NORTHVILLE MICHIGAN, FRIDAY FEBRUARY 15, 1929

THE RIGHT WAY

Many times we have expressed our opinion about increased taxes. We are opposed to the dozen or more dozens of proposals always made to put additional tax burdens upon the people of the state. We do not like the income tax plan of the governor. It is nothing more than a certificate of the corporation tax that is now being paid—that is, the same people who pay the present corporation tax would be the same ones to pay the proposed state income tax. Michigan has no desire to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

To tax amusements would be to tax the working people of the state and the Lord well knows that their burden is sufficient without adding more.

A couple of years ago Senator Peter Lennon of Genesee county proposed a tax on tobacco. His idea at that time was to use the money derived from a tobacco tax so that the property tax might be done away with. A pretty dream, but out of the question. Whether right or wrong, there has always been a property tax and there always will be a property tax. As long as property has value it should stand and will be taxed. The Senator being a farmer thinks that farmers should pay no taxes whatever. Some newspaper editors share the same idea.

But a different condition has developed than existed two or three years ago. During the past two years there has been no buildings erected as any state institution and as a result the state is faced with the necessity of an extensive building program to take care of its inhabitants.

While the state tax has been increased by many millions of dollars, all of the money has been paid out for current expenses and nothing has been put into needed buildings.

The crisis has now arrived. Hundreds of massing are roaming the streets. We have no room to take care of the feeble-minded and other physical and mental wrecks.

In view of the fact that there is no disposition on the part of those in control to reduce state expenses the state is faced with the necessity of raising more money to build the many new structures our state institutions need.

Michigan does not grow tobacco. It has a few cigar factories but the tobacco industry can be said to be foreign to Michigan as far as raising of bananas. But Michigan uses millions of dollars worth of tobacco grown in the south and in foreign countries. There is not a user of tobacco in the world who does not look upon the habit as an unnecessary one—and millions of them would like to be free from the habit. There is nothing quite so unnecessary to a human being as tobacco, and now that the state really faces a necessity of raising more money, do you know of any better place to get it than through a tobacco tax?

Those who have investigated the matter state that a small tobacco tax in Michigan would raise five or six million dollars a year and that would more than take care of all the needs of various institutions.

Here is a chance for the governor and the legislature to get the money they need without penalizing industries for doing business in Michigan and without forcing the working man and woman and the children to disgorge their amplitude pennies.

There is nothing we can do but wait—and write to our representatives and senators that the people back home want a tobacco tax if a greater state income must be secured.

CAN YOU TELL?

Last summer a young fellow named John Strange came to Northville from Grand Haven. He had worked in one of the local factories and was regularly employed most of the time. From information that he's been received since his return to Northville in an industrial life in Grand Haven where his parents reside. He was brought up under the influence of his father, a very bright and attractive little old man. During all of his life he had been a man of great integrity and high spirit.

Last Friday afternoon he came with an ex-convent he had come over to Plymouth where he had just attempted to make his home in a bank. He was captured and is now facing a long prison sentence.

He has wrecked his own life. He's blottedted the future of his parents and he's bound to a woman who has broken the heart of his old parents.

City officials are trying their best to save a bright young man with a promising future before him to bring him much happiness and success to the rest of us that are dearest to him and to humanity and to our usefulness to society?

HE PRAYED WELL.

Each morning the sessions of the Michigan legislature are opened with prayer. That is all it should be because no group of men in the world pray more than the legislators of Michigan or any other state is for that matter.

It is the practice of the legislature to pray in pairs or the various churches of the state to ask the blessing. The other day one of the colored slaves of the state prayed for the legislature. He was a Negro steward or porter of his prayer which follows is correct:

"On Thy great and eternal God, weeping or faith and fear! None can know better than we that sufficient faith to know Thee and reverence Thee and worship Thee. We thank Thee our Father for this our new day, new to us and new to all the world, fraught with opportunities and reward for men and ladies. We thank Thee for our beloved Congressmen. Sir, for our great country. We thank Thee for these men of Michigan chosen for our great people to represent us in the service of the state." The progress of our great government. Bless the State, the Members of this Legislature in this session may prosper and prosper us that in thy grace we may serve to the best of our ability, for we are offered each other God and yet scatter. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

THE OLDER MEN MAKING GOOD.

A few years ago one of the greatest business concerns of Chicago determined to see in the many states they could use to advance their men around thirty or forty years and beyond.

Some of these positions were held by youth and the change has been in every way satisfactory.

One of their most prized and efficient men today is a man past eighty, who sits in his chair with a smile. To this old boy his job has been a life and health boomer.

Young or old get a job the press you can find study and make the most of it.

Many real achievements come late in life—forget disappointments and plug away.

Lincoln at first was a country lawyer defeated for senator. Ford in the thirties was a lumbering engineer with a mechanical device that apparently would not work.

These men did not nor would not recognize defeat, but treated disaster as if it had never happened.

Nothing makes for physical fitness, mental alertness and ultimate success like structural care and structural integrity.

CHEAP PUBLICITY

The Northville Record has received the following letter:

Dear Sir—

Enclosed find some publicity which I hope you can use in this week's issue. I know I am asking a favor but we are planning to advertise the last two weeks and hope to be able to place advertising with all those who our records show have favored us up to then. Thanks very much.

Rob Alle.

Do you see the point—if the Northville Record will print a lot of stuff about Mr. Alle's candidate for circuit judge, a Mr. Ernest O'Brien, MAYBE we will be repaid by getting a little advertising for the Northville Record a couple of weeks before the primary.

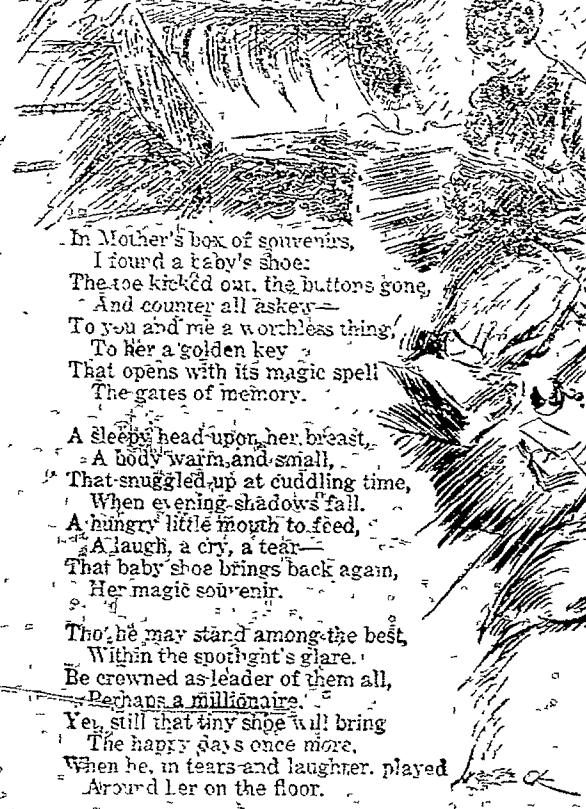

With his letter Mr. Alle encloses a newspaper article which is exceedingly complimentary to his candidate and of course he wants the Northville Record to run it free of charge, believing that we will fall for his little scheme by reason of the fact that Mr. O'Brien expects to do a little advertising in the next couple of weeks.

The advertising beat isn't going to work. Do less but the article would have been used if Mr. Alle hadn't cut his bait in such a crude way.

We don't care for political advertising where there is any requirement or any suggestion that a lot of reading matter is to be used previous to its publication. But Mr. Alle is being paid to "put it over" so to speak, and if he can that is so much to his advantage.

A GOOD JOB

Chief of Police George Springer of Plymouth and Chief William Safford of Northville are entitled to high commendation for the quick way they cleaned up the bank robbery job that two Northville residents attempted at Plymouth last Friday night. The alertness of the two officers and the fact that they were ON THE JOB resulted in the speedy capture of the two bandits, one being taken by Chief Springer and the other by Chief Safford.

We do not know what the village of Plymouth pays its chief in yearly salary; neither do we happen to know the salary that Chief Safford gets, but we do know that their speedy cleanup of this one job is worth their entire year's salary. If the felons had gotten away with the taxpayers of Wayne county would have spent many thousands of dollars in trying to locate and arrest them.

As it is they were caught in such a way that confessions were easily secured and a long and expensive trial made unnecessary.

They are on the way to prison and the cost of their capture and arraignment through the courts has been practically nothing.

We again wish to commend the two officers for their excellent work. They have done a good job and for it they are entitled to a whole lot of credit.

CONGRESS FROM WITHIN

By GRANT M. HUDSON, Congressman
Michigan, Sixth District

An attitude of lurking uneasiness, the immediate sure readings of the week on Capitol Hill as men of the Cigarito which are not at all representative of the wealth, prestige and power of the Seventy-first Congress' leaders American people. Hence, the importance attached to Senator Johnson's recent action as an indication of a general trend.

One reason for the pre-occupation of the last session, we do not know, is that the unusual volume of legislation accomplished. The House has been busy with many bills and with an excessive amount of various committee work, while waiting for the Senate to catch up with it.

Nature's much speculation is manifested as to the next administration and the policies President-Elect Hoover has and will follow closely the policies of President Coolidge, but those who know Mr. Hoover's career are certain that he will not be a very bland policies.

The superstructures are now being laid on the foundations of two new departmental buildings the Commerce and International Revenue Service, both effective as they have proved to be other offices.

In his speech to the nation in December, Mr. Hoover clearly pointed out that his policies had been directed to another plan.

Another decade will bring to this nation's most beautiful city great changes in the dignity and beauty of its governmental buildings, additions and immediate plans include the raising of all the buildings to the north of the Congressional.

Men go by, liberty and that spot will be erected the beautiful new building to house the United States Supreme Court, now in crowded quarters under the dome of the Capitol. The Supreme Court building will have monumental design in the library itself, one of the outstanding buildings in the world.

South of the Capitol and west of the present House Office building two squares have been purchased on which will be built a new House Office building. This square will be recognized as the location of the famous old hotel known as Congress Hall Hotel for many years the home of hundreds of Congressmen and Senators.

My Favorite Stories

by Irvin S. Cobb

WORKING WHILE OTHERS SLEPT

A WELL KNOWN comic lecturer makes his living by telling stories on the platform as a master of the spoken word, and the secret of his success is that he can tell a story that is not an actual event, but is a version of an old fable.

Two stories, however, he has told over and over again, and they are the same, but he tells them in a different way, and after telling them in a story place and the car bogged down in stuck fast.

Providentially as it would seem, a smaller boy passed by him in sight, leaning a team of horses with him and the upshot was that for a dollar he agreed to ride him off the job of rescuing me from my predicament. The price seemed reasonable and we crossed the long road.

"He hooked his horses to the gate of the stalled automobile and soon had me out upon high ground. I was struck by the brightness of the sun and the skill he had shown in extricating this heavy machine from the mire. After I had paid him I led him into conversation, taking occasion immediately to compliment him upon his smartness.

"Well," he said, "I've had considerable practice. Mister Vourn makes the sixth car I've pulled out of this here same mudhole today."

"Did each one of the others pay you a dollar?" I asked.

"Yes," he said. That's my regular price for the job."

"Then you've earned six dollars today?"

"Yep, that's right," he said.

"Pretty fair wages for a boy your age," I should say. I commented.

"Before answering me, the youngster withdrew from my immediate vicinity, and mounted one of his horses.

"Well," he said, "this has been a specially good day. I don't always take in this much, and anyhow, isn't as easy as you might think for me to earn this money. All day I've got to be hanging round wastin' for one of you city fellers to get bogged down and start callin' for help. That ain't the worst of it, neither. Except when it rains, I have to be around here a good part of every night."

"What do you do here at nights?" I asked.

"He drew his coat off the road and started away through the woods. Then, over his shoulder, he replied:

"Oh, night-time I have to draw water and fill up this here mudhole so it'll be all ready for business next day."

Very Interesting Data
About Sale

Sheriff's Sale
By virtue of an execution issued from the circuit court of the county of Wayne against the goods and chattels of John Reed, I have seized the following articles:

One barrel of whiskey, one part of a barrel of vinegar, one feather bed, four bed quilts, five woolen blankets, one market basket, one bridle and halter, one basket of crackers, one pair of sheets, six pillows and cases, one lump sugar, one gallon bottle of brandy, one pint decanter of wine, one pint decanter of whiskey, one bed and one blanket, which I will expose for public auction in the city of Detroit on Saturday the 4th day of June next at 10 o'clock A.M.

J. M. Wilson, Sheriff.

No, do not rush—this sale is not to take place the coming June. It took place way back in June of 1831 according to the first issue of the Detroit Free Press that the Tibbits possessed and prizes very nicely.

The above advertised sheriff's sale was among the six advertisements that appeared in the first issue of the Free Press known at the time of its establishment as the Democratic Free Press and Michigan Intelligencer.

Mr. Tibbits has owned this old copy of the Free Press for many years. It came down to him through the family and he has over a long period of years retained its possession.

The paper is dated May 5, 1831; contained four pages with five columns to the page.

The first page was devoted exclusively to the report of the Democratic-Republican convention that was held in the Madison house in Detroit that spring.

Above its editorial column it proclaimed, "For President, Andrew Jackson." Then it said, "The man and his measures equal protection for agriculture, manufacture and commerce, economy in the public expenditures. A literal construction of the constitution, with the exercise of express and implied powers, a firm adherence to Democratic principles, to individual and municipal rights, to the sovereignty of the states and the SOVEREIGNTY OF THE PEOPLE."

Speaking of its opposition the old Free Press said, "These neutral papers are always deceptively in some parts of the country, they go by the name of rattle-snake papers, but a friend suggests to us that they ought to be called copperheads because the first named paper always gives notice before he enters, whereas these neutral papers never show their colors before they apply their fangs."

WHEN you come into our store, you say it's to buy furniture. But isn't it true it is really to buy satisfaction. And the kind of furniture that is in keeping with your home and the times, as well as your pocketbook, and must include good honest service from our salesmen and deliverymen, in fact every one connected with our store.

Price has more to do with satisfaction than we sometimes think. We have a small store from outside appearance, but our space covers the second floor over other stores. This gives us low overhead and ample floor space.

We operate with as few men as possible as every penny we save means that our customers save also, as we are able to sell the better grades of furniture at a lower price. We can give liberal terms to persons who are responsible.

The first part of the game was scored at 17. Northville was beaten when the score was 5 to 14 in Farmington's favor.

LIKES SUNSHINE AND ROSES BETTER THAN ICY STREETS

Adopted California is a Winter Visitor in Michigan.

Clarence Pomeroy, former Kalamazoo newspaper writer, now publisher of the West Pico Review, a community paper between Los Angeles and Beverly Hills, with his family, has been visiting for the past four weeks in Michigan with relatives and old friends.

The Pomerroys were called to Michigan by the death of Mrs Pomeroy's mother, up at Ludington. They will leave for the coast in the next few days.

It was something like four years ago that Mr. Pomeroy sold out and went to California, while he was always a resident of Michigan until his removal to the west, he has become a real Californian, and he pictures that part of the country as the Paradise of the world.

"If we can only get back there without breaking our necks it's all I ask. Of course it is pleasant to come back to see your old friends and visit the places you know so well, but when it comes to putting up with the snow, ice, cold and cloudy days, I guess I am entirely cured of my desire to live out there. You don't have to exert yourself like you do here. No stopping to take off and take on overcoats and rubber boots. And the sunshine seems to put the pep into you that the cold air does here. Of course, Michigan will probably always lead California as an industrial state, but give me the sunshine, the warm winter weather and the delightful summer days. I guess probably that I like the summers in California better than I do the winters. But it is nice all the time," stated Mr. Pomeroy.

It rains once in a while during the winter. But we enjoy the showers just like you do the April showers back here.

We have no thunder and lightning.

In the four years I have been there I have never seen an electric flash in the sky. We have no high winds.

Folks back here seem to know more about earthquakes than we do out there. If a heavy truck has ever driven by a young house and caused a slight rumble, you know just what an "earthquake" is like because that is generally all they amount to. Anyways, we don't have them in the Los Angeles area.

Los Angeles certainly is growing.

Once it had been in Detroit for a few years, and to say that Los Angeles is growing faster than Detroit would be saying something that would be hardly correct.

But I would say that both Los Angeles and Detroit seem to be growing at about the same rate.

It has been four years since I have been in Detroit, and from my trips about the city on its slippery streets I would judge that Los Angeles and Detroit are growing at about the same rate.

Detroit is a wonderful city and the communities surrounding it are building up just like they are out around Los Angeles. The metropolitan districts of the big, fast growing cities are the ones that seem to be getting the population and business these days," stated Mr. Pomeroy.

Previous to establishing the West Pico Review, which he has developed into an excellent newspaper property, he was the owner of a legal publication paper in Los Angeles, which he sold two years ago.

Mr. Elton R. Eaton

Northville, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Eaton:

You will find an editorial on the resignation of President Little of the University of Michigan carries certain implications that I regret to see.

I do not pretend to know the merits of a case on which few people beside

Dr. Little and the regents are concerned.

The regents are consistent in their opinion that he is worthy of his position.

It is evident that he has been at the helm of this great educational institution, it can hardly be said that progress has been made.

This may be true, though I happen to believe differently.

But if true, the brief time would explain it and excuse it.

Some exceedingly progressive moves have been started.

It may still be too soon to have finished them or to have proved them.

Clearly some of them could have been started sooner if there had been more progressive acceptance of his leadership.

As to the dormitory and rooming houses controversy, I do not pretend to know the right of either side.

I do know that often recently controversy, etc., has arisen in connection with the power that in the

FORD'S MUSEUM
WILL REQUIRE 17
BIG STRUCTURES

It Will Take Two Years to Build Entire Building Planned

There will be seventeen buildings and five main units in the Ford Museum in Dearborn, and approximately two years will be required to complete the entire project.

The front entrance of the museum will face the southeast and will look out over the Ford airport; the buildings standing between the airport and the present engineering laboratories, according to a description given in a recent issue of Ford News. The entrance building will be an exact copy of Independence Hall so far as its exterior and the first floor are concerned; while the upstairs will be modified to accommodate the requirements of the museum.

Five great museum units are planned at present. They will be starting at the south side and running northward: Home Industries, Agriculture, Manufacturing Industries, Manufacturing and Transportation. Seventeen different buildings will comprise the museum staff.

Two exterior units flanking the central hallway, the south will be the administration building for the Home Industries and Agriculture exhibits. The two on the north front are for the overflow from the Manufacturing and Transportation Buildings and for the administrative offices to care for the collections. Each of the five main units will be nearly 200 feet in length. The transportation unit will be connected with the locomotive rotunda and cross houses forming the north end of the museum. In the rotunda there samples of airplanes will be suspended in the air.

Between the administration buildings and crossing the spaces between at the rear of the museum, are to be located rooms for class work and for historical research. These cross-over rooms will be in close proximity to the departmental libraries also to the main library. Between the museum units are to be courts, three of which are designed to simulate the thirteen original colonies. Near the front of the plant on the southeast corner and between the Home Industries and Agriculture units, will be an auditorium with seating capacity of 600. Balancing this on the northeast corner will be an vocational school department for advanced work, in addition to the Ford tradeschools of Highland Park and Dearborn. The finishing tradeschool for these boys will be run in an atmosphere in contact with the mechanical things which will give to them a practical historical perspective.

Make some orange turn-over biscuits the next time you have company for tea. Use your favorite recipe for the biscuit dough, and roll it out about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch thick. Cut out with a small biscuit cutter, and fold each one over like a pocket-book. Dip quickly into melted butter, drain and put in a baking pan. Meanwhile have ready several tablespoons of grated orange rind mixed with an equal amount of sugar. With the tip of a knife, place a small quantity of the mixture between the folds of the biscuits and spread a little over the top. Bake in a medium hot oven until lightly browned. Serve at once.

TROUT FISHERMEN WILL BE ASKED TO AID DEPARTMENT

If You Catch a "Tagged" Trout Tell the Officials About It

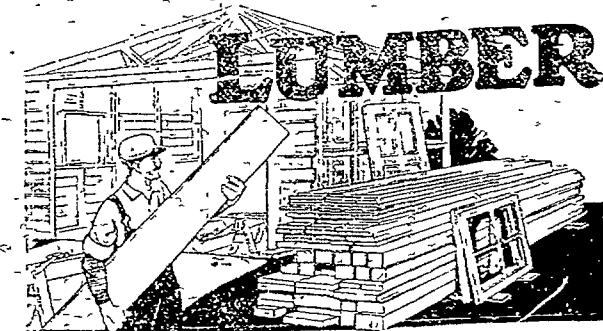

Northville trout fishermen and others about the state are saving over their equipment during the winter months in preparation of the season's opening. May 1st, have been asked to consider a request that the fish hatchery division of the state conservation department is making. The hatchery men are asking that next season any fisherman who takes one of the trout tagged by the department report the catch. The information that may be gained from such reports will be considered invaluable by the department's experts who are seeking to gain information on migration and rate of growth of brook, brown and rainbow trout.

The number of the tags, the lengths of the fish and the planting localities have been carefully recorded.

Of the other fish, the sex has also been recorded.

The fish division has compiled a list of information which it hopes the fishermen will seek to forward to the department. It is asking that anglers keep these items at hand where they may be reviewed when supplying the desired facts. Here are three points stressed: (a) date of capture; (b) length of fish from tip of nose to end of tail; (c) locality of capture, that is, name of stream and location by town or otherwise, as accurately as possible; (d) sex of fish, if possible to determine; (e) the tag itself should be mailed together with the report. If so desired, the tag will later be returned to the correspondent.

All correspondence relating to this matter should be addressed to Dr. Jan Metzelaar, University Museum, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

SOLONS TALK OF MORE TAXES AND WAYS TO SPLIT IT

Cities Would Take More Money from Road Building Fund

(By Len Feighner)

Michigan Press Association

"Farmers' Week," bringing thousands of agriculturists from all sections of the state, combined with the annual meeting of the state association of supervisors and other rural organizations, has seriously interfered with legislative work this week. Wednesday's session was practically a legal holiday for the legislators, many of whom left it in time in order to attend County Conventions. And queer as it seems, some politicians who make no claims to being farmers have also spent a goodly portion of the week here, hobnobbing with the farmers, the supervisors, the grangers, the farm bureau members and others who made Lansing their Mecca during "Farmers' Week."

The Dykstra bill proposing a three-way split of the automobile weight tax money by which one-third would go to cities, villages and townships was the occasion of a public hearing before the transportation committee Wednesday evening. Representatives of the Michigan League of Municipalities were present and argued for the bill.

Sick Ten Years, Konjola Brings Speedy Relief

Just Beginning to Enjoy Life Again," Says Lady Made Well by New Medicine

MRS L PLUMPTON

What astonishing victories Konjola, the new medicine, achieves over those obstinate cases that have defied and resisted every other medicine and treatment tried. Thousands of cases of such triumphs might be cited but the one of Mrs. L. Plumpton, 111 Forest avenue, Ann Arbor, is typical of the results that this master medicine brings.

"For more than ten years I was sick with stomach liver and kidney troubles," Mrs. Plumpton writes, "and in that time I found absolute relief until I tried the splendid new Konjola. My food did not digest! I had gas pains, heart pressure, dizzy spells, headaches, colic attacks and black specks danced before my eyes. The kidney condition got me up frequently at night, and the loss of proper nourishment and sleep caused my general health to fail rapidly. But Konjola changed all this. When the very first bottle gave me fine results I could scarcely realize that my long search for health had been rewarded. Day by day I grew better, and as my organs were restored to normal health all my pains passed away. I feel just wonderful, and Konjola goes all the credit. It shall never cease to marvel at case."

Konjola is sold in Northville, Mich., at the Northville Drug Company's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section—Advt

Unevenly heated homes—a stuffy hot room here, a chilly room there, with colds as a result, are the very things you pay for an inefficient heating system. We are specialists in correcting heating ills. Pipe and boiler insulation, proper radiation, heat control devices, condensating apparatus, etc., are the remedies which we prescribe for these home-caught "colds." Incidentally, we save you money too! Let us call and inspect your heating system—No obligation to you.

along with several representatives of municipalities independently. Several telegrams were received by representatives urging their support of the bill, which will probably be considered by the committee early the coming week. The opposition to the bill comes largely from the rural districts, the rallying cry being "Warne confound him half of the money." Warne comes back with, "Why not? We pay in half of it." But the bill also has many supporters from the rural regions, although the superintendents association resolved against it.

The chairman of the committee of both Senate and House were at Madison, Wisconsin, this week in conference with members of similar committees of the sister state in an effort to collaborate in the framing of uniform measures for both states, which have so much in common.

Interesting battles loom ahead over proposed changes in penalties in measures which now bring offenders under the ban of the criminal code. The anti-saloon league leaders demand that the liquor laws remain as they are, making life sentences mandatory for fourth convictions. Senator Miner of Oregon has introduced a bill providing a minimum penalty of five years for any liquor law violation. This bill is said to have the backing of the anti-saloon organization.

Representative Miles M. Callaghan's bill providing an appropriation of $25,000 for construction of a "H" camp at Gaylord, for the northern section of the lower peninsula was passed by the House Wednesday afternoon, was given the title of the "Callaghan Bill" and now goes to the Senate for its approval.

An intensive study is being made by many members of both houses of the various money-raising propositions advanced for Governor Green's proposed reconstruction program for state institutions. Speaker Mang's proposed income tax seems to have the lead in the discussion, although as yet neither of the measures has been presented in either house.

Rep. Earnley's bill to permit reading of the Bible in public schools, which was reported out by his committee, was on general orders referred to the committee on education. The opposition to it is that it puts up to the office of the state superintendent of public instruction to set out the portions to be read and that his office would be swamped by demands from all churches and creeds to have their particular choice approved. As there is now nothing to prevent the Bible being read if the district so desires makes it seem likely that it will be deemed unnecessary legislation and be smothered in committee.

Rep. Charles DeLand asks in a resolution that the office of Secretary of State be investigated in relation to the branch offices in Highland Park and Hamtramck. Gesseler concurred to be a part of the scrap between Detroit political factions.

Senator Arthur Wood has a bill proposing the sale of the Pontiac asylum, claiming the buildings are old and should be replaced by new ones, and that the land now occupied is too valuable to be used for such purposes.

Conservation and fish and game committees will hold a public hearing Tuesday, a legal holiday, on proposed conservation matters.

Rep. Snow of Kalamazoo has a bill which would prevent hunting on a public highway by within 150 feet of such highway.

The medical bill proposing certain educational requirements of any person engaged in the practice of healing made its appearance in the Senate Monday night. The measure, said to have originated in the State Health department, was introduced by Senator Engle. Examinations are proposed to be held by a board of nine to be appointed by the governor.

A proposal to re-establish the teachers' retirement fund is up for consideration in the Senate, being reported favorably by the Senate committee on education and passed by the Senate. Fireworks are in prospect before the bill gets through the House.

Capital punishment has attracted less comment and discussion so far during the present session than for many years, but there is still time for the pyrotechnics to start when various bills now in committee come out on the floor. Public hearings will probably be arranged for.

Diverse would be almost a deadlocked situation in Michigan under a bill introduced by Rep. Height of Livonia. Seven years of desertion by husband or wife, seven years in prison by either party would be required. Provisions for permanent separation are however provided for.

There will be some action on the bill as soon as it is introduced.

A lively scrap between Senator Jankowsky of Detroit, and Rep. Nelson Sampson of the anti-saloon league developed in the Senate chamber Thursday afternoon after Jankowsky had withdrawn a bill he had introduced because he claimed Sampson had been lobbying for the bill. Hard words passed, but blows were avoided.

Governor Green talked to the State Association of Supervisors during their annual meeting here in favor of his income tax proposal, but after much discussion the organization declined to endorse the proposition.

Rep. Herbert Reed of Copemish proposes a constitutional amendment which would do away with spring elections, providing that all township officers be elected for two years at a general biennial fall election.

Amendment proposed to be given to the state to vote on at the next November election. Want to do away with "town meetings."

Governor Green's latest proposition is to make a permanent income tax, first to rehabilitate state institutions and later to help out on general taxes. No bill has as yet been introduced, but it is among the various finance propositions which keep the legislators arguing during hours when the solons are not in session.

Rep. Milton R. Palmer, who introduced the proposal for a constitutional amendment at the last session, says the idea back of the proposed salary increase was to revolutionize the entire system of legislation. Under present conditions, the legislature meets with a large percentage of new members, takes time to get acquainted and learn the rules, then when the time it gets thoroughly organized, it adjourns, she die. Mr. Palmer's proposed plan is to have commissions of members appointed, each commission to have a specific task in constructive legislation, such as revision, simplification and codification of existing laws, study of state problems, and recommendation of new constructive measures. Such commissions to report at a special session or to the next regular session. The proposal has a lot of merit.
