

MRS. WELCH KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

The Mother of Mrs. Floyd Northrop is Victim of Tragedy

Mrs. Jessie Welch, 71-year-old mother of Mrs. Floyd Northrop, and resident of Northville and vicinity for over 50 years, was killed instantly when she stepped in front of a speeding automobile on the Northville-Plymouth highway just south of the Phoenix lake dam Wednesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock.

The car striking Mrs. Welch was driven by Albert Schacks, 35, of Eight Mile road. He was going north toward Northville when the accident occurred. According to his statement to officers, about a mile north of Plymouth Mr. Schacks saw a man, George Dogson, of Plymouth, and his dog walking along the east side of the pavement, the side of which Schacks was driving. At the same time he saw a car parked on the west side. This car in Mrs. Welch had been riding, was driven by her daughter, Mrs. Floyd A. Northrop, and was exactly opposite the pedestrian and his dog. In an effort to avoid Dogson, Schacks steered to the west, and he did so Mrs. Welch, who was going to visit her cousin, Frank Taylor, who lives across the road, stepped from behind the parked Northrop car and directly in the path of Schacks' car. The oncoming automobile struck and killed her instantly.

Besides Dogson, Charles Willett also saw the accident.

The body of Mrs. Welch was taken to Plymouth in an ambulance and later brought here to the Schrader funeral chapel. Services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Northrop home at West Main street. The Rev. H. G. Whitfield will officiate with burial at Oakwood cemetery.

Mrs. Welch was born on Jan. 19, 1862, in Waterford, Wayne county, and spent her entire life in this vicinity.

In 1879 she was united in marriage with Joseph Welch and to them one daughter, Eliza, now Mrs. Floyd Northrop, was born.

Mrs. Welch was for many years a faithful member of the Baptist church and an exemplary Christian character. Her great interest was her home, where she loved to work with untiring devotion. Always methodical and industrious, home-keeping became to her a real art, dignified by her gracious hospitality. Friends were always welcome.

For years the homestead was on the farm now divided into the Buckle and Schacks places on the Eight Mile road. Here Mrs. Welch lived until after the death of her husband in 1902 when, after the marriage of her daughter, she became a domestic and unobtrusive member of the household.

Beloved of the whole community, Mrs. Welch especially endeared herself to a smaller group of older women who grew into friendly intimacy through years of acquaintance. The gatherings of these friends were among the delights of Mrs. Welch's life. At a recent meeting of this group with Mrs. Welch as hostess, two chairs left vacant by the death of Mrs. J. M. Burgess and Mrs. Clara Larking were noted with regret. The remaining members of this company of close friends are Mrs. Jennie Vredenburg, Mrs. Agnes Scott, Mrs. Wm. Corrin, Mrs. M. A. Brumby, all of Northville, and Mrs. Katherine Haman of Montana. In tribute to their departed friend these women will sit together at the funeral home.

Surviving members of the immediate family are: the daughter, Mrs. Northrop, one grandson, Starr Northrop, two brothers, Oliver Lord Northrop, and Chas. Lord of Flint, and one sister, Mrs. Ella Simpson of Chicago.

Mrs. Welch's son-in-law, Floyd Northrop, secretary of the Northville Wayne county fair, expressed the sympathy of the entire community goes out to the family in their grief.

DEAN GRISWOLD IS OUT AGAIN AFTER ILLNESS

For the first time in 25 years the familiar figure of Dean Griswold was missing from the streets of our village for more than two weeks. Mr. Griswold was suffering with neuritis. In all kinds of weather he may be seen going about our business places—and even in zero weather he has never been seen wearing an overcoat. For the first time in 25 years Mr. Griswold's post as sentinal at the door of Northville Lodge, No. 136, F. & A. M. was found vacant. Mr. Griswold has now recovered to the extent of being able to walk down town and greet his many friends again.

DR. HANDORF GIVES DEMONSTRATION OF RADIO AT ROTARY

Appearing before the Rotary club, not as a member of the medical profession, but as a scientific radio engineer, Dr. H. Handorf at the Tuesday luncheon at the Presbyterian church house deeply interested his hearers with his unusual knowledge of radio.

Going first before a big blackboard with chalk in his hand, Dr. Handorf proceeded to draw diagrams of waves, frequency, tubes and a great array of scientific pictures that made the Rotarians wonder how a layman could know so much of the mysteries of sending messages through the ether. Radio is Dr. Handorf's hobby and he has built his own set.

After his explanation of what is expected from his radio, Dr. Handorf showed the company radio sets that he had built. He has run the whole gamut from the early crude sets to the latest superheterodynes. One demonstration that he gave was most interesting—that of using a phonograph record to determine the tone quality of his speaker. The results were very interesting. Dr. Handorf's unusually fine talk, with its unique demonstration, was greatly enjoyed.

In the absence of President Chas. E. Rogers, the vice-president, Percy Angove, was in charge. Guests were John Dayton and Floyd Eckles of Plymouth, E. H. Sadler of Los Angeles, and John A. Boyce.

Russell H. Amerman, superintendent of the Northville schools, was welcomed as a new member of the Northville Rotary club.

PROGRESSIVE DINNER OF O. L. V. CHURCH PLEASURES BIG CROWD

A large company of folks of Northville and its vicinity took advantage of the chance to enjoy a good chicken dinner as well as a unique form of entertainment Wednesday evening when the ladies of Our Lady of Victory church were hostesses at a progressive tour.

Beginning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al. Healey, representing Pennsylvania, the guests were regaled with a bowl of hot bouillabaisse which "hit the right spot" on a cool autumn evening and when the appetite for the delicious chicken pie served by bixton "colored" women in Kentucky, the dining room of the church.

The final course, apple pie and coffee, was rounded up in the former Freydl store, which had been made into an autumn scene in Michigan.

The ladies were well pleased with the patronage of the public which included a number from some distance.

MRS. J. E. G. SMITH'S MOTHER KILLED BY AUTO AT PITTSFORD

It will be a great shock to the friends of Mr. and Mrs. James E. G. Smith, Six Mile road, near Redford, to learn that the latter's mother, Mrs. Henry Perrin, aged 69, died Monday evening, at her home at Pittsford as the result of being struck by an automobile.

Mrs. Perrin was injured on Wednesday, Oct. 4, when crossing the road in front of her own home. Mr. and Mrs. Smith formerly lived at 201 Fairbrook avenue for a short time.

SELF-PITY IS HIT IN TALK TO EXCHANGE

E. M. Stern of New Jersey Is Speaker; Pierre Kenyon Sings

A doubly fine program was given at the Exchange club Wednesday noon. The guest speaker was E. M. Stern, of Newark, N. J., who was secured by Ben A. Baldwin of Detroit.

Pierre Kenyon, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Sherrill Ambler, sang several songs and responded to one special selection which had been called for.

Orlow G. Owen and Scott Montgomery led in a song fest which put the company in good humor for the main treat of the day.

Maurice Lapham was chairman of this program. He introduced Mr. Baldwin, who in turn presented Mr. Stern.

The general topic considered by Mr. Stern was "Merchandising Problems." Mr. Stern counseled the men to quit sympathizing with themselves. "If any of you have a dormant business it is because you yourself are dormant. Worry your business, but do not let it worry you. Your problem is individual and must be dealt with in the same way. Go into session with yourself. Grab your trouble. Solve it. Get ahead. Go down to fundamentals and systematize your thoughts and your entire self. You will then find out why you are not getting your share of the business in your line in your town."

The guests of the day were G. T. Gerst and E. A. Baldwin.

GARDEN THIEVES CAUGHT; PRODUCE STOLEN NEXT NIGHT

A gang of thieves has recently been robbing truck garden farmers in the vicinity of the Six Mile and Newburg roads of their produce. Large quantities of potatoes, beets, cabbages and squash have been mysteriously disappearing during the night.

Saturday a gang of these culprits were arrested. Before Tuesday they had been tried, convicted, and sentenced. It was hoped by farmers that this would serve as a lesson to those addicted to stealing vegetables. However, in spite of this, and in spite of the fact that state police were on guard, the very next night, a similar robbery occurred.

The truck garden farmers are becoming sorely tried and are doing everything in their power to prevent continuation of this thieving.

ROTARIANS APPROVE PLAN TO ASK AID TO BETTER OUR WATER

At the meeting of the Northville Rotary club Tuesday the resolution below was unanimously adopted. Both Dr. Handorf and E. L. Miller in remarks, stated that there was urgent need for an improvement in the local water.

WHEREAS the water supply of the village of Northville is stored in an open reservoir and exposed to conditions which cause its pollution and render it a potential source of disease, and

WHEREAS the village of Northville has not at this time the financial ability to construct a properly covered reservoir and filtration plant to render the water potable.

THEREFORE it is the sense of this club that an effort be made to obtain financial aid as provided in the National Recovery Act for the purpose of effecting a proper and complete remedy which will prevent in the future, the pollution of the supply of water of this village.

OAKLAND TAXPAYERS CAN SAVE BY PAYING BEFORE NOVEMBER 1

Importance of Oakland county taxpayers availing themselves of the opportunity of making a big saving by paying their 1932 taxes before November 1, was stressed by County Treasurer Charles A. Sparks. The legislature has set aside the penalties and interest on 1932 taxes until that date, after which it will be the duty of the treasurer to restore them.

The Presbyterian Church House Will Resemble a County Fair When Harvest Festival Starts

It's autumn. The women of the Presbyterian church know that it's autumn and are very busy getting ready for their annual Harvest Festival, perhaps the biggest enterprise of their whole year's activities. The date set is October 25th when the church house will be transformed into a veritable county fair. As is usually the case, the "fair" will run over into the second day until all of the goods are disposed of. There will be booths attractively arranged with all kinds of fruits, fresh vegetables, farm produce, honeys, nuts, canned fruits, jams, jellies, pickles, and even flowers on sale. And pies! Pies of all kinds will be on sale. Apple pies, pumpkin pies, mince, custard, lemon and berry pies to your taste may be purchased fresh from the oven.

An innovation in the Harvest Festival introduced successfully last year, will be a delicious luncheon, deliciously low in price (20c), which will be served at the noon hour. The Women's Union will have charge of this luncheon. Then in the evening the Nellie Yerkes Auxiliary will serve supper for 25 cents. The reputation for the good cooking of these women needs no stressing, and at this low price a large number should come bringing their whole families. Give mother a day off from cooking.

AUTO CRASH PUTS THREE IN HOSPITAL

Head On Collision Nearly Results In Death For Six

Six people were injured, three seriously, as the result of a head-on automobile crash at 7:45 o'clock Thursday evening, Oct. 5, at the corner of Beck and Fishery roads three miles west of Northville.

Four were taken to Sessions hospital where one was treated and sent home and the rest were detained owing to the seriousness of their injuries.

Occupants of the car driven by Walter Holman, who was returning to his home near the scene of the accident with a party after picking apples, were his father, Joe Holman, Marlyn Schonberger, and Harold Schradec. In the other car, driven by George Lutz of Plymouth, was Leon Gilligan of Detroit.

Although there were no witnesses to the accident, Deputy Sheriff Robert J. Baetz of the Wayne county road patrol, assisted by Deputy Anton Hill, of Melvindale, stated that from the versions given to him by the drivers, George Lutz, driving a two-door coach was on the wrong side of the road and crashed into Holman's car, a sedan.

LOCAL A. C. GRID SQUAD WINS SUNDAY FROM NEW BOSTON

Mixing an accurate forward passing attack with a deceptive running game the Northville A. C. football team completely stopped New Boston for its second victory of the season, 28-0, Sunday.

Ted Watts, former Albion college star, and coach at Northville high school, showed why he was chosen as an all M. L. A. A. halfback while at college. Starting his first game for the locals, Watts galloped 15 yards for the first score and threw tough-down passes to Jack Gillis and Eddie Wood, each going about 20 yards to score. Ted also made four straight tries for point after touchdowns.

Frank Hinchman, versatile full-back for the A. C. team, made the last score on a smash off tackle after going 13 yards to place the ball on the two yard marker. Wolfrom and McCordle were dangerous on all running plays, each breaking through for several long gains. Chas. Lefevre stood out at center, while Gillis, showed to advantage at end. The entire line played a very fine game, holding New Boston to one first down. The local eleven play all its games at home this year and starting Sunday will face the pick of independent teams from Detroit and neighboring towns.

YOUNG MEN RESCUE CAT CAUGHT IN A POLE THREE DAYS

Many young men might take great pleasure in rescuing fair ladies but most of them would never bother to act the part of heroes for anything less. This is not the case with Roy Warner and Merle Fraser.

Wednesday evening as Warner and Merle were visiting at the Warner gas station on South Rogers street they noticed a cat on top of a fifty-foot telephone pole behind the station. The boys brought a ladder but this was not sufficient to reach the top of the pole and Merle who climbed after the cat was forced to go 15 feet beyond the end of the ladder. When he reached the cat he found that its head was caught in a cross tree on the telephone pole. Putting the cat on his back Merle slowly climbed down the pole and brought the victim safely to the ground. Neighbors report that the cat had been marooned on top of the pole for the past three days.

SEVENTH BIRTHDAY OF FIRE TRUCK TO BE SUNDAY, OCT. 15

Northville's fire truck will have a birthday Sunday, October 15. The occasion will be the seventh anniversary of the day when Northville's fire truck truck backed into its quarters beside the village hall on West Main street.

Reinhold Kikken, caretaker of the fire hall and driver of the truck, has put to profit the things he learned at the Cincinnati factory when he was sent there to bring the truck to its home in Northville. Answering over 250 calls at all times of the day and night in its seven years of existence the Ahren's Fox truck has held to a remarkably low cost of operation, states Mr. Kikken. A new battery, one valve spring, and one fan belt are the only evidences of wear that the truck shows.

Elmer L. Smith, now a real estate and insurance agent, who was mayor at the time the truck was installed, stated then that he hoped the truck would look like new in five years.

According to Mr. Kikken the truck is now seven years old and Mr. Smith's wishes are fulfilled. Mr. Kikken has been at the wheel during all of the time it has been in action, and has answered all but approximately five of the calls.

Northville has a smaller chemical truck as additional fire protection and has the services of twelve men as volunteer fire fighters. The men are: Fred Hicks, fire chief, Gary Deal, assistant fire chief, Clayton Walker, John Raymond, Harvey Van Valkenburgh, Herman Kreeger, Legle German, Arthur Mitchell, Arthur Lyke, Roy Matheson, Ed Masters, and Albert Stockman. For fire protection, ask the phone operator for 190.

Councilmen whose names are engraved on the fire truck's commemorative plate along with that of Elmer L. Smith, former mayor, are: Conrad Langfield, Chas. Filkins, Stewart Montgomery, John Walker, Ray Van Valkenburgh, Carl Ely, and Thomas Murdoch, clerk.

Dissenting depositors of the former Lapham and Northville State Savings banks received ten per cent of their total deposits from Elmer L. Smith, trustee of the assets which were allocated to them on the opening of the Depositors' State bank, a merger of the two closed institutions. The sum sent out represents $10,783.16 or ten per cent in addition to the $5,231.95 or three per cent of the total deposits which had been previously sent to the 60 depositors. Thus, a total of thirteen per cent of their total deposits has been paid to the objectors of the bank reopening plan.

"A CENTURY OF PROGRESS"

Back in 1893, on a hot summer day, when the writer was living in the Methodist parsonage at Addison, Michigan, he and the other children of the Baldwin family dug their toes in the dirt and waited for their mother and father to return from the Columbian exposition...

Then we all went home and father and mother brought out little trinkets that in their great generosity and from a thin pocketbook, they had bought for the children. We especially remember one book of colored pictures of the buildings of the "Dream City."

Forty years after that never-to-be-forgotten day in little Addison, the scribe of this column went to Chicago to see the present-day "World's Fair," "A Century of Progress." We got an unexpected chance to go with our brother, Ben, of Detroit, and took along our daughter, Ruth Mary. We were there Friday evening and all-day Saturday.

You get from the exposition pretty much about you take to it. Everything is there—beauty, science, art, pageantry, religion, amusement, the miracles of a modern world unknown to the Columbian exposition and the thrilling story of the slow progress of man's knowledge over a hundred years or more.

They call it "A Century of Progress." Much of what you see is "Forty Years of Progress." Since those days when the Columbian exposition called its millions to Chicago from all over this nation—a mighty unifying force for a day that knew no radio or automobile—we have seen the coming of our modern machine age.

The bizarre buildings impress people differently. Many of you have seen them and all of you have looked over the pictures of those strange, modernistic structures. Their tall columns stretch into the sky like the tall "God's candles" of the desert.

But when night comes on and scientific laboratories shoot a ray of light from the star Arcturus—that ray, they say, started 40 years ago—that floods all the main buildings with their rainbow colors, then one stands in reverence. The tall, vast columns, glowing amber and gold and amethyst in the night, enthrall one. The picture is indescribable.

We gained a bird's eye view of the grounds in a thrilling view from the 628 foot observation tower. There it lay before you—the mighty metropolis, Chicago, the harbor with the fair buildings on both sides, while to the east sweep to the horizon the waters of Lake Michigan. Four states can be seen from the towers.

Coming down from the tower, we set out to see the fair. The previous night we had gone into the Halls of Science and of Religion and seen the General Exhibits building. The first building is deeply scientific and yet gives the average person much to think about. You see the bodies and skeletons and embryos and as a side effect you have the hay fever, can see what is being done to give you relief on that. One seeking the sensation would be disappointed in the Science building but the person who looks on life with any degree of interest, it is a marvelous spot—where one could spend hours of learning.

The Hall of Religion opened our eyes anew to the fact that this is a cosmopolitan world, and that religion appeals in a thousand different ways to different people.

The General Exhibits building is a whole fair by itself. The makers of steel and brass—and the makers of tooth brushes and of silks—will enthrall you with their wizardry.

Perhaps the most impressive event of the morning, from our tower view, was the survey of the court of the world. Viewing some of these, one is impressed with the vastness of the country, the extent of its resources...

ers and the vastness of its resources. California by common consent was given first place. Those boosters out on that unique strip of empire know how to put their charms before the world. Florida, with its lure of fruit and out-of-doors charm, drew much praise. We Michigan people could be proud of our state's exhibit. The big waterfall, set in the center and at the rear, must have been a soothing spot during the hot days of last summer. We liked the trees that Missouri has set up in its division—one of every kind in that state. Wisconsin was a sea of trees and the smell of pine was sweet.

Only a scientific expert could tell adequately of the wonders of the electrical building. Here this invisible force that has changed our whole national life was vividly portrayed in a thousand ways. For example, the exhibit of the Bell Telephone company was truly remarkable. A free demonstration of telephoning long distance is carried on daily, to any one of 54 cities. Fifty people are allowed to listen in and it gave us quite a thrill to hear a woman talk to a friend in Cleveland.

The most restful spot in the fair was the horticulture building with its acres of flowers and gardens. Roses were still in bloom. We had to pass up the transportation building with a half hour's glance. Many call it one of the finest sights of the whole exposition.

"They should pay you to go in there," said the press courtsey man, when we were picking out spots to visit and mentioned "The Streets of Paris." Following the foolish instinct of many others to be able to say: "I saw it," we stopped there, but only for a brief four minutes. It was an insult to decency and it was too bad it had ever had to be publicized by fan dancers.

The most dramatic experience of the trip was the chance to see "Wings of the Century," a vivid piece of pageantry which shows the evolution of transportation from the days of the Indians to the present airplane age. Its spacious stage, with real railroad track and acres of ground, reminded us of the time in California when we saw "Ramona" played in the native hills. With the horsemen running away in plain sight for half a mile and with Alessandro falling, when shot, from a real cliff. Robert Fulford's steam boat moved slowly in front of you and the first train of the country—strange looking objects they seemed, steamed in on the tracks; the pioneers with their covered wagons fought with the Indians as you looked on; the old stage coaches appeared and wild horsemen went tearing across the stage; more and better trains came moving in; came the first automobiles, moving gallantly at ten miles an hour and then the whole parade down to the present day cars that carry you at 60 and 70 miles an hour over the highways. The stupendous pageant came to a climax with the appearance of an airplane on the stage and the whistle of a giant mogul engine that carries the trans-continental train from coast to coast. Only a world's fair could produce such a mighty epic of the evolution of man's travel. No wonder many were turned away.

Mingling all day and part of the night with the quarter of million people, many from distant states, we found a new faith in humanity. Without reserve, it was the finest crowd of "mine run" of folks we ever saw. We saw no drinking and heard only one argument—and that late at night as we started home. The ratio of smokers—for some reason or other—was much smaller than in usual crowds. There were many family parties, husband and wife, father and son, and an occasional swain with his lady friend hanging tightly to him. It was a magnificent cross-section of a great United States and if our economic system is going to smash, we are going to have a happy time seeing the thing blow up.

There are still left 18 days to see "A Century of Progress." It positively closes October 31. It will be something to tell to your grandchildren.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

SOAK THE MOTORIST

(Leonard L. Fenwick in the Wayne Dispatch)

The driver of an automobile is at the present time "the goat" in the matter of taxation. Because of this fact the Automobile Club of Michigan should be given recognition and praise for its intelligent and carefully mapped out campaign to acquaint the driving public with the ways in which it is being unjustly discriminated against.

The average tax per car in Michigan totaled more than $40 last year, while next year it will average more than $50 a car—not including taxes on car sales, excise taxes, taxes on oils, tires, parts, etc., which will even increase this total.

cluding taxes on car sales, excise taxes, taxes on oils, tires, parts, etc., which will even increase this total. This greatest of all states in point of automobile production should be alive to taxes that discriminate against the automobile industry. It is the aim of the Automobile Club of Michigan campaign to cut $14,000,000 off the state weight and gasoline tax bill. They could have the support of the public for their leadership in mitigating an unfair condition.

er money to those who owe creditors, thus "short-changing" those creditors, let us ask this question: is not the deflationary process of a depression just as much a "cheat" for the person who owes to a creditor, and does not the creditor thus obtain, unfairly, more than the original debt intended? The pendulum of variable currency values is always at work, first in the interest of the creditor, then in the interest of the debtor. If this condition did not prevail, fewer people would be in possession of "material" wealth and more would be enslaved by a monetary system manipulated only for the perpetuation of the creditor class.

THE GLORY OF AUTUMN

(Ray S. Corbiss in The Farm News)

With summer definitely past, we are anticipating the days immediately ahead—the autumn, which we consider the most beautiful of the seasons. Others can have the spring and the summer, but we prefer a hundred times over, the October-time with its glorious painting of countryside landscape. With in a few nights that clever artist, Mr. Jack Frost, will arrive with his brush and transform field and roadside into a tableau of crimson and gold and blue. "Don't ignore or overlook Nature as she dons regal robes for fall. Last's baobach fling before chill blasts from the north cover her under a still white blanket of snow. Get outdoors during the days of Indian summer and learn to thrill to the radiant majesty of every tree and bush and shrub decked in colorful garb for Nature's last big party. It will do something to your soul and give you a new zest in living."

THE LEGION PARADE

(M. H. DeFoe in the Charlotte Republican-Tribune)

"I've a parade" a line from a popular song, perhaps tells why a crowd estimated at a million people saw the American Legion parade in Chicago Tuesday. It was probably the greatest parade in all history and was in keeping with the best traditions of the Legion. The 125,000 marching men challenged the depression, and their rhythmic footfalls were notice to the country that American spirit is our greatest asset in any war. Michigan made a colorful showing and brought glory and honor to the state. The nearest that Eaton county figured in the demonstration was the word "Eaton" printed on the side of the Marshall 40 & 8 box car along with the portraits of Calvin and Branch.

BEWARE OF THE DEMAGOGUE

(W. H. Berkeley in the Casopolis Vigilant)

When you listen to an orator, one of those men who has the power to carry an audience along with him as he talks, always reserve your judgment and avoid reaching conclusions until the next day, or at least until in the quiet of your own home you can think over what he said calmly and deliberately. Oratorical ability is a power for both good and evil, and too often it is used by public men for purposes other than the public good. In times of depression one of the greatest enemies of any country is the demagogue.

AN EDUCATED FOOL

(The Linden Leader)

In reading of B. J. Mittlehaier's embezzlement of $3,000 of the Dryden bank funds while acting as a state appointed conservator proves that an educated fool can be a bigger fool than the fool that is born that way. Born and reared in a good home, given every privilege of schooling, and put in trust of a bank he steals a measly $3,000, goes on a jaunt and is caught down in New Jersey, thus disgracing himself for life, not to mention the anguish of heart every relative must endure. Can you picture a bigger fool than he is?

SAVE YOUR OWN MONEY, LAD!

(Emerson O. Giddart in the Utica Sentinel)

Young fellow, if you have gone to work in a factory, save your money. Soups like a discordant note now—but the way the cards are stacked these days, you've got to make good in 15 or 20 years, which is a pitifully short time when it is past. By then you must be able to buy yourself a job if you care to retain your independence. Modern group insurance decrees that in the factory you are all washed up at forty. You'll need some capital of your own when the foreman kisses you good-bye.

RICHARD SHIPLEY TO TEACH PIANO; HOPES TO ATTEND U. OF M.

Richard Shipley, well known accomplished Northville musician, who is now attending the Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti, has announced his intentions of teaching piano lessons in order to raise the funds necessary to permit his entrance into the University of Michigan next fall. He is studying chemistry.

"Dick" was the president of last year's senior class and has been prominent in many local enterprises. He started his musical education some ten years ago, studying piano under the direction of the former Miss Catherine Curtiss (now Mrs. Williams). During this time he has appeared in many recitals. Notable among these was in June, 1931, when he played with Darrall Johnson in two concerts here and in Pontiac. Richard was the accompanist for the boys' glee club when it was first organized by Leslie G. Lee three years ago, and also played for the boys' quartet for some time.

Last year under the tutelage of Miss Grace Halverson, with whom he studied piano, some three years prior, he took up the pipe organ. Progressing very rapidly in that field, he made several public appearances here and gave a concert at Miss Halverson's studios in Detroit last February.

Richard requests anyone interested to get in touch with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shipley, at their home, 511 West Dunlap, or phone 58. He will begin teaching week-ends immediately, and expects to hold other classes during the next summer.

Northville Woman's Club Opens Season With Luncheon

The Northville Woman's club opened another year of activities at its annual fall luncheon held at the Presbyterian church house on the afternoon of Friday, October 6.

Preceding the luncheon a period of informal visiting was enjoyed at long tables, but with each of yellow blossoms were seated the large party of members of the club and a number of guests. The dainty menu was served by the Women's Union assisted by a few members of the Nellie Yerkes Auxiliary.

The president, Mrs. C. M. Chase, called upon Mrs. P. N. Miner to pronounce the invocation. Following the luncheon the women took their places before a very realistic old family album which stood against a setting of trailing autumn vines.

In a characteristically informal address Mrs. Chase welcomed the members and predicted a profitable year's program which will carry out the general theme of progress in America. In the 41st year of the history of the club several radical changes in the club policy will be made, most striking being the change from weekly to bi-monthly meetings and a slashing of dues in two. The two "pet philanthropies" of the club will be as usual the baby clinic and the prizes for the prettiest graduating gowns.

A group of three songs was sung by Mrs. George Turner of Pleasant Ridge, guest of Mrs. Levi P. Eaton, who charmed her listeners with her expressive voice. Mrs. Sherrill Ambler was her accompanist. Then in reminiscent mood everyone gathered, as it were, around the old family album and its pages were turned by Mrs. Wilbur F. Johnston. Mrs. C. C. Yerkes, who conceived the original album idea, went back into the past history of the club in recalling outstanding events during the "reign" of various past-presidents whose portraits appeared in the album.

When the first page was turned the audience was astonished at the realistic portrait, posed demurely in the leathers and curves of the "upholstered era." Representing Mrs. Mary Ambler was the grand-daughter-in-law, the wife of a descendant, Mrs. Sherrill Ambler. Another page was turned and Miss Lucille Callans represented her aunt, Mrs. Jennie Johnston.

In quiet dignity Mrs. Charles L. Dubar sat in quiet goop and feathered boa and out still other pages appeared Mrs. Marvin Sloan, Mrs. Charles Blackburn, representing her mother, Mrs. Martin A. Wheeler, Mrs. Chas. Benton, characterized as "loyalty personified" and Mrs. Floyd Northrup. The latest past-president shown in the album was Mrs. Dayton B. Bunn in modern dress ready for one of her many Sum Mrs. Yerkes united the whole in one long story of the progress of our country during the past forty years. In a very comprehensive review of the entrance of things now become common in daily usage, Mrs. Yerkes pointed out the important historical milestones along these forty years. So greatly esteemed was this effort of Mrs. Yerkes in assembling such a great amount of valuable history that at its close Mrs. John W. Cleaver voiced the appreciation of the club and moved that the paper be placed in the club history.

The members of the club were amazed at what an array of good-looking past-presidents they had had.

In an interval during the presentation of this history the club joined heartily in a few old favorite songs sung in unison and led by

Mrs. Johnston with Mrs. Ambler at the piano.

Again Mrs. Turner responded to a request for more songs and left her hearers in a happy frame of mind by her cheerful rendition of "It's a Mighty Good World After All."

Among out-of-town guests present were: Mrs. Turner of Pleasant Ridge; Mrs. Charles Davis, Detroit; Mrs. Arthur L. Baldwin, Ann Arbor; Mrs. E. R. Young, Dearborn; and Mrs. S. E. Willis, Sr., of High Point, North Carolina.

The club is very grateful to Don P. Yerkes, Sr., and Mrs. E. A. Chapman for their ingenuity and painstaking labor in producing such a unique album.

The next meeting of the club will be on Friday afternoon, October 20th.

NORTHVILLE IS VICTOR 7 TO 6 OVER VANDYKE

Passing Attack Successful; Baldwin Makes Touchdown

Although Van Dyke offered Northville stubborn opposition, the local lads were able to gain a 7 to 6 victory over them. This was Northville's first triumph of the year, having lost her first game to Melvindale.

The first time the Orange and Black team gained possession of the ball they carried it to Van Dyke's eight yard line where they lost it on downs. Neither team seriously threatened the other until the last of the period when Northville resorted to forward passing. After an unsuccessful attempt, Deal completed two passes, one to Porter and one to Nirdler. Both were good for long gains which set the stage for the touchdown. Baldwin plunging over early in the second period for the score. Marburger passed to Bender for the extra point.

With less than three minutes to play in the first half Van Dyke carried the ball to within less than a foot of the N. H. S. goal line, where they were held for a down, then Mantel fullback, went over for a touchdown. The try for extra point was blocked. This ended the scoring for the day.

The game was characterized by frequent fumbles and penalties, Northville losing the ball four times on fumbles. Although Van Dyke also did this several times, she was able to recover. Van Dyke lost 35 yards on penalties, Northville lost 25.

Northville high's forward passing attack ran smoothly. Of the seven passes attempted, four were completed, two intercepted, and one grounded. All completed were good for long gains.

The game ended with N. H. S. in possession of the ball on Van Dyke's five yard line. This was the first home game of the season, and a large crowd turned out to witness it.

WOMAN IS JUST AS CAPABLE IN POLITICS AS MAN

By Evelyn Kimmel

The question of the capability of women arose the other day in the first hour civics class. The point brought up was whether or not women should enter the political field.

Women are as capable of entering the political field as men. Most of them today do not stop with a high school education; they are out to fit themselves for something better.

Men say it is a woman's place to stay at home and care for the family. During this depression this has been reversed, yet the men protest that women are not capable. Ever, if they do stay at home, they are, in reality, the ones who run the household.

There are women who are now in Congress. One of the members of the President's cabinet is a lady who holds a very important office. Many women have also been admitted to the bar.

Last term the P. T. A. sponsored an honor banquet for those students who had worked hard all through the year and had merited being honored. Casting a glance around, I noticed very few boys present and it happened that not one was of the civics class. However, they still think that we can't do things as well as they can.

We have only had woman suffrage for about fourteen years and quite a bit of progress has been made by the women for so short a time.

It is my firm belief that in the near future the ladies will not only hold the office of President of the United States, but a goodly number, if not all, of the Congressional offices.

Advertising is a less expensive method of salesmanship. Use it!

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

We are sorry to say that Ruth Broad has moved to Detroit. It is too bad that any girl of Ruth's calibre has to leave our school.

Marper Harper is merely Mary's pseudonym (pen-name if you'd prefer), and Esther Hartner is only Ethel Inogotto.

Because the Berkeley game was played on Thursday an article urging you to come couldn't be printed. Anyway, we trust that a large crowd attended, a lot of cheering was done, and the boys were victorious.

We hope that Esther Bacon's uncle, the coach of Van Dyke team, doesn't mistreat her for leading that cheer for Northville at the game last Friday. (Esther attends Van Dyke now, you know.) It was our idea, and we'd hate to be responsible for murder.

The truth of these statements can not be questioned. Newspapers keep us well versed on the happenings of the entire world; through encyclopedias we can gain knowledge of

IMPRACTICAL TO ALLOW WOMEN TO ENTER POLITICS

By Arthur Cook

I do not believe this is a question of ability, but rather, a question of whether or not it is practical. It is a well known fact that most great men would not have achieved such a high degree of success without their wives or mothers. However, I do not believe this justifies putting women in congress.

It would be far better for the country if the woman would retain her important position in the home as wife and mother, a position that a man cannot fill. During the last decade when women have been drawn more and more into industries and public life, there has been a marked increase in crime among the juvenile group of the nation. We are told that 75% of all crimes are committed by youths, men under 25 years of age. Many people attribute this situation to the lack of a mother's care and guidance. If women continue to be drawn from the home, will not this alarming situation tend to increase and grow more alarming?

In public offices, especially one so important as congress, can we expect men, strained politicians and statesmen, to allow themselves to be held on a par with women, the weaker sex? Very few women seem to have the quality of leadership, at least to such an extent that they can lead men. This is essential in the holding of public offices. Our constitution was founded, 1789, by men. Since that time our country has been governed by men, and it has prospered. At the time of the founding of our government, and during the time the foundation for our great country was being laid, it was believed that the woman's place was in the home, not in public life. Incidentally, during this time some of our greatest statesmen were born and reared.

Does it seem right that we should, during this time of economic distress and political turmoil, place women in public offices, an unnatural position, when they are so badly needed in the home?

Students Strive For Grades Only And Do Not Care About Subjects

By Alice Boelens

Once again we are struggling through monthly tests with the same anticipation we have every year for a report card which will represent a brilliant student.

Just what else are most students striving for other than favorable grades? Satisfaction after they have mastered a subject? No, I believe the great majority of us wouldn't try nearly as hard if it wasn't for that mark. A mark is just an incentive in education; unfortunately, however, it's usually too late when we wake up to this fact and the realization that all our cramming before examinations didn't get us anywhere. Have we created any good habits during all these years we've spent trying to make Mother and Dad proud of our report cards?

Of course it would hardly be fair to say that our education has produced no returns; but aren't we stupid when our only motive for

COUNCIL TO GIVE DANCE OCTOBER 20

Dancing From 8 Until 12; Admission Same As Last Year

The first dance of the year will be held in the gymnasium by the student council on Oct. 20. No orchestra has been selected as yet. The dancing will take place from 8 until 12.

It was decided to set the price of admission at twenty-five cents per person or twenty cents per person if the tickets are purchased beforehand. The council feels it advisable to have these prices for all dances given throughout the year by all classes, with the exception of courtesies of the Senior Prom and the J-Hop. Roy Carrington, Essie Nirdler, and Mary Harper have charge of the orchestra, decoration, and advertising committees, respectively. As this dance will not be advertised in other communities because Supt. American wishes to experiment with having it mainly for students of N. H. S. and Northville township, the council requests their patronage.

The cheerleaders who were chosen are Sally Richardson and Donald Lanning, the only ones to try out for that position. Pencils with the football schedule printed on them are being sold for five cents and are going very well.

Eleanor Booth, Jane Lester, Aileen Honsinger, Ethel Hartner, Florence Johnson, Madeline Haysstead, Eleanor Grosvenor, and Hulda Gorchow. Both typing classes this year are so filled to overflowing that the Board of Education granted Mr. American permission to rent some additional machines. Already there have been several requests for a place in the class.

BENDER REMAINS CLASS PRESIDENT

Credits Cause Trouble; Angove, After Resigning, Voted Back As Vice-President

Due to a slight disarrangement of Eddie Bender's credits, it was thought for a time that the junior class would have to elect a new president because Eddie wasn't a junior. However, at a meeting last Tuesday they voted to let him remain the class executive. As it is their custom to select two candidates before voting it was necessary for Edward Angove to resign from the vice-presidency in order to run against Bender. (This wanted him for the second candidate, and he couldn't run if he already held an office.) The voting was done by ballot, Bender receiving a majority large enough to retain him. Immediately following, an oral vote was taken to put Edward Angove back into the office he held previously—that of vice-president. It was unanimous.

In thanking the class, Bender said, "I want to thank all you who voted for me the second time. Now that I know you are back of me, I'll double my efforts to make you a good president and leader."

"Although both boys are capable of filling this office well, probably this was the best thing to do, for Bender has been doing fine work and no cause for his recall was apparent."

ONE CAN FIND MUCH HAPPINESS WITH A HOBBY

By Vivid B. Cobb
A great mass of people lose the very thing in life they are striving for, because they close their eyes and refuse to see it. What goal supersedes that of happiness in the lives of people? Hobbies offer unlimited possibilities to people for many happy hours and often open one's eyes to life's great possibilities.

In a certain factory a great many people could not understand the continued happiness of one of their stock chasers. Among the clanking of machines at one moment, then to the riveting department to pick up or deliver some stock the next, and so on he went throughout the day. A pretty drab life you would say, but it wasn't so to him. When the whistle blew at night, he would leave the factory with a brisk step and a smile. He was alert to things about him—quite a contrast to the milling hundreds around him, elbowing their way out of the big crowds to be first, if possible, to get away. He didn't mind chasing stock in the factory and I suppose he didn't care so much for it either, but he was tremendously interested in chasing butterflies.

He was making a butterfly collection and he worked hard early in the morning and after work evenings to make the collection as complete as possible. He could talk intelligently about butterflies whenever he had a moment to spare and in listening to him for a few moments, one could sense his unusual understanding of them. To him life was much more than merely chasing stock in a factory. He wanted happiness and he opened his eyes and found a world full of wonders, through his hobby.

Just as this young man found happiness through a hobby so can you and I. Too many times, hobbies are chosen on the basis of merely having something to do. If you do not want to go through life blind to its many joys and satisfactions, choose your hobby as thoughtfully as possible and then develop it. Life will reveal its secrets to those who seek them out.

COMMERCIAL NOTES

One day last week the commercial arithmetic class was amazed by a demonstration of rapid addition by Stanley Taylor. He might rightly be called a "human adding machine." Incidentally, Stanley comes here from West Point Park.

Have you noticed the new "Hello Girls" at the Board of Education office? The switchboard is being taken care of this semester by: Helen Zzyrt, Evelyn Kimmel, Alice Boelens.

trying to conquer a study is to get a mark that will improve the appearance of the monthly report card? Why, it really seems that most of us try to gulp down history or whatever the subject may be and attempt to hold it captive until the test is over and then with great relief, throw up our arms, and let history hurry out again. I wonder why we couldn't enjoy our text books like we do a story book. After we've finished reading a novel we don't have to pour over it a dozen times before we remember a few facts. Maybe if we pretend we have the best story in the whole library when we pick up a literature book we might really become interested and like to read it the same as we like to read fiction. Are we trying to make our subjects hard? If we were just a little more curious and thought less of our marks I believe our cards would just naturally improve and so would we.

BAKE SALE AND CANDY SELLING ARE SUCCESSFUL

The seniors' bake sale turned out even better than was expected. Most of the members of the class had their baked goods in on time and a great many customers purchased an abundance of them. They will have a bake sale on the second Saturday of every month from now until school closes. Their candy is selling well, too. It can be obtained noons and at 3:30. If every other, these two have been, the seniors should have no trouble in going on their trip in the spring.

GRADE NOTES

The children of Miss Ellen Reincke's fifth grade have just completed some fruit baskets for art class.

Miss Selma Jarry's first grade made booklets of "The Three Bears," Virginia Lee and Eleanor Mitchell are new students in that grade. Freddy Williams, of Mrs. Ida B. Cooke's seventh and eighth grades, had an attack of appendicitis last week.

Mrs. Marie Congo's third grade has started their multiplication tables. James LaRue, a member of the third grade, has gone to Missouri for a two weeks' visit. Pupils of Miss Nora Wilson, second grade teacher, are making a seed chart. In that room the children have five caterpillars that have spun cocoons.

Mrs. Grace Hawkins' sixth graders are having a contest to see which student can read the largest number of books during September and October. In connection with English class, the children are making diary booklets which will contain their happenings for each day.

The children of Miss Anne Richards' kindergarten are watching the leaves turn color and are pressing them. The children were weighed last week and are now testing the correct foods which they should eat. They are now making a "Good Food" booklet. The kindergarten has a candy bird which it has named "Dinkle."

Little, Mrs. Philip Anderson, Mrs. J. W. Cleaver, Mrs. Asa Whipple, Mrs. Paul Becker, and Mrs. Martha Egge (teacher). Our school was found to be average. We are going to make every effort to bring our marks up.

Ronald Anderson has just finished a sendable project on Egypt for fifth grade history. We were weighed and measured Monday morning. It was the first time this year.

There is a new arrival in this district. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Whipple have a son, James Addison.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Do you think that sportsmanship is prevalent in Northville? Lemus Coe: To some extent, yes. Perhaps we could better ourselves and show more sportsmanship, but I think, as a whole, most of us do. Edward Angove: Yes, I do. There have been times when we could have shown more sportsmanship, but in general, I think that it is prevalent here.

Anonymous: I thought so until I saw the Van Dyke game, but believe me, I have since changed my mind. I say a most emphatic no!

Gertrude Deal: There is very little. Some of the students display it, but the majority do not. Art Cook: I believe that it is quite apparent among a greater portion of the student body.

UNIVERSITY SENDS TWO WATCHMEN TO PROTECT REFUGE

With the opening of the small game season Sunday, Oct. 15, extra effort will be made in this vicinity to protect the 500 acres of game refuge lying east of the Pere Marquette railroad between the Nine and Ten Miles roads. For the first time, it is reported, University of Michigan authorities are sending two watchmen at the request of Prof. White of the Michigan conservation department, who has done so much good work along these lines in this part of the country. These watchmen will work as aides to the regular game wardens who are active during the hunting season in this vicinity.

A. & P. MARKET HAS STEAK MACHINE

Tendered meat is the boast of the A. & P. meat market these days. With the addition of a Norton PkK machine for tendering meat the A. & P. market meets the demand for the new type of meat which has become so popular recently.

"You actually tender the meat," says Sam Stalter, head of the meat market, "with this new type machine. You don't crush or mangle but really make it tender by the delicate separation of the fibers due to the perfect and gentle penetrating action of the special knives. The machine can be used on liver, smoked ham, veal and pork and many other varieties of meat."

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Mark 10:21). "Then Jesus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest: go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, take up the cross, and follow me."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 23): "Wisdom and Love may require many sacrifices of self to save us from sin. St. Paul's Lutheran EFFECTUAL PRAYER

"The effectual prayer of a righteous man availeth much." Jas. 5, 16. Saying prayers is not always praying. A prayer must come from the heart. Lippincott accomplishes nothing. Therefore James declares by inspiration: "The effectual prayer of a righteous man availeth much." The prayers of the righteous have accomplished great things.

Prayer must be fervent. "Such prayer needs earnest preparation. Therefore Jesus says: 'Thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret.' Seal thyself from the world: Close out the thousand and one thoughts that want to distract your mind. Meditate upon God and His great love in Christ Jesus. If you do, your prayer will be fervent. Fervent prayer means persistent prayer. Jesus encourages us to such prayer by saying: Ask, and if there be no results, seek, and if there be no answer, knock. We cannot pray persistently unless we are fervent, ardent, and convinced that prayer availeth much.

Fervent prayer implies that we ask for something definite. Generalities, often mean nothing. Be specific by asking for this and that blessing at one time.

Fervent prayer implies humility. Pride closes the door to the throne of God. Pride makes us think that we have done nothing wrong. Pride makes us self-satisfied. Only he who recognizes the sinfulness of his life will humbly and fervently plead: "God be merciful to me, a sinner."

Fervent prayer makes us patient in the days of affliction we often become impatient and irritable. We murmur if God does not answer our prayer at once. Some even secretly rebel. Such attitude makes our prayer-life ineffective.

Fervent prayer means that we confidently believe in the power of prayer. We Christians know that prayer accomplishes much. Many say that answered prayer is nothing but the fancy of a pious imagination. But we Christians know it to be a fact that God answers prayer. Therefore let us fervently, earnestly, and diligently seek God in prayer through our Lord Jesus Christ.

THE OTHER DAY

Inga Stamann is spending a few weeks with relatives in Flint. Marian Spagnuolo had Jeanette Coscarelli of Lansing as her guest, Sunday.

Did you see Catherine McKenna's picture in the Sunday News? She was watching the clock. Esther Bacon came back to Northville from her home in Detroit to see the game Friday. Bill Eaton was hostess to a group of her friends Friday night. Helen Fleischer is working part of the time in the D. & C. store. We listened to Buddy Rogers' orchestra for two hours at the World's Fair and would have liked to have listened for another two. Northville high school certainly has a football team to be proud of and much of the credit may be given to Coach Watts. Lucille Cavell has returned to the high school to finish her course this year. Bus Riffenburg has been in Northville for a week—it surely seems good to see him around again.

Florence Johnson is visiting for two weeks in Detroit. We noticed Annie Richards taking her young charges of the kindergarten out for a walk the other day. Peggy Blake is very fond of journalism. Warner Neal reports that he is having the time of his life over at the U. of M., especially in classes.

Willie Rattenbury, also likes school at the University very much—she plans to come home for a visit soon. Our impressions of the World's Fair were—rushing through the Hall of Science looking at bugs and fossils just to say that we had been there—and yet wanting to stay and spend hours in going through it—dodging out of the path of huge Greyhound buses—watching a woman sitting next to us getting hit in the eye with the feathers of the ceremonial headdress of an Indian on his way to take part in the ritual—coming out of the great buildings at the other side and then trying to make ourselves believe that this was the same door we came in the first time—Barbers in the Mohammedan village grabbing hold of you and pouring every kind of perfume all over your coat—pushing our way through the California exhibit and then stilling our hearts at a safer angle on our heads to go on farther into the mysteries of the fair—trying to find the "beauty" of the participants in the beauty contest—listening to the ceremony preparatory to lighting the grounds of

THE OTHER DAY

By Mrs. "19"

In celebration of National Pharmacy week which began Monday, Oct. 9, and will continue until next Monday, Oct. 16, the Northville - Drug Company has on display in its show window subscriptions written by Northville doctors back in 1878.

An old book, the pages of which are yellowed with age, contains the orders for medicines from A. M. Randolph, apothecary. Several of these are signed by Dr. F. M. Johnson and the others by Dr. J. M. Swift, both prominent Northville doctors 50 years ago.

Other exhibits in the display are special drugs and medicines arranged with labels showing the importance of the druggist in the community.

The fair from the star Arcturus—going into the Midge—village—you should see the fire chief—testing our feet while listening to Buddy Rogers' orchestra in the Casino—and finally struggling for a place on the street car for a long ride home. See you next week.
