

FLOYD COLE DROWNS IN GRAVEL PIT

Plymouth, Man Victim of Tragedy Here on Friday

Tragedy stalked in the vicinity of Northville Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock when Floyd Cole, 38, truck driver for the Manning and Lockin Gravel company was drowned in 25 feet of water in the gravel pit adjoining Yerkes lake and one-half mile east of town.

Cole had left his truck on the road just above the small lake which had filled in the pit and had gone down to the pump house on the lake to borrow a wrench from Emil Auerbach.

Walking across several treacherous floats, hanging onto several ropes which were used as guide lines, Cole had reached the pump house, borrowed the wrench from Auerbach and after a few minutes conversation with the latter had started on the return trip to his truck. In the meantime, however, he had walked outside of the float line. Cole had reached the shore of the lake.

Cole was nowhere in sight and Auerbach, quickly sensing the fact that he had not had time to reach shore and disappear out of sight, began to scan the water anxiously for the missing man.

Approximately six feet from the float Auerbach caught a glimpse of Cole's hand which appeared on top of the water and then had gone down out of sight. Hastily stretching his leg into the water and hanging precariously to the guide line, Auerbach attempted to reach the drowning man but failed.

Calling to other workmen who were busy farther up the road, the group attempted to locate Cole by dropping long lines with hooks attached to the end into the water, but they were unable to reach him.

Chief of Police Wm. Safford by this time had reached the scene of the tragedy and directed the men in their efforts to find the body. Irons were bent into the shape of hooks and welded together to form a makeshift grappling hook.

The hook was taken some distance from the float, dropped into the water and drawn slowly toward the float. On the first attempt the body was located and brought to the surface.

Efforts were made by the men to bring Cole to life by using first-aid methods of resuscitation and a pump motor which had been pushed from a Detroit gas company in the record time of 35 minutes but all of the efforts were unavailing.

Cole had been under water for approximately 30 minutes and it is believed possibly in falling he may have struck his head on an iron pipe which had rendered him unconscious when he fell.

Cole, whose home was in Plymouth, leaves a wife and child, besides many friends and relatives in Northville who will mourn his loss.

SMALL LOSS SUNDAY IN CHIMNEY FIRE

A small chimney fire about eleven o'clock Sunday morning in the home of Andrew Yorke, Harold Secord and Harry Meyer, bachelors living on the second floor of the Barnhart Flats on West Main street, caused a nominal amount of damage.

It is believed that an over heated stove pipe caused the blaze to start. The fire department's immediate response to the call contained the fire to the small amount of damage that was done otherwise the entire flat might have been destroyed.

Northville's Town Clock Still Strikes The Hours Faithfully After 37 Years of Good Service

Long! Bong! Bong! And approximately 1,500 pairs of eyes are lifted toward the town clock on top of the Methodist church. The reverberations of the bell are heard all over the town.

Housewives begin to think of preparing the evening meal, school children make ready to close their books and go out into the sunshine and play, workers all over the town in offices, stores and shops automatically check their schedules to note that their day's work is progressing steadily. Everyone listens for the town clock and were it not to strike the hour, people would think that a major catastrophe had occurred.

For 37 years the clock, one of Father Time's assistants, has been faithfully tolling off the hours and during all these years it has been true to its trust.

Donated to the town by John Gardner, wealthy retired farmer who, although himself not a member of the Methodist church, held a deep interest in the church through the activities of his wife who was a member, the clock has four dials each being 5 feet 6 inches in diameter. The dials themselves are of ground glass three-eighths of an inch thick so as to allow illumination from within.

It is an eight day strike, gravity escapement movement manufactured by the Seth Thomas Clock company of Thomaston, Conn. The pendulum ball weighs 135 pounds, the two weights total between 300 and 400 pounds and

NORTHVILLE'S BAND WINS FIRST PLACE IN SUBURBAN CONTEST HELD AT REDFORD

After Hearing Concerts, the Judges Pay High Tribute to Musicians Directed by Edwin L. Head

Following an enthusiastic reception given them by a large audience Saturday night, May 2, the Northville School Community band was awarded a beautiful silver loving cup given by the management of the Public Redford theatre to the best band in the Greater Northwestern suburban communities.

The cup was given to the local band by the judges, Edward Werner, director of music in the Kinsley-Publix theatres of Greater Detroit, Arthur J. Searle, music teacher of Northern high school and supervisor of music in all Detroit high schools, and Homer Lagassey, music teacher at Western high school, and also assistant to Mr. Searle.

The bands from Detroit, Northwestern high school, Redford high school, Farmington high school and Northville high school, were each given a night last week to perform and then on Saturday night they were all to play before the judges who were to pick the best one.

Following the single performance of each band, the Redford band and the Northwestern high school band withdrew from the contest giving as their reason that such competition would tend to commercialize them.

Each of the judges praised the Northville band highly. Edward Werner declared that he could not sufficiently commend the schools for the excellent work that they were accomplishing in the field of music.

Mr. Searle on presenting the cup to Edwin L. Head, director of the Northville band said, "There is no question in the minds of the judges but that Northville's band was the best of any that have played in concerts throughout the week."

Farmington's school band received two trophies from the judges on the excellence of the trombone and cornet sections and Mr. Searle stated, "When all of the Farmington band reaches the plane of their trombone and cornet sections, the band will be a match for Northville."

Each band was allowed to play two selections. Northville musicians choosing "The Thin Red Line," a march and "Scotland," a concert piece arranged by Director Head.

Following the playing of these two selections and in response to delighted applause of the audience, the band played an encore and was also led in a march selection by Edward Werner.

The loving cup, a large silver one on which the inscription "Public Redford Theatre, Greater Northwestern Suburban, 1931 Band Contest," is written, is on display in the window of Lyke's Hardware store window.

HARRY S. GERMAN CALLS OUT BALL PLAYERS TONIGHT

Harry S. German, the pitcher known in baseball circles as "Grandpa" German, has issued a call for baseball practice tonight at six o'clock.

Harry is trying to muster together a real team representing Northville. During the last year his team has done most of their playing in the larger cities about the state.

"This season will be no different, except the local pitcher expects to have a much stronger club by combining with part of the House of Correction team."

A number of games will be played at Northville, however, and by the latter part of the month the first game will be scheduled. Players requested to report for practice are Jack, A. Bartlett, L. German, Stefano, Moffat, Freydl, Martin, Pollard, H. German, Jr., and Wood.

VILLAGE HEADS ARE SPEAKERS AT LUNCHEON

Officials are Guests at Exchange-Rotary Gathering

Members of the Exchange and Rotary clubs and guests, at the first of the monthly joint sessions of the organizations, Wednesday noon, learned a great deal about Northville's village affairs.

The Exchange club was the host and a company of over fifty men sat down at the luncheon, served by Methodist ladies in the church house. President C. R. Horton of the entertaining club was chairman and presided graciously. Members of the village commission were guests and furnished the program.

Mr. Horton presented Mayor Harry S. German who in turn introduced the members of the council. Each of the officials gave a most interesting talk.

Before the official program got under way, Nelson C. Schrader, in his best style, led in some spirited community singing.

Leading off in the series of talks, Mayor German emphasized the fine spirit of co-operation prevailing in the commission and stressed the desire of all to give an efficient and economical administration. It will be the aim, he said, to bring the taxes down to the lowest possible point and yet maintain high standards.

Introduced as the chairman of the water committee, George Hicks gave some interesting facts about the water situation. He told how the re-laying of pipes, some of which have been down over 30 years—made it possible to get a maximum supply of water from the

VILLAGE COUNCIL CUTS BILL OF W. S. McNAIR FROM $170.00 TO $5.75

Action on Attorney's Claim Is Taken Monday Evening After Hearing Report of Attorney F. J. Cochran

Cutting the bill of services rendered by Wm. S. McNair, former village attorney, from $170.00 to $5.75 the village commission continued its policy of strict economy in regard to town expenditures. The decision was passed Monday night at the commission meeting in the village hall.

The bill charges the village with $10.00 for two meetings of the commission which Mr. McNair attended. Drafting an answer to the Mandamus proceedings in the case of Frank D. Butler vs Frederick Hedge is billed at $50.00, and appearance and argument in the same proceedings is also itemized at $50.00.

The last item on the bill asks for $50.00 for obtaining a quit claim deed from William and Annie Scott to the village of Northville and for correcting the description in the deed.

When the bill was submitted to the commission it was referred to F. J. Cochran, village attorney for examination. In his report to the commission, Mr. Cochran stated:

"I understand the compensation of Mr. McNair as attorney for the village was set at $250.00 per year, and extra for special services. Mr. McNair seemed to have a practice of attending the meetings of the village commission and charging $10.00 per meeting which has been paid heretofore."

"The records show twenty-eight meetings for which charge is made (Note: Mr. McNair has already been paid $800.00 for services rendered from July 1930 to March 1931. Twenty-six of the meetings referred to have already been paid for by the village)."

"I understand the sum of $250.00 was to include all meetings and if that is true, Mr. McNair has already been overpaid $100.00 for that service."

"The two items of $50.00 in the case of Butler vs. Hedge are for litigation for which he is by his written opinion and direction to the village clerk, was solely responsible. I cannot see that his work was a service to the village. It was really a disservice, and I believe that the items should not be allowed."

Mr. Cochran further declared that Mr. McNair should be paid for obtaining the quit claim deed but stated that $5.00 was reasonable charge for the service and seventy-five cents should also be added for recording the deed.

JONES FLORAL CO. IS READY FOR BIG DAY

The finest in flowers have been tenderly cultivated the past few weeks in Jones' greenhouses in preparation for the coming event of Mother's day.

Weeks of patient labor, getting up at all hours of the night to protect the delicate buds from killing frost, and the tedious job of learning all that is necessary to "grow" these plants are some of the requisite accomplishments which the florist must bear before he can turn out a display of beautiful flowers of which he can be proud.

The most auspicious day of the year, Mother's day is the time when the florist may reap his profit, both in the honest pride with which he is able to view his handiwork and in the sale of large numbers of plants and cut flowers.

Jones Floral company announces, this year a large offering of cut flowers, flower-bedding plants, geraniums and all kinds of potted plants. Visitors are invited to view the flowers before Mother's day and select their bouquets before the annual last-minute rush begins.

NEW HOME OF RECORD TO BE READY IN JUNE

Special Edition, Dinner and Open House Planned

The publisher of The Northville Record takes unusual pleasure in announcing plans for the dedication of its new building, now being built for its owner, Mrs. Bertha Neal, on the corner Record site on North Center street.

The new structure, which will be one of the finest of its kind in Michigan, will be ready for occupancy about the middle of June. Two unique events will mark the removal of the newspaper plant from its present temporary quarters in the Lapham State Savings bank into the new home. The first of these will be a complimentary dinner to the business and professional people of the city and the civic, school and religious leaders. This will be held Monday evening, June 8. The second and crowning event will be an "open house" in the new building on Saturday afternoon and evening, June 12, which is expected to be attended by hundreds from this community and numerous places in the state.

One of Michigan's most noted newspaper men has been secured as the chief speaker of the evening dinner and no pains will be spared to make this a community event that will be long remembered.

An historic special edition will accompany the entry into the new Record home. This paper will mark an important milestone in the life of Northville and great effort is being made to make it an unusually worthwhile publication. In addition to the regular staff of workers, on The Record, we have been fortunate enough to secure the services of others who will take care of some of the multitudinous details of such an enterprise. Old and modern pictures will be shown in the special edition, with complete write-ups showing the great advance of Northville since The Record was established 69 years ago. The co-operation of our readers in gathering materials and pictures will be keenly appreciated.

Wait for the "new home" edition of The Northville Record of Friday, June 12.

WALLED LAKE PARK TO OPEN SATURDAY

The Greater Walled Lake Amusement park opens Saturday, May 9 and it is expected that a large crowd of picnickers will be on hand to celebrate the event.

The park has been completely renovated with the same amount of amusement devices such as the aeroplane swings, the miniature railroad rides, the ever popular ferris wheel and the merry-go-round.

The Walled Lake dance hall has been completely redecorated as many young people of Northville can testify and the crowds present are very much in favor of the Broadway Collegians, the rhythmic dance band which performs nightly.

The swimming beach has not been opened as yet but the management is only waiting for warm weather before throwing the doors open to the large crowds that usually attend.

Reporters may make picnic or skating reservations by calling the park.

RAINS HELP

The past week of spring showers has been an immense aid to the farmers' crops. More rain is expected.

40th Annual Installation of Officers of the Eastern Star Is Very Impressive Occasion

On Friday evening, May 1, occurred the 40th annual installation of the officers of Eastern Star at Northville. An assemblage which filled the Masonic hall to its capacity witnessed the impressive ceremony. The hall was beautifully decorated with palms and other potted plants and cut flowers.

Guests were present not only from Northville but from Plymouth, Detroit, Highland Park, South Lyon, Farmington, Ypsilanti and even from Windsor, Ontario.

In opening the ritualistic service the installing chaplain, Mrs. Mattie Griswold and one installing officer, Mrs. Nell Freydl were escorted to the east by the installing marshal, Mrs. Hazel Boyden. Next came the past matrons and patrons, then the retiring patron, Norman Derrine and matron, Mrs. Mary Cassie, who introduced each past official. Mrs. Nell Freydl gave the address of welcome, referring to the Order of the Eastern Star as "one of the largest and most constructive in the world." As the past leaders thus stood in a body the entire company rose and sang, "Should auld acquaintance be forgot," as fitting sentiment for those who hold official relation to the order. These past matrons were Nell Freydl, Mae Babbitt, Ruth Gillis, Belle Symmonds, Celeste Kohler, Lida Murphy, Lydella Ely and Hazel Boyden, most of whom took part in the installation service. The past patrons were Claude Ely, Ed Fuller and Dean Griswold.

With due ceremony the officers to be installed were escorted to their places in a semi-circle in the center of the chapter room. The women were beautifully gowned in white and wore flowers. The ceremony of taking their pledge and receiving their commission and badge of office was very impressive. Miss Geraldine Ferguson acted as organist throughout the ceremony.

Those installed for the ensuing year were:

Worthy Matron: Dawn Holcomb, Worthy Patron: Claude Ely, Associate Matron: Catherine Johnston, Associate Patron: Horace Borden, Secretary: Merenna Hay, Treasurer: Maude Regalia, Conductress: Valma Masters, Associate Conductress: Ruth Derrine, Chaplain: Coia Murdoch, Marshal: Elma Wegenschütz, Organist: Ida Casterline, Ada, Margaret Eryan, Ruth, Mrs. Clara H.E.S., Esther, Velma Freydl, Martha, Helen Hammond, Electa, Genevieve Vogtin, Warder, Terrena Jensen, Sentinel: Dean Griswold.

Especially impressive was that part of the ritual when the newly installed worthy matron, Dawn Holcomb, escorted by her little nephew, Louie Babbitt and her son, Jackie, following a path of rose petals strewn by little three-year-old Mary Ellen Babbitt, approached the East passing through an aisle of flowers upheld by the worthy matrons of Wayne county. As she took her position Mrs. Lida Murphy sang tellingly, "My Task."

TROUBLE

Within the past few days we have heard of some of the troubles of friends—here and elsewhere. The business foundations have been rocked pretty badly the past year and a half. Lots of good men "have taken a licking." Many others are on half a loaf. (We mixed our metaphors deliberately.) Many others are battling to keep their heads above water.

Every day is a good day to pull together—but right now the chance to help each other is the finest we ever had. Every bit of business or sympathy we can throw to the other fellow is a distinct help. Nothing helps like a good turn done in time.

NORTHVILLE SCHOOLS

We had some business up at the school house the other day and came away feeling cheered by the fine spirit that seemed to be prevailing there. We hear good things about Supt. Thad J. Knapp, Principal R. H. Amerman and the whole staff there. Business seems to be going ahead in a real constructive way. Everyone is boosting for our schools. That's great, for nothing reflects the real spirit of a community more than its teachers and "school kids." When things go right at the schoolhouse they are pretty apt to go right around the town. (Wasn't that Senior Girls' glee club victory a splendid achievement?)

THE KING AND THE DOCTOR

We never did envy a king. Theirs are the troubles of the rest of us ordinary human beings.

The king of Siam the other day gave us another evidence of this. He turned aside from the glory that had been showered upon him at Washington to go to an eye specialist at Baltimore who told him that an operation for cataract was absolutely necessary to save one eye.

All the glory of royalty is of no avail when one's eyes go wrong. The king would exchange his crown for the good eyes of you who read this. The person who has good health—or even a fairly good measure of it—can be glad. He is better off than any king.

ADVERTISING NORTHVILLE

"Northville should advertise itself more," said a Record reader to us.

"What do you mean by that?" we asked him.

"I mean this," he said. "Northville is too conservative in the way of selling itself to the outside world. We are too hesitant in letting folks know what a good town we have."

"Then you mean that Northville seeks a 'better place in the sun'?" we replied.

"Precisely," he came back at us. "And the way I would do it would be several ways. By word of mouth, by signs as you come into town, by civic celebrations, by a more united community spirit. We are not letting outsiders know enough what a good town we actually have."

Is this man right?

HE MISSED NORTHVILLE

After a trip to the United States, Gilbert K. Chesterton tells an audience at London, England that our civilization over here is a form of "barbarism."

What interested us most was his insult to our villages. Here is what he says about them:

"From one end to the other of this magnificent civilization there is no such thing as a village. When you enter a little town it is simply an eyesore to anybody of European tradition or instincts. The first things met are yellow, tin advertisements, tin buildings with frameworks of lead and glass and tin shops and then, thank God, you are out of the town."

It's just too bad that Mr. Chesterton didn't see Northville, picturesque village of Wayne county, Michigan, U. S. A., and take a walk around our beautiful town, then perhaps he would not have "thanked God" that he was glad to get out of town.

We should like to show him our beautiful park back of the city hall, the Fairbrook park, some of the fine homes around town and the green lawns that are coming into their beauty now. We'd like to show him the perennials and rose bushes in the yard right next to ours; we'd get a thrill in showing him the glorious view from the hill where Elton R. Eaton has his home. It would be a pleasure to give him a real ride around some of our pavements. We should like to have him meet some of the folks we have met—he would think he was back in Old England.

If we live long enough, we plan to go over to England just to see what one of their villages looks like. Really have they anything as lovely as Northville?

RURAL HILL CEMETERY

Every once in a while on a Sunday-afternoon we like to leave the beaten path of our life in the village, the rush of auto traffic and the calling on and visiting with friends and go for a walk in the cemetery. In God's acre one can get away from a lot of things that serve only to confuse and bewilder. There are no traffic lights and drivers to dodge. No blare, no noise, only the song of the birds.

So last Sunday we walked to Rural Hill cemetery and found some peace and content that somehow we had missed all day. A beautiful place, it is but we wished as we entered that some one would put up a new sign to replace the present rusty one on the big brick columns. Stopped by the big willows on the edge of the river—Thank God for the men and women who take time to plant trees for those who come after—and renewed our youth in making a whistle for little Philip who marveled that his dad could make noise come out of a twig of a tree.

Walking to the higher ground we were struck with the beauty of the whole cemetery—surely an appropriate resting place for those who have gone beyond. Noticed that here and there a little more care would help in the general beauty of the place. Stopped to read the inscriptions on the monuments and thought again how fleeting is life and how soon we are gathered to our fathers. Yet we were glad that life holds out such a chance to do and dare and that Northville has so many fine folks who will have long years before they will go to their last resting place on this earth. Watched the setting sun go down in glory and peace that sent us home mellowed and grateful for life.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Are too many young people going to college?

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

OUR COUNTY DEFICIT

(Birmingham Economic) Oakland county faces a deficit of four and one-half million dollars in its general fund, most of which has been incurred during the past year. County Supervisors were told last week by Pontiac attorney A. J. Moore. Most of this is the result of expenses for welfare work. This offers mute testimony of the inability of modern society to govern itself in keeping with its real abilities. Nothing can take the place of honest cooperation in any worldly movement.

TIME FOR BUSINESS MEN TO CO-OPERATE

(Eaton Rapids Journal)

If ever in the history of the country it was necessary for the business men of any community to stand shoulder to shoulder and co-operate for the good of all, which means for the good of the community in general, that time is right now.

Business men can never get any where by lying down and taking a nap while the other fellow stays on the job and gets the first pickings. And in many communities this is just what is happening. While the local merchants are not appealing to the people, outside business is reaching out a hand and inviting them into their places of business. There is little need of advertising Christmas gifts after the buying period is over, and there is little use of advertising spring wearing apparel and other necessities after the other fellow has invited ear people into their stores and sold them to their heart's content.

And that brings us again to the point where we feel justified in stating that thousands of dollars are being spent elsewhere that should remain in the tills of local merchants, if they could only realize the importance of meeting together working with each other, talking over their problems, standing by each other and enjoying the results. Arbaugh's store in Lansing has spent more money for advertising and enjoyed a finer business as a result, during the so-called depression, than during any other period of their existence, so it is reported. Now is not the time to retire—it's time to wake up and get into action.

TOO MUCH PRIDE

(Albion Evening Recorder)

The other day in a neighboring city a husky two hundred pound young man was mopping the floor of a bank lobby. An Albion man, waiting in the lobby, spoke to him. The mopger said: "Ain't this a— of a job for a man my size? I'm a steamfitter and get $1.25 an hour. I get fifty cents for doing this floor. He grinned. "And I'm blanked glad to get it," he added.

The other day in Albion, a man wanted some work done. Meeting a "skilled" workman in that line, on the street, he asked him if he was busy. "No," he answered, "I haven't had a job for six months." "What will you charge per hour?" he was asked. "Se-

Even though you do not own your own home you have a considerable amount at stake in its contents. And probably more value than you realize until you make an inventory.

If they are badly damaged by fire, you will wish you had done your worrying beforehand to the extent of taking out adequate insurance.

DEARBORN BEATS NORTHVILLE NINE

In the second league game of Northville's baseball season Northville met Dearborn and were defeated 14 to 2. The team work was poor. It showed a decline from that displayed in the Lincoln Park game. Johnson was given little support and at the end of the fifth inning he was replaced by Dusenbury. Still more runs were added to Dearborn's score and Westfall finished the game.
 The first Northville run was made when Lemmon stole home. The second was made when Dickerson got in on an error. The game lacked good teamwork. There were many errors that allowed the Dearborn men to get on and then score.
 Dearborn's pitcher had several fast balls and was able to give his batters ample hitting practice. The advantage of this stood out quite clearly in the game.
 Northville will next play Belleville at Belleville. They should show improvement.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB ENTERTAINS FINALS TODAY

Northville high school's district championship girls' glee club left early this morning to take part in the final

SPIKE THIS

(Times Sentinel)
 Two measures now before the state legislature are the very antitheses of each other. There is one, born out of the spirit of the times, which proposes a moratorium of two years for mortgage delinquents, to let them ride the hard times before Old Man Foreclosure takes all they have in the world. The other, as full of iniquity as a rattlesnake's egg, proposes to shorten the delinquents' time to redeem, from the present six months to 30 days. How any legislator like Rep. Cheney, of Chesaning, could square himself before his constituency for lining up like this with the loan sharks, is hard to see. The sad thing is that this Cheney bill has passed the house. If you are a mortgage debtor, or even if you sympathize with the struggling home-owner trying to make headway against a sea of low prices or no work, then lose no time in telling your senator at Lansing that you are "agin" the Cheney bill and all its ilk—and that you want it killed. Minutes count!

The contest to be held at Michigan State college.
 The contest began at 9:30 a. m. with several events going on at the same time. The groups entering are the winners and runners up in each class. In all there will be twenty-seven events; nine in each class: Girls' Glee club, Boys' Glee club, Mixed chorus, Band, Orchestra, Woodwind Ensemble, Junior High Girls' Glee club, Junior High Boys' Glee club.
 Northville and Oxford are the two clubs eligible to represent district "C", which includes Irvington, Oakland, Macomb, Jackson, Washington, Wayne, Hillsdale, Lenawee and Monroe counties in the class "C" Girls' Glee club event.
 The local club should stand a fairly good chance of bringing home the honors. However, Northville's club is only one year old and will have to compete against glee clubs that have had far more experience. Mr. Lee, the director expects that there will be only about seven or eight clubs in the finals as compared with twelve in the preliminaries at Ypsilanti.
 We surely wish the girls success.

FORD BRAKES ARE UNUSUALLY EFFECTIVE

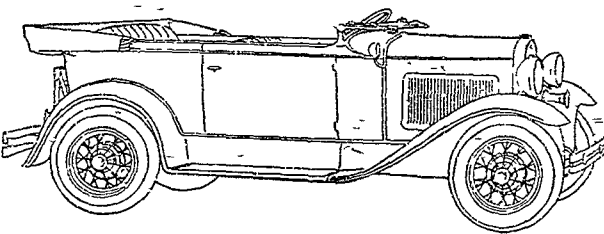

Reliability and safety due to simple design and careful construction

ONE OF the first things you will notice when you drive the Ford is the quick, effective action of its four-wheel brakes.

They are unusually safe and reliable because they are mechanical, internal expanding, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed. This prevents mud, water, sand, etc., from getting between the band and drum and interfering with brake action.

Other outstanding features of the Ford are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, torque-tube drive, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, Rustless Steel, reliability, economy, and long life.

You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

VILLAGE HEADS ARE SPEAKERS

(Continued from page 1.) Barnhart and Hill Springs, from which water runs by gravity to the reservoir. This change greatly increased the supply of available water. Recent tests from Lansing show that Northville water is the best in some time. He recommended that the village should later plan to provide a cover for the reservoir. Conditions at the Fairbrook spring are excellent.

Merrill Sweet, the second commissioner to speak, told of some plans for improving the landscaping around Fairbrook park. Although he stated it would be hard to plan much new work with the reduced budget, yet he stated that something should be done in the way of trimming trees between sidewalks and curbs. There are many dead branches which might fall down in a storm and cause injury.

Ross B. Dusenbury of the finance committee gave a comprehensive talk on finances of the village, going into considerable detail.

Taking up the tax situation, Mr. Dusenbury gave some figures on the village budget and assessment. The 1931 tax rate will be lower than for some time. It cannot be stated exactly until the work of the Board of Review has been completed and the village assessor, Chas. A. Sessions, has had opportunity to check all the figures. However, Mr. Dusenbury stated, the rate will be between $17 and $18 per thousand dollars of valuation. The increase in the rate will be about $17.50. Last year's rate was $18.20 per thousand dollars. Figures for the two years before 1931 are: 1929, $21.40, 1928, $22.50. Last year's valuation was $3,258,490 and the 1931 rate will be perhaps a little less.

Mr. Dusenbury gave some interesting figures on the assets and liabilities of the village. Northville has $632,598 in assets and outstanding bonds total $344,550.

The assets of the town are divided as follows: Municipal land, $40,745. Municipal building, $15,000. Water works system, $54,224. Water works equipment $1,350. Sewer system, $176,308. Sidewalks, $75,000. Fire department, $15,836. Paving system, $254,135.

The bonded indebtedness of $344,550 falls into two groups: $182,000 in the sinking fund and $162,550 in the paving fund. This year $23,000 of these bonds will be retired.

Mr. Dusenbury gave great credit to Sherrill Ambler for installing, in 1928, the village's efficient bookkeeping system.

Dr. H. H. Burkart of the parking and streets committee was next presented by Mayor-German. Even though the commission has been in office only two months, said Dr. Burkart, every graveled street in town has been graded twice. Good news for automobile drivers on these streets came in the doctor's announcement that a new plan for applying calcium chloride will be used this season. This will be a spraying system of a new compound which will not damage the finish of cars when thrown upon them. The Taking his trip South as the background for an inspiring sermon, he compared the church with a garden, using the text, "The earth is full of the goodness of the Lord." The pastor and his wife returned to Northville last Thursday evening and are both brown as berries after their sojourn in the Southland, at their own "ranch." Speaking of this, Mr. Richards said in his sermon, "You folks wouldn't care much for my cabin but we like it there, off the beaten path, and find great joy in working among the plants and trees, even though all around us there are weeds and not much civilization."

MOTHERS — REAL AND OTHERWISE

Mother's Day is just around the corner. Whether we wear a white flower or a red one on May 10 thoughts of mother will well up in our hearts. The very word "mother" has always had a sacred meaning to us. We heard it pronounced tenderly in very early childhood when we were led by our father to a little green mound in "Riverside." Here lies your own mother, "he would say in a tone that was different from any other and then he would tell us of the qualities of character which made her so beloved until "mother" stood for all that was exalted and lovely. To be a mother meant next to being an angel.

Years have disillusioned us. Is motherhood glorified too highly? Does becoming a physical mother bring with it those most desirable qualities for this duty?

This is a good time for us mothers to go aside quietly and look with honest eyes into a mental mirror and see if we are worthy of the special honor given us on Mother's Day.

A year's experience as librarian in a hospital opened our eyes to mother attitudes. "I want a child to love me," says the selfish mother-to-be. "I want a little girl," says another, "you can dress her up so prettily." "I want a son because he will take care of me when I grow old and need him," another says, and still another, "Children help keep husband and wife together with a common bond of interest—all selfish reasons—just by-products of the genuine mother-wish. "I want a child to love," I know he will break my rest with his demanding cries at night; I know I must forego social pleasures in a large degree and I know that my whole plan of life will be completely transformed by a new little life that comes into mine. I realize too that as his clinging babyhood passes and his own individuality develops he will often trample thoughtlessly on my aching heart—thoughtlessly, he will not even know he is doing so. Nevertheless I WANT him."

Real motherhood reaches out to take in more than its own little brood. The most beautiful conception of motherhood we have heard was expressed by a crude old Scotch woman in the story of "Freckles" by Gene Straton Porter. In reply to the motherless Irish boy who exclaimed, "I wish you were my mother," she replied, "Lord love the lad! Why Freckles, are ye no bracht enough to learn without being taught by a woman that I am your mother? Once a man-child has beaten his way to life under the heart of a woman, she is mother to all men, for the hearts of mothers are everywhere, the same. Bless ye, lad, I am your mother."

THESE DAYS

Time now to throw away the dusty bouquet of bittersweet berries or painted weeds, and substitute pussy-willow kittens instead. Time to wear face veils to avoid dreckles, to drape with salves lest the raw winds cause chapping and eczema. Time to thrill with the coming of the birds, to dust more carefully when spring sunshine shows up the dirt, to gather dandelion greens, to eat spinach and cucumbers and lettuce and asparagus and carrots and onions and oranges.

Time to take inventory of your wardrobe, to look over the linens, to washgood blankets, to buy moth-balls, to hang the rugs on the clothesline. Time to take off the "cheaters" from person and house furnishings, and get out the sheer, cool draperies, to scour the ice-box, to buy honest shoes which will not crowd swollen feet, to make slip-covers for the porch furniture, to study seed catalogues and hunt up the rake and hoe, to look in at the window of the furniture stores, to plan the summer vacation, to oil up the sewing machine, and to agitate a community cleanup. This is Spring!

"TEN CENTS A DANCE"

Just when the public begins wishing for screen entertainment with a new slant some producer comes along and releases a picture that gets away from the beaten track and offers variation in theme, treatment and direction. This time Columbia Pictures has turned the trick, with "Ten Cents a Dance" which features Barbara Stanwyck and is directed by Lionel Barrymore. The photoplay will show at the Penman Allen theatre Saturday, May 16.

In the story we find a girl of excellent background, compelled by circumstances to seek a living in a dance pavilion, where the dancing hostesses meet all comers for the munificent stipend of ten cents a dance. Well, take it from Barbara, it's a tough way to make a living. Then there is a young man, handsome, but sort of useless, and there's a love affair, impetuous and interesting and very different from that of a rich man-about-town who is fond of Barbara. Best of all there is a surprise ending. It is the planner of the story which makes this offering refreshingly different.

Galaxy of Great Artists To Appear at Ann Arbor At May Festival Events

Brilliance and much that is new will characterize the six programs in this year's Ann Arbor May Festival which will take place in Hill Auditorium, May 13, 14, 15 and 16. As usual the Festival will consist of four evening concerts and two matinees. In building the programs great attention was given to the arrangement whereby each program should stand out distinctive in itself and at the same time form a definite part of the events as a whole.

Two of the evening concerts, those of Wednesday and Friday nights, are listed as Artists' concerts, while the concerts on Thursday and Saturday nights will offer two outstanding choral compositions of special importance and significance. The matinees will stand out in wide contrast, one being devoted largely to attractive compositions for the young people's chorus and the other providing opportunities for a distinguished violinist to make her Ann Arbor debut.

The list of soloists engaged brings together a galaxy of stars of such a magnitude as to attract unusual attention.

For the two artists' concerts, the young French coloratura soprano, whose successes at the Metropolitan Opera House have made such profound impressions and representative of the younger element in the musical firmament, has been chosen for the opening night, while for the traditional brilliant Friday night concert, a master artist with a record of nearly a half century of triumph will be heard, Ignace Jan Paderewski, recognized the world over as the "King of Pianists."

One represents the brilliance of youth, the other the successful life of the matured age, and the prestige of decades of triumph but each outstanding in their respective fields. Again in contrast to Paderewski the brilliant pianist, will be the appearance of another instrumentalist, Ruth Breton, the distinguished young American violinist from the Southland, whose successes both in American and Europe have entitled her to a place among present day great violin virtuosi. Lily Pons on this occasion will make her first American Festival appearance whereas Paderewski, although having been heard in Ann Arbor in recital on numerous occasions, has never before been heard in the University city with orchestra.

The two choral works, "St. Francis of Assisi" by Pierre which will be heard on Thursday night, and "Boris Godunov" by Musorgsky with which the Festival will be closed on Saturday night, both call for casts of operatic soloists, since the St. Francis work is decidedly operatic in flavor. In the St. Francis work the title role will be sung by Frederick Jagel, the distinguished Metropolitan Opera House tenor, who has made an outstanding impression among the great virtuosos there. He possesses a glorious voice, splendidly adapted for the heavy sustained tenor part which abounds in this work. The soprano role will be sung by Hilda Burke, famous star of the Chicago Civic Opera association. Another tenor role will be sung by James Hamilton of the voice faculty of the School of Music. The contralto part will be taken by Eleanor Reynolds, formerly of the Chicago Civic Opera association but more recently a star of both the Berlin and Staatsoper having returned only recently to America where she is duplicating her European triumphs. The baritone role will be taken by Nelson Eddy, remarkable American baritone who has won great distinction in concert and recital as well as opera in the East. He recently made a fine impression in Detroit at the two performances of the Passion Play under Gabrieliwitsch. The bass role will be sung by Fred Patton of the Metropolitan Opera company whose fame is nation wide Organ portos, supplementing the orchestra will be played by Palmer Christian.

The Boris performance, Saturday night, will provide a medium for an outstanding cast of soloists. The heavy and important title role, a part made famous by the great Chabapin when given in French at the Metropolitan and other great opera houses, will be taken by Chase Barone, graduate of the School of Music and the College of Literature, Science and the Arts of the University, and a native of Michigan, having been born and brought up in the vicinity of Detroit.

The contralto role will be sung by Cyrena Van Gordon, another star of the Chicago Civic Opera company. She has been heard in Ann Arbor before but not in recent years but the magnificence of her voice and her art is long abiding and she will be a welcome artist. The leading tenor role will be sung by Walter Widdop, distinguished operatic star at Great Britain, who is being brought to this country for a special performance at the Cincinnati May Festival and through whose courtesy his Ann Arbor engagement was made possible.

The other tenor role will be sung by James Hamilton. The baritone and bass roles will be taken by Nelson Eddy and Fred Patton both of whom will have been heard at the Thursday evening performance of St. Francis. At the Friday afternoon concert a wide variety of offerings will be provided. The Young People's Festival Chorus, consisting of several hundred youngsters from the schools of Ann Arbor under the baton of Juva N. Higbee, supervisor of music in the Ann Arbor public schools, will offer in addition to a group of unaccompanied numbers, a very interesting and attractive young people's work for orchestra and chorus entitled "Old Johnny Appressed" by Gau. In this same program Hilda Burke and Eleanor Reynolds will each offer arias and will join forces in several duets from Humperdinck's opera, Hansel and Gretel. Palmer Christian, University organist, will also give an interesting group of organ selections.

In addition to the Young People's Chorus, and the major choral works to be sung by the University Choral Union, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will participate during the entire Festival week, offering among other orchestral selections, the following pieces: Chausson's Symphony in B flat major, Op. 20; Bruckner's Symphony No. 9, in D minor; and Symphony No. 2, D major, Op. 36 by Beethoven; Dvorak's Overture, "Husitka", Op. 67; "A Sketch of the Steppes of Central Asia" by Borodin; Polonaise by Liszt, and Overture "In Spring" Op. 49 by Goldmark, while at the Friday afternoon concert an abridged orchestra will offer Wolf-Ferrari's Overture "Secret of Suzanne", and at the Saturday matinee, Ruth Breton will play Giacomini's Concerto for Violin, A minor, Op. 82.

The programs which have been built under the musical directorship of Dr. Earl V. Moore, who will conduct the performances of St. Francis and Boris, will present Frederick Stock as conductor of the miscellaneous and artists' programs while Eric Delamarier, assistant conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will conduct with Juva Higbee at the Children's concert Friday afternoon.
