

C. R. HORTON
DIES MONDAY
AT AGE OF 58Leader in Business and Masonic Circles Was Born Here

The entire community was grieved to learn of the death of C. R. Horton, better known as Ralph Horton, who passed away Monday evening at 8 o'clock at Sessions hospital following an operation for appendicitis in which serious complications occurred. Mr. Horton had been in poor health for several months previously, being able to attend his business duties only a part of the time.

Throughout his long disability, Mr. Horton maintained his usual fine spirit of courage and kept in touch with the events of the village, in which he had a deep interest.

Chas. Ralph Horton, son of Edward S. and Frances Dubois Horton, was born at the home on East Dundas street in Northville, May 15, 1875. His boyhood was spent in this village where he attended school and graduated from the Northville high school in 1893.

He was a classmate of the late Thad Knapp, who accompanied him to the University as his roommate. Later he entered the School of Pharmacy in the University of Michigan and completed his course with distinction in June, 1896.

On June 10, 1897, he was married to the late Phoebe Beal and to them were born three children, two of whom survive: Martha I. Horton and Edward S. Horton. A daughter, Frances B., passed away in August, 1918.

For a number of years Mr. Horton was engaged in the drug business in Detroit being one of the founders of the Detroit Drug Co. and later was president of this company.

Eighteen years ago he moved back to the home town, making his residence at the farm home on the Novi road. Later he purchased the drug business in Northville which he conducted until his death.

On December 9, 1925, he was married to Cora Decker of Detroit who survives him.

During the past 15 years Mr. Horton had lived and worked in this community in his quiet, friendly, unassuming manner. Never ambitious for public office, he was nevertheless concerned in the welfare of his town. The final reorganization of the Depositors State Bank here owes much to the loyal support of this good citizen, who was a member of the depositors committee.

He was a substantial type of business man whose word was thoroughly reliable and who added his help to every worthy cause. Kind in his judgment, he was ready to give his fellowman the benefit of the doubt even to his own loss. His life was clean and above reproach.

Mr. Horton was an active member of the Presbyterian church to whom his pastor pays this tribute: "He was always in the front line when it came to doing his duty."

He was a charter member and past president of the Northville Exchange club from which he resigned several months ago because of ill health.

Ralph Horton took an active part in the local Masonic organizations. He was Past Master of Northville lodge No. 186, F. & A. M., and Past Commander of the Knights Templar, Northville Commandery No. 39.

The funeral services were held at the late home on East Main street Thursday afternoon and were largely attended. Rev. H. G. Whitfield was the officiating clergyman. The service at the Rural Hill cemetery was in charge of Northville lodge No. 186, F. & A. M., with Northville Commandery No. 39, Knights Templar, acting as escorts. The remains were placed in the mausoleum.

RECREATION PROGRAM IS ENJOYED DAILY BY MANY CHILDREN

Approximately 30 youngsters are gathering daily, except Sundays at the Northville high school playground, supervised by Paul B. Thompson, assistant principal.

Ball games, woodworking, manual training, organized play are all under the direction of Mr. Thompson, who has amply proved his ability for the recreation program.

Superintendent of streets, Earl Montgomery, is going to grade the playground and help clear out the weeds so that a level expanse suitable for the play program will be available.

WILL COACH

TED WATTS

This former Northville high school and Albion college football star will teach mathematics at the local high school beginning next September. He has also agreed to coach all athletic teams, duties from which he will receive no extra remuneration.

MEYERS' TABLE, 3404
PIECES, FOR SALE

Chas. Meyers has completed a beautiful maid table on which he has spent his spare time for the past four months. The pattern worked out in an original design, is very lovely and the whole is a work of art of which any artisan may be proud.

Mr. Meyers says there are 3404 pieces in this table. The top is 19 inches square and has a pedestal base which also is milled in the same design.

Because of the lack of demand for his trade as a carpenter, Mr. Meyers, like everyone else is obliged to offer for sale this lovely piece of handiwork which may be seen at his home on Church street.

BAKE SALE

The Service League will hold a baked goods sale at the E. M. B. food market Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4. All kinds of good home-made baking.

A HOLE-IN-ONE

C. F. Hartwig Rings Up An Ace at Northville Golf Club Course

C. F. Hartwig, Detroit, was the second golfer this year to register a hole-in-one at the Northville Golf club.

Mr. Hartwig rang the bell on the fourteenth hole with a 125 yard mashie shot on the afternoon of Sunday, June 18. E. R. and T. C. Hoffman were witnesses to the ace.

(Note to Veteran Golfers—This was the second game of golf Mr. Hartwig has ever played.)

The Best Things at World's Fair
Are Free, Leslie G. Lee of H. S.
Says in Report of Senior Trip

With Chas. E. Rogers making his first appearance as president, Northville Rotarians at their Tuesday noon luncheon at the Presbyterian church house, heard Leslie G. Lee give an interesting, though brief, description of the recent visit of the high school seniors to the World's Fair at Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee were the chaperons of the party.

"One sees at the fair what you take with you," said the high school faculty member, "and as a general rule I should say that the best things are free." Most people try to see too much in a limited time, said Mr. Lee.

The speaker paid tribute to the good behavior of the high school graduates. Much of this was due to the fact that the young men and women themselves drew up a set of rules which they obeyed very well. There was no hypocrisy about the smoking on the trip. The seniors voted that those wishing to Northville school teachers are standing by!

All Northville teachers who were occupying positions in the schools at the close of the 1933 spring session have been offered contracts for the coming year and so far ten of the 20 instructors and Superintendent R. H. Amerman have signified their intentions of returning.

Ted Watts, former Albion football star, will fill a post as mathematics teacher and will also coach the high school football team. He will receive no remuneration for the coaching job aside from the pay he receives as a teacher. Ted is attending Michigan State Normal college at Ypsilanti this summer to further fit himself for his work next fall.

Sentiment in Northville has been strong to have the Albion star who performed so brilliantly on the gridiron last football season, selected as a teacher this coming year, filling the vacancy left by former Coach Harold Ruggles, who is now operating a gasoline station at Oden, Mich. Announcement of Watts' appointment was made this week.

It is believed that all of the teachers who have not yet signed their contracts will return to their posts and be ready to call the roll when school starts sometime during the middle of September.

R. H. Amerman has been appointed superintendent of schools and principal of both schools, with Paul B. Thompson, manual training teacher, as assistant principal in the high school and Miss Nora Wilson, third grade teacher, as assistant principal of the grade school.

Tuition rates have been reduced as much as $20.00; the per capita cost of educating the students having dropped to $44.00.

Following is the 1933-34 tuition rate: High School—tuition for school year, $65.00; cash first week, $65.00; whole sale districts of five or more pupils, $60.00; cash first week, $58.00. Elementary—tuition for school year, $45.00; cash first week, $44.00; whole sale districts of five or more pupils, $40.00; cash first week, $39.20.

NORTHVILLE C. C. C. BOYS ARE HOMESICK IN NORTH

The Record is in receipt of an interesting letter from Myron Weston, who is at "Camp Jumbo" at Kanton, in the northern peninsula. The Northville boys, according to his letter are feeling a long way from the old home town and are looking forward to an 8-day leave of absence after they have been in camp three months when they say they will "beat it for home."

Forest fires are finally put out and the boys are glad for the relief. Eldon Bierly is serving as mess sergeant in the camp.

One pleasing feature of camp is the prospect of a swimming hole in the Jumbo river.

CARD OF THANKS

Billy Schoultz wishes to thank the many friends who made it possible for him to win a trip to the "Century of Progress" at Chicago.

Sunday the boys were given a heavy defeat by Royal Oak which boasts one of the best teams in the state. The score was 17 to 2. The day before, Saturday, they were edged out of a close contest with Farmington, 7-8.

Unaccustomed to the large turnouts other towns are providing for their teams the Northville boys are slowly gaining confidence in their ability. A plea that Northville fans attend the games to spur the boys toward victory is being made by Legionnaires who desire that the contests become more of an inter-community affair.

New uniforms, local stores being unable to purchase them in time for the tournament, have been ordered from Detroit and it is expected that their use will greatly encourage the boys to greater efforts. Anyone desiring to contribute toward the cost of the uniforms may do so by seeing Floyd Lanning or any other Legionnaire.

The boys have worked hard for almost two months to prepare for these games and when the second half of the tournament starts, July 23, experts say they are going to show a complete reversal of form to gain a place in the play-offs.

At a brief business session the club voted to sponsor a team in the new soft-ball league and Wm. E. Forney and Leslie G. Lee were named managers.

TREASURE HUNT SATURDAY

Street Dance Begins at 8:00 O'clock

"East side, west side, all around the town;

Trippin' the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York"

The quotation may not be exact but the idea is that east side and west side Northville have been "trippin' the light fantastic" on the pavement of North Center street for the past three Saturdays and will again tomorrow evening (Saturday) to the tune of music of Scott Montgomery's Rhythm Kings.

The dance, scheduled to begin at 8:00 o'clock will last until 11:00 o'clock with a short intermission from 9:00 to 9:30 for the benefit of the Treasure Hunters. The Treasure Hunters, with the numbered tickets they have received from merchants this week free, will seek their lucky numbers in the store windows and on finding them will claim the free awards.

Although a complete list of last week's winners is not available the following is as accurate a list as could be obtained: Stewart's Drug Store, Mrs. John Riemann, box camera; and Bert Wickham, box of candy; S. L. Brader's department store, Ina Bauman, bathrobe; Atlantic and Pacific meat department, two lbs. butter and a smoked ham, the winner left without leaving his name; A. & P. grocery department sack of sugar, no name; Ponsford's, Mrs. Jordan, luncheon set; Freydl's, dress, no name; Lyke Hardware, carving set; Mrs. McCuskey; B. A. Stephens grocery, watermelon; Sidney Junod; Northville Record, year's subscription; Mrs. Cora Bissell; B. A. Stephens Novelty store, console set; Mrs. J. A. McDonald; Schrader's Furniture store, card table, no name; Ware's hardware, sandwich kit; Harry Richards; Stark Brothers' store, bedroom slippers; Jason Lyke; E. M. B. Store, package of biscuit flour and crackers; Mrs. Ione Ketchum.

The Street Dance this week will be supported by approximately 40 merchants who have cooperated to defray the expenses.

MOTORCYCLE CRASH
NEARLY CREMATES
EDWARD LEO KOHLER

Edward Leo Kohler, graduated from the Northville high school this year, came close to being burned to death Sunday afternoon when the motorcycle he was driving with his cousin, Jack Gattfield, Detroit, as a passenger, struck a car driven by S. Ness, Detroit, on the north mouth road just north of the railroad tracks.

Witnesses say that the Ness car backed onto the Plymouth road and that after struggling out and starting for Plymouth, the driver apparently changed his mind, stopped and backed to turn around. Kohler, going south, misinterpreted the Detroit man's move and crashed into the car drenching both vehicles with gasoline.

Both of the boys on the motorcycle were thrown off. Kohler suffering a cut in the lid of the left eye, a wound in his forehead and severe burns and bruises. Gattfield was only slightly bruised. The two boys and two girls in the Ness car were not injured.

The motorcycle caught fire and rolling after the other car, ignited it, both being destroyed by fire.

Motorists took the injured boy to the Plymouth hospital where he was treated and sent home Tuesday. He is making good recovery.

LEGION BOYS WILL PLAY JULY 15-16

Their enthusiasm undimmed by the loss of two games the Northville Legion boys' team will meet Ponac Saturday afternoon there and Plymouth here Sunday. They were to have played Hazel Park last evening (Thursday) there.

Sunday the boys were given a heavy defeat by Royal Oak which boasts one of the best teams in the state. The score was 17 to 2. The day before, Saturday, they were edged out of a close contest with Farmington, 7-8.

Unaccustomed to the large turnouts other towns are providing for their teams the Northville boys are slowly gaining confidence in their ability. A plea that Northville fans attend the games to spur the boys toward victory is being made by Legionnaires who desire that the contests become more of an inter-community affair.

BILLY SCHOULTZ,
CHAS. W. HILLS, JR.
OFF FOR CHICAGO

Two Northville contestants Billy Schoultz and Chas. W. Hills, Jr. have won the right to join the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. contingent of 150 boys who will get the opportunity to travel to and inspect the World's Fair at Chicago.

Billy Schoultz stood second in the entire Detroit area with 102,544 votes, an Ann Arbor entrant winning first place with approximately 1,000 more votes.

The contest was in the nature of a sales race, the boys securing one coupon or vote for each five cents in an A. & P. store.

The total group of boys left Wednesday afternoon and were to have arrived in Chicago nine o'clock that evening. They stay at the F. M. C. A. building in Chicago, and according to the itinerary sent to the winners along with notification of their appointment, their first day, Thursday, was to have been a full one.

Italian building, Jehol Temple Hall of Science, Japanese Pavilion, Chinese building, etc., in breath-taking speed will form the points of interest for the party. Royally entertained at every step of the way, the boys will "own" the Fair during the eight days they are there.

A complete perusal of their proposed stops reads like a trip on the magic carpet covering thousands of miles of the world's territory instead.

JOHN LITSENBERGER
NOW HAS WHITE'S
GASOLINE STATION

Announcement was made this week that John Litsenberger, village treasurer, has purchased the gasoline station business of William White, 340 North Center street, taking over his duties Wednesday noon.

Mr. Litsenberger has many friends in this locality who wish him well in his new venture. He has served for a number of years as village treasurer, holding other village and township offices previously.

The Litsenberger Quick-Service Station is equipped, says Mr. Litsenberger, to serve Phillips' 66 gasoline and oil, repair tires or batteries and render all customary service quickly and at reasonable prices.

Mr. White's plans for the future are as yet uncertain.

EXCHANGITES MEET AT PLYMOUTH

Instead of holding their regular weekly meeting Wednesday at the Methodist church house Exchangers of Northville planned to attend the large metropolitan meeting of club members at Riverside Park, Plymouth, Thursday.

A day's entertainment was planned with baseball games, horseshoe tournaments, and picnic lunches.

TWO MEMBERS
REELECTED TO SCHOOL BOARDPer Capita Cost of Education
Is Cut Down To $44.00

A total reduction in income of $11,901.47 featured the financial report of the Northville school board for the year 1932-33 which was read before 26 electors gathered in the auditorium of the high school Monday evening.

Total expenditures for the year just completed amounted to $57,647.71 and the previous year's total was $69,549.18.

A summary comparison of the expenses for the two years is as follows:

1931-32	1932-33
Teachers' Salaries	$26,993.95
Other Salaries	$5,294.71
Bonds and Notes Refired	$1,491.63
Cash On Hand	$5,776.30
General Purposes	$10,478.74
Cash On Hand	$10,478.74

The "Cash On Hand" heading for this year lists $5,776.30, but according to the report read at the meeting $5,589.93 of this amount rests in closed banks, making the actual cash available only $183.37.

The per capita cost of educating students has dropped from $82.00 in 1931-32, to $46.00 for the year just concluded and will drop to $44.00 for the coming year, a drop of nearly 50 per cent.

During the 1932-33 school year $16,000 was paid on the interest and principal on loans. This year $1,500 less was paid, approximately $14,500. The bonded indebtedness, 15 serial bonds, of the Northville schools amounts to about $60,000 with other indebtedness of approximately $13,000, including $3,000 issued in scrip.

According to Sherrill W. Ambler, secretary of the board, a portion of the scrip will be redeemed in the next thirty days with receipts from 1932 taxes.

Listed assets of debts receivable, the schools have $37,000 coming in delinquent taxes, $2,800 in tuition money, and $1,000 from the Turner fund which all totals to $40,800.

Although the financial status of the Northville schools is critical, summarized Mr. Ambler, if the delinquent taxes were all paid as well

JUNIOR HORSEMEN
MEET TO FORM PLANS

The Junior Horse Show committee held its first meeting Wednesday afternoon, July 5, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Rawle Brown, chairman, on the Nine Mile road.

Twelve enthusiastic young horsemen and women were present to discuss the program for the coming show.

Harry B. Clark, chairman of the entire horse show, was also present to help these younger horsemen in their plans as was Russell H. Walker, secretary of the Senior Horse Show.

At the close of the vigorous discussion the hostess served generous portions of home-made molasses cake and lemonade.

School Grounds Bring Health and Happiness to Children Enjoying Supervised Recreation Program

School vacation? One would never guess it over on the grounds of our village school this summer.

Very different from the usual vacation silliness, broken only by the piping crickets in tall, uncut grass, with dusty doorways of the school house dangling with cobwebs and the school bell lagging lazily till fall.

Instead of this shouts of children are heard long before one reaches the school grounds—good-natured happy shouts of care-free youngsters enjoying a real vacation, yet at the same time learning lessons of fair play and the secret of mixing with their fellows sociably in team work.

Some are playing ball, some tether ball, that new, popular game of batting the ball around the pole. Some are swinging, some of the smaller ones "see-sawing." A nice, big sand pile is soon to be made where the little ones may dig to their heart's content.

The program of the morning begins at 9:30 with "Chief" Paul B.

LANGFIELDS TOUR
NEW-ENGLAND AFTER
ROTARY GATHERING

With glowing accounts of their eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Langfield have returned from a visit to the annual convention of Rotary International held in Boston. Mr. Langfield was the official delegate from Northville Rotary.

Leaving home June 21 in company with friends from Detroit, the Langfields motored luxuriously in a big Cadillac car up along the St. Lawrence river with stops at Montreal, Quebec and other points of interest and after the convention in Boston a complete tour of New England was made. The learned halls of Harvard and Yale were viewed and later, as they motored down the Hudson, they stopped at West Point Military academy.

Altogether they traveled 2,500 miles on this tour, returning July 6. The spirit of the convention was exceptionally fine, says Mr. Langfield, with a feeling of greater friendship between nations expressed by representatives from other countries. This was said to be one of the finest gatherings ever yet held by Rotarians.

Gasoline prices rose this week to 16 1/2 cents per gallon with one quarter of a cent sales tax.

OLD CENTER ST.
BRIDGE IS NOW
HOLE-IN ROAD

Derrick Has Been Erected To Start Work Drilling New Piling

A deep gap in the road is all that is left to remind travelers of the old bridge that stood at the foot of the Center street hill on the gravel road to Plymouth.

Workmen finished removing the old span and occupied their time this week setting up a huge derrick which will serve to drive piling for the new structure.

Blue prints for the new "two-barrel type" structure have not yet been placed in the hands of the workmen on the grounds, they say, but the bridge will be of the latest and most modern structure.

12 TEAMS TO TAKE PART IN
BALL LEAGUESWinners Will Meet in Fall
To Settle Northville
Championship

Under the able supervision of Paul Thompson, the formation of an out-door ball league has been completed this week and the games started last evening.

There seems to be a great amount of enthusiasm over this newly formed organization and from 100 to 120 men and boys will be actively engaged in the league.

The senior league games will probably start at 6:15 p. m. and be held five nights a week. It is also planned to have a junior league. The junior league games will take place late in the afternoon, as soon as the plans are completed for its organization.

The league had to be divided into two sections to reduce the number of games to be played. Each team will play five games over a period of seven weeks, which means a game about every ten days.

At the end of the season the winners of each league will play a three game series for the city championship.

The following teams will take part in the senior league:

League A
Team Manager
Presbyterian, Bob Coleman
Men's Shop, Orlov Owen
Salem, Orson Ahlsson
Baptist L. Q. Carman, Mr. Amerman.

Edison, Jim Green
A. & P. Martin Sommers.

League B
Team Manager
Exchange Club, Ad. Schwenger
Methodist, Roy Clark

House of Correction, Arnold Jaska
St. Paul's Lutheran, Art Schmutz
Rotary, W. E. Forney and Leslie G. Lee.

Maybury, Orin Nalley.

Plans are being worked out whereby a prize or some function will be the award to the winning team. There is expected to be some very keen competition in these games, and it surely is good, clean sport.

The people of Northville who have made inquiries as to why Northville did not have some recreational factors to occupy the spare time of the Northville young men should be most certainly satisfied with this program that will include not only the younger set, but also the middle-aged men.

The following is the schedule for next week:

Schedule
July 14—Salem vs. Baptist
July 17—Exchange vs. Rotary
July 18—H. of C. vs. Maybury
July 19—A. & P. vs. Edison
July 20—St. Paul's Lutheran vs. Meth.

The complete schedule will be contained in next week's issue under a SPORTS heading on the back page of the Record. There will also be the results of the games to date and standings of each team.

DR. E. J. MURPHY
BRINGS MUCH AID
AT DENTAL CLINIC

A different kind of music is heard these days over in the school room formerly used during the year by Leslie G. Lee's classes in music. Instead of a piano, a dentist's chair occupies the center of the scene and the "music" heard is the sound of the drill as Dr. E. J. Murphy works daily for the children of our community under the Children's Fund of Michigan.

Beginning on June 6, Dr. Murphy has worked six hours a day giving each little patient a half hour appointment at a time. He has averaged 65 visits a week, some children having to come for several visits. Many of these have need of dental attention badly and Dr. Murphy feels sure that the future health of these children will be materially improved.

It will be of interest to the public to know that this work is given entirely gratis to those who need this assistance through Senator Couzens' generosity. There are 23 dental clinics throughout the state.

Dr. Murphy has worked for seven years with this clinic, having been located in Plymouth two years ago. The doctor's great regret is that dental work cannot be begun in the first grade systematically and continued each year so as to prevent much of the trouble which it is now too late to correct entirely.

RALPH HORTON

His formal name was Charles Ralph Horton but to his many friends, through the years, he was just Ralph Horton. Born in this community, he returned to it to become one of Northville's best known business men and one of its finest citizens. And now his useful life is closed and no more shall we meet him on our streets or in his store. It was with sincere grief that many heard this week of the sudden passing of our good friend, Ralph Horton. The loss of such men is great and brings a deep personal sorrow.

Always modest and unassuming, Ralph Horton made a distinct contribution to his community that will be long remembered. He did not seek honors for himself and often said to his close friends: "I want to be among the followers and do what I can to help." That spirit marked his life and made him of invaluable service to his fellow-men. The writer knows personally that he often went out of his way to do the little kindnesses that make life rich and worth while. It is these small acts of kindly sympathy that shows the real character of genuine men.

Northville suffers a great loss in the passing of Ralph Horton but his family and friends are left the rich legacy of a life that was constructive and helpful in countless ways. That is a memorial that is priceless. We shall greatly miss his friendly greeting, his quiet, kindly ways but will always remember that he tried to "live in my house by the side of the road and be a friend to man."

A GOOD EXAMPLE

The painting of the village hall is one of the finest bits of encouragement to making a "spotless town" that we have seen in a long while. Just go by and see how unusually attractive our municipal home looks. We look for a lot of our residents to "go and do likewise" in the next few months.

GOING UP!

Business is better in Northville, thank you, and according to traveling men who drop in at the Record office, better all through the state. The coming to town of that miniature Ford plant at Arthur Marz' is going to help some. And it is good to hear the Ambler plant is doing nice business again. Can't keep a good town down. Forward with Northville!

GROESBECK FOR GOVERNOR

Elton R. Eaton, publisher of The Plymouth Mail, is taking considerable good-natured "razzing" from his brethren on the weekly press because of his enthusiastic boosting for Alex J. Groesbeck for governor in 1934. Well, some of us who were not Groesbeck supporters will have to admit that it would be a blessing for the state if he were in charge in the executive chair at Lansing right now.

NORTHVILLE CROPS

If we had it, we wouldn't trade one section of our good Northville land (ten miles in every direction) for a good part of the farming land of the upper peninsula and even a good part of the upper half of the lower, although Frank D. Clark of Novi has just told us that there is a lot of good land up in such counties as Oceana, in the midst of "spotted" farms that run from good soil down to blow sand that, as Frank says, "wouldn't raise a disturbance."

The most pleasing part of our farm observation going north and back was that all seemed to be having a good hay crop and were getting it in in fine shape. In other words, those 90-in-the-shade days were good hay days.

And speaking of crops, even though we have had one tough dry spell, the rains have come again and when fall rolls around once more, Northville and Michigan will harvest a fair measure of good crops and fruit. How many of us farmer-minded people can remember when Michigan had a complete failure of crops? Thanks to our diversified farming, if we lose one, we make up on another.

Some one told us this just the other day. A man who has traveled much from coast to coast said that from a standpoint of happy, comfortable living all the year round, no place in the whole United States beats lower Michigan. That means that Northville, with all its advantage of position, is a great place to live. "Take a bow, Northville."

WHAT IS SCHOOLING?

A little experience up at Isle Royale made us wonder, and wonder some more, if we haven't exaggerated the influences of so much "schooling" and of so much mingling with folks in making people really intelligent and cultured. After all, what makes real education?

Twice we "put in" to a little harbor off Lake Superior where only one family lives. A Swedish father and mother with their six children make their home on a little clearing at the entrance of the cove. Their nearest neighbors are six miles away—by water, if you please, and that's not so easy as talking over the back fence. The family fishes commercially, keeps a neat little store for the summer callers who come, runs a motor boat for fishermen, has a little garden (pitifully non-productive compared to a Southern Michigan one, with its longer season), and makes a little money off two or three cabins where summer visitors, seeking utter isolation, come for a few short weeks.

There is a school in the settlement but the teacher comes for only the school year. In the school are six pupils, a child of the teacher and five from the Swedish family (one has finished the course.) Not much inspiration, you would say to get an education and you are probably right.

Yet when we stepped into the attractive little store and met the oldest daughter of the home we thought she must be just home from college, so well-mannered was she. The father and mother, from their appearance and conversation, might just as well have lived on Main street, Northville, as on that lonely spot where they spent their whole lives. Yet their only contact with the outside world is by radio and the infrequent touch with visitors, including the fishing boat from Duluth, which picks up their fish catch twice a week during the eight months of the fishing season. Once or twice a year they may take a trip off the island but that is all.

Yet the children of this isolated home (it's a long, snow-bound winter up there) seemed as normal as any we ever met, except that the smaller children had the reticence that you find among children anywhere, where the parents stay much at home and the "kids" have few contacts with children of their own age. The boys were especially interested in an airplane that came from Jackson to see J. Adrian Rosenberg, an attorney of that city, a member of our party, who is also an aviation enthusiast.

We ate one evening meal in the home of these island people and we thought then they seemed to have enough of the real education of life to be alert, courteous, intelligent and with many of the attributes of people who have been much educated and who are among people all the time.

We wondered: what is education? We have the formal kind of our schools and we lay great stress on it. Is there just as real an education that comes from living next to nature, from learning the ways of the waves, the storms, the woods and the call of the birds and animals?

Do we have to live in any particular well populated spot to be educated and to get the most out of life? Our Swedish family (and we wouldn't trade places with them for anything) made us wonder.

When and how do we get "educated?"

TRUE BROTHER

(Joe Haas in The Holly Herald)
Detroit's banking mess has raised hob with the rest of the state.

A FAIR SHARE

(C. S. Seed in Rochester Clarion)
One thing is certain, the state administration can't be charged with favoritism in this alleged wholesale prison release stuff—they've even let the wardens out.

OBSERVATIONS

(M. H. DeFoe in Charlotte Republican-Tribune)
Today's rural carriers jobs pay better than the average superintendent of schools. We don't pretend to know much about the Michigan prison snake-up but we have known Ed. Frensdorff a long time and believe him to be inherently honest.

PARTISAN POLITICS

(W. H. Berkey in Cassopolis Vigilant)
We wonder if it ever occurred to State Highway Commissioner Van Wagoner or to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Voelker that their election was due as much to republicans as to democrats. It's a fact anyway. They appear to be so partisan that one would think they didn't know this.

NO RICH MAN'S PANIC

(By R. Perry Shorts, President of the Second National Bank and Trust Company, Saginaw)
This has been no rich man's panic. It has been everybody's depression. This depression has forced the American business back to where it was in 1915. The drop has been from a peak of about 80 billions of dollars of business per year to about 50 billions. This means that all of our economic gains and all of our increased standards of living accumulated since the beginning of the World War have been completely wiped out.

We must now start all over again to build up and help effect the further growth and prosperity of our great country. The one big thing that gives us courage right now is the historical knowledge that our country has muddled through many depressions before, and every depression has been followed by new record peaks of prosperity.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY LOST

(F. W. McGuff in Redford Record)
When Governor Comstock and his democratic nephews were sent to Lansing, the people of the state of Michigan gave them a wonderful opportunity, which has been entirely frittered away.

This newspaper was among the few to support the democratic party, and we wish to rise up now and say that we think our efforts in behalf of the state of Michigan were wasted. Of course we did get a break in the national administration, which has been doing its very best to remedy an inherited condition, and is making an amazing progress.

But the state government has given no real relief to tax payers; instead it has added a burdensome sales tax. It has given no outstanding piece of economic or social legislation, so urgently required by the times. Instead, we have had charges heaped on gangsters, racketeers and their lawyers being close to the state administration. We have seen the governor veto a legal loan measure that was designed to protect poor folks.

We have had the amazing spectacle of the governor becoming the cat paw of the Wall street banking hierarchy.

The democrats can look back now and discover that they misplaced their confidence in the present head of the state democracy. We are quite sure that Comstock will not be re-elected to office and that the brief power he has enjoyed will be cut short when the voters again express themselves. It is too bad that we do not have in the state of Michigan a second party of merit. The government of any state is better when there is a nice balance of power and there is not the over-powering influence of one political group.

Dr. B. H. Douglas tells us that he too, was gloriously seasick riding Lake Superior waters over to Isle Royale. Nice to have distinguished company. "Mal de mer" surely levels the great and lowly.

We don't dance but are glad to see the old home town show interest in the folks who do, by providing these Saturday night events. We all need a little fun and relaxation now and then and these community events help build up a friendly feeling for each other and for our town.

We wonder how many of the folks who voted last fall for the 15 per cent tax amendment would have done so, had they known we were to get this three cent sales tax which will make nearly all of us all pay more than the real estate tax ever took from us. "Chickens come home to roost."

P. A. Johnson, insurance man of Lansing, a member of our Isle Royale fishing party, and our cook, is one of the finest and most faithful men we ever met. We thought this and said it even before he sent us a fine letter acknowledging a copy of The Record, and including this little bit of "appreciation" which we must admit, pleased us: "I wish to compliment you on the very creditable newspaper you are turning out for your constituency. They should be proud of it, and no doubt are." (Yes, Cook Johnson; they are proud of it, for they all help to make it. You would be surprised at the number of folks who co-operate to put out a good Record each week. We are eternally grateful to them.)

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

What are the five best ways to invest your money?

THE CAPTAIN AND THE SHIP

(Joe Stangon in The Delta Reporter, Glasston)
A boat captain was speaking about his stand in the latest state election. Solicited for support of the Brucker administration, he refused flatly. "I'm going to take a chance on the other fellow," he asserted.

"But you were a friend of Brucker's two years ago," he was reminded. "I was and I'm both sorry and ashamed," he countered. "Not only have I lost my money, but my friends also have lost theirs. The administration has failed in the emergency."

"But surely you can't place the blame on the executive. He is only one of several charged with responsibility. He couldn't help it if a world depression set in."

"I'm master of my ship," the captain is said to have replied. "When there is an accident or something goes wrong, the responsibility is mine. It is up to me to do something. The blame is mine if I fail to take it safely to port."

The attitude of mind reflects that of the majority. Its relation may serve to good purpose at this time, except perhaps to point to the responsibility of those who succeeded the last administration, and what is to be expected if that, too, fails to live up to expectations? The public is not concerned with the partisan issues. The majority of voters are neither republican nor democrat. They voted republican during many years while satisfied with the service they were receiving from their elected officials. They switched when things got in a mess. They will again change their vote, giving it to any leader who promises to bring about a change for the better.

Our own viewpoint is that a week in the woods, at the lake shore, or anywhere out in the open would be worth more than a month at the exaggerated Coney Island, with all of its side shows.

Not as expensive, far more healthful, and keeping Michigan money spent right in Michigan's vacation land, the north is to our mind a better way to enjoy a vacation.

Far from the city's "maddening crowd."

SHALL DAUGHTER TAKE A JOB?

With the closing of school comes the sudden let-down from the giddy whirl of a daily routine. Shall vacation be a time of fruitless boredom to daughter with occasional domestic duties?

Here is the opinion of our sister, Florence Riddick-Boys, who has raised four daughters to maturity and therefore speaks with authority:

Many a fond parent thinks he is doing a kindness to daughter by shielding her from the rough winds of business. But is it a favor or a detriment to her?

If she takes a job she learns to discipline herself, to keep regular hours and be punctual; to meet all sorts of people and understand them and treat them courteously; to become somewhat "hardboiled" and not over sensitive and always wearing a chip on her shoulder; to forget herself and take a broader view of life; to overcome petty gossip and petty ways and be more sisterly and sympathetic with other women. She learns how to make a living and that gives her a feeling of assurance and security in life, so that she is not afraid of what may happen to her if those who now support her are removed. She will not be the type to be imposed upon by a husband, for she knows that it is not necessary for her to "knuckle" to any man in order to get a home. She learns the value of a dollar, as one never can learn it unless one has earned a few himself; yet she is not penurious, for she knows money can be earned by the capable and industrious.

To enter a business life may rub off some of the peach bloom, but this lack of delicacy is outweighed by the assurance of capability, discipline and experience gained.

THIS WEEK

By H. H. WHITE

Since my return to Northville for a visit to my in-laws, I have been made acquainted with the "Century of Progress Exposition" now being held in Chicago. That I am using my column as a medium to try and depict in a limited space as well as I can something of what may be seen at this all entraining drama of man's progress and achievement in the last hundred years.

The fair is a most masterful, colorful panoramic creation, and housed in buildings painted with sure and definite strokes, in colors that are gloriously vivid, while the lines of architecture used are simple and direct in the most modern and up-to-date fashion.

One might call this vast outlay a scene of life, with a vivid and dynamic interpretation of mankind's endeavor in all his countless aspects; a pageant-drama depicting the power and progress to conquer the elements and harness them for the convenience, comfort, and happiness of the human race.

The setting of the exposition is most ideal, being along the waterfront of Chicago and the shore of Lake Michigan for over three miles, with the majestic and inspiring background of Chicago's skyline of striking architecture which fronts Michigan Avenue. Nearby is Buckingham Fountain in Grant Park, one of the Windy City's most fascinating spectacles.

At the fair entrance is the Field Museum and within its lofty walls are thousands of exhibits related to Natural History, also there is the Adler Planetarium under the dome of which passes in review the universe in all its glorious grandeur, and nearby is the Art Institute with

"The Cake and The Penny Too"

"Listen to this" and the Man of the House read aloud the following paragraph from a magazine article Sunday afternoon. "It might be a description of Northville," said he.

"And I believe the pleasantest place in the world for a child to grow up is in the New England country, not too near and not too far from a good-sized New England town, able to touch and appraise the swift-rushing modern world he lives in, but be close to the old simplicities still."

What Makes a Home?

The difference between a lovely home and one which lacks both comfort and charm is not so much a difference in the amount of money spent on it, as in the love and interest and taste put into it.

its famous collections of world masterpieces in art and sculpture, and also you will find the Shedd Aquarium with almost every sort of marine life. These imposing structures testify to Chicago's love and admiration for knowledge and culture.

As you leave these buildings you pass under the avenue of flags representing all the nations of the earth and facing you is the great Hall of Science, which is the nucleus of the Exposition, no doubt because of the scientific achievements which are under its roof, with a tower of 176 feet and brilliantly illuminated at night. With a spacious interior courtyard, pylons and balconies it makes a complete picture of sublimity and grandeur. Here in this hall are the epochal discoveries of science, for instance how drops of water happen to be round, how molecules arrange themselves into crystals; from the high tower the mellow tones of the carillon mark the passing of time interspersed with melodies during the day. Here with- in this building you could easily spend a day and come away with a most fascinating and instructive conception of what science has done to make our world a better and more convenient place.

Another building which almost rivals the Hall of Science is the Travel and Transport Building which is 1600 feet long and an unusual feature about the building is that it is not supported from below, but the roof is supported by cables attached to twelve huge steel towers ranged in a circle. Here within these walls and nearby are depicted every phase of railroad transportation and the vital part it has played in the development and growth of the United States.

On the island, which covers 80 acres, is found the magnificent group of the Court of States and the Federal Building. Congress appropriated a million dollars for the government building where you can see on exhibit every department with their various functions and accomplishments, while on two sides of a triangular court, in a continuous structure, is the assembly of exhibits typifying the varied achievements of each state as to agriculture, mining, manufacturing and business.

Then there is the Electrical Group in which are displayed the narrative of electricity and its role and place in the drama of progress, while secrets heretofore confined to the laboratory are revealed in lectures and exhibits. Just one thing alone is worth the visit to this building, the thyratron organ the size of a piano, but combining the volume and musical quality of a pipe organ and a callopie, which displays all the colors known to the naked eye as the music pours forth.

Then you find near here the Agricultural and Dairy Exhibits, which space forbids to say much about beyond the fact that you find depicted the origin and evolution of crops, the history of dairying, done in colors on a screen that staggers your imagination. Also there are five pavilions of the General Exhibits Group, in which you will find a mine reproduced where gems are found, next is a pseudo steel plant, the petroleum industry has a replica of how oil is mined and finally refined; and also office equipment, graphic arts, furniture, and other allied industries.

All these exhibits and many others not mentioned are free beyond your 50c admission. Food is nominally priced; there are sufficient places provided for rest; at night all along the water front are beautiful displays in the water, fireworks; and the illumination at night as the grounds light up is worth the price of admission alone; for I have never seen anything so spectacular. It baffles description. Multi-colored lights bath the various buildings in mellow tints and as you stand on the court in the Hall of Science or on the bridge, as the time comes for lighting up, you see flaming pylons, dancing and scintillating colors, united geysers; and an ever changing series of patterns that go to make up a mystical lighting effect like which I have never seen before and one which I never will forget. I think it would surpass a combination of the Arabian Nights and the Aurora Borealis.

There are of course attractions, such as the bizarre and colorful Jehol Temple, characteristically designed in gold, depicting the treasures from the Lama temples of China; the Lincoln group; Old Fort Dearborn; a reproduced Hollywood; a Midget village; Admiral Byrd's Ship; streets of Bagdad; and some of the foreign exhibits which you pay a nominal fee to see, usually 25c.

In passing I just mention the Hall of Religion, the exhibits devoted to social work and educational pursuits, the General Motors and Chrysler exhibits, and many countless manufacturing and business concerns which have attractive and interesting displays.

There are concessions galore, places of amusement. It should take at least the better part of three days to see the fair, and a week is not too much. Hotels and rooms are nominally priced, also parking places and Chicago has not allowed these prices to be raised beyond what you ordinarily pay for such things.

There is an "Enchanted Island" for children with its magic, puppet, games, children's theatre, and playgrounds where you can leave your children in competent hands as you see the fair.

Truly here is an ideal way to spend your vacation, at a nominal cost getting an unforgettable education and a dynamic visualization of man's endeavor in all its countless aspects in which is dramatized the power of human mind to conquer nature's forces and harness them for the benefit of the human race.

SPORTS

With Ted Watts as the local high school coach next year it is expected that Northville will have one of the finest football teams that has been turned out for several years. Ted is well versed on the passing phase of the game, which today plays such a great part in the success of a team. The high school has some fine material for the coming season, and with cooperation and hard work Northville will really be in "it" this year.

The work being accomplished under the supervision of Paul Thompson on the local school grounds for a recreational center for all is one of the finest actions taken in Northville of late. An out-door ball league is being formed and we will run a schedule of the games each week for the following week, and the results and standings of the different teams to date.

The various golf courses around Northville are doing a nice business. The courses are in good shape, even though we have had quite a few dry spells. Our golf is "terrible," but we get the consolation that taking more strokes than the other fellow we derive more exercise than the "pro" or "near-pro," eh what, dubbers?

THIS AND THAT

We have not been to the World's Fair as yet, but these people who say that it is not worth the money and time to attend make us "tee hee." They mention the "gyp" side-shows and the other immaterial things that one may see without the journey to the Fair. That is probably perfectly true as there is no Fair, large or small, without these features. But the person who is seeking the educational factor of the Fair does not spend money in side shows. These people who are doing the "wisecracking" about the Fair must have forgotten that there is a Hall of Science at the Fair which is worth the cost of the trip to see. To say nothing of the General Motors exhibit, Bell Telephone exhibit, and several others which do not cost a "red cent" to see. It can't be that these people had their minds set on the "bigger and better" features of the Fair.

An article in the Detroit, Free Press editorials of a few days ago stated that the administration was not satisfied with the propaganda written about the affairs at Lansing by the newspaper columnists

Over 2,000 People and Animals Will Appear in Mighty Spectacle, The Dubar, at Circus at Detroit

The Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus, on its Ringling Brothers' Golden Jubilee tour, will positively exhibit in Detroit, July 16, 17 and 18 and a golden opportunity will be afforded residents of this vast territory to see one of the wonders of the world—the renowned royal Puduung graffe-neck women from Burma, the most sensational importation ever achieved by even The Greatest Show on Earth. These astounding Oriental human oddities are not freaks; they are proud members of a proud race, set apart from the teeming hordes of Far East Burma by their high station as rulers and by the visual sign of that exalted rank—their copper encircled necks, stretched to unbelievable lengths by rings superimposed constantly from birth to maturity. Since the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus recently began displaying them—and they appear in the main performance—hundreds of thousands of people will have gazed upon them in awe before the gala Golden Jubilee tour is ended.

Outstanding among the Jubilee features are the mighty spectacle, The Dubar, gorgeous, dazzling, bejeweled reproduction of India's great coronation ceremonial at Delhi, where thousands of potentates with their royal elephants and huge oriental retinues parade for the pleasure of the newly crowned ruler of Great Britain and India, their wealth as symbolized by gem-studded trappings on elephants and horses, by their native forces and lavishly garbed households. Over 2,000 people and animals take part in The Dubar, and its background is opulent and bizarre with imported Hindu temples, tenguas, carved Hindu cars and royal howdahs. The Dubar is the proud achievement of the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus on its Golden Jubilee tour, and it heads a list of features newly assembled that will compel the vast five-ring, four-stage program to be recalled with deep pleasure for a lifetime.

Among them is the Marcellus' Flying Ballet Plastique from Paris; the great Vabanque in his leap of death; the marvelous Con Colleano, returned from his recent European triumphs as the tumbling, forward somersaulting star of the tight wire, the incredible Alfredo Codomo, world's only triple mid-air somersaulting star to a catch; the Wallendas and Grotonas, dome-high tight wire thrillers; the Uyenos, the Yacopis; the Danwells, the Rubios and the Ben Hamids, leading unit-fifty in the quadruple somersaulting acrobatic display, the great Rieffenbach, Walters and Davenport bareback riding stars; Dorothy Herbert, sensational equestrienne; Lucita Leers, aerial gymnast; Al Powell, flying bowknot; Antoinette, only mid-air girl star accomplishing a double-and-a-half somersault to a catch; and longer and more terrific flights from the cannon's mouth, the Hugony sisters, acrobatic punwheels; Maximo, stellar comic of the slack wire, and scores of others equally notable. One hundred of the best known clowns will make merry in the concourse of the world's largest tent.

The great combined circus will arrive on four long trains of 100 double-length steel railroad cars, bringing over 1,000 people, 50 elephants, 1,009 menagerie animals and 700 horses.

Miss Viola Nacker Becomes Bride Of George Grace

The marriage of Miss Viola Nacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nacker, and George Robert Grace, son of Robert Grace, was solemnized at noon on Saturday, July 8, at the home of the bride's parents on the Farmington road.

In the presence of the immediate relatives and close friends, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roy Miller, pastor of the West Point Park Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Dorothy Smith, an intimate friend of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly" previous to the ceremony and played the wedding march.

The bride wore a model of Eleanor blue crepe and a corsage of talisman rosebuds, and was given away by her father at the altar.

Donald Grace, brother of the groom was best man.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served in the church parlors where a dainty color scheme was carried out in the floral decorations.

The happy couple left for a short trip through Canada spending some time at Niagara Falls. On August 1, Mr. and Mrs. Grace will be at home to their friends in their new home, one block from Farmington road on Earl avenue, near Mrs. Grace's parents' home.

Octogenarian Is Honored By Family On His Birthday

Wm. P. Seeley was happily reminded of his eighty-second birthday on Sunday when a family party numbering 15, gathered in his home.

An incident occurred on the day previous and when in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Whitehead and Mrs. A. K. Dolan came to take supper with the Seeleys, Mr. Seeley looked around in vain for the arrival of his children.

On Sunday in small groups they came, each lingering on until the entire family had arrived to enjoy together a bountiful dinner spread under the shaded trees of the lawn.

Included in the party with Mr. Seeley and his daughter, Miss Ethel, were the following: H. A. Seeley, the only brother, of Farmington, a son, Edward H., with his wife and son, Harold and his wife, and two daughters, Ethel and June and son, Raymond, all of the neighborhood of Farmington and Jack O'Doole of Detroit.

Mr. Seeley has lived all of his long life in this vicinity, having come to Northville from Novi town, ship seven years ago. He is in excellent health, tends with pride a fine garden and drives a car. His many friends extend congratulations and best wishes for many more years of happy life.

Just In Fun

The teacher was giving the class a lecture on gravity.

"Now, children," she said, "it is the law of gravity that keeps us on this earth."

"But, please, teacher," inquired one small child, "how did we suck on before the law was passed?"

"I am only here for a little while. I can only say a brief word. I am very pleased to have a chance to say 'hello' to you and good luck."

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

BY LANN PAGE

IN THE days when Marco Polo traveled, trade between East and West was largely for the sake of luxuries and chief of these were the spices and condiments which acted both as preservatives and as stimulants to the "high" flavor.

Today's simplicity of seasoning is made possible by our understanding of spoilage and how to prevent it by proper refrigeration. This, in turn, has made possible the production of shipping, and finally, in the home, it is most important that milk, eggs, butter, meats and fish be kept cold or else they should be brought frequently in small quantities.

Midsummer vegetables, for salads, are plentiful. Be sure to marinate them in a dressing of olive oil, seasonings and lemon juice or vinegar. The small fruits are plentiful and watermelon are abundant this week.

BAPTIST S. S. PICNIC ENJOYED BY 90 MEMBERS

The Baptist Sunday school picnic held Tuesday afternoon at Riverside Park was greatly enjoyed by the 90 members present. A bountiful dinner at noon was followed by an afternoon of pleasure when the little folks waded in the river, the older folks rested or entered into the games.

Races and a base ball game between the older folks and the youngsters resulted in a victory for the latter.

The success of the affair is due to the planning of Superintendent C. B. Turbull, Miss Egan of Westphal and L. C. Carman.

One good, hearty laugh is a bombshell exploding in the right place, while spleen and discontent are a gun that kicks over the man who shoots it off.

A Vacation on Isle Royale

By RICHARD T. BALDWIN

Some Fish Stories

Our vacation story last week took us safely across the cold waters of Lake Superior to our beautiful camping place on the rocky shores of Isle Royale. In this installment we propose to tell you something of the fishing exploits of our Isle Royale party.

Well, friends we learned something about trout streams.

Never before had we fished for trout. (We don't expect to fish much for them again—that is nothing against trout fishing, we just weren't born to be a trout fisherman.)

We had always supposed from what we heard about trout streams that they had beautiful banks, and ran clear and cold, with occasional rapids, over pretty stones. The fisherman to our notion, simply had to spot the deep pools around the curves of the banks, go into the water up to his waist, if necessary, in his "waders," duffly cast his bait into the hiding place of Mr. Brook Trout and then reel him in and put into the creel between layers of green grass. (Most of our party wore these creels with all the air of experts.)

On our first day on Isle Royale we found that trout streams are like people—all kinds. One that we found on Thursday, June 22, was fished in two trout streams as different as night and day. The first one, the Big Siskiwit, we mark zero and we profoundly hope we never have to wade its waters again. (It was as treacherous as you'd find in the wool fishermen, it's okay with us.) But the second stream—the Little Siskiwit—was glorious. It stands as an ideal of a trout stream and we hope some day we can take our family there and let them too catch brook trout from the waters that gave us our first catch of those beauties.

Just to mention that first stream for a minute. There may be trout there but we caught none and if we had, the price would have been too high. The Big Siskiwit proved to be a slow moving stream, set among trees and bushes where the mosses live and where their lesser, but none the less formidable brethren, the mosquitos, make their home. Well, we ruled out that first morning at 5:00 o'clock to do the first trout fishing of our lives on Big Siskiwit. (Big is in honor of the big mosquitos on the banks.) First we donned the "waders" that our "goon" Paul had loaned us from his muskrat trapping days and we looked for "once in a while" real "he-man." Look out, trout, we are coming!

Well the first one on Siskiwit—stream was for us a trap. We caught no fish and few others. Then we came to our deal trout

Election of Trustees.

It was declared that the terms of P. R. Alexander and Fred W. Lyke as trustees had expired and it was in order to elect members to fill these trusteeships for three years. President appointed Charles Dolph and Thomas Carrington as tellers. These tellers were sworn in by Wellington Roberts. John McCully nominated E. C. Langfield, and Thomas Carrington nominated Fred W. Lyke. The result of the ballot was 24 votes for Fred W. Lyke, and 12 votes for E. C. Langfield. Trustee Lyke was declared elected.

Wellington Roberts nominated P. R. Alexander to succeed himself. On motion made by Nelson Schrader, and seconded by Leo Lawrence, that nominations be closed and the tellers instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for P. R. Alexander, the tellers announced the ballot as 36 votes for P. R. Alexander. The President declared Trustee Alexander re-elected.

During an informal discussion, Supr. Amerman answered questions pertaining to the effect the reduced schedule would have on the quality of instruction. The reduction of tuition for the coming year was mentioned, together with the reduced per capita cost for the past year and the coming year.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 9:00 o'clock.

stream. Salute, Little Siskiwit, we shall always remember you kindly!

We came to its beautiful banks and there was clear, cold, sparkling water running over stones and breaking into rapids. It curved around and went its rippling way like true trout streams should. In to its waters we went and friends, when it came time to retrace that lovely trail, back to the boats to return to camp, we had taken a half-score of brook trout—as pretty a fish as swans. We got into one strategic position where we had a big pool ahead from which we more or less deftly brought out five fish—pretty fair for a beginner.

You can imagine that fish supper that evening was a de luxe affair. Trout were the "piece de resistance." Around the camp fire that night, Guide Ackley told us modestly the thrilling story of how he and a Detroit newspaper man and another adventurous chap traversed the length of the island—48 miles—back in June of 1931, taking a whole month to finish the trek. Each carried a pack of 75 pounds, (to start the journey) and at times it seemed as though they would be unable to continue their way through the seemingly impenetrable jungle-like growth. Ackley came close to a watery grave in Superior once when his canoe overturned not far from land. He finally succeeded in getting back to shore but once he came so terribly chilled that he thought for a few seconds that he might as well sink and not try to make the beach.

Coming back to the fishing, let us tell you a real thriller of air-plane fishing. Mr. Rosenberg, as mentioned before, is an aviation enthusiast and also vice-president of Beck-Fornier Flying Service of Jackson. So it gave our party some real excitement one evening when two Jackson men, with whom Mr. Rosenberg is associated, went sailing over the island—and finally dropped down in their sea plane, right smack in the lake in front of us. One of the owners of the plane, E. A. Fornier, and Glen fellows the pilot, were in the plane and stayed over night and gave some of our gang airplane fishing.

Mr. Rosenberg himself drives the plane and went out the first time, dropping the "ship" in Lake Richey, about which the fishermen tell wild tales of big fish—and many. Well, casting from the pontoons seemed to have the proper charm for the pickerel, for Adrian and another of the party brought back some scale-busters and no fool! Then Dr. H. B. Wemburg later went along with the pilot on a flight to Chickensbone lake and he too came back with a smacking catch. Some of these inland lakes are teeming with big fish but if all other ways to lure them fail, just grab an airplane and "Go get 'em!"

Only once did we see any of our veteran fishermen falter. Secretary Earl T. May had had such good luck with the big fellows last year at Lake Richey that he thought it would be fine to tote one of the row boats a quarter mile or so from the Eagle Island to the lake. So the huskiest men of the crowd started with the boat, but so tough was the trail and so heavy became the boat that wisdom finally dictated leaving it and going on, to fish from shore as best we could. Even this way, some fine pickerel were landed.

We must tell you about the big northern pike. This is truth: Our real fishermen got all the big fish they wanted. "Win" Lines brought in five or six while standing on one log, and Editor Canfield did about the same thing from one rock where on he stood. Earl May called it a day lost if he did not bring in two or three messes—May was the most inveterate fisher of the party and waited thrived on it, for his constant good humor and running wit furnished one of the high lights of the outing. Supt. Chappelle (we find that our Record Appellee—Doyle Hyde, went to school to him and speaks very highly of him) was the most judicious fisher of the lot.

"Chap" knows fishing, got what he wanted and then was willing to "call it a day" and go to work on a hook he is writing. With him fishing was an avocation, not a vocation, as with some of the other "birds" of our party.

If we were to remember only one of the many fishing exploits, it would be the thrilling picture of Dr. Wemburg fighting a real battle with a fish that is not supposed to do much battling, viz., a giant northern pike. It was out in the cold water of McCargo cove and the Lansing medic had a real time landing a ten-pound beauty, which seemed to be made unusually gaudy by the gold waters.

Oh, what of the lake perch and white fish? Well, the only chance we had for them was an hour's trolling with a commercial fisherman. What he said was a 15-pound lake trout got away from Claud Ludwig—and was he disappointed to lose that fellow! But that was all. So one morning the motor boat of a commercial fisherman came into our cove and we bought 30 pounds of white fish—right from the water as they were still flopping around.

Then we had one of the greatest meals of the whole trip—bar none. Rosenberg suggested that we broil the white fish over an outside grill. With the help of Cook Johnson and Guide Ackley, the deed was done—

I wonder if Franklin told the boys at London quite as much as he thought he did. There seem to be singular inconsistencies in his pronouncements from week to week. Perhaps they're not timed right. After all, he had plenty to do with calling the conference and one of the first things to be done was stabilization of currency. Anyway he let them know who was boss!

A lot of people seem all wrought up over the fact that several bootleggers in town are still operating selling alley beer and horrible hooch. Why not less talk and more action?

We fought for years for a safe and sane Fourth of July. We've got it! It was so safe and so sane that every one is complaining about it. Can it be possible that it was too safe and too sane? After all it is Independence Day, the birthday of this nation and clamping down the lid too hard takes away the patriotic significance to those we would impress with it, namely, our children. Let my words be taken in vain again. I must add that I'm not advocating the return of giant crackers or other devices that maim or burn those careless with them. This last 4th was just another Sunday to most of us.

The only thing that this expensive examination of bankers for the personal glorification of "Bull" Percora has disclosed is that our lawmakers as a whole are dumb. We knew that before.

Governor Comstock's sales tax is on. Almost simultaneously factories and industries, already having had enough times in national competition, started looking for new sites in more enlightened states. 68 industries with a total annual payroll of over $25,000,000 have so far made such inquiries. Talk about cutting off your nose to spite your face. The sooner we can clean out the dumb clucks at Lansing the better.

A new development is coming out of the fog at London. Managed Currency. Our presidential message didn't actually start it but it pointed plenty of fingers at it, and like someone staring upward in a crowd—soon the whole crowd will stare—will want to know. And Sweden, which has been tremendously successful at it can tell them. Dr. Gustor Cassel, Sweden's Bank economist, is in London. The domand that meal becomes a cameo in memory's diadem. We built the grill, got a roaring fire going and then the white fish were put on that spit. It was a meal fit for a king and like kings we "went to it" and cleaned up, with two and three helpings apiece.

Forgetting the fishing for a minute, a strange thing happened at Chippewa harbor. When we docked, among the little group that came down to see us were Mr. and Mrs. George Matthews, who were spending the afternoon in a cabin there. We met Mr. Wilson, who is connected with one of the Detroit theatres and when we happened to mention Northville, he said quick as a flash: "Do you know my good friend, Chas. Altkman?" Well, of course we do and it was a pleasure to tell him our good friend was "going strong." When we told Charley about it he said with a grin: "Well, Dick, it's a pretty small world."

Next week we won't mention fishing but will try to say something about the ancient copper mine on the island, once worked by the Indians.

Just to give this story a fish flavor to the very end, we borrow this little poem about fishing, borrowed from the editorial column of our good friend, "Doc" DeFoe, of the Charlotte Republican-Tribune. A fellow has no time for hates,

Out fishin';

He isn't eager to be great,

Out fishin';

He isn't thinking thoughts of self

Or goods stacked high upon a shelf

But he is always just himself,

THE CHURCH HAS MISSION TO FILL," SAYS WHITFIELD

"Is the church 'doomed'?" asked Rev. H. G. Whitfield Sunday morning in a strong discussion of this question to a union of the Presbyterian and Methodist congregations at the latter's church.

With great emphasis the speaker answered "No," maintaining that the very fact of the existence of the church throughout the changing history of the centuries is "perpetual reminder that 'man shall not live by bread alone.'"

In no uncertain terms did Mr. Whitfield condemn conciliatory methods of attracting folks to church. "The validity of the gospel," said he, "is what draws hungry humanity to the source of satisfaction."

"It is a remarkable fact," continued the speaker, "that in spite of the breaking up into many denominations during the past two hundred years, the church has made the largest expansion in mission work of its history."

Replying to criticism of the inefficiency of the church, Mr. Whitfield quoted in closing, the word of Theodore DeBaze, to Henry of Navarre, "It belongs to the church, in the name of whom I speak, to receive blows rather than to give them. But it would please Your Majesty to remember that this is an anvil which has worn out many hammers."

St. Paul's Lutheran

In Psalm 119, 97 the Psalmist rejoices: "O how I love Thy Law! It is my meditation all the day."

These words, the Psalmist declares his fervent love for the "Law" of God. Every Christian will join him in this. We are God's dear children, heirs of eternal life. No one shall pluck us out of His hands. All this we know and have and shall retain by this "Law."

What could be more precious than this? May it ever be precious to you and me. By this term there is not meant the Law in distinction from the Gospel. It is the same as when on other occasions we read of the "Testimonies of the Lord," the "Statutes of the Lord," which are "more to be desired than gold, yea than much fine gold; sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb."

The "Law" here signifies the teachings of the Bible, the inspired Word of God, revealing to us lost sinners His unspeakable love in Christ Jesus. His dear Son and the world's promised Savior.

To have this Word of God is our greatest privilege. That it be our daily meditation, should be our greatest delight. By it we have eternal life in Him of whom the Scriptures testify.

Our Sunday morning service will begin at 10 o'clock. The pastor will preach.

Holy Communion will be celebrated on the 23rd of July. Announcement to the Sacrament should be made at the parsonage, on the Thursday evening before.

To all who mourn and need comfort, to all who are lonely and want companionship; to all who love to sing God's praise; to all who can and need a Savior; to all who seek salvation, St. Paul's Lutheran church opens wide her portals and in the name of Jesus Christ bids you welcome.

Christian Science Churches

"Life" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 16.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 43:3): "O send out thy light and thy truth, let them lead me; let them bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 322):

"When understanding changes the standpoint of life and intelligence from a material to a spiritual basis, we shall gain the reality of Life, the control of Soul over sense, and we shall perceive Christianity, or Truth, in its divine Principle."

Church of Our Lady of Victory

Because of the inclement weather of Sunday, July 2, the Summer Festival for St. William's chapel held that Sunday will be repeated next Sunday afternoon and evening, July 16, at the chapel hall in Walled Lake.

The July meeting of the Northville Altar society will be a potluck picnic affair next Tuesday, July 18. It will be held on the spacious lawn of Mrs. J. L. Taylor on the north shore of Walled Lake.

It gives us the proverbial "pain in the neck" to hear so-called intellectual and educated people lose all sense of proportion when discussing religion. It is hard to reconcile the contradictory disposition of some people, who can be so logical on many questions and be so irrational almost always on religion.

Congressman George A. Dondero Tells of the Work Accomplished By Special Session of Congress

According to Congressman George A. Dondero, 17th Michigan district, who dropped in Friday for a visit at the Record office, there were no idle moments during the special session of the 73rd Congress.

Among the more important legislative acts of this historic session, the Congressman lists the following: Agricultural relief.

Home Loan act.

Banking reform.

Industrial Recovery act.

Reforestation.

Arms embargo.

Railroad reorganization.

Shoals act.

Economy act.

Under the agricultural relief legislation is grouped the project for farm mortgage relief, which makes possible the refinancing of farm mortgages over a fifteen year period with interest at 4½%, and the so-called processing act, which has been termed by its most ardent advocates a purely experimental effort to artificially readjust farm prices, just what will be accomplished by the processing act is a matter for time to decide.

Small home owners are given a lift under the home loan act, which provides for the refinancing, under certain restrictions, of mortgages on homes over a fifteen year period with interest at 5 percent. The machinery for putting this act into operation is now being set up and it is expected that a Detroit office will be ready to handle applications on or about July 15.

Perhaps the most popular feature of the banking reform act, known as the Glass-Steagall act, is the guarantee of bank deposits up to certain maximums, beginning January 1, 1934.

Results of the Industrial Recovery act, the Railroad Reorganization act and the Tennessee River Development will depend upon administration and conditions in general. The work of putting the provisions of these acts into operation is now under way.

Much local benefit has already been received through the reforestation project being carried on by the Civilian Conservation Corps under the very capable direction of the United States Army. More than 1,000 young men from the 17th Congressional district are now enlisted in the Civilian Conservation Corps and this has materially reduced the financial burdens of local welfare organizations.

Congressman Dondero was particularly active in his efforts to defeat the Arms Embargo act which placed within the hands of the president the power to declare the aggressor in any war anywhere in the world and bar the shipment of arms to such aggressor nation. Because of the diplomatic pitfalls involved in such a wide-sweeping measure and the possibility of war as a result, prominent leaders and newspapers throughout the country denounced the proposal in no uncertain terms.

While at first criticized for his stand on the so-called Economy act, Congressman Dondero has seen his position vindicated already by the president's yielding to a more liberal plan and by Congress finding it necessary to pass other laws in the same session to modify the harshness and injustice of the Economy act.
