TOM PHELPS NEAR VICTIM IN EXPLOSION

Was in Building Next to the Three Blown Up in Detroit

Thomas Phelps, owner of the Theatre Sweet Shop, was in Northville near "home" in the mysterious building which exploded three hours ago on East Jefferson Avenue in Detroit last Friday night, cost the life of two men and serious injury to dozens of others, as well as destroying property worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

He had just entered a wholesale cigar-and-souvenir place located next to the furniture store and was placing an order for some goods when the explosion took place.

"It is just seemed to hit the right on my feet," the clerk said. "The clerk and I ran out on the sidewalk. All the windows in the theatre were blown out as we ran to the street," he said.

The company was later entertained by two talented musical friends of the hostess, Mrs. James Adams of Walker, and Mrs. Cameron Roberts of Detroit.

In addition to the members of the club, a number of personal friends of Mrs. Phillips, from Detroit, Midland and Ann Arbor were present and the inclement weather only served to make more delightful the glowing fireplaces, the lovely flowers and the kind hospitality.

The mayor stated that he thought the employment of a nurse was a good thing and he would like to see something done about it.

Following a brief discussion of the question, it was moved by Commissioner Conrad Langford and supported by Commissioner John Walker, that the village clerk be empowered to pay up to one-third of the salary of a nurse and that this amount shall at no time be more than $500 per year.

There was no opposing vote of the septuagenarian expressed against the continuation of the commission.

Mayor Filkins stated that he had been advised that the township board had held an informal discussion of the proposal and that the village commissioners and school board favored the idea of dividing the expense three ways. If the commission board acquiesced in the matter, it was brought out in the discussion that the insurance companies would pay a part in division of the job, but that that was correct. He continued, "I can't say for the village commissioners what they will do, but I think they will do the same thing as the township board, which acquiesces in the matter."

He continued, "I can't say for the village commissioners what they will do, but I think they will do the same thing as the township board, which acquiesces in the matter."

When envoys from the Hubbard & Roth company of Detroit appeared before the village commissioners Monday night to discuss with city officials the possibility of providing water and sewer service for the building that is to be erected just west of town by the House of Good Shepherd of the Poor, those present had a glimpse into Northville's future.

It was most encouraging one, two representatives of a concern that are in a position to know much about the development and growth of the Detroit area. Pointed out that Northville is sure to be one of the fast growing centers in the so-called metropolitan district.

The discussion was about when it was stated that Northville in the next two or three years should be enlarging its water supply as well as its sewer system to take care of increased population that is bound to come this way.

One of the envoys stated that there were discussions around this section of the members planted trees in their own yards and nearly 50 were placed on streets in Orchard Heights, where no trees have ever been planted. The trees, beautiful young beech and maple, if purchased from a nursery, would have cost anywhere from $2 to $5 a piece.

Outside of the tree planting program, there was little else brought before the club by President Sherrill Ambler. An interesting series of "personal" talks being conducted in the club was featured Wednesday by Ralph Horton and Lucius Blake who told club members of high lights in their careers.

The bride and groom were attended by Arthur T. Ford of Trenton, Michigan, and Miss Vivian G. Carr, sister of the bride. The bride was attractively dressed in white chiffon and carried a corsage of pink rosebuds. Her traveling attire was a blue suit and rose satin skirt. They will be at home to their friends after May 1st. The bride is a popular resident of her home community and like the groom has a wide circle of friends who wish them happiness. Mr. VanDyne is especially well known in this locality because of his popularity as a singer. He is in business in Northville, where he has spent the greater part of his life.

WILL OPEN STORE HERE SATURDAY

Saturday night at 10 o'clock will mark the opening of a men's wearing apparel store in Northville. Orion G. Orton for a number of years with Fletcher & Fletcher in Ypsilanti, and more recently with the Paul Hayward Store in Plymouth, and Wilbur P. Murphy, who has been associated with the Mayflower hotel in Plymouth, are the owners.

Wilson Bros haberdashery and Michael Sterns clothing for men will be handled.

The store is located in the Penniman Block, and a large stock will be carried. Both of the young men have many acquaintances in Northville and they are experienced in the kind of business they have opened up here.

There will be favors for everyone and a cordial invitation is extended to visit the formal opening Saturday week day and evening.

Members of the Woman's Club and their guests who wish to take advantage of the reduced rates for Detroit Federation Club Night at the Detroit Civic theatre may obtain cards to present at the box office from Mrs. D. B. Bunn or Mrs. E. H. Lapham. These cards are only good for Friday night, April 26th. Miss Bonstelle appears in "Mary Jane's Pa."

Club Members Visit Beautiful Phillips Home

A delightful Sunday of last week was the afternoon arranged for the Woman's Club by Mrs. T. Glenn Phillips. On Thursday, April 11th, the members of the club assembled in the Ladies' Library building, and listened to Miss McCready, who is actively connected with the Boys' State Civic theatre. She told the ladies of the many attractive and unique features offered by this theatre and followed her talk with a number of very charming readings. Mrs. Vaughan presented Miss McCready with a beautiful corsage in token of the appreciation of the club.

Mrs. Wilber Johnston had favored the audience with a vocal selection. The ladies were driven to the beautiful country estate of T. Glenn Phillips whose artistic home, of old English design, was lovely with profusion of flowers.

Gracefully greeting her many guests, Mrs. Phillips directed the tea table. She stated that she had been approached recently by a number of women who are members of the Parent-Teacher's Association and that in the discussion of the question it was generally agreed that he would bring the matter to the attention of the commission with the recommendation that the city pay the portion of the expense.

The mayor stated that he thought the employment of a nurse was a good thing and he would like to see something done about it.

VILLAGE WILL PAY THIRD OF NURSESALARY

Matter Brought Up to Mayor Filkins Finally Settled

As the result of a motion passed at Monday night's village commission meeting, it looks as though there is about to be consummated a satisfactory arrangement whereby the village, the township and the school board will enter into an agreement for the engagement of a general (community) school nurse.

The expense provding the township and school board take the same action as has the village commission.

The matter was brought before the commission by Mayor Charles Evans. He stated that he had been approached recently by a number of women who are members of the Parent-Teacher's Association and that in the discussion of the question it was generally agreed that he would bring the matter to the attention of the commission with the recommendation that the city pay the portion of the expense.

The mayor stated that he thought the employment of a nurse was a good thing and he would like to see something done about it.

A GOOD IDEA

E. Brown was over from Ann Arbor Tuesday. He has been reading in the Record about the yard and garden contest as well as the offer of Scott Lovell to provide trees to every member of the Exchange club to be planted on Arbor day.

I would like to suggest that the Exchangeites and all others get a similar kind of a flowering shrub to plant in their yards as well as setting out trees. In two or three years it would certainly be a beautiful sight to see flowing crab or some other attractive shrubs lining the streets of the town. I think it is worth considering.

SCHOOL DISMISSED FOR EDUCATIONAL PICTURE

There was no school after 2:00 o'clock on Thursday, April 11th because the students had to go to the Fenneman Allen theatre to witness an educational picture.

When everyone was seated in the theatre and quieted down, Mrs. Jamison of the Board of Conservation of Michigan introduced Mr. Hastings of the same place.

Mr. Hastings vowed when only 12 years old that he would never kill birds and other wild game, but that he would photograph them instead.

He showed a moving picture of different species of birds and their haunts. He explained each picture as it went along. Then he gave a picture of the "Red Poacher," which means "fire" and its damages.

The next baby clinic will be held at the city hall on Wednesday, April 24th, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon. The committee in charge extends a general invitation to all mothers to bring their babes for examination and tests that are given.

THE POWER OF YOUR DOLLAR

Without regard to price, distance or delay, any amount that some person has to pay you goes into the question, we still would say that a dollar has a greater purchasing power when spent in the home community than when spent outside. No problem in mathematics is necessary to figure out the simple proposition that a dollar spent in Northville is a dollar invested in Northville.

Community funds for protecting terms or trade treaties, or revenue collecting measures as have before. But when you buy away from home you pay for it. The tariff you pay is the loss in general prosperity of the home town, and every citizen, by virtue of the convenience, service and protection that his home community affords him, engages at least in moral treasury with his fellow citizens.

YOU'RE WRONG, AL

In the last issue of the Clioian Citizen, Editor Al Weber says that "the Grossbeck wing" in the legislature is responsible for the investigation into the affairs of the Michigan public utilities commission. Whether Al is just a little off concerning his line-up of things political, for your information Al Mr. Doyle has long been the right-hand bower of Johnny Smith of Detroit and naturally he was never for the previous Governor. In fact it was Mr. Doyle who assisted in the preparation of much of the propaganda used in the Greenleapman and he was one of the leading spirits in the original Michigan organization. The same thing can be said of Mr. Hess of Ossawa. The present investigation is the result of the demands of Governor Green's own appointees Mr. Doyle and Johnny Smith when it comes to politics have been about as thick as two peas in a pod could be.

ABOUT EIGHT

Under the heading "Wisconsin Secedes From the Union," The Michigan Citizen Advocate in its latest issue writes the following comment pertaining to the situation in that state of favorite cheese and pricing politicians:

"The state of Wisconsin took a referendum vote on the question of repealing the statewide state prohibition enforcement act. The vote favored repeal by 5 to 1. Another proposal to renew the home brew ban was carried by a vote nearly as large."

Thus Wisconsin, as since one simply put it during the campaign, to secure this result, voted itself out of the union. The Eighteenth Amendment is a part of the national Constitution, and provides for concurrent legislation by the several states which congress may enforce the prohibition decree by this amendment. Those states which do not by concurrent legislation and enforcement act co-operate with congress to carry out the Eighteenth Amendment thereby to that extent take themselves out of the union and seek to nullify the federal Constitution.

All the states, save Maryland, promptly effected state enforcement law. Three states, New York, Montana and Nevada later repealed their enforcement laws. Wisconsin now no longer dares vote favorably again though that cannot be effect until the election of 1932.

The vote in Wisconsin is not surprising. In the old saloon days back there was drinking all day. It was notorious that Milwaukee was the greatest brewing center in the land, and the city equaled the state, usually. Through Wisconsin's legislature ratified the Eighteenth Amendment and passed a prohibition enforcement act of its own, whether Republican, Democratic, Socialist or La Follette, have been predominantly wet, and they have succeeded in securing a referendum vote favorable to repeal of the state enforcement act. Even so, while Milwaukee is notoriously wet, the bar and sections are mostly dry, more than in 1926 when a referendum vote was given memorably in opposition to modifying the Volstead Act by making 2.75% beer. The Wisconsin drys very bad weather conditions greatly curtailed the rural drys.

There is nothing particularly alarming in the Wisconsin vote. Even if that vote joins the four others in defying the Constitution and refusing to co-operate in prohibition enforcement, the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act will then go into effect by itself. Of course it is to be regretted that Wisconsin gave this dangerous response to President Hoover's urgent appeal for co-operation by the states in prohibition enforcement. But it will make no difference in Uncle Sam's dry program.

ROADSIDE BEAUTY

The erection on the beautification of the state highways by the highway department is a step which will receive the approbation of the motorist public. Plans call for the planting of a quarter of a million trees along the rights-of-way. In the northern part of the state these trees will serve a double purpose. They will beautify the landscape and in the winter they will serve as snow fences, thus keeping down the cost of snow removal, says the Flint Journal.

A broad ribbon of concrete is a joy to the motorist. It means speed and ease in motoring. But the wide ribbon of concrete with its gravelled shoulders may be the ugliest thing in a verdant countryside. Where it cuts through a rocky hillside, blaste trees and leaves a ragged scar in the landscape. When it goes through a forest it demands the stately trees to be cut to make room for it. When the road is done it is merely a road, the longer the invitation of the old country side is gone.

A great many motorists who are in no particular hurry to arrive at any destination often take the back roads. There is not the opportunity for speed to be sure, but time does not always want speed, passing through a pleasant landscape. And there is another factor. When the fine concrete boulevard is completed and the engineers have removed their equipment, there springs up a mushroom growth of billboards, hot dog stands and other defacements of the countryside. One does not find them on the back roads. The sentiment against these defacements is growing and state after state has adopted restrictive legislation. A committee of Colorado not so many years ago, summed up the situation quite succinctly when he said: "Colorado has two great resources silver and scenery. We do not propose to allow commerce to destroy the scenery."

Congress has planted timber roses along many of its highways interspersed with wooden and honey-suckle vines. In Westchester County, New York, the commissioners have sought to make the modern highways resemble an old-fashioned turnpike as far as roadside beauty goes.

Michigan can well afford to think over its roadsides. Beauty is one of the assets of this state and its gifts of nature have attracted many to its lakes and resorts. It would be a short sighted policy to allow its countryside to be standardized with the same sort of scenery and sign boards that one is apt to find in every other state.

FOR HUSBANDS ONLY

How much is a housewife worth? A lady on a farm down in Michigan had been married for about 40 years. One day someone came along and talked about the lack of opportunity to earn and produce which confronts the ordinary housewife. The conversation went a little further, and finally some figures were worked out showing what this woman had actually gone in 40 years of life on the farm. A small value was assigned to all of the different kinds of work that the housewife undertakes.

The total reached the surprising amount of $137,600.

You say that this is astonishing. Figure it out for yourself. Give the housewife credit for all of the bread she has baked, at a very small sum for each loaf. Figure up a reasonable labor cost on all the pies, cakes and cookies and credit that total to her account. Put a little value on each bushel of potatoes and vegetables that she has prepared on each can or jar of fruit that she has preserved.

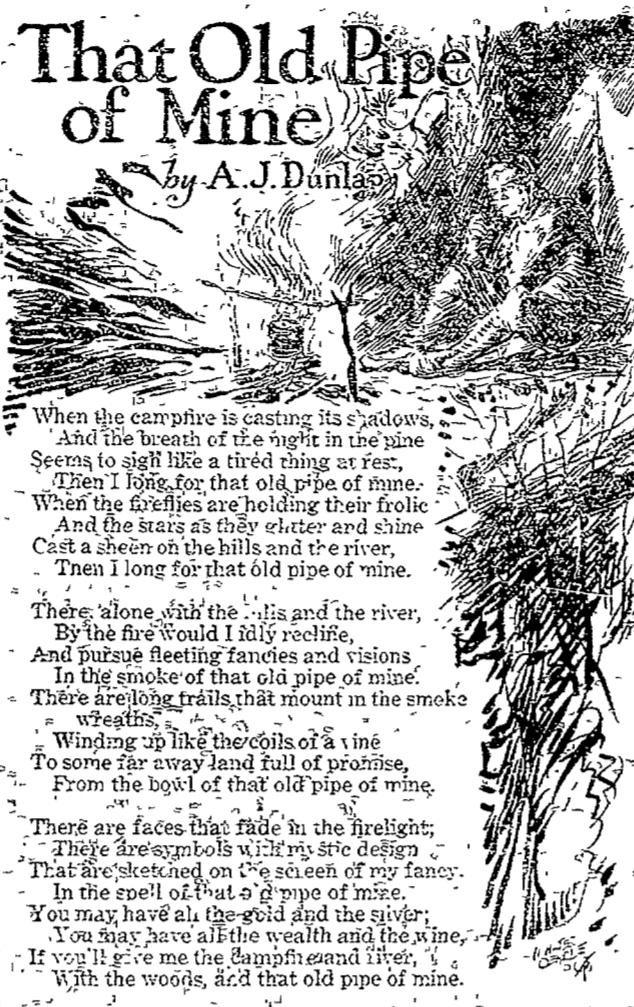

Then turn to the items of housework. Give her credit at about a third of what you would need to pay others for such things as sweeping and dusting. Give her some credit for the beds she has made, the number of pieces of clothing she has washed and the number that she has ironed.

Nurses cost money when there is sickness in the family. Just give the wife and mother credit at a fifth of the usual compensation for the care of the sick. Count up the number of illnesses who have been nursed back to health. Count the nights that have been disturbed and the nights and days of constant vigilance and care.

When these things are roughly computed, then allow the wife and mother just a fraction of a cent for every child's face

That Old Pipe of Mine

by A. J. Dunlap

When the campfire is casting its shadows,
And the breath of the night in the pine
Seems to sigh like a tired thing at rest;
Then I long for that old pipe of mine.
When the fireflies are holding their frolic
And the stars as they cluster and shine
Cast a sheen on the hills and the river,
Then I long for that old pipe of mine.

There's alone with the hills and the river,
By the fire would I idly recline,
And pursue fleeting fancies and visions
In the smoke of that old pipe of mine.
There are long trails that mount in the smoke
And wreaths,
Winding up like the coils of a vine
To some far away land full of promise,
From the bowl of that old pipe of mine.

There are faces that fade in the firelight;
There are symbols with my love design
That are sketched on the screen of my fancy.
In the spell of that old pipe of mine.
You may have all the gold and the silver,
You may have all the wealth and the wine,
If you'll give me the campfire and river,
With the woods, and that old pipe of mine.

that has been washed and beat that has been combed
All these things will amount to thousands of dollars. The wife has earned it—the husband has not paid it.
Then take the picture out of the purely material. Place a price on the things that are priceless—he affectionate care when marks every act of labor and helpfulness. That is a thing which cannot be bought for money.

As we said, count all these things up. See the amount add and multiply. Make the results as definite as you wish them. Look the facts and figures in the face and do not blind them.

The outcome of the venture will be this—you will have a greater appreciation of the wife—Grand Rapids (Minn.) Herald, Review

Timely Tips For Northville Gardeners

Flowers are so associated with us in our everyday experience that life would be monotonous without them

Never use pruning shears that are dull. Keep them sharp as it is work

In making a new lawn be sure to get any necessary grading or finishing done before seed is sown, for a flat lawn is the result of well prepared foundation. You will find a cold raker almost indispensable, not only for preparing new lawns, but for "ironing out" old ones before they get "set" in dry weather.

Flower seeds should be planted at a depth of about four times the size of the seed. It is best to plant fairly thick and thin to the desired distance as they grow. The extra seedlings can usually be tucked away in bare spots in the garden.

Never economize on the depth of soil preparation, no matter what you intend to plant.

Watch dahlie tubers in storage for any signs of rot in the tubers.

Make a new resolution this year. I won't sow seed too thickly.

With a spade I bury my bad roots at the end of the life I work off my troubles of life.

Aromatic patch in the garden is one of the best health investments that can be planted.

One touch of Nature makes the whole world kin.

Trees for beauty in the landscape here.

The second six weeks of this last semester are at an end this week. The teachers are giving exams during the week. With the end of this period of six more weeks of school are left.

At the close of the next week, the final exams will be given instead of six weeks exams. American states that the students are doing better this semester than before that is, the marks are higher.

KINDNESS

(By Wanda Rattingbury)

Kindness is one of the greatest and most beautiful things in the world. Kindness brings us many friends and makes us helpful as well as useful. Remember that with everyone act you gain a friend.

These words are to be said. One of them is helping older people notice kind acts no matter how small. Another way is to obey. It is hard when someone asks you to do something so many times and you refuse. It is kindness when you obey the person's command because they do not have to ask you so many times.

The poem "Sobethes' Mother" is a good example of kindness to elder people.

When the old men and girls get out of school they are afraid to go. One offered to help her across the icy street until a young lad of about twelve came along. He saw her and then faded back to his playmates. They would laugh if he helped her he thought. Then his gaze fastened on the little old lady. He thought, "If my mother was old and feeble and I was far away, I would want someone to help me." And as he thought he made his way through the crowded street where she stood.

He said, "Can I help you across the street?" She plied her slack hand on his strong young shoulder as he guided her in and out among the many carriages. When he left her safely on the other side she thanked him, and he ran blushing back to his schoolmate. All that he had helped her.

The rest of his life, no

SENIOR PROM PROVES SUCCESSFUL

Again the Seniors have achieved a triumph this year in doing what no Senior class for the last four years has been able to do—but over a Senior Prom successfully.

When the Seniors made the announcement that McKinley's orchestra was to play for their dance and the footloose were broadcast that the Seniors would never make enough money to pay for them, that they should get a cheap orchestra and so just little things.

Because we cannot always do big deeds of kindness, is no sign that we should not do "it's ones". A word the way can never be taken back so you can make it stand.

HELPFULNESS

(By Ruth Angell)

Helpfulness often is being helpful to one other is a great deal in organization.

I think the person possessing this is the most of a person from the time we are small babies and we are grown up and even lager. We take asking for help and are seldom refused.

Many a burn has been cured by a mother's kiss, many a broken dol-or other toy has been mended by mother's needle and school problems are usually brought to mother for settling and later in life we go to mother for advice.

When we are small children it is mother who sees that we have the right kind of food to eat, and the proper clothing to wear. If we are ill it is mother who cares for us if she is able.

There are many other times when mother is ready to aid us and no matter what our difficulties are she always tries her best to help us with them. From a mother we can learn a great many lessons on helpfulness.

Not only is the clock in the Methodist church tower to be repaired, but while the scaffolding is up, it is planned to paint the church tower a badly needed improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spaulding of Gira, the parents of Mr. Walter A. Ware, plan to move to Northville to make their future home. Mr. Spaulding is absent at present and has gone to work in the Ware store. It will probably be a couple of months before their home is established. They have been well known residents of Gira and vicinity for a great many years.

Attorney General William Bruckel of Lansing, who was to speak in Salem at the church meeting arranged for this evening, April 19th will not be able to be present but has advised Rev. Hilliday that he will come to Salem on Friday evening, April 26th. A trip to Washington in connection with some state business necessitated the change in date. Rev. Halliday was able to secure the attorney general through a friendship formed during the World war when both were "soldiers" on the other side. Bruckel was an officer of the regiment of which Rev. Hilliday was chaplain. It is expected there will be a record turnout for the meeting.

MANY CHANGES IN PROGRESS AT FIVE POINTS THIS YEAR

Barber Shop Still Projects Out into the Paved Highway

Northville-Detroit committees have watched with considerable interest the extensive alterations being made at Five Points by the Wayne County road commission. One of the busiest intersecting highways, Five Points, has been widened to 200 feet, the Grand River also being completed except for a brief 20 feet to the west of the intersection, and about 200 feet on the east side, where the new street car terminal is being laid.

The obstruction to the west is the Sherman's Barber Shop that sticks out into the paved street for a considerable distance.

Solitary in its defiance the Barber shop occupies an unpaved space approximately 30 feet square and extends 12 feet from the curb line to the "T" corner intersecting and Sherman's Barber Shop. It is a relic of days past, a sort of a relic of a by-gone era, and seems another vestige of the days of among those roads.

The cost, however, how long the highway projectors at Lansing can afford to "hang on" to Sherman's Barber Shop is established blocks away from the "commodious" offices of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the State Department of Agriculture.

When the Bureau engineers at Lansing last decided that Grand River area should be widened to 204 feet, they gave a map which circumscribes an area bounded Sherman's Barber Shop. The property belongs to Alfred Patterson, Detroit engineer, but it is with Simmons that the highway executives had to negotiate for his lease which does not expire until next April.

Simmons said he was willing enough to cut out of the way of Grand River a few feet, but when he was offered one round dollar for his inconveniences he demurred. His claim amounts to more than $5,000 he said.

He is philosophical about it nevertheless.

Oh yes, he laughs, I can do business independent in the middle of a road.

While the Sherman's Barber Shop stands atop the pile of wheelbarrow trucks outside the city limits and within a stretch of under-ground fire escape, it makes unapproachable task to get it out of the way.

OUR PRESIDENTS

WILLIAM H. HARRISON
Soldier-Whig

Born in Berwyn, Va., Feb. 9, 1773; married Anna Symmes, 1775; inaugurated 1841. Served one month, died April 4, 1841.

William Henry Harrison was the first president elected by the Whig Party. Hon. Clay would have seemed to be the logical candidate for president in this election. So much opposition developed in his own party that a division was started for Harrison who had made an enviable record in the Indian wars for many years before.

While William Harrison was the third president ever inaugurated during the 19 years of life when he became president.

He was severely taken to death by other sickness who thanked the people of Washington and others for his services.

In his will he made provision for the maintenance of his wife and two sons, Richard and George, for a period of five years.

COLLEEN MOORE COMING

The rare ability completely to alter her facial expression merely by changing the mood of her eyes stamps Colleen Moore as one of the screen's most gifted actresses, in the opinion of the director William A. Seiter.

Seiter, who directed Miss Moore in "Synthetic Skin," which comes to the Penniman Allen Theatre, Saturday, April 20th, feels that the genius for the art of the eye lies in the ability of the girl to make her so responsive that she requires less direction than any other player when he has ever worked with.

Her face is like a champion in combat as energetic and without lack of effort, caused by this amazing little jewel in "changing up" cost.

She seldom lets a muscle of her face move over thought, her face reflects so readily the change of the expression.

It is offered an unusual opportunity to display this remarkable ability in "Synthetic Skin," via

Colleen, Love, Gertrude Astor

and the Captain, also supported by Frederic and Fausto Marion.

PAYS MORE IN TAX THAN PROPERTY IS ASSESSED FOR

Land Owners Along Eight Mile Road in Oakland Protest

The hearing in Oakland county circuit court relative to the position for an injunction to restrain the construction of the eight-mile super-highway which is being proposed by Gustave Lockeman and other property holders in the Lathrup village district was postponed Monday until the commissioners bill is amended.

Lockeman and the other property owners affected have brought suit against the officials of the Wayne County and Oakland county road commission and against the state highway department asking for a permanent injunction to restrain the defendants from proceeding with the construction of the road and to restrain the collection of taxes assessed for the payment of its construction. Lockeman asks that all the proceedings so far carried out by the commissions be made void because of the methods used in obtaining signatures to the original road petitions. The necessary 66 per cent of signatures under the Covert Act were obtained, he claims, by misrepresentation and fraud.

At the road hearings last year the estimated price was $6 per front foot, but tax statements received this year indicate 66 per cent cost to be $18. Lockeman's tax will amount to $4,515 a year for a ten-year period on his four-and-a-half acre farm just west of Lathrup avenue, he says. The total is more than $11,000 on his acreage, which was assessed at $8,000, he says.

The road assessment district is divided into three sections within the half-mile district land in the first zone adjoining the road being assessed 50 per cent, the second zone 30 per cent and the third zone 20 per cent.

Redford's township assessment at large amounts to $7,105.34 and a total of $10,297.25 is assessed to the special districts. Contracts have not yet been let for the building of the road; it is understood although the bonds have been sold and the first assessments for its construction were included in the 1928 tax roll — Redford Record.

Clean-up campaigns, against the European corn borer should be completed before the caterpillars move into the moth stage in late spring or early summer. All castings, webs and refuse should be destroyed during the year by plowing under completely by burning cleanly to be feeding to livestock directly from the field in the form of straw or digested material in its silage. The holding on of small grains on pasture land or on high ground is liable in a dangerous practice where the corn borer is present, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Legislators are in a good mood and are making whoopee because they are clapping the beginning of the end of the session. The number of the last chapter passed by the Senate designated, but a conference committee recommended April 17th, while more conservative members hope it can be made May 1st, still other of the oldsmobiles predicted May 11th as the earliest possible date.

"Long Calendars" are the daily program and the work is going through with a zest not hitherto exhibited during the session. The proposed eight mill tax passed the House this week and has gone to the Senate for its approval and the Senate proposal to appropriate two millions for the aid of the poorer school districts has been approved by the House. "This is getting vexing questions partially settled and the budget appropriation bills will follow through probably without any more battles than are daily occurring in Mexico," said one.

The Boyle egg advertising bill was introduced in the House Thursday afternoon and was the occasion for some excitement, but eggs being thrown from all parts of the House. The bill, more or less mutilated, by amendments was finally placed upon third reading as was the controversial garnishment bill which has passed the Senate.

Rep. Nichols' bill for the regulation of the publishing industry, apparently due for hard steeding unless proponents of the measures rally additional support.

Rep. Nichols' three yearly meetings of the legislature sessions to be limited to 10 days, in a bill introduced Wednesday. If approved, the measure will go to the people at the November election.

Rep. Claude Milliman of Iron

Mountain, sponsors a bill introduced Wednesday requiring all airplane holders to hold federal licenses and make annual inspections.

The bill applies to all elections instead of just primary elections. It is thought likely the Senate will concur in the amendment.

If you want to clip your "doos" ears do it now. Senator Colton proposes a measure prohibiting such clipping.

Mr. F. H. Hartman, of the House, and Mr. Hall, of the Senate, both of whom are from the Upper peninsula, explained, goes in the House over the proposition introduced by Mr. Hartman to have a survey of the Royal

Highway made by the University of Michigan. Mr. Brink has a similar bill in the hands of the conservation committee, but the Brink bill provides that the survey be made by the Mining school. He wanted the Hartman bill referred to the same committee, but he lost out after an acrimonious discussion.

The Michigan House of Representatives will send a special air ambassador to Europe this summer in the person of a young Representative, Jimmie Frey of Bath

Creek. Mr. Frey will leave early in May for an extended trip abroad and a resolution is passed delegating to him authority to make a special study of European air lines and traffic. The resolution does not however, carry an appropriation covering Jimmie's expenses on the trip.

ing and boxing exhibitions where championship to be determined by the boxers and under consideration and may yet get through at the present session. The bill is said to be favored by Floyd Fitzsimmons want to erect a big arena near Michigan City.

An outcome of the recent report of the governor on the Chebeau cement plant was a resolution introduced by Rep. Sergeant authorizing closing of the plant.

Rep. Culver's whipping post bill has been reported out by the judiciary committee of the House and instead of just primary elections it will be on the ballot line next week.

A similar bill was vetoed by Governor Green two years ago.

Capital punishment makes its appearance on the floor of the Senate.

The measure was reported out

Wednesday afternoon, April 17th. The judiciary committee of the House has received a report from the attorney general that the Barnaby bill permitting the reading of the Bible in public schools is constitutional, and will probably report it out early next week for consideration on general orders.

The St. Gerber aviation bill provided for a state board of aeronautics has passed the House. A proposition to provide for non-resident taxation of township officers by non-resident taxpayers also got past the House.

The bill, which was 15 cents per gallon, the funds to be used for construction of state roads, was introduced by Rep. MacKenzie, of Clinton, county, and was referred to the judiciary committee.

The Senate has passed the voter registration bill, which will give the state legal possession of related lands in the water line and will give the state authority to lease to the owners of water front property related lands which are not shown in the state land records.

The Condon bill authorizing a tax on the manufacture of eggs and regulation of the poultry industry was introduced by Rep. Peigneur.

The bill, which is to make a thorough study of tax problems as they are presented to the state, has been referred to the Senate and the state representative from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, has introduced a bill in the legislature.

All to be appointed by the governor. In this connection the bill was passed by the Senate and returned to the House for concurrence in the amendment.

Summer Months

Milk sours easily and poor milk especially. You will be surprised the advantage our customers have over others. On warm days we invite you to try our milk.

An ideal summer drink and really there is nothing better for yourself and kiddies than a glass of Ulrich's milk.

Do Not Trade Your Liberty Bonds For Worthless Stocks

RECENTLY a man living not so very far from here was persuaded by an oily tongued stock salesman to exchange his Liberty Bonds for stocks.

This man did not take the time to investigate—just took the salesman's word for it. Now he is sorry for he finds that the stock is worthless.

This loss might have been avoided had the man come to this bank and had us investigate this stock thoroughly before making the trade.

We will give you a fair and unbiased opinion on any security offered you, based on facts obtained from a large statistical library on securities to which we now have access.
