

FLOOD OF THE NORTHVILLE RECORD

Vol. LIX. No. 34.

Northville, Michigan, Friday, March 1, 1929.

$1.50 per year, in Advance

TO ANNOUNCE PRIZE WINNER IN NEXT ISSUE

There Were 62 Students Who Sent in Contest Articles

Sixty-two school children from Northville and other nearby schools have made entries in the Northville Record contest with suggestions on "What We Can Do During the Year 1929 to Make Northville a More Beautiful Place Than It Is."

There were 62 entries but two of them failed to place their names on the article they sent in, so naturally they cannot be considered.

The winning entry in the contest will appear in next week's issue of the Northville Record. Because of the expense of the many papers submitted, one whose name will be announced with the result of the contest is going to have some difficulty in deciding which one of the articles submitted is the best. It can be said at this time that there are dozens and dozens of excellent suggestions contained in the many articles submitted, and if only a small portion of the ideas expressed by the children should be carried out Northville would be a park and shade-making community.

This can be said that when the judge has picked out the paper that is regarded as the best, a determined effort will be made to carry out a good portion of the program outlined.

Some student has won a $10 prize by doing something which has been of benefit to the student, and it is generally hoped, for the entire community.

Be sure and watch next week's issue of the Northville Record for the name of the winner.

It can be stated at this time that during the next few weeks it is the plan to publish many of the excellent papers that have been submitted by the youthful writers.

FUTURE BRIGHT FOR SCOTTSMOOR PREDICTS PASTOR

Rev. William Richards Sees Great Growth for Ideal Town

Rev. William Richards back from Florida with coat of tan that he collected in less than three weeks and filled with enthusiasm over the prospects of spending his less active days down among the orange blossoms and balmy winter winds, predicts for the progressive community of Scottsmoor, Florida, a wonderful future.

It is near this place that he has started a little orange grove with trees donated by former Postmaster Frank S. Neal.

"This place is one of the Florida communities that has survived the boom," he says.

Some virile New England business man settled in a location between New Smyrna and Titusville on the Indian river, which is west of the east coast of Florida, and like their forebears the Pilgrim Fathers with the same tenacity, irrespective of reverses stuck to their ideals of colonizing until it became an incorporated town of Scottsmoor.

The Scott brothers, Charles and Harry C. J. Ferguson with others at the close of the boom kept to their job and are still working with all the interest possible for the town. The town is named Scottsmoor after the Scott family.

C. J. Ferguson is the present mayor. The county has built a wonderful school being a first unit of Spanish architecture. Citrus groves are being planted on thousands of acres. The East Florida Coast railroad trains stop for passengers and also with freight. A citrus fruit packing house is about to be built with the railroad planning for a station. It has a four-class post office with two mails each day.

Unlike other towns on the east coast it is protected from the heavy winds that others suffer from, by a narrow strip of land between the sea and Indian river with a mile and a quarter of jungle and citrus groves between the river which break the storms; that only the last two years have been in evidence coming from the Caribbean seas.

The best citrus fruit in all the world is grown in this section, and when marked with Indian river is always safeable.

The new Dixie highway is its main street running north and south. The old Dixie is running through the center east and west and is called Huntingdon avenue. The other streets are still in a crude nature, but the town council is frugal with taxes and are slowly making improvements that has no relation to any inhabitant.

A community spirit second to none is in evidence, and the cooperative spirit prevailing will make this town among the best on the Atlantic coast.

A community church with no denominational affiliation, the services being held in the school, property of the community.

The place will not be far from the ocean giving the town a climate for Scottsmoor.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lapham who have been spending the winter at Tampa, Florida, have gone to Daytona Beach for a brief stay before returning back to their home in Northville. They have enjoyed a very delightful winter in the south and by doing so escaped one of the severest Michigan has ever had.

CONTEST FOR JUDGE SHIPS ENDS MONDAY

Predicted That There Will Be Two or Three New Nominees

Monday is primary election day in Northville and Michigan. The issues are not many. In Wayne county voters will be called upon to nominate 14 candidates for circuit judge. There are 26 candidates to select from.

From what can be heard there is a possibility that two or three changes may take place on the bench.

Judges Dr. Jayne, Clyde Webster and Judge Brennan are meeting with some opposition from whom it will be heard about the streets. There seems to be general satisfaction with the other judges and the speculations is confined mostly to which will rule up the biggest number of votes.

Judge Guy Under, Harry Keidan and Harry Dinsman seem to be the favorite three, about there Friends predict that Judge Joseph Moynihan and DeWitt Merriam will be runner-ups in popularity.

Judge L. Eugene Sharp has a big following among Legion members who was captain of the company that Lloyd Green was serving in when killed over in France. Lloyd was the first Northville boy to be sacrificed over in France, and at the time he was killed, Judge Sharp was next to him in the trenches. The Northville Legion post was named in honor of Lloyd. This little local connection gives Judge Sharp a strong connection with the Legion boys who are out working for him.

Among some of the newer aspirants for the places on the bench are Frederic Harward, Julius Berns, Ernest LaJone and Robert Toma. These four are going to pick up a good vote about here, especially Berns and Harward who have worked up quite a following in western Wayne county.

Prospects are that there will be a fair good vote out Monday although the only contest is for circuit judge nominees.

RECORD CROWD AT FATHER AND SONS BANQUET

Good Talks and Excellent Menu Provide Real Delight

Russell Atchison speaking as a representative of the sons of Northville, gave the boys something to think about in his talk before the nearly 300 in attendance at the annual father and son banquet held in the Methodist church's house, Wednesday evening.

Warden Edwards Denton in speaking before the same group gave the fathers a whole lot to think about.

By far the largest father and son banquet ever held in Northville, the event proved a most pleasant one.

Following the serving of a menu that filled the boys brimfull with good things, came two or three musical selections by Dr. Richard Salyer that pleased the banqueters.

Robert McCullish, a Free Press artist, amused the crowd by "caricaturing" Carl Ely, Dr. Cavel and Irving Ulrich. Someone said the pictures flattered the subjects, but they denied it.

Russell Atchison pointed out in a most emphatic way to the boys present their responsibility to the fathers—and of the sacrifice every parent makes for the child.

It was Capt. Dennister who gave the banquet guests a surprise by declaring that there is no such a thing as a born criminal.

Criminals are made—they are the product of environment. Whatever surroundings you provide the child with has everything to do with how he turns out," said the warden.

"Every penal institution gives a post-graduate course in crime. When your boy is sent to our institution we must keep him there and make him a criminal."

"I hope the time will come when no judge will have a right to give any prisoner a definite sentence."

"More times than one a boy would have been turned from a life of crime if he had been able after his first night in prison to let him go back home."

The captain gave many incidents bearing out the assertions he made.

Three generations were represented in four groups. John Schoultz was at the banquet with three sons and three grandsons.

Alex Johnson had as guest his father from Sweden and his own son. Then was William Rattenbury with his son and grandson and W. A. Parmenter with his boy and grandson.

THE CHURCH HOUSE BASKET BALL.

South Lyon Methodist team met the Northville Methodist team last Monday evening, accompanied by their teacher, the Rev. Chas. Wolfe.

The boys played first, the Northville Methodist defeated the South Lyon Methodists with the score 25-17.

Next came the girls, which was a close game with much credit to the South Lyon girls, who are novices at basketball. The Northville Methodist girls having the advantage of the high school physical training. The score was 39 to 34 in favor of the Methodist girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lapham who have been spending the winter at Tampa, Florida, have gone to Daytona Beach for a brief stay before returning back to their home in Northville. They have enjoyed a very delightful winter in the south and by doing so escaped one of the severest Michigan has ever had.

ONE TICKET TO BE IN FIELD IN NEXT ELECTION

No Township Caucus Has Been Called by the Democrats

Everyone wants to become a candidate for township office in Northville during the present year. They have got to win a place in the ticket at the Republican caucus which has been called for 2 o'clock in the afternoon on March 9th at the village hall because the Democrats have failed to call a caucus for the present spring election.

Of course there is always the "sticker" system left, but up to the present time not even a "sticker" candidate has made an appearance for township office and that is for the treasurership.

It looks as though the present township offices are going to have clear sailing.

No one has been suggested as a candidate to oppose Supervisor William A. Ely. No one has suggested a willingness to even have their name go before the caucus.

Elmer Spurr for township clerk seems to have just as clear a path as the supervisor and Louis A. Balko, highway commissioner, is up to the present riding without opposition.

So when the voters of the township gather a week from Saturday to nominate candidates for the Republican ticket, the prospects are that there will be just one contest to turn up the meeting.

NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1929.

JUST A FEW SIDELIGHTS ON THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Was over in Lansing last week at the time of the Republican state convention. No, not as a delegate from Wayne county or any mission connected with politics. Simply as a spectator from the top row in "nugget heaven," although Secretary Denny Alward of the state central committee was kind enough to put a ringside seat at the disposal of the writer if he wanted to use it.

It was something like 25 years ago when the writer first started attending Republican state conventions in Michigan. Remember well the first one. It was held in Grand Rapids and at that time the primary election system was the great issue within the party. The so-called "old guard" was against it. The element that backed the primary election system was called "progressive." The "progressives" declared they were fighting the battle for the people and the "old guard" was pictured as a bunch of political pirates. In fact, anyone who opposed the proposed primary election system of naming candidates was branded an enemy of the common people. On this issue Charles Townsend, representing the progressives, was elevated to the United States Senate and Julius Caesar Burrows of Kalamazoo, one of the rarest if not the brightest of representatives Michigan ever had in the senate was sacrificed on the altar of a foolish "ism." As I glanced about the convention hall and studied the faces of the delegates present, I wondered what Mr. Julius Burrows and Charles Townsend would think if they could have had the same opportunity I did to see the new brand of politics that the primary election system has given to Michigan and to note the difference in the types of leadership that controlled the delegations of 25 years ago and of last year.

No, the Republican convention was not held in the city of Mexico. It was held in Lansing. As one walked into the convention hall between banks of policemen and had those informed officials of the last lost upon the crowd as a batch of hijacking bandits a spirit of rebellion just naturally crept up into your bones. Not until three years ago was it even necessary to have a policeman within a Republican convention hall. The last few conventions held in Michigan have reminded one of an armed camp of Moriarity bandits, except that the bandits were not bandit officers of the law. The high name that the chieftains of the Republican party see to it that the cause for this armed guard be done away with. Folks will find more of politics in general when the coppers stop watching Republicans and spend more time hunting peddlers of poisoned honey.

There will be no more Republican conventions in Lansing. The city has no hall large enough to hold the convention and there are not sufficient hotel accommodations. Dozens and dozens of visitors to last week's convention had to impose upon friends or relatives living in that city. The sudden addition where the convention met is large enough for about half a Republican convention.

William Berkley nominated as a candidate for the state board of agriculture can thank just one man for his nomination Roy Brownell of Flint, sometime one man that he should be a candidate. Mr. Brownell is a very close personal friend of Governor Green and when Mr. Brownell's candidacy was announced, the Governor stated publicly that he would support Mr. Brownell. Then along came the Genesee county convention. Mr. Berkey's forces were routed by Mayor William McKeighan. The mayor went to Lansing with a cold reception from his country. He declared that Mr. Brownell would never have a vote from his home county. Of course, with no one from his home town to back his nomination in the state convention, Mr. Brownell gracefully withdrew and went to Florida to run the sunfish for a few days. There was no other candidate in the place and Mr. Berkey being a very acceptable citizen the Governor necessarily had to forget Mr. Brownell and support Mr. Berkey—due entirely to the fact that Mayor McKeighan noted Mr. Brownell from having home support. Send a letter of thanks to the Mayor, Mr. Berkey.

How things do change. Three years ago John Davis a Battle Creek attorney, who gave up his lucrative law practice to accept a $4,000 a year postmastership in Battle Creek, was a rip-roaring opponent of former Governor Groesbeck. If there was anything that could be said against the former Governor, Davis said it. And never did Governor Green have a more ardent supporter than little Johnnie. Can you imagine it? The other night before the Republican state convention some of the Calhoun county delegates said that they had to tip up the tongue of the Battle Creek postmaster because he was talking so loud and nasty about Governor Green. The boys from Calhoun had a candidate for the supreme bench and they were fearful that Johnnie's ravings about Governor Green might upset things a bit. This same gentleman's papa against Governor Groesbeck was because Groesbeck did not see fit to make Davis a member of the public utilities commission. Now Johnnie is claiming that the present governor didn't keep his word with him. How ridiculous. Johnnie, it also seems, has ambitions to become a federal office holder in Washington under the administration of President Herbert Hoover. In view of Postmaster Davis' ratings about the Governor and his administration, we wonder if he will have nerve enough to ask the Governor for his support in his effort to be appointed fourth assistant postmaster general. It is difficult to conceive of anyone being appointed to a federal job Washington from Michigan without the endorsement of Governor Green or his secretary, Howard Lawrence, who is now chairman of the Republican state central committee especially in view of the fact that it was Governor Green, who first championed the Hoosier cause in Michigan. Maybe some day Mr. Davis will learn that it isn't always the best policy to damn and accuse everyone of double-crossing him because they do not happen to give him just what he wants.

Writing in the Charlotte Republican Tribune, Editor DeFee has a lot of comment which might be most profitably read by the aspiring Mr. Davis of Battle Creek. This is what the Charlotte editor says: "The best politician never allows himself to have any hang-over enemies after a campaign. With the result, win or lose, he cleans the slate. Bitterness and enemies have no place in the make-up of a politician who plays the game—the disciplined group. For example the hotel lobbies at Lansing Tuesday night were filled with Groesbeck leaders of two years ago. Were they going to support Mr. Barnard of Detroit trying to wrest party control from Gov. Fred W. Green the man who defeated their idol only a bare two years ago? Not much, Mary Ann. The gang code is no stronger than this innate something that marks the real politician. He has been taught that each administration is entitled to political control during its official incumbency. The unwritten law, as it refers to this phase of political leadership is more definitely a matter of honor than are the ethics that govern in primary contests."

Michigan metropolitan newspapers are served by a mighty high class of newspaper correspondents in Lansing, with possibly one exception. Of course in a group of 12 or 15 political writers, you might expect to find one raspberry with long hair and a crooked way of things in general, but when you read something from Lansing under the name of Herib Garrison, Gilbert Shilson, Fred Grimes, Frank Morris, John Fitzgibbons, Arthur Ogle and Carl Mueller you can make up your mind they have got correct information on the subject they are writing about. You will never find any of these writers trying to impose any personal views they may have upon the readers of the papers they write for. That's a jio honorable newspaper men leave to the editors and editorial writers. It is a safe statement to make that any of the above mentioned writers know more about Michigan affairs than the majority of state officials.

How they do "kud" the women. Sat reading the morning reprint of the Detroit evening papers when a big politician from up-state spoke most cordially to a woman convention visitor who was waiting in a nearby chair. "I've been trying to get you a seat on the platform, but I guess I got my request in too late. I'm going back again to see 'em and I am going to tell how important it is for the welfare of the party. In our section that you belong to the platform. If I can see the right ones I guess we can get it," he said. "Now don't mind, I'll be satisfied anywhere." It's awfully nice of you to think about it," said the lady.

Mothers' Hollyhocks

By
A. J. Dunlap

There's a hollyhock down by the gate

All afame in the warm summer-air;

And the fair hand is withered with age

That so carefully planted it there.

When she's gone from the old family circle,

To the quiet repose of the tomb;

There'll be beautiful memories of mother

When the hollyhocks burst into bloom.

There are wonderful flowers of the spirit;

Lovely blossoms with petals of gold

That will bloom in our memories forever,

When the baubles of life are brown-old.

We'll remember her singing at twilight,

Rock of Ages and Never Alone,

Of the temple not builded with hands

And angels around the white throne.

And she planted the red rose of courage

In our hearts with an infinite care;

With the daisies of sadness and mercy,

And the blue bells of penitent prayer.

Though our lives may be twisted and twisted

Like a snake in gladness of gloom;

There'll be wonderful memories of mother

When the hollyhocks burst into bloom.

And the gent disappeared for the rest of the morn among the

Dear growers and hollyhock drivers.

Jim Hill was one of the delegates from Kalamazoo county.

During his life of some 48 or 50 years Jim has never been much of a politician. He has always been interested in politics but never sought public office. He is a mighty likable fellow and when he was proposed for appointment in the auto license division of the state, he had almost the united support of everyone in Kalamazoo. That is something unusual, but not so surprising after all when you stop to think that "Jim" never knocked anyone and always tries to be friendly with his acquaintances.

Senator Gus Gansser boasts much about his memory of names and faces. It was about 30 years ago when Gus and the writer first met off abando during the intervening years the contact has been more or less constant. The other morning he had just been telling a group of his friends from back home how he had always tried it a practice to remember his acquaintances. Well hello, how are you? Mr. ———— meet some of my friends from back home, said Gus. Who are you talking to? I've had to ask. You said Gus. Wasn't quite surprised whether to feel offended or take it as a joke, as the gent he mentioned is busy these days trying to keep out of the battles. But knowing Gus, there was no other way to take it than as a censorial pun.

Walked into the convention hall with James Hopkins publisher of the Howard City Record and Fred Keister, publisher of the Tongue County News. A dozen or 15 cops spread themselves in a raw across the path and stopped our progress towards the convention room. The suddenly and unexpected move on the part of the police sort of took the three unaccustomed editors off their feet. Stand there silent for a minute not knowing just what to do. It was Fred who spoke first. "I'm from Tomahawk." These four guards let him through the line like magic but it left his two companions outside the breakers. They're newspaper men, explained Fred. The cops looked and squinted Finally a friendly old sergeant of arms from the legislative halls saw the situation and with his aid the two scribes were safely escorted through the hootch house line.

Speaking of crowded hotel conditions in Lansing, the boys from Oakland county, turned one of the small dining rooms of the Olds into a sort of barracks. In some cases a dozen or more were provided for in this way. Charlie Hammon and Frank Clark of Novi township were among the faithful from Oakland Rural districts seemingly pay more attention to the class of delegates picked than do the cities. Most of the rural delegates were of that type of substantial citizens that have done so much for the development of the state.

There was one mighty proud delegate in the convention. It was "Hub" Wood of Bangor. "Hub" is editor of the Bangor Advance, but back in the days before he had to go to work for a living he was a school teacher. One of his pupils was "Pete" Dillman, a very apt student, and one who delighted in teasing his teacher up in some mathematical problem. Now "Pete" Dillman is no ordinary individual than Grover C Dillman, the candidate of the Republican party for state highway commissioner. Needless to say it was a keen delight to "Hub" to see his old pupil advanced to one of the highest state positions within the gift of the voters. Mr. Dillman during his long connection with the highway department has proven himself one of the best road builders in America. In addition to his ability he has executive qualities so necessary to the direction of such a vast department as the one he so successfully manages.

CONGRESS FROM WITHIN

By

GRANT M. HUDSON, Congressman
Michigan, Sixth District

"Conservative leader during a period when thoughtful, firm action alone could hold the confidence of the people."

So, in part, reads the citation on the honorary Doctor of Laws degree conferred on President Coolidge on Washington's Birthday by the George Washington University of Washington, D. C. On this occasion the President made his last speech in which he pointed out that the United States is on friendly terms with every country with which it has diplomatic relations, but that "we believe in a policy of national defense and maintain an army and navy for that purpose."

With President-Elect Hoover already in Washington, the Coolidge era has hurried to its close. Less than six years ago, the thirtieth President of the United States was sworn into office by his father, a Vermont country notary public. On March 4th, his successor will take the oath of office for what promises to be an outstanding term of achievement.

In resume, the Coolidge era has seen a great reduction of taxes, about five and a quarter billion dollars lopped off the public debt, the war debts refunded, adoption of the multilateral treaty, rechartering of the appropriation of $235 million for Mississippi flood control, and the building of roads for the benefit of the country has not slowed down one bit with the passing of what was the frontier. An Americanism, it has been called, is the tireless energy we expend in building up our land. In the House, last Friday, discussion centered on the great improvements which have taken place in this country in a material way since the first president lived. Agent to this discussion was the one led by Congressman Denison of Illinois regarding bridge legislation.

As we survey the world of the months of January and February, it becomes patent that Congress should have passed the Norris Resolution providing for a new administration to take office January 1st instead of March 4th. This point becomes more evident when we realize the legislative jam Congress is now in. The conflicting forces are the President that is and the President that is to be and the hold-over Congress and the Congress that will have to fulfill party platform promises.

In view of the fact that the Sixth District is so large and that appointments to West Point and Annapolis are very restricted, the advancement of the U. S. Coast Guard relative to appointment for cadets, examinations for which are to be held June 26-28, should prove of interest to young men. An exceptional opportunity is offered young men of the right caliber to complete their education at government expense and to become commissioned officers in the U. S. Coast Guard or of the military services of the United States ashore and abroad.

I shall be pleased to forward literature to any young man in the district interested in this exceptional opportunity. The age limit for appointment of cadets is 22. Cadets are trained and educated at the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., and each summer are taken on an extended cruise. Cadets receive the same pay and allowances as midshipmen at Annapolis. Upon graduation after three years, a cadet is eligible to be commissioned an ensign. Commissioned officers in the Coast Guard rank with officers in the army, navy and marine corps, and receive corresponding pay and allowances, grade for grade.

the Courts

Despite a temporary order restraining the Rev. Charles Strasen, former pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church at Plymouth, from preaching in the church which has engaged the interest of the entire town, began a year ago when the pastor was accused by a woman of the church of misappropriating church funds. This was quickly settled when Mr. Strasen produced receipts to show how the money had been spent but from that time St. Peter's became a house divided against itself.

According to Roy A. Fisher, cashier of a Plymouth bank and a defendant in the case, a number of people renewed their interest in the church after there had been trouble.

Some of these people were actually excommunicated and began to work against the welfare of the congregation, said Mr. Fisher.

They were active in stirring up feeling against Mr. Strasen and they had no right to do because they had not paid their dues and had not gone to communion within the time specified by the church.

Twelve of these had received letters telling them they were automatically excommunicated.

The annual meeting was to have been in January when a new board member was to have been elected. The opposing faction would not permit this meeting to be held peacefully and last Wednesday at a meeting which the loyal members called to turn over the books and records of the church.

According to the defendants, the new trustees cannot be recognized as such because they excommunicated themselves some time ago and finally elected themselves, thereby ignoring the constitution of the church.

"They have broken the majority of rules laid down in the constitution," said Mr. Strasen, "and in the name we feel that these other eyes of the church they are outsiders. They call themselves trustees but they are not."

"They have broken the majority of rules laid down in the constitution," said Mr. Strasen, "and in the name we feel that these other people have no business trying to dictate since they had nothing to do with the church for a long time and weren't really members."

Mr. Strasen refused to comment at length upon the affair, but said he had been persecuted for a year by a few of the women of the church and that now his health was completely broken.

Members of the opposing faction said Mr. Strasen's policies were too severe, that he refused to let them organize a choir of young people's society.

Salem Events

Mrs. Sarah Stanbro, who has been spending the winter with relatives and friends, was home for the week-end and called upon neighbors and friends. On Sunday she went to Dearborn for a week, when she expects to return to her home again.

The Federated Church night, which was held Friday evening, February 21st, was enjoyed by a large attendance. A delicious supper was served by the ladies, and guests were present from Detroit, Dearborn, Wallen Lake, Ann Arbor, Diagonal, Plymouth, South Lyon, Howell and Northville.

A very interesting program was given consisting of readings, quartet, and little George Wilson gave two numbers on traps and drum, accompanied by his aunt, then Walter Hastings of South Lyon presented on the screen moving pictures of cards of his own taking. Mr. Hastings' time to come will be soon famous, as he has a wonderful gift of word nature. His pictures and talk were very interesting, and we hope to have him again at some future time.

The ladies netted about $150 proceeds, and are looking forward to the March church night, when a speaker from Toledo, Ohio, and other numbers will be on the program. The date will be announced in this column at a later date.

Mrs. C. O. Hammond and children, were Northville visitors on Friday of last week, with her mother, Mrs. F. Foss, and Mrs. Clyde Casteling.

On Thursday, March 7th, at 7:45 p.m., at the Federated church, an entertainment will be given by 25 trained colored singers from Detroit. This promises to be a very interesting affair. They will present duets, readings, quartets, solos etc. As we all know the colored people have a keen sense of melody and we invite everybody to come and hear them. This entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Federated church administration, etc., children, etc.

The Misses Hazel and Beulah Merritt of Detroit, were weekend visitors at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Merritt.

Mrs. C. O. Hammond arrived on Sunday February 24th, a surprise

DECade of Service to Veterans to Be Celebrated Here

The American Legion of this city will celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Legion's birth in the days by bringing home to every veteran of this community the fact that for a decade our organization has labored tirelessly, without thought of reward, for just welfare.

This announcement was made by A. V. Barber, post commander of the Legion here today.

The Legion came into existence in Paris at conference held March 15th and 16th, 1919. The conferences were attended by representatives of all the armed forces of the United States. It was little more than an idea. The idea grew. Substance was given to the movement when the returned soldiers, sailors and marines immediately began their unselfish service to God, country and their comrades in peace time.

For ten years the Legion has continued this service. Every bit of legislation that has been put on the statute books for the benefit of veterans came about through the Legion's tireless efforts. The Legion has never failed in any legislation it has attempted. Some of it has been delayed, but each day has only added enthusiasm and determination to the veterans' efforts because all of it is just and right.

The Legion has worked for all veterans, not alone those who are members of our organization. In Legion child welfare work all children are benefited by the legislation that the Legion is sponsoring for the aid of widows and dependent children.

The Legion has led in great civic movements throughout the country and has ever been ready to serve the community in which a post is located. It has stood staunchly for law and order, for the protection of our nation, and for the advance-

Scientific Feeding

Today thousands of farmers are feeding livestock better and more profitable than ever before because the good feeding principles which the agricultural colleges are teaching are being followed by the high grade feed manufacturers.

As a result of feeding according to correct scientific principles, cows are lasting longer, giving more milk, and producing stronger and livelier calves; hens are laying when eggs are high; and beef, pork and poultry are being grown at a low cost. These principles are being carried out by the manufacturers of ment of good citizenship. "In its great and successful pilgrimage to France in 1927 the Legion again took the leadership in promoting world peace among all nations. No other movement in history has had so far-reaching effects for the abolition of war as did that good-will visit of Americans to the homelands of their comrades at war days.

At no time has the Legion sought any reward other than the satisfaction of loyal service well performed and high ideals maintained. The time has now come for due recognition by all ex-service men of the tasks that have been accomplished by the Legion for them. The time has come for every ex-service man who some day may wish to obtain free hospitalization, or who has enjoyed the benefits of his adjusted compensation certificate, to acknowledge his obligation to the Legion.

In no way can be acknowledged it better than to subscribe to Legion principles, Legitudinal, and Legion service by joining his former comrades in the great work. Every veteran needs the Legion and the Legion needs him. No better birthday present could be given the Legion than for him to take out a Legion membership card—a card that is a key to the door of every Legion in man's heart wherever he may be met.

A large delegation from here attended the B. Y. P. U. rally at Wixom, last Friday evening. The supper was served by the Wixom B. Y. P. U. International Patriotism was the subject presented by the young people. Mrs. Albert Stage of Northville was toastmaster. The Novi president, Ronald Button, represented his union on the program. Miss Ruth Campbell, the student major at the Spelman Normal College, gave the address of the evening.

The meetings which are being held by the Baptists of Northville and Novi here this week and in Northville next week began with a good attendance Sunday evening.

Rev. Priest preached the sermon. On Monday evening, in spite of the storm, fine attendance heard Rev. Riley of Plymouth preach, and his chorale director Mr. Campbell led the solo service. Rev. Morse of Lansing, director of rural school work, was the speaker Wednesday evening. Dr. Palmer of Farmington Hills spoke. Rev. Toly of Wixom, Dr. Gleiss of Detroit, and Dr. Curley of Lansing, will be speakers at the meetings in Northville next week. Everyone is invited to enjoy these services.

The Home Economics Club met at the school Tuesday afternoon. The making of fancy sandwiches was the order of the afternoon. Valentine diploma, ribbon and doughnut-shaped sandwiches were made. The economics class of school also enjoyed witnessing the demonstration. Three of the teachers and part of the school board appeared on the scene in time to help enjoy the sandwiches and coco which were passed. A rally day of the club will be held in Pontiac in the evening of April 5th, when all of the members and their families are invited to be present. The yearly Achievement Day of the club will be held May 5th.

Mortality of the incubator should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected to destroy all disease germs before eggs are put in. YOUR VOTE WILL BE APPRECIATED

Gives His Idea

In view of the interest taken in the subject of a school nurse by the Parent-Teachers' association, I would like to hear answers to the following questions:

1. In what way has the health of the school children suffered during the last two years that might have been avoided if we had had a nurse?

2. If Johnnie or Susie is losing weight on account of late hours and all-day sickness, are we to expect the school nurse to see that Johnnie or Susie is tucked into their beds at 9:00 p.m. and checked up on the sale of candy to school children?

3. Granting the benefits of a baby clinic, why not have it held under the auspices of the Board of Health instead of the school? If a baby clinic is good, why not give the whole road and have physicians skilled in infant diseases and infant rearing in charge, rather than a nurse? What special advantage is there in a clinical examination by a nurse over a private examination by a physician?

4. If the social interests of the community are partly protected by a baby clinic and a school nurse, why are they not more fully protected by a general clinic and a few community nurses?

If health is a public problem to be solved in a public way at public expense, let us tackle the problem in a manner proportional to its size instead of nibbling at it. If health is a private question to be solved in our way by a physician of our choice, there is little need of a public nurse. But if it is both a public problem and private matter, as I think it is then the public concern in general matters of sanitation, prevention of contagious diseases, ventilation of public buildings, and so forth, leaving to the individual to care for himself in all matters pertaining to his health.

It is not a safe rule to limit the freedom of the individual even in matters of health only by the safety of the community.

5. In this agitation for a school nurse, are we to assume that the interest of the community in the health of the child is greater than the interest of the parent? Or is it necessary a device for shifting the responsibility from the parent to the school?

If Johnnie or Susie is sick, it isn't my fault; it is the fault of someone else and they should be held accountable.

6. Since it is not unusual to have an epidemic of children's diseases in children's hospitals, how is it possible for a nurse to in any way prevent an epidemic of children's diseases in the school?

7. Is it not a fact that a large part of a nurse's work consists in weighing and card indexing the pupils? Is it not also true that a loss of weight unless accompanied by some other symptoms, such as cough, fever, less of appetite, etc., pupils?

8. Is it not also true that most of the thin people we know seem as healthy as their more plump looking neighbors?

9. Is it not true that no one need suffer from the need of medical attention on account of poverty?

10. Is not a single family who refuses to be vaccinated during a smallpox epidemic a greater menace to the health of the whole community than can be counteracted by a dozen nurses?

It has been decided to plant clover the next question is "Which clover?" When the soil is sour and liming not satisfactory, white clover is advised. It will make only one cutting but usually a good one. Sweet clover needs land which is supplied grain for the semi-arid country, and if it grazes is wanted the crop is to be turned under for corn, you can do better than to plant sweet clover.

For hay or in mountain soil, turn in a rotation, hoisting beats red clover. It makes better hay than sweet clover and yields more than alike, but must have better soil.

WHAT THE CANDIDATES FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE SAY

Berns Would Speed Up Work

Speeding up work of the circuit court, Wayne county has been the subject of much discussion since the opening of the campaign of the nomination of fourteen candidates for judgeships to be decided at the primary election on March 10th. Theocket of cases in the circuit court is practically three years behind and the difficulty of procuring jurors is pointed to by many as one of the causes of delay.

Julius L. Berns, Republican candidate for one of the judgeships strongly favors a plan for selection of jurors that he believes will result in increasing the efficiency of the "jury court" system, providing high class jurors on one hand and leaving the courts with adequate time each day to complete their labors.

Berns' plan is to have jurors serve in court sessions from 9 o'clock in the morning until one o'clock in the afternoon, with practically simultaneous sessions during that period. This would enable business men called for jury service to have the afternoons free of their duty for their own business affairs, and also leave the afternoons of the judges open for chancery and other court work not requiring the presence of jurors.

At present it is very hard for business men to give their time to jury service," said Attorney Berns, "such service means that they must leave their business entirely while their terms as jurors last. The result is that the 1st class or men and women best adapted to be jurors are unable to serve at all and obtain excuses from the courts. If they did only to serve a full day and could devote the rest of the time to their own affairs it would be much easier to get the best qualified people to serve."

Long experience as criminal counsel for Grosse Pointe Park, Melvindale and other towns and cities adjacent to Detroit has qualified Julius Berns for judicial work and his constituents' suggestions as to increasing court efficiency.

He was the first candidate in the present campaign to go on record as opposed to the plan now in effect in the state legislature to have judges appointed to life terms in office. Under the American system of government he decries "authority is divided equally between the executive legislative and judicial departments." To have the judges named to office would put the courts under the domination of the persons who do the appointing and would deprive the people of the right to pass on the merits of judges at elections he feels.

His stand on these points has brought him into conflict with Berns from personal interests of life.

other than those who are to be governed by that power.

In discussing the court situation Judge LaJoie stated that in his opinion jurors are required to perform this valuable and patriotic service but are very materially underpaid. We should not expect citizens to give up their time and energy in performing jury service unless we pay them in a manner commensurate with the valuable service that they render.

Toms Tells How To Speed Justice

Organized effort to clear the backlog of the circuit court docket was urged by Robert M. Toms, former prosecuting attorney and candidate for circuit judge, at a meeting of St. Stephen's Brethren Ford last night.

Justice which lags cannot be called justice, said Mr. Toms. Unless our government furnishes us prompt relief for our legal wrongs it is a failing of government.

Nearly three hundred years ago Shakespeare set 60,000 in the man's heart-breaking burden, when Caesar, and the Senate, has no interest in the adoption of any program in connection with which he offered justice which lags cannot be called justice, said Mr. Toms.

FLOODS FOLLOW FIRST THAW FOR OVER TWO MONTHS

Water Fills Creeks to Overflowing—Damage is Slight

Show and ice. Then water, water everywhere. Following right on the heels of the severest cold weather the present generation knows anything about, Northville and the rest of Michigan, welcomed the January thaw, which arrived nearly two months late.

The warm weather Saturday and Sunday sent the snow and ice from the paving except in the shaded portions of the town. By Monday the main highways were bare.

The continued warm weather which prevailed up until Wednesday took a good portion of the snow from the ground, but great patches of ice covered portions of fields and places that had been practically protected from the sun.

The frozen condition of the ground turned the running water into creeks and by Tuesday night every stream in this locality was running over its banks. However, as far as known no damage resulted from the high water.

The change in weather pleased everyone who had become tired of winter with its ice and snow.

A thorough overhauling cleaning and oiling of the harness once or twice a year will prolong its life. Take the harness apart so that all parts can be overhauled, and soak it for a quarter of an hour in luke-warm water in which some mild soap has been dissolved. Scrub and rinse it well. When nearly dry, rub soap blacking on the leather where needed, clean the metal parts and make necessary repairs. Oiling the leather should be done while damp, using flatfoot oil, castor oil, or a prepared harness oil. The U.S. Department of Agriculture says that a very good mixture for heavy harness is neat's-foot oil mixed with tallow to make a paste of about the consistency of slightly warmed butter. Put the oil well into the leather and let it dry slowly away from fire or sun. When the oil has dried, rub the straps with a lather of white castile soap or a good harness soap, to remove any surplus grease.

Elderly Man Sick 10 Years Lauds Konjola

Konjola is the Medicine I Should Have Had in the First Place," He Declares

"Even though I am sixty years old, Konjola went to the source of my ten years illness, and soon gave me new, lasting health," said Mr. A. C. Ferris, 714 North Warren Avenue, Saginaw, Michigan. "I praise this medicine so that others may profit by the lesson my experience teaches. My stomach was so disordered that everything I ate caused intense distress. I often became nauseated because of the sour condition of my stomach. I lacked appetite, pep and energy, and lost weight and strength. I was also troubled with constipation."

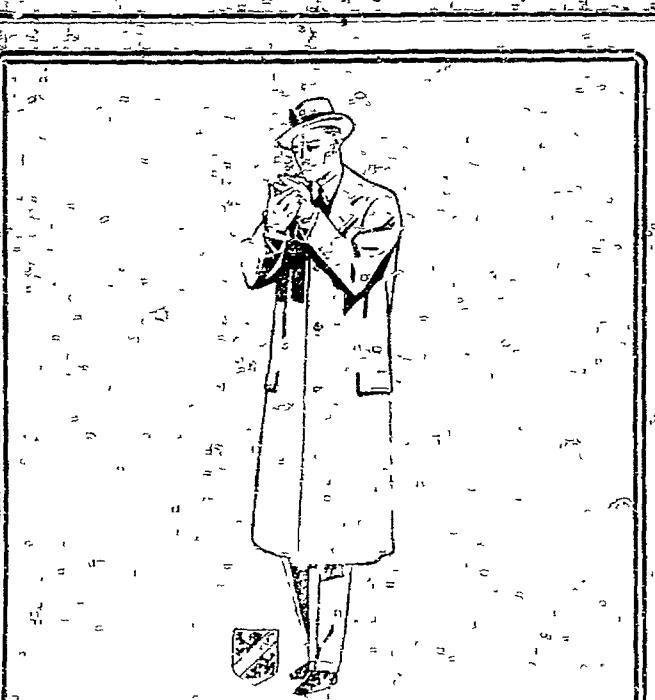

"I heard of the wonderful accomplishments and success of this new Konjola, and wondered if it would benefit me. The only way to find out was to give it a trial. What a blessing it is that I did. Right from the start I was benefited, and by the time I had finished the third bottle I was a different man. My digestive organs have been cleansed and regulated, and I now get the proper nourishment from my food. I have gained in weight and strength, and know the relief is lasting. Konjola is the master medicine of them all, and I have heard it called the medicine with more than a million friends. Well, it certainly made a life-long friend out of me."

Konjola is sold at Northville, Michigan, at Northville Drug Company, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Advt.

A COMMUNICATION

Editor Record: Since the beginning of civilization the cause of education has been closely associated with that of religion. The church has been the teacher of the people, so much so that where education has failed the church has been blamed. All through the Middle Ages, churches were the custodians of culture among European nations; where there has been a State church that church has dominated or controlled educational interests. In England, Nonconformist bodies sought to share this honor with the State church and the result was a long and bitter struggle for religious liberty.

Turning to the New World, we find the same relationship between religion and education. Our forefathers, in establishing schools and colleges, were imbued with the religious spirit rather than the political. The purpose of founding Harvard, the oldest college in the United States, was to educate the English and Indian youth in knowledge and godliness. Its motto was and is: Pio Christo et Ecclesie. For Christ and the Church. Yale, Princeton and Brown were born of the same spirit, and were the facts available, they would doubtless prove that all other early educational institutions were fundamentally religious.

With our independence as a nation and the separation between church and state, responsibility for public school education was left to the individual states. Still, the practice of instituting some religious exercise in the daily school program continued for a century or more. It is only within the last thirty or forty years that this practice has been gradually and quite generally discontinued.

The change provokes thought. Many serious minded people are saying that, with the splendid progress in secular education, character training has not kept pace; that intellectual training alone does not necessarily produce good citizens. As has often been demonstrated, it only makes a rascal, more clever. According to this view, our public school children are being robbed of something vital in their education. Statistics tell us that twenty-seven million young people in the United States under the age of twenty-five years are untaught by any religious program.

May this not be at least a partial explanation of the crime wave so much talked about? Certain it is that youth figures prominently in the many forms of law violation which disgrace society today. Captain Deniston, speaking before an Exchange club a few days ago said that our jails were being filled with young men.

Most people will agree that moral and religious training are best given in the home, but the 14% of modern life greatly injures the influence of the home, and there are countless broken homes. The Sunday school is handicapped by lack of time, one hour a week. There is needed something to supplement these agencies. Why not the public school, for it has every advantage in point of time, influence and compulsory attendance of pupils?

Under present Michigan law, the Bible may be read in our public schools, but the right seems to be generally misunderstood or neglected.

The Harniley bill recently before the state legislature and referred to the Education committee, is more explicit and absolutely fair to the various beliefs. It merely assures the right of public schools to give ethical training based on Biblical truth.

Let us, as parents, interest ourselves in this Harniley bill, and make known our wishes to our state representative. If this bill does not go through, there is likely to be another of opposite nature seeking to add Michigan to the list of ten or twelve states which forbid the use of the Bible in their public schools. This do states handicap and tie the hands of hosts of good teachers.

If the fruiting grape vines were not pruned last fall, they should be pruned before the sap starts in early spring—but not while the wood of the vines is frozen. Of the two ways of pruning grapes—the renewal and the spur system—the renewal system is better, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, as it leaves no old wood except the trunk cane. Cut off all the previous year's growth, except two or four canes for the fruiting arms. With the two-arm method, leave on each side the best arm nearest the trunk; with the four-arm method, leave two high and two low arms in the same way.

TAXES AND TAXES PLUS LICENSES IS SOLON THOUGHT

Seemingly Almost Every Legislator Has Some
New Tax Plan

(By Len Feighner)

Feb. 22, 1929

Despite the handicap of the time taken off for the state convention, a legal holiday and various other matters, it has been rather a profligate week in disposing of legislation. Taxation problems are still in the formative stage, but reported by members of the committees which have them in charge to be getting nearer to readiness for introduction.

The Mine Bill, proposing an amusement tax met with unexpected obstruction in the House when Rep. McDonald's motion to refer it to the ways and means committee was carried. It is expected the committee will report the bill out.

A public hearing is scheduled on this matter for Monday evening and the bill has been made a special order for Tuesday afternoon at 3:30.

It is freely predicted that it will meet its death in the Senate even if it passes the House.

Rep. McBride proposes drastic regulations on sale of medicines and foods for use and beauty asking that formulas printed in plain English must accompany all packages.

In order that contents may be known, and also providing that dealers must have a state license.

Rep. Neff proposes state license for all dealers in birds and furs of wild animals.

Senators Engle of Lake City says no additional tax is necessary for financing the rehabilitation of state institutions. He makes the assertion that a close revision of salaries, the dropping of unnecessary employees of the state and other measures of economy would obviate the necessity of additional taxes.

Senator Coffey proposes appointment of a state tax commission to study taxation problems and report at a special session or at the next regular session. In the meantime a proposition for a bond issue is being urged to be voted on at the spring election, but it is not thought likely that this proposition can be forced through in time for a vote at the April elections.

A proposal to remove the state employment school for the blind from Saginaw and combine it with a similar institution here was thrown down by the ways and means committee, after a careful investigation of the Saginaw institution.

Rep. Miller Callahan has introduced a bill proposing a license fee for chain stores. Rep. Brady has another along similar lines.

The bill providing that automobile owners shall not be liable for injuries to gratuitous passengers has passed the House. Also one changing Sunday hunting in Genesee county is also barred in a bill which has passed the House.

Amendments to the election code proposed by the special commission were introduced on the Senate Tuesday afternoon by Senator Stevens. It provides for a permanent registration of voters, delays in the fall primary, one week, and would place the names of presidential candidates on the ticket. The pre-primary convention proposition was not incorporated in the code.

The lion and the lamb are to lie down together in all probability the dentists, chiropractors and the osteopaths will likely be harmonized under the so-called basic science bills which are now in process of reconstruction.

Senator Howell sponsored a bill requiring filing of a list of creditors of a mortgagor and notification of such creditors within five days after execution of such mortgage.

Election returns, readieds of condition of ballot boxes or ballots, would be authorized under a bill introduced by Senator Lenz.

This bill originated in Senator Sink would allow Michigan to preserve

A provision to change the name of the Montgomery game refuge to the Lieden refuge in honor of the memory of Herman Lieden is proposed by Rep. Green and Tavel with hearty approval, as does the proposal of Rep. Culver of an appropriation of $1,000 for a memorial to the late Edwin Denby, a former member of the House.

Rep. Gardner's bill to be appearing on the highways and streets of Livingston county in bathing suits passed the House after several proposed amendments, including one to make the bill state wide had been voted down. If it passes the Senate it must still have to be voted on by the people of Livingston county before becoming operative.

Rep. Holbeck introduced a bill for the licensing of "beauty culturists." Bill would apply to barbers. The measure is from the established beauty parlors.

Rep. Darig proposed to exempt fraternity and sorority houses at educational institutions from taxation. Exempting from taxation is one reason for too heavy present taxation on property not exempt.

Rep. Hall's bill for more strict grading of Michigan apples passed the House without opposition and now goes to the Senate.

The first really animated debate of the session in the House featured the Thursday afternoon session when the criminal code was in committee of the whole. Rep. Dykstra led the movement against any change in the present liquor laws and the arguments were hot and heavy, but the bill passed to third reading and is to be made a special order for 2:30 Thursday afternoon. Then there will be more oratory. Rep. Watson defended the proposed amendments, saying they had the support of the governor, the attorney general and of the prosecuting attorneys of the state. He represented the implication that the wet and dry proposition was a consideration; that the amendments were in the real interest of law and order.

A measure introduced by Rep. Warner would permit the state to lease land for campuses of state educational institutions for the erection of dormitories.

Rep. Miller introduced a bill providing that if plaintiffs in malpractice suits against physicians, surgeons and osteopaths establish evidence that they sustained damage as the result of treatment it should be prima facie evidence.

Testimony of husband or wife would be competent in divorce actions involving adultery under a bill introduced by Rep. McColl.

Senator Conlon proposes home rule of counties under a plan similar to that now in use in many cities, to consolidate responsibility and increase efficiency in Rep. Height Friday morning introduced a bill reducing the unauthorized wearing of lodge or fraternal pins and emblems from a felony, which it now is under the statute, to a misdemeanor, to prevent a mandatory life sentence and a four-year minimum.

A bill introduced by Rep. Reed would require town and treasurers to immediately remit to the treasurer of school districts direct the tax money received against lands on which taxes are returned to the county treasurer as uncollectable.

Rep. Farnsworth introduced a bill at the Friday session which would legalize condominiums, associations of agricultural societies, for additional lands for farm purposes.

Rep. Cuthbertson sponsors a bill authorizing sterilization of insane persons-minded epileptics by genetics and second persons by proper authorities, with the consent of the person to be sterilized, an amendment to the present sterilization laws.

The governor, Lieutenant Governor Speaker, Mr. Supreme Judge Potter, Senators Atwood, Campbell, Richardson and Woodward, Representatives Snow, Teagen, Palmer, Robertson, Bushnell, Bailey and Ward, with others made up a party which made an air trip to Kalamazoo, Thursday, to attend the aviation conference. Two big planes from Detroit and two smaller ones from the local field made the trip.

One big ship on the party made the round trip from Kalamazoo to Lansing in 35 minutes. The party was in charge of Rep. Wilbur Snow of Kalamazoo, who is chairman of the House committee on aeronautics.

Lentenette.

The English word, "Lent" means Spring. It is the time of the year when the days lengthen. It was during this time of the year that Christ suffered and died. During Lent, Christians, probably more than at other times, meditate on the holy passion of their Savior. And so it became customary to use the word Lententide for Passover.

Lent is that season of the church year which has been set aside for the special consideration of our Savior's Passion.

On the observance of Lent goes back to the earliest period of the Christian church.

At first, in the early Christian church, the forty hours between the death and resurrection of the Savior were observed as a period of fasting and mourning.

Later, the hours were lengthened to days, and then numberless, doubtless determined by the duration of the fast of Moses.

Sundays, however, were never included in the penitential season because of their festive character.

And so today, the season of Lent comprises the forty-six days preceding Easter.

FRIENDSHIP IS

If you sell shoes, you sell to your friends in the majority of cases.

The bulk of your business comes from the men you call friends and is good business to make friends.

Friendship has an honest good-sentimental value.

What makes friends? Many things.

First, sympathy. One has to be a friend must think equality—not in terms of money, how much you have got and how much I have got or the highbrow or lowbrow class.

He must think honesty and be able to discuss without matters of politics and religion, even though your views may be different without becoming angry over the discussion.

There must be tenderness in friendship. Do not say the things that hurt. Have a regard for the feelings of others.

Sympathy and faithfulness are essential to true friendship. And another thing, we must be willing to forgive and forget to sin and hold friends. And above all, a man to be a real friend must have high ideals. It is in clubs of this kind where happy friendships are created, and to me that is one of the most delightful things of Rotary and other luncheon organizations.

Judge

GUY A. MILLER

Prominence and Courtesy have always marked his successful judicial career. Not once in the six years he has been on the bench has he ever missed a day due to illness or any other cause.

Request that You put Your Mark in Front of His Name Monday.

Judge Guy A. Miller is a graduate of the old Biddle House, and from the University of Houghton School, from high school in the Michigan Literary Department, 1898; Law Department, 1900.

He practiced law until 1923, at which time he was appointed to the Circuit bench, being elected to the post the following year.

Judge Miller served in the Michigan House of Representatives from 1907 to 1911, being elected at that time to the State Senate.

In his early days Judge Miller was widely known as an athlete; and his prowess as a baseball pitcher is still recalled by those who mark the ideals of clean sportsmanship that he demands in the conduct of his Court.

Judge Miller is a member of the faculty of the City Law School and a favorite with his students.
