HAVE YOU A BOOMERANG?

We are more and more impressed with the fact that the man or woman who sets out to get revenge or who aims to harm someone else will find his acts a boomerang. Look around you and see how this spirit of "I'll get you yet" has poisoned the lives of many folks and of how this spirit has returned to haunt the ones who set out to harm someone. The man or woman who puts the Golden Rule into life and can actually carry it out, finds the biggest satisfaction of any one we know.

WE LOSE A FAMILY

Just recently Northville lost a family. They moved away and they told one of the Record folks why they did it. They had two reasons. One was: They were discouraged over the outlook for getting a bank here and told us they were not impressed with Northville's "pull together" spirit. That's plain talk, but that is exactly what they said.

Tell us this: How long are we going to have the reputation for being a community that will not work together? And this: Who are the men and the women who will not sink their differences and pull together for their home town?

GOOD BYE, SENATOR

The voters of Iowa have retired Senator Brookhart, "the bucking broncho" of the senate. We are glad to see him go. He has always "bucked" the administration, has done his best to embarrass his party leaders, has shouted, "Down with Wall Street," even while not knowing what it was all about, and now he finds "chickens come home to roost." A certain amount of radicalism is a good thing—but to be a mule all the time is unprofitable. Senator Brookhart has not made good on all his promises and threats, any more than the average "kicker and knocker" can. The United States will gain by the retirement of Brookhart, even though Field, the seed man, may not be an oratorical genius like Brookhart, but he will do something constructive for his state and nation.

ROCKEFELLER AND PROHIBITION

Last week's big "sensation" was the statement of one of the world's richest men, John D. Rockefeller Jr., a life-long temperance advocate, that he favored the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Coming as it did, the conversion of one of the leading "drys" of the United States to the side of those favoring abandoning the present system of prohibition of the liquor traffic, is significant. It undoubtedly hastens the day when the people of the United States will decide whether or not they wish the Eighteenth amendment continued in force. The man who has given $550,000 to the Anti-Saloon league and kindred organizations has a right to be heard on this all-important question.

Personally speaking—like Mr. Rockefeller—as a "totalitarian" and a life-long dry, we are inclined to think that he has cleared the issue. It is only sane and fair to consider conditions and even life-long dries ought to be just enough to see both sides of an issue. We have no sympathy with the dries who ridicule Mr. Rockefeller for his sincere statement for it must have taken much courage, in view of his long record of church work and dry support, to switch to the views of President Nicholas Murray Butler and Alfred E. Smith. On the other hand, one who has read the Rockefeller letter to President Butler will find in it everything to encourage temperance.

Just what stand does Mr. Rockefeller take with regard to prohibition? Well, here is exactly what his letter says with regard to that. It summarizes the attitude of many who are not at all "wets," but men who can think a problem through whether it agrees with their own personal views or not. Here are the reasons why he has turned against prohibition:

"When the Eighteenth Amendment was passed I earnestly hoped—with a host of advocates of temperance—that it would be generally supported by public opinion and thus the day be hastened when the value to society of men with minds and bodies free from the undermining effects of alcohol would be generally realized. That this has not been the result, but rather that drinking generally has increased; that the speak easy has replaced the saloon, not only unit for unit, but probably two-fold if not three-fold; that a vast army of lawbreakers has been recruited and financed on a colossal scale; that many of our best citizens, piqued at what they regarded as an infringement of their private rights, have openly and unabashedly disregarded the Eighteenth Amendment; that as an inevitable result respect for all law has been greatly lessened; that crime has increased to an unprecedented degree—I have slowly and reluctantly come to believe.

"I am not unmindful of the great blessing which the abolition of the saloon has been to our country or of certain other benefits that have resulted from the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment. It is my profound conviction, however, that these benefits, important and far reaching as they are, are more than outweighed by the evils that have developed and flourished since its adoption, evils which, unless promptly checked, are likely to lead to conditions unspeakably worse than those which prevailed before."

Mr. Rockefeller has brought the prohibition issue right out in the open where we shall have to do something about it. The discussion of the Eighteenth amendment has reached the point where we are getting obsessed by it. It has obscured other—and to our opinion—greater and more significant issues and from our talk one would have thought that was the beginning and the end of our national life. We have forgotten economic and business issues that mean bread and butter—and bacon and strawberry shortcake—to harangue about the Volstead act. Millions of speeches have been made about it; the metropolitan papers have made themselves look foolish in their everlasting wet propaganda, much of which has been distorted and unfair; hosts of organizations have been founded to free the country from the so-called "menace" of prohibition. Altogether, we have gotten in a furore over the Eighteenth amendment. It is time to get around to a little better balance of national issues.

It is fine to know that even though John D. Rockefeller is out against prohibition as we have it, he is still unalterably opposed to liquor. We stand with him. We are ready to admit that we must find some way to bring about a better observance of law and some method of doing away with the vicious bootlegger and their ungodly millions, but for the United States to return to anything like the old saloon conditions would be simply unthinkable in this automobile and machine age. Rockefeller suggests that we first repeal the amendment, then find a substitute. Many have thought that perhaps we should find the substitute first and then change prohibition, but Mr. Rockefeller's way may be best. Certainly, the liquor business was an outlaw in the old days. How it is going to be controlled in the days ahead, no one seems to know. In the meantime what a fine thing it would be if all would follow President Butler's advice:

"While the Eighteenth amendment remains upon the statute books it should be obeyed."

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Picked up an exchange and noticed that at the top of the editorial page, is the paper's platform. One plank read: "Better Neighbors." Well, Brother Editor, we have just that kind. Friday night, at 10 o'clock we were just about to slip into our pajamas when there came a knock at the door and who was there but L. B. Charter with a great dish full of roses (all kinds) for the "Missus." And then Saturday morning Mrs. Scott Lovewell sent in a bouquet of flowers that looked like the morning sun. Yes, sir, "Good Neighbors"—oil the pathway of life.

Felt like a "rounder" Saturday for taking too much time off. Ordered to get out of the office more, we spent a couple of hours Friday on the golf course and took a "sweet licking" from Hoyt Woodman and Floyd Lanning. Well, it was the third game of our life so we had a good alibi for our 85 for the nine holes. Then came Saturday and Harry B. Clark and Nels Schraeder rolled into the office and intrigued us into going to the polo game. That was just too good a chance to pass up. And Major Elton Eaton comes in to ask us to go fishing. What reason have we to find fault with life?

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

I LIKE THE DEPRESSION
(Henry Ansley, Amarillo (Texas) Globe-News)

I like the depression. No more prosperity for me.

I have had more fun since the depression started than I ever had in my life. I had forgotten how to live, what it meant to have real friends, what it was to like to eat common every-day food. Fact is, I was getting just a little high-hat.

Three years ago, only one man of the News-Globe organization could be out of town at a time and he had to leave at the last minute and get back as soon as possible. Many times I have driven 100 miles to a banquet, sat through three hours of bunk in order to make a three minute speech, then drive the 100 miles back so as to be ready for work the next morning. Nowadays, as many News-Globe employees as are invited make those trips and we stay as long as we want to. The whole outfit could leave the office and it wouldn't make any difference.

I like the depression. I have time to visit my friends to make new ones. Two years ago when I went to a neighboring town, I always stayed at a hotel. Now, I go home with my friends, stay all night and enjoy home cooking. I have even spent the week and with some of the boys who have been kind enough to invite me.

It's great to drop into a store and feel that you can spend an hour or two or three or a half day just visiting and not feel that you are wasting valuable time. I like the depression.

I am getting acquainted with my neighbors. In the last six months I have become acquainted with the folks who have been living next door to me for three years.

Three years ago I ordered my clothes from a merchant-tailor, two and three suits at a time. All my clothes were good ones. I was always dressed up. But now, I haven't bought a suit of clothes in two years. I am mighty proud of my Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes. When I dress up, I am dresel up, and I don't mean maybe. I like the depression.

Three years ago I was so busy and my wife was so busy that we didn't see much of each other, consequently we sort of lost interest in each other. I never went home to lunch. About twice a week I went home to dinner—at 6:30 o'clock. I never had time to go anywhere with her. She even joined the young mothers' club. We don't have any children, but she was studying and between playing bridge and going to clubs she was never at home. I haven't been out on a party in 18 months. My wife has dropped all the clubs. I believe we are falling in love all over again. I am pretty well satisfied with my wife. Think I will keep her, at least until she is forty, and then if I feel like I do now, I may trade her for two twenties.

I am feeling better since the depression. I take more exercise. I walk to town and a lot of folks who

We see where the "Every Monday Morning" (what a title!) column "razzes" us about putting a "Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment" plate on our car. Well, we won't mind if Ad does that very thing, if he will at the same time put up this sign alongside it: "But Before You Do, Remember the Old Time Saloon."

We don't feel so hilarious this year about the closing of schools. Our daughter, Ruth Mary, has finished her high school course. You parents know what that means: One beautiful period of home life closed forever. What would we not give to start those eighteen years over! Yet the next eighteen may open up another wonderful chapter. Life ought to be good all the way. Certainly, we have found it so.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

What is the best kind of vacation?

used to drive Cadillacs are walking in West Texas who could tell me with me. I like the depression. My digestion is better. I haven't seen a doctor in a year. I can eat anything I want to. I am getting real honest-to-goodness food. Three years ago, we had dieted on once a week, new wave, have round steak and flour gravy. Then we had roast breast of guinea hen, now we are glad to get some bacon with the buttons on it.

I like the depression. My salary has been cut to where I can't afford to buy lettuce and spinach and parsley and we can't afford to have sandwiches and frozen desserts and all the damfoolishness which has killed more good men than the world war.

I like the depression. Three years ago I never had time to go to church. I played golf all day Sunday and besides I was so darned home of his grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cowell.

CUT SCHOOL BUDGET— SAY THE TAXPAYERS

Plymouth banks for longer than 30 or 60 days. We need this money now and we'd like an expression from the people before we act.

Sherrill W. Ambler, secretary, spoke on the present condition of the school system's finances.

Schools Have Few Obligations
"Northville schools," he declared, at present are not obligated for any loan that can't be paid with current taxes. We have $28,000 coming to us in delinquent taxes but according to a recent ruling of the bankers they will not loan any money on delinquent taxes.

Nelson C. Schrader, Northville furniture dealer, said to be the third largest taxpayer of the district, arose at this juncture.

"It's high time the budget was reduced," asserted Mr. Schrader. "Continual borrowing will get us nowhere. If the board has made these large savings why not lower the budget and encourage the people to pay. We all have children and we're all interested enough in their education to want to keep the schools open. I don't think it's fair, however, that the 50 percent of the people who will pay their taxes have to stand the brunt of keeping the schools open. It's an unfair proposition."

"It's time to get taxes down," people can't pay them as they stand now. I say put the budget down to where it belongs and then appeal to the loyalty of the people to their community and to their school to pay at least their school taxes. That's my idea of the solution."

No Disagreement
"There's no disagreement," stated Mr. Ambler, "that's been the attitude of the board up to the time that the bankers made their recommendations. We wanted to pass the savings on to the taxpayers."

"I wonder," queried Fred E. Simmons, well known orchardist of Northville, "if these same bankers would loan us the money to pay our school taxes. I'm frank in saying that I don't know where my city, state, and county tax money is coming from. I do know that I'm not going to borrow and go deeply into debt."

"When you borrow," said W. D. Stark, "we've got to pay it. It's high time we stop borrowing. Do you know what they're doing in Pontiac? They're hiring their teachers from month to month."

Murmurs of protest followed this statement.

"If we follow the bankers," declared Sidney J. Frid, proprietor with his brother, Cyril N. Frid, of the Northville Laundry, "the man with delinquent taxes will be wiped out. I'm personally opposed to cutting the teachers' salaries."

At this point, the meeting became somewhat "electric" as the people began to give voice to their thoughts.

Board Doing Best It Can
Justice of the Peace Wellington Roberts arose and stated, "I don't envy you fellows (the school board) and superintendent, T. J. Knapp, seated on the platform, your jobs. You're doing the best you can. I think we all appreciate your motives."

"I sometimes wonder if we haven't developed other things, in our quest for the best in education, that are beyond our finances. Now, I have nothing against Coach Harold Ruggles (Northville high school athletic coach) but I can see no reason for our having a paid coach. I don't believe we need a school nurse. That department is purely an addition to education that doesn't belong. I'm not in favor of manual training classes or domestic science classes—they're not a part of education. The problem to me is do we want to cut down on expenses? We can if we begin on the additional things that have cluttered up our present educational system. People have a right to these things only if they can afford to pay for them."

Must Cut Luxuries
"It's summer down to this," said

Mr. Frid. "We've got to cut down on our luxuries."

Alex Johnson, Northville contractor, asked at this point for a proper definition of the word "luxury."

"Naturally there are certain things to be eliminated," he said. "If my children are sick I know enough to send them to a doctor without a note from the school nurse telling me to do so."

"I'll say this—only one man out of ten is handy enough to fix a door or a lock. By all means keep manual training and I don't think that athletics cost so much."

Dr. Cavell called the meeting to order and stated that the questions would be answered one by one.

Ref. Wm. Roscoe Barbour, Baptist minister, stated that although he was not a tax payer he wondered if it were not possible to cut down the school year?

Superintendent Knapp arose in response to the question.

Nine Month's School Necessary
"We cannot cut the school year to less than nine months according to law and still have a state approved school. If we do not have a state approved school we get no primary money, no tuition students from other districts. The law says that you are entitled to an approved school education."

"With respect to lessening of the personnel," we have already reduced the staff by six teachers, although instructing a larger number of pupils, and it is the intention of the board to eliminate two more.

"We don't run the high school as a strictly college preparatory school, but the requirements for a state approved school and for a college preparatory school are so similar that they are almost the same thing."

No one knows what the cost of an unapproved school will be. There are certainly one or two activities that could be eliminated but not gymnasium, because the law requires that it be taught in our public schools."

Teachers Get Pay?
"What is the program," inquired Otis Tewksberry, "for paying the teachers next year?"

"The first thing," was the answer by Dr. Cavell, "is to keep the schools open without incurring obligations beyond our current income. The schools have no obligations on hand now that cannot be paid by December."

"We have ascertained what our probable tax receipts with the levy recommended would be. With a spread of $48,000 and, if the people paid the same percentage next year as they did this year, we'd raise enough money to meet our bond interest and we could pay the teachers 67 per cent of their wages in cash with the rest in script."

"We've already informed the teachers of what their program for next year may be, of 26 to 30 per cent cuts in salaries that they'll have to take and that we might have to shorten the school year and they said that they'd stay on."

"The average salary for 1932-33 will be $1,250. The total pay roll for the year according to the new wage scale will be $30,875 for instructional service. If they are unable to live on the $650 they will receive in cash they will be forced to sell the script they receive at a substantial discount."

"The teachers have agreed to work with us. Their next year's contracts give no fixed rate or closing date."

"Now we've gone into the various phases of the school management and we want to explain some of the results we've obtained and ask for more questions."

Mr. Schrader took the floor.

Eliminate Contact Teacher
"Nothing has been said about the contact teacher," she teaches no classes. I'm certainly not in favor of cutting out teachers. Keep manual training, keep athletics, keep domestic science, keep all of the teachers we can. But if the 'contact teacher' doesn't teach, she should be eliminated."

"Being a teacher," interrupted Alex Johnson, "or on the board is a thankless task. But I'm certainly interested in knowing what a 'contact teacher' is and what her duties are."

Dr. Cavell indicated that he would answer the question, but the request was made that Mr. Knapp reply to it.

"I'm only too glad to answer," said Mr. Knapp. "Mrs. Ray has saved during this year $846.00 more than her salary. She is the only employee who actually makes money for you. Next year she will save you $1,400 more than her salary. One of the things that I am proud of establishing during my administration is this department which makes it possible to save the taxpayer money. If anyone would care to come to my office we have the figures and I would be glad to explain them in detail."

Duties of Personal Secretary
"What does the personal secretary to the superintendent do?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"She makes it possible for the superintendent to administer his duties. She relieves him of assuming the position of an errand boy. Savings effected by relief from detail have more than paid the salaries of these departments."

"Why not have seniors act as secretaries?" questioned Mr. Johnson.

"We have found," said Mr. Knapp, "that the students cannot be relied upon. They require too close attention and we only use them to enable them to benefit by the experience."

"Savings for us consist in so supervising the schools that we get a larger return for our money at a lower cost. I want to know how we can cut our budget without conflicting with the state law for approved schools."

Duties of School Superintendent
"Among the things that I would like to know," asked Cyril Frid, brother of Sidney, "are what are the duties of school superintendent? Furthermore, I'd like to know if Northville schools need a private telephone exchange. Isn't this one of the places on which we can economize? When I went to school we didn't need all of these telephones that seem to be necessary today."

F. J. Cochran, attorney, inquired as to how it was possible to levy a tax so far in excess of the required amount.

"This is the first time that Northville schools have ever been in trouble," affirmed Charles A. Dolph, former school board member, "hampered by law, the situation is not the fault of the school board. The board has the power to tax all it wants to but instead they choose to come to us and ask our opinion."

Don't Get Panicky
"Eventually the district will get its money because they hold property as security. But we want to keep our schools open during the two years while business is rebuilding. Don't get panicky and shut down everything. If a man is worth something he's worth it. Let's shift our attention. Leave the running of the schools to the judgment of the board."

Dr. Cavell spoke again.

"Until two years ago nothing was said to us in regard to finances and we got whatever we asked for. The new law has made us short. We should be able to borrow against 30 percent of our delinquent taxes but we cannot. We're meeting a crisis, but we're not broke. We've got $28,000 coming—but not for two years."

"What we want to convey to you," declared Mr. Ambler, "is the fact that if we don't maintain the highest possible standards of education, we lose $6,000 which would otherwise be coming to us from tuition students. If we don't provide an excellent education for our pupils, parents will send their children to other schools."

Phones A Necessity
"As for telephones," Mr. Gordon, the former superintendent, spent $5,500 more per year than did Mr. Knapp. He didn't have telephones, a secretary, or a librarian, but the tax payers paid for them."

"If you didn't deliver messages that were phoned into the schools by parents—well, I know that I'd hate to be a superintendent and have to refuse to deliver a message from a mother to her child in school."

"The taxpayers have always paid for a secretary and didn't know it. We had girls come in each month and act as bookkeepers at a salary of $35.00 per month."

"The per capita cost of each pupil in Northville schools next year will be $65.00 as compared to $70.00 per capita cost of each pupil in Plymouth schools."

Knapp Could Teach
"Superintendent Knapp has been criticised for his failure to teach classes. He could teach three classes and he will do so if you taxpayers want him to but it will take up half of his time. You'll save $600.00 in teachers' salaries but half of Mr. Knapp's time as superintendent will be taken from him. I see Percy Angove, an experienced educator and I'll call on him to give his opinion on the subject."

"I'm not a taxpayer," said Mr. Angove, "but I do send my children to school here because I think a great deal of Northville schools. I shouldn't think you'd want a superintendent to teach. Your superintendent is nationally known and I think it's a fine thing that he doesn't have to be an errand boy."

"I feel sure that you parents want your children to be able to compete with children of other schools who come from state approved institutions. The best in education, I think you'll agree with me, is not enough."

Not Time to Criticize
"It seems to me," declared E. H. Lapham, "that this is not a time to criticize the board. In this audience I notice seven members of other school boards. I want to say of this present school board that never have the records been so well kept and complete and I don't think people sufficiently appreciate the improvement in our schools."

Mr. Lapham traced the history of the financial distress of the schools of the country and declared that Northville was fortunate in being able to keep from closing longer than the rest of the schools in several communities had been.

He averred that he had favored a lowered budget until he had talked with tax experts who declared that Birmingham, Royal Oak and Detroit had been forced to ask for more than their requirements, the alternative being to close the schools.

Dr. A. B. Wickham, head of the Eastlawn sanatorium, complimented Mr. Dolph on the pertinence of his statement with respect to "getting panicky" and affirmed that he have no reason to feel badly. Dr. Wickham reviewed panics and depressions since 1797.

Wickham Voices Hope
"We've got to keep going and come out of it. I believe that the schools are the last thing with which we can afford to dispense. Better cut out our city lights rather than lower the standards of the schools."

Dr. Wickham paid tribute to Mr. Knapp as an educator and came to the defense of the school nurse as a vital part of the educational system.

"People are willing to pay an honest tax," he said, "but they don't want to be fleeced."

"Taxpayers need a little help at this time," declared Carmel Benton. "As I see it, asking for $48,000 is spreading a larger tax on a smaller group of people. What you need, he addressed the board, "is the help of the small taxpayer. Unless you put the taxes down where they belong, you won't get them. You'll have a 40 per cent collection instead of 67 percent."

We Need $12,000
"We need at present $12,000 to pay wages and carry us through until tax time. A loan of $7,500 has been passed by Detroit bankers, but has been held up. I have no doubt, pending the outcome of this meeting. The bankers say, 'Ask for $48,000. Where will we get the money unless we comply with these demands? We're not the only ones affected every school board,' said Mr. Ambler."

"Delinquent taxes must be paid and it's no joke. Property owners are going to find themselves forced to pay or else—no property. We can't get a loan, except on a short time note, from Plymouth and I adjourned by Dr. Cavell. No action has been taken on the 1932-33 budget, as yet."

us to, to levy just as little as possible."

Mr. Schrader again took the floor. "Do they absolutely refuse to lend us money unless the budget is set at $48,000?" he asked.

Bank Letter Read
Mr. Ambler read a letter from the bank officials in which they declared they considered it "essential" that the budget be left at $48,000.

"I think it possible that the delinquent taxes can be collected in part beginning right now and I'm in favor of appointing a committee to try it," suggested Sidney Frid.

"Our needs are immediate," said Mr. Ambler, "if we do not receive the loan of $7,500 we've got to get it in advance from the taxpayers."

"Speaking of delinquent taxes, won't help," interjected Mr. Stark. "I suggest that the people who can pay their taxes be asked to put out their money and draw six per cent interest."

"If," Mr. Ambler replied, "we can get $7,500 without committing ourselves, we'd only need $5,000 and we could do what has been suggested. However, we need some money right away."

"It's up to the school board," affirmed Mr. Stark, "to pay the teachers, in full and with the kindest compliments of the school district."

At this point, the meeting was adjourned by Dr. Cavell. No action has been taken on the 1932-33 budget, as yet.

NORTHVILLE COOKS
SEE CANNING DONE

About twenty-five interested women of the Home Nutrition class with a few visitors watched their instructor, Miss Emma DuBord, can fruit and vegetables at a special demonstration at the high school cafeteria Monday afternoon. She was anticipating with pleasure spending the quiet months on her porch, where many old friends would stop frequently to greet her.

Elizabeth Burdick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Burdick, was born in Rochester, N. Y., on May 3, 1884. One brother is deceased. A sister, Mrs. Katherine Hunman, of Bozeman, Montana, has remained devotedly with Mrs. Burgess for the past four years caring for her during a period of failing health.

On May 17, 1876, Elizabeth Burdick was married to Dr. J. M. Burgess, just graduated from the University of Michigan. Two children were born to them: a son, Dr. C. G. Burgess, and a daughter, Miss Mable Burgess, both living in Detroit.

Together with her husband, and one granddaughter, Mrs. Don Stockwell of Detroit, alone survive as members of the family. With the exception of the past few years while Dr. Burgess has been associated with his son in practice in Detroit, Mrs. Burgess has spent most of her life in Northville where her sweet, sunny spirit and unselfish life won a large circle of friends. Only recently she was heard to say "Everyone in Northville is so good." One of her close associates paid this tribute to her character: "She never said a mean thing about anyone."

During the years of her activity, she was a faithful attendant of the Baptist church and sang in the choir and took an interest in all its departments. Her special interest was her Sunday school class of boys which she taught for many years. These boys, now grown to manhood, still carry the impressions made by her teachings.

Mrs. Burgess was also a member of the Northville Woman's club and the Eastern Star.

Very appropriately the funeral service was held in the home she loved in Northville on Thursday afternoon. The Rev. W. Roscoe Barbour, her pastor, officiated and interment was made in the family crypt in Rural Hill. Four of her "boys," Royal Lickins, Bert Phillips, Floyd Northrup and Hoyt Woodman, acted as pall bearers.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—now you know the safe way to lose unsightly fat.

Salem Congregational Church.

Rev. Lucia M. Ström, minister.

The Children's Day program was one of the very best and one of the largest attended services given in the church in years. The altar and platform were most beautiful in the gorgeous array of flowers.

The little children were a credit to the Sunday school in the splendid way they recited and sang. Especially fine were the two musical numbers offered by the young people's choir. The following dear children and one young man were dedicated to Christ and baptized in His name after some fitting remarks and special scriptures given by the pastor—David Alton Lockwood, Frederick Dean Lockwood, Shirley Evans Simmons, Dorothy Lou Thelmer and Mr. LaVern Heister of Detroit.

In the evening Rev. Allison Ray Heaps of Ann Arbor showed his famous picture on the life of Christ, "The King of Kings," to a crowded house. The church was filled to its capacity with eager, earnest worshippers. The service was a most impressive one, introduced with prayer, the large audience reverently singing the hymn, "Jesus is all the world to me." Then followed a sacred number rendered very beautifully by Mrs. C. W. Lewis. Mrs. Speers, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Wilson, and Forbes Smith, also delighted the hearers with two coffee solos, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "In the Garden." Rev. Heaps showed most graphically a beautiful slide which he purchased from the original picture, "The King of Kings" in New York a number of years ago and wonderfully described each scene depicted on the screen with proper scriptures and descriptions. This beautifully embellished the entire service and the large audience was moved to greater loyalty in the service of their Lord and Master, Jesus, Christ. Rev. Heaps further expressed his delight and joy in showing this picture in Salem and spoke very appropriately of the Christian work done by the pastor here. The people expressed their appreciation by giving $5.10 in the free will silver offering which Rev. Heaps turned over to the pastor. The work in this church is remarkably growing numerically and spiritually and we wish to extend a hearty welcome to all to worship with us who have no church home or connection.

Traveled with the Boy Scouts to Bill Forney's cottage week ago Thursday night and had a whale of a good time.

Scouts Charles Sheppard, Norwood Dickson, Essie Nirider, Geo. Richardson, Dick Junod, Fred Van Valkenburg, Chas. Strautz, Bruce Turnbull, Herman Toussaint, Jabez Bacon, and Junior Cole of Northville troop one—take a bow for being individually and collectively a group of darn, good fellows.

We say that with qualms, cooked our dinner on the beach and furthermore, we ate it. Scoutmaster Over cooked some biscuits with his own lily-white hands.

I tried to get the precious recipe for the "Homemakers' Corner," but "Smoky Joe" Owen was reluctant to part with it and stated very firmly that the formula had been in the family for years and he was not going to give it to every ruff hobo that came along. I caught a glimpse of the label, "Bisquick," whatever that is, and if it will help you housewives any.

Bill Forney, Harold White, Cliff Turnbull and Scoutmaster Franklin Knight and I went along to see that the boys behaved themselves and found ourselves entirely unnecessary.

Someone, who evidently thought I was on the Welfare list, placed a dozen eggs, a quart of buttermilk, and a loaf of bread by mistake in my car last week.

Knowing the efficacy of advertising, I inserted a line in The Record and lo! and behold! I find that Mrs. Harold Bloom is my kind benefactress. If someone will donate some fruit (I like oranges and bananas) I think I'll be able to get through the spring without any trouble.

It appears to me that there's a lot of ice being sold on Dunlap street—or is my nose too long?

R. T. Baldwin received an interesting letter addressed to him from a magazine publishing firm. It's a wonderful opportunity and perhaps, he says, he'll grab it. Letter follows: "Dear Buddy:

money prizes and earn your own spending money. Do you know what this means? Whoopee! You can have a business of your own and make money by the peck. Etc.

Mrs. Editor was heard to say that earning money by the teacup certainly, rather than by the peck theoretically would be entirely satisfactory to her.

Fun with the editors!

It's remarkable how many people "knew all about those anonymous letters long ago, but didn't say anything about it."

Two Detroit reporters were willing to make it "well worth my while," if I'd find them a certain photograph. They spoke lightly of burglarizing, etc., in order to get the picture and I told them I sympathized with their efforts.

I wonder what would have happened to me if they knew I had the desired picture in my inside coat pocket while we were talking and nobody was around. They got the photos somewhere—but not from me and not from this office. Things coming into this office, belonging to the customer, remain the customer's property.

Members of the freshman class of Northville are making plans for an all-day party at Bob-Lo on June 21. All who will attend are asked to meet at the school house at 8:00 a. m. of that day.

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

By MRS. EDITOR

The June Bride.
Here comes the bride, faithful and true,
It's June! Weddings are ripe, Society columns of our city dailies are fairly bursting with many accounts of "lovely" brides. Of course she's lovely on her day of days when roses and song birds make June the most beautiful month for weddings. No hearts are too old to beat a little quicker at the song:
"The bridegroom proudly rideth up to his loved one's gate,
The bride looks out and longing for him,
Yet isn't it strange that we women who have traveled many years on this path of happy matrimony always surreptitiously wipe away a few tears at the strains of 'Lohengrin'?" Is it because we are ourselves once more a bride in a white gown with roses in our arms standing against the head of the stairs, waiting eagerly for the right measure in that familiar melody, before we start down the steps to take the vows of wifehood? We know how why our father called us into his study that memorable morning and said so tenderly to a quivering bride's voice "And so my little girl is going to be married today?" "Yep, I'm happily answered and bounded eagerly off his lap."
We know now that as father and mother both to us, he had more to say but we were too busy and would not have grasped it if we had listened. How could twenty-two understand the meaning of "for better, for worse, for richer for poorer, and forsaking all others keep thee only unto him?" These vows sounded so simple, so easy to keep—then
We doubt if there is a married woman of forty who would not like to begin over—and "do a better job" of this marriage business.
A preacher said to us the other day "I always advise the couples I marry to avoid the first quarrel, then or course there will be none. Learn to overlook trifles. Do not make an issue of small things. Most larger troubles grow out of such small matters, which could have been avoided."

This statement struck us lately. The moment a young husband, or a young wife, begins to feel a sort of indulgent admiration for his own faults, that minute dooms THAT marriage. And to fail in marriage is like flunking in college; you may let it down, but you would have learned more, grown more developed more, the other way.

Seven resolutions made by the bride of John Coolidge are worth clipping by brides of the present and those of yesterday. Let's stick them in our mirror for frequent reminder.

1. I shall keep no secrets from my husband.
2. I shall not gossip.
3. I shall make housekeeping my career.
4. I shall not be a clinging vine but a working partner.
5. I shall see that my husband has a comfortable and cheerful home and that he is properly fed.
6. I shall live within my husband's salary.
7. I shall regulate my life by his business.

NORTHVILLE STUDENTS MAKE SPLENDID RECORD DURING SCHOOL YEAR

In chemistry their instructor is especially gratified with the results of the year.
Aside from their regular study of history, the classes in Mrs. Cobb's department have worked out many valuable projects. The students of the eleventh grade have written theses on "George Washington" for which prizes will be awarded by the D. A. R. local chapter. The winners of these prizes will be announced at a final assembly to be held next Friday morning, June 24.
In the class cabinet of the domestic science department hangs a row of white dresses made by the 27 "sweet girl graduates" awaiting their glad day. These dainty dresses of fluff, flaring designs are mostly of cotton materials, organdy, voile or dotted swiss. A few are of silk crepe but all cost not a penny more than four dollars and some much less. All are ankle high. Some girls have painstakingly worked stitches of hand decoration as they dreamed their girlish dreams. Every stitch of these dresses has been taken by the girls themselves under direction of Mrs. Zimmerman, and well may they step forth in pride in their handiwork. Prizes of $5, $3, $2 will be awarded on the evening of commencement to the prettiest gowns. An exhibition of these commendable dresses will be open to the public tonight after the exercises.

Not only the high school but the junior high school, supervised by Mrs. Ida E. Cooke has been doing things worth while. For the first time the rigid Clapp-Young intelligence test has been given to the pupils of this department with gratifying results. Sixty took the test in percentage, fractions, decimals with the following ranking over 96 per cent—Robert Lyke, Doris Beasley, Tom McLoughlin, Mable Douglas, Katherine Runk, Robert Angove, Marjorie Hills, Revere Dundas, Jack Junod, Frances Alexander, Roland Morris.
Following is the honor roll of the Junior high for the past month: Maryann Nelson, all A's.

BENTON TELLS HOW PICTURE OF CLARK REVIVES MEMORIES

That news of Northville goes to the end of the world is pretty well shown in the following letter which Harry B. Clark has just received from Richmond P. Benton of Los Angeles. Many of our readers will greatly enjoy Mr. Benton's fascinating letter.

The letter follows:
Mr. Harry B. Clark,
Northville, Michigan.
DEAR HARRY:

In reading the Northville Record which I received yesterday, I noticed the article regarding your picture being in the "Brown Section" of the Detroit News, so I immediately went down to the news stand and purchased one of the papers so that I might have a "good look" at my old pal.

I notice you are astride a very beautiful animal and I know you would have nothing else as you were always a fond lover of good horses.

Wish you would tell me just where this picture was taken as I thought perhaps it might be on our old farm, knowing that Phil Grennan owns that property. Of course, you were the only one I know in the picture.

I, too, am very fond of good horses and have a chance of seeing some very beautiful horses each morning and evening as I drive back and forth from my home in Burbank to my office in Los Angeles. There is a bridge path, which runs along the side of the drive from the town, for a distance of about five miles. There is a stable located near this drive in which some of the best horses in the state are kept. Our famous Breakfast Club is also located on this drive.

Only this morning while driving down to the office I met a groom riding and leading a dapple cream colored horse with a silver mane and tail, and it was so glossy that Etta wondered what they put on to make it shine that way. I have counted as many as a hundred mounts on my way down.

We will have a chance to see some very beautiful animals here during the Olympic Games to Japan. South American countries and many other countries are sending some of their best horses here.

Another article in the Record that made me homesick was the one about "Washford Lake or 'Ford's Lake' which I called it. I remember the days when I used to be swimming there and the occasional rainy days when I would fish in these same spots.

I wish you and your wife could come out here for the Olympic Games. I think it would be well worth your time. We are anticipating a large crowd and some of the participants have already arrived.

I am sorry to see your city without a bank and that the factions can't get together. Having had several years experience with the state bank department here, my observation is that the moratorium plan is the best.

Also noticed in the Record that Ed Bennett passed away. I'll have to get back there soon or there won't be anyone left that I know. Would enjoy being able to get back there in the month of May but as that is always a very busy month with me, we will have to make it later on in the year.

I suppose, Harry, I would hardly know the old places around there, as everything has changed a great deal from what I glean from the paper. I expect I would get lost if I were to start up the "Base Line" to your old place as it used to take hours for us to drive that distance with horses, but driving automobiles certainly shortens distances.

My home is about twelve miles out of Los Angeles—I drive it on an average of 25 or 30 minutes. I'm about the same distance from Los Angeles as Old Sand Hill is from Detroit. We are only a quarter of a mile from the foot of the mountains and also have a wonderful view of the valley below us. We're about a fifteen-minute drive from Hollywood, about an eight minute drive from two of the largest studios there. If you come out here, I'll see that you get to go thru the best of the studios. You know our climate here is so even that you can enjoy our summers here, as well as our winters.

My former chief, superintendent of banks of the state of California from 1923 to 1927, was just in to see me, and I was talking with him about your condition back there, and he surely thought that you should take advantage of the moratorium. He is a man of wide experience in the banking business.

Trusting that I may have the pleasure of seeing you out this way sometime and that you will give my regards to all of the boys. I am Very sincerely yours,

R. P. Benton.
