

BAND CONCERT IS TREAT FOR MUSIC LOVERS

Prof. Percy Angove Praises Organization as Aid to Community

The High School and Community band with its 53 members under the direction of Edwin Head, and with the very fine assistance of Pierre Kenyon and Ben Stewart as vocal soloists, gave a concert last Friday night in the Presbyterian church which will not be forgotten for a long time by those who attended. Unfortunately the crowd which attended, while very appreciative, was all too small and inadequate for this musical treat of such a high order.

To those who watched the fine direction and absolute cooperation of the band in the rendering of their numbers, there was little doubt that it was the result of hours of patient practice and faithful attendance at rehearsals. The very fact that a large number of the players had only been in the band since last spring indicated that Northville is indeed extremely fortunate to have a man like Mr. Head with such rare attainments as our band leader.

Prof. Percy Angove of the Wayne County Training school gave an interesting talk and drew his ideas entirely from the concert itself and the good effect that such an organization as a community band can have on those concerned with it and its personnel. He went on to say that no town in the state for its size had a band comparable to ours. Nor could there be found anywhere a finer, cleaner, group of young people than those who composed our band. He said the depression has not affected interest in the band and that learning to harmonize was effective in the making of better men and women of those who composed our band. Mr. Angove was paid very high tribute by the speaker for his untiring and effective efforts as business manager of the band. It is interesting to note that Prof. Angove played in the same band in England with Mr. Head.

Another feature was that Sam Head played very capably a trombone solo arranged by his father. Northville was glad to hear Ben Stewart again singing with his usual ability and Pierre Kenyon kept his good record intact with his performance.

One of the high lights of the programme was a descriptive fantasy arrangement entitled, "A Soldier's Life," by Mr. Head himself.

Our community is indeed fortunate to have an organization that carries a message of music and harmony of such a fine order and those who attended were simply carried away with the beauty and thrill of this rare musical treat which belongs to Northville.

FORD FACTORY NOW EMPLOYS 160 MEN

Approximately 160 men are now working in the local Ford factory and prospects are for the continued taking on of men who formerly worked there, reports from the company state.

According to officials of the valve factory here, new equipment, which is being received in large shipments, will enable the local plant to turn out a much larger quantity of valves.

The factory here, it is said, at one time employed 400 men in three eight-hour shifts. As production of the present new model Ford speeds up, it is said, production in the local valve factory will be stepped up in giving work to more Northville men.

DE MOLAYS TO HOLD MOTHERS' BANQUET

The second annual mother's banquet given by the Fellowship chapter of DeMolay will be held Thursday, May 12 at 8:30 o'clock in the Masonic temple on Penniman avenue in Plymouth.

The speaker will be H. C. L. Jackson, popular Detroit News columnist, whose speech will be as interesting as his column. Mr. Jackson will speak on "Present-day Mother and Son Relations." The program will also include music by the Plymouth high school boys' quartette and piano solos by Richard Shipley of Northville.

Reservations, 40c a plate, and it will be worth every cent of it, too. Reservations may be had from Marvin Tibble or Richard Shipley.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White returned Tuesday from a visit at the home of his brother at Flushing, Michigan.

MANAGES BAND

Fred W. Lyke, business manager of Northville's high school band, for three years has brought to that organization many engagements in other communities which have resulted in spreading the fame of the Northville musicians.

MR. AND MRS. CARRIER TO OPEN RESTAURANT ON CENTER STREET

Northville is to have a new place of business which will be located in what was formerly the Truitt Hair shop, on North Center street. It is to be a restaurant, and will be run by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Carrier, who have many years experience in this line of business. They want to locate permanently in this vicinity, and intend to make Northville their future home, should conditions and business warrant it.

Several months ago they took an extensive trip in the West in the interests of Mr. Carrier's health, thinking the change would benefit him, but he tells the Record that after traveling extensively in California, Texas, Colorado and elsewhere, he found Michigan weather about as good as any kind he could find in the U. S. A. They will open probably on Saturday, May 4.

Mrs. Carrier was the former Mrs. Barber, who lived at South Lyon, where she conducted a successful business.

CHICKEN DINNER DRAWS BIG CROWD

The ladies of the Altar society of Our Lady of Victory church tried an interesting experiment last Sunday which surpassed their hopes. Thinking that folks might appreciate a chance to go out for Sunday dinner and incidentally enjoy a social time together, these ladies cooked a fine chicken dinner and invited the public to come in.

Responding to the invitation a goodly number of Northville folks and even a number from Detroit and surrounding towns took occasion to enjoy a generous home-cooked meal served in pleasant surroundings. Some brought guests with them and paid social debts in this way.

Altogether that good chicken and biscuits disappeared like dew before the sun and at the last it was necessary to go out for more supplies. Mrs. Harry Marburger was "general" of the affair with a capable committee of assistants who helped make the affair a success.

CLEAN-UP ENDS TOMORROW

Tomorrow (Saturday) evening marks the conclusion of Northville's Clean-up campaign for this year. Street Commissioner Earl Montgomery and his men spent most of the week picking up receptacles placed on the curbs by residents.

Confidence Needed to End Depression, Supt. Geo. Smith Tells Rotarians

Welcoming Albert Holmes, west of town, and James Spagnuolo of the Northville Confectionery as new members, Northville Rotarians at their meeting Tuesday at the Presbyterian church house heard Supt. George Smith of the Plymouth schools give a vivid analysis of the present depression. The neighboring educator took as his theme, "Poverty in a Land of Plenty."

"The most dangerous thing for the average community today," said Supt. Smith, "is the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few." The big reason for the depression, he said, was not overproduction but under consumption, caused by the fact that the common people have no money with which to buy. There is, of course, plenty of money that is tied up in the hands of the few and the nation is not short of money but short of credit. A restoration of faith and confidence in each other would bring us out of the present unrest and would set one dollar doing the work of ten, he said.

BANK CODICIL ENDORSED BY TOWN COUNCIL

Village Awards Contract for Water Improvement to Taft

Instructing the village treasurer to sign the supplemental depositors' agreement which makes it necessary for Northville banks to obtain, under a new law, signatures representing only 85 per cent of the total bank deposits in order to reopen the Northville village council threw its whole-hearted support in favor of the movement. The village of Northville has approximately $25,000 in public money on deposit in the two closed banks and the reopening of the banks would enable the council to borrow from the banks against its deposits totaling $150,000 and pay off $12,000 in past due bonds.

Dr. L. W. Snow, village president, and Ross B. Eusembury, chairman of the finance committee, are endeavoring to complete negotiations this week-end for a loan of $12,000 with which to pay off the debt which the village still owes on its paving bonds.

The council also awarded, at this meeting, the contract for improvements on the Northville water system, described previously in The Record when the water problem was before the voters. The contract was for $734.80 and was awarded to Gerald Taft of 411 N. Center street.

It was moved that the village purchase for $300 an acre of land owned by August Bernhard, which adjoins the Bernhard spring. The purchase was recommended by engineer H. F. Haglund and the council passed the motion unanimously.

Plans for the American Legion, the cost of which are not to exceed $20,000, was recommended and will be purchased by the village.

Reports of the village treasurer and the chief of police were accepted.

SUMMER VACATION SCHOOL TO BE HELD HERE FOR TWO WEEKS

At the meeting of the Northville Council of Religious Education on Wednesday afternoon the report of the Training school, held in February, was presented by the dean, Rev. H. G. Whitfield.

The report showed that 51 were enrolled, 35 of whom received credits. The respective enrollments and credits were: Baptist 17 and 15, Methodist 13 and 8, Presbyterian 21 and 12. From the standpoint of finances, the school was self-supporting.

Plans were made for the summer vacation school to be held June 27 to continue for two weeks. Rev. W. R. Barbour was elected dean and Rev. Frank N. Mizer registrar. The visiting churches look forward enthusiastically to a splendid school this year. It deserves the attention of all.

"TIM" DIES

"Tim," favorite pet of Northville business men, a fox terrier owned by Orlow G. Owen, died Wednesday evening as a result of injuries sustained mysteriously Tuesday night. The dog had been brought to Mr. Owen's house Wednesday morning in a badly cut condition by the nightwatchman, Robert Pickell.

Dr. Snow Makes Appeal

Allow me to make an appeal to you, to let no time elapse in signing the new moratorium agreement, now providing that 85% in the amount of deposits, is sufficient to re-open our banks.

Perhaps this plan has not met with the approval of a small minority of the depositors, although you must not lose sight of the fact that this plan is one that has been advised by the state banking commission as the proper one.

The imperative need for Northville, at the present time, is to have a bank and it is the duty of every loyal citizen to support any plan which will re-open them.

At the present time a little over $25,000 of our village money is tied up, which will not be released as a preferred account, under the decision handed down by Circuit Judge Monihan; however, it will be possible, with an opened bank, for the village to loan this money, to pay up a default highway bond; and to go ahead with improvements that are very necessary and advised by the state health department. I refer particularly to the present program of water improvement.

Your commission, as it is the duty of any administrative body in village, town or city, wishes to take a conservative stand during this crisis which our country has been enduring for the past two years, and it is our present plan to have the home owner sprinkle the street in front of his home to allay dust, instead of the village paying between $700 and $800 for chloride of lime, which in the past has been unsatisfactory. The use of oil would be almost double in cost and I have made inquiry in villages where it has been used, finding it most unsatisfactory. Does this not seem logical during this time of depression, in doing away with the expense of lime and a still larger expense of using oil, both having been proven unsatisfactory for every citizen of Northville to get busy with his hose and sprinkle the street or suggest to his wife that she keep the front door and windows closed?

In an attempt by the council to get a reduction in gas rates, a conference was held in Detroit with a representative of the Gas company and a strong appeal was made by him, to us, to refrain from asking for any adjustments this year, due to the fact that all industries, including public utilities, are passing through a period of liquidation and depression never before experienced, and any reduction in earnings at the present time would merely retard recovery. The company that supplies Northville has been compelled to cease paying dividends in order to conserve cash and continue to function as an operating concern.

And reduction in rates would mean very little saving to the consumer. On the other hand, the total reduction would place the Gas company in a position where it might be difficult to render service; however, assurance was given us, that a strenuous effort would be made next year to lower rates.

Yours sincerely,
Dr. L. W. Snow.

Plymouth Mail Pays Tribute to Worth of Nelson C. Schrader

Hundreds of friends of Nelson C. Schrader, both in and around Northville, will say "Amen" to the following splendid tribute to him, written by Editor Elton R. Eaton of The Plymouth Mail and published in that paper's editorial column last week. This is what both Plymouth and Northville think of Mr. Schrader.

"We Are Sorry to Lose Neil"
In the 25 year ago column of the Plymouth Mail last week appeared a brief item about the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Schrader to Northville. The final paragraph of the item said, "We are sorry to lose Neil." What has happened during the intervening 25 years that has any bearing upon the expression of regret contained in the Mail of the yesterday?

When Mr. Schrader moved to Northville he had purchased a small furniture and undertaking business there. By strict attention to affairs and diligent work, his business started to grow. He put up a new block for his furniture store, one of the most attractive structures on the business streets of the town. Then he erected a beautiful chapel for his undertaking work. Business continued to grow and seven or eight years ago he erected another block on the other side of his furniture store. His place of business is now by far the largest in Northville.

In civic affairs his success has been as marked as in business. He has served numerous times as village president. He has been president of one of the luncheon clubs of the town and for many years has been the president of the Northville-Wayne County Fair Association, an organization that he still heads. In the 25 years since he left Plymouth he has become the largest taxpayer in Northville and one of the most devoted workers to the progress and advancement of the community he adopted as his home. His intense civic loyalty and interest has naturally had much to do with his material achievements. There is not much question but what he would have attained the same success, possibly a bit more, if he had remained in the community where he first started his business career.

The Mail said 25 years ago, "we are sorry to lose Neil." The Mail says today, "we are sorry we lost Neil."

DOUBLE DRIVE TO BE READY BY FALL

Completion of Northville's beautiful "double drive" on Plymouth avenue, from the Pere Marquette station to the Seven Mile road is a possibility by September 1.

Word comes from the county road commission at Detroit that the contract for filling has been let and that work will soon be under way on the project. At the time of putting the pavement through, two houses were removed to make way for the east half of the drive. Other preliminary work in clearing the way has been done. Road scrapers are now at work there.

This two-way bit of pavement will make a splendid approach to Northville and will give a splendid opportunity for beautification. A number of fine trees will grace the parkway between the two stretches of pavement.

O. E. S. INSTALLS OFFICERS FRIDAY

The annual installation of officers of Order chapter No. 77, O. E. S., took place in the Masonic temple Friday evening, April 29.

About one hundred members and guests were present, assembled in the chapter rooms which were beautifully decorated with plants and cut flowers. Presiding the installation was a short program was given consisting of several recitations by Miss Wilma Rattenbury, a piano solo by Miss Eunice Cousins, with vocal numbers by little Vivian Grosvenor and Pierre Kenyon whose accompanist was Miss Sutherland. Following came an address of welcome by Miss Ruth Gillis, president of the local Past Matrons' club. The retiring matron and patron, Mrs. Dawn Holcomb and Claude Ely, and the installing officers were escorted into the room and seated. Mrs. Selma Brown, associate grand matron of the state, acted as installing matron, assisted by Mrs. Marie Griswold as chaplain. Mrs. Rhoda Wagonschutz as marshal and Mrs. Katherine Miller of Redford as organist. The impressive installation ceremony was beautifully done by this efficient corps of officers, the newly elected and appointed officers for the local chapter being:

Mrs. Catherine Johnston, worthy matron; Horace Boyden, worthy patron; Mrs. Vance Masters, associate matron; Charles F. Murphy, associate patron; Mrs. Merlene L. Ray, secretary; Mrs. Jennie Cousins, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Dene, conductress; Mrs. Velma Freydl, associate conductress; Mrs. Bertha Kerr, chaplain; Mrs. Margaret Bryan, marshal; Mrs. Florence Ross, organist; Mrs. Helen Smith, Adah; Mrs. Emmeline Glover, Ruth; Miss Marie Schoof, Esther; Mrs. Mrs. Lutsenberger, Martha; Mrs. Zola Mae Harris, Electa; Mrs. Edith Strautz, warden, Dean Griswold, sentinel.

At the conclusion a number of gifts were presented and a short address made by the new worthy matron.

Several small children assisted in the service, including tiny Patricia Johnston, Billy Johnston and Bobby Masters.

A number of former Northville people attended, among them Mrs. Mary Cassie, Mrs. Maude Regula and Mrs. Helen Flaherty, now of Detroit.

Another feature was the address of Mrs. Georgia Lovewell who, on behalf of the Past Matrons' club, presented the chapter with a beautiful new altar cloth and Bible cover.

Northville's Two Fine Greenhouses In Full Bloom For Mother's Day

Mother's Day, Sunday, May 8, offers Northville's sons and daughters an opportunity to trade with two of the finest greenhouses in lower Michigan, Jones' Floral company and Alexander's Greenhouse, send hundreds of flowers to Detroit retail florists each month and they have saved for Mother's Day the choicest of their cut flowers, potted plants and combination boxes.

Jones Floral company, located at 117 Dubuque street, and Alexander's Greenhouse, 156 Rayson, have a gorgeous profusion of spring flowers. Visitors are invited to view the splendid displays of snapdragons, calceolarias, larkspur, primrose, calla lilies and other flowers now in full blossom.

Alexander Stanslaus, proprietor of Alexander's greenhouse, learned his trade in Germany as a youth and following the world war he came to this country where he has worked as a florist with large Detroit companies and also in Plymouth, finally purchasing his greenhouse here from the Benedict brothers approximately a year ago.

Since his advent here he has won many friends and built up a good trade for his flowers of which he has a fine supply of both potted plants and flowers for cutting. Jones has been a florist with a large following in Northville for 15 years and is well known in Detroit as a grower of quality flowers. His exhibits have won notable mention in Detroit flower shows and visitors to his greenhouse invariably commend favorably on the beautiful flowers which grace the stands in orderly rows.

His snapdragons, with their brilliant coloring and splendid, strong height are the envy of expert florists everywhere.

Small town growers take the larger part of their flowers to Detroit, saving the best of their collection for their home town trade, say these florists, and trading at home enables the customer to keep his money in town and get a better selection of quality flowers than if he were to go out of town.

Visitors will find a trip to either of these green houses well worth while as both have their spring flowers in full blossom for the Mother's Day trade.

FIFTY MEN PROMISE AID IN CAMPAIGN TO BRING SUCCESS OF BANK PLAN

Intensive Effort Will Be Made to Have 85%
Of Deposits Signed Before
June 1

"If this community fails to get together for a new bank and let our closed banks continue their liquidation, it will take Northville 25 years to recover from the effects of it," said Alex Christensen to nearly 50 Northville business and professional men gathered Tuesday evening at the public library to face the problem of how to bring about the success of the moratorium plan now being signed by depositors of the Lapham and Northville State Savings banks.

The meeting was an unusually earnest one. The conviction seemed to be unanimous that Northville faces a most critical situation and that united action alone will prevent staggering losses. Several speakers also pointed out that a fair-minded survey of all the facts would dissolve opposition to the moratorium plan.

From the two hours' discussion of plain facts came a unanimous action at the close of the gathering that the entire community must unite to bring about the merger of the two closed banks. Every man present agreed to go out and work for the moratorium plan.

"We have been lying down on the job," said Dr. L. W. Snow, village president, "and I for one, am prepared to take off my coat to bring this thing to a successful completion."

Harry S. German, former village president and now an official of the bank at Caledonia, added his support. "The moratorium plan is the best by all means—in fact it is the only plan to meet Northville's problem," he stated emphatically. "I believe that all the facts have been given clearly and that once people know exactly the whole situation and what is liable to happen to our town, they will be glad to co-operate to open the banks and give us one institution which will be enough for the community."

E. H. Lapham pointed out that the state banking department is wholeheartedly back of Northville in its battle for the new bank and that the community has until June 1 to complete the signing of the moratorium agreements. Due to the passing of a new law by the special session of the legislature and its signature by the governor, it is now necessary to have only .85 per cent of signers. It is a very small minority refused to sign, they can petition to have their share of the assets set aside and cared for by a receiver, the expense of which would be borne by them.

Chilton W. Wulber stressed the fact that the two receiverships are costing the depositors $15,000 a year and continued: "We must forget what has happened and just remember that if you have your automobile in the mud, you go to work to pull it out, not ask how it got there. We are in the mud deep and we must pull together and pull ourselves out."

"I just can't see why we don't put this moratorium plan over," pled Chas. E. Rogers. "Certainly this is the poorest time in the world to keep on liquidating. Let's get this new bank quick. I know we can do it."

"The opportunity to reorganize is here," said T. R. Carrington, "and we should all pull together to put over the plan." "We mustn't wait too long," cautioned E. S. Beard. "Our only chance to get 100 per cent of our deposits is to re-open these banks into one," said a very prominent man who asked the Record not to mention his name. "If we are to lose our homes, if business men are to face bankruptcy, then why can't something be done and done now before it is too late?"

The Lapham State Savings bank up to the time the Record went to press Thursday noon, had signatures representing approximately $595,000 in deposits and the Northville State Savings bank had signatures representing about $265,000. The next meeting of the business men of Northville to discuss the bank situation will be held Tuesday evening, May 10.

FREE SHOW AGAIN DRAWS THrong

Again a record attendance at the Penniman Allen theatre was reported by Chief of Police W. H. Safford for the Merchants' Free Show Wednesday evening. The theatre was filled early for the first performance of the rollicking and extremely funny comedy feature, "Ladies of the Jury," with Edna May Oliver in the lead, ably supported by stuttering Roscoe Ates and other comedians.

The large crowd which congregated long before the time to open the doors, were all in a happy frame of mind judging by the laughter, noise and excitement.

MILFORD AND ROMULUS

We are going to keep on clinging to the idea that Northville people are just as progressive and just as harmonious as those of Romulus and Milford. What do you say?

A Milford man was in The Record office the other day. "How is your bank moratorium plan coming?" we asked him. "Just great," he replied, "we already have over 85 per cent necessary to re-open and everyone is feeling fine about it."

TOO MANY TEACHERS

If the State of Michigan really wants to save some money on taxes it can start cutting down the expense of our normal and state teachers' colleges. Editor Vernon J. Brown of Mason points out. He is dead right.

Hundreds and hundreds of Michigan teachers can't get jobs. In addition to those who have been jobless for the past two years, another thousand will be let loose this spring due to cutting on budgets. (Birmingham for example, cuts off seven of its staff.) Yet Mr. Brown points out very logically, the normal colleges keep on grinding out graduates who will have no jobs and the public pays the bill. The state tax payers pay for the education of the students at Michigan State Normal and Central, Western and Northern Teachers' colleges. The same tax payers also pay for the education of that vast army who goes to the University of Michigan, Michigan State college and the other state institutions. The small colleges of the state turn out another group of teachers—and to their credit the small college graduates hold down some of the most responsible teaching places in the state. These colleges are privately endowed so the tax payer does not pay for the education of their graduates. All in all, however, the teaching production business has far outrun the demand for pedagogues. Mr. Brown asks the pertinent question: "Has any mention been made that our school teacher factory shut down for a time?" He goes on to say that a million dollars could have been saved by reduced budgets at the normals but that nothing was done to stop the same old expense.

We are indeed paying a fine figure for training our educational army, a considerable part of which never goes into action.

PHILIP TAKES A RAILROAD RIDE

Philip Baldwin of The Record family is nearly eight years old. One year of his little life (would you want to start life over again?) has been spent in California, helping his parents run a newspaper at Upland, the rest has been in good old Michigan. He has seen a lot of the United States. He has been in many cities of at least a third of the states of the union and has seen himself—the desolation of deserts, the majesty of mighty mountains, felt the peace of quiet valleys and has even bathed his freckled form in the waters of the far-flung Pacific ocean. He has seen at least ten years of age what his father did not see until he was past forty.

Yet so strangely does our civilization weave its tapestry of marvelous pattern that until last Saturday, April 30, Philip had never ridden on a railroad train. That struck us as strange. We got to wondering how long it was since most of us had ridden on railroad trains. And when did we leave off riding on railroad trains? Had the writer not taken a couple of trips to California by train, we could scarce remember the time when we had last ridden on trains—although as a boy and young man we occasionally rode on them.

This simple fact that Phil had to wait nearly eight years for his first railroad ride shows how dependent we have become on the automobile and how little trains enter the lives of the folks who travel comparatively short distances.

We think one of the most lasting pictures that will hang on memory's wall for us will be that of Philip sitting up next to the window in a day coach as the train pulled out of Ann Arbor for Albion where his mother was to attend the funeral of a life long friend. Keen joy and anticipation shone on his friendly little face as he waved a good bye kiss to us and we just hope that the little fellow keeps that glow of enthusiasm in living for the rest of the years that are allotted to him. Wouldn't it be fine if we older folks could keep the thrill out of life that this little had out that first railroad ride?

There was another thrill for us in that railroad train. We got to talking to the conductor of the train, as he stood waiting for the signal to pull out. "We are held up waiting to put an invalid aboard," he said as we visited for a brief moment. "Look down there." Sure enough, down at the end of the long train ("we came through from Boston," said the conductor) a couple of porters were carefully lifting a woman from her wheel chair and carrying her on the train. We wondered where she was from and whether the stay at those marvelous Ann Arbor hospitals had given her a new chance at health and strength. We surely hope so, for we probably never shall see her face again.

The train pulled out for Jackson, Albion, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo and Chicago. Phil's first ride and the invalid's trip to home and health—we hope! Walked back to Bob Master's car which we had borrowed and revelled in the 20-mile ride back to Northville as we looked at the whole world aglow with beauty after the Friday night rain. "It's a good world after all," everything seemed to sing out to us as we skimmed along over the pavement, trying to hold down Bob's "coop" to 40 miles an hour.

RAMBLING THOUGHTS

What per cent of return will the depositors of the Northville banks get if we have to go through liquidation? From our observation of mortgage sales, we'll have to admit that the dividend will be pretty small—maybe thirty per cent, perhaps less. On the other hand, the reorganization of these two closed banks can start a renewal of these mortgages and stave off this tremendous loss that we now face. Fortunately, more and more people are beginning to "think through" on this angle of bank closing.

That Northville community-school band is a wonder and no exaggeration of words either. Their spirit of harmony and progress ought to shame the rest of us. And we can't see why the town didn't pack the Presbyterian church house last Friday night for that marvelous concert. We have heard Sousa's and Creators' and other great bands but we tell you truly that last week's music thrilled as few other bands have in our short life. Hats off to those boys and girls, to Director Edwin Head and Manager Fred W. Lyke. This band is a bigger and better asset than we realize.

At Detroit the other day we ran into an old friend who said he just came from Romulus where the bank had re-opened under the same kind of a plan that Northville seeks. "I was talking to a business man there," he went on, "and he told me that they signed up 97 per cent of their depositors to re-open the bank and that $10,000 of new deposits came in the first day. And everyone seemed to be pulling together."

You people know this community better than we did. Are Romulus and Milford folks any smarter than we are here? You tell us.

We sometimes feel foolish at the stuff we grind out for this column and yet we tell you, dear readers, that it spoils half a day to write these editorials. We wrote them for years for a daily paper and considering the rest of the work we did, we often wonder how we did it. Editorial writers of the metropolitan papers have time to read, ponder and study their contributions. The country editor has to keep the business going while he weaves his noble ideas. And yet we think that some of the country editors write just as good editorials as some of these that come from big city typewriters. Incidentally, we are just a little disappointed in Northville people that they do not send more of their own contributions to our paper. We like these, whether or not they coincide with our ideas. These columns are always open to your writings. Send them along and let your neighbors enjoy them.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTIONS

How much has the depression cost you?
And when are you going to forget it?

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

(Geo Neal in Orion Review)

Most of us can remember when nobody bragged about it when they didn't pay their taxes

DRY KANSAS

(Bob Gifford in Eaton Rapids Journal)

Kansas, a pioneer state in the temperance movement, has been made the butt of many jokes because of its dryness. Kansas is willing to stand the jokes in exchange for the benefits of prohibition. For instance

Fifty-four Kansas counties have no insane residents, 54 counties have no feeble-minded, 96 counties have no leprosy, 38 have no poorhouses, 53 are without any persons in jail and 56 counties have no representatives in the state penitentiary

Laugh that off

REPRESENTATIVES EXEMPT

(Hastings Banner)

When representatives at the special session commenced swinging the legislative ax to make reductions in excess of the "sacred cow" 15 per cent, the state began to sit up and take notice. Here was an assemblage that really, honestly and earnestly meant business. Not in years had the high cost of government been attacked with such apparent avowal. Then came the "joker." Legislators refused to take a cut in their own pay—even 15 per cent. This in face of the fact that wage scales all over the country, in every line of industry have been revised downward during the past few years, that income is less, and that cost of living is lower. Only a few years ago, when the state was more prosperous than it is now, voters rejected a proposal to increase the pay of legislators from $800 to $1200. And now these representatives refuse to take even a 15 per cent cut in wages along with the rest. This is a bit of "logic" that voters in general will not appreciate

PROHIBITION

(M. H. DeFoe in Charlotte Republican-Tribune)

Prohibition is an issue in Michigan and the United States. The major parties can no longer dodge the question. Both national conventions will have to speak up in Chicago. The democrats at Saginaw voted for outright repeal; the republicans at Grand Rapids rejected outright repeal but favor a referendum to test out present day public opinion. Both positions however, are wet and the respective actions will be so construed by the dyed in the wool dries. The dry, now opposing the referendum idea, is the person who is still talking about the destroying and degrading results of the use of alcohol. Everyone agrees that alcohol used excessively by any member of the human family will do precisely all these things. The whole issue has passed out of that stage. Prohibition as a social question has leaped in ten years from the evil of drink to the curse of corruption. Thousands of voters, who heretofore have always voted dry, are convinced that the curse of wholesale corruption is too heavy a price to pay for the attempt to control by law the appetites of the individual. The republican position, as adopted at Grand Rapids, is satisfactory to us. Let the people vote. It's their government.

THE REASON FOR CAPITAL

(Emerson Gildart in Utica Sentinel)

Over the radio recently we heard Regent R. Perry Short, of the state university declare that in normal times this country employs 50 million workmen on a capital investment of 400 billions of dollars. The output from this combination of labor and capital is normally 80 billions of dollars' worth yearly.

From an analysis of these figures, we see that the average worker requires an investment of $10,000 to keep him employed. From this we see why the average man, starting out with his bare hands, must work a good share of his life before he can employ another pair of hands but his own. He must first get control of that $10,000 capital. We also see that output is nearly about 20 per cent of the value of the capital. Out of this of course must be paid wages and all other expenses, including a fair return to the capitalist for the use of the money that he has risked on the venture.

These are figures that it would be well for the disgruntled to consider. It is all very well to say that all wealth results from labor; but who is going to pay the laborer while he produces that wealth? There is but one answer: Capital must pay him. There is usually a long stretch between seed time and harvest, whatever the calling. Capital must fill in while the wheels are turning, all the while till the sales are made.

Charles Hutchins and Miss Bu-lah Zeno of Yale, Michigan and Fraser Smith of Plymouth were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bowring at their home on Northville road.

Harry White was a guest of Grandville Shrock in Albion from Friday until Monday. He attended an art exhibit of water colors given by the art department of the college, of which Mr. Shrock was the chief exhibitor.

Mrs. August Erwin, accompanied by her son, Jas. Erwin and his family and Mrs. A. L. Hill, went to Detroit last Sunday to visit Mrs. Erwin's brother, Emmer Coleman, who is ill.

Last week mention was made that Arthur Sessions was on his way to California. Monday, Arthur's father had a card that he had reached Salina, Kansas, where he had made arrangements to continue on a cat-train westward. This brought to Mr. Sessions' recollection that back in 1871 when he was taking the same trail he crossed the Solomon river near Salina, with a mule team. They became submerged in quicksand which sent boxes and other articles floating down the river. After considerable trouble things were put back on the road and the journey continued. Mr. Sessions remarked about the difference in travel from then and now today in trains or automobiles; then behind mules or horses fording a river.

This Week

By H. H. White

The book I wish to review this week is rather an exceptional one in that it is an inter-Scandinavian prize novel written by Einar Christensen. The translation is by Edwin Bjorkman and is excellently and truly done. The novel which is entitled, "Two Living and One Dead," is the most recent choice; and is chosen because of its high intellectual achievement.

There is no hesitation in this very remarkable narrative and the action moves along very swiftly. The opening scene one might say "goes off with a bang." The story opens upon a crisis in the lives of three men who are postal employees. They are suddenly confronted by a pair of holdup men. One of the men when he attempts to resist the thugs, is immediately killed, while the second man, in protesting, is badly wounded. The third employee, having a little time to think, hands over to the gunmen the cash box which they are demanding.

In consequence of the varied reactions of these three men, the first and the second employees are heroes in the eyes of the outside world. The third postal clerk, whose name is Berger, is a curiously considered a coward. While this may be considered an injustice at the same time it is characteristic of human nature. While Berger may still believe that he is better off living and at the time he is considered a coward, yet the mysterious force in his soul penetrates very deeply.

Through the results of Berger's actions he loses his best friend, suffers the keen disappointment of his wife, and subsequently is refused a higher post. When in a most unexpected fashion vindication comes to Berger, his answer to all this is to put a very challenging and powerful test to his courage, the "wounded man," Ljaderston. This action is the high light of the story and the author handles it in a very skillful and clever word arrangement.

This book is a drama of two opposites, the petty and the grand. It is written with a marvelous style and unflinching insight. It is one of the most recent purchases of the local library board and shows the excellent taste of this discriminating office.

The other day this columnist noticed with interest in one of the Detroit papers a report that a group of churches out Woodward avenue had just recently brought to a successful conclusion a series of union meetings during the winter months. This is an interesting experiment in that it shows, "a demonstration of life and not a definition of life." Definitions are of times; exceedingly important but they are relatively secondary. So let us first and always have a concrete demonstration of the practical Christian life and let the definitions be secondary.

What the Messianic Teacher always sought after was better men and better society, not whether you were an Episcopalian or a Methodist or a member of the Roman Catholic church. Familiarity with each others' ways religiously has bred no contempt, for in such a unity of spirit there can be no diversity. The churches function should be to make better men for society, and not create a barrier that denominationalism often does to real progress and knowledge in the spreading of religious ideals and teachings. The Galilean came as he said, "that men might have light," and not that they might become confused with ecclesiastical dogma. The church should never be found wanting on the side of real progress and knowledge. It should never let the wall of traditional dogma blind it to the truths of religion and that immortal message of Jesus Christ when he gave his final command to his disciples to "go ye therefore and teach all nations."

In our little community some of the churches have seen fit to unite in part of their services for the coming summer. How fine it would be for the religious life of this little community if all of the churches might unite in the same effort. But some churches are still like the Pharisees of old, and still insist in the "letter of the law and not the spirit." Such an attitude and spirit always nullifies the true progress of religious endeavor and the spreading of the gospel of Jesus Christ. But rest assured that such an attitude will never triumph in the light of truth and knowledge. For whatever is true is of God, and will prevail.

BRILLIANT PROGRAM FOR MAY FESTIVAL

Brilliance, variety and a wide range of general musical offerings will predominate in the programs of the Thirty-Ninth Annual May Festival of the University of Michigan to be given in Hill Auditorium on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 18, 19, 20 and 21, according to an announcement just made by President Charles A. Sisk of the School of Music.

Goeta Lungberg, the sensational Swedish prima donna who has created such a furor in New York during recent weeks was persuaded to remain in America after the close of the Metropolitan Opera season in order that she might make her American Festival debut at Ann Arbor.

John Charles Thomas, baritone of the Chicago Civic Opera Association and many other world renowned operas as well as a concert singer of outstanding ability will participate in the Saturday afternoon concert.

John Charles Thomas, baritone, who will appear as soloist on Saturday afternoon, May 21, at Hill Auditorium at the annual Ann Arbor May Festival.

While Mina Hager, a distinguished American contralto, will be the star soloist at the Friday afternoon concert singing attractive numbers between the orchestral selections and the offerings of the large chorus of young people.

At the Thursday evening concert, in addition to the vocal solos of Miss Lungberg and in addition to symphonic numbers by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, great interest has been manifested in the numbers to be conducted by Gustav Holst, distinguished British composer-conductor, who will appear in the role of guest conductor, leading the Choral Union in the American premiere of his own composition, "A Choral Fantasia," and in addition in the same program he will lead the orchestra in two more of his compositions, "Fugate a la Gigue" and a Ballet from his opera, "The Perfect Fool." Mr. Holst will be remembered as guest conductor at the Festival in 1923 having been brought to America at that time particularly for the Ann Arbor May Festival.

At the Saturday afternoon concert, in addition to miscellaneous orchestral selections and the arias by Mr. Thomas, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under Dr. Steok will offer of Lindy's Symphony, No. 2. The festival will be brought to a close Saturday evening when Rimsky-Korsakov's monumental opera, "The Legend of the Invisible City of Kitezh," will receive its first American performance. This opera has been heard frequently in Russia and also in Paris. For its Ann Arbor performance it has been specially translated into English, a monumental task in itself. The soloists will be Juliette Lappe, soprano of Covent Garden and other operatic

LOCAL HATCHERY RAISE GAME FISH FOR THREE STATES

Last Sunday, May 1, marked the opening of the trout-fishing season yet, F. L. Snipes, superintendent of the United States Government Fish hatchery here and its sub-stations at Alpena and Charlevoix, a man who probably knows more about game fish and their habits than anyone else in the Middle West, isn't going fishing along with the rest of Northville's enthusiastic game fishers.

Too busy, he'll tell you. He's a small man, stout but muscular, with a firm walk and quick movements. He's busy these days raising a million and a half brook trout in the hatchery so that eager anglers can forget about the depression by bringing home about 20 pounds or so of the gamiest, tastiest fish that ever leaped to an artificial fly.

Knows Salmon Also. Besides the brook trout, he's going to send out from the Northville hatchery approximately 150,000 bass and 200,000 rainbow trout to the small lakes in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio for pleasure of sportsmen.

He knows fish. He can tell you of the mysterious ways of the leaping salmon who swim from the Pacific ocean each year to spawn in the fresh water streams. He knows because he has spent seven years supervising work at the Federal fish hatchery at Afognak, Alaska, where thousands of salmon are raised.

He knows about the thousands of fish that would be left to the each summer in the small, land-locked puddles in Mississippi were it not for the Government gathering them up and taking them to the larger lakes, because he started his career with the small Federal fish hatchery at Tupelo, Miss.

But let him tell you about the game fish he raises at Northville. "We've 15 acres of Government property out here in Northville on which we have nine rearing ponds and a building with facilities for 50 rearing troughs used to hatch eggs and raise fingerlings.

"Brook trout hatch out about February 1 and grow to about 1 1/2 inches by May 1 when some of them are distributed in the lakes and streams throughout the state. The bulk of the fingerlings are taken to the various Government nursing stations in Michigan where they're kept under watchful eyes until they attain a length of from three to four inches, which is usually around the end of their first year's growth."

"You can figure that when you catch a seven-inch trout, the smallest the law allows you to take home in your basket, that the United States government has spent two years raising that fish for you."

"We feed these fish 200 pounds of ground beef heart and dried salmon eggs each week and we have a civil service personnel of our men, L. J. Carman, Edward J. Douglas, A. F. Brenner, H. H. Brewer and myself stationed here the year 'round, besides crews at Charlevoix and at Alpena. This unit comprises the largest hatchery in Middle West."

"But how do you get these fish to the lakes?" we asked.

"Say, I'm glad you asked me," he said, "hop into my car and we'll go over to the railroad station. The government distribution car just came in this morning."

Fullman for Young Mr. Fish. At the Northville station we met Capt. F. W. A. Englehardt, head of one of the four distribution cars, and his youthful assistants, V. W. Crandell, A. C. Balch, F. A. Cooper and the ebony-hued S. B. Miller, who cooks meals for the crew while they're on the nine-month trip through the United States.

Capt. Englehardt explained that the Pullman car is equipped with sleeping quarters, an office, tanks, and will hold 250 cans of fish, about 1,000 to a can. Aerating equipment furnishes oxygen to the fish without which they could not live.

excavated and a furnace and other conveniences will be installed. The many friends of this plucky little mother will rejoice with her in these added comforts.

Sam'l L. Brader is receiving congratulations of his friends on the arrival of a new daughter, born Saturday morning at Grace hospital, Detroit. Mrs. Brader is doing well. The baby has been named Jacolin, honoring the maternal grandfather, Jacob Simon.

Work in wrecking the old Seeley house on the corner of Center and Wing streets to make way for a new gas station is going rapidly on under the supervision of W. A. Parmenter. Five men are assisting him service.

Capt. and Mrs. Edward Denniston of the House of Correction left Tuesday night by automobile for their cabin at Grand Marais where the captain will spend a week trout fishing. It is his first vacation in two years. "I don't expect to get many fish," he told "The Record,"
"but I am going to enjoy wading up stream against the rushing water of the trout streams." Their son, James Denniston, drove a truck full of equipment north on Tuesday.

Dr. E. J. O'Brien, head surgeon of the Maybury San, performed a ventable feat of skill, when under extreme difficulties the other Friday he operated four different times for pulmonary tuberculosis. With only one hand free, his head prop-ed so that he could see, his body leaning on the precarious fulcrum of his elbow, done up in cast, the result of an accident recently near Parma, he at the last moment took the place of another surgeon who could not keep his appointment.

CHAS. H. OLM SENDS CHEERING LETTER IN REGARD TO BANKS

Chas. H. Olm of Oden, Mich., near Potoskey, sends a refreshing letter to each of the Northville banks with regard to the moratorium plan for bank re-opening. This is so encouraging that we are glad to pass them on to Record readers. He writes:
May 3, 1932

Clinton W. Wilbur,
Northville State Savings Bank,
Dear Sir:

I am enclosing depositors' agreement signed. Hope you will get your Northville banks going again and be very successful for it will be to the depositors' interests in the long run.

The First State bank of Potoskey
closed last fall and is now open again under about the same plan as yours. As I was a depositor in this bank also it hit me from all angles but I still have hopes that the old dark cloud will have a silver lining and wish you the best of luck from now on. Your banks were my home town banks and I had your faith ever since I was a boy.

Both the Northville banks have been good to me and I feel that at these bad times you will make good if you once get a chance.

We won't give up the ship yet. We will fight to save her.

Very truly yours,
Chas. H. Olm.
May 2, 1932

Mr. E. H. Lapham,
Northville Michigan
Dear Sir:

I am enclosing herewith the de-positors' agreement which I have signed.

I am in hopes you will get your bank started and make good and as I can see it, this is the only way out.

The First State bank of Potoskey closed last fall and of course it was my bank here. They have reopened under the same plan, only we were asked for 25 per cent for the trust fund. I always had great faith in the old Northville banks, both in you and Mr. Babbitt and you both have been very good to me and I wish you the very best of success.

Yours very truly,
Chas. H. Olm

Dr. Wilbur H. Johnston, Billy
Schoutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Schoutz, is about to go out of quarantine after having been shut in three weeks. The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Masters is recovering and is now in the yard, having been in quarantine one week.
Edith Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blake, was quarantined on Monday but is having a high case, as the rest have all been.

The school nurse, Mrs. Bray, is on the job daily at school keeping close watch of suspicious cases. Any case of sore throat is sent home.

One case of whooping cough is reported, the little Nally girl, on West Dunlap. It is thought that with the arrival of spring these children's diseases will disappear altogether.

In spite of the mild winter Dr.
Johnston says there have been more respiratory diseases than in a cold, dry winter.

The Northville Chiefs, headed by Northville veteran base ball pitcher, Harry S. German, Sr., will celebrate the opening of Monroe's new club house, Sunday by playing the Monroe team there.

The Monroe American Legion

band will play and a large crowd is expected to be on hand.

Players who will go down to Monroe are: A. Jaska, L. Hammond, L.
German, H. German, Jr., G. Moffitt,
R. Wood, E. Stimpson, J. Destefano,
J. Moore, V. Smith and H. German,

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

By MRS. EDITOR

ON HANDS

A man comments on women's hands! It was refreshing to us women who read a man's opinion of the flood of advertising of soaps and creams to keep hands soft and white which was quoted recently in the Record. Hands that look as if they had done work are not a disgrace as the advertisements indicate, says this editor. Schuyler Marshall of St. Johns who berates those who write such blatant ads. Of course we women would like nice white lady-like hands and we look with embarrassment at our own work-fouled hands when we read that they spell a "lack of success" on our husband's part. If "success" means providing a soft, lazy existence without useful toil so that friends may admire our dainty hands at bridge we do not envy that kind of success.

Hands were made to do things, not to be ornaments. They were such useful looking hands, "a description Harold Ben Wright makes of a nurse's hands."

Hands are so much an indication of character that they are often described by writers. Can we ever forget the outburst of that big-hearted Scotch woman in "Freckles" who looked down at her body, reddened, caloused hands after they had been seized and kissed by the young Irish boy in unrepentant appreciation. "Pretty looking things ye are! But ye hae just been lashed (and by a title a man's God ever made at his verba best. Ye've been that honored

I'm blest if I can bear to squeeze ye in dish water."

An old friend describes the hands of his grandmother. "They were not soft and white. They were misshapen by time and roughened by work yet when she sat by my bedside and stroked my head they were the most beautiful, the softest hands in the world."

In the song, "Mother Machree," it is the lines: "The dear fingers so toil worn for me," that pull at the heart strings. Let young lovers sigh over, "Little white hands." They're pretty, we admit, but let's stick contentedly to our useful duties, raising roses, keeping house, hanging out snowy washings, bathing babies—and if the results rather roughen the fairness of our hands—we defy advertisers who claim that they reflect on our husband's success.

HAPPY THOUGHT

If all our misfortunes were laid in one heap, whence every one must take an equal portion, most people would be content to take their own and depart. —Gérardes

WHO REMEMBERS?

Who remembers the good old days when we bathed once a week by the kitchen stove in a galvanized tub and, having ten bushels of potatoes, a barrel of flour and a couple of home cured hams in the cellar thought we were prosperous? —Bristol Banner

The above may be correct, but our recollection is that that tub was made of wooden staves.

Public spirited women could do something for their city by visiting the public school once in awhile. This would encourage pupils and teachers and help awaken the community to an interest in the schools.

SEVEN-MINUTE FROSTING

Here is Mrs. Leonard Beasley's rule for icing cakes which she makes in many pleasing varieties: 1 cup sugar, either white or light brown; 3 tablespoonsful of sold water, white of 1 egg. Put in double boiler over fire and beat seven minutes while it cooks. Spread on cake immediately. Fruit juices may be used instead of water for a change. Nuts or chopped fruits may be added. Delicious.

Society Notes

Saleys and McLoughlins Dine in Detroit Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Saley and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McLoughlin enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes of Detroit as dinner guests Sunday.

Mrs. Steele Entertains Bridge Club

Mrs. Arthur H. Steele was hostess to her bridge club at her home, at Wayne County Training School on Wednesday afternoon. Substanting guests at this pleasant affair were Mrs. T. P. Brennan and Mrs. T. Hegge.

Contract Bridge Club Guests Of Mr. and Mrs. Blake

Three tables of bridge players will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blake Saturday evening and wrestle with the intricacies of contract bridge. Frank Packard of Birmingham is the teacher.

Northville Women Play Bridge In Bloomfield Hills

Attending a charity bridge at the Booth estate in Bloomfield Hills today are the following ladies: Mrs. J. N. McLoughlin, Mrs. C. C. Yerkes, Mrs. T. Glenn Phillips and Mrs. Edward L. Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ebersole Showered by Get Together Club

The Get Together club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Herrick Friday evening, April 29. Forty-four persons were present. A miscellaneous showed was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ebersole whose home was recently destroyed by fire. Progressive peddle furnished the entertainment for the evening. Howard Ebersole played as a lady and received the day's first prize while Silas Sly won high honors for the men. Mrs. Ivan Dickinson and Fraser Smith were consoled. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ross Rutherford on Arthur street Friday evening, May 13.

Mrs. Miner Honors Friend From Japan at Informal Tea

Sharing the pleasure of having as her guest, Miss Irene Reiser, Mrs. Frank N. Miner was hostess to a group of friends at her home, the Methodist parsonage, Tuesday afternoon. Miss Reiser is at present taking a six-months furlough from her duties as missionary teacher in Japan where she has served for eleven years. Her charming personality added zest to the interest in her talk on Japan given in easy conversational manner as she illustrated it with pictures.

Mrs. Moon of Plymouth, a former college friend of Miss Reiser at Alma, was among the guests and favored them with a number of pleasing vocal numbers. Mrs. J. T. Tinnam accompanied her.

Tea was served from the attractive dining room table where soap dragons were used as centerpiece with lighted tapers. Mrs. H. G. Whitfield presided.

Methodist Clergy and Their Wives Guests of the Miners

A company of thirty-one, comprised of neighboring Methodist ministers and their wives, enjoyed a pleasant day of fellowship at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Frank N. Miner last Monday. This group of ministers are stationed in the northern half of the Ann Arbor district and it is their custom to meet together periodically for discussion of those things "pertaining to their work." It was their good fortune to have with them their district superintendent, Dr. J. A. Halmhuber and his wife, of Ypsilanti.

The customary cooperative dinner was served and was followed by an informal program. Representing the widespread movement for the broadcasting of information on tuberculosis, Dr. R. H. Saley spoke briefly on this subject stressing the importance of the early diagnosis.

A special treat to the guests was the presence of Miss Irene Reiser, recently returned from Japan, who spoke informally about her missionary work in that land.

Presbyterian Mothers and Daughters Banquet Merrily Together

It was a happy company of mothers and daughters who gathered at the Presbyterian church house for their annual banquet last Tuesday evening. The long tables were bright with yellow daffodils and lighter tapers and the delicious three-course menu was up to the usual standard of the Nellie Yerkes auxiliary who served it.

At the close of the dinner Mrs. Harold Bloom, president of the auxiliary, as toastmaster, called for a toast "To Mothers" to which Mrs. William H. Johnston responded appropriately. Mrs. Paul R. Alexander responded to the toast, "To Our Daughters." Group singing at intervals throughout the banquet added much to the informality and pleasure of the occasion. Mrs. Johnston was the song leader and Mrs. McKinney was at the piano.

Three vocal duets were sung by the Misses Gertrude Deal and Florence Jonsson. "Mother Machree" being especially well received. Miss Reva Schrader accompanied them. Those present said this was one of the most pleasant events of the year. It is a matter of additional interest that three generations of one family attended the banquet, Mrs. J. R. Coffeen being present with her little three-year-old daughter, Fern Elizabeth, and her mother, Mrs. Geo. Rumford of Detroit.

MOTHER

By Rev. L. Eickstaedt

This one word, "Mother," immediately rouses a multitude of recollections and brings to mind the debt of gratitude we owe to her. She is the one to whose heart we lay so close. When our entrance into the world was imminent she, while in travail, had sorrow. She greeted us with a happy smile and kiss and nourished us. It was she who, more than anyone else, watched our infancy, taught us the first syllables and prayers, played and rejoiced with us and guarded us to the best of her ability. Her love to you cannot be estimated. Gladly we assent to the words of the poetess, Ann Taylor: "Who can to help me when I fall? And who will send me pretty story tell or kiss the place to make it well? My Mother."

God, in the Fourth Commandment, urges us to honor our mother, to regard her as God's representative, to serve her, of our own accord, doing for her what we can; to obey her in all things in which God has placed her over us; and to esteem her as a precious gift of God. And warningly He adds: "Despise not thy mother when she is old." Forgive not the law of thy mother; bind them continually upon thine heart; and tie them about thy neck. When thou goest, it shall lead thee; when thou sleepest, it shall keep thee; and when thou wakest, it shall talk to thee. Of the eye that despises to obey his mother, Solomon says: "The ravens of the valley shall pick it out, and the young eagles shall eat it." Such a foolish man is the heaviness of his mother and bitterness to her that, bare him. Among the Jews in the Old Testament it was a divine law that he who cursed his mother would surely be put to death; and not only that, but "his lamp shall be put out in obscure darkness."

Are there children who forget their mother? A Glasgow minister was sitting on a coach beside the driver on a lonely highland road and saw in the distance an old woman, who looked wistfully at the coach. As it came near her face showed by turns anxiety, hope and fear. As the coach passed, the driver, with downcast eyes and sad expression, shook his head, and she returned disappointed to her cottage. The driver explained that for several years this mother had watched daily for the coach, expecting either to see her son or to receive a letter from him. The son had gone to a great city and had forgotten the mother who loved him so dearly. But the mother went every day to meet the coach trusting that one day her son would return to her. That makes our heart bleed for the parent so cruelly forsaken.

Abraham Lincoln was of a different type. When he received the telegram announcing his nomination for president of the United States, he arose, put on his hat and coat, and said to his friends: "There is a little woman at home who would like to hear this." And he went off to spend the evening with her. That is as it ought to be; Mother should always be dear to us. A young man in the company of a friend had called on mother. Leaving the house he remarked: "Mother does not look as she used to. When I was a boy, they called her the handsomest woman in the community. But father was sick for a long time, and my brother and I were both ill, and father and brother died. Mother had to manage things and work very hard and carry a heavy load to get me through college. It has stooped her shoulders, and left wrinkles on her cheeks and forehead, as well as whitened her hair. But," and here his eyes filled with tears and his voice broke with emotion as he continued, "but to me she is the most beautiful woman in the whole world; for every wrinkle reminds me of the load she carried all for me." Dandelion song, God bless him!

But how about the daughters? In the city of New York there was a mother who saved her little girl ten years of age, when she was in a burning building. The mother's hands were protected; but her face was unprotected and it was badly burned. Not with all the skill of New York physicians could she be restored to anything like her former comeliness. She was horrible to see. She always went around her home and in the streets with a veiled face. One day she went to an elevated station and was waiting for a train when a company of school girls came in. The opening of the door caused a gust of wind to pass through the station. It lifted her veil and threw it back. Before she could recover herself the school girls saw her disfigured countenance. One girl was her own child. When the girls stepped back in horror as they looked on that face, this girl, though recognizing her mother right away, failed to acknowledge her or speak to her. We shudder at such lack of mother's love.

Children—obey and honor your mother.

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

5 YEARS AGO

Fred Lyke has completed the plumbing for Meadowbrook country club and has contracts for the Shafter building, the Schrader block and the Schuyler block.

The fire department was called to the home of Mrs. Thomas Cousins on Dubuque street Sunday.

Mrs. Bruno Freyd is recovering from an operation in a Detroit hospital.

All the yellow willows in this vicinity are descendants of some willow twigs brought by Capt. Dunlap while on a visit to his old home in Seneca county, New York. Stopping near a willow tree near Philadelphia, he cut a branch to tie his bundle on to carry it. Older residents will remember the first row planted where the Catholic church now stands.

Cement walks are being laid on Main street.

The P. M. depot has a new coat of paint.

WHAT A BLADDER PHYSIC?

Should do. Work on the bladder as castor oil on the bowels. Drive out impurities and excess acids that cause irritation which results in getting up, nights, frequent desire, burning, leg pains or backache. BURETS (5 gr. tablets) is a pleasant bladder physic. Get a 25c test box from your druggist. After four days if not relieved go back and get your money. You will feel good after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. BURETS may be obtained at the C. R. Horton Drug store.

We Must Raise CASH or Else...

What No Man Likes To Do

No man likes to sell his work and his goods for less than their worth. But we are all having to do things we don't like. Hardware manufacturers and jobbers are demanding money from us by May 7. Our only course to stay in business is a SALE with every article so low for cash that everybody will come BARGAIN HUNTING. IT'S JUST RAISE THE CASH OR ELSE...

Great Men and Their Mothers

I remember my mother's prayers—and they have always followed me. They have clung to me throughout my life—Abraham Lincoln.

My mother was the source from which I derived the guiding principles of my life—John Wesley.

Back in the brick-yard of Philadelphia my mother taught me the principles of success—John Wanamaker.

My mother's influence in molding my character was conspicuous. She forced me to learn long chapters of the Bible by heart. To that discipline and patient, accurate resolve I owe not only much of my general power of taking pains, but the best part of my taste for literature—Ruskin.

Whatever I have done in my life has simply been due to the fact that when I was a child my mother daily read with me a part of the Bible, and made me learn a part of it by heart—Wendell Phillips.

My mother was my first preacher as well as my first teacher—Lyman Abbott.

There is nothing sweeter than the heart of a pious mother—Martin Luther.

This Sunday is Mother's Day. An appropriate sermon will be delivered at the usual time of our service, 10 o'clock. It is hoped that all mothers and daughters, members and their friends will be present for this service. Sunday school will be held in connection with this service.

The meeting of the Ladies Aid of the congregation will exceptionally be held on the third Thursday afternoon of this month, May 19th.

The annual Mother's and Daughter's Banquet will be held on Friday evening, May 13th, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. A splendid program and a delicious menu have been prepared and arranged. An enjoyable evening is assured for all. Mrs. Arthur Schulte will be the toastmistress. And the speakers' Come and hear.

The hour of faith and fellowship is broadcast every Sunday afternoon from 1:30 to 2 o'clock over station WXYZ.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to worship with us!

Baptist Church

Services next Sunday, May 8, as follows: 10:30 a. m. morning worship, sermon by the pastor, Rev. W. Roscoe Barbour, on the theme, "Christ Victorious by the Holy Spirit." At 11:45 Bible school, 6:30 p. m., young people's meeting, 7:30 p. m., evening service, sermon on the topic, "Why Go to Church?"

The special church meeting last Monday and the Church Night the previous Wednesday were both forward looking and sounded the victory note. Dr. Spencer's address at the Wednesday meeting will long be remembered. We desire to express our deep appreciation to the large group of churchmen from other churches who were present with us on this occasion. Children's day will be observed the second Sunday in June.

Society Notes

Thursday Bridge Club
Guests of Mrs. Stewart

Mrs. L. C. Stewart delightfully entertained the Thursday Bridge Club at her home yesterday afternoon.

Kindergartners Honor
Their Mothers At Tea

The children of the kindergarten, directed by their teacher, Mrs. Sterling Eaton very delightfully entertained their mothers at tea last Friday afternoon at their school room. A tea table was prettily arranged with pink roses and lavender sweet peas and lighted tapers. Very proudly the young hostesses took their turns pouring tea.

Each mother was presented with a tiny flower pot which had been painted by her child. In these pots grew small green seedlings which the children had planted some time previously.

Thirty-five mothers were present to enjoy this happy time.

Our Lady of Victory Church

We wish to express our thanks to the indulgent patronizers of our public dinner given last Sunday.

St. Vincent de Paul meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

Daily Mass is held at 7:30. There will be none on next Monday and Tuesday.

The first Communion class will be held on Sunday, May 22 at the 8 o'clock Mass. There are 13 children in this group.

May devotions are observed each Friday night at 7:30. They last one-half hour. Come tonight.

The coinciding of Holy Name day and Mother's Day next Sunday makes their observance plain for the men. It is not natural to forget one's mother, living or dead. There is nothing so humanly sacred as "Mother" even though many today seek to escape that title!

Methodist Church

Public worship services each Sunday, at 10:30 and 7:30, which the public are not only invited but earnestly urged to attend. People should attend divine worship at least once each week irrespective of other considerations. These are days when all need the uplift and inspiration thus gained.

Sunday morning Mr. Miner will preach on the theme, "The Pioneer Mother." In the evening Mrs. Miner will speak, her theme being, "Mother," and other mothers will assist in the service.

The Sunday school is at 12 o'clock noon and the young people's services is at 6:30 o'clock and Warner Neal has the study and discussion.

Sunday evening Mr. Miner preaches at Central Methodist church, Detroit. Dr. Gray, the pastor, as in attendance as a delegate at the general conference in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

The Junior League is at 3:30 each Thursday afternoon.

Presbyterian Church

Sunday, May 8, is Mother's Day. Services will be held in the First Presbyterian church at the hours of 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The church school meets at 12 o'clock noon. Dr. A. B. Wickham of the Eastland, sanatorium, will speak at the evening service. You are cordially invited to attend and to remain for the social half-hour and refreshments at the close.

The Woman's Union will hold its regular meeting in the church house Wednesday, May 11th. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock for which a charge of 25c will be made. Mr. Whitfield will be in charge of the program. A Stewardship play, "Farming Eden," will be presented.

Monday, May 16, is the date fixed for the next meeting of the Men's club. The speaker for the evening will be W. E. Matthews of the Detroit Edison company, Detroit. Mr. Matthews is a graduate of the University of Toronto and is a speaker of great repute. His subject will be, "Social Engineering."

Mrs. Brennan and College Friends Dine Together Tuesday

The home of Mrs. T. P. Brennan at the Wayne County Training school was the scene of a happy reunion of college friends Tuesday when a company of twenty-six of these members of the Detroit club of Western College at Oxford, Ohio, gathered, and enjoyed a day of pleasant reminiscence. A cooperative dinner was served at small tables daintily centered with bowls of roses. Bridge occupied the afternoon.

DID YOU NOTICE—OR THE SCANDAL COLUMN

Mary Bennett's cute little smile. We wonder what pleases her?

Bill Eaton, Junior Schrader (dear little Junior), and a few others wearing the colored sweaters of dear old Sing Sing.

The citizenship class. We hear there are two new members. Wonder who they are?

How happy Mrs. Wright looks. We heard she won a bet.

The absence of Ruth Mary Baldwin. Wonder how much a certain person misses her (not Mrs. Cobb) in this group.

The bump on Charles Menninger's heel. He was out with a certain young lady, and her father, but you know. Why the heel-though, that's not the customary place.

The worried look on the faces of most of the juniors. We heard something about a pep.

The historic (there's a word) look on the faces of the members of the public speaking classes. They are studying dramatics.

The noise in the advanced algebra review class Mr. Jacobson, we hear they dug up something terrible.

The spiky-las-Herb Berendt and Don Robinson were wearing. A couple new gals visiting school or simply.

Northville loses to Farmington

Last Friday Northville was defeated by Farmington by a score of 10 to 4.

Farmington was first to bat and obtained four runs in the first inning, which was a good start for her. She obtained three more runs in the fourth inning and three in the sixth, making her a total of 10 runs.

Northville failed to score until the third inning when they obtained one run. Another was brought in in the fourth and two more in the sixth, making her a total of 4.

The errors were few but Northville failed to hit as she should.

Ray Westphall replaced Hill in the sixth inning and did very well for his first time in the box. Thus making two Westphalls as opposing pitchers.

This Friday Northville has no game but they are taking on the town team in a practice game Wednesday at six-thirty.

The line-up:

Northville: Lemmon, c; Menninger, c; Beasley, c; Westphall, 2b; Bulmon, 1b; Ware, 1b; Tibble, rf; Hills, p.

Subs for Northville: Duckerson for Bulmon, Kohler for Hill.

Subs for Farmington: Nelson for Taggart.

Farmington: Kozlowski, 1b; Hamilton, 3b; Brooks, c; Caldwell, ss; Taggart, 2b; Ferris, rf; Wagner, c; Westphall, p.

Subs for Farmington: Nelson for Taggart.

GOLF FOUR SWAMPS BERKLEY

It appears that Northville has the "Indian sign" on Berkley. Following up her vainglorious defeat at the hands of Northville's base ball nine, our up and coming golf team also gave them a trimming last Tuesday.

The score was 15 to 2. Campbell was the low man, although all of Captain Riffenburg's "Bobby Joneses" shot quite low scores.

On top of this, the same team defeated Dearborn, 9-3. They did this with particular enthusiasm, repaying their defeat at Dearborn's hands two weeks ago. Both of these games were played here, at the Meadowbrook Country Club. This golf team of ours, unknown talent up till now, is coming along in fine shape and will undoubtedly win many more matches.

SOCIETY

Ellie Tibble had a "Kid's Party" at her home last Thursday evening. Donna and Geraldine Ferguson spent Friday afternoon in Detroit with their aunt.

Catherine Gibson and Peggy Blake walked over to Plymouth on Saturday afternoon to attend the matinee.

Robert Christensen was surprised by a group of his friends at the country club last Saturday night.

Eleanor Eaton spent Sunday afternoon in Detroit.

F. T. A. WILL HEAR CHILDREN PERFORM

Attention is called to the change in the date of the regular Parent-Teachers Association, which will meet at the high school auditorium on Friday evening, May 27, which will be the last meeting of the school year.

The program will be put on by the school children. The first half will be presented by members of the seventh grade. The second part will be an operetta, directed by Leslie G. Lee, assisted by Miss McDonald. The smaller children of the school will participate.

A large attendance of parents is urged for this last meeting. Light refreshments and a social time will add to the interest of the occasion.

On the evening of May 20 will occur the play, "Polishing Papa," for which the cast is rehearsing. The proceeds from this will be used for the milk fund. Do not confuse these two events. The meeting on May 27 is free.

CLAUDE ZIMMERMAN CATCHES NICE STRING OF BROOK TROUT

The fishing season is well under way.

Sunday, May 1, opening day of the trout fishing season, Claude Zimmerman, who together with Mrs. Zimmerman, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Quick, Muskegon last week-end, went fishing with a party of friends at a brook located near the village of Hart. The party of four caught 52 good-sized brook trout.

The fish were all caught at one spot, one rainbow being included in the catch.
