetion, crankcase ventilation, new cylinder head, high compression, new clutch and steering gear, heavier frame and other mechanical advances, appears to justify the statement of the manufacturer that it is "new from radiators to tail lights."

Briefly stated, the company is offering "a little more car" at the same base price.

Although the new series has the same number of cars that comprised the 1927 line, two of the new models carry new types of bodies representing the latest "varieties" in Fisher design.

The two new body types are the Sport Landau Sedan and Four-Door Sedan, which superseded the former Landau and Delaine Landau Sedans. The Five-Door Sedan, the coupe, the Sport Cabriolet, and the Sport Roadster again are included among the six body choices, but all have been completely re-designed and styled models carry the latest Fisher body creations.

New Daco colors, new fenders, headlamps and many other refinements.

But the beauty of the New Series Pontiac Six is not "skin deep." Under that sleek new hood is an engine which develops 43 horsepower at 2600 r.p.m. in a substantial increase over the power of the previous Pontiac.

This greater power gives even better acceleration, while the new equalized and mechanically operated four-wheel brakes provide correspondingly sure and rapid deceleration. The front brakes are internal and the rear are external. If the brakes are applied while the car is making a turn, the outside front wheel automatically rolls free—a safety factor which enables the driver to retain full control under all conditions. A separate internal parking brake is provided on the rear wheels.

One of the outstanding pioneering features of the new car is a radically changed principle of engine cooling as embodied in the unique cross-flow radiator from which it is practically impossible to lose either water or antifreeze solution by a leak. The water flow, however, is through radiator cells instead of against them. In either radiator, the water enters the flow circuit and in the new water pump of the balanced impeller type.

Among other important changes on the engine are the adoption of the G-M-R cylinder-head and the replacement of the conventional vacuum tank with a gasoline pump, two late developments, both of which are proven successful on the Oakland All-American Six.

The new G-M-R cylinder head (developed by the General Motors Research Engineers) is of the same type as the one in the 1927 Pontiac.

Besides continuing the convenient foot-operated tilt-ray feature in the improved headlamps, a combination stop and tail light has been added, the powerful stop light being so wired that the driver may turn it on for use as a backing light.

Although the New Series Pontiac retains its former wheelbase of 110 inches for ease of handling and parking, the car has the appearance of being considerably larger and more spacious, the solid appearance given the front wheels by the front brake drums, front hood with hood sills completely covering the front of the frame by its Indian head radiator cap. This year the radiator and the new raised panel on top of the hood are nearly two inches higher than in 1927. Full

THE ONE AND ONLY AUTHENTIC
STORY OF THE GREAT WORLD HERO

LINDBERGH
Written by "The Lone Eagle" himself
With an introduction by Ambassador Myron T. Herrick

MILLIONS of people have cheered him; endless pages of words have been said, sung and written in his praise but LINDBERGH—the modest, unassuming, lovable boy—could not be spoiled by applause or acclaim.

But how HE felt through it all—his own story—this "Lindie" now's but Lindbergh himself.

And that is what he tells in this thrilling story "AND THAT RECOUNTS HIS EARLY LIFE IN ADVENTURES BOTH IN AND OUT OF THE AIR LINEA SIR NICE," his formal acceptance of the flights from San Diego to New York and Long Island to Paris; the instruments he used to guide him, and the pomp and pageantry of the receptions abroad and at home, and his own ideas as to the future of aviation.

NO AMERICAN WILL REALIZE THE FULLNESS OF THE HEROIC AGE HE LIVES IN UNTIL HE HAS READ THIS FOREVER-MEMORABLE STORY THAT APPEARS FOR THE FIRST TIME IN ANY NEWSPAPER.

"Lindy's" story will begin January 8th!

FORMER RESIDENT OF NORTHLAKE IN CHARGE OF SCHOOL

New York Paper has Written up of work being done
by James Dubiar

James F. Dubiar, well known former Northville resident, is given special mention in a recent issue of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Post-Standard, in buildings at the State Ranger school of New York.

The article, an interesting one, under a Kansan, N. Y., date line follows:

Students who come to this hamlet next March to take the courses at the State Ranger school, about one and a half miles from here, will not have to sleep in tents in zero weather, nor have to wear mackinaws and gloves while they are drawing maps of the terrain after a hard day's work in the woods. For unlike the first class at the institution in 1912, which suffered hardships while being trained in the ways of forestry, they will live in a $200,000 building just opened.

The first group of students, who came from all parts of the country to take the course at the local school, the only institution of its kind in the world, heard the lectures in a building in the hamlet and lived in a boarding house. There was no equipment for the school at the present site except a couple of tents. However, the next spring officials of the State College of Forestry at Syracuse university, under whose auspices the school was opened, decided to build a frame building in the heart of the wilderness. The students, a few carpenters and villagers put the building up, although weather went below zero many days at a time.

The next year's class, which entered in the fall of 1913, found a building, but as there was not an adequate heating plant, the students got their first taste of being forest rangers by trying to keep the fire going in the chunk stoves and fireplaces. That winter was another of the kind for which Wanakena is noted and lumberman's clothes were worn all the time.

After the year's officials were given their first realization that the school would prove to be a vital part in the breen between the professional men of Oak Monday. Miss Janet Cunold and family and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Travis entered their home with them to come in large numbers and the winter of 1925 saw several members of the staff being forced to live in tents. It is the third year that the dormitory has been built.

Several years of considerable time were given to the project of constructing an additional building which would be adequate for the students to live and work in, and 1925 is the realization of that idea. In that year the legislature appropriated $200,000 for a new building and equipment. The new building offers all the latest type of equipment and gives a fine view of Chamberlain Lake which it fronts.

Refinement fails to find a place in the program for the amount of work that is crammed into one year of intensive study does not permit it. However, the Rangers, as villagers call them, take long canoe rides in the lake in the fall and summer, while a track meet is held annually with the forestry college students from Syracuse on the plains near the school.

Establishment of the school was made possible in 1912 by the gift of 1,800 acres of land near the hamlet by the Rich Lumber company. Some of the tract has been cut over for soft woods, while much was burned over and offered as ideal place for the training of foresters. Reforestation projects have been on the leading plans since the school was founded.

James F. Dubiar who received his master's degree in forestry at Michigan in 1915, came here in 1920 to succeed Robert Craig as director and still holds that position. Professors at the school are Ross A. Williams, Montana and Yale, C. C. Delavan, Michigan, and G. Geitz, Penn State.

According to some physicians it is inadvisable to disturb a biting mosquito, for the reason that he first injects a poison to dilute the blood, and then when the meal is over will suck the poison back. If the mosquito is driven away the poison remains, causing the pain and swelling of mosquito bites.

WATER SYSTEM IN PLYMOUTH IS NOT PAYING ITS WAY

Some Talk Among Officials of the City About Raising Rates

Northville residents will be interested in knowing that there is considerable discussion in Plymouth relative to raising the water rates. City officials have pointed out that the water system is not paying its way, and they are suggesting that the rates be increased.

In a recent issue the Plymouth Mail had the following to say relative to the situation:

"It may not be generally understood among the property owners of Plymouth that for several years our water works expenses have increased to such an extent that relief must be sought elsewhere. The expenses are exceeding the income by many dollars, new mains being the larger item of outlay. The present bonded indebtedness of the water works department is $180,000. We have to pay over $14,000 on these bonds every year as principal and interest."

The operating statement taken from last year's audit made by Miller, Bailey & Co., the public accountants employed by the village, shows a total income for the year of $15,744.01. The total expenses for last year from this operating statement is $20,571.03. This shows a net loss exclusive of depreciation of $4,727.04. The depreciation for last year equalled $2,611.14. Therefore the net loss for the year ending March 31, 1927, was $9,533.18.

Last year's audit also shows a additional deficit incurred before the fiscal year 1926 of $6,423.78, which had been taken out of the general fund of the village and has never been replaced. Another deficit which will show up in this year's audit amounts to $3,124.73. These are extensions which were made last year and paid out of this year's budget. These last three deficits amount to $19,086.69.

Long Distance Rates Are Surprisingly
Low...for Instance

For $1.00
(or less)

You can call the following points and talk three minutes, after 8:30 p.m., at the rates shown. Rates are proportionately reasonable to all other points.

From Northville to

BALTIMORE	$1.00
BUFFALO	.70
CHICAGO	.65
CINCINNATI	.65
DAVENPORT, IA.	.95
INDIANAPOLIS	.65
MILWAUKEE	.70
MADISON	.85

The rates above are quoted for station-to-station calls, and are effective between 8:30 p.m. and 4:30 a.m. A station-to-station call is one that is made to a telephone number, as in a local call, rather than to some person in particular. If you do not know the number of the distant telephone, give the operator the name and address and specify that you will talk to "anyone" who answers at the called telephone.

Day rates, 4:30 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., and evening rates, 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., are somewhat higher than night rates for this class of calls.

Additional rate information may be secured by calling the Long Distance operator.

There's a world of satisfaction in owning a washer that does the washing speedily and at the same time so gently that even the most delicate garments may be entrusted to it without fear of their coming to the slightest harm. No method of washing has ever been discovered which surpasses in speed or gentleness the Easy method of washing by air pressure and suction. This is a point worth remembering if you are puzzled over the problem of what type and make of washer to buy.

JOHN FITZGIBBON

The other night newspaper men of Michigan and old associates of John Fitzgibbon gave a banquet in his honor. Something like 300 editors and publishers were present. Not before, as far as anyone knows, have so many Michigan newspaper men been together at one time, and all came to pay tribute to one who over a period of nearly half a century has honored the BUSINESS he has been in by strict loyalty to his paper and the impartial way he has prepared his reports of the various events assigned him to cover.

His success in the newspaper world is due to just one thing—undaunted loyalty to The Detroit News. If a man is loyal to his job, you need have no fear as to his ultimate outcome. Nothing else has ever counted for much in Fitzgibbons' life except The Detroit News. And why shouldn't such a man be honored by his associates in business? Why shouldn't The Detroit News see to it that John Fitzgibbon has an income to his dying day? There is nothing—not one thing—so important in this world as loyalty to your job, loyalty to your friends and loyalty to your country. All honor to John Fitzgibbon, whose loyalty has won him lasting fame in the newspaper world.

LET'S GO!

The New Year is here. It came in like the March lion, full of pep and ginger. Apparently the weather man thought that was the best way to start the youngsters off in life.

There is this about it. It furnishes us a very good example of what we do ourselves. The New Year is here. Wipe off the slate all that was unpleasant in the past year. Forget it.

Begin 1928 right. While 1927 was a big year for Northville, we can make 1928 even greater. No community around here can boast of so much development and progress as Northville in the past twelve months. Let us join in one big effort to make 1928 bigger and better than ever.

We have a wonderful advantage here. Northville is blessed by the best community spirit in all the state. There are no factions no little cliques pulling in different ways. True, we do not all agree on everything that happens and is done, but that is simply natural.

In some cities you find one crowd fighting the other crowd. A lot of these conditions develop from politics, situated in the postoffice, there were no religion and business.

But here Republicans and Democrats, if there are any, Methodists, Presbyterians, Catholics and Israelites, the banks, business men and those of the professions are all united when it comes to Northville and its affairs.

It is the spirit that gives Northville the high reputation it enjoys around the state. Few communities are so favorably known as this one. It is the spirit which has enabled the town to steadily push ahead during a period when progress has been halted all over the country because of slack business.

Maybe this is a little beside the point—but there is another thing—that is helping Northville forward more. There are less kickups in Northville than any other place in the world. Sometimes someone will express a doubt as to the advisability of some action, but there are no indignation meetings, no serious protests to anything which has for its apparent benefit the community as a whole.

ADVERTISING

Someone the other day said something to the effect that Northville was not getting any advertising in the world at large because it happens to be the home of the manufacturing plant of the Stinson airplane. These doubtful Thomases should go out and buy the January issue of the Popular Aviation Magazine, one of the biggest publications devoted to the aircraft industry. In this issue is a full page devoted to the Stinson monoplane, with plenty of Northville printed all over the page, and a lot of data and information pertaining to the plane and its wonderful performances. Yes, folks, we are getting a lot of mighty good advertising outside of The Nebbs. And did you ever stop to think that all of the advertising this town gets is of a very favorable nature, even in The Nebbs?

OUR POSTMASTER

Some people around town may think we are going to say these nice words about our postmaster because he happens to be the editor's landlord. Well, that isn't so. In fact, we have reason to feel right the other way because he is constantly threatening to set us out on the street unless we pay more rent. For the life of us, it's hard to figure out why he should want more rent for the room that shelters us and, therefore, has been some hard figuring, too.

Now that you know a little family gossip, here is what we want to say about him. Northville, as a community, Mr. Neal, should thank you and your efficient force for the remarkable service given at Christmas time. All previous records for large shipments of both incoming and outgoing mail were broken. Never before was the postoffice so swamped with business as this year. Hundreds of mail sacks went in and out of the office each day. The Christmas edition of the Record was also its largest. As a result of the excellent system Mr. Neal inaugurated in the postoffice, there were no days in getting mail out on time or in delivering it just as fast as it was received. There were no long lines kept waiting in the postoffice. It is doubtful if anyone had to wait over five minutes at any one time for window service—a most remarkable thing.

We all appreciate the high class service, Mr. Postmaster, and we want to thank you.

NOT SURPRISING

Editor Nowack of the Michigan State Digest says the skids are under the VERY HONORABLE ARCHIE REED of Detroit. This deep thinking statesman from Detroit has been a member of the lower house for two terms, and according to the State Digest has been a man to go back for another term, but his prospects are not all that they should be, says the Digest. Thus editor usually knows.

"Well, it isn't hard to explain. Archie is the king of a fellow who has long posed as a very great friend of Warden Harry Jackson of the Michigan State Prison. Now, if you had a friend, you wouldn't expect to find him trying to land someone else on your job, would you?" Hardly. It seems that Archie has deep interest in the repudiated former mayor of Detroit, Johnny Smith. For some weeks past Archie has been trying to induce high state officials to kick almost efficient prison warden out so as to give little Johnny of Detroit the warden's job. As to the success he has met in his effort, no one so far knows. But if he has been in the habit of treating his other friends in the same way he is said to be treating his old friend at Jackson, no wonder the skids are under him.

THE HERITAGE OF EXPERIENCE

One of the saddest traits in human nature is its unwillingness to listen. And what a waste there is of vital nervous energy expended in the mad rush into unbroken tracks when travel along the trodden path is ever so much smoother and happier.

With advancing years, one learns through bitter lesson, of course, that truths and principles and practices and conventions which world experience has developed are better after all. But how bitter are the lessons—how wasted the effort—how utterly useless and needless the struggles of him who refuses to listen, who denies the heritage.

Homo sapiens—literally, wise man—is the scientific name of the human, as distinguished from the animal species; yet often the adjective better applies to the animal. For we are prone to egotism, to bigotry, to self assurance, to ruthlessness when opinions of other and elder and experienced friends and associates might better guide.

Be a good listener—but a better guard of tongue, or opinion, or thought, or action.

Accept the heritage of experience—let those about you guide by example and by experience. For experience is free to all—and the experience of the world is of far greater value than you own may ever be.

And, that goes, for business, on for faith in God, or for your own spiritual or domestic content.

Health For The Individual And The Nation

Three million people are sick every day and so prevented from attending to their usual avocations.

The human frame is a delicately balanced piece of mechanism; and health is the proper state for it.

The Master of Life Forces Jesus, called the Christ, did wonderful things for humanity and opened doors so that folks might help themselves. He does the same now as in Galilee nineteen hundred years ago.

Humanity puts its house of flesh to undue tests and then wonders why the Almighty has it in for them.

The whole race is a sinner in body as well as in heart and mind and the search for youth and all around health is continually made.
