LOYALTY TO NORTHVILLE

Substantial purchases for an important Northville gathering were recently made in which local business places were completely ignored and the material bought in other cities. In view of the very difficult situation in which our business people are placed in these trying days, this kind of action seems unfair and disloyal. It would seem that the home institutions should be entitled to unusual consideration in this time of emergency, especially in view of the fact that it is the home institutions that make possible our community of homes, churches, schools and other organizations.

This is not the time to be starting agitations or raising grievances in our community. We have had too much of that. We just wish to raise this point of home loyalty at this time and believe that the suggestion will be sufficient for fair minded people. There are certain loyalties that are binding, even though they are not on the statute book. We must stand or fall together.

TAX RELIEF

The revolt of the people against overwhelming taxes is beginning to bear fruit. On all sides budgets are being "balanced" and an earnest effort is being made to help the property owners whose backs are being broken by terrific tax levies. This is as it should be.

More and more people are beginning to realize that we are entering on a new era of reconstruction. Not only is the war over but the period of inflation and deflation after the war is over. We cannot think of what the dollar used to do but of what we can get now. Taxes must follow the trend of our economics. The mounting costs of the past decade or two must stop and hurt though it will, there must be slashes of costs until it hurts. New ways of raising money will not solve the problem—there must be found ways to cut costs, to lessen the number of employees, to stop the multitude of leaks that went on without protest during prosperous times when everyone had money. The tax payers are on the "war path" and we hope they stay on it until the tax burden is equalized and brought down to earth.

If the people will continue to study the tax problem, to make it a matter of personal interest, to keep firmly in touch with public officials all along the line and to insist that costs be kept down everywhere, we shall find in two or three years that our tax burden is not smothering us. There is hope ahead but there must be no let-down in bringing down budgets.

WHO WILL RESCUE THE LAW?

As we write this, on Sunday, April 3, the Lindbergh baby is still missing and Al Capone, whose name is associated with gang murders and with extortions and all manner of racketeering, still is in jail in Chicago, defying his removal to the federal prison, to which he was sentenced months and months ago.

Take these two infamous cases and ask yourself: "Where is our much boasted American law?" And: "Who runs this country anyway, the bums and gangsters or decent Americans?"

The plain fact is that the United States is at the mercy of a horde of high-powered criminals who rob banks, extort money, take human life, rob the cradle of the baby, the school of its pupils, corrupt office holders and even our seats of government. Nothing we have from our cars parked on our quiet Northville streets, to the children we send to our schools—is safe any more. The gangsters "steal us blind" and then turn around and sneer at us and make us "like it." The picture is literally appalling.

This contemptible Capone, come here from another land, flaunted every American tradition, defied every law enforcement power in Chicago and Cook county and, in desperation, the federal government had to come in and use its tremendous power, not to convict him of murder or robbery, but of income tax evasion. No wonder this man who is above the law can sit in his cell and still direct the activities of his lieutenants of vice and crime. No wonder he laughs at the law as two of his followers are said to occupy places in the Illinois legislature. Government by the Capones—what a hideous picture!

As for the Lindbergh kidnapping, our law enforcing agencies are made to look as foolish as the prosecutors of Capone. The baby is stolen and every power of criminal detection is rushed to the Lindberghs, yet what happens? The criminals are smarter than the law. They are the most vile and wretched sort of human monsters that operate to terrify human kind, yet they seem to be as immune as the gangsters who are getting to run our big cities.

What are we going to do about it? Sit supinely by until the gangsters and criminals run the rest of the country or will we have the brains and the courage to rise up and start exterminating this breed of wretches?

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Dropped in at the senior "prom" Friday evening to see our daughter and son (and also niece from Detroit) and the other young folks in all their glory and gaiety. Even though we grew to manhood without having touched the dance floor we can grant the charm and worth of these social occasions. Incidentally we couldn't help but wish that Northville would "grow" its own orchestra and keep at home that ninety dollars or so paid to outside musicians.

Did you notice that one of Governor Brucker's recommendations to the legislature in special session was that the percentage necessary for moratorium agreements to re-open banks be reduced from 95 to 85%? If that should go through—and it has a very good chance—there would be little question that the Northville banks would be opened in a few weeks.

Well known Northville man signs banks agreements; his dad "holds out." "But I'll get him yet," says the son.

Northville man wants to go to California for the Olympic games. "You can go," rules Friend Wife, "if your debts are all paid by July." "That's that," says Mr. Husband; "I see where I vacation at Walled Lake."

The Record is a busy place, even if collections are slow and it is hard to keep one's head "above water." Nine folks are working here every day and two more part time. Showed Jacob Furst through the composing and press room the other day and he said something like this: "I never dreamed that you had as fine a place as this." Just on the side, we hear that one of our "boys" is going to establish a home in Northville before long. Married or still their "own boss," they are a loyal crew.

The Publishers' Auxiliary gives the name of Major Elton R. Eaton as one of the many publishers of the nation who will attend the National Editorial association next July in California. Michigan country weeklies are proud that Mr. Eaton, president of their state association, can represent them on the coast. A former daily publisher, now in the country field, the former Record head has a remarkably successful newspaper background.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

How many new cars will Northville buy in the next three months?

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

LACY AND MURPHY DECLINE

(Charlotte Republican-Tribune)

Judge A. J. Lacy and Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit have both declared this week that they do not want the democratic nomination for governor. "These men adhere strictly to their respective state, means the democratic nomination will go very likely to John W. Miller, leading Jackson attorney who has always been considered a potential candidate. Miller was opposed to prohibition long before this position was as politically popular as it is today. He has many powerful contacts about the state and has been twice appointed as a member of the Michigan prison commission, the first time by Governor Green.

"PELICANS—A PARABLE"

(San Francisco News)

Fred I. Purdy, the News' authority on fish and game, told a story about the pelicans of Santa Monica.

Bay in his column the other day that reminds us of a lot of humans thereabouts.

"For years these pelicans," said Mr. Purdy, "had been fed by fishermen from their surplus catch, until they got into the habit of coming without work."

"This year high seas and changing currents off Santa Monica cut down the catch, and the fishermen no longer had any fish to spare. They noticed that the pelicans languished and grew thin, and it dawned on them that they had forgotten how to fish for themselves. So they went down the coast and found some unimpaired pelicans who had never been ruined by easy living and free fish. They turned them loose among the starving birds, who sat about on the beach and complained of the depression."

"The way those imported pelicans went out after their own fish was an eye-opener. Pretty soon the hungry natives quit watching and tried it themselves. They discovered there were plenty of fish in the sea for the bird with energy and enterprise. And they have quit talking about the depression."

MARCHING AS TO WAR

(The Toledo Blade)

It's time for Americans, all of us, to purge ourselves of the bitterness that has subverted our normal well-being for all too many months. We have been in an unhealthy state of mind too long for the good of the nation.

Grover Cleveland once caused people to sit up and take notice with the simple, striking remark that it was a condition, not a theory, that confronted the country. Again it is a condition, severe and disheartening, which cannot be remedied by precipitate accusations and recriminations. We have floundered around in the dark, trying to locate the germ that bit us. Who is to blame for our ailment? The president; this group or that group; always the other fellow. Alas, the condition remains unchanged, and the remedy will come, and come only through the use of hard-headed, common sense, plus sacrifice.

Now is as good a time as any to make up our minds that we are to be taxed until it hurts and made to like it. The government budget has got to be balanced.

Soon it will be the fifteenth anniversary of the month and day when the nation agreed to get into the World War. For what purpose doesn't matter now. Events that followed rapidly are still vivid in the memory of most of us. Few have forgotten the way the country's resources were marshalled to make a supreme test of our strength. We watched groups of young men march away from their homes one after another, until the scene hurt us inside. They were marshalled for death. It's a different conflict at this time. We must be disciplined for life marching as to war.

Herbert Hoover should now have the kind of backing Woodrow Wilson received in 1917.

Senators are planning Niagara Falls trip.

Northville rural mail carriers state that the statements being made in some metropolitan daily papers, on the propaganda to cut the salaries of the R. F. In the Northville office the two carriers, R. E. Gehratty of No. one and Roy G. Clark of No. two, spend an hour and a half in the morning in preparing their mail and at least half an hour on the return. Each of the local carriers covers 45 miles—not 25 as some of the papers state—and puts in on an average of from six to seven hours in the service every day.

PATRICK O'GRADY

He was a copper when I was a cub writing the record of crime. And he didn't know and I didn't know how far the other would climb.

But he did know the things that I wanted to know so often at midnight we'd meet. And talk of the dark, news that makes up this life while he was patrolling the beat.

There were coppers back then that have long been forgot. They had bodies that measured to size. They fitted their uniforms neatly enough but there wasn't much back of their eyes.

They were lacking in courage or honor or wit. At the slightest temptation they'd fall. And they slipped out of sight when the testing time came but O'Grady was always on call.

There was something within him as old-time's knew that was deeper than polish or gloss. There was never a deadline of gangster or crook that he wouldn't venture across.

He looked on his work as a serious task and he lived to the oath he had sworn. And many a gun-man sits cursing the day that Patrick O'Grady was born.

I've lived my life in an easier way by looking a few words that rhyme. But O'Grady has won the respect of us all by fighting the forces of crime.

And mingled emotions of pride and regret I am sure the occasion inspires.

In the breasts of old friends who have known him for years when a man like O'Grady retires.

His is a service that needs no defense, a record you don't have to pad.

You can read in the deeds which comprise his career he has given us the best that he had. And so for the copper who once trod a beat comes the youngest who once covered crime.

Back to headquarters to greet him once more and give him this tribute in rhyme.

—EDGAR A. GUEST—

LEGIONNAIRES WIN BANQUET TRIUMPH

(Continued from page 1) against the unemployment menace and through the nation 400,000 men have been given work as the result of this drive. A fifth ideal is the move to insist on alien registration and in some way to drive to cover the million and a half who are here illegally. Touching on the alien menace he said: "One of the greatest travesties of our time is the picture of Al Capone and the underworld bartering with our government."

Commander Keegen climaxed his address with a plea for an adequate national defense. "The Legion is the last organization to ask for war—no group knows more the horrors of it—but we believe that an adequate defense is the best preparation for peace." He told of the campaign being waged to get a bill through Congress that will provide for conscription of wealth as well as manhood in the next war, if any there be.

Judge Gillis Is Heard

Judge Joseph Gillis of the Common Pleas court of Detroit, in an eloquent and straightforward address drove home and emphasized the points made by previous speakers. He made a telling plea for the support of the government during these times of emergency. "Our present trouble," he went on, "is part of a world-wide condition and anyone who complains about his government is a coward and a pessimist who will not take the bitter with the sweet. The Legion believes in a revival of the old type of patriotism."

Thanks to the efficient use of the "traffic lights," the speeches came to an end five minutes before ten o'clock—just two minutes ahead of time, said the toastmaster. With the retirement of the colors there came to a close the notable event, one of the most colorful and enjoyable of the year in Northville.

NOTICE

I understand that some people criticize The Northville State Savings Bank on account of the so-called Bradner mortgage $60,875.00, which is being foreclosed by advertisement in The Northville Record.

I wish to say to the people that this mortgage was assigned to the Northville State Savings Bank as security for a loan on a note by Mrs. Susan J. Bradner, amounting at the present time to $4,434.72.

I believe that this answers the gossip in a satisfactory manner.

CHILDREN'S EPIDEMICS ARE QUIETING DOWN

The slight epidemic of children's diseases is not spreading to any degree. In only one family, the children of Mrs. Hunter on Wing street, are there cases of measles. Bob is now well and his two younger brothers, George and Frank, are ill. At present there are only four cases of chicken pox. Village health officer Dr. Wilbur Johnston reports whooping cough in three families in which there are six cases in town and three cases in the township. None of these children are seriously ill and it is hoped with the approach of warmer weather and more outdoor living they will subside entirely.

KATHLEEN RINCK WINS PIANO CONTEST

Even though competing against pupils from the ages of fourteen and fifteen, Kathleen Rinck, thirteen, won first place in a district piano contest sponsored by the Michigan Federation of Music Teachers, at Ann Arbor, on April 2. Kathleen next competes in the state contest to be held at Battle Creek April 16.

Each contestant was required to play the same three selections: "Gavotte," Bach; "Song for the Russian," Scriabin; and "D Major," Glazounoff.

Three judges decided that Kathleen should have first honors. Yvonne Rinck, Kathleen's seven-year-old sister, was entered in the contest with children under ten years of age "just for experience," but even so the judges wanted to give Yvonne a place among the winners.

Mrs. M. M. Lyon of Ann Arbor is Kathleen's teacher and certainly deserves credit for the fine showing of her pupil. Yvonne studies with one of Mrs. Lyon's advanced pupils, Margaret Höpfer.

Northville has every reason to be proud of these two fine musicians.

INTRAMURAL TOURNAMENT WON BY FRESHMEN

The lowly freshmen came out of the recent intramural basketball tournament as the upper dogs—the victors. They won all six of the games they played. The seniors came second with four wins and two losses. The juniors were third and the sophomores brought up the rear.

These games were all very fast and interesting. They were capably refereed by the following boys: Lemmon, Campbell, Beach, Westphall, Riffenburg and Johnson.

A beautiful trophy was awarded to the winners. This will be jealously guarded by the freshmen until next year when they will defend it as sophomores.

SENIOR WHO'S WHO

Of the adventures of Arline Richardson and Catherine Stalter. Arline began her career on November 11, 1914, in the large metropolis of Northville. She has lived here all of her life and attended school here.

She is a member of the "Jug" club, Travel Club and Girls' Glee club and appeared in the senior play "Sevenson."

After graduating, Arline would like to attend Michigan State College for some course in music.

Catherine began her career, a little later, May 13, 1914, many miles from here, in the town of Colorado, where she attended the first five grades there and then feeling the urge to travel came to Northville.

She is a member of the "Jug" club, Travel Club "Gang" club and was a member of the Orange and Black staff and the Palladium staff. She also took a part in the senior play "Catherine" has been on Northville's Debate team for four years and she will surely be missed when the team goes with her absent.

After graduating, Catherine intends to go to Michigan State college.

BASE BALL IS IN THE AIR

Spring is here and with it base ball. This year the boys are going to win every game; and they can if they have the school to support them.

Forest Lemmon is captain with the following boys coming out for the team: H. Berendt, R. Westfall, W. Thompson, L. Kohler, M. Tibble, D. Deal, G. Beasley, I. Ware, W. Neal, C. Meisner, D. Bulmon, W. Dickerson, A. Hills, D. Bray and M. Cyriler.

Doesn't that look like a good, strong team to beat any school? It does so.

Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Grosvenor were Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Andrews of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Neat-hammer of Ann Arbor.

MARCH UNCORKS ALL KINDS OF WEATHER

March surely lived up to her reputation for "fickleness" this year. Coming in like a lion, she raged with actual winter fury for a few days. Cold north winds with snow piled so high that it took eighteen husky men working on day and night shifts to clear the business district. Biting spring-like days with soft breezes and the songs of birds, hail storms, sleet, thunder, lightning, rain, frost, sunshine—all varieties of weather to suit the taste of all—were handed to Michigan by the March. Right in the midst of her worst snow storm there arrived in their home town a number of those vagrant Northville sons who had chosen to fan themselves under southern palms in Florida all winter and who had the daring to tell folks who they had basked in the warm sands of sun-tossed shores.

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

By MRS. EDITOR

HOME

Deep in the heart of all of us women, is the love for a beautiful home. To many of us the house of our dreams will always be a secret longing, never satisfied. If the rug is new the wall paper will be faded—and so it goes.

The only really perfect houses we remember were almost too perfect for comfort. Professional home decorators had designed their color schemes. One could not imagine children living there and there were none. We chanced to know that in spite of their perfect surroundings there was a hollow emptiness in those homes.

Do we remember the imperfections of our childhood homes? Not a bit. Only the spirit of home and the good times together stand out in memory.

"Home," says a child-authority, is a happy place where the ginger ale is always on the ice, where there is always music, where parents are hospitable without being intrusive. Young people come and cluster. Home is a laboratory for friendships. Children's acquaintances come in free and easy. Their friendships go in phases—they soon grow off one set for another. Don't take these phases too seriously but give them time to work out their own salvation. When we undertake the care of children we bind ourselves not to allow our nerves to become overstrained. No matter what other activities suffer, we must not be irritable but must keep ourselves in a clear-headed state of sound nervous health.

Everything is of less importance than the color of the home background. Better plain meals and clothes unadorned than cross mothers. Do we strain after things so that we are too tired to enjoy good times with children? What kind of homes do children love to visit—grand or simple? Always where there is a happy atmosphere.

A Northville man recently paid this tribute to his mother-in-law: "We kids always loved to go there. No matter how big the crowd, she always fed us—I don't know how she managed it. I've seen her stir up hot biscuits if she was short on bread—and she was always jolly." Sounds almost too good to be true, doesn't it? We commend to you mothers of lots of children a little story by Grace Richmond, "Round the Corner in Gay Street," or that other one, "Red of the Red-Fields," or that "home classic," "Late Women," by Louisa M. Alcott, for pictures of ideal home atmosphere.

I AM YOUR HOME

By F. R. Hayward

I am your home
I am a bundle of bricks, or stone, and some wood. I can be sold or bought in the market for a few thousands in money.

But I am more than these—I am thousands of years of human history with the long struggle of mankind for love and protection. Sacrifice and great expectations. Hope that endures and is patient and believes always that tomorrow will be bright.

Dreams and visions and aspirations. Tears and struggle and disappointment that robs the soul apart. A holl and a breathing space in the hot hard struggle of life. Horny hands and self-discipline and laughter. They say that I am held together by nails and cement and mortar. But I am held together by forgiveness that even forgets. Love that fails not. Trust and confidence that laugh at mistakes. An understanding of each other that goes deep and reaches far and lasts forever. I am your home.

FRUIT PUDDING

Mrs. N. E. Allison (one of Northville's good cooks) made the following pudding for the Exchanges which was enjoyed by these men: 1 egg, butter size of walnut, 1/2 cup sweet milk, 1 teaspoonful baking powder in 1 cup flour, 1/4 cup sugar. Put batter in baking pan and pour over it the following: 1 cup fruit (any kind), 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup boiling water. Bake. Batter will rise to the top. Serve with cream if desired.

This Week

By H. H. White

So often when one is considering heredity he is quite apt to feel that fate is the master, while in reality we are "masters of our own fate." You make your own environment to a far greater extent than it makes you. This is because life, fundamentally is one of self-expression and self-realization. I think every one should study his heredity with respect to his immediate forbears and ancestors. It should be expedient that he choose his vocation in life with the view in mind of the successes of his antecedents or whatever their failures were. For instance if they had a certain excessive bad habit, it should be guarded against and if they were particularly talented this should be cultivated. No doubt you have some or all of these adverse or good inheritances.

The statement by the Great Gailan, "Let your light so shine before all," is a most excellent axiom to use that your natural born light may be seen by all those that you come in contact with along the pathway of life. You are always going to live with yourself and thus you should make yourself a good person to live with. There is the possibility that you have inherited a good many traits your ancestors had. Explore yourself and find out. Of course you cannot express somebody's heredity, for you must express your own. For you will find no quarrel or antagonism with environment or heredity. Heredity has furnished you with untold powers, but few ever unfold them and use them to their fullest extent. But it is one's duty to use these inheritances and powers in building an environment amid which and with you and your posterity, there may be the noblest and best possible practical achievements.

This view, which I consider far from being fatalistic, should fill one with the most inspiring optimism. A youth may never hear by chance a fine inspiring sermon, or read some inspiring book, which our environmentalists will point out as being the "cause" of his fine career in life. For if such things are the "causes" which determine the success or failure of anyone in life, then we are mere pawns on the chessboards of life, mere marionettes ready to jump, dance or act when pulled by the mysterious hand of doom. According to the extreme environmentalists, in bad surroundings a boy is bound to turn out an enemy of society, while a good environment cannot produce anything short of an absolute good and useful member of society. Whatever the optimism or pessimism of such a view, it is obvious that such a statement cannot be generally applied. We have but to turn to history to read how great men have come from poor or bad environment, and the converse.

But the thing to reflect on and meditate about is that each and every child, who is not an absolute idiot or imbecile has within him the glorious possibilities and powers by which he may seek the inspiring man who will preach to him the inspiring sermon; he has the same power to seek out the good book and read it; he has the power to

HOLD YOUR BONDS

Clinton County Republican News

People all over Michigan hold real estate bonds, many of which have suspended payment of interest or have defaulted payment at maturity. The market price on these is low if there is any market at all. Recent indications point out that there are many sharp individuals who are picking up these bonds at absurd prices, making the owners believe they are worthless. One Shawassaw county widow sold $9,000 worth (face value) to two strangers for $900. She could have sold them the same day in Detroit for over $4,000. Don't deal with strangers. If bondholders must sell, be sure to get the full market price of that date. Generally speaking, we believe it is better to hold bonds. Many issues will pay more later.

Every Monday Morning

By "AD" SCHWENGER

In a game of bridge last Friday (April Fool's Day) Doc Steele picked up his cards and nearly collapsed when he noted 13 spades, a perfect bridge hand, starting him in the face.

Doc kept what he thought was a perfect poker face but if anyone had been watching his hands they'd have thought he had suddenly contracted palsy. Mrs. Steele bid a heart, Doc's partner bid a diamond, next player bid two hearts and then in a piping tremolo, Doc bid two spades.

A "kibitzer" walked behind Doc's chair and let out a yelp of surprise when he glimpsed the 13-spade hand. Doc turned around and gave the kibitzer a dirty look but the joke was too much for the rest of the players and they all burst into laughter.

A fixed deck of cards had been handed Steele to deal and the perfect hand was nothing more than an April Fool's hoax.

"I got 'sucked in' on that day also but I'm not telling how it happened."

The coming of spring (the calendar says it is) always brings a round the fact that it won't be long before graduation time. I can remember going up to get my diploma one time and the gown I had on was too long. I started treading on the front of the gown as I left my seat and by the time I reached the platform my neck was pulled so far down that I looked like a stray copy of the hunchback of Notre Dame.

Climaxing the social season for the seniors their annual prom held last Friday night, was as nice a party as anyone could wish. Clean-cut looking boys and starry-eyed girls alive with excitement in their new evening gowns made the dance a real pleasure to watch.

But the oldesters, many of whom were present, did much better than that—they got out on the floor and shuffled a few tricky steps themselves.

Old Man Depression is going to have a tough time beating that kind of spirit.

What is so rare as an April day in April?

PROGRESS GOES FORWARD ON NEW PAVED PARKWAY

(From Plymouth Mail)
Remarkable progress is being made by workmen on the grading for the new parkway paved road that will be built this year from the Plymouth-Riverside park entrance to the Center street road in Northville just south of the fair grounds.

The fill that was required for the roadway from the Plymouth-Detroit road to the Pere Marquette tracks directly north of the park entrance has been completed. The opening for the subway under the railroad has been made and as soon as weather conditions will permit the construction of the concrete abutments will be started. It is anticipated that this grade separation will have been completely finished by June 30.

During the past few days men have started filling for the roadway between the Northville-Plymouth road to the new bridge that crosses the Rouge river some 800 feet to the west. Much of the roadway from this point through the woods and along the Rouge river to a point back of the Ford Phoenix plant has been graded. There is also being made at the present time a fill back of the Phoenix plant across the low marsh of the roadway at this point. Big steam shovels have excavated the soft marsh earth down to the clay hardpan and as a result many hundred loads of filling earth are being required to fill this place.

As a temporary provision and to do away with the necessity of constructing another grade separation this year, the county has decided to connect the new road up with the present paved highway just north of the Phoenix Ford plant. Traffic from this point will use the old highway to a place just south of the old Meads Mills road where it will swing onto the new park thoroughfare that follows along the river away to the fair grounds in Northville.

My calendar tells me that today is Arbor Day in New Jersey, West Virginia and Missouri. I feel full of the spirit of tree planting and for a nickel, 1898, I'd go out and plant an arboretum.

I am obsessed with the golfing fever. Verily do I wait anxiously for the coming of spring and warm weather. Longing and for the healing s-s-swish of a steel shafted club and the loud crack as the club head meets the ball and sends it soaring. Then I go over in the rough and after a futile 30 to 45 minutes searching I wearily draw forth another of the golf balls purloined from my brother's outfit and resume the game.

At week it's dubs like me that make the manufacturers' substandard hands in glee. If any manufacturers can be said to be rubbing their hands in glee during these days

To prevent also the necessity of building two bridges over the Rouge river at Meads Mills, the course of the river was recently changed for a distance of nearly 500 feet. The grading from this place along the river to the Six Mile road, then across the hills back of the Cass Benton park to Northville, was completed early in the winter.

That the county anticipates paying much of this thoroughfare early in the summer is evident from the fact that considerable construction material is being placed along the new roadway.

This improvement has provided labor for thousands of men during the winter months who would have required public charity if it had not been for this work. In fact much of the improvement has been made in order to give needy men employment. It is stated that it is for the same purpose that the county is planning on doing considerable more work on the parkway this year than had formerly been intended.
