VILLAGE PAYS LIGHT BONDS IN FULL SOON

Final Settlement Recalls Days of Depression Following Fire

The final chapter of Northville's plunge into industrial bonanza development, some 30 years ago following the destruction of the old Globe factory by fire and the enforced idleness of some 250 or 300 men who had for years been steadily employed at that place, will be written on September 1st, when Village Treasurer "Edna" Bloom writes a check for $28,150.95 in full payment of the electric light bonds including interest, voted by the taxpayers back in 1909.

The Globe factory, the center of practically all of Northville's industrial activity, also provided the village with the lights for its streets and business blocks. When the factory burned not only was the village plunged into darkness but a period of depression such as few communities ever experienced prevailed here. It was impossible to find work for the men who had long been employed at the globe.

A village charter and a state law prevented the coming of new factories for industrial development but civic leaders at that time realized that some drastic action had to be taken to place Northville back on the road to progress.

An electric light plant was needed. They figured that it would cost some $15,000 or $16,000. They decided to bond for $27,000, using the surplus of new factories. So a lighting plant was erected that cost something like $16,000 and the remaining $11,000 was money went into factory buildings. By voting the money for electric light purposes, the village had remained within the requirements of the charter.

Conditions began to look brighter for Northville in a few years. In time normal conditions were restored. Once again the most thriving community in western Wayne county seemed designed to regain its leading position. It was along about this time when Plymouth started to grow and during the period that Northville was making an effort to get back on its feet following its fire calamity, Plymouth took the lead in population and has since retained the distinction of being the largest place in western Wayne.

The question of final payment of the lighting bonds came before the village commission Monday night. Mayor Charles Filkins one of the citizens of Northville who was as active in the village some 30 years ago as he is today, advised the commission that the bonds would be due September first.

"We have got the money to pay with I hope the village officials of the future will do the same as has been done in the past. If they keep the sinking funds up, there will never be any trouble in paying off these bonded debts when they fall due," he said.

When the village got its lighting plant from the Detroit Edison company along in 1917 the money derived from that sale went into the electric light sinking fund and each year something has been added to it from the tax rolls. The interest had amounted to about $1300 each year and that the village will have to pay no more.

THEATRE AT PLYMOUTH IS IMPROVED

A representative of the Mall visited the Penniman Allen theatre Tuesday, and was greatly amazed at the wonderful changes and improvements that are being made in Plymouth's popular show, not only in order to make room for the talking and sound equipment which will be installed, the booth in the gallery has had to be considerably enlarged to make room for the extra apparatus that is required.

Back at His Desk in Northville Bank

LOUIS A. BABBITT

Louis A. Babbitt, president of the Northville State Savings Bank, critically ill for nearly three months and who was forced to undergo two dangerous operations, is back at his desk in the bank spending most of the time receiving congratulations of his many friends.

He looks better than at any time for the past two years, and he says he feels better than for a number of years past. An examination by University physicians a few days ago, resulted in the decision that he had entirely recovered and that his physical condition was perfect.

He is glad to be back at his desk in the bank he has served so many years.

The Elks Band of Detroit recently played a concert at the William H. Maybury sanatorium.

CORN CROP IS RUINED SAY THE FARMERS

Continued Dry Weather Has Raised Havoc With All Late Crops

Another week of intense dry weather, even though somewhat chilly, has practically ended all prospects for even fair crops of potatoes, corn or beans in this locality. Up until a week ago farmers believed they would have an average yield of corn, but reports from all farming sections around Northville indicated that yield would be especially small as the leaves had already begun to curl and dry up.

Tomatoes usually at this time of the year are exceeding plentiful and are scarce and expensive. The yield of cucumbers, says growers, will be the smallest in years in this part of the state.

Growers of late strawberries, and there are several about Northville, say the crop has been entirely ruined by the dry weather. Not in years has so much damage to Michigan strawberries been experienced such a long dry period.

STOP STREETS ARE OFFICIALLY NAMED

When is a stop street not a stop street? That's something John Walker wanted to know at Monday night's meeting of the village commission. "When it comes to an end," that's what Mayor Filkins told John Walker about stop streets. For some time past the village officials discussed stop streets, non-stop streets and through streets.

Commissioner Walker didn't want everybody put in jail just because they didn't happen to stop at a stop street.

Chief of Police Safford who was present, said he had no desire to carry messes up to the village bastille of the bars for violating a proposed new ordinance.

The commission finally adopted a new stop street ordinance, its chief purpose being to place responsibility upon automobile drivers who are in too big a hurry to stop at stop streets in case of accidents.

METERS SAVE WATER STATES CITY CHIEF

Decide to Put Every Outside Connection on the Meter System

It became known at Monday night's meeting of the village commission that the city hopes by the end of another month to have every water connection in Northville on a meter. Practically every water line left that have not been put on a meter are some thirty so-called "outside connections," stated Commissioner RAY VanValkenburgh, chairman of the water committee.

There was some discussion as to whether all of these lines should go on a meter, but Mayor Filkins declared that he saw no reason why everybody should not be treated alike and he concurred in the recommendation that they be made by Mr. VanValkenburgh. Following the discussion the street commissioner was instructed to put all outside water connections on meters at once.

"As a result of placing meters on water connections Northville for the first time in years had plenty of water this summer. It has been dry for a long time, but the supply has not run short as it has in past years. When we are getting more revenue from the use of our water also people when they are forced to pay for the amount of water used, are not letting it run down the alley and in the street gutters," said Mr. VanValkenburgh.

From the discussion that took place among the city officials, it was evident that Northville in past years has been pumping a large amount of water that has run to waste.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO HOLD PICNIC THURSDAY, AUG. 29

Select Island Lake for Place to Hold Outdoor Picnic

The annual picnic of Northville Commandery, No. 39, Knights Templar, will be held at Island Lake, August 29th, according to an announcement just made by the committee in charge of the event. It is expected that all of the members and their families will attend in fact, even friends are invited, so there is sure to be a good crowd.

The entertainment being arranged for the picnic, this part of the program starting at 2 o'clock.

One of the main features of the day will be a ball game at 6 o'clock between Wayne county Knights and those from Oakland county. The battery for the Wayne team will be Charles Horton, Walter Lewis, Northville, and Charles Bulky of Redford. For Oakland county Amos Otis and Dr. Pain will do the stellar work. The coaches will be William Miller and James Van Hagen. The umpire named is James Evans and Walter Waldard.

Members are requested to bring full baskets as a crowd of record size is anticipated.

LOCAL TEACHER WEDS IN PLYMOUTH

The wedding of Miss Wilma Jess Briggs of this village, to Jack Edwin Taylor, son of Guy E. Taylor of Newburg, took place the evening of August 19th, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. H. and Mrs. M. and Mrs. Roy C. Streib, Sr. F. A. Lendrum of the Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ceremony under the soft light of ivory tapers before an improvised altar of gladioli and gypsophylla in tall baskets.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, E. M. Mole, was charmingly gowned in a princess model of blue chiffon with full circular skirt of ample length and unadorned hemline. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and forget-me-nots.

He Saves Life of Youngster Who Was Sinking

Sam Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lawrence, has returned from his vacation trip to Muskegon, Michigan and named, but with the destruction of having saved a life while away. The youngster is entitled to high Scout honors for his bravery, as well as the mastery of the water under most adverse conditions.

A number of small boys were in bathing at Lake Michigan beach three miles west of Muskegon. Sam was down in swimming with the kids, too. A youngster about five years of age was on the back of a larger boy who was swimming out into deep water. Apparently fearing that he was going to go down, the smaller lad released his hold on the other boy who had turned and started back towards the shore.

A Living Tribute

How much has been said of some noble servant of God and the public over the desecrated remains whose lips are silent to respond and whose ears are deaf to such utterances. Usually it is no more to those who best know.

Floral tributes are unknown to the remains upon which they are placed. Better far to bring the flowers of expression and kindness to the living than to the dead. It may be a matter of little importance to the family, but one outstanding figure stands in the community in the musical realm. For seven years closing has come Sabbath, Mrs. John Timman has conveyed a wonderful ministry in the Methodist Episcopal church under the pastorate of Rev. William Richards, who presents this tribute today.

Not alone has it been confined to this church, but in the other churches, and detail functions of Northville, where this wonderful music mind has given her talent.

The years are mellowing in her life but more than in the soul which pours out such rich melodies in the Sabbath services. There are few suburbs or rural parishes that can boast of an organist who is so acquainted with the old masters in the centuries gone, that Mrs. Timman is.

You can listen to the wonderful creations of Mendelssohn, Handel, Bach, Gounod, Haydn, Mozart, with the more modern musical authors who cannot outdo the former. Such is the rich content of the organ, replica of the soul that masters the manuals.

This soul has inspired my ministry, and will go in my diary as a service never to be forgotten. I have served larger congregations than I can boast in Northville, but no organist of those congregations has served me with greater inspiration in my ministry than the soul of Mrs. John Timman.

FIRE DAMAGES ERWIN HOME

Troubles sometimes comes thick and fast. That seems to be the lot of James Erwin just at present. Such is the rich content of the upper part of his home on the South Lyon, just east of the Novar road and all efforts of Mr. Erwin and his children to put out the blaze, failed. The departments of Northville and Farmington were called, but in some way the Northville department was given the incorrect direction as to where the house was located and went west on the South Lyon road instead of east.

Mr. Erwin has the sympathy of the entire community. Mrs. Erwin died a few months ago following a brief illness, and a little later Mr. Erwin and some of the children were confined to their home for weeks by an attack of scarlet fever. He expects to rebuild in the near future.

HEN ROBBERS GIVEN STIFF PRISON TERMS

Judge Sample Pleases the Farmers in Way He Disposed of Thieves

Northville's chicken thieves ring will now operate for a while, due to the determined action taken by Judge Sample of Ann Arbor, when sentencing the three "rust" robbers, when brought before him. Because the fact that the offense took place in Washburn county, the offenders were required to go before the court in Ann Arbor.

Lloyd Hamilton of Northville whose home was in the rear on East Main street, had the severest sentence imposed upon him by Judge Sample. He must serve from four to five years in Jackson prison, whereas the other two, Tuesday to begin his sentence. It was the second offense for Hamilton, and it is for that reason that his punishment was more severe than that imposed upon his associates in chicken stealing.

Charles Chapman got from two and a half to five years at Jackson. Chapman worked on the place known as the Alford farm west of town instead of on the Blue Bird farm as the other offenders. He did not judge the chickens at this place as he contended, but used another place to secret the fowls until they were brought to Northville and Hazel Park.

MRS. BELE SHUTTS DIES IN ILLINOIS

Of interest to many Northville friends is the death of Mrs. Belle Shutt, at her home in Glenco, Illinois, Friday, August 16th.

Mrs. Shutt was a member of the pioneer Samuel Starbuck family, and was born in the old Starbuck homestead on the Fishery road just west of town, February 8, 1850. She lived in this vicinity until her marriage in 1878 to Delbert Shutt.

THE BELLE COVERT REUNION AUG. 31

The former pupils of Belle Covert Adams will hold their annual picnic and reunion at Cassington Park, Northville, on Saturday, August 31st, between 3 o'clock and 6 o'clock p. m.

Among the many teachers of the Northville school none has a better record than Belle Covert, and for several years her former pupils have annually gathered together for a basket picnic. Last year over forty attended and this year the committee expects to double last year's attendance. All the former pupils and their families are urged to help make this event a success.

Speed Up Plans For September Fair

NELSON O. SCHRADER

From a brief vacation trip to Michigan, northern Michigan, Nelson Schrader, president of the Northville Wayne County Fair Association, is stepping on the gas down at the fair grounds in preparation for what promises to be by far the best and biggest fair Northville has ever had.

Chapman told Chief Safford that he had been working around here for some time. The other offender who was arrested for the chicken theft from the Dyrskjold poultry farm, near Salem, John Hall, 20 years of age, got from one and one-half to two years at Jackson. Hall claims the farm is here but recently from the west, and fell in with Hamilton here in Northville.

Chief Safford has secured some information which may lead to the arrest of the other two members of the chicken stealing gang that made their getaway. Judge Sample told the offenders that no consideration in his court, and he placed emphasis on what he said by the sentences he imposed. His action has greatly pleased all the farmers and chicken men in this locality.

POSTMASTER APPLICANTS REQUESTED

You Must File Application Before September 10 for Examination

Upon request of Congressman Orest Hudson the Civil Service Commission has called for an examination of candidates for appointment as postmaster of Northville. The appointment to make up on the recommendation of the congressman at the expiration of the present temporary term being served by Mr. Bertha Neal.

Applications must be filed before September 10th. Complete information can be secured from Mrs. Pearl Balch at the postoffice, who has charge of the civil service work in Northville for the postoffice department.

Candidates for the appointment must be under 65 years of age and must have lived within the delivery service of the office for at least two years preceding the date of application.

NO SAXOPHONES IN WATERBURY SCHOOL

Saxophones and jazz music are as popular in public schools circles of Waterbury County as grocers in Northville, according to Floyd Evans, a former Northville boy, who is now director of music in the big eastern city. He said that saxophones had something ago been abolished from school musical organizations, when talking Wednesday noon before members of the Exchange club at Northville. Popular music is only played on rare occasions and in connection with some class play, he said.

The school orchestra that Mr. Evans directs as part of his duties has three times won the first place in the musical contest held between schools of the eastern states. He also told Exchangees that money sometimes paid to the school band for outside services went into the school band fund.

OFFICIALS OF FAIR GUESTS AT IONIA FAIR

Dr. Robt. Haskell is Host, Grandstand Charges More Than Here

As guests of Dr. Robert H. Haskell of the Wayne County Training school, eight Northville business men attended the Ionia County Fair last week Wednesday, and because the majority of them were directors of the Northville Wayne County Fair association, they saw much of exceptional interest to them.

While the Ionia County Fair is on a much larger scale in many respects than the Northville fair, and the strictly agricultural end of the Ionia fair possibly a bit more emphasized than the Northville fair, it was evident that the local fair in many ways excelled that of Ionia. For instance, the poultry display of the Ionia fair is not so comparable to the Northville show, although its stock show, exhibited in size by far the Northville display.

The midway was an exceedingly large one and there was much that interested the visitors. Numerous types of shows that have never been booked in Northville were at the Ionia fair. Fred Lyke, who has charge of the concessions for the Northville fair, was especially interested in this branch of the Ionia fair. He believed that he will be able to have a midway this year that will come near being as good as the one at Ionia.

Ed Fuller, who has charge of the poultry exhibit of course, was interested in the Ionia poultry show, but because of the fact that the Northville exhibit far outshines that of any other county fair in the state, even the state fair, he didn't return home with many new ideas. Secretary Floyd Northrop, Harry Clark and others who were along saw the entire fair. They visited all of the exhibits and called on the Northville fair horse owners who had their stables there, but who had been unable to do any tending the last two days of the fair because of the rain.

The visitors discovered that the Ionia fair is run like clock work. It is a tremendous big show, but it works perfectly.

The Ionia fair is a free fair—but its racing program, the vaudeville acts and the fireworks are all within the tightly enclosed race track. It costs 50 cents to get a seat in the bleachers and 15 cents to get a box seat in the grandstand. Some seats sell for a higher price. Just like the Northville fair, all of the exhibits are open to the public without cost. The seats in the grandstand are not so comfortable as are the chairs in the new Northville grandstand, but an excellent and courteous cheer service made up for what appeared to be a rather close crowding of seating space.

GOING TO FIX UP BAD SIDEWALKS

Believing a better economy for the village to fix up a number of bad spots in some of the sidewalks about town than to face possible suits for damages later on, John Tegsbury member of the sidewalk committee Monday evening recommended to the village commission that the repair work be done immediately. Mayor Filkins and other members of the commission agreed to the plan and before fall arrives some of the broken places will be put in good shape.

The matter came up for discussion when John Walker recommended that a new walk be laid on South Center street from the alley back of the Horton store to Cady street. The work has been badly broken and in some places is below grade. It is planned to establish a new grade for this walk.

The improvement has long been urged by residents of South Center street. When this work is completed it will about end the sidewalk construction for the present year, it was stated by one of the commissioners.

Miss Eilian Cassie, popular dancer of Scottish steps, has won places in two recent Scottish dance contests, one held at Port Stanley, Ontario, last week Wednesday, and the other at Bob-Lo on Tuesday. Over in the Canadian contest Miss Cassie was second winner and at Bob-Lo she won second and third honors. The young lady has won a large number of contests throughout the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Harger of the C. F. Smith store, are on a week's vacation trip.

Eileen Tickle is back from camp at Rose Center, looking fine and reporting a wonderful time.

NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, AUGUST 23, 1929

STOP LIGHTS

We usually stay at home on Sundays. It is seldom that we ever venture ten miles away from Northville on the first day of the week, but last Sunday we found occasion to drive over to Lansing for a few hours. It was the first time in several years that we have driven over Grand River on a Sunday. The amazing stream of automobiles going in both directions proved a surprise. We have been told and have heard much of Grand River traffic conditions on Sundays, but little did we realize that so many thousands and thousands of cars travel across the state.

Sunday was a beautiful day, cool and clear, and it is possible that might have had something to do with the great number of people out for a little spin in the refreshing August air.

As we swung off the Northville-Walled Lake road, Lansing bound, we joined the procession of westerly-bound cars. It was at Brighton where the machines were first stopped. A red light flashed just at the edge of town. Our car stopped with all the others. In a few seconds dozens of cars stood waiting for the red light to turn to green. Meanwhile the westerly-bound drivers looked in vain for cars to go or come from the road leading to Ann Arbor. There was not a machine that used the green light.

The procession proceeded downtown. There again a red light turned and scores of cars bound to or from Detroit, Grand Rapids and other places enroute were stopped. But not a single machine passed to the north or south. A streetcar went across the street at intersection. A woman and boy did, however, cross the street in traffic down about half a block to the west.

So it was all the way. Three stop lights in Howell, and not a machine or pedestrian that passed across Grand River to the north or south. But a traffic stop in Howell is not so bad because the street is wide and one is not confronted with a traffic jam such as existed in other places.

Over in Fowlerville one stop light was in service and in the town of Webberville there were two lights some 200 or 300 feet apart, serving two north and south by-ways that possibly do not have a half dozen machines a year pass over them. The Webberville situation is about the biggest farce in the country.

So it was going and coming—not a machine passed either to the north or south on any of the red lights between Novi and Lansing, except at Novi where the north and south bound traffic was large.

It would seem that there is some way the state highway department of public safety could remedy this obnoxious system.

If the folks over in Webberville who can't seem to forget that Grand River is not a place in which to pasture cows and let their chickens run to scatter for a dime in the roadway and the other towns along the way, insist on stopping traffic just to see it stop, then the state has a right to act.

Of course these incorporated places figure that their place in the government gives them certain rights and these rights must be asserted. That is about the only excuse our car find for the foolish use of traffic light. Of course, one must consider the fact that city shakers normally always find a group of up-state village officials ready and willing to bite on anything which looks new.

In our mind there is a way, and we believe it will stand the tests of the state constitution, the state can compel the use of traffic officers instead of traffic lights.

A traffic officer would stop traffic only when intersecting traffic required it and that would be about once a week on some of the by-ways now decorated with stop lights.

We do not wish to be misunderstood in this traffic question. We believe that every safeguard known should be thrown about the public, but to our mind there are more hazards created by the use of stop lights in some places than exists without them. We believe the state can compel these country cross-road towns to use regular traffic officers instead of traffic lights. It could be done on Grand River and all other main highways of the state would be materially aided and at least a part of the congestion now created by stop lights would be done away with.

We defy anyone to find anywhere in the state constitution a clause which will permit any town to create a barrier against public travel—and in it is what nine-tenths of the stop lights along Grand River constitute.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER...

By John Clarence Fank

WHY HIBERNATE?

ONE cannot be too fresh about fresh air. Reduced to its last analysis the physical requirements of the human body are few in number and easy to obtain. Air is one of them.

In winter, especially, people are more prone to be shy of this life-giving and life-sustaining commodity. On a very cold day one has but to observe the closed automobile windows, the crowded trolley cars and the lack of pedestrians to realize this fact.

In winter, especially, people are more prone to be shy of this life-giving and life-sustaining commodity. On a very cold day one has but to observe the closed automobile windows, the crowded trolley cars and the lack of pedestrians to realize this fact.

It is the fact that so many ignore. Bundled up almost to a smothering degree, Mr. Average Citizen quickly steps from his superheated house into the trolley or his automobile and transfers himself to a hot office with a feeling of achievement.

He has got the better of the old bog-year-cold! As a matter of fact, cold has got the better of him.

Whether was intended for this man his every day, winter as well as summer. And outside weather at that! Therefore, if within walk for distance of your office—walk it will pay you to take time to take time.

A walk of a mile or so in the keen, bracing air is worth many dollars to you in the bank.

True, winter sports are becoming more fashionable. But a sporting spirit about winter is yet generally lacking. And it is this that is sorely needed. Step up to winter take him by the hand, introduce yourself to him and become close friends.

Old Man Winter is anxious to help you, but you must make the first move and then keep on moving.

A simple habit, every day, sufficient ventilation in home and office proper weight clothing (which means avoiding extremes either way)—these are a few of the secrets of getting the most out of cold weather.

No better opportunity exists for the development of a keen brain and a well-developed blood stream and a robust constitution than in winter time. However, one will get out of winter only as much as he puts in. He must have no less.

So, if you get your share of the winter weather, remember John C. Fank.

My Favorite Stories

MYSTERY TO THE RICH MAN

A FEW years ago a gentleman who had acquired a million or so in other lines of endeavor took a party to his fortune and with it built a theater on Broadway. The theater was pretty far uptown, and New York men measured uptown, and the theater business was not what the new owner expected.

At the end of the second year as proprietor-manager he was standing at the door one afternoon just before the Saturday matinee performance began, talking to the late Paul West. Along came a leading dramatic critic, and he stopped for a minute's chat with the other two.

"Say, Harry," asked the owner, "what's the reason that I ain't making no money out of this here proposition? Here, go and put up a nice clean house and book a good show, and yet the crowd ain't coming."

"Well," diagnosed the critic, "I'll tell you, Jake; this is a new place and you mustn't be too big a hurry. Remember how long it took some of these other houses to get established. You'll have to build up your own clientele."

"He passed on and West went inside to see the show. When he came out at the end of the first act the millionaire was waiting for him and drew him aside.

"Paul," he demanded, "what was the name of that there thing Harry told me I'd have to build up here?"

"A clientele," said West.

"Sure, I thought I had it right," said the owner, "and now what I want to know is why them guys down at the building department gave me the laugh a while ago when I called 'em up and asked for a permit to build 'em."

PERSONAL INTERPRETATION

YEARS ago, when I was a reporter for a New York evening paper and covered trials at the criminal courts building, there was an elderly and very devout Irishman, called "Mac" for short, who had a job in part two of general sessions. It was his duty to keep order and to get us departed, on occasion, and sometimes to give us a sort of usher. But he particularly shone on those occasions when he was called upon to aid in taking the so-called "evidence" of a newly convicted criminal.

In the matter of certain routine business he was followed. The prisoner would be introduced at the bar and Mac would station himself along side and in a undertone put to him certain questions, and then call out the answers to the clerk, sitting fifteen feet away, who duly would record them on the back of the indictment. This ceremony was more or less automatic, since from long experience the old man knew exactly what facts regarding the prisoner's past life he must ascertain.

One day a youth of most forbidding appearance, who had been found guilty of attempted highway robbery, was brought up. Mac ranged up to him and in a respectful, confidential half-whisper asked him for his right name.

"Henry Smith," returned the youth, with a surly grimace out of the corner of his mouth.

"He says, 'Henry Smith,' Mr. Clerk," called out Mac. He turned again to the malefactor. "Born in the United States?"

"Sure, Brooklyn."

"Native-born, Mr. Clerk."

"Any religious instruction in your youth, young man?"

"No!" shortly.

"Protestant, Mr. Clerk."

Hogs thrive on alfalfa pasture and cause less injury to the stand than heavier livestock. The carrying capacity of an acre of alfalfa depends on the stand and the locality, but ordinarily an acre of good alfalfa in any part of the country will carry from eight to ten hogs weighing 100 pounds each with little danger of injury to the stand. In the East, where alfalfa is more easily injured by overgrazing, it is not advisable to carry as many

The Flapper

By James Lewistoy

She paints her lips a sunset shade,
This flapper young and charming
She calls a spade a blink blank spade
With frankness most alarming.
Her skirts will never chafe the knee,
She wears no hint of stocking.
"I get an awful kick," says she
When people gasp, "How shocking!"

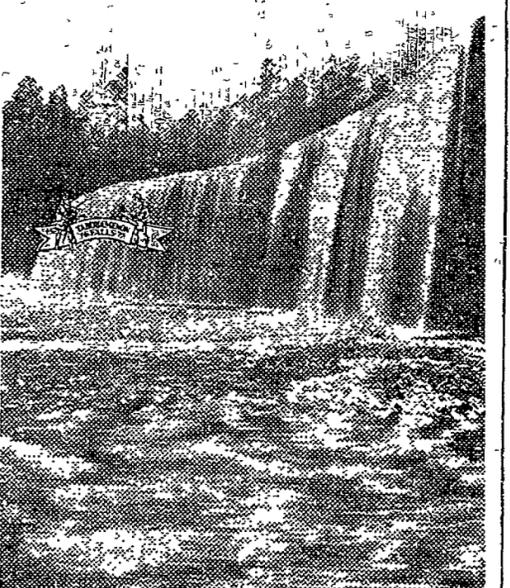

She's sweet sixteen if you should ask
A dazling, sparkling flapper!
With cigarette and pocket flask
The times conspire to trap her,
But I'll put up my house and home
Against a cookey's dinner
That (Bless her silly flapper ways!)
There's mostly goodness in her.

UNUSUAL TWIST IN STORY OF 'GIRL IN THE GLASS CAGE'

Girls pursued by men are usually hidden as far as possible from the gaze of males by their protectors. When George Kibbe Turner, the famous author, wrote his successful story "The Girl in the Glass Cage," he reversed this usual procedure and had a suspicious and crabbed old uncle place his beautiful niece in a cage of glass, the castles case of a movie theater that he might watch her constantly.

This unique situation is to be the basis for the plot of "The Girl in the Glass Cage," the motion picture adapted from the Turner story, and which comes to the Penniman Allen Theatre, Saturday, August 24.

An all-star cast will present this First National Picture, which was directed by Ralph Dawson.

Loretta Young, beautiful young First National actress, and Carroll George Stone and other favorites of the screen are others who are prominently cast in this dramatic story of life and love in a small town.

"The Girl in the Glass Cage" is said to be one of the most thrilling stories of the present season, and its coming will be awaited with special interest here.

EXTRAS STAGE FASHION SHOW IN 'FUGITIVES'

More than one hundred extras were used in the night club scene of "Fugitives," a new Fox Film. Hollywood, Los Angeles and Beverly Hills were carefully combed for them. Probably there are more beautiful girls in the scene than ever appeared in a similar scene before and all wear lavishly handsome gowns, hats, and being the latest fashions from Paris.

Among the extras were several beauty contest winners, including Ada Williams, international victor at Galveston, Tex., a year ago and Betty Collins, recently signed by Fox Films. Also, there were several men who have been prominent on both the stage and screen, for example, Edgar Sherrod, character actor, who played a minister in more than two hundred productions; Bill Dagwell, a director of big-budgeted pictures; and Guy who has played a variety of characters; partly Arthur Arlington, a seasoned screen character man, and William Moore, recently on the stage in London.

The scene is dominated by Madge Bellamy, the star, and ten well-dressed dancing girls together with Michael and Vida who do a whirlwind gyrus dance.

Miss Bellamy plays the part of a cabaret singer who is found guilty of murder on circumstantial evidence. Assisted by a friend, she escapes and goes into exile, after which the real murderer can confess and the overzealous district attorney who convicted her determines to right the wrong for which he feels himself responsible.

"Fugitives" is an adaptation of the Richard Harding Davis story, "Exiles" by Vernon Smith Rowland Brown and John Stone made the adaptation, and William Beaudine directed the picture.

Miss Bellamy's support includes Don Terry, Arthur Stone, Earle Foxe, Lumsden Hare, Matthew Betz, Nap Ward, Jean Laverty and Edith Yorke.

"Fugitives" will be at the Penniman Allen Theatre Sunday, August 25.

MACLEAN SEEMS IMMUNE TO CAUSTIC CRITICISM

There are only a few stars on the silver screen who are possessed of a seeming immunity from unfavorable criticism. One of these is Douglas MacLean, gifted young man who has established a tremendous following with his roles of well-meaning youths who get into a peck of humorous trouble but emerge right-side up at the finish.

While others come in for an occasional "razing" from the gentlemen of the press who size up such things for the dear reading public, MacLean comes in most of the time for favorable and enthusiastic appreciation.

His film career dates back to those successful light comedies such as "Twenty-three and a Half Hours Leave," "Mary's Ankles" and others. A little later he went in for farce and light comedy, such as "The Hottentot," "Ging Up," "Never Say Die" and a long string of catchy pictures.

More recently he appeared in "Let It Rain" and "Soft Cushions," for Paramount, and still under the Paramount banner he made "The Carousing Kid" under the general supervision of that master of comedy productions, Al Christie, and "Divorce Made Easy," another comedy confection from the studios of Mr. Christie.

"Divorce Made Easy" is far and away the greatest out-and-out farce MacLean has ever starred in. It is one long laugh-test from start to finish. Abundant comedy is furnished by the supporting players also—Marie Prevost, Johnny Arthur, Dot Farley, Frances Lee and Jack Duddy. "Divorce Made Easy" comes to the Penniman Allen Theatre, Wednesday, August 28th.

Flavor of First Wife's

Cooking Found at Last

A middle-aged spinster married a widower who had lost his first wife after a marriage of 15 years. The spinster who lived for years with her aged mother was brought up in the spirit of immaculate housekeeping. An old-fashioned housekeeper, the mother excelled in cooking and her daughter kept fairly well in her footsteps.

Yet, despite her efforts and her skill in culinary arts, the new bride never succeeded in quite satisfying her husband.

"It's fine, Sadie," he told her often, "but there is just something amiss. My poor Mary could give the food a flavor I never find anywhere else. I don't know just how she did it."

Then came a day when housecleaning kept Sadie on her toes all day. In a rush to have everything clean and in order by the time her hubby arrived, she forgot to look after the meal. When she remembered, it was too late. There was a burned meal.

As he sat at the table, her husband tasted the food. But how surprised was she when he exclaimed: "Now, Sadie, that's really fine. It has that delightful flavor which distinguished Mary's cooking." Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Snakes Not Aggressive, Called Lazy and Timid

"Contrary to lore, snakes do not attack humans wantonly," reads an article in the news magazine Time.

"They are lazy and timid and do not strike unless hurt or threatened with hurt," the article continues.

Exceptions are the African mamba, the Malayan king, the bushmaster of the tropics, and casevill, a rattler of Central America. A cochrane will sometimes follow a man. But it is so quarrelsome, and will speed away if threatened.

Other facts about snakes are given in Time as follows: "Identifying poisonous snakes is easy. Most of them belong to the pit-viper family. They have a deep depression between the eye and nostril. Heads are flat and triangular. Necks thin. Bodies stout. Tails short, eyes with elliptical pupils like a cat's. Fangs fold back against the roof of the mouth. A single row of scales runs along the belly. The biggest United States snake is the eastern diamond-back rattler, which grows to a size feet." Philadelphia Inquirer.

When Teeth Were Weapons

Most of us, from our earliest days, are at one's grave troubled by our teeth. If was apt at work so.

The jawbone of the Heidelberg man, who walked the earth about 50,000 years ago, is placed alongside that of modern man. We realize that our ancestors, as the Germans call them, are but of our own kind.

At the jawbones of still more ancient people than the Heidelberg race were even more formidable, as they were provided with projecting teeth, which, without which doubt were used in fighting and in other, mainly sports of those days.

Value of Mental Training

Mental training, both in reading and in special study, does much to keep the individual happy, wide-awake and healthy. Much of the trouble in the world comes from worry; if a man or woman is busy with his own interests and retains the ambitions of his earliest years his chance of a happy, profitable life seem greater.

The plight of the unhappy individual who never reads or who has no special hobbies is not a pleasant one. The practice of mental training, of utilizing the brain through later years, makes a richer, fuller life—Thrill Magazine.

The Reason

Bob is a precocious youngster in the second grade of one of the North side schools of Indianapolis. He had been seated near a small girl of his acquaintance with whom the teacher had frequently caught him whispering. One day the teacher moved Bob to another seat. Bob's mother, hearing of the change, asked the reason. At first Bob feigned ignorance. The mother persisted. "Well, there just had to be a reason," whereupon Bob replied, "Well, I guess the seat was uncomfortable." Indianapolis News.

To Strengthen Eyes

Eye exercise to strengthen the muscles are advised by certain physicians. These should be done before breakfast. Keep the head still and roll the eyes upwards as far as possible, then right downwards with a steady and jerky motion. Continue rolling the eyes right, then left. Now lift them upwards and inwards, and finally downwards and inwards, and do this five times at first and gradually increase to twelve a day.

Concrete Runs Outside Brooder House, Are New

Concrete runs outside of the brooder house are a comparatively new addition to poultry farm equipment, but are coming into use because of several advantages.

Provide Natural Shade for All Young Poultry

An ideal range will provide natural shade where the young birds may find protection from the hot summer sun. Many poultry flocks do not have this natural protection, say poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State college.

POULTRY HINTS

Early-hatched, pullets produce fall and winter eggs. Overcrowding in the poultry house discourages production of eggs. Sitting hens should be dusted with sodium fluoride before being put on the nest.

As many farmers have found, profits with poultry can easily be increased by better feed and care.

A small poultry flock properly fed and cared for is more profitable than a large flock given indifferent care.

Protein is a constituent of feeding stuff which is used by chickens for building muscles and tissues, in addition to the production of eggs.

Early feathering and early growing means early maturity. Early maturity means early profits. Always select the cockerels that feather first and then select from them the one that grows first.

Read the chart comparing today's Oakland All-American Six with twenty other leading medium-priced cars.

Thirteen of these cars are underpriced than Oakland. Yet despite this fact, in 23 individual comparisons Oakland is definitely superior on 151 or 73 per cent. And the complete car, all combined, is able to equal Oakland on only 32 or 14.50 percent.

Let us show you the detailed results of these comparisons—all starting to substantiate the statement that today's Oakland All-American is America's finest medium-priced automobile.

What these features mean to you

How Oakland compares with the field

Oakland's 228 cubic inch piston displacement is greater than 12 of the 20 cars in its price field. Of the 3 remaining cars, 7 are higher priced than Oakland.

Only Oakland and two other cars in the field offer bodies by Fisher. And one of the two's nearly $100 higher in price than Oakland. Of the 18 cars which have less-known bodies, 11 are priced above the All-American Six.

Only one car as low-priced as Oakland has a wheelbase as long as Oakland's, which is 117 inches. That car requires a turning circle to the left of 42 feet as compared with Oakland's 36 feet. Six higher-priced cars have shorter wheelbases.

Rapid Progress Being Made on Henry Ford's Museum Just Outside Dearborn

Photograph showing progress of Independence Hall and steel structural work for wings. Foundation piers for other sections of museum may be seen in the foreground.

By William Klemmer
Editor of The Dearborn Press

Construction work on the first units of the new Ford Museum is progressing with such rapidity that those who have but a little idea of the gigantic program that is under way. Residents of the City of Dearborn have noted the steel structures, masonry and concrete work that have been formulated the first sections of the museum.

Towering over the center of the activity on the Ford property east of Oakwood boulevard, may be seen the steel framework of the cupola of the Independence Hall. This building will be in the center of the vast museum building, and according to officials of the Ford Motor Co., this building and two adjacent wings will be completed for the ceremonies, Oct. 21st, when the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of the incandescent bulb by Thomas Edison.

The accompanying picture taken a few days ago gives an idea of the amount of work that has already been completed in the construction program. The Independence Hall building will be an exact replica of the building standing in Philadelphia except in a few minor details where modern construction demands changes.

In the belt will hang a bell of similar cast to the famous liberty bell, and in one corner of the building will be a cement column, in which Thomas Edison inscribed his name, on September 27, 1879, and imbedded the spade used by Luther Burbank. The footprints of the famous electrical wizard are also imbedded in the cement.

According to the plans of officials of the company there will be two wings completed and in use for the ceremonies, October 21. Then will start the huge program of building the museum itself. The museum group will consist, first of five administration buildings which, connected by arcades, form an interesting facade. This facade is over seven hundred feet in length, and back of it is the secondary group of buildings consisting of school auditorium, and five connecting arcades, to the museum itself, a single building eight hundred feet in length by four hundred and fifty feet in depth.

The main museum building will be of similar exterior design to that of the administration building facing Oakwood boulevard. The interior of the building consists of one great space, interrupted only by columns supporting the roof. This museum building has been planned of such size that the major portion of the collection will be readily housed.

Adjacent to the museum will be the typical old village of American history. The village will have its town hall and commons where the villagers will meet. Around the commons will be found the general store, a typical store of early history brought from Waterford, Mich., the tavern, or in this case the old Clinton Inn, a typical roadside tavern that was used as far back as 1830.

A small brick church with tall spire, built of bricks from the home of Mrs. Clara Ford will be used by all denominations and sects for religious services.

Alongside the Michigan Central railroad has been rebuilt the old Smith's Creek station of the Grand Trunk R. R. This is the station where Mr. Edison was thrown off the train by an irate conductor because his chemicals caused a fire. A special sidetrack to the station has been provided and it is expected that the scene of many years ago will be re-enacted with Mr. Edison.

One of the exceptionally interesting portions of the village will be the part occupied by the original Edison laboratories, from Menlo Park in every detail even including the trees and shrubs.

In the laboratory, a two-story clapboard building, Mr. Yale, a former employee of Mr. Edison in the building has been busy for some time assisting with the work of installing the equipment. Mr. Yale is also the brick mason's shop and the general office, all in place in the "new" Menlo Park. Nearby is the boarding house for Mrs. Sarah Jordan which was the first house illuminated by incandescent lamps. It was in this house only a short time ago that the first child was born in the new village, to Mr. and Mrs. J. Rumberstone. In this same home, a little girl, who many years ago helped Mrs. Jordan with the work, will again reside.

The entire lawn was removed from the Menlo Park property and every tree and shrub has been replanted in Dearborn as it was in its original position.

Next to the Jordan house is Edison's Fort Meyer laboratory. Mr. Ford has had six inches of the top dirt from Menlo Park brought to Dearborn to be placed about the original buildings.

Near the Edison group of buildings is the original office of Luther Burbank, brought from Santa Rosa, California, and about the building will be the garden and flowers so familiar to the famous horticulturist.

The River Rouge is to be dredged and made navigable for a small boat. Nearby will be a natural bird arboretum.

And so again, on October 21, the eyes of the nation will focus on Dearborn. The plans for the celebration in honor of the 50th anniversary of the incandescent bulb have not as yet been announced in detail, but it is obvious from the preparations being made that it will be one of the greatest features of the year. President Hoover has been invited and is expected to be here on that date. Following the celebration will come an even greater program of work to complete the museum.

With the completion of the museum building will come the completion of one of the greatest educational institutions in the world.

PHONE EMPLOYEE HONORED FOR AID GIVEN TO INJURED

JAMES FISCHER RECEIVES UNUSUAL DISTINCTION FOR NOVI WRECK AID

On Wednesday evening, August 14th, approximately one hundred of the employees of the Michigan Bell Telephone company gathered in the Joe Parker cafe in Ann Arbor to participate in the festivities attendant on the presentation of a Theodore N. Vail medal to James Fischer, construction foreman for the company, in recognition of his efforts which are officially credited with having saved a life.

Ann Arbor is the district headquarters of the company in which Northville is included. Manager R. E. Crowe advised.

H. G. Iler, district plant superintendent, in his capacity as chairman of the assembly, called the meeting together at 7:30, and following a brief outline by him of what the program would consist of, it was opened with selections by an orchestra.

To Division Plant Superintendent R. J. McElroy of Grand Rapids fell the pleasant mission of presenting the medal to Mr. Fischer. Mr. McElroy not only directed the marks of high commendation to Mr. Fischer, the subject of the special honors, but to the assemblage of telephone workers he pointed out that not only had the many of such incidents as these that have happened since the company organized and perfected its first aid movement, proved conclusively to the company officials the great value of it, but that each succeeding incident of the kind lent specific emphasis to that proof.

Mr. Fischer was the recipient of warm congratulations from his co-workers on his achievement.

J. J. Kelly, district special agent of Ann Arbor, gave a talk on the certainty of Europe, which seemed especially fitting for the occasion.

The particular feat for which Mr. Fischer received this signal honor, occurred on February 8, 1928, on Grand River near Novi. Mr. Fischer and his crew were engaged at the time in taking down a telephone lead in that vicinity, when he heard a crash some distance behind him. Turning about, he saw that two automobiles had come together head-on. Without hesitating, he rushed to the spot and finding the driver of one of the cars badly hurt, he immediately jumped into his seat, with a stream of blood spurting from a wound in the forehead, and at once that artery had been severed. Mr. Fischer immediately placing his hands on the pressure points of the wounded man's head, ordered one of his crew to bring the crew's first aid kit. Then with the assistance of one of the crew, Earl Thomas, who kept his hands on the man's head to check the flow of blood, Mr. Fischer applied compresses and bandages on him.

Two ladies who were in the party rushed quickly into the car, but were also administered to by Mr. Fischer and his assistants, following which the telephone men removed them to a nearby house. It was approximately two hours after the accident when a doctor arrived.

Look over the prices in the box at the left. Hard to believe, when you remember they apply on Goodrich Tires... But they're true!

Consider what it means... New tires right in the middle of the summer... at late-season prices. Good rubber to replace beginning-to-go casings in time for your summer trip. Goodrich quality... famous since tires were first made... at the cost of ordinary tires.

Will you be in tomorrow?

TOUGH LUCK! He thought he could get a few more hundred miles out of that front tire. Oh, yes, he'd buy a new one in time, but why buy so soon? And then... hurrying back from the country to catch an evening train... BANG! Flat tire... How much better off he would have been if he'd only thrown away those last, few expensive miles!

Konjola Came As A Blessing Into My Life

Suffered from Nervous Fits—All Run Down—New Medicine Scored Fine Victory

MRS. ANNA BUCK

"I was sick, wornout and run-down all over," said Mrs. Anna Buck, 89 West Forest street, Detroit, Mich. "I was intensely nervous, had frequent dizzy spells sharp pains across the back, had to get up time after time every night, and my digestion was just about everything it should not be. My system was filled with poison. 'Konjola' came as a blessing into my life. Six bottles in six weeks made a new person of me. I can eat and digest any food, gone are the terrible neuritis and the kidney pains across my back. I do not have to get up any more at night, and my general health has improved so that I feel as though I never had a sick day in my life. 'Konjola' is simply marvelous."

'Konjola' is sold in Northville, at the Northville Drug Company and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section—Adv.

Gothic Leader Interred Under Calabrian River

Most legends have their buried treasure stories. Cosenza, chief city of Calabria, has one of the oldest and best, according to a writer in the Washington Star. It is at Cosenza that Alaric, first Gothic leader to conquer Rome, was buried along with priceless treasures captured in Rome. Laden with the riches of the dying empire, Alaric and his barbarian hosts marched south to conquer Africa and the grain which abounded there. In Calabria Alaric died of the fever. His followers buried his treasure with him in the fashions of the day, but they made sure that the dead chief's repose would not be disturbed, either by avenging enemies or covetous treasure hunters. They diverted the course of the river Busento and buried Alaric far below the river bed. Then they restored the river to its channel. For security's sake they put to death every one of the prisoners who had helped bury Alaric, and marched on. The grave has never been discovered, though Alaric died 1,500 years ago. Legend has it that the grave lies near the confluence of the Crati and the Busento rivers at Cosenza. When I saw this spot it was mostly a dry grass bed with a narrow stream at which the village women washed their clothes. During the rainy season it is a large river. Its secret holds the same fascination for Calabria that the Nemi galleys hold for Romans.

First Inn Built in 1634

The earliest known public inn in this country was licensed by the General Court of Massachusetts in 1634. Inns increased rapidly from that time on. About 1670 Cotton Mather, who objected strenuously to the drinking and smoking in places of public entertainment declared that every other house in Boston was a tavern.—G. S. 1, 2, c.

The Secret of Success

The secret of success is not more than doing what you do well, and doing well what you do. Without thought of the result it comes, at all, it will come because it is deserved, not because it is sought after; and because there will be no misgivings—no disappointment—no feverish, exhausting excitement.—Longfellow.

Easy to Remove Dents

To remove slight dents in wood place moist blotting paper over the dent and then apply heat by placing a warm iron on the blotter. The heat and the moisture cause the fibers of wood to swell and the dent fills up.

Always in Demand

Doctor Cadman compares praise to kisses to the licking of salt by cattle. He might have added that the cattle always come back for more.—Toledo Blade

Catherine Loren, spent a couple of days last week with friends at Witmore Lake. A rough survey of the farm woods might be worth while at this time of year. Take stock and determine what you have now, and what you should have. By far the greater number of farm woodlots are in need of improvement. Are poor trees with no local market in the majority and crowding out the better ones? Are some of the trees overmature—going back from tops and decay faster than they are growing? Do some of the trees show evidence of attack by insects or disease? Are there open places that ought to be planted up? Is there idle land, now contributing nothing that ought to be growing trees? Are there trunks where growth is slow because the trees are overcrowded? If you get a general idea of the condition of your woods now you can plan some ways to good advantage after the fall crops are in.

EDWARD N. HINES TELLS HISTORY OF SEVEN MILE ROAD

Official Writes Most Interesting Article on Highways

By Edward N. Hines, County Road Commissioner.

The history of the Seven Mile road from a distance of five miles west from Farmington road to the Northville road has been completed and after the necessary curing period has elapsed it will be open to traffic.

The former width of the old concrete was 18 feet and 11 feet of additional concrete has been placed on each side, bringing this road up to our ultimate minimum width of 40 feet of concrete.

The Seven Mile road is the longest continuous paved county road in Wayne county extending approximately 32 miles west from Jefferson avenue at Lake St. Clair to the Northville road.

When originally constructed, many sections were only 12 feet wide, additional widths of concrete being added some years later.

West of Livernois road, the Seven Mile road was so narrow and growing up with trees and brush for several miles, that there was insufficient room for two vehicles to pass.

In 1911, traffic counts showed as many as seven vehicles per day passing a given point. The sand was so deep that the motor car of the period could not get through. When it was first proposed to concrete the Seven Mile road, there was a considerable public opinion that it was not a logical road to improve on the theory that it was such a bad road. However, as it was the only existing road that was closed up across the northern part of the county, the judgment of the county road commission was allowed to stand.

A mile section of the Seven Mile road also has the distinction of being the first mile of concrete road ever constructed on which a mechanical device was utilized to save and finish the surface.

The use of a mechanical device is standard practice wherever concrete roads are built.

The section on Seven Mile road which has just been widened was completed in 1916, and a celebration was staged at Northville under the title of Northville on the Map.

Day. Moving pictures were taken, seven bands furnished music and speeches were made by former Governor Groesbeck and other celebrities.

Later on I received a letter from a homesick Northville "rough boy" in France telling me that he had gotten leave to go to Paris and had dropped into a movie show where of the celebration of Northville on the Map day and that he had recognized dozens of his fellow townsmen and townswomen.

He said that he spent the entire day in the movie house and was not ashamed to confess that he had shed tears freely.

When Seven Mile road was first taken over as a county road, there was a deep wide county ditch along the side, paralleling the road east from Livernois and emptying into Lake St. Clair.

In the spring of the year on long stretches, the water in this county ditch was seven or eight feet deep and twelve feet wide, and had all the appearance of a swift, flowing river.

Pickeral would work their way up this county ditch from Lake St. Clair to spawn and I have seen hundreds of these fish from 18 to 30 inches long caught at the junction of Woodward avenue and Seven Mile road.

The method used was to shoot a gun into the water, which had the effect of stunning the fish, causing the fish to float on the surface. When trying to reach the spawning beds, the pickeral could not be lured to take a baited hook.

In conjunction with the widening of Seven Mile road, the Northville road has also been widened into the village of Northville, the alignment changed across the river Rouge, eliminating two right angle turns over a narrow bridge. The old bridge is supplemented with a new concrete culvert and long easy curve through the flats and across the Northville park.

A new 20-foot concrete road, one mile long has been built and opened to traffic making a connection with the Base Line road.

For the fourth time we are changing the channel of the River Rouge to facilitate, safeguard or cheapen the construction costs of a road, bridge or grade separation.

This interesting engineering project is being carried out in preparation for the paving of the Schoolcraft-204-foot superhighway just west of Outer Drive.

A new river bed is being dug out for the Rouge, river 200 feet south of the existing channel. When completed, the waters of the Rouge will be diverted to the new channel and the old channel filled up. Over 60,000 cubic yards of earth will have to be moved to complete this improvement.

because the present channel of the Rouge runs parallel to and along the new, wider right-of-way of the 204-foot Schoolcraft superhighway for such a distance as to make it impractical to bridge the stream.

Rapid progress is being made and we expect to complete this portion of the project on or before September 1st.

Schoolcraft road is one of the twenty-one 204-foot superhighways in the master plan of superhighways.

Approximately nine miles of the Schoolcraft superhighway is to be improved west of the Outer Drive as soon as the 204-foot width of right-of-way is acquired. Two 20-foot concrete roadways will be built as the initial development, with a parking strip on the center.

When traffic condition warrant, two additional twenty-foot strips of concrete will be constructed.

Schoolcraft 204-foot superhighway is being built under a Covert road petition whereby a district is set up and the cost apportioned according to benefits upon the district, the township and the county as a whole.

When year serial bonds are issued which will pay the cost. The county of Wayne is paying 60% of the cost on this project.

East of the Outer Drive, one mile of Schoolcraft road is under construction within the city limits.

When acquiring wider widths of right-of-way on our master plan and wider section line roads, time on the side of the public.

Through these developments, that portion of the public using our highways is better, more speedily and safely served through the use of the increased width, the public treasury is not ridged as much of the mileage of wider widths of right-of-way is acquired by dedication, and the abutting and adjacent property holder has his property values materially increased, all of which makes a happy combination. Day in and day out wider widths of right-of-way are being acquired by education, purchase and condemnation.

During the past week 1536 feet of frontage was acquired. This frontage is located on Base Line, Fort, Michigan and Schoolcraft 204-foot superhighways and Allen and Dix section line roads and the 150-foot Outer Drive.

ASKS INKSTER TO PAY SOME $60,000 ENGINEERING FEE

Detroit Thinks Cross-Roads to South is a Gold Mine

Believe it or not, George Jerome of Dearborn is most optimistic concerning the future of the village of Inkster. O. L. Smith of Dearborn, present attorney of Inkster, who formerly was prosecutor in the famous Arthur Rich case and later was Eastern Michigan district attorney, is a tough politician in economics. For Jerome is sure that the council of that village pay him the sum of $68,725 as commissions, due on estimated improvements to be installed under an agreement with the first village fathers.

When the village of Inkster was first incorporated, Mr. Jerome was engaged as village engineer. The agreement entered into was that George should receive a five per cent commission on all public improvements for his work in preparing plans and specifications and making a number of drawings and doing considerable engineering work, but the public improvements did not materialize.

Early this spring a new election was held, and there was a change, at least in part of the administration of Inkster. Following several council meetings, at which appointments for the ensuing two years were held up, Mason L. Brown of Detroit, was finally appointed village engineer. George Jerome was then asked to return to the council the maps he had made and to render a bill for services.

The latter part of last week the bill for services was received and to the surprise of all it amounted to more money than the village had ever had on hand at one time. The council seem to admire the nerve of the former engineer in asking for $68,725, but believe his enthusiasm got the better of his judgment in that Inkster is not only a beggling, but is also short on cash.

Anyhow the village council has an excellent attorney to rely upon and to O. L. Smith they have passed this engineering feat by paying a commission for estimated improvements, which many admit Inkster should have at this time, but in reality do not exist.

CLINCH CROCKER WEDS DETROIT GIRL

The First Methodist Church of Royal Oak was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday evening when Miss Doris Lee Campbell of that place, became the bride of Clinch N. Crocker, son of Mrs. Mabel Crocker, of Detroit, who has been residing in Northville for the past two years. He is associated with the Stinson Aircraft corporation in an important position, and retained his residence here after the company moved to Warren.

The church was decorated for the occasion with ferns, gladioli and candelabra. The nuptial service was read by the Rev. Dr. Eugene Miles Moore, who was assisted by the Rev. Dr. Thomas Olson, of Baltimore, Md.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a bridal robe of ivory satin fashioned with a sleeveless bodice and long skirt of unweave hemline. The gown was simply trimmed with lace, pointed lace and seed pearls. Her tulle veil was held in place with a band of real lace and clusters of orange blossoms, a large shower bouquet of white Killarney roses and lilies of the valley completed her costume.

Mrs. Stanley Burton of Detroit, served her sister, as matron of honor. Her frock was of yellow chiffon made with a sleeveless bodice and a long flounced skirt. They Knew What They Wanted

Several years ago a play with this title was popular. A tale it told, of life in the vineyards of California—and how the members of a little household there solved their problem of domestic happiness because they had the good fortune to know what they wanted.

Today successful housewives everywhere are solving the problems of housekeeping—simply, easily, happily—by knowing what they want before they start out to buy. And knowing what they want isn't a matter of good fortune. It's a matter of foresight and forethought.

They read the advertisements in the Record—regularly, thoroughly! They save hours of shopping time by having their minds made up before they begin to buy. They know quality brands, comparative values, dependable merchandise. They don't waste time and risk money in investigating "unknowns" and "just-as-goods."

When a merchant places himself on record in the printed page, he is forced to guarantee you consistent quality and service—or the disapproval of the buyer quickly forces him out of the market. Advertised goods are reliable. Read the advertisements. Know what you want before you spend a cent.

Casterline Service Station

Foot of Main Street Northville

Every day, for twenty-four hours, Goodyear's tire-testing cars race along the roadways of America.

Overloaded, steaming, crowding the speedometer from dawn to dusk, they cover, concrete and gravel, hill and dale. Each car often piles up as much as 800 miles a day.

Some of them are big cars, some small; some cruise in Ohio, some in Florida, some in Arizona and New Mexico, some on the Pacific coast. Altogether they comprise the largest tire-testing fleet in the world, and they're kept on the run in sunshine and storm the whole year through.

This ceaseless and unmerciful testing, this question 365 days long, is the kind of scrutiny Goodyear Tires must survive before they are offered to the public.

Every improvement in compound, every advance in construction, must run this gauntlet successfully before it is incorporated in production.

Inspection to insure conformity of quality in itself is not enough; even this inspection is subject to check in the harsh laboratory of the road.

As a consequence Goodyear quality is a definite and dependable thing—so outstanding—as to support the largest tire business in the world.

When you buy a tire, ask yourself if it has this background—this insurance of brilliant and economical performance that is a part of every Goodyear Tire.

We will demonstrate to you the superior traction of Goodyear Treads and the greater vitality in Supertwist Cord.

STATE FAIR TO BE DIFFERENT THIS YEAR SAYS BOARD

Effort Being Made to Put on a Better Program Than Ever Before

Trees that grow in a second and in a minute—palm fronds and ferns—will be a part of the spectacular display to be staged nightly at the Michigan State Fair, September 15 to 21.

It will be the first time this type of fireworks will be seen in this part of the country. They will be one of the main events of the mighty grandstand show to be made up of the Wild West rodeo, the type made famous at Pendleton, Oregon; Cheyenne, Wyoming, and Calgary, Alberta, as well as the acts, and a concert by Al Sledge, band in cowboy costume. The renowned 91st Highlanders "Kiltie" band of Canada will be heard each evening at the horse show in the coliseum.

The palm trees seen in the display are "jeweled palms." Huge bombshells, exploding high in the air, release lines of green color which look like fronds of palm trees. Along the fronds and at their tips are tiny, brightly colored globes which give the trees a gem-studded appearance.

The "Photographer's Nightmare" is another mystifying effect. A huge shell releases more than 5,000 tiny, particle-like brilliant and white, which flash intermittently, each like the bright illumination of a flashlight charge; and lighting up the firing ground and the entire surroundings.

Other unusual effects are "The Flight of the Glow Worms

Up of thousands of tiny globes that flash on and off in the air like fireflies; the "Screaming Geysers" producing showers of steaming silver color belched into the air with brilliant fiery stars of many colors and sizes that chase each other about the sky and fall gracefully to the ground; and "Aerial Searchlights," duplicates of those used to light "No Man's Land" during the war.

The most awe-inspiring said to be the display, The Union Screen, an immense battery of mammoth golden showers cascading in the air.

The first that the early-day cowboys followed with its hazardous work and equally dangerous games will be listed again, with no decrease in its thrills, in the rodeo which will be the outstanding entertainment attraction at the Michigan State Fair, September 15 to 21.

The rodeo will be the first of its type to be seen in this section of the country. Performances will be given each afternoon and evening. It will be on a plane with those that have become famous as yearly events at Calgary, Cheyenne and Pendleton. A large number of cowboys, cowgirls and Indians will take part. Many of the men riders are champions, following years of competition. All are veterans of the old cattle days.

A number of the cowgirls are world champions in their own right.

Three of the main events—bronco busting, steer bull-dogging and the chuck wagon races, have never been seen in this section in the fashion in which they have actually occurred as part of the work, danger and play on the cattle ranches. The broncos used in the bucking and wagon racing have never been tamed to harness, and the steers used in the bull-dogging are Brahmas, a cross between the Texas

WORLD LIKES TO WORSHIP LEADER

Man must govern the kingdom of his mind," said Rev. William Richards to the Sunday morning congregation at the Methodist church in presenting the subject, Mr. Richards stated that men are prone to worship men of genius and forget that it is God who gave them their peculiar power.

Spakespeare, Handel, Angelo, Wien and Napoleon have been cited as examples of creative genius which were each a combination of forces never before given to the world.

It is a great thing," said Mr. Richards, "to combine letters and words so they will give one vivid ideas to form harmonies that are beautiful to the ear, to mix oil and colors to portray great paintings, to match wood and stone in elaborate buildings and to plan intricate campaigns for conquering opposing forces, but the greatest genius displayed by those who shape their thoughts to love and purity and good will continually. This is the spiritual life of which Christ was the supreme example. He came into human life at Bethlehem and is slowly but surely winning his way into the lives of the world."

COLEMAN'S CIRCUS TO BE HERE TODAY

The Coleman's Circus which exhibits here today (Friday, August 23rd) this season presents for the first time in 17 years the original and famous KIT CARSON (himself).

Kit Carson is the last of the old scouts and is making a farewell tour this season with Coleman's circus. He desires before he retires from public life to visit every community and desires to meet as many people as possible away from the busy cities where he has appeared many times.

Besides this wonderful man, Coleman's circus presents for you this season, Virginia, the trained elephant; bears, track dogs, intelligent ponies and Kentucky Prince, the world's greatest dancing horse. The acrobats with Coleman are the famous Smiley Troupe, Yofea Troupe of Acrobats, Mlle. De Vall, lion-jawed, "Freaker," the man who swings from the clouds, and many other acts of the highest standards in the circus world.

The show opens its performance with a fantastic array of stunts from all parts of the world in beautiful costumes. There are all kinds of clowns with Coleman's circus this season and these funny fellows include the Famous "Freaker," the man who swings from the clouds, and Sherman, the giraffe and several others equally as famous.

There will be a glittering array of beautifully dressed ladies in the parade which occurs daily, besides elephants, horses, dogs, ponies and cages of wild and rare animals. Show grounds in Oakwood subdivision.

House of the Future, as Architect Sees It

The house of the future may be seen as a building designed without windows except perhaps a few small ones for the purpose of observing the visitor at the door or determining the state of the weather.

The large wall space will be utilized for architecture as a means of expressing a new type of architectural beauty. Within, we shall have all the comforts we now possess plus others undreamed of.

There will be illuminations containing a healthy percentage of ultraviolet light and there will be a ventilating system supplying fresh, warmed, or cooled air to all parts of the home. Quiet will prevail, no matter how noisy the street may be.

The smoky atmosphere of our cities does immense damage to textiles, furniture and all the trimmings and trappings of the home. The air circulated by the ventilating system, can pass as easily and readily be made free from dust and germs and properly humidified at the same time. The home will become free of the accidental variations of the weather. Albert Parsons Sacks.

Book Collection Shows

Printer's Art at Best. Among the countless millions of books on the shelves of the library of the British Museum, 200 volumes considered the acme of the printer's art. They form an exhibition of books illustrating the most beautiful and expensive British and foreign printing during the last ten years. Centuries of Chinese manuscripts and illustrated books from the monasteries of medieval Europe are exhibited in the same room as these masterpieces of post-war printing which attracted the attention of printers whose names are famous among book collectors in the two hemispheres. Books from the leading presses of England, Scotland, the United States, France, Germany, Holland, Spain, Italy, Poland and Belgium are included in the collection. They have all been printed within the last ten years, and experts are unanimous that the art of the printer has greatly improved since the opening of the Twentieth century.

In the Same Boat

Two friends met one day and began to discuss the various events which had taken place in their lives since last they met—a year ago.

"I've not done anything much at my job," said one, "I took a job as a groom, and I've not had a minute's peace since!—on the go, day and night, and ordered about."

"That's just how I've been treated," broke in the other.

"You!" said the first, surprised. "How can you be putting up with my sort of life?—you never took on as a groom?"

"I did," said the other gloomily. "I took on as a bridegroom!"

Mysterious Crows

Crows which talk have been found near Weeden in Natal. Their remarks are libelous. They say to the natives of the district: "There will be no rain; you have killed your chief." They have started a first-class scandal about the death of "Kwazintwayo," once chief of the Mpondo, who died of dropsy. The natives are flocking from all the surrounding districts to hear them. The key to the mystery, suggests a Natal paper, is the fact that the crows only speak when a certain head hot is present. There is nothing to prove that they have been corrupted by a Maritzburg parrot.

Peep at Valencia

The city of Valencia is on that wonderful bit of Spanish Mediterranean coast where the climate is so much more certain than that of the Italian Riviera or the French Cote d'Azur. It is curious that so many places in this district should be associated with "dessert." Valencia and Malaga raisins, Denia oranges, Barcelona nuts—they are all familiar to us. And Tarragona supplies a wine which does duty on many a British dinner table for port.

Cruel

Johnson never dared ask anyone to his home. His wife was unpopular with visitors.

"Aren't you going to ask your friend Tompkins and his fiancée to our home?" she asked one evening.

"Not much," replied the husband, who preferred to entertain his friends at restaurants.

"You dislike him, don't you?" was Mrs. Johnson's next query.

"A little," answered the husband, "but not enough for that."

One Thing Man Can't Make

Doctors in a Nova Scotia city removed the heart from a cat. In its place they put a rubber heart, electrically operated. The artificial heart kept up the blood circulation for several days during which time the cat remained alive. Of course the doctors could make a rubber heart work for a time. But a natural heart of cat or man, is an engine that human genius can never duplicate or approximate.—Capper's Weekly.

Going Too Far

The strings have been taken out of string beans and the warts have been educated off pickles and now Professor Hulston of the Illinois College of Agriculture threatens us with an odorless onion.—Farm and Fireside.

Local News

John Marlow was arrested last Saturday by Chief of Police William Saxford for Wayne officers. He is wanted in that place on a serious charge, which he denies.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Evans and family of Waterbury, Conn., have arrived in Northville to spend a few days with members of the Filkins family. Mr. Evans is director of music in the Waterbury schools.

Don Kerr has completed his summer school work at the University of Michigan and will be employed by the Detroit Edison company, a few weeks before going back to the Michigan State College at East Lansing.

A settlement of the case between William Spencer and Mrs. Merritt over a disputed account resulted in Spencer paying $26. The total amount of the claim, states Mr. Spencer, was something like $48. The $26 also included court costs.

Another coast to coast hook up by Judge Rutherford of Brooklyn, New York, Sunday, August 25th, from 9.00 to 10.00 a. m. His topic will be, "Health and Life for the People." WGHF, Detroit, and WJKB, Cleveland, are among the 100 or more stations listed. Tune in!

Weak Illumination. Before the coming of the oil lamp, light-houses were lit by candles or coal fires. The last of the latter was the lighthouse at St. Bees where a coal light, burned until 1822.

Health Hint. Life insurance companies find it pays to spend millions in campaigns of health education. It pays also for the individual to educate himself in the rules and practices of personal hygiene.
