A YARD OF ROSES

A man took us out in his back yard and showed us a rose bush that had spread itself out over a yard or two of trellis. "Just come out in June and see how that will be covered with flowers," he told us. There was a glimmer of pride in his eye as he told us this.

We thought to ourselves: "If more men would go to planting roses there would be a lot less grief in the world."

It would be a good time right now to start some roses in Northville. We should like to get some going ourselves.

PROHIBITION BALLOON GOES UP

A lot of these speeches and interviews that are being given on prohibition can be put down as political balloons to draw out comment from the nation as to what it really wants done about the 18th amendment.

Take Senator Reed of Pennsylvania. He comes from a pretty wet territory and he is a very clever politician. Yet last week he came out with a statement that he was absolutely opposed to the return of the saloon. Right there is the "rub" on this whole prohibition argument. Wets and dries alike seem horrified at the thought of the coming back of the saloon, yet there will be plenty of chance for it to return unless some good substitute for prohibition is found. And so far, the anti-prohibition forces can't seem to get together on what the substitute should be. And until they do that prohibition is going to remain unsettled.

NO DAILY PAPERS

As an indication of how many people up-state have learned to "cut the corners" in the past months, the Grand edge Independent states that in view of the fact that any people have found it necessary to do without daily papers, it will run a summary of important national and state news every week. That suggests the days when the person who took a daily paper was a "rare bird."

The Northville Record is glad to state that it has more subscribers than a year ago which goes to show that the people of this community are very loyal to their home newspaper. We shall do our very best to be loyal to them, now and always. Horace Greely, the great editor, once said something like this: "The subject of greatest concern to anyone is himself. Of next interest is his neighbor. That is the reason why the home newspaper will never perish from the earth." No matter how it fails at some points, it fills a need that no other newspaper on earth—we mean this literally—can satisfy.

BEER PARADES

We have no objection to "beer parades," such as was staged in Detroit last week. What we don't like to see is an American Legion post sponsoring such a parade and the mayor of Detroit—who seems to be a lover of publicity of one form and another—giving it his approval. We just figure that neither has the right to be giving official sanction to such a parade.

From what we have heard, the American Legion has weakened itself greatly in the past few months, both by its stand for the bonus—in the face of the opinion of our president and many experts that it would be disastrous to the country as a whole—and its stand on prohibition. Let no one get the idea that the whole United States has gone as wet as the metropolitan press would have you believe. Far from it. If the Legion sets out to be officially wet, it will lose the support of men it can't afford to lose if it wants to continue to be the force for good it has been. We happen to know of one Legion post in another part of the state that has lost much of its prestige by its desire to go "liberal." If the Legion will stand for its ideals it will be unbeatable but if it becomes political and partisan, it will lose many friends.

LIFE AND DEATH

Be such a man, and live such a life, that if every man were such as you, and every life a life like yours, this earth would be God's paradise.—Phillips-Brooks.

This Monday morning and the writer is back at his desk after three days spent at Albion where on Saturday we laid at rest in beautiful Riverside cemetery all that was mortal of Rev. Isaac H. Riddick, the father of Mrs. Baldwin. As we start to pick up the loose ends of our work, it seems as though we had returned from some new and strange—yet inspiring adventure. We hardly know where to start this writing so we presume on your patience to say something about our father-in-law.

Truly a remarkable man was Rev. I. H. Riddick. His grandmother lived within a few days of one hundred years and he died within a month of his 86th birthday. These 86 years he filled full of service, kindness and charity to all his fellowmen. Through the quarter-century that he knew him intimately we never heard him say a mean or unwholesome thing about anyone. With Irish and English stock in his make-up he grew up in a Quaker environment which had its beginning in the southern states. That background made of him always the Christian gentleman, which to our notion, is the finest tribute you can pay anyone. With his passing, literally hundreds paid sincere and profound tribute to a man who had put the impress of his good living on all he ever met. His life is an astounding commentary on the immeasurable worth of good will.

How strange does life seem! We had thought that Mr. Riddick would live to be a hundred years old, so alert, so competent, so well poised and strong was he. Yet he slipped away to that Eternity about which he had preached so much and so well, in the same quick way in which our own strong father went, twelve years ago. To have had such a father and such a father-in-law as we had, gives us a heritage that ought to make us more kindly, more worthy and more charitable in the years of life that are left to us.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

One dollar reward—for anyone who finds the word "depression" anywhere else in this column.

Two people drove 150 miles to Albion last week to pay their tribute of respect to Mrs. Baldwin's father, Rev. I. H. Riddick, whose death we mention elsewhere. Others came almost as far. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wheeler of Grand Rapids, (the former one of our old "college roomers") made the trip from that city. Such expressions of true friendship as this are deeply touching.

Our legislature and governor did a good piece of work in the special session just closed. The state tax will be $23,487,979 instead of $29,000,000. Not only does that five and a half million gain help but it will be a powerfully good example to communities to cut their budgets. Then the ten million dollars that will come back to the counties from the weight tax will especially help in this area where Covert taxes have nearly ruined many people. Northville, of course, is grateful that the special session so changed the banking law, (by making the percentage for moratorium agreements 85 instead of 95 per cent), that we have the chance to get our new bank. It will be our own fault now if we don't get the bank. And speaking again of the special session, there is no question in the minds of thoughtful observers that Governor Wilbur M. Brucker greatly strengthened his position in the state and will be hard to beat for the nomination for a second term.

Every child, between the age of five and twenty in the Northville school district, brings it $12.70 from the state primary fund. Don't let any of your "kids" get missed by the census taker. We need the money.

What "good turn" will you do today?

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Why not say the good things about people?

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

AUTOS AND WELFARE AID

(Geo H. Neal in Orion Review)

One state has issued a ruling that even if a man owns an auto he may still receive public aid as a pauper. Three rousing cheers! We may have to go to the poorhouse, but, by heck we'll drive out to the farmed place in the old bus and make Oakland county pay for the gasoline.

TOWN GARDENS

(Grand Ledge Independent)

Grand Ledge, in common with many other municipalities in the state has leased a ten-acre tract of land and will plant it entirely to potatoes and cabbage for use by the welfare department next winter in helping to care for the unemployed. At the same time seed and plowing is being given to a number of home owners for their garden spots and in return for this the owners will work out his indebtedness to the city on the municipal plot. At Jackson 40 acres have been secured for this purpose and sufficient vegetables will be raised during the summer months to take care of all demands next winter. The idea is rapidly spreading all over the state and it is believed that nearly every city and village will adopt the town garden plan as part of their relief work.

THE VELVET HAMMER

(Rae Corliss in Parma News)

Stopping advertising to save money is like stopping one's watch to save time.

A farmer brought two dozen eggs to town yesterday. He had to borrow four more to get enough money to pay for the gasoline used to make the trip to town.

It often happens that people who represent that they like to have a paper tell all the news without fear or favor, are the first ones to squawk when the item happens to be about them. Every editor knows of subscribers, who while claiming they want the news, have discontinued taking his paper because he printed an item of news about them. Readers of a paper should remember that the editor does not make the news, he merely records it after it has been made. Folks who don't like certain news printed about them shouldn't make that kind of news.

A SUICIDE'S THOUGHTS

(M. H. De Foe in Charlotte Republican-Tribune)

It is disturbing to contemplate the thoughts that must have run through the confused mind of Claude D. Kimberly the Belleue banker, between the time that he returned from a trip to official Lansing and when he took his life. Friends say that he fired the fatal shot shortly after he reached his home. Claude Kimberly was fundamentally honest but he couldn't reconcile the thought—after many years of community leadership—of being pointed out as a failure. In other words Mr. Kimberly was a victim of our new idea of measuring accomplishments by money instead of character. Mr. Kimberly was a victim of material thinking. It is a form of mental hold-up, each victim providing his own form of destruction. Under any and all rules of the game this splendid man was entitled to a more peaceful departure to the next test in trial and tribulation.

draw $5,000 per year, but he volunteered to accept a ten per cent cut. The secretary of the State University draws a salary $60 and one-half times as large, the warden at Jackson $7,500; the directors of conservation $7,500, five members of the utilities commission draw $7,000 each and the members of the tax commission, the commissioners of labor and industry and others draw $5,000 each.

It would naturally seem that the head of this great business should draw the largest salary, and inasmuch as this is no time to raise his salary, the only conclusion is that it is a very proper time to cut down the high boys to a point that will make the salaries equitable. That excellent gentleman who has served so acceptably as Lieutenant Governor for a number of years—Loren D. Dickerson—draws only $3,000 per day.

The many friends of Mrs. Della Harmon will be sorry to have the report that she has been quite ill.

The Bernhardt Springs house, which covers one source of Northville's water supply, has been torn down preparatory to making extensive improvements on the spring itself. Work has started this week under the supervision of Gerald Pratt, Northville contractor.

Word has been received from Chas. Scholtz that he is having excellent care in the U. S. naval hospital at Great Lakes, Ill., where the specialists have not yet determined the cause of his trouble. He writes that he is being well fed and cared for and is very hopeful.

Seventeen people enjoyed rides with horses from the Lewis Riding academy on Sunday. Most of the group were from Detroit. Northville is more and more attracting the horse lovers. "You live everything here," a visitor said the other day "hills, beauty and the paths for riding."

PUBLIC HEALTH

By Dr. Wilbur H. Johnston

In an incorporated village the state law provides that the president and commissioners shall comprise the local board of health, who are responsible for enforcing their own ordinances and regulations as well as all state laws pertaining to health. Every local board of health is required by law to appoint a health officer who acts as this board's agent in carrying out its duties.

The charter for the village of Northville (see 107) provides that the department of health of this village shall be in the immediate charge of the health officer, who shall be a legally licensed physician. He shall have such power and perform such duties as are prescribed by state law and by the village charter and by ordinances or resolutions of the village commission.

SCOUTS PLAN HIKE TO EAST TAWAS

Northville Boy Scouts are broadcasting an appeal for an old Ford chassis to be used as a trailer on their annual five day hike to East Tawas over the Fourth of July.

The boys will make the trip up there in trucks and using East Tawas as a base of operations will conduct sight seeing tours through the surrounding vicinity.

The countryside is thoroughly familiar to Scoutmaster Orlov G. Owen as it is his former home and he knows the interesting show spots that made the trip so fascinating to the many Scouts who took the journey last year.

Northville Scouts are already making preliminary preparations and the appeal for an old Ford chassis and an ice chest are a part of this work.

A majority of the Scouts have signified their intentions of taking the trip and under the careful guidance of Scoutmaster Owen the boys will make the jaunt in perfect safety.

"Living for a few days out in the open is an experience that every red-blooded American boy enjoys and the things that they learn and the good times that they have live long with them as treasured memories," said Mr. Owen.

Other activities on which the Scouts are spending their time these days are preparing to march in the Decoration Day parade sponsored by the Lloyd Green post of the American Legion. The Scouts will also decorate the graves of war veterans, thus having been their custom for a number of years.

BUYS SHOW HORSE

C. C. Lewis of the Lewis Riding academy at the fair grounds has just received a show horse which he purchased from stables at St. Louis, Missouri. This is a walk-trot animal that will be entered at the coming horse shows.

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

By MRS. EDITOR

FATHER

Our father has left us. The time has come which we have dreaded since his childhood when we used to lie awake listening to the lonely piping of the crickets on a summer evening...

Trying to speak words of comfort, kind friends say, "How thankful you should be to have had him so long!" Reason tells us we are thankful...

Our pen drags. The inspiration to write seems gone for Father always read this little "corner" and just because his "child" wrote it, thought it good and urged us on. We found on his old study table the other day a pile of these clippings held down by a paper weight...

We never knew how many friends Father had until his passing. Old and young, simple folk and college professors came to pay this tribute. "We loved him—he was a true friend..."

Every Monday Morning

By AD SCHWENGER

My first line is "Well, well, well..."

Well, the general idea is that I take the part in the P. T. A. play, "Polishing Papa" to be given at the high school tonight...

And are my knees knocking!

I've got one line that says, "Smith's Sausages—Supervised by Mr. Smith's Sausages"

I've all ready backfired a couple of times...

I've rehearsed the thing on the stage and with my instinctive modesty I've acquired the habit of turning my back to the audience...

But I'm not the only one that's punk

"Say, we've got some of the best hamlets in the city that ever tripped into a foot-light"

Take Orlov Owen, for instance...

When he pulls that tremolo stop on his vocal chords and says, "Like her?—why I love her," then the soft music starts and the tears come down in buckets...

And Joe Vroman—what a man, what a man—takes off his shoes in the first act and says "damn" with perfect impunity like making runs in a close second in grandeur of his lines and Starr Northrop, the perfect Englishman hasn't a firm grasp as to what it's all about yet that members of other denominations will avail themselves of this pleasant opportunity for furthering friendships.

A posse led by Gertrude Deaf, Mary Alexander, Peggy Sampson and Rev. Schaefer, they knew their lines...

But the person that I really feel sorry for—Mrs. Scott Lefewell—
