

CHURCH HOUSE IS DEDICATED BY COMMUNITY

Hundreds Present at Series of Meetings Held Sunday

It is a big thing, a splendid thing for Northville, to erect a church house like this, says Northville because it is a Northville project even though it has been erected under the direction of the Methodist church. You are entitled to great credit for its accomplishment. It shows a high spirit of community co-operation," declared Bishop Thomas Nicholson Sunday afternoon when the formal dedication of the new Methodist church house took place in the presence of a crowd that packed to the very doors the big room.

To Charles A. Dolan, chairman of the official board of the church, as well as chairman of the building committee, went the honor of formally dedicating the new church house. With a key bearing the date and his name, Mr. Dolan opened the door which marked the beginning of the formal dedication program. With music by the Northville School Community band the afternoon program was of more than ordinary interest.

The day, characterized by a series of notable worthy meetings, and attended by crowds that filled the church, was one of real delight to the pastor, Rev. William Richards.

For him it was the crowning achievement of his seven years of pastorate in Northville. It marked the completion of the biggest church project of this entire district that has taken place in recent years.

Bishop Nicholson stated that the day should be a most happy one not only for the pastor, the church, but all of Northville.

"It takes real community spirit to do a thing like this, a community that apparently does and should work together for the accomplishment of the best there is in life," said the Bishop.

At the three meetings held Sunday there were present a total of over 1200 people and while the pledges offered at the meetings were generous, the total is not sufficient to complete the payment of the entire cost, it was stated by one of the officials of the board.

In the sermon delivered Sunday morning before a congregation that completely filled the auditorium, Bishop Nicholson laid the things which go to make better the Christian world, and deplored the general tendency of the times to "disobey the law."

"In spite of all the things which have happened and are happening to shake one's faith in the righteousness of things, he pointed out that the world was surely and constantly growing better."

"They told us when we were asking for a dry nation that the government could not exist without the revenue from the intoxicants that were sold. I noticed the other day where the president was asking for consideration of ways to spend the vast surplus that we have accumulated in the last eight years," he said.

"Not so long ago a great English leader declared that that nation could not hope to compete with other American industry, and that if England wanted to keep pace with America, it too must adopt the dry standards of living that prevail in this country."

"Surely we are getting better. It is our faith in the righteousness of things that lead us from one generation to the other with higher standards and a greater Christian faith," declared Bishop Nicholson.

"His sermon, filled with displays of a rare knowledge of the Bible, Bible history and modern day conditions, was listened to with the keenest attention by the hundreds that were present."

Among one of the pleasing things at the morning service was a solo by Miss June Filkins. The musical program by the choir, as well as a special number by the Junior choir, also was exceptionally good.

SHOWS FRIENDSHIP BY A GIFT OF GOLD

Rev. William Richards was given a real surprise Monday when during a meeting of the Detroit Preachers Association out at the William H. Maybury Sanatorium, he was presented with a gold watch worth $100.00.

"This is for you personally and it represents in a small way my appreciation of the many fine things you have done for me. On numerous occasions you have taken opportunity to show your good will and friendship, and I hope that this slight token will be an evidence of my sentiment," stated the director of the big institution.

Rev. Richards expressed his great surprise as well as thanks in a brief response. The nearly 100 members of the Detroit Preachers Association had come to Northville to hold their meeting Monday noon in the new Methodist church house.

As a part of the program of the day a visit was made to the Maybury Sanatorium, the Detroit House of Correction farm, and the Wayne County Training school.

At a banquet given by members of the Rotary and Exchange clubs to members of the Northville high school football team Monday evening in the Presbyterian church, Coach Harrison Jones awarded to its members of the football squad letters for the season of 1928.

The awards were made business men of the community applauded the youths in the honor that had come to them.

The banquet, one of the outstanding local events of the year, was featured by a remarkably interesting talk by Coach Fielding H. Foster of the University. Brief talks were made by Scott Lovewell, president of the Exchange club, and Dr. Howard Bushart, president of the Rotary.

Captain John Leavenworth of the team, who responded most acceptably to the award made his team by the coach.

John Kaldenbach was a toastmaster that provided plenty of entertainment for the evening. Ray Van Vleetenburgh sang two pleasing solos.

Coach Yost explained the fact that the message he brought for the evening was entirely for the boys on the team, who were the guests of the two clubs. Mr. Yost told the boys that they should be as great in defeat as in victory, and said he believed that the good losers were the bigger winners.

He said it wasn't possible to win every game as the law of average brings defeat to everyone, but the team or the man that gave his best in football or in business was always the more successful.

"Many boys come to Ann Arbor with great hopes of making the football team without giving their best. Some think they can loaf and let others do the work, but to those of you who feel that way, let me make it clear now, that as long as I am coaching there will be no loafers on the Michigan football field."

The more a player or business man put into his work or game the more he is bound to get out of it. But without the necessary effort a player or business man soon loses any chance of success he may have.

Coach Yost gave a description of the various phases of the University has arranged for their students to play. He stated that the entire athletic program, which has nearly been completed, has been made possible by the construction of the great Michigan stadium.

"The stadium has been the key to our entire expansion. It has built us gymnasiums, field houses, the new international sports building, given us 47 tennis courts, the most complete indoor ice skating rink in the country, which by the way will be open for six months and has given us two miles of playgrounds. These various units of our great expansion have cost $3,500,000, all of which have been paid by the great game of football."

Girls as well as the boys are entitled to the harvest reaped from the football season. All of the various sports buildings are for them as well as boys. One whole building is used completely by the girls for various kinds of sports. The rooms are furnished with beautiful overstuffed furniture, grand pianos and every luxury one would hope to find. There is no school that offers the fine opportunities to the young people of today as does Michigan, if they will only take advantage of them when they are there.

Northville Commandery, No. 39, enjoyed the best annual inspection last Tuesday evening that has been held for several years.

Eminent Sir Clyde Fulton, Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Commandery, K. T. of Michigan, was present to make the annual report as to the work and equipment of the local Commandery.

Following a Methodist all his own the Sir Knights of the order of the Temple as conferred upon John W. L. Hicks of Redford, and he commented on the general value of the presentation and the impressive of the ritual as it affected officers and candidate.

At an officers meeting after the work a detailed report of each man's part was submitted and very helpful suggestions were given.

A University Professor Gives Rotary Idea of Service

It remained for William A. Frayer, professor of history at the University of Michigan and president of the Ann Arbor Rotary club, to give Northville Rotarians a slight historical jolt Monday, when he declared that the declaration of "My country, right or wrong," that has come down through American history as an emblem of rare patriotism was about the most assume assertion ever made.

Think of it—my country, right or wrong. Maybe you will think I am committing treason to criticize the utterance of this patriot, but that has been one of the troubles of this old world, too much nationalism.

"We are getting away from it, and the further we get away from it and spread the net of brotherhood among nations the better we will be off," said Prof. Frayer.

"Civilization is a long way from reaching the ultimate goal of perfection. I am not quite so sure that back in the old ages there might not have been, in some things, a higher state of civilization than exists today."

Of course, we all know that there was a period in the world's history, commonly referred to as the dark ages when practically no change took place. There was no progress and just how much civilization deteriorated at that time no one knows.

FINAL REPORT OF AUDITORS IS FILED WITH CITY

Exhaustive Investigation Shows No Shortage of Funds

The final report of the audit made of village books, papers and records by the Commercial Service Bureau, public accountants of Detroit, has been filed with the village commission. The report, a most exhaustive one, shows that a most minute inspection of city records has been made and that while a few minor discrepancies have been discovered, there is no shortage of funds in any of the departments.

The report has revealed the fact well known to village officials for sometime, that Northville in the past has had a very loose system of keeping its records. But that condition has now been remedied.

The investigation of city stocks ordered during the administration of former mayor Elmer Smith and wisely continued by Mayor Charles Filkins was taken months to complete. Because of the way the accounts were kept the job was a most difficult one but the auditing company has finally been able to present an exact statement of every village fund.

The audit that was filed with the village March first of the present year and which was not published at that time, has been ordered published by the village commission. Some of the detail of the report is omitted but this portion can be seen at the village clerk's office in the city hall if any one desires to look it over.

The audit that the present commission had made covers the period since last March and up to November. This is also published at the direction of the commission in this week's issue of the Record. The reports are of so detailed a nature that it would take many pages to publish all of them, but Mayor Filkins and the members of the commission state that any one who desires to look at the detailed reports may do so by going up to the clerk's office.

The two investigations, which have continued for a period of nearly a year will clear up many rumors that have been circulated about the streets by one or two persons. During a discussion of the matter following the presentation of the reports by Harry German, chairman of the special auditing committee, Mayor Filkins declared that he was not content to let some of the charges made by one or two individuals go unchallenged. He hinted possible criminal action when he said that he didn't think because he was mayor of the village that any person could say anything they wanted to about his character and reputation.

Considerable of the taxpayers' money has been spent by the commission in its effort to have the village accounts straightened up and to satisfy some of the critics of the administration as to village funds. The two separate audits made by reputable auditors is the commission's answer to charges made by one or two of its opponents.

WEST POINT PARK BAZAAR
A bazaar will be held at the West Point Park Community hall at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, December 8th. Many beautiful goods will be on sale in the afternoon. A self-serve dinner will be served at 6:00 o'clock, after which a short program will be presented. One of the features of the evening's entertainment will be a play given by a Farmington organization. Members of the committee working out details for the afternoon and evening bazaar are: Mrs. E. J. B. and Mrs. E. J. B. and Mrs. E. J. B.

STORES FILLED WITH QUALITY CHRISTMAS GIFTS

The Northville Merchants Have Purchased Wisely for You

Filled to overflowing, the mercantile houses of Northville have put in the biggest stock of Christmas goods the stores of this place have ever carried. For days every store in town has been receiving big shipments of merchandise acceptable for Christmas gifts.

Local merchants have purchased wisely. They have filled their stores with gifts of a useful nature—gifts that will mean something to the receiver.

The buyer will have the advantage of the early purchasing of the local merchants—because in the early selection of goods they have been able to secure the best market prices.

There is nothing new in Christmas that cannot be right in Northville—valuable jewelry down to the low wearing apparel—just everything one may desire.

Gifts for the home from the finest furniture stores in Michigan—gifts for the mother or daughter from the numerous stores in Northville offering everything the little girl, young lady, or mother might desire.

For the boy the young man and "dad," there is everything his heart could wish in the clothing stores, and if it should be shoes, slippers, hunting boots, the shoe stores of town offer them in quality lots at prices that are bound to satisfy the most careful buyer.

Do you want something for the sportsman—guns, fishing tackle or possibly the finest of tools? The hardware stores of Northville offer you, such.

And the big variety store will provide you with just the thing that you can't find elsewhere.

If it should be the finest of groceries—a nice assortment of fruit, a bank account for some member of the family, the best of toilet articles, and the finest of stationery, Kodaks and the hundred and other acceptable articles that can be found in drug stores there is plenty of opportunity to get just what you want right at home.

LEGION HAS A REAL PURPOSE BACK OF DRIVE
New Members Will Aid Plans of Organization in Draft Law

"Every man and woman who served in the World War should enlist for patriotic service now. At least he or she should subscribe to that service. This can be done by renewing membership, or joining the American Legion this year. This should be done, if for no other reason, than to strengthen the Legion's forces for the passage of the Universal Draft Act."

This statement was made by A. V. Barber, Post Commander of the Legion here today.

The Legion has been working for seven years on this one important project for our nation's security," he explained. "It seems ripe for legislation under National Commander Paul V. McNut at the new session of congress. It will be realized in the ex-service men and women of this country back up the national commanders efforts."

Day after day in Washington, which has heard of the radio throughout the United States in a national hook-up was direct and straight forward in declaring in no mistaken terms for adequate national defense.

The Legion is firmly convinced, "at no better defensible step, nor better guarantee for peace, could be devised than the Universal Draft law that is proposed. Such a law would be both a preparedness measure and a peace measure of common justice. It would make war more remote, because it would take all profit out of war. In the event of war, however it would give the masses whereby the world could be fought and more cheaply than war has ever been fought before. It would do away with the slacker. It would do away with profiteers. Prices would be fixed by the government. The entire resources of the nation, money and man-power, would be at the immediate command of the president if war is declared. We would be prepared to force peace without delay. Delay in the World War cost many lives and a vast amount of money. Every man and woman who was in the World War should support the Legion in this magnificent movement for peace. Membership in the Legion will subscribe to such support."

FOUR INJURED IN AUTO CRASH ON GRAND RIVER

Detroit Cab Driver Drives Head-On into Car from Lansing

Four people are in Alhison hospital suffering from severe injuries received Sunday night, when about midnight a Checker cab driver, named Sol Brennan of Detroit, collided head-on with the Reo sedan, in which they were returning from Detroit to their home in East Lansing.

The injured are: O. J. Cook, 34 years old, nose broken, leg crushed and cuts about face and body.

Mrs. O. J. Cook, 28 years old, face and neck badly cut.

Helen Walker, face and arms cut.

Pauline and Virginia, the two young babies of the Cooks in the car, escaped without injury.

The accident happened over near Novi on Grand River, when Brennan turned out to go by a truck. In doing so he ran head-on into the Lansing bound sedan. The Reo caught fire and was completely destroyed. The Cook family has been at the home of Mrs. Cook's parents, Miss Walker, a maid in their home, had been to Detroit with them.

They were carried into the home of a farmer who immediately called Chief of Police William Safford for aid. Riffing out the details of the accident, Chief Safford secured the Schrader ambulance and with Ray Castlerline hurried to the accident.

Nothing had been done to move the wreckage and Grand River traffic was blocked with long strings of cars. Taking care of the injured, who had been given first aid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Swartz, Chief Safford opened the highway to traffic.

Mr. Swartz was the first to call aid. In fact, it was through his efforts that the injured family was given immediate care.

Some officer from Oakland county, who was found in the crowd watching the automobile burn up, was induced to place Sol Brennan, driver of the car that caused the accident, in custody, and took him to Pontiac, where he was booked up.

Reports from Alhison hospital state that all of the injured are getting along nicely. The family resides at 439 Haslett street, in East Lansing.

MAKING CHRISTMAS A HAPPY ONE

Here is your opportunity to do something for the needy at Christmas time.

The King's Daughters of Northville, an organization composed of ladies, who do charity work of the real kind, and who see to it that every cent donated for the purpose is given, is now ready to receive Christmas donations.

The committee is in charge of Mrs. Blanche McKinney and Mrs. Ray Richardson and any donations which can be used will be most acceptable.

DANIEL KYSOR FALLS DEAD IN HIS HOME HERE

Prominent Citizen Taken Suddenly Wednesday Morning

Daniel S. Kysor, for the past 15 years one of Northville's highly respected citizens, dropped dead at his home on Rayson street, Wednesday morning. He had just been out to sweep the snow off the walk and had returned within the house when Mrs. Kysor heard him fall on the floor. A doctor was immediately called, but he said death had apparently taken place immediately at the time of the fall.

It was only Sunday when he had celebrated his 77th birthday, the children from Detroit coming out to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. Kysor. He had been in the best of health during recent years and his death was a great surprise. Mr. and Mrs. Kysor a year ago thanks-giving celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They were married at Hornell, New York, where Mrs. Kysor, formerly Clymena Johnson, lived. Burial will take place in the family lot in Hornell.

Mr. Kysor was born in Sparta, New York, December 2, 1851. He was a millwright and in the lumber business all of his life until his retirement some 15 years ago, when the family came to Northville to make their home. Besides Mrs. Kysor there are seven children who survive, some living in Detroit and the others in New York.

The funeral was held from the home Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Rev. Frank P. Knowles of the Presbyterian church officiating. The body was taken to New York, where it will be buried.

Few Russian Nihilists

In the years that Nihilism was active in Russia its extent was not known, but the government thought it was a secret organization of considerable size. One of its members now makes a statement that it never had a membership of more than forty and that the active membership often dwindled to eight.

Charles Dolph, president and general manager of the Globe Furniture company, is a most observing citizen. As he has traveled up and down the streets of Northville during the present summer, he has kept a check on automobiles from other states that have been at various times parked about the thoroughfares. Out of the 43 States he has seen automobiles from 23, and there might have been others here that he didn't see," he says.

NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1928

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

During the two-day stay over at the meeting of the University of Michigan Press Club session a week or so ago, there was a discussion among a few of the editors in one group pertaining to public ownership of a certain utility in a western Michigan city. One of the professors of the University, who was in the group, spoke quite strongly in favor of public ownership of all utilities that serve the public.

The discussion, referred to the mind of the Record editor about five years spent over in the city of Lansing, where both the light and water plants and the garbage system are owned and operated by the public.

If one wants to get a real example of the sure, miserable way in general run of employees of a public owned utility treat the public, just move over to Lansing and live there a year or so, and you will never again advocate public ownership of anything.

Not only do the employees of the light and water board of Lansing, and probably most other places where utilities are owned and managed by the municipality, treat the public in a most churlish way, but the service rendered, is about as miserable as service can be.

The discussion recalled to mind the difficulty the writer had in having the city turn the water and light on in a house that we were going to move into. Having some knowledge of the delinquent way the department was operated, a visit was made to the office nearly a week previous to the change to make the formal application for service. To be sure there would be no slip up, another visit was made the day previous to the removal to remind the clerk in charge of the change. A search of the records was made.

You have never made any request for service, was the information imparted by this efficient department.

Well I'll make another one now. The next day rolled around. The move had been made and the water and light were on.

The next day rolled around. The move had been made and the water and light were on. The next day rolled around. The move had been made and the water and light were on.

It was a very common thing. Not only so with the water board, but with the light department as well.

During the five years of residence in a city where municipally owned utilities prevail we became thoroughly sold on the idea that public ownership of anything is about the last thing in the world to be desired.

In the same city the gas company was and is operated by a certain man. A similar request had been made for a change in gas service. It was made just the minute it had been requested to have the change made. There was no delay and there were no urgent words from the clerks in charge.

If anyone ever went to the city hall except, possibly some Lansing ward politician and got a pleasant word from some one associated with any of the public owned and managed departments, the writer never heard of him.

There is one thing that privately owned public utilities demand from their employees and that is courteous treatment of the public. It is worth more to the consumer to be treated at least half way than to be treated as a slave. The writer has seen a light and water department where a bunch of chronic grouches and "public-be-damned" employees get their pleasure out of life by making it as disagreeable as they know how for those compelled to do business with them.

A GOOD TIP

If there is anyone in Northville who figures that right now is a good time to buy speculative stocks, here's a tip from Barron's Weekly that is pretty good.

A crude but not unsatisfactory method of selecting the time of purchase and sale of stocks is to buy when business depression is so severe that it becomes front-page news, and sell when, conversely, booming business has become front-page news. The establishment of soup-kitchens for the unemployed, the shut-down of industrial plants, increase in the number and importance of failures are symptoms of such a severe business depression as, sometimes afflicts this country. Never in our history have such depressions continued for long. Always prosperity has returned and carried the value of securities up with it. At the other end of the scale we occasionally have periods of feverish prosperity when everyone is fully employed, factories are running full blast, merchants complain of inability to get deliveries, strikes are frequent and wages are as high as such conditions are as successful as those of severe depression. They are always succeeded by declining business activity and declining security quotations.

Barron's points out that there are no more scientific, and perhaps no exact, indices. One of those on the money rate on sixty day commercial paper, the Harvard Economic Service. A variation of 1% upward in the money rate is a signal to sell stocks; a drop of 1% in money rates is a signal to buy stocks. The other index is the device of Col. Leonard F. Ayres of the Cleveland Trust Company. Col. Ayres has found that when the percentage of blast furnaces in blast crosses the figure of 60% going up or down, crossings usually mark turning points in the securities market.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Mentioning the recent change in size of the Northville Record, the Grand Ledger, Independent, one of Michigan's worth-while papers, has the following comment to make:

OUR CONGRATULATIONS

Elton R. Eaton, who purchased the Northville Record about three years ago, has now increased the size of the paper from a six to a seven column page. Mr. Eaton is giving his constituency a fine newspaper, and, like most unhampered districts, is always a step ahead of the game in this respect.

Colonists Placed Ban on Sumptuous Dress

Nowadays one of the most prominent features in the attire of the fair sex is the use of silks and satins. However, such was not the case with the women in the early days of the colony of Massachusetts. Their mode of dress was not governed by their own discretion and fashions. Rather the authorities took it upon themselves to dictate what should be worn, not only by the women but also that the men folk should dress in accordance with the judgment of those handling the affairs of the community at that time.

As early as 1630 the general court was enacting legislation which provided that if a man was not worth 20 pounds, he was not eligible to wear gold lace or silver buttons on points of the laces. They were not permitted to wear boots except to the Society of Boston then.

As for the women, their apparel was not valued to the extent of 20 pounds. Their attire was not to be made of silk, but of homespun. The law was so strict that if a woman was found wearing a dress of silk, she was to be fined. The law was so strict that if a woman was found wearing a dress of silk, she was to be fined.

Was Not Impressed by Chauncey's Tales

Chauncey's tales of the life of a man in a small town in the state of New York, were not very impressive to the writer. The man was a small, thin, and somewhat awkward looking fellow. He was a man of few words, and his tales were not very impressive to the writer. The man was a small, thin, and somewhat awkward looking fellow. He was a man of few words, and his tales were not very impressive to the writer.

Well, Mr. ———, you certainly seemed to be out of a certain line. The man that addressed the podium to tell us his story, was not very impressive to the writer.

Well I have been contemplating a trip to the state of New York, and I have come to the conclusion that the tales of Chauncey are not very impressive to the writer. The man was a small, thin, and somewhat awkward looking fellow. He was a man of few words, and his tales were not very impressive to the writer.

Varying Size of Berge

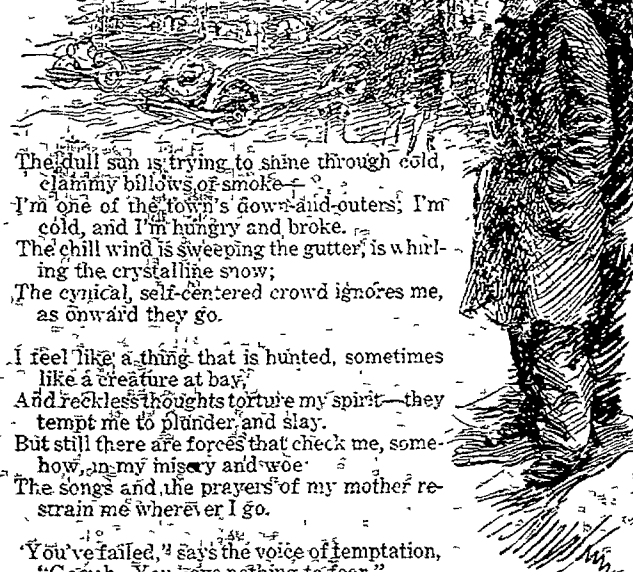

The size of icebergs varies. They may be 100 or more feet high with crests or mounds from 200 to 300 feet above the base, which may be hundreds of yards in length. In the Kennedy channel Greely followed an iceberg which was estimated to be 15 miles long, over 100 feet thick and of unknown breadth. A huge iceberg sighted by the bark Emil Julius in 1884 towered about 1,700 feet above the sea. Only about one-eighth or one-ninth of the mass lies above the water.

If birds have been raiding your orchards the past season you may be glad to know that the presence of wild fruit in the neighborhood will always serve to protect domestic varieties, particularly when these are of the same kind as the tame fruit and ripen earlier. For the farm orchard it frequently would be possible to select ornamental trees or plants for use around the home that would also draw the birds away from the orchard. Such fruits include the guineberries, blackberries and strawberries, viburnum, wild cherry and elderberry. Now is the time to make plans for next spring's planting.

If neither silage nor a root crop is available as a succulent feed for the dairy cow, dried beet pulp soaked with about three times its weight of water makes a satisfactory substitute.

The "Down and Outer"

BY A. J. DUNLAP

The dull sun is trying to shine through cold, clammy billows of smoke. I'm one of the town's down-and-outers, I'm cold, and I'm hungry and broke. The chill wind is sweeping the gutter, is whirling the crystalline snow. The cynical, self-centered crowd ignores me, as onward they go.

I feel like a thing that is hunted, sometimes like a creature at bay. And reckless thoughts torture my spirit—they tempt me to plunder and slay. But still there are forces that check me, somehow, in my misery and woe. The songs and the prayers of my mother restrain me wherever I go.

You've failed," says the voice of temptation, "Go, rob. You have nothing to fear." But swiftly that strain, "Rock of Ages," my memory recalls with a tear. So blow then ye wild winds of earth! My spirit is steeled for the fray. I'll meet her up yonder, I know, redeemed on that wonderful day.

CONGRESS FROM WITHIN

By

GRANT M. HUDSON, Congressman

Michigan, Sixth District

American ships are carrying a huge and ever-increasing American trade to all parts of the world. American capital and American industry are creating wealth in a manner hitherto undreamed of.

America, now, for president the economic influence of Hoover, is not a government, but a business man. In this new Age of Economics it is not a government, but a business man. In this new Age of Economics it is not a government, but a business man.

To me the budget indicates our national development and trade expansion. That means, of course, that the budget is a measure of the country's growth. The budget is a measure of the country's growth.

Among the causes which have boosted the budget up by almost $400,000,000 are included the need for federal buildings in Washington and in other cities of the country. The enlarged appropriation was also caused by increased need for construction for World War veterans as well as for the flood control projects on the Mississippi river.

Facing the House at its opening assembly, Monday, December 3rd, was the huge appropriation mentioned. Facing the Senate in its second session of the 76th Congress are (1) the Boulder Dam project, (2) the Navy Construction Bill, both of which passed the House in the long session, and (3) the Brand-Kellogg Multilateral Treaty.

The rapid growth of the Sixth District cities has constantly called for increased expenditure through the Postoffice Department for larger leased quarters and additional carriers and clerks. The appropriation for the new federal building to be erected on the new site at Flint and the addition which will double the present building in Pontiac, have held my constant attention. Representing these projects the writer appeared before the appropriation committee of the Treasury and Postoffice Departments. At this time it was also thought desirable to start the preliminary surveys for either additional land adjacent to the present site in Lansing or to acquire a new site for a new federal building.

An evidence of the new Age of Economics is seen in President-elect Hoover's trip to South America. His scheme is one of far vision, both diplomatically and commercially. His trip will do everything to destroy the idea of imperialism America seeking to grasp portions of Latin America through capitalistic or other processes.

The Boulder Dam project is a flood control measure of national necessity. As a "power" development scheme it must be thought of seriously. I would much like to see the Senate with reservations prohibiting the government from going into the retail business of distributing power. On that basis, I voted for the bill in the last session of Congress. I believe the bill will pass the Senate. It has already received the President's approval.

The Navy Construction bill, which passed the House in the first session brings up the question involved in the so-called national defense program. Those favoring a greater navy are happily quoting President Coolidge's Armistice Day speech, while others looking toward world disarmament, and the outlawry of war are questioning the bill. The bill which originally provided for almost a billion dollars to carry on the program, was reduced in the House to provide for the replacement of obsolete vessels only.

It is hoped that the Senate will steadily ratify the Multilateral Treaty, but this probably will not do during the period of the short session. Someone has said that there is nothing behind the treaty. There is behind it the signatures of 20 nations with others considering signing. That is all there is behind any treaty. Beyond that and greater than all comes the assistance from all sides that international differences be settled around conference tables and not at the mouth of cannon.

As regards reapportionment, that vital need of Michigan's Sixth District and Farm Relief, it is doubtful whether much can be done in the short session which was started last Monday, December 3rd.

I do not believe the short session could pass any adequate farm relief. The Ways and Means Committee should be given authority to frame a bill for that purpose, and then to advocate the passing of a special session to act upon it. The revision of the tariff should prove effective as a farm relief measure. Should President-elect Hoover call a special session for this purpose, reapportionment could also be decided satisfactorily at this same time.

Michigan's veteran and experienced Lower House members are in Washington to continue their effective work for the best interests of the state. They work in harmony and good will.

Edward M. Plachta, manager of the Plymouth branch office of the Department of State, has received word from Lansing that the assignment of 1929 license plates is being shipped.

Yellow lettering on a black background has been chosen as the color scheme for the new plates. They are ready for distribution and may be used on date of purchase.

Applications for new plates may be obtained at both banks in Northville.

The main congestion in the issuance of the license plates is caused by the delay in filling out applications, and for this reason the banks were asked to assist in distributing them.

Mr. Plachta wishes to state that in order to be able to procure 1929 license plates for new cars purchased previous to December 1st and not bearing 1928 plates an affidavit must be made by the purchaser that said car had not been driven on the highways of Michigan.

Found Few Boyhood Joys

James Gibbons Hunker, the American author, music and dramatic critic, enjoyed the present even to the exclusion of boyhood memories. "Happy days," he questioned of them in his "Sleeping Jack." "Not a bit of it," I hated them then and I look back to them with a sense of regret that they are over and done with. "Often I wished that my childhood could be abolished," I envied my elders, envied their freedom from constitutive criticism, from bullying, from flogging, and a hundred other cruel impediments between my wishes and their fulfillment. "Hunker added, 'I was like other boys of my age and enjoyed myself out of school, but study killed the joy of living.'"—Detroit News.

Catching a Bird

Little Margaret was found playing in the back yard with her grandmother's best salt shaker. Margaret's mother asked what she was doing.

"I'm going to catch a bird," she replied.

"Surely you don't think you can sprinkle salt on a bird's tail and catch it," the mother said.

"But Mr. B. told us that we could sprinkle salt on a bird's tail and catch it," she would not tell a lie for no bird," Margaret insisted.

"What Margaret, there's a possibility,"

"Well, but you can't catch a bird in a cage," I have a sister

Hens can't drink frozen water and they won't eat dry mash freely unless they have water to drink. To keep the water from freezing, some sort of electric heater is advisable. Or just put an electric light with a carbon bulb in a pail. The bulb should be painted black or covered tightly with black cloth, so that no light will be thrown in the pail. Home-made electric heaters are sometimes made by soldering a quart can to the bottom inside of a two-gallon pail. An opening is then cut through the bottom of the pail and through this an electric bulb is placed in the quart can. The whole apparatus should be mounted in a suitable frame so the hens can drink from the pail conveniently.

NORTHVILLE WILL PLAY UNIVERSITY HIGH IN FIRST CAGE GAME

The clash between Northville and St. Thomas high of Ann Arbor, here tonight is expected to be an exceedingly good game.

Although St. Thomas is a Class D school, they have fine material, which will put forth their best efforts. The school is rated high in athletic circles, especially in basketball.

Fischer, an excellent forward will have to be closely watched, as St. Thomas expects much from this man.

No candidate of the Northville squad is sure of his position, but many are members of last year's team, so the outlook is fairly well.

The meeting is more or less of a practice game for both teams, but will prove to be an exciting match.

In addition to our schedule, University high of Ann Arbor, will play Northville here on Saturday night, January 12th.

The support of all sport fans will be greatly appreciated, so come and help your team win.

THOUGHTS IN THE ASSEMBLY

Rolling, rumbling, sounds the thunder.

In the gym, beneath my feet: Reverting my mind on several blunders.

That, no doubt, I'll have to meet My ears expand with increased rumbling.

Also my imagination is set loose. I see myself as traitor trembling.

To the ground, my head in a "boose" Again, I seem to have a sensation.

Of swirling waters above my head: As the rumbling causes great vibration.

To fill my ears with terrible dread. But, hark! The sound has now departed.

Leaving me, with an empty mind. Hooley! Now I can get started.

Thinking of my several studies.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING HELD IN SCIENCE ROOM

The Student Council met at 3:45 Monday after school in the science room.

Many questions were discussed and decided upon. One was the pass for students to the basketball games.

A high school letter of different color than those for the football game was decided upon.

We are to have advertising cards for the basketball games to place in all the store windows, and other public places.

Discussion concerning a Christmas tree for the school and some kind of gifts to the students was not decided upon.

A meeting is to be held later in the week for this purpose.

BOYS AND GIRLS QUARTET GIVE ROUSING PROGRAM

The first assembly program was held last Wednesday the eighth period in the assembly room.

Mr. Ameyman was in charge and it was a musical program with the boys and girls choruses.

The first song was "The Building Song" by Ted Waits. Joseph McGardie, Lewis Campbell, Robert McCordie, Alex Johnson, Hatter Wolf, from Charles Lefevre, and Meryl Bolton.

The next song was the "Campfire Song" by Ted Eob, Chuck and Alex.

The girls sang "Pale Moon" and "Thanksgiving Song." The boys were Irene Bennett, Madeline Cole, Ellen Hatt, Marian Hamilton, Helen Teshka, and Anne Richards.

Marian Hamilton and Ethel Garchow sang a duet. Chester T. played a piano solo after which Ethel Garchow and Geraldine Ferguson played a piano duet, and later Geraldine played a solo.

The most interesting songs on the program were "Clementine" and "Solomon Levi," because the boys were all dressed up. Meryl Bolton played a clarinet solo. The last thing on the program was everyone singing "America."

TWO HISTORY CLASSES GIVE PLAYS

Both seventh grade history classes presented original plays concerning incidents of colonial days, in Miss VanVleet's room.

Section one gave their play last Wednesday, which was a meeting of the Continental Congress.

The following pupils took part in the play and represented great men of colonial days: Evelyn Kimmel, Don Keeney, James Coffey, David Sutton, Ruth Angell, Samuel Adams, Vera Hirsfall.

The second section gave several plays which were as follows: "The Boston Tea Party," "The Debate on the Stamp Act," etc.

GRADE NOTES

The kindergarten class had the right spirit when they have started to make presents and they have also decorated the room. There is mystery in the air because they cannot tell their parents what they are making.

First Grade
Out of the 31 children on Miss Christ's class there were only 20 present from school on Monday, December 3rd.

Third Grade
A bowl of goldfish has been presented to the school by the Parent-Teacher Association. The room that has the largest number of parents attending the monthly meeting has the goldfish for the month.

Fifth Grade
Revere Dunning and Essie Ninder were elected playground captains from the fifth grade.

SENIOR PLAY TO BE PRESENTED DECEMBER 11

The date for the presentation of "The Ghost Bird," the mystery comedy, which is to be staged by the Northville senior class, has been set definitely for December 14th, which means that only about two weeks are left for completing preparations.

Several rehearsals have been held already, and the progress achieved is regarded as encouraging.

Members of the class will be provided with tickets for the play and judging by the interest which has already been shown they will have little difficulty in disposing of them.

Mr. C. H. who is staging "The Ghost Bird" for the seniors, and has had some experience in this line of work, reports that the students are prone of a first day's entertainment.

Even though the production is, as Mr. C. H. says, still in a rough state, and still to be greatly developed and polished before its public presentation, it has furnished a great amusement for the cast and the fun making possibilities of the play become more apparent daily.

Every member of the cast is most enthusiastic as to the outcome each expects, and is delighted with his share in the work.

LOCAL DEBATE TEAM SHOWS GREAT PROGRESS

There will be a state debate team between the local high school team and Howell's team, Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Howell high school auditorium.

Though the local team have held only one debate, they have held several practice debates, three, with Plymouth, one with Dearborn, one with Ferndale, one with Northwestern of Detroit, and one with Commerce high of Detroit.

Praise! Praise! Praise! We can't give the team enough, though basketball and other athletics get more audience, possibly because in the excitement there is noise and excitement, the debaters deserve much more praise than the competition in athletics because they spend a great deal more time in looking up material, learning their speeches and practicing them.

These debaters gave up part of their Thanksgiving vacation so they could have a practice debate against Northwestern high school.

Catherine Slater, Allen Beard and Madeline Cole have been showing marvelous improvement since their first and only debate so far this year. As all of these are in the first year of debate competition and have developed as well as they have, there should be a great majority of the townspeople to follow them throughout the year.

Start now, go to the debate at Howell Friday evening.

JUNIOR'S DANCE WELL ATTENDED

The Juniors' dance, which was held on Friday, November 30th, was well attended for being a class dance. According to a statement given by Mr. Jacobson, who is the class sponsor, the Juniors made enough to clear expenses and still had a little left.

GIRLS' FIRST BASKETBALL PRACTICE HELD IN GYM

The first practice of the girls' basketball team was held Monday, December 3rd, at 3:45. Several of the girls on the last year's team came out. A few of the eighth grade girls also came to practice.

Miss Dicker is a co-sponsor of the team. Mrs. Stalker is the coach.

DO YOUR BEST

We usually think of New Year's day as the time for making resolutions.

But why not make them this time? We have not reached the end of a six weeks' period. For some success was established. For other marks were very unsatisfactory.

Here's where our resolutions come in. We can make one to do our best next period. We can't all get A's but we can do our best. We can't all get better than A's in school but we can get better than that in the battle of life.

Do your best and angels can do no more.

JOURNALISM CLASS DELIGHTS IN PAPERS

"Can't I look at them?" Ah! How interesting! "Give 'em here!" And Miss Dicks just refused the pleading requests. She selected her heart against the earnest coaxings of her little folks.

By little folks I mean the seniors and sophomores who came to the class. In vain they begged, then they begged to be let them have one tiny paper. But alas! She was strict.

"No! until you have done your work," children said she.

And she the class worked so diligently they had no opportunity to inspect the papers.

And what for? Just to satisfy a frame (also imaginary) curiosity. I'll admit that they are boys and girls and not all over the place, as you've guessed. They are newspapers published by Clarence, the school. And I wouldn't you what they contain. No sir! Now just watch everyone flick to the "geography" page.

RABBIT GROWER AT NOVI TELLS OF BIG GROWTH

He Says Industry is Fast Becoming Most Important

Earl Tyler of Novi, president of the Redford Coney Association, and one of the best known rabbit growers of the state, is developing his rabbit farm rapidly, and by the end of another year he hopes to have twice as many rabbits as he now possesses.

He declares that there is a big demand for rabbit fur, and that it has now become profitable to grow them. He says:

"Rabbits under ideal conditions the Chinchilla rabbit yields more than any other member of the rabbit family. There are approximately 25 million dollars worth of rabbit skins imported into the United States annually. Of the total amount, less than two per cent are raised here. While it is true that all rabbit fur has a value, but due to the fact that the 'Chins' have a fur that has not been imitated up to the present time, it is most valuable. A well tanned skin will bring from $1.50 to $3.50 each.

The fur trade of New York City alone occupies about 30 city blocks in which about 2,000 manufacturers, 600 fur and skin dealers and 15 fur dressing and dyeing plants are devoted to the rabbit trade alone.

Here in our own state at Dundee, ground was broken recently for the largest slaughter house for rabbits, this side of the Rocky Mountains. The aim of this establishment is to furnish rabbit meat to all cities in this section of the country.

"The Chinchilla rabbit is of comparatively recent origin, having been brought to the United States in 1918. Hardy and vigorous, it develops rapidly from birth to maturity, and can be bred successfully in almost any climate. Although extensively exhibited as a show animal, the Chinchilla is essentially a utility rabbit and is raised primarily for meat and fur.

"Well-bred Chinchillas have especially fine pelts. The fur is of good quality and color and is of more than average value to the trade, since it is used in the natural, undyed state in the manufacture of fur garments and trimmings, and for other purposes. The price paid for Chinchilla rabbit pelts depends largely upon the quality of the fur and the number of skins offered for sale.

Mrs. C. Wolfe, Correspondent

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peas have moved to their home on Central avenue in Redford township. Their house on Farmington road is rented to a family from New Hudson.

The bazaar will be held Saturday, December 8th, in the Community hall. The members and friends are doing their best to make it a success, and new features are being added which will make it more interesting than ever. A good supper, cheap, and an entertainment worth while will be put on by Farmington people. Everyone welcome.

John Johnston spent Thanksgiving with friends and relatives in Cass City.

Harry Wolfe is drawn on jury for December.

Dr. and Mrs. McLean have moved into the store for the winter.

The Parent-Teacher association will meet in the school house Friday, December 7th. Mrs. Ross of Farmington will be the speaker of the evening. Mrs. Alice Butler of Detroit will be one of the singers. A large crowd is expected to be present.

Charlie Taylor got a shiver in his finger, and do his best he could not remove that shiver, so he went to the restaurant and had surgical operation Roger Whipple was the one who did the job. But, strange to relate, every time that shiver is mentioned it is larger than the last time. Sorry, Charlie, but we hope it will stop growing.

Harry Wolfe and family were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Taylor and family, Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. James Eastman and Mr. and Mrs. Fred George were in Pontiac, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Berchem and daughters Marie, Virginia and Alice spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Berchem's brother, Teddy Smith and family, in Detroit.

Mrs. John Hill and son, William, have returned from Marine City where they spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hurst.

Miss Alice Berchem, who is attending school at the convent in Monroe is at home during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gerbs and son, Lawrence, from Taylor Center were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred George, Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wolfe and Mrs. Harry Wolfe were in Detroit Friday.

Mrs. C. Wolfe was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Isaac Bond, and family, the last of the week.

Mr. Martin has been very sick the past week.

Miss Bernice Hudson, who is living with her grandmother, Mrs. C. Wolfe is spending Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Merrill of Rochester.

Clinton Ault and family were Thanksgiving guests of Mrs. Ault's sister, Mrs. Lewis Graham, on Drumhull avenue, Detroit.

Albert Owen, wife and three sons had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. William Zwahlen, Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Ault, Mrs. Albert Owen and John Rowe were guests at a large party given in Detroit, Wednesday, in honor of Mr. Rowe's brother, who is visiting there.

Gunn took first prize for the ladies; Mrs. Anna Stoffel, second, and Mrs. Ernest Kohler, third. For the men, Ernest Kohler, first; Albert McGee, second, and Thomas Davey, third. Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Mack entertained the club as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston have moved into the Bovee house for the winter months.

Homer Coolman's sister, Naomi, is taking care of Mrs. Coolman, while she is convalescing.

A large gathering was present at church and Sunday school, Sunday morning. Rev. Gullen gave an object lesson for the young people and also a splendid sermon. Sunday school followed. There were 67 in classes. Two prizes had been offered for the best essay on "What are the Benefits of the Sabbath School?" Laura Ault took the prize for the seniors, and Lucile Wolfe the one for the juniors.

Forest Ault was a dinner guest of Edward Strimowski, Thanksgiving day, which was on the birthday of uncle and nephew.

A friendly game of football was played between Wolfe's subdivision and Faulker's Sub. Score 20 to 12 in favor of Wolfe's. Gerald Ziegler made three touchdowns, being the star of the game.

Gladys Smith of Detroit, is spending the week with her aunt, Mrs. Harry Wolfe and family.

The subject of "The Modern Flapper" was ably discussed in the Community church, Sunday evening by Earl Gullen of Detroit, and Mrs. Carl Harrison, high school teacher of West Point Park. Both papers were well worth hearing. These discussions are drawing a crowd.

GOVERNORS OF MICHIGAN

AARON T. BLISS

A threat of death did not keep Aaron T. Bliss from voting for Abraham Lincoln while Bliss was confined in southern war prison. It was his second vote for the war President. Declarations by the jailer that it would mean more prison life and probably a grave near the prison did not keep him from putting a black bean in the ballot box, the black beans being used to signify the prison vote for Lincoln.

Bliss, like hundreds of other soldiers raised in the east, decided to locate in Michigan after the close of the war. He was born in Madison county, New York, May 22, 1837, and spent most of his time before the war in working in a country school and going to a district school.

He aided in recruiting a company at Elmira, New York, and left for the south as a first lieutenant. For bravery he was soon made a captain. He was in many battles and towards the close of this war was captured. He made his escape from the prison, and 18 days later reached the Union lines, nearly starved to death.

In 1865 he went to Saginaw and began his career as a lumberman, operating a big sawmill in Zim�zee township. He made Saginaw his home, and during the remainder of his life and even when governor of the state, spent as much time as possible in Saginaw. That he stood high in the estimation of his neighbors is evident from the fact that he served as a supervisor, alderman and a member of the Saginaw school board for years.

He was for a period department commander of the G. A. R. of Michigan, and was elected to the state senate in 1882. He also served in congress from the Saginaw district. In 1900 he was made the Republican candidate for governor. He was elected and served two terms.

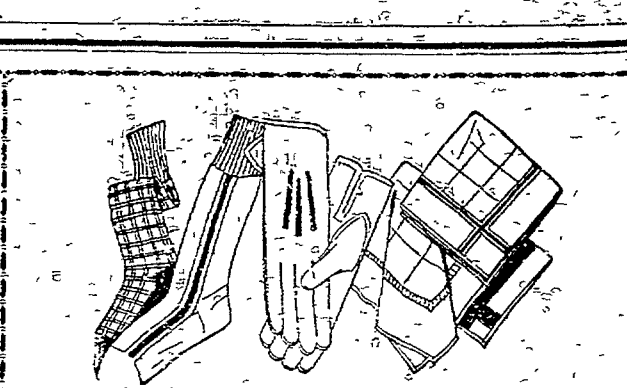

Governor Bliss exerted great care not to get into any conflict or raise any issue that might result in discussion. As a result, his administration was a most harmonious one. He did give considerable attention to matters that Civil war veterans were interested in and went south to the dedication of a Soldiers' Monument.

BRAND NEW PONTIAC IS COMING!

IN-KEEPING with its policy of progress, Oakland has for months been working on a new Pontiac Six. It is more than a refinement of its famous predecessors. It is essentially a brand new car from beginning to end.

Details will be announced later. But this much can be said now. This new Pontiac will represent an even greater innovation today than the first Pontiac represented in 1926! Without departing from the low-price field, it will bring to this field finer elements of style, performance and luxury never before provided in a car so inexpensive to buy!

MAKING PLANS FOR NEW PONTIAC STATES GERMAN

Expect First New Models to Be Out in Middle of Month

According to Harry German, preparations for the building of the first Pontiac Sixes for 1929 were under way here this week at the plant of the Oakland Motor Car company, with the completion of inventory-taking and the securing of employment figures to the highest December level in history, according to W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales.

By the middle of the month it is expected that cars will be on their way to distant points so that dealers may have on hand display models when details of the line are made public around the first of the year, Mr. Tracy stated.

Promised as a "bigger, smarter, more powerful and more luxurious Pontiac," bringing big car features with the price range of the small six, this newest creation of the fast growing Oakland division of General Motors has given rise to rumor and much speculation here because of the phenomenal volume growth of the Pontiac Six.

Introduced on the market for the first time at the New York Auto-mobile show in 1928 the car in less than three years has topped all former sales records for a new make of cars and during the height of the fast-selling season "out-sold" every other make of six cylinder cars in the domestic market for several months.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of new dies, tools, machines, testing gauges, etc. to build the new car are being installed in the modern, Oakland-Pontiac, plant, which in 1929 will have a capacity of 350,000 cars. Production of several parts for the new car ahead of under way, while other parts are being put into production as fast as equipment is ready. The three Pontiac assembly lines, each a quarter of a mile long, are being rearranged to build the car in the greatest volume in the history of the company for this season of the year.

Tentative plans call for a substantial production of new Pontiacs in December to be followed by greatly increased output in January. The plant capacity of Pontiac Sixes every working day is expected to be taxed to capacity well into 1929 to meet the anticipated demand, Mr. German stated.

MRS. DORA HILBORN IS DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Dora Pearl Hilborn a former resident of Northville, passed away at her home, 121 Elm street, Coldwater after an illness that had extended over the past few years. She had been in a critical condition for practically a year.

Dora Pearl Hilborn was born in Northville, Michigan, October 31, 1878 and moved to Coldwater in 1899, where she has made her home ever since. Mrs. Hilborn had a host of friends, and when in good health had belonged to several societies, but failing health had compelled her to drop membership in all of them in the past four years.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rawley Brown left Monday for Daytona Beach, Florida where they have taken an apartment on the ocean front for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have for a number of years past spent the winter seasons in Florida. They have a very pleasant summer home about two miles northeast of this place.

Funeral services will be conducted at Shattuck's funeral home Friday afternoon at 2:00 p. m. A short prayer service at the house will precede the service at Shattuck's. Rev. MacKenzie will officiate and burial will be at Oak Grove in Coldwater.

Mrs. Ida Hendricks is located for the winter at the home of Mrs. M. Brock, 311 Main Street.

Again The Bells Ring Out By Katherine Edelman

AGAIN the bells ring out to tell
The story angels told,
The blessed tidings of His birth,
That never can grow old.

Again the world is thrilled and stirred,
With gladness men rejoice,
And happy thoughts and wishes true
In every heart find voice.

With smiling face friend calls to friend
A greeting most sincere,
And friendship ties and ties of kin
Have grown more strong and dear.

Once more the joy of Christmas fills
The hearts and souls of men,
Once more in Bethlehem's little town
A Child is born again.

For Christmas

There is nothing that distinguishes a woman of Culture more than her use of fine perfumes. Therefore, it is good judgment to select high-grade toilet articles as gifts.

It is not necessary to travel far and wide to search for up-to-the-minute gift packages of toilettries. Your Rexall Store through its relationship with the United Drug company has done this for you. Artists have designed new boxes; masters have created superb odors; and others have worked painstakingly to assure you of the best.

At this moment, your Rexall Store has an exquisite assortment of toilet requisites, of all kinds—perfume, toilet waters, face powders, compacts, creams, lotions, talcums, rouge, lip-stick, and bath salts. A variety to meet every possible need.

There is Shari—the sensation of the year. It is the perfume of mystery, of romance, of bewitchery, character, of delicacy. The Shari Line is complete.

Perhaps you prefer Cara Nome. It is exquisite odor having a subtle charm of which one never tires. The odor is lasting also in the other Cara Nome toilettries.

Other popular numbers are the famous Jon-teel, Georgia Rose and Harmony toilet products, all in holiday dress. If you come to the Rexall Store early, you can select your gift needs from our complete assortment.

RECORD NUMBER OF LICENSES FOR LOCAL HUNTERS

James A. Huff Digs Out Some Interesting Data From Permits

Over 400 hunting licenses have been issued during the present hunting season by James A. Huff, local sporting goods dealer and hardware merchant, according to a check made of his records in the past day or so. This is believed to be the largest number ever issued in Northville.

From out of these records, James Huff, best known to the rod and gun craft of this section, has picked the following interesting data:
Youngest hunter, Junior Schrader, aged 12.
Oldest hunter, John Shaw, aged 79.

There were 43 licenses issued to boys under 20 years of age, 93 to those between the ages of 20 and 30; 65 to those in their forties; 39 to those in the fifties; 18 to men between the ages of 60 and 70, and eight to men above the age of 70. The average age of the local hunters was 35.

The youngest deer hunter was 17, and the oldest, 75. Men between the ages of 30 and 50 seem to have the greatest desire to hunt the so-called "big game." The records also show that the older prefer to do their hunting during the last of September and early part of October.

Wisdom in Forgiveness
A wise man will make haste to forgive, because he knows the full value of time and will not suffer it to pass away in unnecessary pain.

HOW TO GET DEER TOLD BY HUNTERS ON RETURN HOME

Others Tell Why They Didn't Bring Back Their Deer

WHY I DIDN'T GET A DEER

John Walker—The powder company forgot to put any bullets in my shells.

Thomas Daley—I thought deer lived in the wide open spaces and hunted in the wrong place.

Dr. Paul Alexander—I wouldn't kill a deer with a gun, anyway.

Lou Stewart—Well, you see I had to shoot some for the other fellows, and when my turn came to get one for myself they had all been shot off.

Dayton Bunn—Who said I went up north hunting deer? I just went up to see how the weather was.

William Safford—Well, you see it was like this. I had never been up north hunting deer before, and some of the fellows told me that the best shots were up in the tree tops. That's where I went to get a deer, and I never even saw one.

Edward Mullis—I never shoot deer—I just run over them. Didn't get one this year because the deer ran out into the road anywhere.

Dr. Cavell—I only shoot deer that weigh something over 300 pounds. When they come along, that size, that's the time I get mine. You never see me coming home with any of these little scrawny spike horns.

Charles Hamilton—I was going to leave my deer this year, but the blame things wouldn't stand still long enough to let me get the rope over their heads.

Scott Lovewell—I never kill a deer unless it runs over some land I've got for sale. Then's when I get mine.

Clifford Turnbull—The weather was bad. I can't do any real hunting unless there is a lot of static in the air.

Bert E. Warner—The boys told me you had to plaster the woods with bullets just like you plaster a house. I started out to do a good plastering job and used up all my best the first day. Then I didn't have a chance to get a deer after that because I didn't have any lead bullets left.

James Hart—I don't get a deer because the fellows kept me so busy feeding 'em with ammunition. I sold enough gun powder to these Northville fellows to kill all the deer this side of Alaska.

Joe Montgomery—I tried to get out that I thought was the best deer, and of the time I was ready to start home I was still looking for the best one.

Doc Holcomb—It's the raspberry. There isn't a deer in the north woods. I was up there for three weeks looking for one and I know.

Lawrence Hamilton—I was so blamp busy thinking about all this ice going to waste, to here that I didn't have time to do any hunting. If Carl Ely and myself could only get this ice away to Northville, we would return in a year or two.

Joe Kard—There ain't no such thing as deer in Michigan.

Tom Gibson—I read in the paper where some fellow put a bar of deer horns out, and when I saw a pair of horns sticking up through the brush I thought they might be on some Plymouth hunter so I didn't shoot until it was too late.

Fred Hicks—That big tame deer I brought home just ran right into a bullet I fired while out practicing a buck on the range. I really didn't mean to hit it but of course it wouldn't happen.

Hub Weisak—I didn't go deer hunting. I just went up north to get the lights and get away from the bright lights of Northville.

HOW I GOT MY DEER

Walt Ware—I took along a little rifle in my trip. The fellow didn't know about it. I put it out under a tree, and when a nice big buck began to eat its supper, I decided he was the one we wanted for breakfast. That's all there is to my hunting story.

Nelson Schrader—Well there has been so much said about the way I got my deer that I am tempted to say nothing about it at all. I got mine early and of course, some of these other would-be hunters could not figure it out. When I go hunting, I go hunting. I don't sit around and chin about it. If these birds that didn't get a deer would do a little hunting they would get a deer too. You see I know just how deer act under all circumstances. I know what they do when its warm and I know what they do when its cold. I know what they do when they are hungry and when they have plenty to eat. I can tell you when they get up in the morning and when they stop running through the brush at night time. If there is anything you want to know about deer, just ask me. You can't go up into the woods and hunt without knowing something about the nature of the critters. You see I read up on what to do in the Northville Record before I went up there, and if you fellows would do the same, there would be nothing to it. But to tell you just how and where I shot my deer would be telling the secret of why I get my deer every year.

Al Zimmer—You see that hole there behind his ear? That's where I shot him the first day. Now this one here in his hind legs, where I plastered him the second day. See that place where the bullet went in its side? That's where I shot him the third day. Now look over here. See this other bullet hole? That's where I shot him the fourth day. On the fifth day as I trailed him down through the woods, I shot him again and blamed it if the bullet didn't go in the same place I shot him the first day. Then on the very last day I hit him right between the eyes with my deadly gun. That stunned him and I finished him up hearing a pancake at him that I had carried with me to eat if I got lost in the woods.

Bert Montgomery—L never hunt deer with a gun. I just use a piece of sewer pipe and hit 'em as they run along. That's the way I got my deer.

Howard Cole—Well I always get a deer by traps and I mean, when I find one, it is a while before I shoot it. In this way, you can always be sure of a good shot.

Gerrett Barry—I don't shoot 'em. I chase them out into Lake Superior and drown my deer.

Nelson Schrader, strenuously denies the claim of Dayton Bunn and Lou Stewart that the deer he shot was stone blind. He says it not only had good teeth, but eyes as well.

Steam Subdued Fire

A gasoline, distilling plant on Porters island in the Delaware river caught fire and employees fought it with steam which was directed through a hose. Water could not be used, but the steam did the work.

Cheap Advice

"I tell others what they ought to do, but I do the very opposite of what I advise," says a sign on a corner of a street in London.

Education

Every man who rises above the commonplace level receives two educations. The first from his life, the second the most important, from himself.

Similarity in Diseases

Silicosis, a disease caused by the inhalation of dust, gives rise to symptoms exactly similar to tuberculosis. To make a differential diagnosis between the two is extremely difficult.

Heavy Loss From Rust

Corrosion, the most common manifestation of which is rust, destroyed some $21,000,000 tons of iron and steel a year.

On Christmas Day

By Anna Campbell,
In Chicago Daily News.

God has rich gifts on Christmas day to bless
A heart bowed down with miserable tears.
The backward glance to joys of other years
threatens the mind with poignant loneliness.
But from our troubles we find swift release
when we recall His promised gift of peace.

Today, God is the host to those we love.
Dear gentle angels with their folded wings before a table laid with holy things.
Perhaps they speak of us in realms above and pity us who set such childish store
by Christmas toys and holly
on the door.

Because He promised us we should go on through star-pierced clouds until we reached His side, we think of our beloveds satisfied.
They have found happiness behind the door.
And we, who dine today on lonely fare,
have learned to see beyond the empty chair.

Timber and wood are required for the successful operation of the farm, and most farmers have some lands best adapted to tree growth. The growing of timber on these lands is legitimately a part of the regular farm program. There will usually be a surplus above home needs, to be sold for cash. Caring the wood crop is often a profitable way to use time in the winter.

FEW WORDS PERTAINING TO THE STINSON AIRCRAFT CORPORATION AND NORTHVILLE

TO THE HONOR OF NORTHVILLE

Formal announcement has been made by officials of the Stinson Aircraft Corporation that a new factory is to be erected by the company one mile south of Wayne, a site having been decided to the corporation by the Wayne District Association an organization composed of the business men of that place. In addition to the plant, the company, the association has secured a 100-acre tract of ground which will be developed into an airport for the general use of aviation. The site lies adjacent to the Pere Marquette tracks and the Michigan Central railroad.

Erection of the factory building has been started. It is stated that the capacity of the plant will equal or exceed that of the plant that has been used in Northville. While the company expects to be in new building by January, first it will probably be the last of February before the move will be made.

The Stinson company came to Northville upon its organization a little over two years ago. Edward

A Stinson, who has gained a place in the aviation world through his remarkably successful flying, had decided that he would like to enter into the manufacturing end of the aircraft industry. He interested the Detroit Board of Commerce with the result that the Stinson Aircraft Corporation was organized and Harry F. Graham, one of the Detroit's successful business men, was elected one of the directors of the company. Mr. Graham owns the factory buildings in Northville that have been used by the company.

Although backed by some of Detroit's wealthiest business men, the company had little or nothing when it started business. It was through the generous offer of Mr. Graham and the one hundred percent co-operation of the entire community of Northville that the Stinson Aircraft Corporation on the road to success.

Mr. Graham gave the company the use of the buildings for a rental and was united to practically nothing. It was evident early in the company's career that a prime field was a necessary. Officials of the community approached local business men performing to them problem. It was in the days when one dared to speculate as to the success of the corporation that Northville presented the company with an airport without a cent of cost to the community.

It was President Edward A. Stinson of the corporation who led a campaign that secured the airport within two years. He had no other hope but to hope and he succeeded. Northville is a place where a man can make a success of things.

Members of the Northville community have been very generous in giving in general assistance as to the progress of the company. They know that no one knows what the future of the Stinson Aircraft Corporation is, but the future of aviation might be something in two years ago.

"We'll take a chance. We'll do it," said Mr. Stinson. The Stinson Aircraft Corporation is a success and it is a success because of the help of the community. You can see it in the flying field the community has given.

Edward Stinson who decided that the field with a lot of help from the community, was one of the best in the country. The future of the field and the ease with which the field could be "switched" from general aviation to the use of the Stinson Aircraft Corporation is a fact that the field was put in first-class condition.

The Stinson corporation offered a five-year agreement with the local community to take the field over at the end of a five-year period providing the company was doing business here at that time. The airport syndicate agreed to sell the airport to the company at exactly the same price for which it had been originally purchased.

The 33 business men of Northville who put up their cord cash for the airport did not plan or expect to reap one cent of profit from the proposed transaction. Their one incentive was for the good of Northville. They believed that if the Stinson company prospered, so would the community.

To the credit of Northville there has never been a thing that the Stinson company has asked that would be of benefit to their business that has not been given, and with-out cost of any kind to the corporation. Not so long ago one of the officials made known the desire of the company to have a wider road constructed from the highway out to the buildings on the airport. The Northville village and township combined to construct the highway. Some months ago when it was learned that the Stinson company was in the market for a new factory site, a local committee conferred with Mr. Stinson and some of the directors of the corporation.

At that time, President Stinson said: "It is my personal desire to have the factory remaining in Northville. If our plans for expansion can be met, I would very much like to see the new factory here. The spirit of co-operation that has been shown by the community has been nothing less than remarkable. We have here in Northville one of the best labor organizations that can be found anywhere. There is good help here and it is dependable, helpful, kind and it is a pleasure to work with them. I am sure that the Stinson company will be able to make a success of things here. I am sure that the Stinson company will be able to make a success of things here. I am sure that the Stinson company will be able to make a success of things here."

to save what promises to be a successful industry for this place.

There has been some criticism on the part of a few citizens apparently not acquainted with all the facts of the situation. It was done to the community for the community. However, you will not find the names of those who have offered this criticism in the list of Northville citizens who have this in their pockets every six months to help pay for the Northville airport.

Northville as a community regrets indeed the move that the company is going to make. We have come to admire and respect Edward A. Stinson, president of the company and the real inspiration back of its organization.

The corporation is still young. We believe it is over the rough spots it has traveled the uphill road of early development with the helping hand of its real friend, the community of Northville.

Fortunate it is for Northville, however, is the fact that the removal will take but a few families away. Of course, like any young industry, there are ups and downs in the business. The local plant was practically closed down during the middle summer and but few men are now engaged in the manufacturing department of the plant. We regret indeed to lose Mr. Stinson and the others who have established their homes here, but it is far better that the move is made now than sometime later after others might have come here and established their homes.

Northville is a community that carries no grudges. It wholeheartedly wishes Mr. Stinson and about as ideal as one could hope for in a community. We are sure that the Stinson company will be able to make a success of things here. I am sure that the Stinson company will be able to make a success of things here. One of the Many Cases of Koniola
Freed from Suffering and Made
Happy Again

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dickson
As the family of Koniola provides there pair of day by day an endless stream of endorsements of this special medicine from the men and women, old and young, that are rejoicing in the new and glorious health this remedy has brought them. Think of the happiness in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dickson, 29 Alden Avenue, Battle Creek. Read what Mrs. Dickson says:

"What Koniola did for me is nothing short of wonderful. For years I suffered from indigestion and kidney trouble. My stomach after medicine did not get any better and I grew worse. I lost my weight, strength and general health. When things looked darkest, a friend recommended Koniola, and I started with it. Within a few weeks I was well again, full of joyous health. My system is built up, and I feel years and years younger. My husband had the same trouble for 15 years and seems what Koniola did for me, he started taking it. Wonder of wonders—it restored him just as it had me. He was made a new man again in a few short weeks, free from indigestion, headaches and rheumatism. Surely Koniola has been a blessing in this home."

Koniola is sold in Northville at Northville Drug Company's drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section—Advt.

JUST A FEW TIPS FOR AUTO OWNERS AS WINTER STARTS

How Northville Drivers Can Save Dollars by Being Careful

Millions of dollars are lost each year by American automobile owners through inadequate preparations of their cars for freezing weather. With over 22,000,000 cars in active operation in this country today, and a majority of them located in states where freezing weather starts in earnest in late October and early November and continues for a period of several months, the factor of proper servicing of a car's cooling system is necessary to avoid costly damages incurred through the expansion stresses due to freezing of the water in the systems. The presence of a number of anti-freeze compounds on the market insure a sufficient supply of protection, but it should be understood that to derive the full benefit from any anti-freeze, the cooling system of an automobile should be thoroughly cleaned with such a simple solvent as washing soda, in order to remove rust and scale, and that all parts should be tightened up after such cleaning to insure against leakage of anti-freeze. If every car owner can protect himself against the triple threat of rust, scale and leakage his winter motoring will be a great deal more pleasurable and his repair bill considerably lighter.

Shutters. Shutters which keep the chill winds out and the warmth in are now appearing on more and more radiators. In the case of those that open and close automatically, see that the device is working positively. Where they are manually operated, watch the heat indicator. A motor must be hot to run efficiently, but overheating should be avoided.

Flap Very Useful. That strip of cloth which fits over the tube after it has been placed in the shoe and used to insulate the tube from the metal rim of an item never to be overlooked. Various chafing results and a leaky tube is the inevitable result. The flap always should be in good condition. It's excellent insurance against tube troubles.

Use Top Dressing. Application of top dressing to the overhead coverings of both open and closed automobiles is an important item of car care. The process will save the owner money and will improve the machine's appearance.

Source of Noise. In many of the older cars still in service a fruitful source of squeaks and groans will be noted in the windshield or struts. It should be noted that a little oil on the struts and a little oil on the windshield points will do a world of good.

Radiator Water. Owners who are extremely careful as to the purity of the water they use in their batteries frequently are utterly without compunction in putting dirty, dirty water into the radiator. That's the poorest kind of policy, as a cooling expert will attest.

The Horn's Tone. Not many car owners know that the tone of the horn can be changed by a simple adjustment of a small screw. However, the horn while rugged is a device which should not be tampered with and changes in its "voice" might well be turned over to the left hand of the expert in this particular line.

In the interest of better traffic police. It is suggested that "rasping" angry note be made smoother, more coaxing rather than a vibrant demand.

An Aid to Beauty. Nothing gives a car a more slovenly appearance than unkempt running boards, and, similarly, neat, trim clean "steps" are a big appearance asset. Just a little effort will keep them looking ship-shape.

Fan Belt Adjustment. A fan belt should be adjusted carefully and accurately, not too tight and not too loose. If there is any indication of weakness in the belt it should be replaced immediately. Adjustment and replacement usually are jobs which should be left to the experienced mechanic.

A Good Lesson. Next time the repairman replaces a tire, watch him when he tightens the lugs. If he is tightening them gradually, with an even pressure all around, that's the way the owner should go about it when changing tires himself.

Shifts When Needed. Owners of the latest cars seem to be under the impression that shifting into second or low is a sign of inferiority, under any condition. Regardless of the modernity of the automobile, there are times when a shift is essential in the interest of safety or sound car-fare, and the owner should recognize those instances. The practice will save costly repair bills.

Avoid Stripping. Stripped threads on the gas tank vent are a nuisance and may cause the loss of a cap. Watch the gas attendant when he covers the cap back on. Many motorists have made a practice of doing this little job themselves. The same applies to the radiator cap.

Antarctic Ice Best. Our idea of damping with foam, which is crystallized into definite form, when we saw the paper that the ice around the South pole affords better landing conditions for aircraft than that of a hard North pole does. Ohio State Journal.

Machine Little Changed. The knitting frame used in the manufacture of knit stockings in England is substantially the same as when it was invented during the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Hail, Westinghouse? Young Westinghouse, the boy inventor, is working on one now which will cut the telephone connection automatically when the householder steps into the tub.

Most Natural. A peculiar fact in the field of natural science is that when the girl gives over a bump the girl always bounces to the left, where the young man at the wheel is sitting, and never in the other direction. Ohio State Journal.

High Reverence Given India's Holy Milkmen

A certain tribe of southern India, the Kodas, regard their purveyors of milk as holy men. The chief of the tribe is the Holy Milkman, who has an official residence, the Sacred Dairy, which he is not allowed to leave during his term of office. The Holy Milkman, moreover, is usually a bachelor; if he married before being appointed to his high office, he must leave his wife and before himself entirely to observing the stringent rules of the Sacred Dairy.

No ordinary person may touch him, for to do so would deny his exalted office and he would be compelled to resign. Another restriction is that the Holy Milkman must not be spoken to except on Saturdays and Thursdays. On other days, any message must be shouted from a considerable distance.

The dairy temples are usually built in conical form, and the milkman must always sleep in the cowhouse, a drab, ugly structure with a small fireplace. There is no door to the dairy, and a Holy Milkman is allowed to wear only one coarse robe. When he is eating, his hand must not touch his lips and to prevent this the milkman throws his food into his mouth. When drinking, he must hold the vessel aloft and pour the liquid down his throat as from a cup.

Shingles Long in Use
as Building Material

To the materials in most common use, and particularly those considered before us, we give perhaps less thought than to those which are so common, but which have been more recently brought to our notice, because of the new properties they may possess, or because of a supposed need they may seem to fill.

Shingles, for example, are one of the oldest of our building materials, having been in constant use in this country for nearly 500 years.

Because of the great demand for them the old methods of manufacture have long since been done away with and have been replaced by the use of the most modern machinery. Shingles were first produced from the soft wood and later from the hard wood. Now they are manufactured from most soft life and a variety of material.

BRIDGE PLAYERS LOOK OUT! MAYBE YOU'LL BE PINCHED

Village Officials Dig up
Old Ordinance About
Card Games

Holy horrors! Is bridge, the one great delight of the ladies of Northville, threatened by official ban?

It would seem so from a general discussion that took place at Monday night's meeting of the village commission, and the ladies should not be surprised if an official ban might be proclaimed any day ending the diversion which causes late suppers, sometimes no suppers and frequently no breakfasts for the weary and hard-working husbands of the community.

It all came about when Mayor Charles Fikins a few days ago discovered that the pool rooms of the village had not paid their licenses during the past two years.

"I see no reason why these licenses shouldn't be paid," he have got an ordinance on the books which says that each table in the place, it is one of the things which has resulted from the fact that we never had much of a system in running village affairs but now that we have a way of keeping track of these matters, there will be no opportunity for anything like this to be forgotten in the future."

Then he asked City Clerk Sherman to read the village ordinance governing the operation of pool rooms. As the clerk read on he came to a section which forbade card playing.

John Walker's ears perked up. John is a pool room and so does the Bradshaw. Frank has card tables in his place and John does not in his.

Commissioner Walker wanted to know from the commission if the ordinance covered playing for cash tables as well as for tables.

The commission said it was the purpose of the ordinance was to be enforced pertaining to licenses that portion of its pertaining to card playing should also be enforced.

Commissioner John Scheuiz made

A motion to have the ordinance enforced. The discussion ran on and on—the midnight hour approached when all city officials should be in bed.

Some say the resolution providing for a strict enforcement of the ordinance was passed and some say that only a portion of it pertaining to the licenses had the approval of the commission. Any way the next day all of the 500 players, rum players and bridge sharks in town stood outside Frank Bradshaw's place with their hands in their pockets counting the number of automobiles that rolled by.

Catiness

All men are divided into two classes: Those who are convinced most women are silly and those who insist that they are.

If, by catiness, you mean petty vindictiveness, I am sure, I do admit that quite a lot of women are guilty in that respect. Men have the audacity to often enough but it is seldom as petty and it is less likely to be distinctly and sweetly expressed.

As I see it, catiness is mainly a "nigger" from the d's when men were permitted to show great big temper, being that the women were not permitted to show it at all so they released their pent-up feelings by learning to say sweet things with a staccato—Plan Talk 11/11/28

Unknown

The men and the women were sitting on the pier, and for some time there had been some conversation between them.

"Do you know," he said at last, "that I am going to get married?"

"That is a very nice thing to do," she said, "but I don't know if you are ready for it."

"I am sure I am," he said, "and I am sure you are too."

"I am sure you are," she said, "but I don't know if you are ready for it."
