LET US HOPE FOR LIGHT

Jordan Crane is quoted in The Detroit News as say ing: "The darkening of Detroit's street lights may save a few dollars but it will cost a score of additional lives in traffic accidents."

The same thing can be said about the lightless Seven Mile road and other highways around Northville that carry Detroit traffic. It will be safer time for driving when times get better and these lights some of them, anyway -can shine out again at hight.

One of the best things that could happen Regord had to depend entirely on local work, the business would be to gather all the crooks his and little and could would not have been so good. Fortunately our job department has been able to keep its standards so high that our presses have been busy, much of the time with outside work. For all those who have helped to make this office a busy place and who have helped feep the money moving in local channels, we are certainly grateful.

YOU CÂN NEVER TEEL

We pick up the morning paper today (Monday) and read that a good friend of our family lies in a Chicago hospital, seriously wounded as the result of an automobile accident. That is the tragedy of the American highway you can never-tell whose the next maimed and broken body will be. What can we do to stop the horior of it all?

Well, one thing, each of us can watch his own driving, keep his brakes properly working, "watch the intersections", take absolutely no-chances, keep the car always under reasonable control and above all elses make plenty of allowances for what the fool driver will do: The moron motorists are on every highway. Beware of them!

"A GOOD MAN"

It was never-the privilege of the writer to know Beech A. Northrop, who died suddenly last week in Florida But we hear his fellow citizens say of him. "He was a good man, you can't say too much for him.'

We wonder what finer tribute you can say of any one. To have the respect and the esteem of your fellow men: to have them speak well of you when you are gonethe finest kind of legacy that anyone can leave. We can't all be great but we can leave the world a little better than we found it and that is what Beech A Northrop seems to

DYING TOO SOON "

The last day of the old year, Richard V. Oulhanan, chief Washington correspondent of the New York Times and a great personal friend of President Hoover and of other presidents, died of pneumonia. He was 64 years old.

Here is a case of another worth while man dying too soon. He who reads the daily papers with thoughtfulness is impressed with the number of deaths of prominent men around the age of 60-years before they should pass from around the age of 60—years before they should pass from earthly scenes. Without doubt, many of these would live to their "three score years and ten" if they would slow uown a bit atter middle life and look as much to their husiness. Mederation after one health as they do to them husiness. Mederation after one passes the sixty mark will give offe the hance to round out passes to a goed eld age. If you den't think it passes to a goed eld age. If you den't think it passes to let down in later life, look at John D. Rockefeller playing gelt. m Florida-years past the 70 mark.

Our modern life sets a rapid pace. Young folks are sation not wise to follow it too closely; older people are foolish more to to try to keep up with it.

A NORTHVILLE NEED

AND

The other day an out-of-town man who had business we have had but very little time in Northville for a couple of days drove over to Plymouth for anything constructive.

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD to spend the night at the Mayflower. Probably this happens right along—we just happened to talk to this man who wondered why our town didn't have an up-to-date

> Right now may not be the time to talk about a new hotel yet one thing is sure: If Northville wants to keep going ahead it will have to have a place to care for visitors. Surrounded as we are by institutions, there will continue to be many people who will have business here, or who will visit people at these institutions, and who will want a place to spend the night. They should not be compelled to go to a neighboring town, even though they do find there one of the best hotels in the state.

Northville will not need to 'overbuild' when it comes to getting a hotel. But we do feel that a modest—yet completely modern and attractive—hotel with a limited number of rooms is one of our coming needs.

That is a sample of the prevailing dishonesty that is helping continue our depression and slow down our business. That is one of the troubles with the banking situation—not here in Northville but in some places—there has been too much thievery and stealing by men who have been trusted. That is one of the troubles with our big cities that are facing bankruptcy. The political vultures have stolen the people "blind."

THE LAUGH CURE

Northville some good advice when he talked last week to the first former of the Rotary club of the big city. We should say commodify so high-that the forget the past, regain our lost of the first week to be say commodify so high-that the forget the past, regain our lost sense of humor and face 1932 with courage and Taughter, said Dr. Rice. What a changed town we should have here if the whole community would just follow that advice.

Dr. Rice, although he lives very seriously and knows than when it is reasonable Downard feels the burden of the world as few men do, yet he ward revision would be more to the has a saving sense of humor which helps him carry the big point load he does. If he didn't see the "funny side" of a lot of things he would crack under the heavy strain he carries. We met him on the streets of Detroit, soon after our second bank had closed. Told him both of our banks had closed and we were all feeling pretty glum and discouraged. He broke out into one of his contagious laughts said something like this: "So the banks have closed; well what's that? I have been getting along without banks all my life." Now Dr. Rice didn't mean to laugh at the troubles that follow bank closings nor to ignore the real misfortune that comes to a town when it sees its banks close their doors and the receivers come along. Not at ali. He is too wise for that. What he meant to say was that there is a lot more to life than money and it is all wrong just to think that losing our money for awhile is going to stop our joy in living. And he is eternally right.

If we don't take ourselves and our troubles too seriously in 1932 and if we see the humorous side of life we'll have more strength and vision to go at it and help straighten out our griefs. Things-are going to come out all right.

We sob about the killings due to those nasty weapons but still we permit them to be manufactured and sold when that is all they can be expected to be used for, just to kill semebody with.

Dried Beet Pulp Gets The Milk

That's why it's so PROFITABLE to Use. There's no other feed in the world not one that can do the job Dried Beet Pulp does!

Dried Beet Pulp gets the milk by aiding the cow's digestion by helping in the assimilation of other feeds-by bettering health and keeping cows in constant good condition. Dried Beet Pulp is the unsung here behind many a world production record. It is the main stay of valuable herd owners who won't risk a day without it. And . . . today, with its prevailing low price, it is the bargain of the dairy world—the "buy" that dairymen from Maine to Florida and from New York to San Francisco are taking advantage of to make their grains work harder!
