OFFICES OF EDISON CO. IN NEW BUILDING

Removal of Files and Records Made During the Week End

The offices of the Detroit Edison company were opened to the public Monday morning in the new building at the corner of North, Center and Franklin streets, the removal of files and records having been completed Saturday night.

Edward F. Mills' district manager and his assistants worked late hours nearly every night last week in order to have the removal completed by Monday morning. When it was time for the many employees to take up their duties Monday, everything was ready for them in what is without question the best and most complete office building of its kind in the Detroit area outside of city limits.

Northville citizens from the interest shown in the new building on opening day are as proud of the new structure as Detroit Edison officials. All during the present week large numbers have visited the offices and all have expressed amazement at its almost ideal arrangement.

Samuel Wilkinson, who has been the one individual in Northville to grow up from the beginning of the electrical business in this place, has been given one of the most desirable desk spaces in the new office. The private office of the district manager is the only one in the building, except that of some of the department heads not brought into contact with the public, who are located on the second floor.

Local organizations and friends of Mr. Mills sent many baskets of flowers for the opening Monday, the big display room presenting a beautiful sight.

An announcement has yet been made of the company's relative to removal of the building on Center street that has been for others during the past year.

Dr. FISHER TALKS STATE MATTERS TO DISTRICT EDITORS

Meeting Held Saturday Night at Dearborn Country Club

Newspaper publishers of the Fifth Wayne county legislative district guests Saturday night of Dr. Edward F. Fisher, representative from this district at a meeting held at the Dearborn Country Club. Dr. Fisher called the conference with newspaper editors to discuss with them some of the legislation that is being taken up during the present session at Lansing and to find out if the editors knew of any local matter that needed legislative attention or of any legislation they were especially interested in.

Dr. Fisher stated that from what information he could secure the opposition around the state was so great that he doubted very much of the proposed income tax constitutional change that had been proposed by Governor Green, could be carried through the legislature.

He pointed out that the legislature was not at the final stage in this matter and that even though the present session did adopt some kind of an income measure, it would require a vote of all the people of the state before it could be adopted.

He did state however, that the needs of the various institutions of Michigan must be met in some way and that he as well as many other representatives and senators were trying to work out some sort of a plan whereby the money could be raised without adding to the present property tax or disturbing the weight and gas tax.

One of the editors present protested strongly against any plan that would take away from the state highway department any more of the funds raised for road building purposes. It seems that many up-state representatives have an idea that it is perfectly legitimate for them to take funds from the weight and gas tax and divert it to county and township use. A very large percentage of this money is already diverted for other purposes than that for which it is raised.

Dr. Fisher left Monday for Traverse City, where as a member of the committee on state hospitals, he was to find out the needs of that institution for the coming two years.

He was fortunate in his committee assignments, having secured some of the best that are to be offered.

WAYNE VAN DYNE BUYS RED FRONT GROCERY STORE

Illness Forces S. B. Stevens to Give Up His Business

Taken seriously ill with intestinal influenza just before Christmas, S. B. Stevens of the Red Front grocery, who is making slow recovery, will not be able to return to work for some time upon orders of his physicians and as a result he has disposed of his grocery business to Wayne VanDyne, who has been one of the clerks in the store to sometime past. Mr. VanDyne has had considerable experience in the grocery business and it is his plan to continue to conduct the Red Front stores along the same lines as did Mr. Stevens.

The many friends of Mr. Stevens will regret to know that he has been forced to dispose of his business. In the brief time he conducted the Red Front he worked up a trade and was enjoying a steady increasing patronage. It will probably be several months before he will be able to take up any kind of work again.

Mr. VanDyne has many friends who wish him as great a success in the store as Mr. Stevens had and there is no question but what he will be able to keep not only his old business, but add new business also.

Samuel Wilkinson, who has been the one individual in Northville to grow up from the beginning of the electrical business in this place, has been given one of the most desirable desk spaces in the new office. TELLS RULES OF SUCCESS IN BUSINESS

Business College Official Points Out Demands of Today

Several Northville Rotarians were present at the meeting of the Plymouth club last Friday when Owen Cleary, one of the officials of the Cleary Business College of Ypsilanti, spoke to the organization on present-day business matters and the opportunity for both young men and women in the world of business.

He placed great emphasis upon the necessity of being prepared for the work one decides to do and then being willing to work after you do get an opportunity.

"Give your best to the job you get. Do not be a shirker. The young man or young girl who floats, who steals time from his job as just as big as thief as the person who takes money." He is taking something from his employer that does not belong to him. Stealing time is just the same thing as stealing money. Then be loyal. If you are not loyal to the company you are working for, you have no business to accept your pay check. Three things: preparedness, honesty in your service and loyalty, count most these days. If you are not willing to give these three requirements you haven't much of an income in anything," he said.

The kind of the newer demands of business, that competition is becoming so keen these days that no matter what your business is, you have got to fight for it, and if one is to keep his head above water he has not only got to be prepared, but he must be willing to work long and hard in order to keep pace with the other fellow."

NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JANUARY 25, 1929

WON SUCCESS BY WORK

A few years ago a company with several of the directors of the Northville Wayne County Fair as associates - the editor of the Record attended a banquet in Detroit of the Michigan State Fair Association as a guest at the speaker's table sat Col. W. S. Butterfield, individual owner of more theatres than probably any other man in the United States.

It does not seem so many years ago when Mr. Butterfield, a youthful resident of Battle Creek, went over to Kalamazoo and started the first "Vaudeville" house in the Celery City. It was known as the "Byron Theatre," offering at first a program of vaudeville acts, then a little later adding motion pictures. When he went to Kalamazoo in his first theatrical venture, Mr. Butterfield had to count his pennies but in spite of the fact that he ran on close financial margins, he gave "that gay better theatrical entertainments than Kalamazoo had ever enjoyed." He gave it to theatre patrons at less cost than ever before. His venture was an immediate success.

Soon he started another Vaudeville theater in Battle Creek. Then in Lansing. It wasn't long before all of the big ones in Michigan out of Detroit had theaters that were owned by Col. Butterfield.

His Lansing, Flint, Pontiac and other theaters were repeaters of the Kalamazoo success. Whenever Col. Butterfield established or purchased a theater he immediately made it the best in the city and gave the most amusement for the price that the theater goers had ever enjoyed.

He seemed to be always working. When he slept no one knew. Some mornings you might find him checking up the records of his Battle Creek theatrical enterprises, that afternoon he would be in Lansing and the next evening he might be in Detroit. Film

There was a Col. Butterfield in the old days, always admired his friends, envied the honorable way of doing it if the public. He had an office and he studied it well. He seemed to know that the world would wait for him in everything that he did. When managers and employers used to inquire, "Col. Butterfield who's taking from him?" the 1½ hour after midday he was down. His day seemed to end.

Such was it for nearly 20 years. As far as I can see, the editor of the Record, now Col. Butterfield, when he accepted the position of Mr. Hudson, Grotto, knew him

It's a real pleasure to spend my time with him. He has the right spirit - a real leader - because he is a man who is a good worker. And because Col. Once in a while he used to say, "I don't care what the king or the hor-

TROUBLE AHEAD

Members of the Michigan prison commission have just named the very popular Doctor Lecturer - Philosopher - Legislator Richard W. Austin of Qurier as Chaplain of Jackson State Prison. He knows he is a man of great talents, but one peculiarity we can take for his new commission there is trouble. He is not some one who has been recommended since he has been a member of the commission for some time. He has been recommended since he has been a member of the commission for some time.

There is no place for a prisoner to kick up a mess and officials who have had long experience in the handling of criminals know what a difficult task it is to keep the routine of a prison running along smoothly.

The Doctor does better, however, in the new capacity as he is well known in the legislature and the prison commission. So, it is rather carefully and the first thing that the commission has of the Doctor establishing his nose into the mess that does not involve the spiritual welfare of the inmates, but he should go well, not mean to pass judgment in advance on the Doctor and his services.

We hope he will do well, as he has done as a member of the state payroll and now that he has come into our service we wish him every success.

CRIME

There is so much "bunk" about the waves and the way to end them that one sometimes hesitates to say anything about it. The editor of the Record has more than once pointed out a sure way to end a good portion of the crime in Michigan and if the present state legislature has any serious intentions of doing something towards that end, it will pass one bill. That bill will require any man found possess of carrying a concealed weapon to have a proper state license and give a mandatory life term for that he has possession of a weapon shall be sufficient evidence of guilt. No law should be brought to impose any other punishment except life imprisonment without probation. It is demanded that the law be passed.

STYLISH LANGUAGE, INDEED!

PERSONALLY, I can't much for the style of this one. It happened in C. C. in where I was born and raised.

For years a certain worthy and highly intelligent colored woman and old lady was a fixture of the hotel lobby. Every Sunday night after she had finished her meal, she started on her return trip to her own house a mile and a half away. My mother came to the kitchen door to chat with her a little while.

From remarks which the old woman let fall, my mother gathered that Aunt M. M., although very devout, did not seem to care deeply for the present pastor of her church.

"Miss Mainie," said Aunt M. M., "I'm gonna tell you how I put that there nigger preachin' man in his place. Yester'day evenin' just as suppertime, I wuz settin' on my front porch when the Rev. DESCRIPTION OF NEW FORD VALVE IS MADE PUBLIC

Northville Plant Will Soon Be Running to Full Capacity

The Ford Motor Car company has given out a complete and interesting description of the new valve that is being produced in their largest Northville plant for the new car. Machinery for this new part was recently installed and it is expected that within the next two weeks, the plant will be operating at capacity.

The design and construction of the valves are among the most important elements of modern automobile engineering and manufacturing.

The designers of the new Model A Ford gave special attention to these factors and the result of their design and manufacturing specifications is a valve which is remarkable for its durability, close fitting and resistance to the oxidizing or scaling effects of hot gases.

The valves in the Model A Ford are made of carbon-chrome-nickel alloy. They are first die-cast and then ground with remarkable accuracy to the desired size. The stems have mushroom ends to give larger heating surfaces and quieter action where they come into contact with the push-rods. The carbon-chrome-nickel alloy metal of which they are made is practically resistant to wear and to the scaling or tests of the hot gases which the valves must endure in their normal performance.

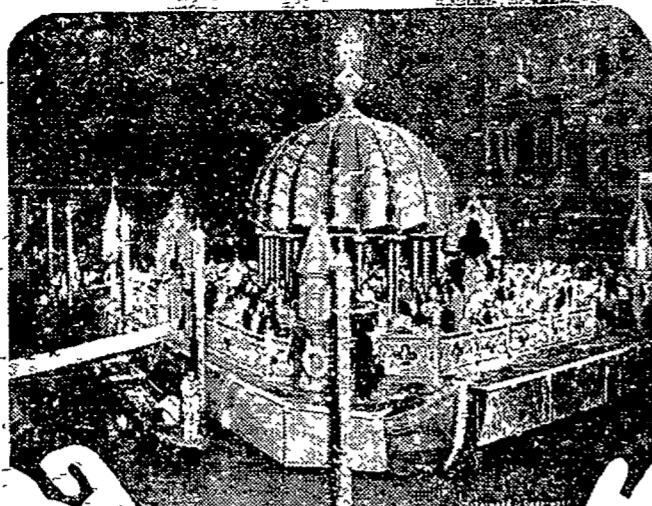

The Ford valve terminates in a cone cover which slips over a retainer horseshoe shaped which holds the spring in place. As the cone head presents a large area to the tappet top, and as the valve foot is operating in oil, there is not the slightest risk for the valve-end burning over and there is no necessity for an adjustment to be fitted to the top of the tappet.

The oil bath in the valve chamber provides a cushion between the valve foot and the tappet top silencing it effectively. On the ordinary engine, the valve ends is either scotted or drilled to take the center for the spring cap and the removal of metal in the process considerably weakens the valve and a vital point. The new Ford valve actually is strengthened at the top.

This is considered the greatest improvement in valve design that has yet been made in the internal combustion engine. It is produced in almost eliminating trouble-prone parts.

The new Ford valve is a direct replacement for the one in the Model A car, and is described to be probably put into

OF MICHIGAN

Last of the Series

FRED W. GREEN

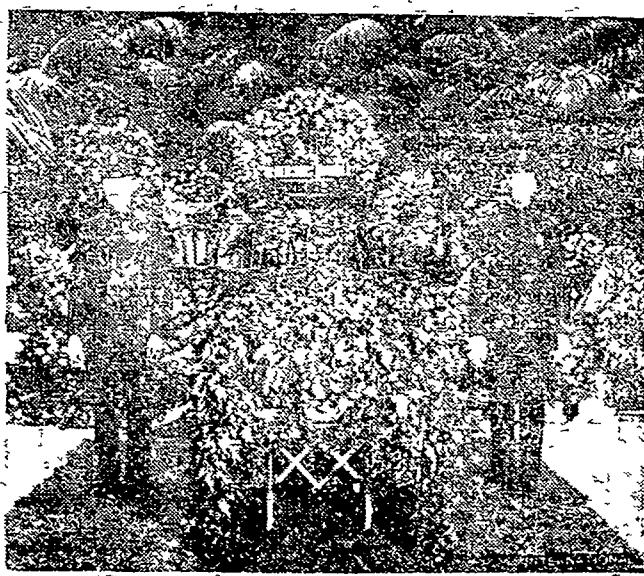

From West side in Iowa to the governor's office which gave him the title of "Tex" Rickard lies in state. His business career began in 1887 when he moved to Topeka, Kansas, where he developed a number of industries in nearby communities, and gave his personal attention to the management of not only the ones in Topeka but those located outside. His business earned him a vast fortune. Following his accumulation, he contributed liberally to many causes and charitable institutions, sending over $10,000 in one instance for financial assistance.

Governor Green has always had a great interest in sportsmen's affairs and over a period of many years owned a stable of fine racing horses, some of them record holders. On January 1st, 1929, he started his second term as governor.

Greenville cloth and almanac cloth are names given to a strong, durable, cotton material known in the south as osnaburg, which has many uses for household draperies, couch covers, chair slips, and other furnishings. It is inexpensive, easily laundered and dyed to match other furnishings, and procurable almost everywhere.

For an attractive and colorful salad place, half a large yellow canape, beach on lettuce, put a tablespoon of cottage cheese, or cream cheese in the center add a spoonful of mayonnaise, and sprinkle paprika over all.

"Tex" Rickard Lies in State

The "flower covered" bronze casket containing the mortal remains of George L. "Tex" Rickard, as it lies in state in the new Madison Square garden, on the very spot where the prize ring stands. Thus Rickard lies in the center of the sports theater that remains as a monument to his genius. Two garden guards stand beside the casket. Many thousands of friends and admirers of the sports promoter passed before Rickard's bier, and the throng at the funeral ceremonies taxed the capacity of the huge building. The cortège to the cemetery was one of the longest seen in New York in recent years.

ROTARIANS HEAR OF LIBRARY AND ITS MANY NEEDS

Mrs. Frank Harmon Talks Before Club On Monday Noon

Mrs. Frank S. Harmon, over a long period of years one of the real workers who has made possible a first-class library for this community, Monday noon told local Rotarians of some of the trials and some of the hopes of the members of the Northville Library Association. Her address to the Rotarians was most interesting and gave many of the Rotarian's information about the Northville library they did not previously possess.

In part Mrs. Harmon said:

"I think when they asked me to talk to you this morning that they must have had the idea that it was a good thing to keep our public institutions in the minds of the people for I was asked to talk on the library, its history, and its needs."

It has been said that everyone has at least one hobby. I have several, but the principal ones are the most of you know is the library.

It was organized in 1889 by Dr. Mary Lapham. Some of those who assisted were Dr. Swift, Mrs. Lucy Stout, Mrs. Kator Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dubilar, Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Clark, and a number of others. Its first president was Dr. Lapham.

Its first housing was a little front room in the building now occupied by Mr. Stage in the Macomb building. Most of the books were donated by Dr. Lapham, and later by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lapham.

The Laphams have always been its very good friends and still are.

The name under which it was organized was, The Northville Library Association. If any of you are making your will please don't forget to add the Northville Library association as one of its beneficiaries.

"At first a fee of $1 was charged for membership and this was continued for several years until people began to say they thought it too much. When the board very accommodatingly reduced it to 50¢ and it remained so until it was made a free library. At first

Dr. Lapham hired a librarian and paid the salary herself. Later the board of trustees took care of it, opening it once a week, on Saturday.

Everyone interested put their shoulder to the wheel (not the rotary wheel) and boosted.

Later Dr. Lapham, who owned the then known young men's hall, needed it to the association.

It was no easy matter to keep it going for the small amount of money it had, but with the gifts of others and now and then a little extra and the willingness of the members of the board to act as librarians they were able to keep it going for a number of years. The membership was always small, not over 200. We never could buy many books at a time—most of these being books of fiction because we never had money to buy histories, biographies, and books of that type.

In 1914 I was elected president and have held the job ever since and I want to tell you that until three years ago this coming March, it has been some job but with the splendid co-operation of the other officers and trustees we put it across.

In 1924 as the town began to grow and new people to come in, I began to feel that it was going to be a job which would require more money and more time than we could give to it. So Mr. Benton and I got together and decided that if we could get a bill through the legislature permitting small libraries to ask assistance from the village or township for a certain percentage of its valuation we could bring in before the township meeting in March.

"Any township or village within this state having within its limits a library that has been open to the public upon payment of dues, may appropriate for the support of such library on its assessed valuation for the support of such library and such sum or sums shall be raised by taxation in the ordinary way. Provided that any library so receiving support from any municipality shall be kept open for the convenience of the public not less than the afternoons and evenings of three days each week, and the books therein shall be for the free use of the public under such reasonable restrictions as such library shall prescribe.

This act is ordered to take immediate effect."

Approved May 6th, 1925.

"One of the slipperiest Sundays you ever saw, it was the day they held the last skating contest here, Mr. Benton and I went over to Mr. C. Verker and put the proposition before him and asked him to frame a bill. In a few days he sent it to Mr. Free, and Mr. Benten took it over to Lawrence Taylor, who was then the legislator for that district. "I'd be took it to Lansing and out it across to the Senate for me to introduce but I didn't have time to do it.

Mr. Stinson, the Detroit library, and the grand marshal of the 4th of July, came to the township competition with both feet and heart in the goings on in the Wayne County Library service out here to see what we meant by it. They didn't have to talk to us long before they found out that that was the end of our trouble so far as that was concerned. The next thing was to get the vote of the township which we are thankful to say we did with a little opposition, and at the last meeting we received ours at all.

I have noticed in the Library Journal that several other small towns have taken advantage of it, Milford for one.

The township for the last three years has given us $100 a month and so far we have been able to run on that and keep our bills paid.

Of course, we rent the library building occasionally, and that goes into the general fund, also the fines which sometimes run as high as eight or nine dollars a month.

Since becoming a free library the card readers have increased to nearly 1,000. It is open three afternoons and evenings in the week.

We buy on the average from forty to fifty dollars worth of books a month, of which a great many are children's books as we are in greater need of them and they are usually the most expensive. Our crying

six-brake system

One of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture. A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

A further improvement in braking performance is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in steady, uniform contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent in operation.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

TOOTHPACHE MYSTERY SOLVED
BY CRACK DETECTIVE

Detective Greenie has solved the celebrated toothache mystery at the Northville High School at last. The mystery started about last Wednesday, January 16, when the students were having a "candy day" in the school corridors. The students' immediate crowded about the candy counters, and the result was that the candy was sold in no time and nearly everyone went home with a toothache.

Mr. Greenie was rushed to the dentist and he told everyone to stay where they were. Then he examined the candy and with a mask of mystery, the veteran detective said a case was very serious. He sent a sample of the candy to the dentist, and after a brief examination, released the following answer:

The candy contained too much sugar. This was a blow to the scoop and it's probable that the students do not feel sick and put a ban on candy sales.

As a result, in solving the puzzle, Mr. Greenie has been promoted and he has also received a present.

The Cosmetic Girls cleared over $100 on the sales yesterday.

SNOW

He who never noticed the snow are different kinds of snow. I mean the soft, fluffy, dreamy kinds of snow that seems to sort of float down no, going anywhere in particular. It's been a sort kind of snow, the doesn't last very long and usually doesn't get anywhere. Then there's the fine little flakes that blow and bluster around and lay in the face hard at first.

MANY ARE SEEKING PLYMOUTH OFFICES

That the citizens of Plymouth will have a wide field of candidates from which to select three members to the village commission this spring is indicated from the fact that petitions for ten candidates have been filed with the village clerks. Time for filing of petitions has set by the village charter expired January 15.

Following are the candidates for whose petitions have been filed:

William J. Sturges, John W. Henderson, Henry J. Fisher, Paul J. Wiedman, Bryan C. Whittle, William G. Towle, George H. Robinson, Floyd A. Kehl, Paul A. Nash, Louis Rebe.

In view of the fact that more than two candidates have been nominated for each position to be filled, a primary election will be held on February 11 to reduce the number of candidates to a total of six.

Village commissioners whose terms of office expire this spring are:

John W. Henderson, Henry J. Fisher and Frank J. Pierce.

Commissioners Henderson and Fisher are candidates for re-election this spring. Commissioner Pierce has declined to accept renomination though frequently requested to do so.

Careful study of the list of candidates indicates that our citizens will have a good field to select commmissioners from and that the lister presents full opportunity to the voters to maintain a high standard of membership upon the village
