INDUSTRY ON UPGRADE SAYS STATE BANKER

WALTER SEYFANG DIES AFTER AN ILLNESS OF MANY WEEKS DURATION

PROMINENT YOUNG BUSINESS MAN OF COMMUNITY IS BURIED IN EAST

More Factories Running Than at Any Time Since Last September.

Industrial operations in Michigan at the end of the first three weeks of 1931 were at a higher rate than any time since the last week in September, 1930, according to Ralph E. Baldwin, economist, of the Union Guardian Trust Company, Detroit. During the year automobile output exceeded the previous month's production rate by 15 per cent, despite continued operations by many manufacturers for a period of at least six weeks. Normal is to be expected in this month. The turn in manufacturing is not entirely a local phenomenon. This is indicated by the increase from 74 per cent of normal to 75 per cent of normal in the broader index of manufacturing for the country as a whole which is prepared by the Harvard Economic Service.

Building construction in the second week of January registered a further decline. The average daily volume of contracts awarded as reported by the W. D. Gage Corporation was 27 per cent lower in the first half of the month than in the corresponding period of 1930.

Recent freight car loadings for the week ended January 10, 1931 were nearly 180,000 greater in number than in the preceding week. This series has shown a distinct parallel with 1930, 1931, for example, of weeks 1 and 21, 1930, which marks the time improvement in the car future that was forecasted in 1930.

Employment declined markedly in the non-farm but this is distinctly a seasonal phenomenon. Many industries close down at this time for inventorying purposes and resume operations at the same or higher rates at the time of their return.

Retail trade, as indicated by the Federal Reserve Board's report on department store sales, was only 1.5 per cent less in December than in November in view of the fact that the cost of living in this country had therefore the same percentage increase as 6.2 per cent lower in December, 1930, than in December, 1929. It appears that buying has not greatly increased during the recent holidays season. The decline in commodity sales is wholesale has apparently unfolded in recent weeks.

Industrial activity throughout the entire of the automobile industry showed an increase during December similar to that which occurred during the same month of 1930. In Saginaw, during December, industrial activity was 26 per cent greater than in December, 1930.

Industrial power consumption after adjustment for seasonal tendencies was higher in December than in November in each of the following cities in southern Michigan: Detroit, Bay City, Jackson, Pontiac and Saginaw. At Flint, a small reduction in the adjusted total occurred which may be indicative of a slight decrease in manufacturing in the city during the month of December.

Employment in Detroit during December was little changed from November but indicated some improvement by January 15. After 10 weeks, however, in Flint, at the end of the second week in January more than 40 per cent more people were employed by the principal industries than at a similar date in 1930, and more than 10 per cent more were employed than in January, 1930. Unadjusted employment conditions are by no means improved in this section of the state. Saginaw alone shows improvement over a year ago. Building and construction seem to have been in a standstill in all cities of southern Michigan, except Detroit. Retail trade volume is reported below that of a year ago, with greater sales totals reported in a few weeks. Collections are poor to fair.

Manufacturing activity in south western Michigan which includes such cities as Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids and Muskegon, may be characterized as slightly below the activity of mid-January, 1930. Some improvement is expected within a month.

Northern Michigan is essentially still less than it was a year ago but is increasing at about a third of the rate from which reports were received. The general situation in this section of the state seems to be somewhat set forth in a report from Kalkaska. "The greatest change here is in psychology. Business attitude is much more cheerful since January 1.

FATHER

By Rev. LEO EICKSTADT

According to God's holy will no man shall become a father except through the divine hands of procreation. But if for the spiritual tie has been blessed with offspring, the earthly must not share this responsibility. In duty bound he must look after the health and spiritual welfare of his little God-given bundle. He can, Father, make no one child too angry lest they be discouraged. Putting them up in the most comfortable abode of the Lord. If you can't find a child in the way, be sure to do so, and when he is old, he will not complain from it. And when a child is born, it is a mark of "Honor" to Father. Rightly the command of your friends in all places to anger less, but be encouraged. Putting them up in the most comfortable abode of the Lord. If you can't find a child in the way, be sure to do so, and when he is old, he will not complain from it. And when a child is born, it is a mark of "Honor" to Father. Rightly the command of your friends in all places to anger less, but be encouraged. ## WORK FOR MANY

According to a report made by Grover C. Dillman, state highway commissioner, the state plans to spend over $28,000,000 on highway construction during the coming year. If Commissioner Dillman's program is carried out as he plans, there will be a vast amount of labor providing the working men of Michigan last year's road construction didn't amount to much. As a result there was not as much work as there will be during the forthcoming year.

Mr. Dillman says the 1931 program will probably be the largest in the history of the state.

The department is carrying over as of January 1, 1931, work under contract amounting to $15,790,264. Dillman said. Since January 1, work advertised for early letting amounts to $1,121,000 and there is available at the present time, unencumbered federal aid money amounting to $6,930,643 against which contracts will be awarded. Later on additional funds will become available according to Dillman who believes the total for the year may exceed $28,000.

The department will take full advantage of federal aid money $2,500,000 of which must be spent this year for projects to be completed before September 1. This money was allotted Michigan after the enactment in the national congress of the emergency highway law. Its purpose was to provide additional finances to be expended on road construction as an aid to relieving unemployment and it was for that reason the time limit for its expenditure was fixed.

Although the state highway department was required by law to distribute approximately $10,500,000 last year among the counties less than half that sum has been paid Mr. Dillman said. The actual amount received by the counties is $4,500,000 leaving an unpaid balance of $6,168,600. He explained that the delay in payment was due to the state's financial predicament and the unexpected drop in estimated gas tax and weight tax revenue. It is planned to pay the rest before March 1, next, 1931, receipt date.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

When the people of the United States turned to George Washington with the universal demand that he stand at the head of the new government and at the great office of President of the Republic he evinced the same shyness which weighed upon him when he took command of the armies according to the Division of Information of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

In response to the suggestion that he be a candidate to receive the post that he was likely to be again called upon to render public service, and added simply that at his age it would prove a service which admitted of no comparison. He did not doubt this time whenever he should be summoned to render his services he would respond to the call. But although he declined to make any decision he had no need to do so.

Washington, in all his life, had but one regret—the time and youth only to be a citizen of a free nation from January 1, 1776, to the day of his death. But although he declined to make any decision he had no need to do so.

Washington, in all his life, had but one regret—the time and youth only to be a citizen of a free nation from January 1, 1776, to the day of his death. Neither the amount nor part, nor the type, or parts, or extremes of the new government, in the time, could deprive him of a single iota.

The reluctance with which General Washington assumed his new position and that genuine modesty which was a distinguishing feature of his character are further illustrated by the following extract from a letter to General Henry Knox. "I feel for those members of the new Congress who inherit a free government, an ignorance of the theory and practice of government. For my part, the delay may compare to a reprieve in a confinement. For you (with the exception of a little regret) that my movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of an culprit who is going to the place of his execution, so unwilling I am in the event of his nearly consummated in public care, to quit a peaceful abode for an ocean of difficulties without that impetuosity of political skill, abilities, and inclination which distinguishes me to manage the helm. And sensible that I am embarking the voice of the people, and a good name of my own in this voyage, but what returns will be made for them. Heaven alone can foretell.—Integrity and firmness, as far as I can promise, these, be the voyage long or short, shall never forsake me, although I may be deserted by all men, for the consolations which are to be derived from these, under any circumstances, the world can not deprive me."

The official announcement of his election as Chief Magistrate of the United States was made to him at Mount Vernon on April 11, 1789, by Charles Thomson, the secretary of the Continental Congress. Accustomed to respect the virtues of his fellow citizens Washington did not think himself worthy to achieve an appointment voted him by the suffrage of a entire people. His ascendance, as well as expression of gratitude for this fresh proof of the esteem and confidence in his capacity were conected with declarations of his fitness in himself.

It was natural that there should be reason for regretting the choice—but indeed all can forgive the act of duty which can be done but in the best way.

As the word spread, gained the immediate attention of the President at the seat of the Government, he hastened his departure, and on the second day after receiving notice of his election, he took leave of Mount Vernon. In an entry in his diary, the feelings inspired by an occasion so affecting to his mind are thus described: "About ten o'clock I bade adieu to Mount Vernon, to private life, and to domestic felicity, and with a mind oppressed with more anxious and painful sensations than I have words to express set out for New York in company with Mr. Thomson and Col. Humphreys, with the intention to render service to my country in whatever way the occasion may call, but with less hope of answering its expectations."

On his journey from Alexandria to New York, Washington was everywhere received with the greatest demonstrations of affection by all classes of his fellow citizens, which were manifested by the most flattering marks of heartfelt respect and by addresses which evinced the unlimited confidence reposed in his virtues and his ability.

At Philadelphia he was received with unusual splendor. In imitation of the triumphal exhibitions of ancient Rome, an arch was erected at the bridge over the Schuylkill River, and on each side was placed laurel shrubbery. As Washington passed under the arch, a civic crown was let down upon him. The fields and avenues were crowded with people, through whom he was conducted into the city by a body of leading citizens. At night the town was illuminated by a thousand lights.

The next day, at Trenton, he was welcomed in a manner as new as it was pleasing. In addition to the usual discharge of cannon and the demonstrations of respect and attachment by military corps and by private persons of distinction, the women of the city arranged a tribute indicative of gratitude for their deliverance, twelve years before from a formidable enemy.

On a bridge over the creek which passes through the town was a triumphal arch decorated with laurel and flowers and supported by thirteen pillars. On the front of this arch was inscribed in large gilt letters December 26, 1776, and beneath, formed in the flowers, "The defender of the mothers will be the protector of the daughters."

As Washington passed under the arch he was met by a party of mafors, leading their daughters, dressed in white, who carried baskets of flowers in their hands, and sang an ode composed for the occasion. At Brunswick, he was joined by the Governor of New Jersey, who accompanied him to Elizabethtown Point, a committee of Congress received him on the road, and conducted him with a military parade to the Point, where he embarked for New York in an elegant fifteen-oar barge prepared for the purpose by the citizens of New York, and man ed by thirteen pilots.

The display of oats, said Washington in his private journal, "which was attended and joined on this occasion, some with vocal and others with instrumental music on board, the decorations of the ships, the roar of the cannon and the loud acclamations of the people which rend the air as I passed along the wharves, filled me with pleasure as you can well conceive."

As Washington passed under the arch he was met by a party of mafors, leading their daughters, dressed in white, who carried baskets of flowers in their hands, and sang an ode composed for the occasion. At Brunswick, he was joined by the Governor of New Jersey, who accompanied him to Elizabethtown Point, a committee of Congress received him on the road, and conducted him with a military parade to the Point, where he embarked for New York in an elegant fifteen-oar barge prepared for the purpose by the citizens of New York, and man ed by thirteen pilots.

FORD SMOOTHNESS

The new Ford has more than twenty ball and roller bearings

EVIDENCE of the high quality built into the new Ford is the extensive use of ball and roller bearings. There are more than twenty in all—an unusually large number. Each bearing is adequate in size and carefully selected for the work it has to do.

At some points in the Ford chassis you will find ball bearings. At others, roller bearings are used regardless of their higher cost. The deciding factor is the performance of the car.

The extensive use of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford insures smoother operation, saves gasoline, increases speed and power, gives quicker pick-up, decreases noise, and gives greater reliability and longer life to vital moving parts.

Other outstanding features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triple-shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons; chrome silicon alloy valves, three-quarter floating rear axle, Rustless Steel, the extensive use of fine steel forgings, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

Ackmar Club Raided Early Sunday. Police Make Five Arrests

OFFICIALS FIND PLENTY OF GAMBLING DEVISES—NEVER BEFORE MOLESTED

After having flourished four long years without the slightest molestation from state or county officials, the Ackmar club which is located at the corner of Seven Mile and Grand River roads was raided by men from Sheriff Beaubien's office and state police Sunday morning.

Joseph Murphy, proprietor of the Ackmar, who was one of the persons arrested, said that in the seizure of fear center a considerable other gamblers participated in a rifle and pistol gun-turret.

Captain Donald Jeanette, who had been called to the place, was immediately surrounded by about 150 similar gambling houses in the part of the state not in Michigan. Four persons, he said, while the raid was in progress, scattered by their numbers and apprehended the club's popularity and exclusiveness.

Wiping his hands, sounded last night, the state troopers approached the building at 1 a.m. No effort was made to delay an entrance, however. In fact, Murphy smiling and unbentoned showed them about.

Customers were seated at tables on the first floor, and took food prepared by the warming of Captain Leonard that they would have to stay a while.

The door leading to the second floor was locked. Murphy was a little slow about opening it, the officer reported, and one of them put an ax through it.

Murphy then produced a key and unlocked it. In the heat of the present economic conditions, which are prevalent all over the country, and in answer to the requests of many of the town's people whom I know, we're making a sincere effort to save enough money to meet their obligation to the township.

I am extending the tax due to February 28," Mr. True-dec stated. "Although the collection is at present behind those of last year at this time, Mr. True-dec is quite optimistic and gratified over the showing that Naukau is now thus far ahead of the original estimate."

Approximate one-half of the taxes had been paid up until Thursday and there is a possibility that a considerable sum would be paid in on Saturday.

Treasurer Trindell stated twice as many funds have been collected with the tax collection problem.

The main of the town's population is poor, and though there is no need for me to be embarrassed, there is a general fund now being set up to help the town's people.

This Farmer Sees First 1931 Robin

C. E. Henig, who lives near Line Lake and who with a companion has been engaged in cutting the sticks in what is known as Simpson's Woods, brought report to the Argus office Wednesday afternoon a week ago, that he had seen a robin in the timber where he was at work. This same morning the thermometer had been hovering around zero. We do not doubt the accuracy of Mr. Henig's report. However, this robin was not harbinger of spring. It was one of his kind that elected to stay over and winter in the shelter of our northern woods. It always requires more than one robin to make a spring.

Just before we go to press comes another report this time from Mr.

and Mrs. Charles Jasper, who live at Crooked Lake. They report seeing a pair of robins in an apple tree on the property Tuesday evening of this week.

They were singing cheerfully, according to the report. No doubt we shall have other good news when it is a seasonably may happen again.

Time To Pay Taxes

Probable the most welcome news for many taxpayers of Naukau Township seen in the announcement of Charles A. Trindell, who on Thursday stated that an extension of a month would be granted to those who had not paid their 1931 taxes, thus making the final date for payment of levies

auditor's sacrifice in the payment of their taxes on time, the community too is doing all within its power to reduce its expenses.

Protest State Cut of Tubercular Aid

Emphatic protests against the action of the state budget director in cutting from the proposed budget for the next two years the sum of $25,000.00 with which an at present unfinished floor of the new unit at Michigan State Sanatorium, Howell, was to be fitted for patients use, were voiced by Dr. D. J. O'Brien, Detroit, who spoke on the tuberculosis situation in the state at the meeting of the State Association of Supervisors held in Lansing last week.

Dr. O'Brien, a member of the State Sanatorium Commission, declared that "Townie" has a shortage of beds and a long waiting list of patients.

At the same time in entire floor that could accommodate 75 patients is given to waste because of lack of $25,000.00 with which to partition off and make it suitable for treatment of patients.

According to Dr. G. L. Leslie, medical superintendent of the sanatorium, which services lives by saving dollars is indirect murder," he said that if it were not for right

ment it would be "too silly for right

ment to be here in the first place."

Emphasizing the consequences of not

GARAGE AT SALEM
LOOTED BY THIEVES

There will be a regular meeting of the Masonic Lodge Monday evening.

Gard Elv was a Detroit and Farmington business visitor Tuesday.

Mrs. J. X. Torgill is visiting with Misses Lena and Permelia Kohler.

Miss Permelia Kohler has returned.

The Record was a business visitor in Northville Wednesday.

The regular meeting of the M. E. Ladies Aid Society will be held at the home of Mrs. Herman Behrendt, 150 Orchard Drive, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Upon the invitation of John Baldwin, Attorney Howard Baldwin, well-known Defender, will be brought over to where her real speaker at next Wednesday's meeting is being near the old Station Airport and Mr. Baldwin are old friends. The speaker is also a brother of the new Record publisher.

Several from Northville plan to go over to Ponsford next Sunday to the garage to find that it had been entered and robbed during the short time he was absent. Deputy Sheriff Frank Bowes was notified and is now working on the case.

Footprints showed that there were two men on the job, one wearing trousers. Entrance was gained through a window on the south side of the garage. After breaking the glass, the men reached through the opening and forced the fastener. Beside the money a caliber revolver telezong, a Mr. Baldwin was taken—the intruders possibly fearing resistance as they left the building. The gun, however, was discharged as soon as they were clear of the building, as it was found on the ground outside.

The work is believed to be of local talents. The thus apparently were well-acquainted with everything about the place.

Under Sheriff Jim L. Osborne with a finger print expert from Lansing and prints were taken.

There will be a meeting of the Parent Teachers Association next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Angeline of the Wayne County Training School will speak on adolescence.

The ladies of the W. H. M. Society of the Methodist church met for luncheon at the home of Mrs. Salton on Dublin Tuesday, January 26th. Out of town guests were Mrs. Depew, Mrs. Dagerson, Mrs. Jarvis and Mrs. Strader.

The egg was found in one of the nests last Saturday morning. It weighs nine ounces or 410 grams. It is a trifle over nine inches in diameter and is a perfect egg in every way. There was nothing irregular about it and the shell did not indicate the egg might be a double-yolk one.

Members of the Rotary Club will be in the city next week to attend the annual Northville Friends Meeting. Monty Crammer, of the new Presbyterian church, holds it the second Friday night of the month. Members of the class in the school will have been announced to the visiting committee. Hobart Cochran who has charge of the program of entertainment conducted a series of songs and other amusements in the rear room of the church.

The club's Rotarian members had their wives come to inspect the new dining room and hallway signs of the club's good taste.

According to J. Evers and Carl Reiter from Mr. and Mrs. Weston Burton who are staying in San Francisco and bound out to Santa Barbara, they are having the most delightful kind of vacation. Their trip to the coast was made under most gaudy circumstances. The roads being good all the way across the Baja Peninsula, the flowers are in blossom and fruit is not only plentiful but exceptionally fine. They do not expect to return home for some time.

According to word received from Ed Sessions who is with Mrs. Sessions and a family member is yet had so much time off that she can get through to California to spend the remainder of the winter, the Pacific coast is now at its best. It surely did not take me to wear the kind of underwear that you have to make down in the top of your sofa. Mr. Sessions writes that he doesn't like D. D.'s the first day he landed in Long Beach. But has already taken several swings in the Pacific. They are spending the time with a brother of Mr. Sessions who has lived in Long Beach a number of years. It is not their plan to return to Northville until some time in June, coming home by the northern route.

is the longest stretch of beautiful scenery anywhere in the world. It has been very beautiful but at this time of the year much of the beauty is covered with fog and mist. There has not been quite a bit of reading and that is not seen to be surprised at much of what she saw before.

The nights are quite cold enough so that the snow line reaches Seattle we heard our first train whistle and the first stars and the passage winds and twists like a broad river sometimes going through narrow with high rock walls on both sides. This morning we saw a school of black fish which are a species of small whale. They looked like salmon long and were swimming around in the water rolling up in sight and then down in the water again.

We were going to stop at Ketchikan but we did not need any fuel oil and the captain did not stop. I was sorry that we did not stop at Ketchikan because we have seen that town. We passed it in the night. Seaward has been our only stop since leaving Dutch Harbor.

We are still rowing the "Wave". The captain persuaded the engine room crew to take it alone. The captain told me that we had lost thirteen days due to storm weather and enroute to Seattle. The ship was supposed to take only about twenty days.

It is just six months yesterday since I left Seattle. I did not think that I would be gone that long. This cold weather feels good to me it around 46 degrees. We have been getting radio reports every day and now we have been down to zero and below. I never am glad that I am not there.

Did you get my telegram from Seward last week? I thought I better let you know where I was. I am supposed to have been in Seattle by that time. I'll send you a wire tomorrow when I get in.

Seattle Washington, January 14, 1931

Regarding the two Lapon girls on the boat with me, one was a nurse who had taken her training in Chicago and been back to visit her family in Alaska for a year, the other one had never been out of interior Alaska and had been brought up in an orphanage until she reached. None she had never seen an automobile, and trolley cars, etc. Tractors and trains were new sights for her when she reached Seattle. She had done no sea until today. The nights are quite cold enough so that the snow line reaches Seattle we heard our first

TO DEE DEE

As the ice comes in and winter starts, Bee Dee Alaska's arctic shore departs. What knows she of the fine times she'll miss.

A Chechaco you can't blame her for this.

The moonlight nights with sparkling snow and ice.

The skinning parties with their Arctic spear.

The dog team rides the long nights of this.

But why should we tell her of things like this?

Here is a copy of a poem written about me when I left Nome.

I don't know what a Chechaco is.

Don't you know who he is?

He is one who has spent a winter but not a winter in Alaska.

Rightfully we watch her sail away some in and go out some day.

SPRING IS HERE
"Spring is Here," the first National Vitaphone adaptation of the popular musical play of the same title will be shown at the Penniman Allen theatre Sunday, February 8. From every angle, bright and diverting screen entertainment must be classed as a noteworthy success.

Reince Clark and Alexander Gray, recruited from the musical comedy stage in the leads with a spontaneous and vivacious atmosphere throughout. Both Miss Clark and Mr. Gray have been thoroughly cultivated and well attuned to the requirements of Vitaphone. This film gives evidence of becoming one of the most popular running teams on the screen.

"The Spring is Here" they are perfectly cast.

The story unfolds has both charm and suspense along with the added appeal of mystery, the writer, director and musical director, Hammer Wachtel, being the veterans.

"Spring is Here" is a musical comedy with suggestion that is sure to be a hit.

The songs in "Spring is Here" are the most interesting tunes.

The 1930 musical comedy has been written by Such Embles, George S. Kaufman, and Robert E. Sherwood, and is to be used in a great many more radio songs numbers in the past. What is expected are "Bed Bells," "Sweetest of All," and "With a Song in My Heart."

As on the stage, Spring is Here does with young love in its emotional and suspense stages. Without failing to join in action, the story is in certain phases of life as it is being lived today.

The cast includes Lawrence Gray and Sterling Louis Fazenda, Inez Courtney, Natalie McLeod, Frank McPherson and Graham Thomas, all of whom are excellent in their parts, the exception of John Francis Dillon.

THE OTHER TOMORROW

In the role of a Southern girl in "The Other Tomorrow," will be seen the next screen appearance of The Other Tomorrow," First National Pictures production, which will open in the Penniman Allen theatre Wednesday, February 11. It is the beautiful star's fifth talking picture.

The female action of "The Other Tomorrow" is held below the Mason Dixon line in Georgia. It shows the love of long forgotten and it may be in the interest of a girl with a sweet heart. The story, however, is not yet available.
