NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1929

A HAPPY EVENT

Last Friday afternoon Editor Fred Keester of the Ionia County News, a paper that for three years won first national honors as being the best weekly newspaper in the United States, invited a number of editors from about the state over to his ballroom to spend a few hours on the golf links. When he issued the invitations he assumed that every editor in the state was a golf player, therefore he was not a bit particular to specify just the form of entertainment that would feature the day.

The Record editor has long believed that he was the only non-playing golf editor in Michigan, but the little affair over at Ionia produced two others who have the same high ideals as to the value of name and exercise as does the Northville Record editor.

One of the others is Editor Muel DeFoe of Charlotte. He not only refuses to play golf, but he also refuses to drive an automobile. He thinks he bears the distinction of being the only scribbler in the state who steadfastly refuses to burn gasoline to help enrich John D. Rockefeller. The other distinguished non-playing golf newspaper publisher is Len Feigliner, field secretary of the Michigan Press association.

After spending a portion of the afternoon watching the golf bugs and their caddies hunt the tall grass for golf balls, wallop a golf ball and then chase down the fields to wallop it again if they could find it the three were more determined than ever that their idea of golf playing was founded upon common sense. That's a dangerous thing to say, especially in Northville where nearly every man, woman and child has become addicted to the golf habit, but it is exactly how we feel.

You try playing for a while and you will change your mind. Had all of the expert golfing editors to the three golfing Thomases. But it will take more than a few high-powered "pros" to ever get one of the three to change his mind.

By the use of a hoe, ax, shovel, pick-ax and rake any editor can get more real beneficial exercise than he can by playing golf before or after breakfast.

To these sunburned, swollen, kneeled, bow-legged editors we recommend the same number of hours per day back of a lawn mower or shovel as they spend on the golf links. It will do them more good and then, too it might help wake the wife's flower garden bloom a little better.

Even with the golf mowed in, the occasion was a very delightful event. These golf bugs were well satisfied and the three non-golf-addicts were highly amused by the antics of the golf bugs. All year especially pleased to spend a day with the editor who publishes America's best weekly newspaper and his most gracious wife.

A TAME OLD CAT

Herbert Baker farmer politician, but mostly politician from Cheboygan county, who called for himself the name, The Cheboygan bear-cat and then ran for the Republican nomination for governor, his quiet Lansing and gone back to the hay mow and barnyard. Following his effort to become governor of Michigan he was given a job over in Lansing in the labor department.

No explanation accompanied his retirement from state service and it barely attracted newspaper comment.

We are glad he is back to the farm, because we feel that he will be of some service to himself and society out in the best lands of Cheboygan county. He was a no-homing success as a vote getter, although the Detroit Times gave him plenty of head-line space during his campaign. And as far as can be found out he wasn't a no-homing success as a clerk over in the labor department.

At any rate Herbert J. Baker is a thing of the past in Michigan politics. He never accomplished much for the state. He had the wrong idea of things. He assumed the negative side of life and condemned anything which had for its object the betterment of conditions or the upbuilding of the state.

He branded the paving of Grand River road from Detroit to Grand Rapids by Alex J. Groesbeck as a shameful misuse of public funds. And the highway is one of the heaviest traveled thoroughfares in America today. He simply saw things in the wrong light and because some newspapers made much of his ridiculous assertions, he became imbued with the idea that he was a great statesman.

How he did like the nickname given him. It was meaningless and it, in no way typified him. The only opportunity he ever had during his long battle to become governor to show that he had anything of the make-up of a "bear-cat" he ran away from.

We are sure that Herbert will be more happy among his cows and horses and pigs and pine stumps than he ever was down in Lansing. He was a gemal gent, but newspaper headlines ruined him.

WHAT OTHERS DO

It was rather a strange thing that there should appear in the Detroit Free Press a write-up of the way the Ypsilanti school band is operated just at a time when there has been some discussion in Northville about the funds of the band. Ypsilanti is a far richer community than Northville. It is not only richer, but it has almost ten times the population—and that community does not feel that it is able to turn over to the band the money paid for its outside services. Following is what the Free Press had to say about the Ypsilanti school band.

Ypsilanti High School band, composed of 50 boys, is experiencing a very busy summer. Each Tuesday evening the band gives a concert on the Michigan State Normal college campus, where bleachers and a bandstand have been erected. Large crowds attend these concerts, many coming from surrounding territory and nearby towns.

The band, organized and directed by Professor John F. Barnhill teacher of mathematics at the normal college, is self-supporting, and is sponsored by the city schools, of which A. G. Erickson is superintendent.

Each February during the last three years, Professor Barnhill has organized a beginner band of boys who usually have had no previous experience with musical instruments. The boy may purchase his instrument through the school, making monthly payments, and he may take private lessons if he so desires, although Professor Barnhill states that this is not necessary if the boy is industrious and likes music. Many of the larger instruments have been given to the band, the chamber of commerce and the junior high school donating the tenor horn, the Knights Templar the big drum, and the extraordinary horns were purchased by the school.

The members are not paid, but money earned on Memorial day and

A GOOD MAN GONE

Northville mourns with Plymouth the untimely death of Dr. Cooper. He was apparently almost as well known in Northville as he was in his own community. He was a good citizen and his passing will be missed by his fellow citizens. The accident in which he was killed seemed so unnecessary. It only places emphasis upon the haste that characterizes the life of the average person today. A delay of possibly thirty seconds on the part of the doctor or of the other driver would have prevented the fatal crash. The death of Dr. Cooper is regretted. He was the type of citizen that every community needs.

Almost any green crop can be made into silage successfully if proper methods are used. With hollow-steamed plants such as the small cereal grains, care should be taken to expel the air by cutting fine and packing firmly. Some crops like legumes are deficient in the fermentable constituents, so desirable in the production of silage that is palatable and possesses good keeping qualities. Other crops like the sorghum have so much sugar that they cut at a mature stage they are so sour. Silage is suited for feeding to all livestock. Dairy cows need it especially, as its succulence is helpful in producing large quantities of milk. It is a cheap feed for beef cattle. Sheep like it and it is well suited to their needs. Even horses and mules may be fed limited quantities of silage with good results. The objections to changing ensilage in a canner is that your end may depend on the life you have led.

POULTRY
TURKEYS RAISED IN CONFINEMENT

Better Results Secured Than Where Poults Are Free.

In times past many people felt that turkeys could not be raised in confinement, but that they should have a large area, over which to range. This contention has changed now, however, and in several localities turkeys have been raised in confinement with a great deal of success.

The Minnesota and Nebraska experiment stations have been among the leaders in a systematic work in turkey production in recent years, with some such work being done at other experiment stations in various parts of the country. At both of the stations mentioned it was found that better results could be secured if the poults were raised in confinement than if they were allowed to range over a large area, the method once followed in turkey production. In view of these findings, those who wish to go into turkey production, either on a small or large scale, are no doubt interested in the practices to be adhered to in this method of turkey raising.

The United States Department of Agriculture has found that turkey production has declined consistently since 1890, in the face of an increase in the production of all other lines of poultry and live stock. This decrease in production cannot be attributed to a decrease in demand for the demand has always exceeded the production, or at least there has never been a surplus of turkeys on the market with which to contend.

This decline in turkey production can be explained almost altogether by the fact that farmers have always felt that turkeys should have unlimited range. Because of following this method of production the turkeys came in contact with the chicken yards, to the detriment of the turkey business. The disease problem among turkeys which come in contact with chickens is great enough that it has tended to cut down on production among farmers and farmers wives who have, in the past, raised turkeys and chickens together on the same range.

How Much Does Pullet Cost Till Able to Lay?

The South Carolina State College has conducted several tests of the feeding the amount of feed required to start a Red, Barred Plymouth, Rock or Wyandotte laying pullet. In one experiment, the entire normal feed was milk and in the other meat meal. In the case of the milk fed pullets it required 20 pounds of feed from the time the pullets were hatched till they began to lay 21 weeks later. This feed cost 71 cents. In the meat meal flock, one and one-half pounds of mash and one and one-half pounds of grain were used and the cost was 57 cents. Adding the cost of the chick, and other costs the Rhode Island Red, Barred Plymouth Rock or White Wyandotte pullets just in lay would cost $1.50 when milk fed and $1.17 when meat fed. These pullets sell for $2 each at laying time, if you have surplus milk, feed it to the growing birds.

Always Make Fowls as Profitable as Possible

There is a great temptation for the poultryman who is ambitious to equal the records made by others. Naturally any one wants to make his hens as profitable as possible, and as the rule generally applied is to keep them only to the end of the first laying year and then replace by young pullets, the effect of high egg production on the laying hens apparently is negligible as she is sent to the brooder and all effects of force feeding can interfere with her laying.

Control Cannibalism

Cannibalism in pullets can be partially controlled by darkening nests. "Pick-outs," which is a term used when birds eat at the oviducts, is often started when a bird is on the nest. Some birds acquire the habit of standing at the nest, and while the egg is being delivered they will attack the hen on the nest. If the nests are darkened the laying hen is in seclusion and the cannibal hens are not likely to attack her. A good plan is to kill the cannibals.

Use for Vitamine D

Vitamine D, which is found in cod liver oil, is useful in helping to properly assimilate minerals. This vitamine is furnished by the direct rays of sunshine. During winter months, sunshine does not contain as many of these helpful rays as in summer. When sunshine passes through ordinary glass a great deal of the helpful influence is lost. These two factors make it possible to utilize cod liver oil to advantage in winter rations for laying hens.

Feed for Eggs

One can feed a flock of hens more economically than a flock of pullets because the hens need only a maintenance ration plus what is needed for eggs, while the pullets need maintenance—building material for feathers, bone and muscle—and egg material, too.

One can put over a few hen and get fun from coaxing a good egg yield out of them by feed and care. When too many hens are put to chow and perhaps a burden

MILFORD FAIR TO STAGE PAGEANT

Rehearsals for the grand pageant to be given at the fair on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening is actively under way every other afternoon and evening at the high school gymnasium. On days when not engaged here, Mr. Knowles, the director, is conducting group rehearsals in other communities in the county. The selection of the cast will probably be completed by the end of this week.

An outline of the movement of the pageant as furnished the Times by the director is as follows:

Following the blast of the trumpet comes the prologue in which Miss Oakland County arrives with her attendants, the latter named for and representing the various communities of the county.

Miss Columbia and her 48 attendants, represented by ladies from different sections of the county arrive. Miss Oakland County gives a greeting and an address of welcome, to which Miss Columbia responds. These all move to the court of honor at the sides of the stage and the scenes of the pageant pass before them.

Following promptly will be such high lights of action as the Creation ballet in which 500 older girls take part, an effective Indian scene with the tribe in full regalia depicting the life of the Indians at the time of Chief Pontiac, the Wild West ballet which will be a prologue to the historical scenes which will represent high spots in the history of Oakland County as suggested by the historical committee of the Woman's Literary club.

The scenes will be staged with all the costumes and properties necessary to make them effective and realistic.

The second part of the pageant is the Masque of Nations and is purely a spectacle. Nationalities composing our cosmopolitan population will be represented in native dances and costumes.

The pageant concludes with a grand patriotic finale in which the entire cast participates.

The stage will have special scenic settings, lighting effects and costumes under personal direction of Larry M. Knowles of the John B. Dagers, producing Co. of Fostoria, Ohio—Milford Times

PHONE COMPANY IS BOOSTING FOR TOURIST TRADE

Roy E. Crowe Points Out Ad Company Is Giving to the State

Attention is being directed to Michigan as a vacation land in a series of advertisements of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, published in 250 newspapers and magazines of the state, according to Roy E. Crowe, the company's manager in this area.

The first advertisement in the series, carrying an illustration of Detroit's skyline, appears in today's issue of this paper. A great part of Michigan's annual tourist business is derived from other states, hundreds of Michigan residents being inclined to spend their vacations elsewhere. The purpose of the telephone company's vacation series of advertisements is to acquaint Michigan people with the beauty spots of their own state, and to induce them to take advantage of the vacationing opportunities that close to home.

It is the belief of the Michigan Bell Company, Mr. Crowe says, that this state has recreational possibilities far beyond those of any other region readily accessible to Michigan residents with the average two weeks holiday period.

The second advertisement of the series will be devoted to picturesque and historic Mackinac Island and vicinity. The theme of thousands of visitors annually. Others of the six advertisements will feature other sections that abound in scenic interest and that add to Michigan's fame as a natural playground. A series of similar advertisements was sponsored by the company last year and was the subject of much favorable comment. Over a period of about two years the Michigan Bell company has directed attention to more than 40 of the principal cities of the state in a series of "Know Michigan" window displays shown

NEEDS OF WORLD

The world wants a live Christ, said Rev. William Richards in his morning address at the Methodist church, Sunday. A Christ that is alive for the poor man—the rich—the sick—the well—the lonesome—the one who is fighting hard battles and every other kind you can think of.

Because Christ is living, now His message does to those underlying principles, which have to do with the poor, grants and necessities of humanity.

When the modern pulpit message deals with these fundamental needs of folks it is a real message.

In the opinion of Mr. Richards there never was a time when the opportunity of getting the loving good-will message of the Christ to the world was as great as now.

He urged his hearers to be message bearers and make it real to the best of their ability.

Love your enemies. They meet the goal, you. Your friends are the ones who get the truth out to the best make daante kko

Man, So, He Could Sleep but Little for Three Weeks—New Medicine Triumphs

Mr. William McGinnis, of Northville, Mich., has been suffering from a complication of rheumatism and sciatica for three weeks. He was unable to sleep and his condition was very painful. He had tried many remedies but to no avail. Finally, he was advised to try a new medicine called Konjola. After taking a few bottles, he found relief and was able to sleep again. He is now completely recovered and is very grateful for the new medicine.

WEST POINT PARK

The game between Clarkston and West Point Park of the Inter-County League, was played on the home diamond Sunday. Carl Goers for Clarkston and Henschmidt and Jawask were the catchers. The game was one-sided, the score being 7 to 0 in favor of West Point Park. The next game will be played between Plymouth and West Point Park on the diamond here. We expect a close game.

The Sunday service was enjoyed by all who attended, also the Sunday school. The pastor, Rev. George Gullett, gave a talk suitable for old and young. Next Sunday, Stanley Barker, who has been at the camp for three years, and is now a lawyer, will talk in the West Point Park church. Everyone is welcome. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wolfe spent Sunday afternoon with their daughters, Ernestine and Lucile Wolfe, at Middle Straits lake. Charles and Arthur Ash are enjoying their holidays with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Manz at Salem.

Luella and Dorothy Ash and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Livrance attended the young people's Evangelical conference at Wayne.

A number of friends and patients are lamenting the death of Dr. Cooper of Plymouth. Also, the sad incident that hurried him to his death.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Milburn, when neighbors and friends congregated secretly to wish the former many happy returns of the day. Music and games featured the evening. All present enjoyed a tempting supper, had a good time and went home pleased with the welcome they received from their good friends, the Milburn family.

Lulu Wheeler returned to work Monday after a few days vacation spent with friends in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gullett, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Owen and sons, Kenneth and William, Mrs. Carl Harrison, Mrs. Ethel Midgwood, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Addis, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Ault and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ault spent Saturday and Sunday camping at Crooked Lake, near Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Mansfield enjoyed a holiday and the former attended the French convention at Grand Rapids last week.

Mr. John Merrer and daughter, Elizabeth, are visiting friends and relatives in Williamston and Laurin.

The Sunday school picnic on Monday was a most enjoyable day and a grand success. Dinner was served at 12:00 p. m. Then the swimming and wading in the lake were enjoyed. The picnic was a success with lots of watermelon.

BATHERS CAN PARADE TO THEIR HEART'S CONTENT

Although the Livingston county board of supervisors at their recent session at Howell passed a law making it a misdemeanor to appear on a public highway in a bathing suit unless covered by some other garment, also to stop an automobile on a highway to pick nuts or fruit from trees or bushes by the roadside, Attorney General Wilbur M. Brucker says the subject matter in the ordinance is not within a county's law-making province.

Countries can make certain highway regulations with the approval of the governor, and this particular ordinance was sent to Gov. Fred W. Green, who passed it on to Mr. Brucker, who gave the verdict above.

A bill to ban "bathing beauties" from parading the public highways was introduced at the 1929 session of the legislature. The bill passed the house, but failed to gain the approval of the Senate.

The ordinance relative to the measure, recently passed by the Livingston county board of supervisors will come back without the governor's signature. — Brighton Argus.

8 POUNDS OF LARRO GROWING MASH
 is all she needs
FIGHT pounds of Larro Growing Mash—just a few cents' worth—that's all it takes to turn the average six-weeks-old chick into a big, husky, vigorous pullet.
 It's just good, common sense to raise pullets the Larro way when, for this small investment, you can be sure of the safe, rapid growth, general health and year-round egg-laying capacity that make every bird pay you the biggest profit.
 Larro Growing Mash has been proved right. It produces even, uniform growth. It keeps the birds in good flesh, without excess fat and brings them to maturity at the right age, when growth is complete and they are ready for profitable production.
 Don't take chances with your flock. Don't experiment with home mixtures and untried rations. A mistake in feeding now will mean less profit for you when the birds are ready to lay.
 Give them the one best growing ration—proved best at Larro Research Farm before a single pound was offered for sale.

HEY!

Its mighty hot now but wait until next winter when the thermometer registers about two below zero. Then when you'll say "I wished I put in a TIMKEN OIL BURNER last summer."

Just think of it, to be able to sit in a nice warm house with the temperature exactly as you want it all of the time, and never have to go down cellar to stir the fire.

Better have one installed NOW and save next springs decorating expense.

Step into the store, we'll show you all about it.

Long trips are easy when you drive a Ford

EASY-RIDING comfort is one of the features of the new Ford. Somehow, it seems to just glide along, as if every road were a good road. Even rough stretches may be taken at a fast pace without hard jolts or bumps or the exaggerated bouncing, rebound which is the cause of most motoring fatigue.

Come in and arrange for a demonstration. You'll know then that the transverse springs and Houdaille shock absorbers make a big difference in riding comfort.

WHEN TOURING IN EAST VISIT THIS HISTORIC PLACE

Home of John Hancock Still Stands Not Far from Lexington

Northville tourists who are planning a trip to the east should not forget to visit this historic place. Among them and but a few rods from Lexington, Colorado stands the Hancock-Clarke House, a part of which remains exactly as it was when the Rev. John Hancock preached in the town from 1698 to 1752 and lived in the house.

Although visitors sometimes comment on the singularly unimpressive outer appearance of the house, it is a treasury of connection with important events and personages.

It is the manse in which lived two ministers of the Lexington church, and it is not for nothing that in a single year, as many as 20,000 visitors have seen these parts of the house that are shown.

The little low-studded cottage part of the house, with dormer windows and a gambrel roof, is the part which is shown.

A heavy piece of iron falling on his foot.

Mrs. C. W. Lewis spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. C. W. Payne.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilson and sons and Mrs. Clark were Belle Isle visitors on Sunday.

The Ladies' Auxiliary society will meet next Thursday, August 8th, at Cass Benton Park. Mrs. R. W. Kehl is hostess. Meeting in the afternoon and picnic supper will be served.

The services will continue all through the summer at 10:30 a. m.

COMING ATTRACTIONS at the PENNIMAN ALLEN

BILLY DOVE'S NEW FILM IS STORY OF AMERICAN GIRL
 Billy Dove, the screen's greatest beauty, becomes an American Beauty again for her latest picture, "The Man and the Moment," a film National picture coming to the Penniman Allen Theatre Sunday, August 1st.

After a number of pictures which took her to Europe, technically speaking, in which she played foreign roles, Miss Dove is again an American girl in "The Man and the Moment," which is from the pen of the famous Elinor Glyn.

This is the story of an orphan girl who marries a man to escape the limitations put upon her activities by her guardian. The hectic experiences that follow make up a story of intense interest and with many dramatic experiences.

"Rod LaRocque, one of the most popular leading men in pictures, is seen opposite Miss Dove in this story, and Gwen Lee, the talented blonde actress, plays the "other woman."

George Fitzmaurice directed "The Man and the Moment," which has been termed one of Miss Dove's greatest pictures. Its coming is awaited with interest here where Billy Dove has a host of admirers.

CORRINE GRIFFITH HAS STRONG SUPPORT
 Gregg, the Cava, who directed "Saturday's Children," the Maxwell Anderson Pulitzer prize play which Corrine Griffith is bringing to the screen as her latest First National starring vehicle at the Penniman Allen Theatre, Wednesday, August 7th, has selected the strongest possible cast to appear in Miss Griffith's supporting roles. Alma Tell returns to the kleig lights after several years on the Broadway legitimate stage to play Miss Griffith's sister, Grant Withers, the handsome young colonel who promises to be one of the best bets amongst the younger leading men was borrowed from Warner Brothers to play opposite Miss Griffith in the role of Jim O'Neill, the part created on the speaking stage at the Booth Theatre, New York, by Roger Pryor. Charles Lane plays Miss Griffith's father, Ann Schaeffer, formerly associated with Corrine in the old Vitagraph days and the first person to show Corrine how to make up when the latter made her debut on the screen, has the role of her mother; Lucien Littlefield will be seen as her brother-in-law; Albert Conti has the strongest role of his career as her employer, and Marcia Harris has an interesting character part as the keeper of the boarding house.

"Saturday's Children" marks a radical departure from any type of picture in which Corrine Griffith has starred since "Classified," one of her biggest box office attractions. As in "Classified," the star plays a working girl of the middle classes. The action takes place in New York City amongst simple, every day people and deals with a new phase of companionate marriage.

which was standing when Mr. Hancock lived there. In 1775, the Rev. Jonas Clarke came to serve the parish and lived the remainder of his life in the manse. At that time the large room of the cottage gave directly on a lawn and served the purposes of dining room, kitchen and parlor with equal grace. The successive pastors maintained their hours of study in a room at the rear of the first floor, its narrow windows and inner shutters a protection against outside distractions and even subdued noises.

The remarkable staircase of the house leads upward directly from the big room. The iron part of the house, with its two stories, contains the room in which the "Signers," John Hancock and Samuel Adams were, perhaps but lightly sleeping, when Paul Revere dashed along at midnight with his famous announcement.

It will be remembered that a member of the household urged Revere not to disturb Hancock and Adams by shouting and Revere, impressed with the impropriety of the suggestion under the circumstances, retorted:

"Nouse! You'll have noise enough before long. The regulars are coming!"

This evidently was enough to rouse both Hancock and Adams. While Adams spent the remainder of the night reminding Hancock that they both were members of the Cabinet and so the hostility was not their business, Hancock, steadily cleaned guns and accoutrements, and it was only when Revere returned a second time, to inform him that at would please Gage enormously if he, Hancock, risked his life and person, that he could be dissuaded from his determination to fight beside the Minutemen.

The house is liberally provided with portraits of Hancock's, a silhouette of Jonas Clarke, and a considerable collection of clothing directly connected with the illustrious occupant of the house.

Hancock, the clergyman, came to Lexington in 1698. His five children were reared in the cottage parish in Bramflee, and there the famous John Hancock was born in 1737. The second son, Thomas was a merchant who built the Hancock mansion on Beason street, Boston. Two daughters married ministers and the daughter of one of them became the wife of Jonas Clarke, who succeeded Hancock in the Lexington pastorate.

Your paper is a great big letter from home. Charles Nacker, for many years a resident of Northville, who is now living over near Flint, where he runs a "big place" and berry farm.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Johnston have returned from a motor trip through Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas. The trip has yielded a report, four weeks' worth of news. While away they resided at the home of Mrs. Johnston's parents in Forest City, Arkansas and at the home of Dr. Johnston's parents near Chicago. On their way to Arkansas they visited Lincoln's birthplace and the Mammoth Cave. Dr. Johnston states that business in Arkansas is fairly good and the rice fields indicate a good crop this year. It has been rather dry for a number of weeks past, but farmers are hopeful of a good yield.

The Buck Runabout owned by Wayne Vandyne was almost completely wrecked last Saturday afternoon, when it was struck by a delivery wagon owned by a Detroit bakery concern. Mrs. Vandyne was driving her car on Main street when the Detroit delivery wagon, driven at high speed, made a sharp swing from Wing street onto Main street, colliding squarely with the Vandyne car. The driver of the delivery wagon did not observe the stop sign that is posted on the street from which he turned onto Main street. Fortunately, Mrs. Vandyne and a friend with her in the car escaped without injury.

James F. Dabuar has completed his services with the Mississippi State Forest Commission, and has returned with his family to Michigan. After a week spent at Alton, Michigan and another at Northville with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dabuar, he and family are vacationing at Crystal Lake, near Beulah, Mich. They will not return to Waukegan, New York until about December 1st, when Mr. Dabuar will resume his duties there as director of the New York State Ranger school.
