FIRE RAZES WALKER BARN SECOND TIME

19 Head of Stock Die in the Flames On Wednesday Morning

The second fire of undetermined origin within six months completely destroyed the newly rebuilt $5,000 barn on the Russell H. Walker farm located on the Base Line road, a quarter of a mile west of the Rock road at 2:30 Wednesday morning. Included in the loss were 19 head of blooded cattle, five show horses, and a valuable bull which belonged to the Wayne county training school. No value could be placed on the cattle, said Mr. Walker, as the herd was the result of five years of breeding effort with the best stock available.

No value could be placed by training school authorities on the prize Holstein bull which was commonly known as "Old Colonel." The bull was raised out by the school for two years and was then to form the basis for rebuilding a herd of that particular strain. The bull was 16 months old.

This summer, Thursday morning, August 17, Mr. Walker's large cattle barn and several adjoining buildings were destroyed by fire, the origin of which was never fixed. At that time most of the stock in the barn was led to safety by Mr. Walker. In the blaze this week no one could approach to within 25 feet of the flames and the entire contents were destroyed.

The new barn, the finishing touches of which were added just this last week, was as completely fireproof as the contractors could make it, having ventilators in the grain bins to prevent spontaneous combustion, double sealed walls, and other precautions taken to prevent a repetition of the disaster five months ago. The barn is said to have been one of the best in this vicinity.

Retiring at an early hour Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walker awoke at 7:30 in the morning to find flames shooting skyward from the new barn. Hastily calling the Northville fire department, Mr. Walker attempted to save some of the riding equipment and lead the stock out but was unable to. A strong southwest wind fanned the blaze to a high point making it impossible to even approach the building.

The farm house a few yards distant was for a time threatened by the fire but sparks dropping on the roof were quickly extinguished by the Northville chemical apparatus and further damage was averted.

The horses cremated in the fire included a polo pony, "Babe," which was purchased from the Wichita Falls team by P. H. Greenman, Northville sportsman, and was later sold to Mr. Walker; also a two and a half year old colt which showed great promise as a polo mount, a prize team which won first in the 3,600 pound class of the Northville County fair two years ago, and "Old Colonel," a show horse which had won many cups and which had been retired to the pension list.

Besides the loss of the barn with its matched wood and paneled doors and the livestock, Mr. Walker suffered the ruin of milk equipment, tools, harness, riding saddles, all newly purchased to replace the equipment razed in last summer's fire.

Only a $100 insurance policy was carried on the equipment, approximately $3,000 on the building, and none on the livestock. All that is left standing on the grounds now are the shell of a silo and the farm house. Only a few bales of hay and a small quantity of corn was contained in the barn, enough on hand to take care of existing needs.

"The loss is irreparable," stated Mr. Walker, "I have put five years of intensive effort into reclaiming this land and when the fire last August struck at my buildings and live stock the blow was bad enough. But to just finish repairing the damage and then to look out the window one morning and find the whole thing laid to waste—it's unbelievable. The misfortune has hit me pretty hard."

"I shall discontinue all of my farm operations," Mrs. Walker and myself have leased an apartment at Alden Park Manor in Detroit and we expect to move there soon.

At the request of Mr. Walker, Deputy Fire Marshal Peter Karens, stationed at Ann Arbor, will make a thorough investigation. A few months previous to the Walker fire last summer a disastrous fire occurred at the Walker farm.

GEORGE A. HUNT CORRECTS ERROR AFTER 9 YEARS

Northville Visitor Gives Facts
About His Wedding

The issue of approximately Sept. 12, 1923, of The Northville Record, carried an account of the wedding of Miss Mary Morris to Geo. A. Hunt. The story contained two errors which were pointed out by Mr. Hunt on Saturday, Jan. 7, 1933, when Mr. Hunt visited the Record office.

The account stated that Mr. and Mrs. Hunt went to California, that they visited friends at Reading, O., and that Mr. Hunt was a contractor in business with his father. "I was never in business with my father and I was not a contractor," said Mr. Hunt. "I was a carpenter in a building firm in Northville, but I was a carpenter by trade," said Mr. Hunt.

"Furthermore," affirmed Mr. Hunt, "we did not visit friends in Reading, O., but we did visit friends in California. I never been there in my life. My wife and I stayed in California for about ten months where I was employed as a carpenter."

The mistake was discovered nine years later by Mr. Hunt, when he happened to pick up an old copy of the paper which a relative had saved and which he had not seen before.

Mr. Hunt came to the Northville to correct the Record editorial staff, but none who are on it now were scriveners at that time. A promise was made to include a correction in the present issue.

MRS. JOHN TINHAM PASSES PEACEFULLY

Mrs. Arabella Randolph Tinham, wife of John Tinham, passed quietly away at her home on Randolph street last Sunday morning, Jan. 8. The evening before had been spent as usual reading and visiting with her husband when she expressed interest in the music of the following morning when she was to continue her faithful services as organist in the Methodist church.

In apparently good health she had retired saying cheerfully as she made her way up the stairs, "Call me in the morning. I must be in time for church." And then quietly, "As one would wrap the drapery of his couch about him," she had "laid down to pleasant dreams." When Mr. Tinham tried to arouse her about nine o'clock the next morning there was no response.

Arabella Randolph was born in the old Randolph home on South Center street on March 15, 1856. She was the daughter of Asa M. and Danna Gardner Randolph. From earliest girlhood she breathed in an atmosphere of good music and joined her sweet, clear soprano voice with her father's fine tones. She studied voice in Detroit with Prof. Pease who later became head of the vocal department of the Michigan State Normal college. A number of times she sang in a Detroit opera house where her voice showed great promise.

Later she travelled with a quartet through the New England states and on up through New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. During this tour the party remained in each place where they gave concerts and gave lessons for the week following.

For a period she studied organ in Boston, where she came in contact with the masters and increased her skill and interpretation of the best music. This love of the very best never failed her and those who were privileged to listen to her throughout the year realized that this music was always rendered with an art that sprang from her soul.

Guy Fulkens, to whom Northville points with pride as an artist on the pipe organ, once said, "Mrs. Tinham's music was the inspiration of my boyhood. I used often to say, (Please turn to page 5)

Our Social Order Will Continue, But Will Face New Controls, Matthews Tells Woman's Club

With a "thumb on the pulse of the trend of the times," W. E. Matthews, of the educational department of the Detroit Edison company, spoke with authority to the Northville Woman's club Friday afternoon on the vital question, "What Comes Next?"

There was not a woman present who did not grapple eagerly with this query in this "the most serious crisis in all the world's history." Together speaker and listener "put their ear to the keyhole of tomorrow."

Said Mr. Matthews, "The solution of healing the world's hurts is not

NORTHVILLE GIVES $756 FOR WORTHY

100 Families Will Be Aided
As Result of Welfare Campaign

The appeal for aid for approximately 100 needy families in this community was not sent out in vain. Citizens and business interests have answered the call with a total of $756, besides merchandise amounting to many dollars, in the Northville Community Fund Drive which has been in progress under the direction of Sidney Ford and the welfare association during the past few weeks.

Hardly had the people of this community have been their hearts to the families who have been suffering from the depression, some of them for many months.

Welfare workers who have been in charge of this year's drive report that never has it been more embarrassing to approach the usual donors to this fund. Everyone has suffered financial reverses, and therefore every donor to this year's fund has made a real sacrifice to see that those who are in need will be at least partially relieved in their distress.

Included in the charity fund are numerous food, fuel, and clothing items, among which are flour, shoes and coal.

MEN WILL SERVE PANCAKE - SAUSAGE SUPPER TONIGHT

Whether or not the diners who are to partake of the pancake and sausage supper to be held in the Methodist church house tonight will be so heavily weighed that they won't be able to stagger home is a question that must be answered by the diners themselves. The usual fare of the church house is being served.

At any rate, when Charles E. Rogers and Roy Clark as chief pancake and sausage makers; Leslie G. Lee as head coffee percolator, and Sherrill W. Ambler as head water, something unusual is bound to happen, and either there is going to be a lot of indigestion in Northville tomorrow or else the patrons are going to be so satisfied that the men of the Methodist church will be forced to duplicate tonight's fete.

The pancakes, more politely called wheat cakes, are to be sold at five cents each, the sausages also at five cents "per" and each cup of coffee plus a fried cake at a nickel. Thus, say the Pancake Perfectionists, includes all the trimmings, butter, syrup, etc.

Anyone having a capacity of less than three pancakes had better stay away as the minimum charge is going to be 25c. Serving begins at 5:30.

OF 500 HERE IN '95 ONLY 30 ARE LEFT

Of the five hundred names listed in a directory of Northville which was published by the late F. S. Neal in 1895, after he had numbered the houses of town, only 30 people are still living here. The entries are still living here. The entries are still living here.

The baby announced last week as born New Year's Eve to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stanford should have read Geo. instead of Joe Stanford.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Yerkes Will Visit the Southern Seas

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Yerkes left Northville Thursday for New York City where, after spending a week in the big city with headquarters at the Roosevelt hotel, they will sail January 18, on the Furthest West India line for the West Indies and points farther south. Their first stop will be in Virgin Islands with brief visits at various of the many intermediate islands in this group. At Barbados Island Mr. and Mrs. Yerkes will pause for two weeks basking on the ocean-lapped shores.

Incidentally, it is said this island was the only place outside the United States that was visited by George Washington. It is the only one of these islands that is not volcanic, being of coral composition. From Barbados they will sail on to South America with a week's sojourn in the romantic city of Trinidad, fish in Spanish atmosphere. Then, with a cross-country journey along the upper part of South America they will sail on a government tender through the Panama canal. The return trip to the good old United States will be made on an Italian steamer, The Conte Grande, which will take them by way of Jamaica, Cuba and Nassau with stops at these islands.

Much of the time will be spent enjoying a real vacation, swimming, fishing and sight seeing. Mr. Yerkes is armed with a full equipment for taking colored moving pictures and when he returns will give his friends a treat by showing them these views. The travellers expect to return March 1.

ROBERT G. YERKES WINS "AD" CONTEST AT EXCHANGE CLUB

The value of advertising was brought home to Exchange Club members in a unique program arranged by Sherill Ambler who was in charge of the contest. The contest was held on the Tuesday afternoon meeting.

Sixteen pictures representing the advertisements of well-known products were placed on the walls, without the signature of the company. Each member of the club was instructed to study this ad and then to determine the advertiser. That most of the products were recognized was shown by the fact that nearly all of the members named 10 out of sixteen. The winner of the contest was Robert G. Yerkes who "guessed" 13 of the posters.

The treasurer's report was read at this meeting. A fine meal was served and a general round table discussion was carried on after the advertisement contest.

NORTHVILLE QUARTET SINGS AT HARTLAND

The fame of the Northville Quartet is spreading farther. The program which they presented at the Plymouth Methodist church, with such hearty appreciation that a former member of this church now living in Hartland, invited them to come to that place last Sunday afternoon, Jan. 8.

A program of songs by the quartet, illustrated by living pictures in pantomime by members of the Plymouth church was heartily received. Mrs. Brennan accompanied them with her usual ability. Among the numbers on their program were the popular "Bugle Song" and "Bless the Lord Oh My Soul."

Following the concert the visiting quartet, Messrs. Kenyon, Lee, Bryan and Smith, and Mrs. Brennan were invited to the home of Miss Nellie Eger, where a delightful social time was enjoyed over a delectable lunch.

NOTICE TO WRITER OF ANONYMOUS LETTER

The Northville Record is in receipt of an anonymous communication which was signed by "Just Looking On."

If the person will send his or her name in, to be kept confidential, the letter will be published in next week's issue of the paper.

KING'S DAUGHTERS' ANNUAL MEETING

The King's Daughters will hold their annual election of officers and their "spread" at the home of Mrs. Bertha Neal next Tuesday, Jan. 17. Cooperative supper will be served at 5:30 when the usual procedure will be carried out. Bring your own dishes. A good attendance is urged.

ATCHISON HOSPITAL

Mrs. Ida Starkweather, who suffered injuries in an auto accident last week Wednesday, Jan. 4, is improving at the hospital.

Miss Marie Lyke of Manchester has entered the Atchison hospital for medical care.

David Aldea, 11 years old, whose home is on the Grand River road, is recovering from an operation for hernia.

GUESTS AT HINKLEY HOME
Dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hinkley on Wednesday were County Auditors Ray Schneider and John C. Cowan of Detroit and Clarence Elliott, commissary of the Wayne County Training school. Mr. Cowan is now serving his twelfth term as auditor.

SCHOOL TAX CUT ASKED IN PETITION

Group of Taxpayers Makes Request for $5,000
Reduction

A petition asking for the removal of the "burden" at the Northville high school and a $5,000 reduction in the school budget, signed by approximately 35 business men and others, was presented by Scott Lovell, real estate agent, to school board members Monday evening at their monthly meeting held at the high school.

The petition, circulated Monday morning was prompted by a desire, said a spokesman for the signers, to have township taxes reduced. "People complain of their government, state, and county taxes yet they ignore their own local taxes," said the representative. "People are losing their homes, farmers in this school district are finding it hard to meet their taxes and the situation has become desperate. The schools must cooperate in order to keep open."

"We are asking for a reduction of $5,000 and we believe that it can be effected. We are also asking for the removal of the teacher functioning as librarian, census taker, contact officer on the grounds that the work can be handled by high school pupils and temporary employees. Other schools get along without a special teacher for this work and regardless of how fine the work is that she is doing, these are times when we must sacrifice. We hold that the position is unnecessary."

"Further," said the spokesman, "we have about 35 names on our petition which was circulated on the spur of the moment. We could have signed many more names but we believed that as an expression of the sentiment among the business men and others the amount of names we had was sufficient."

In rebuttal to the petition, school board members were indignant. "The people have elected us to do a difficult job and we are doing the best we can under extremely trying conditions. If the people can show us where we can save $5,000 more without reducing our present lowered income we shall be glad to do so. We have studied the situation from all angles. Those who have signed that petition have not made a thorough study of the problem and they are not qualified to judge."

Another school board member stated that the board would welcome criticism from people if they would attend the meetings which are held on the first Monday of each month instead of "gossiping about it on the street corners."

"As far as the removal of any member of the school staff is concerned," a board member said, "we shall be glad to do that whenever a valid reason is presented to the board. So far there has been no direct charge of inefficiency, incompetence, or negligence against the librarian and until we find such a reason we shall continue to employ her."

School board members revealed that at least two of the signers had asked the board to remove their names from the petition.

Organizers of the petition indicated that unless their wishes were carried out they would not pay their school taxes.

It is possible that with the amount of money on hand to operate the schools, it was disclosed, script would be issued to the teachers during the spring session. It had been planned to issue the script against delinquent back taxes, but should the proposed democratic bill to hold a ten year moratorium on the state's right to seize a man's home for back taxes be passed by the legislature, the script would be issued.

Geo. Greenlee and Bobby Nicholds Learn To Swing Lariat As They Herd Cattle On Big Ranch in Texas

Bronzed by the sun and winds of Texas, George Greenlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Greenlee, southeast of the village, returned to his home town New Year's Eve a regular cowboy with hair-raising tales to pass on to his old friends here.

In company with Bob Nicholds, of polo fame, he left in September with a bunch of polo ponies for Texas. Here, near San Antonio, George and Bob found work on a ranch of 55 sections, 60 miles north of the Mexican border.

Real work it was, not merely posing in ponchos and sombreros. On swift ponies they dashed about, herding cattle and learning to swing

NEW NORTHVILLE BANK WILL OPEN ON JAN. 28, SAYS STATE DEPARTMENT

John A. Boyce Will Be President and Cashier; Eleven Directors Are Approved
By Stockholders

Northville's consolidated bank will officially open Saturday morning, Jan. 28.

This information, released by the state banking department Thursday, is authentic.

The board of directors for the new institution is composed of the following members: Harry B. Clark, D. P. Yerkes, Edmund Beard, Roy M. Terrill, John A. Boyce, G. Carmi Benton, C. W. Wilber, L. C. Stewart, E. H. Lapham, Alex. Christensen, and Frank Hamilton.

The new board of directors of the Depositors' State bank, as the new institution will be known, was made public Thursday afternoon.

Officers of the Depositors' State bank, which will hold its quarters in the former Northville State Savings bank building, will be John A. Boyce, president and cashier, C. W. Wilber and E. H. Lapham, vice-presidents. Clerks in the new institution will be selected soon, officials of the new bank said.

SENIORS GIVE PLAY ON JANUARY 19

The first of two presentations of "The Attorney for the Defense," the senior play, will be held in the high school auditorium next Thursday evening, Jan. 19, at 8 o'clock. There have been two casts selected and the group known as cast two will perform Thursday. The other cast will repeat the play the following Thursday, Jan. 26.

Cast two is composed of Howard Latta as Jimmy Carlyle, the attorney for the defense, and Wilma Rasterbury as Dorothy Hampden, daughter of the prosecutor, who takes the leading roles, Warner Neal, portraying the villainous character of Joseph Hampden the prosecuting attorney, and John Steencken as the crooked malitied milk magnate follow close behind. In the dramatic role of Beth Winters the defendant is Margaret Hay, and her lover, Mark Nelson, is played by Jack Harper. Judge Carlyle, Jimmy's father, is taken by Bob Power. After the seventeen year old girl next door is portrayed by Madeline Haystead. Freddie Nelson, a clerk in the Carlyle office and in love with Alice, enacted by Ronald Beasley, and Elsie, the Carlyle maid, played by Charlotte Lester.

The first act opens with Alice and Freddie, describing previous action in the Carlyle library. Nelson enters and induces Jimmy to take the case of Beth Winters, who has been accused of embezzling and is to be prosecuted by Hampden. Hampden, who has framed a bribery charge on Judge Carlyle, finally arrives and issues his ultimatum. Finding Jimmy is to defend Beth the prosecutor leaves angrily. Mullen, who is helping the defendant divulges some astounding news to the young attorney.

In spite of Jimmy's persuasions Hampden convicts the defendant Beth. Revenge is visited on Hampden by all, leaving him a broken man. In the last act, everyone is reconciled and the play ends, with all happy.

General admission for the play is 25c and reserved seats, 30c. Reserved tickets will be on sale at E. Horton, drug store and general admission, tickets are being sold by all members of the senior class.

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a card party at the Legion hall, Thursday evening Jan. 19. Everyone welcome.

TRAINING SCHOOL EMPLOYEES TO PAY FOR THEIR MEALS

All employees of the Wayne County Training School who receive more than $1,200 or more a year were notified this week by Ray D. Schneider, auditor, that they will have to pay for their own meals this year. Members of the sheriff's department have already been so notified, and the employees at the Elmore Hospital will receive their notices later this week.

MERCURY DROP CHILLS NORTHVILLE WEDNESDAY

Following two weeks of warm weather for times of the winter, Northville shivered to cold breezes which swept this vicinity Wednesday. Snow swirled down on the streets here and many unwary car drivers who boiled the alcohol out of their cars during the warm days had the misfortune to freeze the water in the radiators of their cars and were forced to "get out and get under."

BUS TO STOP AT HORTON'S

Detroit bound buses in so boarding passengers at a lay stopping place, the corner of Main and Center will also pull up in front of R. Horton drug store, on east corner. Passengers, said Ray Watts, store owner in the drug store to they wish.

BACK TO THE FARM

We have just heard of another man who has lost his job in Detroit. He is only one of many thousands.

Where are men going to go when they lose their place? We suggest the farm as a place for some of them to go. In fact we have sometimes thought we might be better off to quit our job and go to raising apples and potatoes.

The farm certainly would provide a haven for a lot of families where there are children. When you are on the land you have a roof over your head and three meals a day. You have an independence that you can find nowhere else on earth. It would seem that some of these families that have suffered such loss in the city would turn to the farm. There are many farms in Michigan that offer a fine opportunity for peace and comfort to the right kind of families.

TAKES BACK HIS WORDS

The United Press is authority for the statement that a man who defamed President Herbert Hoover has tried to recall his words. John Hamill, author of "Under Two Flags—The Strange Career of Mr. Hoover," made an 189-page affidavit repudiating his derogatory words in a book he wrote. Hamill admits that he used true statements to make a false impression.

Perhaps no servant in public life has been more falsely accused and maligned than Herbert Hoover. It is a terrible commentary on our political situation that men of such worth to the world as Hoover have to be the target for the mud-slinging attacks of mean, vicious men. The tragedy is that our public men have to endure in silence these cruel attacks.

Hamill has "taken back"—as far as the one who scatters cruel and false words can do—his cruel attack. The time will come when other men who have libeled and slandered our president will do the same.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

Along with millions of other "common folks," the people of this community mourn sincerely the loss of Calvin Coolidge, the man who would have been a friend to all here, had his law office been in Northville, Mich., instead of in Northampton, Mass.

We here in Northville feel a personal loss in the death of this great, yet simple, man, because he stood for the things for which Northville stands. We mourn for him because he was the product of the Americanism from which this village and its environs have through the years drawn their strength. We can picture him walking our streets as he did those of his own loved town, Northampton. We can see him going to church on Sunday and taking his place as a humble worshiper, as so many of the great of this nation have done. We can visualize him standing on the street corners here, "passing the time of day"—briefly, it must be admitted—with his fellow citizens. We can vision him as a good neighbor and friend living on any one of our Northville streets.

Calvin Coolidge was the real American. He typified the old-fashioned traits, the passing of which in some ways has undermined the foundations of our nation. He was honest, fair, friendly, calm, religious, free from pride and unseemly ambition, courageous, industrious, wise, and his life was dominated by a simplicity that is sadly needed today in a nation that has worshipped too long and too much at the shrine of materialism.

Calvin Coolidge believed in and had absolute faith in the institutions that have made America great. He believed in the foundation rock of the American home, the stabilizing power of the church, in the leavening power of our public schools, in the sanctity of our courts; and in the priceless worth of common men and women and boys and girls. If we were all of "such stuff" as Calvin Coolidge, we should not now be meeting some of the great problems that a worship of money has placed on our doorsteps.

As president, Coolidge will perhaps not rank as among the greatest and most profound. Yet some of his state papers are masterpieces for their simplicity and for their grasp of the underlying issues. His talk may have seemed simple because he had a keen Yankee trait of "going straight through" an issue. He could make the man on the street understand great events. Someone was discussing the cancellation of the debts the French owed us and a whole lot of the air was cleared when Coolidge said in his characteristic homely fashion: "They hired the money, didn't they?" To him a debt was a debt, to be paid in honor, if at all possible. This simple faith of his, in duty, in honor, in honesty and the simple American life which surrounded him as he grew up on the farm and his father's country store, made him the idol of the common people. There were no whisperings about Calvin Coolidge as there had been about two of his predecessors—life was simple but it was "straight." Deceit and trickery and unholy ambition could find no lodging place in his kind heart. He was a true American. Nothing finer can be said for him.

As a man and not as president we shall also remember Calvin Coolidge for the ideals he left us. "Do the day's work" was one of his maxims—and the day he died he had exemplified this. He was at his desk at the usual hour, 8:30, took care of his correspondence until illness sent him home, there to pass from mortal sight, without even a farewell to wife or son or friend.

Not even our president escapes the grief that comes to us all in common life. The death of his son, Calvin Coolidge, Jr., when the family lived in the White House, must have crushed this strong, brave man who loved the simple things of life and found his deepest peace in his own home. Who knows that the shock of the passing of that fine American lad from president's home may not have hastened the death of the father?

Many of us who heard Coolidge over the radio cherish another maxim he left for his fellow Americans:

"Money will not purchase character nor good government; for the measure of success is not merchandise but manhood."

After 60 years of wholesome, helpful living, Calvin Coolidge is suddenly summoned to Eternity. We here in a country town community of the Middle West will miss his inspiration, his counsel, his warnings. He was a good and great president but better still, a "good man." His works will follow him.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Have you noticed that you aren't hearing so much talk about "depression"? Now why isn't that a good sign?

Some one sent us a garden book the other day and another gave us a book on houses. These two books give a lot of good cheer, even in most of our garden making and house building is around the fireplace. There is a lot of fun to be gained from just dreaming.

Cutting the state expense is going to solve only a small part of our tax troubles. Last year the state tax was only 11 per cent of our total tax. So the governor and the bewildered legislature can't solve all our problems. School costs are the highest item in the tax budget.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

NEW YEARS AT G. R.

(Obet Howell in Chesham Argus)
Grand Rapids, greeting to 1933 consists of a chorus of sneezes. The deadly flu germ has gotten in its work to such effect that it is estimated by Dr. John F. Talling, city physician, that there are at least 10,000 fully developed cases in town.

CONGRESSMAN TO BUY FARM

(Allegan News)
Congressman John C. Ketcham of Hastings has announced that when his term expires March 4 he will buy a farm and be a dirt farmer. He said his farm will be in Michigan and that "it must be suitable for general farming, have a good house and be conveniently located with respect to schools for continuing the education of my children." Ketcham states that out of the 12 years in Congress he has saved enough to buy an 80-acre farm, debt free, and to finance his first year's crop.

"In these times," he goes on, "the man who has a comfortable farm house with fruit and vegetables in the cellar and cattle in the barn has the world by the tail."

Ketcham says he sees no inconsistency in attempting to make a Michigan farm pay a good living provided it is purchased and unencumbered at present deflated land prices. He says he is willing to take a chance on low crop prices, especially as he believes that Michigan land taxes are to be reduced.

DEBTS STOP BUSINESS

(E. J. Hanna in Harbor Springs Graphic)

Not overproduction but the burden of national, state, local and individual debts is the obstacle which must be removed before the industrial and agricultural machines can be thrown into high gear, according to Dr. G. F. Warren, Cornell University, who has achieved a reputation for correct predictions in the past few years.

One way of reducing the total indebtedness in this country, as pointed out by Dr. Warren, is to complete the deflation which has been going on more or less rapidly since 1929. Complete deflation will necessitate the sale at sacrifice prices of properties whose owners are not able to meet their obligations.

The Cornell economist states that, if the price of such debt burdened properties is reduced enough, investors will come into the market and buy the properties. The removing of such property from the market, where it now creates an atmosphere of uncertainty, will stimulate further sales and construction activities.

PRAISE FOR BRUCKER

(M. H. DeFoe in Charlotte Republican-Tribune)

The gentleman is a man of truth, lord of his own actions, and expressing that lordship in his behavior, not in any manner des-

Reviewing "Technocracy" in his excellent paper, The Grand Ledge Independent, Frank Bryce asks: "Boon, Blight or Bunk?" Our judgment is that it is just another "ism" that has much of truth but whose prophecies won't be fulfilled. The technocrats haven't planned enough on human nature. Using a lot of "two dollar words," as Ad. Schwenger, the Record advertising man, would say, isn't going to bring any new system of economic government. No, technocracy isn't a boon unless it makes us think a little harder along common sense and human lines; it certainly isn't blight—we are too good a land to be blighted; it is "bunk" if we take it too seriously.

When President Harding died nine years ago, the writer was the editor of the daily paper at Albion and got out of bed at two o'clock in the morning to help get out a special edition. Then before we went home for breakfast we sat at our typewriter and wrote an editorial about the departed Harding. Some things have developed since that have shown that Harding was a man of many fine virtues and weaknesses who was preyed upon by a bunch of jackals around him. We still think he meant well. Our editorial about Coolidge was written Friday forenoon as we sat up in an upstairs room at home and the beautiful sunshine was pouring over us as we wrote. Quite different from the spooky hours of that night writing at Albion. After nine years our Harding eulogy looks a little too strong; our tribute to Coolidge we think will stand the test of time.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Is it a good idea to "BUY American," why not also "BUY Northville?"

argument, ceremonial, and the radio audience must have been misled, as were the few hundred people who backed DePue's naive plan by his good behavior, kindly manner and gracious utterance. Governor Brucker took full advantage of the role to play the gentleman and blended all the actions of human conduct in emphasizing the greatest rule in life. Therefore all things whatsoever we would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them for this is the law and the prophets.

TECHNOCRACY

(Fred D. Keister in Iowa County News)

And now comes Technocracy to confound an already harassed people. In the midst of our blind groping for a way out of our present situation we are being further bewildered by a subject as difficult of understanding to the average individual as is Einstein's theory of relativity. We have a faint idea of what technocracy is all about, but for the owners of the machines who have vision to see that in the regular employment of the worker the level of living for everybody reaches its highest plane. Slowly we are being forced to a new economic appraisal of our needs. What would have been called pure socialism of a decade ago has now become a necessity if we are to be saved from industrial destruction. Wise leadership by hard boiled executives in the world of industry, rather than technocratic postulates from the laboratory of science, is what is needed to cure the ills of our body politic.

SURPRISE PICTURE AT PENNIMAN-ALLEN THRILLS BIG CROWD

Thrills, action, and romance to the highest degree was packed into the "surprise" picture feature at the Penniman-Allen theatre, last Wednesday night, when the management put on the super-drama "Trailing the Killer."

Here in this picture you are taken into the native haunts of animals with the story interwoven of the depredations upon cattle by a mountain lion, which guilt is fastened on a dog. The dog is a companion to a trapper who in his loyalty to his canine friend runs down the real culprit, the lion. Evidently Northville theatre-goers were intrigued by the announcement that a surprise was in store for them if one is to judge by the huge crowds lined up in front of the theatre before each performance, Wednesday night.

Northville Merchants and the theatre management are deserving of high praise in being able to bring to Northville a first-run picture which at the same time is being shown in Detroit, starting this week.

HOME ECONOMICS CLASS

The group of women studying home economics together are this year considering the interesting subject of Home Furnishing. Thirteen members, and two visitors were present at the home of Mrs. H. A. Mosser, Monday, and two new members were welcomed. The visitors were Mrs. Brown of this place and Mrs. Woodworth of Connetquot, mother of Mrs. Pierpont.

Color in the Home was the subject of study, conducted in a most interesting manner by Mrs. Marshall Herriek and Mrs. Chas. Pierpont. For the benefit of the new members the previous lesson was reviewed.

Those present enjoyed greatly the profitable afternoon.

Sugar and molasses are the cheapest sweets and are excellent sources of energy. Molasses also supplies iron and other minerals. Honey and maple syrup are also valuable sweets if they can be produced at home.

Just enough water in the pan to cover the bottom of it, will allow squash to be baked without drying out. The small amount of water helps to steam squash, so that it is soft throughout.

There need be no worry concerning food cooked in aluminum utensils. The most carefully controlled studies have shown that but an insignificant amount is dissolved during cooking and that this amount is not absorbed by the body.

Group pieces of furniture together. Make a reading group by placing a chair beside a table and a lamp. Do not have single pieces of furniture scattered about the room, bring the scattered pieces together into useful groups. Place a chair or stool in front of the radio. Arrange the sewing chair near the mending equipment, making sure that there is good lighting for this group.

GREETINGS, Schibi! This is the Llana Cross Mystery which was disclosed to me by a Llana monk in far-off Tibet and which I will now teach to you so you may mystify your friends to their delight and entertainment.

"I was camped at the trail side on the way to Llana having my monkey meal when a Tibetan monk approached me. Courteously I invited him to share my meal, which he did."

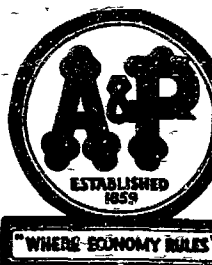

"After we had eaten, he drew a straight line on the palm of his hand. Turning his hand, he drew a straight line on the back of his hand. Then slowly he rubbed, with his other hand, the line he had drawn on the back of his hand until it had entirely disappeared. Turning his hand, palm upwards, he showed me the line he had drawn on the back of his hand."

Each week, Chanda, the popular Llama Cross Mystery, brings to you a mystifying trick which he learned in some far-off country. You can perform any of these tricks with a little practice, and need no special apparatus to do so.

J. W. DOLPH BRINGS BACK MEMORIES OF OLD AMBLER-MILL

Los Angeles, Calif.,
January 3, 1933

Mr. Richard T. Baldwin,
Editor Northville Record,
Dear Sir:

Your account a few weeks ago of the Ambler Mill and its ancient history brings to my mind the fact that about the first work I did in Northville was for James A. Dunbar in the latter part of 1880 and six months in 1881 at the old Ambler Mill. My work being of various kinds outside and inside the mill, I was living in a house (long since removed) on the fishery road, owned by James Hamilton. The winter of 1880 and 1881 was quite cold, with lots of snow. My brother, A. K. Dolph, built wheelbarrows that winter and the following spring there was a good demand for Paddy's buggy.

A crew of about 15 men were steadily employed to take care of the work. The product of the mill was lumber—Mast hoops, capstan bars, tackle blocks and other articles used on boats and ships for lake and ocean trade. There was a good demand for these products.

Also there was a wood bending department turning out wagon hounds, fellos and other bent work.

The names of the crew as recalled were Engineer Stephen Grance, head sawyer, Jack Sutton and Walter Nash; pattern-makers and wood turner, Andrew Rasch; blacksmith, Horace Jackson; benchmen, Frank Macomber and Will Hake.

carpenter, Henry Britten; mechanic, Gus Lambright; hip saw man, Dick Clock; teamster, Ras Peck; hoop-maker, Horace Wilkins; wheelbarrow department, A. K. and J. W. Dolph. Some of the men lived near the mill, viz., Walker Nash, Henry Britten and Andrew Rasch. James R. Nash lived on what is now Fairbrook avenue, also Dr. J. M. Swift lived near the mill. Once during the winter the mill was torn out by high water. All hands were put to work and the mill was soon in operation again.

In June, 1881, the mill was totally destroyed by fire and never rebuilt. Mr. Dunbar built a new mill on low Main street, where the Ford factory now stands. After the fire I found work with the Michigan School Furniture Co., later the Globe, where I was employed for over twenty years, through the height of its growth and prosperity and until the disastrous fire of 1899 ended its career.

P. S. You mention Comrade Bogart as being the last living member of Allen M. Harmon Post. You can count me along with Comrade Bogart. I am the last living charter member of the post, twice its commander, served time as its quartermaster, counted as a member until its charter was surrendered.

I was dubbed the boy commander when first elected.

We wish you and yours a happy and prosperous New Year.

Sincerely,
J. W. Dolph.

Mrs. Jennie Vradenburg, who is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Leverington, Hannibal, Mo., in reviewing the Record subscription for 1933, says, "It is like getting a letter from home—as soon as the postman leaves it at the door, the family pass it over to me."

Mrs. Vradenburg further writes that she is enjoying good health. B. E.

"A Christmas Rose" is the flower that Dean F. Griswold brought to The Record office a few days ago. "Believe it or not," he picked them right outdoors where the only protection it had was a piece of bur-lap thrown over it. The flower has some resemblance to the mandarin Mr. Griswold says that it was brought here from New York by Mrs. Daniels over 50 years ago. Her husband was superintendent of the school furniture company which was doing business here then.

In a talk before the Rotary club Tuesday noon at the weekly luncheon, Richard T. Baldwin said that the "World's Greatest Newspaper" is not the great metropolitan daily but the "home paper," whether it is published in Waukegan, Alpena, or Podunk. He called the country weekly the most vital institution in the community, next to the school and churches. Its work is constructive as well as historical, he stated, and faith in the home town and its people is one of the foundation stones of the best type of country weeklies. Farness and friendliness also characterize the home town paper, stated the Record publisher, Dr. Wilbur H. Johnston was a guest of the club.

I wish I could play like Mrs. Tinham.

Roy Clark, who has been associated as chorister with Mrs. Tinham as organist for the past several years pays this tribute to her: "She has been wonderful to work with, always dependable, congenial and an exceptionally sympathetic accompanist. I never worried about the music when Mrs. Tinham was to play."

Special interest was frequently expressed by Mrs. Tinham in the high standard of music taught by Leslie G. Lee in the school.

Of her another friend of long women I have ever known. One must have known her in earlier years to have appreciated her talent in music. She was a natural musician. In youth she had a remarkable voice."

Most appropriate is it to quote the following tribute from the pen of her former pastor, Rev. Wm. Richards, written on the occasion of the completion of seven years of service in the Methodist church as organist.

"A Living Tribute

How much has been said of some noble servant of God and the public; over the deceased remains whose lips are silent to respond and whose ears are deaf to such utterances. Usually it is no more than those who have known."

Floral tributes are unknown to the remains upon which they are placed. Better far to bring the flowers of expression and kindness to the living than to the dead. It may be a matter of little importance to many that we have one outstanding figure among us in this community in the musical realm. For seven years closing this coming Sabbath, Mrs. John Tinham has conveyed a wonderful ministry in the Methodist Episcopal church under the pastorate of Rev. William Richards, who presents this tribute today.

Not alone has it been confined to this church, but in the other churches, and social functions of Northville, where this masterful musical mind has given her talent.

The years are mellow now in her life, but no more than the soul which pours out such rich melodies in the Sabbath services. There are few suburban or rural parishes that can boast of an organist who is so acquainted with the old masters in the centuries gone, as Mrs. Tinham is.

You can listen to the wonderful creations of Mendelssohn, Handel, Beethoven, Gounod, Haydn, Mozart, with the more modern musical authors who cannot outdo the former. Such is the rich contribution that comes from the soul of the organist, replica of the soul that masters the manuals.

This soul has inspired my ministry and will go in my diary as a service never to be forgotten. I have served larger congregations than I can boast in Northville, but no organist of those congregations has served me with greater inspiration in my ministry than the soul of Mrs. John Tinham.

In paying this tribute I am sure I am expressing the thoughts of all her precious friends that have come up through the years with her, as well as those later augmented. May she live long, yet to be of service in the worship of the church, as well as the community of Northville.

Mrs. Tinham served as organist in all of the churches of the village in turn with equal faithfulness.

Not alone in the ministry of music did she contribute to her community. She was one of the earliest members of the Muzaph circle of the King's Daughters and never relinquished her deep interest in this society of philanthropy. She was honored by serving for years on the State Executive Board of the King's Daughters.

We had a dream
We can hear some critic murmur,
"He's in a dream most of the time!"
But we'll let it pass.

Our dream had to do with Hollywood and we dreamt that the movie stars were displaced by North-villes as per:

Pierre Penyon took Bung Crosby's place at the microphone. Ork Owen became Jack Oakie and forgot about business for the nonce (I got that "nonce" out of a book); Bob Lee,
weighing a few pounds less, as Tom Mix rode hard to save the damsel
from the villain's clutches and left the mortgage from the family homestead.

"Ma" Watts took over the throne
vacated by the lovely Marie Dressler. Howard Akwood as Stuart
Erwin brought down the house;
James Richard Patrick Lyons as the courtly Lewis Stone pulled in big box office receipts for the movie moguls. "Butch" Balder's scowling
as does the ferocious Wallace Berry knocked the audiences into the aisles.

"Bill" Stafford as W. C. Fields reigned over the movie colony with an iron hand and his dignity was impressive. Roy Rex as Adolphe Menjou took the ladies by storm;
E. M. Bogart as Jean Harlow's stormtrooper from "Schenck" panicked
the "Wall" Walla; Neise, Schrader as
"Two Gun" Wm. S. Hart was the strong silent man of the west; and how the ladies did love to be slipped down by Claude Rains playing Clark Gable's love "em and leave em" roles.

Start Northrop as dramatic Richard Barthelmee flown to crowded houses. Eddie Hylon as James Cagney, the battling taxi driver,
fought at the drop of the hat;
George Rattenberry's dry humor earned him "Slim" Summerville's lucrative parts. Arthur Marz as Eric Von Stroheim learned to talk
at that guttural, Deutsches accent
and could be strut with a mononole—we ask you.

"Chuck" Lefevre, through his swimming prowess, swiped all of John Welschmiller's Tarsan parts. "Cliff" Castellane as Victor McLagen fought battles in all of the wars that history can relate.

Warrick Neal took the burden off of St. Laure's Shoulders and was "stepped on" for a few reels by Harold White as Oliver Hardy;
Hugh Babbitt as the fiery Edward
G. Robinson skyrocketed to fame;
Bruno Freydl as George Fawcett proved to fans that "his bark was a lot worse than his bite."

ourselves by stealing some of Jim-

THIS WEEK

By H. H. WHITE

One of the most remarkable books ever written for children about the Christ has recently come to our local library. It is written by that eminent episcopal clergyman, Dr.
Paterson Smyth, of Montreal, Canada. The book is entitled, "A Boy's and Girl's Life of Christ."

In this book the author gives a very vivid and inspiring story of the Life of Christ. Teachers, parents, and educators, will find it unvaluable for re-telling. This reviewer read it with keen delight and deep appreciation.

Here is a book for youth written from out the many years of Dr.
Paterson - Smyth's profound religious experience, if I am to judge correctly after reading the book. It easily ranks foremost among books of this nature as to its masterly style, scholarship, and its charm lies in its simplicity.

Any child of junior high school age can read it with ease, since it is written in a vocabulary that they are acquainted with. Here the younger will find an inspired and inspiring story of Jesus Christ.

Another book for children aged 10
or older, has been written by William C. White, entitled, "Made in Russia."

This is the first book about that all-absorbing country, Russia, which has been written especially for youngsters. The author, for many years lived in Russia, and is thus well qualified to write about the changing conditions there under the Soviet regime.

The book is simple and direct in its style, and its charm lies in the fact that the young person is reading facts and learning about the great social and economic factors that have influenced the development of this country through all its history, without being conscious of the information he is absorbing.

This book should prove a most valuable supplementary to history and geography and at the same time
a delightful one.

Now He Does

"How long have you known your wife?"

"Two years."

"But you have been married that long?"

"Yes, but I didn't get to know her until we were married."

Pathfinder.

"Your prosperity depends upon America's prosperity. Support American industry. Buy American."

The payoff came when we saw
"Butch" Lefevre taking all the parts of the Four Marx Brothers.

The entire troupe was working on a film, soon to be released called,
"Oh, What Pools We Mortals Be!"

STATE'S FUTURE IN HANDS OF FEW

Legislature Faces Greatest Responsibility Since Statehood

By Elton R. Eaton

LANSING, MICHIGAN — The
destinies of a great state, the state of over five millions of people, and the future of the school boys and girls of Michigan today lie almost entirely in the hands of less than one hundred and fifty men who are gathered in the state capital to consider problems growing out of a world-wide depression and years of after-war extravagant living.

These men comprise the members of the state legislature and the state officials—men that have come to Lansing as representatives or senators from your farms, your village stores and offices. At no time since statehood was granted to Michigan has a legislature had thrust upon it such far-reaching responsibilities and problems as this one.

One of the early questions they must consider is the one concerning the advisability of asking the people of Michigan to call a constitutional convention. Governor William Comstock in his brief message to the legislature recommended that the legislature place this question
before the people at the April election. No one in the legislature has yet had time to go over the merits of the proposal but the suggestion is one that will provide plenty of debate.

Governor Comstock did not enumerate the changes he believed should be made in the constitution with the exception of a general suggestion that because of conditions brought about by the depression,
there is need of a complete re-vamping of the state governmental system. It is to be assumed that some of these changes include the abolition of the township form of government, the possible consolidation of counties, the elimination of several county and state offices as well as a new system of taxation.

With the house and senate organizations completed, the governor's message in and all preliminary work finished, the legislature this week is down to serious business. Before it at the present time are a large number of bills that were prepared by the legislative commission appointed during the last session of the old legislature to recommend ways that state government expenses could be cut and reorganized to give better service to the people.

The appointment of this commission was the direct result of a series of articles prepared and published in Michigan weekly newspapers by Representative Vernon J. Brown, the pioneer crusader for a reduction in the costs of the state government.
Alone and single-handed the Ingham
County newspaper publisher

set out to show to the people of Michigan just where and how its money was being spent and how it could be saved. Former Speaker Fred Ming of the house saw to it that Mr. Brown was a member of the commission that his articles made necessary to appoint. In cooperation with the other members of the commission, over six months of diligent study was given every state department and every state institution.

One of the big Detroit newspapers
catching the spirit of what Representative Brown had accomplished, started a follow-up series of articles on governmental waste, following exactly along the line that Mr. Brown had pursued in his series presented to the weekly press months before.

Before the legislature for their immediate consideration are the scores of bills that Mr. Brown and his committee prepared, which provide a reduction of something like $10,000,000 in the operating costs of the state per year.

Just whether these bills fit into the legislative program that Governor Comstock has in mind, has not yet made itself manifest. The governor has indicated that he is in sympathy with most of the recommendations made by Representative Brown's committee.

Both Governor Comstock and Lieut. Governor Stebbins have indicated to the legislature that they do not favor a mass of bills covering all kinds of legislation and that it is their wish to follow a certain line
of directed economy legislation.

Never before at a change in the administrative government of Michigan has there been such a demand for public jobs as at present. Not dozens, but hundreds of Democrats
from all over Michigan are tramping through the hallways of the capital and state office building looking for jobs. Not only are Democrats looking for work, but Republicans who have served years and years in the various departments are hoping that they will not be asked to join the army of the unemployed.

Up to the present time there has been nothing to indicate that the most of them will not be out before
long.

Representative Brown of Mason
did stop one onslaught of house Democrats last week when he held up the appointment of a new postmaster for the house. He suggested that he thought it would be good economy to have but one postmaster for both the house and senate.
It has always been customary to have a postmaster for both branches of the legislature. Claude Ad-rich of East Lansing was the Democratic candidate for the house postoffice job.

From what can be heard around legislative halls it is quite apparent that there is a possibility that there will be legislative consideration of the appointment of Edward Frensdorf of Hudson as director of prison industries at $12,000 per year. The big salary is the thing that has caused the talk. Mr. Frensdorf was at one time warden of Jackson prison. No one associated with the prisons
has ever before been paid a salary of such vast size, but Mr. Frensdorf states that he can in return save the state over a million dollars per year in the operation of prison industries.

Democrats have let it be known that they are not at all satisfied with the selection of two or three office holders under Republican administrations to retain their positions.
Budget Director Thompson, who has drawn a salary ranging from $5,000 to $7,500 under the last two Republican administrations, has been kept on the job by the new governor, possibly the appointment is but temporary one, say some, and will later be filled by a Democrat. When created, this job paid $5,000 per year.

Many of the prominent Democratic physicians of the state are said to be hopefully looking for the appointment as state health officer.
This position, a few years ago, a $6,000 job, has been paying $10,000
a year during the past few years, plus an automobile for the health officer and an expense account.
Gov. Comstock has not yet indicated who will be named for this position.

Former Sheriff Fred Collins of Berrien County is the new sergeant at arms of the house. The ex-sheriff was a popular officer; when he served in the highest executive office of his county and he has already made friends around the house.

Speaker Bradley, who hails from the Upper Peninsula, has let it be known that he is opposed to all legislative junkets to various state institutions.

Predictions are freely made that this legislative session will be one of the longest in the history of the state. This statement is based upon the immense amount of work that confronts the new legislature.

The pupils who bring their lunches
to school are enjoying hot lunches which are being donated by a group of generous ladies. Mrs. Granzow furnished some very fine soup last week. The pupils who are able to pay are charged a few cents for each helping, while the others are given the lunch without cost. The money received is kept in a fund to buy supplies.

The teachers have been studying the results of the achievement tests
given some time ago for the purpose of helping some of the pupils overcome deficiencies. Additional work in phonics is being given some children in the primary grades in an effort to improve their reading and spelling ability. The more emphasis will be placed on the solution of story problems in arithmetic in the upper grades.

The eighth grade class in Ameri-

At The Theatre

The title of Carole Lombard's latest picture, showing Saturday, Jan.
14, at the Penniman-Allyn theatre,
may be "No More Orchids," but that had nothing to do with Miss Lombard.

According to her the title
should have been PLENTY OF OR-CHIDS.

More than 100 of these soft-petalled, luxurious cream-white flowers were worn by beautiful blonde Miss Lombard in this scintillating story of a wealthy, brilliant girl whom the depression almost forces into an undesired marriage.

Each day of the twenty-one it required to produce this picture, Geo.
Rhein, prof man on the production,
carried to Miss Lombard's dressing room five fresh orchids in a corsage, dripping with the persuasive and dreamy perfume they exude. Whenever Miss Lombard was needed for a scene, it was not a bit difficult to find her—all the assistant-director had to do was to follow his nose.

Miss Lombard felt that the orchids had a psychological effect upon her performance that she had never experienced before, the same effect that a woman experiences when she goes out for the evening in a perfectly fitted gown, touched-off with just the right corsage. It contributed an impetus to Miss Lombard's role, she said, that made the brilliant, carefree and easy-going manner of her character so much easier to portray.

"No More Orchids," from the Liberty magazine story by Grace Perkins, was adapted for the screen by Kenzie Thompson. Gertrude Purcell wrote the screen play.

Rev. Roy Miller met with the men interested in church work in West Point Park. He wants to reorganize all departments so that the work of the church can go on in a systematic way.

The church service Sunday morning was well worth hearing. Rev.
Miller gave his members something worth going to hear. It was a splen-

CHURCH NEWS

First Presbyterian Church

Harold G. Whitfield, minister. The regular morning service will be held in the First Presbyterian church Sunday, Jan. 15, at 10:30. The church school meets at 11:45. The birthday offering custom is being revived—anyone having had a birthday since the first of January is invited to participate in the offering next Sunday.

Mrs. L. M. Eaton's class of "Lives of the Prophets" held a party in the church house on Monday night last. This was the banner class for the last quarter. It is openly declared by some of them, that they are going to hold the banner for the next quarter.

A meeting of the Nellie Yerkes Auxiliary will be held at the home of Mrs. Teala Owen with Mrs. Helen Coffman assisting hostess, Tuesday evening, Jan. 17th at 7:45. Mrs. Vance Masters will give the last half of study book "Indian Missions." Mrs. Elsie Angove will lead in the devotional period.

Keep in mind the men's dinner and meeting, Thursday evening Jan. 19.

Baptist Church

Services for Sunday, Jan. 15, will be held morning and evening at the following appointed hours: Morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Preaching by the pastor on the theme: "The Inextinguishable Love of the Human Soul." The Sunday school meets at 11:45 a. m. The Young People at 6:30 p. m. The Union service of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches will be held at this church at 7:30 o'clock.

At the annual meeting last week this church voted their desire to continue their Sunday evening meeting with evangelistic spirit and with Easter in view as a climax.

The mid-year meeting of the Wayne Baptist association will be an all-day session next Tuesday, Jan. 17, at the Clarkson Baptist church. The speakers will be Miss Ryan, missionary to the American Indian, Mr. Clayton from Hanchow, China, and Dr. Andersen.

Church of Our Lady of Victory

We wish to remind the high school students who have not yet taught the Catechism classes please to report this Saturday at 9 a. m. Classes for the children in Christian doctrine are held each Saturday morning at 9:30.

The January Altar society meeting will take place next Tuesday, Jan. 17, at the rectory Pot-luck luncheon at 12:30. Business meeting and the annual election of officers will open at 2 p. m.

Light minded people do not go to church. After their work they must rush for amusement and excitement. One cannot attend church effectively with the ambition of a theatre-goer to have one's sentiment tickled. Neither are church services merely a forum for the cynics. Religious service must touch the heart mainly. It must bring one face to face with himself. Many of us dare not do the latter.

Mrs. Stark At Home To Bridge Club

A pleasant afternoon was informally enjoyed by a bridge club at the home of Mrs. W. H. Stark yesterday (Thursday) when a congenial group of friends met to play together. Mrs. F. J. Cochran and Mrs. B. C. Stark were substituting guests. Light refreshments were served.

Contract Club Meets With Mr. and Mrs. McLoughlin

The contract club, including husbands and wives, enjoyed a pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McLoughlin as hospitable host Monday evening. At the close of the tournament, high honors went to Miss Reva Schrader, a substitute guest, and Dr. R. H. Saley.

Independent Twelve Spend Afternoon At Five Hundred

A circle of close friends who have chosen to call themselves the "Independent Twelve" (and they are all married women) gathered for one of their sociable afternoons at the home of Mrs. Daisy Martin last Friday. Five hundred was played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Henry H. Turham and Mrs. Esther Hamilton.

Winona Club Dines At Country Home on Beck Road

A party of nearly thirty guests, members of the Winona club, sat down sociably to a delicious cooperative dinner at the home of one of their members, Mrs. Dolores Doreh on the Beck road, Friday, Jan. 6. A veritable country dinner it was and most heartily enjoyed. After the tables were cleared the afternoon pleasure was five hundred.

New Masonic Officers Feted by Worshipful Master

Twelve men were especially glad to have been elected officers of Northville Lodge No. 186 F. & A. M. Thursday evening when their new worshipful master, Dr. Wilbur H. Johnson, invited them all to dine at his home.

Fourteen covers were laid and a delicious three course dinner was served (and the last course was pie!) Robert P. Coolman, Past Worshipful Master, was an additional guest at this pleasant affair. The masonic officers present were: Chas. Smith, Orlov G. Owen, Herbert Dean, Frederick Hedge, Elmer DeKay, Frank Snipes, Dean F. Griswold, Ralph Foreman, E. M. Bogart, Gus F. Warner, Roy Clark and Rev. H. G. Whitfield.

Woman's Union Studies American Indians

The members of the Woman's Union of the Presbyterian church held an interesting meeting at the church house Wednesday. Gathering earlier than is their custom, the program was partially given before the noon luncheon. Enlightening reports of the conditions of the American Indian were given by Mrs. H. S. Willis and Mrs. B. H. Douglas. Several piano solos were rendered by Mrs. N. F. McKinney and a group of Indian songs were sung by the Misses Johnson, Deal and Grosvenor. Both of these groups were especially appreciated.

How Long Must This Continue?

The 1933 Michigan Legislature is faced with the challenge to protect Michigan motorists and pedestrians with a Safety Responsibility Law now effective in 19 states and six Canadian provinces. A bill prepared by the American Automobile Association through its nation-wide legislative committee has been the model for other states and provinces. A similar bill will be introduced in Michigan at the next session, and its merits will be found in those sections of the measure which provide that reckless drivers shall be responsible for the damage they commit.

Mrs. Harper Hostess at Luncheon To Study Group

As a special treat for the day, the six members of a "small" group of women who meet each week for miscellaneous study were guests of one of their number, Mrs. Geo. Harper, Wednesday. A daintily appointed luncheon was served at one o'clock and the remainder of the afternoon was devoted to study.

Mrs. Bauman Hostess To Friends at Luncheon

Mrs. Ina Bauman was hostess to a small group of intimate friends at her home on East Main street, Wednesday. A delectable cooperative luncheon, served at noon, began the good time with eight covers laid sociably at the long hospitable table. In the afternoon the ladies forgot their cares in the fascination of working jig-saw puzzles. Those present were Mrs. Bauman, Mrs. Bessie Blowers, her mother, Mrs. Partridge, of New York, Mrs. Ina Casteline, Mrs. Dawn Holcomb, Mrs. Orie Deal and Mrs. Ethel Casteline.

Quality Club Wrestles With Jig Saw Puzzles

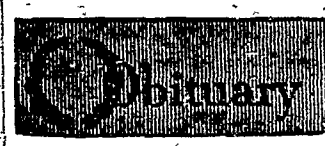

The Quality club spent a delightful evening enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Murphy Wednesday. Twelve members husbands and wives sat down to a bountiful cooperative dinner at a long table attractive with its centerpiece, a small Christmas tree sprinkled with snow, with tall white tapers in black candle holders on each side. The menu, prepared by the ladies this time, was up to the high standard of this club. As a happy innovation from bridge, the hostess introduced jig saw puzzles as the amusement of the evening, which all entered into heartily. Three tables worked on these puzzles and prizes of puzzles were awarded to the first table finishing: Mrs. Percy Angove, Mrs. E. E. Miller, Chas. Blackburn and Chas. Murphy.

FIRE RAZES BARN AT WALKER FARM FOR SECOND TIME

(Cont from page 1) Curled at the Kreger farm a one mile away on the Base Line road and but a few weeks ago the Catholic church at Plymouth was gutted by a $60,000 blaze, the origin in neither case having been determined. The theory has been advanced that the series of fires may have been the work of a pyromaniac. P. H. Grennan, Northville sportsman and head of the Farm Crest bakery, and Harry Clark, well known horse enthusiast, close friends of Mr. Walker, together with many Northville people expressed extreme regret when they learned that he would move into Detroit soon. "Russell Walker has always been invaluable," said Mr. Clark, superintendent of the Northville Horse Show, held here concurrently with the fair, "to the show as a real worker. His departure will be a loss to the community."

MARSHALLS ARE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. A. Marshall, Six Mile road, returned this week from a ten day visit to New York City. While there the Marshalls renewed their friendship with Lieut. and Mrs. Harry Cullins. Lieut. Cullins holds the position of post prison officer at Governor's Island, N. Y. Formerly he played on a Texas polo team which met the P. H. Grennan Northville polo team here in a series of hard fought games.

DR. WM. A. HART

Northville friends who recall Dr. Wm. Hart, as a youth in this village, will regret to learn of his death which occurred Thursday, Jan. 5, at the home on Richton ave., Highland Park.

Dr. Hart spent his boyhood in Northville, making his home with his uncle and aunt, the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Power. He attended Northville High School and later the University of Michigan. After his graduation he practiced dentistry in Northville with Dr. Ed. Root for a time, and then established an office in Holly, Michigan.

From Holly he went to Lapeer, from which place he moved to Highland Park, and lived there until he was stricken with his last illness.

Those who attended the funeral services from here were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Northrop, Mrs. Jessie Welch, Starr Northrop and Mrs. C. C. Yerkes.

CLARENCE SETH PETTYS

As the result of injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred Wednesday morning, Jan. 4, on the West Seven Mile road, Clarence S. Pettys passed away at the Receiving Hospital in Redford Friday, Jan. 6. His death came as a great shock and sorrow to his many Northville friends who have learned to esteem highly this good citizen.

Clarence S. Pettys, the son of Seth and Grace Pettys, was born Nov. 30, 1885, in Cohasset, township, Mich. In this family were two other sons, Frank and Everett, now of Fowlerville, and one daughter, now Mrs. Glenna Rogers, of Flint.

On March 5, 1915, he united in marriage to Miss Reta Pearsall of Wixom and to this union one daughter, Doris, was born, who is now 11 years old and the comfort of her bereaved mother.

For nine years previous to coming to Northville Mr. Pettys ran a general store and post office in Wixom. In 1929 the family moved to Northville where they took possession of the truck farm on the corner of the Sloan and Six Mile road, where by thrift and hard work of both the enterprise of truck gardening and fruit raising has been carried on successfully. Daily trips were

Speaking About Subscriptions

The Record office started work this week billing all our subscribers. It will take two or three weeks to complete the work and any who can send check or money orders of pay at the office in the next few days will save us postage. Every letter now costs three cents, and the total "runs into money." We shall certainly appreciate the help of our many subscribers. We also thank those who have so kindly responded to our appeal of last week.

made all through the growing season to the markets of Detroit.

Throughout all his labor Mr. Pettys found time for the best things in life. To him "life was more than meat," and he took active part in the church of his choice, the Baptist church of this village. For the past three years he has served as deacon of this church as he had previously at Wixom. Only recently was Mr. Pettys honored by being chosen superintendent of the Sunday school.

To his church, to his family, and to his community Mr. Pettys gave his best. He was a kind neighbor. Of him his friends say "His word could always be depended upon." In his quiet, unassuming way he lived a life that counted for much in his community and many friends regret his untimely death.

The funeral was held in the Baptist church on Monday afternoon with the pastor, Rev. W. Roscoe Barbour officiating. By request of Mrs. Pettys he spoke on the text "Watch ye therefore for ye know not what hour your Lord shall come." He was assisted by Rev. J. W. Tolley of Wixom, a former pastor of friends, the Coe sisters, sang appropriately. Interment was made in Wixom with six close friends of Mr. Pettys bearing him to his last resting place: C. B. Turnbull, L. Q. Carman, M. Nagel, Leon Safford, of Northville, and Rollin Porter and Richard Bahfield of Wixom.

SOCIAL ORDER WILL CONTINUE, MATTHEWS SAYS IN TALK HERE

"We have filled our barns to bursting," continued the speaker, "and then we have lost the key and while we are fumbling our own are suffering for food."

"Some key industry" must give activity to the great masses. The ignorant suggest another war.

"What Comes Next? A change it behooves us to be prepared for drastic changes. Readjustments. There are those who are afraid of a change, others who are eager for any change but the great hope lies between the extremes in those who, seeing the good in the old and new, try to interpret both for the good of the community and nation. Only those who are ready to welcome a change are ready to live tomorrow."

"In the recent campaign," said Mr. Matthews, "it was a most promising sign that so large a number were willing to give thoughtful attention to the speeches of Norman H. Thomas. It was an indication that as never before people have been interested less in political parties and more in the real values of life service."

"No, we're not going to have socialism, much less communism," he assured his hearers. "The present order will continue, quickened by new social-mindedness. There will be better control over industry, finance, government and over life itself. Recklessness of life, over speeding, an artificial way of living—these were the sins of yesterday."

"We cannot hope for happiness in mere material things. We can't feed our souls on corn. Unless we realize that these things do not constitute life we have missed the major lesson of the past three years."

"Yes, there will be changes, but changes made in times of stress are usually steps in the right direction," assured Mr. Matthews and then with a ring of optimism, he said, "I believe there is an unseen progress which makes for the onward way, and builds highways safer for those who come after."

WOMAN LOSE 24 POUNDS IN A MONTH

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 years old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know. For your health's sake, ask for and get Kruschen at C. R. Horton's drugstore or any drugstore—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and, if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.
