FORMER GRADS GATHER FRIDAY AROUND TABLE

Two Hundred Alumni Re-new Acquaintance Once More

The annual banquet of the Northville high school alumni, held last Friday night, June 24, in the school gymnasium, has taken its place in history along with other great events of this educational institution and will hold its place secure in its uniqueness, as there was a complete departure from the usual formal banquet.

After the alumni and their guests had found their respective places around the banquet table, Mrs. Hazel Perkins-Boyd, president, called the banquet to order by the reading of the Lord's prayer in unison. Everybody then "felt to" and enjoyed a delicious dinner which had been prepared under the capable hands of the Eastern Stars, ably and efficiently served by a group of high school girls, most of whom were members of the freshman class.

Mrs. Boyd welcomed everyone in a very fitting speech, and then announced the officers for the 1932-1933 year who are Mrs. John L. Lisenberger, president; Mrs. Harry Wagners, vice president; Miss Grace Angell, secretary; and Robert Lisenberger, treasurer.

Then came the introduction of the oldest alumnus, Mrs. Emma Johnson, who graduated in 1875. Next was a vocal duet by two high school girls, Gertrude Deal and Florence Johnson, who very sweetly and unaffectedly sang two numbers and responded with an encore. Miss Riva Shrader accompanied these young singers. Mrs. Boyd then introduced our superintendent of schools, T. J. Knapp, who in turn cleverly presented the speaker of the evening, George Leonard of the Campbell-Ewald advertising agency in Detroit. Mr. Leonard is a trustee of Olivet college and was for some time a teacher in the Highland Park schools with Mr. Knapp.

Mr. Leonard, who has been very active in the Highland Park schools alumni activities, chose for his subject, "Why an Alumni Association?" The speaker talked briefly and to the point and brought out two salient ideas as to why an alumni organization should exist and the duties of the individual alumnus.

The first point was loyalty to the school, the superintendent and teachers, and the second that while the alumni grew old in body, they should grow young in ideas and outlook.

He also said, "The school is still yours, and while the records that you made in school are always kept, what records are you keeping of the school and what are you as an alumnus doing for the school? Are you concerned enough to have a representative committee from the alumni to advance the business of education?"

He continued, "School is like an advertising agency which has only experts to deal with the problems of advertising and thus we should as alumni consider education as a business problem, the superintendent and teachers as the manufacturer and the public as consumers. The graduates are the product."

Mr. Leonard brought his talk to a very fine climax and ending by reciting:

"Build these more stately mansions, O my soul, as the swift seasons roll; leave that low-voiced past; let each new temple, nobler than the last, shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast till thou at length art free; leaving that outgrown shell by life's unresting sea."

Then Mrs. Eliza Jane Wagners, the secretary, called the roll.

The oldest class representative who has already been mentioned, Mrs. Emma Johnson, 1873, was asked to stand. She was greeted with much applause.

The next class to be represented was 1882 which had one. Then the graduates from 1883 to 1900 totaled 14, each class having one or two members present. Those having one present were 1885, 1886 and 1894. The classes of 1883, 1885, 1897 and 1899 had two, while 1893 headed the list with three.

The representatives of the classes from 1900 through to 1920 were a bit more numerous, equalling 23. Classes having only one were 1900, 1907, 1913, and 1916. Two members came from each of the classes of 1914, 1915, 1918 and 1919, three from

STREET DANCE IS POSTPONED

The usual street dance on Friday night, which people of Northville and surrounding vicinity have enjoyed the past few weeks will be postponed until Monday.

The street dance will be held in conjunction with the celebration being put on by the Northville Fair association and will probably start at eight o'clock in the evening following the extensive afternoon program.

The public address system, which amplifies the popular dance melodies of the day and the mellow tunes of yesterday for the benefit of the dancers, will be in use.

WELFARE AID PLAN MAKING PROGRESS

Work is progressing on the plan to "grow your own food" and get your own fuel, used by welfare authorities in Northville, and according to the latest reports ten acres of land will be planted in potatoes on the Griswold farm on one Balslake road just east of the city by Friday night. All day Tuesday and Wednesday two tractors were engaged in turning the sod at the farm as five men cut brush and two men kept busy cutting 40 bushels of seed potatoes.

The tractors have been loaned by Northville farmers, and it is expected that they will be repaid in the autumn by welfare labor, at a time when they will need every available assistance in harvesting their crops.

Although the organization has been formed a little late in the season for arrangement for the planting of the general variety of garden stuffs, there will be ample opportunity to provide for the planting of such staple foods as potatoes, beans and turnips, said Dr. L. W. Snow.

Arrangements have been made with many of the local farmers who have volunteered to let those seeking welfare aid to cut the wood on their lands, according to Dr. Snow who has been sacrificing his time and energy in this work. At the present time, he said, the most-expected plan would be for the welfare workers to work in groups, everyone joining in the cutting, sawing, splitting and hauling lumber, an individual plan may be followed whereby each person or family can cut what they need.

Applications for welfare aid are asked to see the benefits to be derived from taking advantage of the plan of getting their own food and fuel without cost to themselves. It is one means of relieving the distress of the 81 families in this township who have sought the aid of welfare organizations in the city.

NORTHVILLE FOLKS SEE RHODODENDRON FESTIVAL IN SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Bunn and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Sessions returned last week from a most interesting trip to Asheville, North Carolina, where they attended the rhododendron festival which is held annually at this time of the year. Up in the mountains these rare blossoms were at the height of their beauty and these together with the azaleas and mountain laurel, also in their glory now, made a sight "too beautiful to describe," say the Bunnas.

While in Asheville, the party were guests of relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Sessions.

On their return trip they came through the new mountain road recently opened through Smoky Mountain National park lying partly in North Carolina and partly in Tennessee.

MOSES E. RIX, NOVI STRUCK BY TRAIN

Moses Edgar threw himself under a fast moving freight train as means of suicide last Sunday morning at 6:00 o'clock at the Pere Marquette railroad crossing south of Novi. Despondency over health and a failing mind was given as the cause of his voluntary death.

Mr. Rix, who was 73 years old, was living with his brother, Caleb Rix, on Newton Wixom's farm on the Novi road south of the Pere Marquette railroad. According to Mrs. Celia Rix, wife of the dead man, he had planned to commit suicide.

The funeral was held at the Schrader funeral home on Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Frank N. Miner in charge. Interment was made in Rural Hill.

GLORIOUS 4TH PLANNED BY FAIR BOARD

Northville Will Make Merry With Games and Fun July Fourth

A Fourth of July that will be safe and sane as well as enjoyable is planned for Northville next Monday.

Four major events are scheduled for the day, field events for the adults and children, a ball game, horse racing and at night a street dance will be held on Center St.

Admission at the fair grounds will be 25c for everybody over 12 years of age. Children under 12 years of age get in free.

Community band will march down to the fairgrounds when the activities for the day will get into full swing. The field events will consist of a potato race, an egg race, a sack race, a 100-yard dash for boys and girls under 12 years, a 100 yard dash for girls under 12, and a fat man's race at 100 yards.

The prizes will range from fifty cents to two dollars. The ball game which will be held between Harry German's Chiefs and a fast semi-pro team promises to be an exciting contest, and no doubt a large crowd will center their attention upon this feature.

The horse races promise to be one of the best features of the day and some fast steeds will speed along the dirt track, which is considered one of the best half mile tracks in Michigan. There will be a 2.16 pace, 2.28 trot, 2.32 trot, and a 2.24 pace. Northville boasts of some fine horses and drivers. With fine weather to keep the track in good condition there will be some fast time made at the fair grounds this Fourth of July.

In the evening the street dance will be held on Center street, the music will be furnished by means of the public address system. This event, ought to draw a large crowd if former street dances are any criterion by which to judge.

The Northville Community band will furnish the music at the fair grounds. Selections appropriate for the national holiday have been chosen and Northville music lovers are in for a jolly treat.

Little difficulty is anticipated by Chief of Police Safford in handling the Fourth of July activities. If necessary, two or three extra men will be added to the force for the day, declared Chief Safford.

ROTARY CLUB CLOSING SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Presiding for the last time as president of the Rotary club, Father Jos. G. Schuler at the Tuesday noon luncheon closed a year's very successful term of office. He will be succeeded by Prof. Angove.

In informal but impressive fashion, Father Schuler turned to each member of the club and expressed in turn his appreciation of the support that had been given him.

Reports of the officers for the past year showed that the club has had a prosperous year. Treasurer E. L. Mills stated that the Rotary had a good balance in the bank and also one in the closed bank. During the year the sum of over $650 was paid for meals.

The report of Secretary C. R. Van Valkenburgh showed that the club has an active membership of 19 with one honorary member, David Gage.

Father Schuler will serve as vice president the coming year while both Mr. Mills and Mr. Van Valkenburgh are continued in their respective offices. New members of the board of directors are John McCully, Chas. Schultze and E. M. Bogart. Guests were Paul J. Wiedman and editor, Elton R. Eaton, of Plymouth.

DON MCLEOD LOSES TO EDDIE KOPPY

In the headline feature card promoted by the Henry Bushway Jr. Post of the American Legion at Hamtramck stadium Wednesday night, Don McLeod, Northville lightweight, following eight rounds of furious fighting.

McLeod, in the early rounds, according to Detroit sport writers, was puzzled by Koppys powerful right which landed solidly and often enough to pile up a slight lead while the Northville boy could not overcome.

Of the large group of Northville fans who saw the fight, many were sure that the worst Don should have received was a draw and a few expressed the opinion that he had won owing to his aggressiveness.

JULY 4th

Northville merchants are not going to get cheated out of seeing the big doings at the Fair Grounds on the Fourth of July, and they will close their stores at noon. Why shouldn't they with the program of horse racing, field events, and ball game that has been arranged, as well as the street dance at night?

Northville is going to make up for last year when there was no celebration in town, and the Northville Fair association which is sponsoring this gala event is going to receive a vote of thanks from the men, women and children who will, through the efforts of the Association, have a definite place to go on the Fourth.

All out to the Fair Grounds, where a good time will be had by all on the grand and glorious Fourth!

EXCHANGITES ELECT STEEL PRESIDENT

In a picturesque setting under the trees of Brice Side Farms, the Northville Exchange club held its election of officers, picking Dr. A. H. Steele at the helm as president for the duration of the next term. M. J. Murphy, democratic candidate for congress from the seventeenth district, was elected first vice president and Dr. B. H. Douglas, head of the Maybury sanatorium, was elected second vice president, and Dr. H. I. Sparling was elected third vice president.

Re-elected to the board of control were Ralph Horton and Clifford Turnbull. Dayton Bunn will again assume the post of sergeant at arms. Sherrell Ambler will continue to be secretary, Ad. Schwenger was newly elected to the office of treasurer, and Sam Wilkinson was re-elected as representative to the metropolitan council of the Exchange club.

Robert G. Varney, republican congressional candidate and host to his fellow Exchangers, was given an unanimous vote of appreciation by the members for providing the tables and chairs and the use of the grounds for the meeting. A hearty buffet, luncheon of potato salad, mixed ham, sandwiches, lemonade and cake, for desert made the Exchangers and their guests feel thoroughly at home.

John Kalbfeisch, veteran Exchangelite, spoke for the members of the club when he stated to the returning president, Orlov G. Owen that the members had fully appreciated the unstated effort given by Mr. Owen during his term as president of the club.

The continued success of the show put on by the merchants each Wednesday night with an additional charge of ten cents for adults and five cents for children under 12 was evidenced by the well-filled house at the performance this week.

As early as 6:45 people began gathering for the first show, and were lined up on Main street waiting their chance to get in and enjoy an hour of recreation.

The second show saw an equally large number of people eager to avail themselves of this opportunity of seeing a first-class production for the small sum required.

The picture, "After Tomorrow," with Charles Farrell in the lead, was a fine production and well directed, and Farrell in his role gave as good a performance as he has in any picture for a long time.

War and rumors of war were nothing but far away dreams to the boys of the Northville Lloyd E. Green post of the American Legion and the Plymouth Myron H. Beals post No. 32 who held a joint picnic at Cass Benton park on Tuesday, June 28.

A game of indoor baseball was played between the two Legion posts, Plymouth winning by a score of 22-7. Dr. Paul Alexander acted as umpire.

A fine picnic lunch was given by the Lloyd H. Green post Auxiliary.

BRAE BURN TO CELEBRATE

On Monday, Brae Burn Golf club will be a scene of intense activity. There will be a big celebration, including a golf tournament, driving contest, dance, fireworks, and bar-b-que, with refreshments and prizes for the winners of all contests.

H. G. Hall, the club's manager, reports that the golf course is in fine condition and he is preparing for a large attendance.

Prof. Percy Angove of the Wayne County Training school is attending summer school in the Detroit City college where he is working for his bachelor of science degree. He is specializing in social psychology.

NIAGARA FALLS TRIP THRILLS N. H. S. SENIORS

Half of Class End. High School-Careers by Trip

Twenty-two members of the senior class, accompanied by Leslie G. Lee, as chaperon, returned from a fine trip by boat to Niagara Falls, Wednesday morning.

This was the first visit made to one of the "seven wonders of the world" by many of these young folks and the experience was one long to be remembered and came as the climax to four years work in high school. Those taking the trip were:

Ward Van Atta, Isadore Keeney, Demetra Mills, Howard Beach, Elia Tibble, Marvin Tibble, Wendell Dickerson, Denis Levensworth, Clara Rittenberg, Robert Cousins, Wayne Thompson, Elden Biery, Thelma Nierdel, Arthur Hills, Don Robinson, Olan Brooks, Shirley Preston, Herbert Berendt, Francis Bacon, Jane Lawrence, Ruth Mary Baldwin, Bernice Clark.

Leaving Detroit at five o'clock Monday afternoon by way of the Greater Detroit, luxurious steamer, the seniors arrived in Buffalo at eight o'clock Tuesday morning.

They were immediately loaded aboard a bus by their instructor and chaperon, Leslie G. Lee, and taken on a trip to the Falls. During this journey they saw such interesting places as Scott's Monument, the place where McKinley was shot, the large power plants where man has harnessed the Falls and the river to make electricity, with which to run large factories, and finally the famous Niagara Falls, renowned throughout the world.

The most interesting feature connected with the Falls, according to the seniors, was the Cave of the Winds. The cave with its continual spray, its rushing roar of falling water, its cloud-like mist given off by the cataract, fascinated the entire class.

Most of the party donned flannels and rubber coats to make the trip beneath the falls through this cave. The force of the spray was rather trying on the make-up of the young women of the party, but everyone emerged safe and sound.

When the graduates had visited every nook and cranny of the Falls which were available to sight-seers, they reluctantly boarded their bus and returned to their steamer. After another night of most good food, hours of dancing, and the many incidents which go to make up "good times" and crystallize life into life-long memories, the seniors with "their ship" docked in Detroit on Wednesday morning.

Most of the seniors, after disembarking, stayed in the city to attend a show or to visit friends. The majority returned to their homes in Northville, thrilled at seeing one of the most famous scenic spots of the world—even if they did have to sleep four in a berth in order to get there.

Senior Opinions

The seniors all enjoyed their trip to Niagara Falls. If you don't believe it, ask them.

The Record was able to reach only six of them Wednesday evening following their return from Detroit, and this is what they had to say:

Isadore Keeney: "It's all right, but I like getting wet best."

Bob Cousins: "I think it's a lot of fun."

Elden Biery: "The scenery at the Falls is much more beautiful than I expected."

Ruth Mary Baldwin: "Didn't we have fun!"

Bernice Clark: "I like the ease of the trip."

The rest of the class who went on the trip, we were not able to interview, but if they could state their opinions, we imagine that there would be various expressions praising still higher the food, telling more about the fun, and one or two about the great amount of sleep secured.

John McNany was called to South Lyon Monday on account of the sudden death of his sister, Mrs. Eddie McFadden.

DR. WILBUR H. JOHNSTON

Dr. Wilbur H. Johnston, Northville's only osteopathic physician, who will be present at the American Osteopathic association to be held at the Book-Cadillac hotel next week.

TO ATTEND ANNUAL OSTEOPATHIC MEET

For the first time in twenty years Detroit will welcome the annual American Osteopathic convention during the week of July 4-9.

The sessions will be held in the Book-Cadillac hotel.

Dr. Wilbur H. Johnston, local osteopathic physician, will be in attendance at most of the sessions at which physicians of note from Los Angeles, Boston, Toronto and other large cities will be present to discuss matters of interest to the profession. A number of practical clinics will be held. To one of these Dr. Johnston is taking patients.

In order that the public interested may better understand the comparatively new field of treatment, invitations have been issued to patients and friends to an evening session on Thursday, July 7, when nine outstanding physicians will give ten minute talks on subjects of interest. Admission is by invitation only and those wishing to attend may apply to Dr. Johnston.

Finkel's orchestra will be an added attraction.

This session will be held in the Masonic Temple.

LOCAL MUSICIANS TO JOIN CHORUS

Seventeen Northville high school students have had the honor of being chosen members of the all-state band and chorus and will spend four days at the National Music Camp at Interlochen on July 5-9 and Northville will be represented in this group by Ernest Race, cellist and violinist. Ernest will stay through the remaining week of summer as a member of the National High School orchestra.

Representing Northville in the all-state band will be Jack McLoughlin, Edward Angove and Robert Lyke, cornets, Tom Carrington and Catherine Duguid, clarinetists, Frances McLoughlin, Tombolist, Robert Angove, saxophonist and Ida Altman, drummer. This group will meet July 12-16.

Madeline Haystead, Mary Jane Denne, Mary Louise Boyd, Marion Turnbull, first soprano, Gertrude Deal, second soprano, Florence Johnson, second alto, Maurice Gales and Otis Tewksbury, baritone and Merle Fraser, second bass, are the singers who will first place on the all-state chorus and will spend July 19-23 at the beautiful Interlochen camp.

These students have already received the music to be used in this concert and are busily at work preparing it under the guidance of Edward Head and Leslie G. Lee.

This should prove a wonderful experience for these young musicians and should serve as an incentive for other students next year.

Northville may be proud of their achievements. A few of the students still need transportation and if anyone is planning to visit Interlochen on the above-mentioned dates the students would appreciate a lift. Phone Leslie G. Lee at 241, Northville.

Dear Sir: In answer to your inquiry concerning the success of a bank operating under a moratorium plan, I think I can best serve your purpose by furnishing you with a few figures which I think will convince you beyond question that such an operation can be successful.

The total footings of the Ypsilanti Savings Bank on the date immediately prior to the opening on Dec. 23, 1931, were $1,500,108.62. On June 22nd this figure had increased to $1,724,267.24 which figure, in view of present conditions, I believe furnishes adequate proof of the complete restoration of confidence on the part of the public in Ypsilanti.

Over five months period we have reopened a total of 1406 accounts and during the month of May opened 38 savings accounts and 15 commercial accounts which shows that progress is still being made.

Our total increase in commercial deposits up to June 22nd was approximately $150,000.00 and our savings increase was approximately $93,000.00.

With reference to the earning capacity of a bank operating under such conditions we have, after adequately providing for interest reserve—setting aside $12,500.00 for this purpose, made a net earning up to June 1st of $8,444.45 which we

NORTHVILLE BANK PLAN NEAR GOAL

Intensive Effort by Committee Results In More Signatures

BULLETIN! Thursday morning officials of the Northville State Savings bank announced that they had reached their goal of 85 per cent of the signatures representing deposits of $384,500.

Plans for perfecting the reorganization of the Northville State Savings bank will go forward immediately, officials announced.

The Lapham State Savings bank, bank committee member, has reached the 90 per cent mark and officials are confident that the remaining signatures will be obtained shortly.

Northville has nearly reached the goal of a new bank.

The campaign to secure 85 per cent of signatures under the moratorium plan to form a new institution, from the assets of the Northville State Savings and the Lapham State Savings banks, is near a successful finish.

United community effort will bring a new bank in the very near future.

The Northville State Savings bank has already secured enough signatures to make effective the moratorium plan drawn up by the state banking department. Yesterday the bank lacked only a very small sum to complete the needed 85 per cent.

The Lapham bank passed the 80 per cent mark last Wednesday and there was every indication that numerous agreements would be brought in before the close of the week.

A petition was filed in circuit court at Detroit last week asking for distribution of a ten per cent dividend by the Lapham bank on July 1st. This was filed by a very small number of depositors, who apparently do not realize the immense loss that would come to the community through the liquidation of this bank.

It can be stated on the very best authority that no such action will be taken until every possible step has been taken to make successful the moratorium plan which is being worked in other places. If the Lapham bank should go through receivership, it would simply mean the demoralization of property values in Northville through the foreclosing of the mortgages on every street in the village. In the opinion of those most interested in the future of this community it seems unthinkable that our citizens will allow the bank to go into liquidation when the goal of a new bank is so near.

As never before, this community should rally to the support of the plan that will mean a new prosperity for the whole community.

Indicating how the moratorium plan works out in every place, we quote below a letter sent to John A. Boyce of the local depositors' committee from Max E. Williams, cashier of the Ypsilanti State Savings bank.

SAFE IN THE BANK

One of the best men in this community said the other day: "Well, I guess it's better for me that my money is in the bank. Everything else I have seems to be bringing me trouble and loss. I expect to get back most of my money in the bank, but the rest of the stuff—well, not so good."

Look over your own losses and then see whether you agree with this man or not.

THE SELFISH MAN

How much fun does the selfish man get out of life? We often wonder.

The other day we talked to one of these chaps who wants everything for himself and who never thinks of the other fellows except to gain some advantage from him. He didn't look happy. As he went off, we just got to thinking that the grasping man is not to be envied. Certainly, he doesn't know what a lot he misses.

Then we ran into another chap who takes time to do things for folks, who thinks of other's interest as well as his own, and it just struck us that he was getting a lot more out of life than the man we just mentioned.

A STOLEN DECISION

Forty-five out of fifty sports writers for the daily papers are loud in their complaints that Max Schmeling defeated Jack Sharkey, the egotistical Boston boy, and was robbed of the championship by two of the officials. We think they are right.

But why should anyone complain about anything that happens in the commercialized prize fighting game? As the Detroit News well points out, the "big money division of boxing" pays no attention to such a little matter as stealing a championship. After the excitement dies down, we can have another "ballhog" and another fight and a new lot of "suckers" from whom to reap another harvest. It's funny how folks stand for it, but they seem to like it.

WHAT COLLEGE?

These are the days when parents of high school graduates are asking where they shall send their children to college. Although the matter of education lies within one's self, the choice of the place where these four precious years shall be spent is all-important. Every effort should be made to fit the school to the student; for every institution stands for certain things and has a certain environment that should be well understood before the student commits himself to its care.

The big university and the small college each has its advantage. Mere bigness does not educate and mere littleness does not confer greatness. Many who are lost at the university would develop strength at the smaller college where there is a chance for the students to enter into campus activities. Graduates of the small college have an amazing record for success in after life. For the mature student the great university provides many advantages. There should be room for both types of institutions.

With thousands of college graduates walking the streets, we are not hearing so much now that to go to college is to give one a quick entrance into a position of wealth and influence. That is a good thing. If education is only to enable a favored group to take toll from the rest of the world, then we have missed the mark. "Enter to learn; go forth to serve" should be the true aim of education, no matter where obtained.

RE-ADJUSTED TOWNS

There is just one way to meet the new times that are upon us.

That is, to realize that the whole world, including the United States, Michigan, Detroit and Northville is being economically re-adjusted. We are being "shaken down" and molded over, as it were.

In the past year or so, 60 men in Detroit who lost large sums of money, ranging from millions on down to thousands, have gone out and killed themselves because they were crushed in the re-adjustment process and were not big enough to survive a financial crash. They thought that everything had to be as it was and, when it wasn't, they were ruined.

The person with an open mind who has been thoughtful and observing the past two or three years has gradually come to see that the "only way out" was to re-adjust his whole life and to commence with a new standard. His real estate holdings he cut down any where from one-half to one-quarter. His stocks and bonds he re-valued at anywhere from one-tenth to three-fourths their old value. He has taken his salary slash with philosophy. The man who has gone through this financial re-adjusting has faced life with a new peace and has been content to go without what he used to think he had to have.

Last week, in visiting three towns to learn the working of the moratorium bank plan, we were impressed with the fact that these places have re-adjusted in the same way that some wise individuals have. There is a spirit of hope and good cheer around these towns that is distinctly outstanding. You feel it. They have "taken their losses," started a new sheet and are getting a real thrill out of meeting the new conditions.

We hate to admit it, but we think that our community has been a little slow to re-adjust itself to the new day.

It will be a happy day for Northville when we get together and realize that we shall have to re-adjust to the changing times that have hit the whole world. There is no possible way for us to be an exception to the universal rule.

AID FOR THE VETERANS

How many people realize that the United States government is paying bounty to one million three hundred thousand persons who are veterans of our wars, their relatives or pensioners of the former service men?

How many know that we pay each year for veterans' relief the staggering cost of one billion of dollars?

How many understand that we are now paying for relief each year $329,000,000 more than was paid in 1922? Great Britain, with ten times our war casualties, is now paying $150,000,000 less than in 1922.

As some one points out:

"The difference between Great Britain and the United States is that in the former country the cost of veterans has declined, while the cost of social services to the entire population has increased; whereas in the United States the whole increase has gone to veterans as tribute to their growing political power. In other words, in Great Britain the ex-soldiers are merging once more with the civilian population, while in the United States they are becoming a favored class."

The above facts are brought out in a series of articles published in the New York World-Telegram and certainly make one wonder what will be the end of these demands upon our national treasury.

No one will begrudge to the worthy veteran aid due from his government and no store should be left unturned to help the former service man whose health has been broken by his stay in camp or on the battle-field. But when we hear of such cases as a certain ex-officer, who enlisted 18 days before the armistice, and is now receiving $187.50 a month as retirement pay, although he is receiving a large salary in addition, we wonder if we shall not have to call a halt on the tremendous drain on our treasury.

There is grave danger in our making a favored class of any one group of our people, even though they have great claims on our sympathy and help.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

HOW DO YOU LIKE 'EM?

(Chet Howell in Chesaning Argus)

Well, the new ways of getting money to balance the budget of our national government are with us and HOW DO YOU LIKE 'EM? Kinda looks like, after a few days trial, that maybe the dear-fellers in congress will go for the sales tax some time in the future.

GOOD MORNING

(By Malcolm W. Bungay in Detroit Free Press)

Then there is the report that "the insane inmates of the Topeka hospital raised more corn per acre than did the agricultural college students."

This is not hard to explain. The inmates, not being educated, just went ahead and raised corn; they did not waste any time discussing the theories of raising corn.

BOYS AND THE OUTDOORS

(Bob Humphrey in the Cheboygan Observer)

Albert Stoll Jr. who writes for the Detroit News, carried an article the other day that expresses our opinion right from the shoulder and is what Judge McCord of Ottawa, Canada, says. "I have sentenced more than a thousand men, women and boys to prison, and I have yet to find one real criminal who was taught in his youth to love the outdoors. Teach the boy to row a boat, to swim, to fish and to hunt, and when he comes to manhood he will be found on the jury and not before it."

A TIP TO BOYS AND GIRLS

(M. H. De Foe in Charlotte Republican-Tribune)

Some one has figured out that the new tax on cigarettes—if you smoke a package a day—will represent $21.90 a year. Boys and girls, at your age you can buy a $1000 insurance policy from this savings.

Instead of smoking and lying yourselves up to a useless and expensive habit, buy a $1000 insurance policy with your saved revenue tax for the next ten years. You will be happier in 1942—that's all. Think it over. At twenty-one or younger this suggestion is the best investment that you can make in health and wealth.

THE UNDERWORLD WINS

(Frank Boyce in Grand Lodge Independent)

Over in Chicago the state's attorney asked to have a gangster released.

The judge wanted to know why it was because some of the bankers who had identified the gangster as one of the robbers of their bank were compelled to keep indoors with their families, lest they be shot at with machine guns.

The judge released the gangster. What is that appalling condition going to lead to? When law and order sit quietly and peacefully by under such conditions, it means that only a short time will be required to put the gangster in complete command.

Why do we sit tight and watch these fearful conditions gradually creep upon us without any protest?

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Every time you write a check now, you pay two cents to help keep your government going. And another cent for stamps. And dollars for the automobile. Well, maybe we'll think so much about the national costs that we'll do our part to get them cut down.

With the man and the girl in it alone, the car was parked near our home until after midnight the other night. Couldn't help but wonder why so many parents are so "easy going" about their daughters' staying out half the night. No wonder morals get bent.

Notice that the Northville Ford plant is running three shifts a day? Business is bound to get better.

"Well, I'm not with you on your stand for Governor Brucker, but I don't think Groesbeck can be ever elected again, even though I'm for him," said one of our good Northville friends to us.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

What will Northville be a year from now?

tato salad, ham and a lot of other delicacies.

Arriving in Detroit, they asked their friends to eat with them, but were politely refused, as the Detroit people said they had already eaten.

Nevertheless, the children of the Detroit family made a great disturbance when the food was spread out on the table, and finally, after some questioning, the mother, of these children said they were crying because they were hungry. This amazed the up-state people, who promptly offered the whole family a part of their lunch.

"We're not so badly off as our next door neighbors, though," said the Detroit lady. "They killed their dog today and are going to eat it."

Well, the friends from up north just couldn't believe it at first, but changed their minds when they were shown the hide of the dog in a shed at the rear of the houses.

"Guess we're not hungry any more," said they, "you call in those folks next door and have them eat."

up the stuff we brought with us."

This was done and both Detroit families had a good square meal, probably their first in many weeks.

Business is not rushing. Farm produce is low in price. Taxes have not come down much in many cases.

AND yet a lot of us kickers have been able to get all we need to eat. We have kept clothed, and the distress in this county is no where near so great as it is in a lot of other places.

Read the story above once more, you kickers, and weep! And remember, the worst of the story is that it's true!

CORRECT TIME

A "couple" of Englishmen going down Broadway, in New York City thought they would have some fun with a newsboy whom they were to pass. So one of them said to him, "Say, Johnny, what time is it by the end of your nose?" The kid answered in an ordinary manner, "I don't know. Mine ain't running, is yours?" —Post News, Greenville, S. FORMER GRADS GATHER FRIDAY

1912, four from 1906 and five from 1917. Four members of the class of 1921 were present and in the ten classes following, 30 'grads' answered the roll call of these 1925 had one; 1924, two; 1926 and '29, three; 1927, '28 and '30, four; with 1931 having seven.

The class with the largest number present of all was that of '32, our recent seniors, having 17 representatives.

This makes a grand total of 91 who once again recalled old memories and told stories and episodes that occurred in their first house of scholastic learning which laid their foundation for the business of living and facing the problems of everyday life.

All in all, the guests and alumni totaled approximately two hundred, all of whom appreciated the novelty of the program and the spirit of the occasion.

The banquet hall was afterward made ready for dancing which topped off an evening that will linger in the memory of those who attended the Northville high school alumni reunion of 1932.

Just before the banquet a business meeting was held, with Mrs. Hazel Perkins-Boyd presiding in which the officers for the coming year were elected and the usual business transacted.

Mrs. Boyd then introduced Pierre Kenyon, who sang in his splendid fashion two songs and responded with an encore. Mr. Kenyon has been active as an assistant coach in our school athletic team. Mrs. Kenyon, his sister, and an alumna of Northville high school, accompanied him at the piano.

SPENDING THE SCHOOL DOLLAR

I am sorry, if I was understood to say at the school meeting, recently that I was opposed to all extra-curricular subjects, as the reporter has quoted me.

As I see it, it is not so much a question of the value of those subjects as it is a problem of expense. Can we afford it? Under the condition, is the expense justifiable?

It may require some such terrible financial jolt as we are now experiencing to waken us from our dreamy acceptance of things as we find them. Most of us accept Pope's statement, "Whatever is right."

We find it easy to look with suspicion on the few who doubt that maximum, especially when applied to the general scope and purpose of education.

We seem to have become hypnotized with the word "education."

We have something to regard it, along with such words as religion, patriotism, as something to accept without argument as desirable in itself, independent of the use made of it.

We still accept the word in its ideal sense and forget that we have attached an entirely different meaning to it.

I mean by the word "education" an unfolding, a development of all our powers, mental, moral and physical; an enlargement of our capacities for appreciation and acquiring a knowledge of the natural and social laws surrounding us as well as a knowledge of our social relations and obligations.

With this ideal in mind, it is easy and natural to engage education as two speakers did. They were thinking of education in its ideal sense and found it easy to recommend, on pure generalities.

The majority of their audience, however, were thinking of education in an entirely different sense. They attached an entirely different meaning to the word, but applauded the speakers under the impression that their conception of the word, education.

The majority of the audience look upon education as a means of acquiring the technique of making an easy living and are very little interested in education in its ideal sense.

In fact, the majority of those present become impatient if a responsible attempt is made to explain those ideals and ask impatiently how those subjects are going to aid his boy earn a living. The majority regard education as a tool, by means of which their children may wrest from those less able to retain than they are able to grasp. They are not moved by such ideals as stirred the two speakers to such pleasant oratory. Their ideals are purely materialistic and simple.

The result is, we have neither education, in an ideal sense, nor a purely trade school education. We have a mixture of the two with the latter ideal predominating.

Our school system is, and has been, sailing under false colors. It has been demanding public money under an entirely different ideal. Only remotely does it spend the money raised to carry out its avowed purposes.

What are the avowed purposes for spending public money for education? Only two reasons are ever advanced, viz. raising the level of intelligence and making better citizens.

As far as attaining those avowed objectives, we have utterly failed and the money wasted. I challenge any one, and allow them to use their own standards of measurement, to show how or where our level of intelligence has been raised, one iota after a century of education, or to show in any way how our citizenship has been improved. Intelligence and education are not synonyms. No amount of education will produce intelligence. Education and intelligence are not synonyms.

Education may aid intelligence, but it is not and never will be a substitute for it. As a tool, it may aid the criminal as well as the law-abiding citizen, and has aided the criminal. Education is a tool that may be used against society as well as for it. If our ideal of education is purely materialistic, we need not be surprised to find that society has been taxing itself to supply the tools for its own destruction. An education that does not include and insist upon an accompanying ethical development is as likely to be destructive as beneficial.

The majority of our citizens insist that our schools train the children to find their place in life and be useful in that place. That is exactly what our schools do not do and furthermore makes no pretense of doing. The great problems are social relations. No matter whether your boy becomes a baker or a banker he has to adopt himself to and be governed by a social pattern.

To secure the best for himself, he must seek the best interests of the social group in which he is placed. As far as any attention to social problems are concerned we might assume that the pupils were to be transported to another world on graduation. Not a word is said of our social problems and much less any instruction on how to deal with such problems. In fact, if any unusually bright boy raises such a problem in school he is regarded with suspicion as a Red or an undesirable.

Either we should stop supplying education after the tool subjects are taught, or we should insist that education beyond that point should serve social ends and accomplish the purposes for which the money was raised. There is nothing inherently elevating in education. Any attempt to raise ourselves to higher planes of intelligence or citizenship by means of education alone is doomed to be disappointing. It is only another means of elevating ourselves by our bootstraps.

There is much more to be said on the failure of education along cultural lines, but this would require an article on that subject alone. I will only ask why education has succeeded only in making the classics so repulsive that few people read them after leaving school? Or why, in spite of the money spent on music and art, that classical music only excites us to conversation and the comic strip satisfies our artistic sense. Why is it, that in spite of the oceans of money spent for education the most popular newspapers are written down to the intelligence of a ten year old boy?

Is it not true that we stop and ask ourselves if we are getting, even approximately, anything of real value for all our sacrifices? Are we buying ourselves with the whole soul's ass?

We have been going on the assumption that our children were like empty sausage casings and the function of the school was to grind them through an educational sausage machine and stuff them with the solid meats of the curriculum with music, art and athletics as educational spices.

Or to change the simile, we may regard the school courses as an educational menu. There are the solid courses of mathematics and science, the salad courses of literature and history and the desert courses of music, art and drawing and athletics. If we were obliged to supply that table individually, where would we begin to economize? Would it not be natural to consider simplifying the menu and consider cutting down on the deserts, rather than run the risk of having no meal?

It is not my purpose to raise the question of the value of any subject. There are few subjects, if rightly presented, that are not valuable. The problem to decide is how many can we afford. Is it not wiser to provide the essential tool subjects and trust the pupil, by means of those tools, to provide himself with further information as his tastes may dictate?

I fear that in educational matters, we have undertaken to keep up with the Joneses. A wealthy city, like Detroit may be able to afford many side dishes on their educational table that our village cannot finance without an unnecessary sacrifice.

If the present financial depression has taught us anything, it is the foolishness of living beyond our means in order to make as good an appearance as Jones, either educationally or municipally of social life. We are not concerned with a theory; we are faced with a condition.

The condition is this; the parents are willing to make large sacrifices for the sake of their children. Many parents have no hope of being able to send their children to trade schools and want the subjects taught there brought within their reach. Other parents are able, financially, to send their children to business colleges or the university. These parents are little interested in manual training or business courses. They are interested in having the school on the approved list in order that their children may not have to run the gauntlet of an entrance examination. Other parents, with some cultural background emphasize as broad a cultural course as possible.

Comparatively few high school graduates enter the colleges or the university. It would be interesting to know how many would be admitted if they were compelled to pass an entrance examination. But the whole people are compelled to bear the expenses of an educational plant designed to fit a few students for higher studies. The parent who is barely able to send his son through the first eight grades is compelled to make further sacrifices in order that his more financially able neighbor may prepare his son for the university. Those least able are compelled to make the greater sacrifice.

These are but a few thoughts on our educational system. No attempt has been made to exhaust any one line of thought. My whole purpose is to provoke thought on subjects usually taken for granted. That many will disagree with me, I cheerfully grant.

If I succeed in leading some to ask themselves seriously, "Why are we spending public money for education?" and "Are we getting what we have a right to expect from such expenditure?" I will be satisfied.

Wellington Roberts, Northville, Mich., June 19, 1932.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schnute, son, Alvin and daughter, Selma, of Monroe, visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schnute Tuesday.

FARM CREST TEAM BEAT CHIEFS 9-4

The Northville Chiefs, captained by Harry German Sr. suffered defeat at the hands of the Farm Crest nine, Sunday at the fair grounds. The score was Farm Crest 9, Northville 4.

The game was very interesting all the way through and was called in the last of the eighth inning on account of rain. The Farm Cresters drew first blood by scoring two runs in the second inning, on account of infield errors. They also scored two more in the seventh and two again in the eighth. Several of the Chiefs' infielders failed to show up and consequently the men that played those positions were unaccustomed to them and did not perform as well as they otherwise would have done. Besides the bad infielding of the Chiefs, the only other outstanding features were a three base hit by Hammond and a double by Loyal German, both of Northville.

The Chiefs started Harry German Sr. in the box and replaced him by Reeves, who went in in the fifth with the score 4 to 2 in favor of Farm Crest and finished the game. The Farm Crest team used three pitchers, finishing the game with Englishman, their star left-hander.

WALLED LAKE PROMISES PLEASANT DIVERSIONS

Thousands of new shrubs and flowers, widening vistas of emerald sod, newly decorated park buildings and the sun-kissed sands of beautiful Walled lake await Fourth of July visitors to the Walled Lake amusement park, according to the statement issued recently by Mr. Fred W. Pearce, president of the park company.

Mr. Pearce, through his many several months ago.

Gardeners are kept busy daily in their attendance on the new shrubbery while the painters have now practically completed their program. Recent visitors to the Walled lake resort report a great many changes.

Enlargement of the equipment in the company's picnic grove has attracted a great many organizations, church and school parties. The management reports that groups from as many as fifty cities within a forty-five mile radius have utilized this equipment already this season. The use of the grounds, and picnic equipment is free to all.

Sidney D. Moase, son, Sidney Jr. and friends from Detroit visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dudums of Cooley lake Sunday.

SUMMER BIBLE SCHOOL

The second day of the Vacation Bible school had a total attendance of 105 pupils and teachers, including officers. This is not so large as last year, owing to scarlet fever, quarantine, absence from town and the fact that the public schools did not carry on through to the usual date.

The organization is excellent, an improvement on last year and this gives opportunity for a better instruction.

The new feature in instruction especially to be noted is that in church hymnody, taught by Mrs. Carl Bryan.

As last year, there will be a public program Sunday, July 10, in the Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock. An offering will be taken to help defray necessary expenses.

The nature of the program will be to reveal what is due religiously and educationally in a Vacation Church school.

DOWN THE MILE LONG SUPER THRILLER

Every evening at Edgewater Park sees thousands of youngsters getting the thrill of their lives on the various rides. The little ones have their own Lundy Planes and there are little ponies just their size on the merry-go-round. The air-minded will get plenty of thrills in the Great Lakes training ship with its dips, dives and spins. All prices have been reduced, most rides being 10c, while the merry-go-round and the caterpillar are 5c. A little money goes a long way at Edgewater Park this year.

ELECTROCHEF keeps POTS and PANS

spick and span, too!

"WHEN I first bought my new Electrochef electric range, my friends couldn't believe that it was possible to cook without blackening utensils, as on a flame-type stove. They were amazed when I showed them an aluminum saucepan almost as bright and shiny as when it was new I had been using it on my Electrochef for months.

"The reason is simple. Pots and pans stay bright and sparkling because electric heat is CLEAN—as clean as sunlight.

There is no smoke or soot, nothing but pure heat from a glowing wire. For the same reason, my kitchen walls and curtains stay fresh much longer. They do not require nearly so frequent cleaning. And one of the best things of all about my Electrochef is its COOL cooking. No matter how much I use the range, it never overheats the kitchen."

Budget Payment $10 FIRST PAYMENT—installed, ready to cook. Balance $9.00 monthly payments. Sales under these conditions to Detroit Edison customers only.

The Record thanks Mrs. Corey for her kindness in expressing herself at to the effectiveness of the 25 cent liners. More and more folks are finding out that the judicious expenditure of a small sum for advertising will bring good results.

"SEE AMERICA FIRST" DREAM COMES TRUE

Adventure!

This is the sum total of the story brought back by Arthur Sessions, nineteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sessions, of this city, who left Northville on May 2 with 25 cents in his pocket and the unquenchable desire to see the "country," returning on June 16 with $900 in his pocket and some unforgettable memories.

Motor car, train, and his own stout legs, all played their part in this long distance hitch-hiking tour of the United States by the tall, husky lad of the old home town. Leaving Northville, Art, as he is called by those who know him, hitch-hiked to Chicago, on to Peoria, Illinois. From there he headed for San Diego, where he spent ten days of sight seeing. This mode of transportation to California was as easy as four cars of hops sent from Salina, Kansas, to San Diego, which provided him with fare and expenses. His job was to feed and water the hogs every thirty-six hours. One of the cars caught fire from a spark ejected from the locomotive but a fireman quelled the blaze as the train kept moving.

A sign which Art saw that he became familiar on his long trek was that of the "trainmen" putting on the "free riders." At times the "free riders" were thrown out bodily. On the upgrade at Winslow, Arizona, which was particularly steep, the "free riders" lined the way and the trainmen were kept busy helping them to keep them off.

Art got an example of the "free riders" when he was when he descended from the train near Mr. Whitney at a station 7,500 feet above sea level to Death Valley which is 200 feet below sea level. The train downward was crooked at times very steep and it was necessary to stop the train for an hour after reaching the valley to cool off the brakes. A side trip while in this section took him to the famous resorts, "The Juans" and "Agua Caliente," the former having the longest bar in the world, and the latter being known as the "Monte Carlo of the Southwest." From the railroad track Art says he saw such famous movie personalities as, Marlene Dietrich, Edmund Lowe, Mary Brian, and Sally Blaine.

At San Diego the youthful traveler was a witness to the Alvin Karpis tragedy which occurred at Camp Kearney. The first man hanging onto the big airplane fell as straight and as still as a plumb line, he said, but the second fellow fell kicking all the way, landing on the ground with such force that he bounced about eighteen feet in the air. The country between San Diego and El Paso, Texas, is all flat country, according to the young Marco Polo. The population is sparse, towns being small and spread far apart, fifty miles and more.

In crossing the great American desert the temperature reached a height of 125 degrees, declared Sessions, but owing to the dryness of the climate no considerable discomfort was felt as would be the case if such extreme heat were to occur in the north. Every traveler must carry his own water and must wear glasses to protect his eyes from the intense glare of the white sand stretching for miles. It is interesting to note, said young Sessions, that many of the desert scenes of foreign Lepont movies are taken in this desert.

From San Diego followed the longest trip of all, 2300 miles to Atlanta, Georgia, which Sessions made in one ride.

Eight and a half days after leaving San Diego, Sessions reached New York, after having passed through the famous southern historic spots, such as Richmond, Fredericksburg, the sight of the Battle of Bull Run, Lee's headquarters and other equally interesting points.

The trip to the great metropolis was made by truck and hitch-hiking. In New York Sessions visited Coney Island, traveled through the whirling subways, and strolled along the famous markets near the New Jersey ferry, where hundreds of trucks loaded with produce from all over the United States were gathered. The truck on which he rode into the city contained five tons of string beans from Columbus, S. C.

An interesting high-light, he says, in California was the target practice of the U. S. Navy bombing planes, in which there were "dog fights" with cameras, the bombing, and airplanes towing targets for others planes to shoot at.

From New York, Sessions went to Taunton, Mass., where he spent five days witnessing the dirt track race in which Burt Karentz of Zelot won. From Taunton, he went to Rochester, N. Y., where he spent two weeks with his aunt, Mrs. Mary E. Yorks. From there he hit the trail for home, first taking the bus to Buffalo.

In checking up on the "statistics" of his long journey, Sessions declared that the hardest state in which to hitch hike is Kansas, while California is the easiest in which to get a ride. The longest that he

This Week

By H. H. White

So often the statement is made that anyone has no more or less freedom than they have power.

"Thus, what I have power to do, I have freedom to do. The opposition would be no power of resistance thus being at the mercy of everyone, and having no rights; there is no liberty."

Max Stirner, the German philosopher said, "I can get further with a handful of might than with a whole bag of rights," and Blackstone says, "there is no right without a remedy, and a remedy is the power of the state invoked in my defense."

With such statements in mind it would seem that freedom is merely a question of defense and exercise of force and to further confine then, the two great forces of power over men are money and organization, and if this is so, if we gain control over these two forces, liberty will take care of itself.

But do we? Does freedom ever surrender to property or is it not possible that the general preoccupation with interests that are economic and the aggrandizement of organization partly account for the apparent indifference to freedom of the modern world?

I believe it cannot be denied that there is a distinct analogy between freedom and power. But on the other hand, freedom in civilized social order depends on something more than mere power possessed by individuals.

Continuing on our line, the more power has the more freedom it has and therefore it has come all powerful. Then I have a philosophy of liberty and there is no freedom left for my fellowman. This is the philosophy of the Kaiser Wilhelm before his collapse, and such a thing is also a solitary tyranny.

But among civilized men the problem seems not to be gaining power but the controlling of it, maintaining a balance of power and of directing it towards desirable ends.

We have only to read the history of civilization to determine that a society where everything tends to be subordinated to the struggle for power has not contributed to the struggle for liberty, but reached the heights of despotism. History bears out this statement when we remember the Egyptian hosts, the Roman soldiers, Napoleon's army, or coming down to a modern time right within the reader's memory, Mussolini's black-shirt fascists. Not so long ago I read a book by P. P. Jacobs, entitled "The Civilization of Power," and he says that when men think of the world as a dead mechanical thing which exists chiefly that they may exploit it, they tend to over-emphasize the political state. The chief end of life then becomes the pursuit of wealth. The first concern is that men, each motivated by his material interests, be governed, held in restraint. Thus he calls a civilization of power.

In contrast to this a civilization of culture seeks out some reasonable or spiritual meaning in the cosmos or universe, thus emphasizing the development of the human race, and its first concern is the liberal educating of the masses. This would I contend that a civilization of power is equivalent to economic opportunity and that of culture equivalent to the intelligent advancement and happiness of the social order. No civilization I doubt ever existed without there was coercion and exploitation as a basis.

To return to my original premise and make a personal application, freedom is the power to do something. You are free to do what you have the power to do. But whenever you seek as an organized group to legislate over your fellow men, to just that extent you lose power over yourself, and one of the most striking demonstrations of that we find in our own democracy, where we have written into our constitution, the eighteenth amendment.

This is probably one of the most terrible thrusts at the conception of the idea of liberty and freedom that we have in our American history of civilization, and certainly was a hot desire to force ideas and moral standards by coercion and exploitation upon a people whose forefathers built this nation upon the belief and purpose that this was to be a social democracy based on freedom and liberty.

Here external authority was exercised on your neighbor, your community, and the nation. Thus my contention is that if one would keep power and freedom over himself, keep off his neighbor.

was forced to wait for transportation was two and a half hours. And in all the distance traveled in motor cars there was only one flat tire.

"I'm home to stay," said Arthur, "at least for a little while anyway."

"I have been unlucky three times."

"How?"

"My first sweetheart became a nun, the second married another man, and the third became my wife."

NECK OF THE BOTTLE

In this vast expanse of columns mentioned so casually by "Ad" Schwenger in his "Every Monday Morning" as being a mere 30,000 the type compositor is occasionally "regarded" with its magnitude.

Take the above mentioned bit of prose by Ad—aye, some weeks he is humorous but almost always verbose. The old timer says "boul it down." Write it all in the lead, and you'll never see but the first in print.

Now, if one enjoys very able writing read Wellington Roberts' article on the local school situation.

Ye Ed always works like the devil (who is sweeping behind the composing machine now) and you will find his editorials of interest and meriting your most charitable regard. Moral, never sacrifice a job in an attempt to be witty.

It would be interesting to know if there is one who appreciates fully the mental anguish, the pathos, and the tragedy that the author as the column "This Week" is produced. A bit obscure and wandering, perhaps, but if you like that sort of thing.

If the practical interests you, one can advise with pleasure the Home Makers' Corner and the Wap. Ads.

CHURCH NEWS

Church of Our Lady of Victory.—The hours of confessions are Saturday evening of each week from 7:30 to 9. Confessions will be heard at other times by applying at the rectory.

The altar boys will meet Saturday at 7 p. m.

We certainly appreciate the courtesies and attentions we are receiving on our house visitation of the parish this week. Under present pressure of the times we cannot help but admire the wonderful spirit of carrying on that we are witnessing.

Proper historical perspective and the reading of "unprejudiced" authors will never tolerate outbreaks of unbridled indignation in spite of temptations to do so.

St. Paul's Lutheran.—Leo C. Eckhardt, Pastor, 220 Elm street.

A little boy once took the Bible from the center table in the living room of his home, and after turning the pages of the book for a while, looked up to his mother and asked "Mother, is this God's Book?"

"Certainly!" was the mother's reply.

"Well!" said the child, "I think we had better send it back to God, for we don't use it here!"

It is to be feared that there are many such Christian homes. The minutes of these homes believe that the Bible is God's Book, but they seldom or never use it. God, however, has given us His Book in order that we read and study it to find in it Christ, our Savior.

The Bible should be our greatest treasure in this sun-darkened world, giving us strength, comfort and salvation.

May God help us ministers and members to be Bible students! How much better ministers how much better members we would then be!

The service this Sunday morning will begin at the usual time.

Are You Thirsty?

The time for cool, refreshing drinks has come. What caller does not rejoice when a sparkling glass of lemonade or something like it is offered.

One hostess makes a delicious drink of iced tea, added to other fruit juices. Miss Reva Schrader served a drink which was pronounced ed by a guest as "the best I ever had."

It was made of equal parts of grape juice and ginger ale. Another delicious drink she makes of one bottle of grape juice and one ten cent can of grape fruit juice.

Some hospitable hostesses keep these fruit juices on hand for ready serving.

LIFE ENRICHED BY DEEP MOTIVES SAYS REV. F. N. MINER

"What are motives?" was the sermon topic selected by the Rev. F. N. Miner for his sermon Sunday morning.

"The subject was taken from the night visit of Nicodemus," one of great Jewish Scribes, who came to Jesus to learn something of the teachings of this humble man."

After defining motives, in their various phases, the speaker asked: "Why the church? Why spend money to build them? Why give time to keep them going? What motive impels to worship—to praise—to

As Nicodemus was assured that he must be born into a larger team, a wider life, a deeper experience, so must we get out of the low view and know the glow and fervor of the great Hebrew teacher, Jesus, if we are to put the world into the heart.

Northville was very well represented in the contests by Phil Green and Bobby Nicholas, who both played on the Michigan team.

The Texas team won the first match held Saturday, 11 to 9, while the Free Booters evened things by taking Sunday's game, 11 to 8. Both games were very close and exciting, in neither, victory being assured until the last chukker.

All of the local fans present enjoyed the game immensely and will be sure to witness another polo match whenever the opportunity presents itself.

Miss Ruth Yerkes Marries John C. Burkman

The marriage of Miss Ruth Elizabeth Yerkes, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Purdy Yerkes, to John Conrad Burkman of Birmingham, was solemnized Saturday at four o'clock, June 25, at Oakland Place, the Yerkes home on the Eight Mile road.

The Rev. Harold G. Whitfield officiated in the presence of the immediate members of both families.

The bride entered on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin with Mrs. E. H. Ephram at the piano. The impressive ring ceremony was performed in the bay window of the living room which was banked with pink and white roses and peonies, delphinium and ferns with pink predominating.

The bride wore a simple gown of sheer ivory crepe over satin. The cape collar formed a cowl neckline while neck panels gave fullness to the long skirt of the gown. Her flowers were gardenias, Johanna Hill roses and swansonia fashioned on elongated lines.

Mrs. Harold R. Smith of Grosse Pointe, a sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Her gown was pale pink chiffon with a border effect in delphinium, blue outlining the bodice and sections of the long skirt.

Dr. Nels Weir Burkman of Birmingham, attended his brother as best man.

Following the ceremony light refreshments were served from the dining room table where a white cloth with openwork bands over pale green satin was used. An effective arrangement of white roses, swansonia and plumose ferns with crystal candelabra holding white taper at either side formed the decorations.

Mr. Burkman and his bride left that evening for a motor trip to northern Michigan, stopping for a time at the Weaver cottage at Long Lake. On their return they will reside with the bride's parents in Northville until autumn when they will make their home in Detroit.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Conrad J. Burkman, mother of the groom, Andrew Weir, his grandfather, Dr. and Mrs. N. Smith of Grosse Pointe, Mrs. W. L. Holden, Miss Marjorie Holden, and Winfield Jr. of Rosedale Park.

The bride is one of Northville's most popular young women, having a large circle of friends who have given evidence of their high regard by a series of pre-nuptial affairs in her honor. She is a graduate of the Northville high school in the class of 1924. Later she attended Rockford college at Rockford, Ill., and the University of Michigan where she was a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. It was while at the university that she met Mr. Burkman, also a student, a member of the Delta Chi fraternity. For the past three years she has held a clerical position with the local Detroit Edison company. Mr. Burkman is employed in the office of the Chrysler company in Detroit.

He was at one time in the office of the Stinson Aircraft corporation when it was located in Northville.

See Our New Home?

Have you visited the new home yet? Comrade Lapham and his crew are rapidly putting everything in fine shape, and with the new floor, newly papered and painted walls, it is beginning to look like a palace. Both committees are very well pleased and are sure we are going to please all members when we turn the finished job over to the Auxiliary and Post. A post committee was named at the last meeting to work with the Auxiliary in planning the initial meeting and open house to the public.

A committee has been named to handle the parking lot of the Northville. This group will later solicit the aid of workers. It was voted that the post buy the proper glasses needed in the correction of the eye sight of one of the Noble children; the need to be determined by Chief Welfare Officer, Dr. Spahr.
