

NORTHVILLE THEATRE TO OPEN NOV. 15

Bargain Prices Prevail At Wednesday Night Shows

The Northville Penniman Allen theatre will open Wednesday, Nov. 15.

In addition to the cheeriness of this announcement, definitely confirmed Tuesday by Harry Lush, the news that the Wednesday night shows will be held at admission prices of ten cents for children and fifteen cents for adults will create additional applause.

The Saturday evening shows will be held at the admission price of ten cents for children and twenty-five cents for adults. Should the response to the opening of the Northville theatre indicate that a Sunday show would be profitable, or could just break even, Mr. Lush said, a weekly Sunday performance would be added to the schedule.

Opening the theatre Wednesday, Nov. 15, the feature picture "Saturday's Millions," starring Johnny Mack Brown, will be shown. The film has been made from the football serial by the same name which ran in a national weekly magazine. Coming in the midst of the football season this picture has a timely, entertaining value. The plot concerns an All-American player who has been idolized and head-lined to the point where he decides to capitalize on his name while he is still in college. He becomes involved in a maze of situations from which he finally extracts himself. Johnny Mack Brown, himself an All-American football player from Alabama university, takes the leading role and acquits himself admirably.

The Saturday show following will bring "SOS Iceberg" to the local theatre. This picture is one graphically illustrating the dangers that beset polar region explorers and comes widely recommended by movie critics.

"It is our intention and purpose to give two 'bang-up' shows to the Northville patrons each week," said Mr. Lush, "and we hope to be able to keep the show open throughout the winter season."

Northville merchants are planning a Theatre Opening Celebration to be put on opening night. A treasure hunt is one of the features of entertainment and the prizes will be awarded inside the theatre during intermission.

BASE LINE SCHOOL ENTERED BY THIEVES

On Friday evening thieves who were evidently very fond of music and of patriotic tune, broke into the Base Line school house after dark and made way with the victrola and a large, new American flag. What the thieves purpose to do with this strange choice is still a mystery.

At the rear of the building, an empty milk can was found which had been dragged full of gasoline from the Maybury station and poured into the thieves' car. Windows were broken to gain entrance to the building.

No clue was left as to the identity of the thieves although the Northville police was called, the building being on the Wayne county side of the road. Oakland county police, too, are looking into this matter. Suspicion points to the significant fact that the thieves must have been acquainted with the fact that after the gas station was closed milk cans of gas are habitually placed outside the building for the early morning calls of the San. employees.

In the meantime the children of the Base Line school are singing their own tunes and saluting an older flag at their morning exercises. Mrs. Martha Egge is the teacher of this school.

Residents of this section have had their righteous ire aroused numerous times of late by the untimely visits of marauders who have paid their menacing visits under cover of darkness stealing oil, tires, hens and turkeys. Some made so bold as to dig up a large potato patch and sort out the good spud, leaving the small ones.

A tendency to be lenient has been overcome when it has been discovered in some cases that the goods have been sold out of state.

BASE LINE SCHOOL

Marie Becker had one hundred in spelling last month.

Some one broke into our school house last week and took our phonograph, our new flag and other things.

ROGERS FEELS QUAKE ON COAST

After climbing into his bed at his hotel in Berkeley, Calif., Chas. E. Rogers had the unique experience of being rocked to sleep by "up-and-down" tremors. Without warning, down came the window which he had just raised. No serious damage was done and Mr. Rogers slept on.

While in Berkeley Mr. Rogers had the pleasure of seeing the football game between the University of Southern California and the University of California.

17 WORKERS AID RED CROSS DRIVE

Seventeen workers are covering the village this week, beginning Nov. 1, taking memberships for the Red Cross. The town has been divided into sections so that no part will be missed.

The public is reminded that the memberships are one dollar, one-half of which remains here for local needs, of which there will be many this coming winter.

An additional responsibility taken up by the local Red Cross is the Baby Clinic which extends the privilege of free consultation for mothers of babies conducted by a child specialist, Dr. M. J. Brady of Detroit. This clinic is held each month in the village hall.

BOWLING GAMES ATTRACT MANY

"Let's bowl!" is the slogan that has taken the place of bridge playing in many Northville homes recently.

Both men and women are flocking to the Recreation Alley, the men because they know bowling to be a pleasant form of recreation and the women because they have only just discovered it here and find it valuable in keeping fit.

Thursday evening, the A. and P. Juniors took two games from the Poolroom team and the A. and P. Seniors took all three games from the Edison outfit. Although many women turned out Tuesday evening, Ladies' night, no scheduled games were played. The duel between the Northville Girls' team and the Maybury Sanatorium Girls' team will be resumed next week.

Monday evening a new team took the floor—the Methodist. Young Men's team—and proceeded to take two games from the Twin Pines bowling team. Booth's Golf Course team took two games from a House team on the same evening. Wednesday evening the Recreation team defeated the A. and P. Seniors by coupling two out of three games and the strong De-Ho-Co team dropped two games to the Maybury Sanatorium squad.

Following are the game results:

Thursday, Oct. 26
Pool Room	912 919 836
A. & P. Juniors	924 902 845
A. & P. Seniors	881 853 874

Andrew Fritz holds the week's three-game high with a score of 351 and he has also tied Dr. A. A. Holcomb's score of 233 for high single.

1,500 Lutherans Gather Sunday For the First Memorial Service At Beautiful Glen Eden Park

With hazy skies of a perfect October day as a canopy, a company of 1,500 Lutherans gathered last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at beautiful Glen Eden Memorial park on the Eight Mile road for the first annual memorial service, sponsored by 24 Lutheran churches of Detroit.

With the Stephanus mixed choir, directed by E. Busse, and the speakers sitting on a raised platform and the audience gathered in improvised seats in front and a large number standing, all out in the open, with a fall breeze blowing, the service was most impressive.

Rev. F. A. Hertwig of Getsemane church read the scriptures and Rev. O. Reuss gave the memorial address, which was an eloquent tribute to the faith of the Christian in the life immortal. Standing within reach of the last resting place of members of the Lutheran churches of Detroit, his appeal made a deep impression on all.

NEW HEAD IS APPOINTED TO FISHERY HERE

E. R. Widmyer Succeeds Snipes; Carman To Louisville

The appointment of E. R. Widmyer as head of Federal Fish hatchery located here was announced this week. E. R. Carman, who has taken charge since Frank L. Snipes was transferred to Fayetteville, Tenn., has been notified that he will go to Louisville, Ky., within a few days.

The new head of the hatchery who took over his duties on Wednesday, has had charge of fishery distribution cars for the Department of Commerce for the next three years. He will take up residence immediately, his family consisting of Mrs. Widmyer and himself.

Mr. Carman will conclude nine years service here when he leaves Northville. During this time he has capably fulfilled his duties as assistant superintendent. He will leave, he says, probably by Nov. 15 to take over his new position at Louisville.

HEALTH TALKS

The first of a series of health lectures was given by Dr. Ida Alexander, of the State department of health, at the village library Wednesday morning. The attendance was not all that it should have been to have the unusual privilege of listening to such an authority. It is hoped more women, especially mothers, will take advantage of the lecture on next Wednesday morning at 9:30.

The subject this week was "The Body as a Machine," and was illustrated with charts. Dr. Alexander proved to be a most interesting speaker with a wide fund of knowledge of anatomy.

Next, Wednesday, Dr. Alexander will speak on "A Machine Within a Machine," and will go into detail of organic functions.

SESSIONS HOSPITAL

Mrs. Clyde Putnam has been discharged and has returned to her home on the Beck road.

Mrs. Marion Shann of Novi underwent appendectomy, Wednesday. Supervisor W. A. Ely underwent a major operation successfully, Tuesday.

VOLLEY BALL STARTS NOV. 8

The Methodist Men's club volleyball season will open Wednesday, Nov. 8. All members of last year's team are urged to be present.

Meeting will be at church house at 7:30 p. m.

PICTURES ARE TAKEN OF CITIZENS HERE FOR RECORD FILES

W. J. Kimmel of the E. A. Ulman studios of Detroit has spent a major part of the week taking portrait pictures of leading Northville citizens in a temporary studio in the Lapham bank building.

The pictures are being taken for a file for The Northville Record, and will be turned into "cuts" when a noteworthy event occurs to the subject. Anyone who wishes may have his or her picture taken without obligation or charge for the Record files and separate pictures may be had at a nominal charge.

Boy Scout Benefit Show Will Be Held Thursday Evening, Nov. 9, At School Auditorium For Lodge Funds

"Be Prepared!" Be-prepared to attend the Boy Scout show on Thursday evening, Nov. 9, at the high school auditorium when ventriloquists, acrobats, tap dancers, toe dancers, trices, syncopators, vocalists, and a host of other entertainers will parade their talent to help pay for the improvements made recently to Northville's Boy Scout lodge.

Arrangements for the big show are completed, announces Scoutmaster Orlov G. Owen, and tickets may be purchased at The Men's Shop on Main street or from any Boy Scout.

Through the efforts of Robert G. Yerkes, Northville attorney, Donald Van De Venn, prominent accountant, of Detroit, will be the feature headline on the evening's program. Mr. Van De Venn is prominent in musical circles through his popular rendition of both classical and popular numbers. He has won national acclaim and his appearance here is a guaranty of the success of the show.

DR. WILLIS GIVES INFORMAL TALK TO LOCAL EXCHANGITES

An interesting talk on the sixteenth century treatment of the problem of dust and its effect on the lungs was given Wednesday noon at the Methodist church house before the members of the Exchange club, holding their weekly meeting, by Dr. H. S. Willis, medical superintendent of the Maybury sanatorium.

Dr. Willis was introduced by Nelson Schrader, who had charge of the program. Dr. Willis brought several volumes written by physicians at this time which were interesting in the light of modern medical knowledge as compared to the groping in the dark of the physicians of that unenlightened day. Pig bladders were used as masks said Dr. Willis, by workers who were forced to toil where they inhaled quantities of dust which had a detrimental reaction on their lungs. Their theory in that day, explained Dr. Willis, was that the dust accumulated in a stone which remained in the body until it finally killed the subject or caused his serious illness.

The first intimation that illness came from bacteria was revealed in one of the books which Dr. Willis quoted from and said that in all probability the dust contained "small worms, invisible to the naked eye," which were the source of the patient's sickness.

Dr. Willis' informal talk was well received by Exchangers who, at the close of the meeting, extended a unanimous invitation to Dr. Willis to enroll in the membership of the club.

Alex. Milne was a guest.

ODD FELLOWS AND REBEKAHS AT NOVI TO HOLD AUCTION

There will be an auction sale of miscellaneous articles, sponsored by the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges at their hall on Novi road, Novi, Friday, evening, Nov. 10.

All kinds of articles from the factory and field, everything from needles to hystacks, will be on sale. Harry C. Robinson of Plymouth will be the auctioneer. Refreshments will be served. The public is invited. Come and enjoy an evening of fun.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In the write-up of the Harvest Festival in our last issue the Woman's Union seemed to have been given the credit for the success of the enterprise. As a matter of fact young women of the Nellie Yerkes auxiliary worked shoulder to shoulder with the senior society and deserve equal honor. Those acting on the various committees were: Mrs. Merrill Sweet, Mrs. Fraser Siaman, Mrs. H. P. Wagenschütz, Mrs. Masters, Mrs. D. B. Bunn, Mrs. Harold Bloom, Mrs. Arlo Hauger and Mrs. Clyde Schultz.

WOMAN'S CLUB RECEPTION

In place of the regular afternoon meeting which usually would take place this afternoon (Friday) at 2:30 o'clock a reception will be given by members of the Northville Woman's club for the teachers of the Northville schools this evening at the high school.

The reception will begin at 8:00 with the program in charge of Mrs. Arthur Steele and Mrs. E. L. Mills.

SPECIAL—We will sell our delicious home made ice cream Saturday and Sunday at 25¢ per quart. Flavors—Vanilla, Chocolate and pineapple. Royal Ann Cafe, 18-c.

Baldwin of Detroit, is the appearance of Fred Mayer, Mayor City Ventriloquist, who has amazed audiences in Detroit and who has also appeared before patients at the Maybury sanatorium frequently at the Goodfellow club entertainments.

Pierre Kenyon, Northville's, own tenor, will give several numbers and then a trio composed of Mr. Kenyon, Todd Watts, and Cleon Dey, will render several selections. The Drifters, a trio of Northville girls, comprised of Eleanor Grosvenor, Gertrude Deal, and Florence Johnson will also add to the musical program.

CHICKEN PIE DINNER OF METHODISTS IS BIG EVENT, NOV. 14

Whenever autumn leaves begin to fall about this time of the year, the women of the Methodist church begin to get busy on preparations for their annual chicken pie dinner.

This year the date set is November 14. The place, the church house. Northville needs only to be reminded of this event to cause many to save this date for a party of friends, or the whole family, to enjoy one of the best dinners of the year. Such generous individual chicken pies! Steaming hot and bubbling with succulent gravy. Fluffy mashed potatoes, mealy squashes, cranberries, sauté and all the other accessories to a real "company" dinner topped off with apple or pumpkin pie.

All of these things are home cooked and good cooks these women are too. With all the silver polished and stainless freshly scoured, the women are ready to begin business.

One pleasing feature of this dinner is the special arrangements that may be made for serving parties. This is a good chance to "pay off" a few social debts, or, if it seems easier, a group of good friends may reserve a table and have a "Dutch treat."

Mrs. Bertina Neal is president of the Ladies Aid society and is therefore "generalissimo." Mrs. Howard Greer is chairman of the dinner arrangements, with a fine corps of good assistants. The Service League will have charge of the dining room. The price per plate for this dinner is 40 cents. Service will begin at 5 o'clock.

In addition to the dinner a bazaar in charge of the young women of the Service League will offer all kinds of needlework appropriate for Christmas gifts. The Ladies Aid will have aprons of all varieties on sale at this bazaar.

LOUIS CAMPBELL WINS REEM TROPHY AT MEADOWSBROOK

Louis Campbell received the Guy A. Reem trophy a week ago, Wednesday, October 25, from the president of Meadowbrook Golf club, Frank Kenney. If he wins two years in succession he will gain permanent possession of the trophy. He won in match play defeating Haloback, Kenneth Kerr, Mac Kenzie, and Anderson in the finals. Both Louis and Kerr are former members of the Northville Golf team. The tournament was the annual caddy play-off held on the Meadowbrook course.

NEWS ON SUPPLEMENT

A large amount of Northville news of the week will be found on the supplement page of this issue of The Record.

THANK YOU

The Woman's Union and Nellie Yerkes Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church wish to express their most sincere thanks to the many patrons of the Harvest Festival and to every one who in any way showed their cooperation with donations. These societies are especially grateful to the Record office for the publicity which they gave in the columns of the Record.

TOWNSHIP TO VOTE TUESDAY ON PORT PLAN

Special Election Will Be Of Much Interest Here

Northville will take part in a special county election to be held here on Tuesday, Nov. 7, to signify the approval or disapproval of this community to the establishment of a Wayne county port commission.

The township's two voting booths, one at the village hall and the other under Eorten's drug store at corner of Main and Center streets, will be open and in charge of local election officials. There are no votes for officials. The single ballot provided the voters will show space for either approval or disapproval of the port project.

Northville township has approximately 1,500 eligible voters although it is believed that the election turnout will be under this figure.

The purpose of the vote is to give final legal authority to a County Ordinance creating a Port Commission which will be appointed by the governor. The Port Commission will have authority over the promotion and betterment of the harbor facilities of the whole county, from Lake St. Clair, through the Detroit River to the Lake Erie coast of Brownstown. Its activities will cover not only the promotion of harbor facilities, but access to the water front for the freighting of all the industries of the county. Those of the city of Detroit naturally suggest themselves. Most of the townships do not do this so familiarly. For instance, the first big step will be to continue the promotion of the American Detroit River Channel, a deep water channel hugging the Michigan shore to make the Great Lakes St. Lawrence Waterway useful to Wayne county when it comes, and to make available factory sites on the water front.

The making of this All American channel will have the result of opening water communication for the glass and deposit of Rockwood, the oil products of the Flat Rock refinery, the industries of Northville and Plymouth, and will develop the township railroad frontiers into factory sites equally accessible to water by motor truck or steam railroad service.

The enterprise is said to be the first substantial contribution to the reform of real estate values which has been suggested since the depression. The Port Commission will not be a new tax-eating body. Its support will require very little expenditure, as the commission will be a non-paid body of competent citizens, drawn from the townships as well as the city.

The two C's of Communism and Christianity are engaged in a mighty death-struggle the Rev. Frank N. Miner, pastor of the Methodist church, told Rotarians at the club's weekly luncheon held Tuesday noon at the Presbyterian church house.

The speaker was seconded by Rotarian John McCully who had charge of the day's program and who introduced the Rev. Mr. Miner. In carrying through the two schools of thought Mr. Miner declared that their major ideals are as alike as two peas in a pod.

Christianity sees justice, the brotherhood of man, equal opportunity for all, the abolition of exploitation of the weak and the social privileged classes. Communism stands for the same thing, said Mr. Miner.

"The two differ," he explained, "in their philosophy and their methods of teaching. Communism is atheistic and denies an entire phase of life whereas Christianity is religious and includes every broad section of man's experience. Christianity does not appeal to force as does Communism but precepts the preaching, the educating or teaching method of putting across its ideas."

Mr. Miner concluded his talk with an appeal to the Rotarians, as a cross section of the leaders of a community, to face the problems of the day and especially that of the increasing inroads of Communism in this country.

A committee in charge of Charles Schoultz was appointed to proceed with plans for a Ladies' Night program to be held soon. E. M. Borgart was placed in charge of a bingo party entertainment. Guests for the day were Ronald Blasley and Art Schwenger.

Land To Form 110-Acre Lake At Newburg Road Was Given To Wayne County By Henry Ford

With the completion of the Newburg Road combination dam and bridge over the River Rouge in Northville and continuing in a southeasterly direction to the Newburg road is under development. A grade separation project, another combined dam and bridge and a small incomplete gap remains to be done on this seven-mile section. This parkway is known as the Middle Rouge Parkway and links up Cass, Benton, Phoenix and Plymouth-Riverside Parks with a beautiful winding concrete drive through natural forests and follows the course of the Rouge River, stated Mr. Hines.

In building a grade separation with the Pere Marquette Railroad the parkway had to be raised to go under the railroad.

A new bridge has been completed and opened to traffic on Beech road over River Rouge south of the Five Mile road in Bedford township. Beech road was formerly a township road and has been taken into the county road system through the provisions of the McNitt Act.

WARM WEATHER AND FOG COME

Northville has awakened each morning lately to look out upon a typical London fog. About 9 o'clock this fog has risen like a curtain with bright sunshine on colorful trees. With the temperature rising to 77 degrees furnace fires have gone out and overcoats have been cast off. California has nothing on such Michigan autumn weather.

SUPERVISOR W. A. ELY HAS AN OPERATION

Township Supervisor Willard A. Ely was taken to Sessors hospital Tuesday where he underwent a very serious major operation. As the Record goes to press the report from the hospital is very encouraging as to his condition. The cheerful supervisor himself adds this message, "I'm going to have pork and beans for supper."

BOYDS RAISE THEM BIG

James and Jesse Boyd surely get the "brown derby" for raising remarkable specimens of vegetables.

They brought into the Record office a 21 pound cabbage and a carrot which would equal the size of about six regular ones. Both of these were raised in the Ford gardens.

COMMUNISM IS A THREAT SAYS MINER

The two C's of Communism and Christianity are engaged in a mighty death-struggle the Rev. Frank N. Miner, pastor of the Methodist church, told Rotarians at the club's weekly luncheon held Tuesday noon at the Presbyterian church house.

The speaker was seconded by Rotarian John McCully who had charge of the day's program and who introduced the Rev. Mr. Miner. In carrying through the two schools of thought Mr. Miner declared that their major ideals are as alike as two peas in a pod.

Church bells rang out in unison, though their harmony was not all that could be desired, and kept some of our good citizens awake. The bells are as successful as coffee in keeping one awake. Fred Pess, the pastor of the Methodist church, went to the trouble of pulling the ropes up out of reach of the young bell ringers, but the Methodist bell rang just the same. It is hard to stop a group from ringing bells once they decide to become musical, so they put a chair under the hole and then fished out the rope and let the bell ring out in chorus with the rest. To reach the bell tower in the Presbyterian church means a climb along the slippery ice roof, but some of the daring ones climbed along the slippery ridge and fastened their own rope to the bell. They didn't think that it was making enough noise so they used another clapper, this to the outside and tried it out greatly elated over the two clapper bell. It's the only one in Northville.

NORTHVILLE SHOWS "PEP" HALLOWE'EN

Hilarity on Big Scale, But Mostly Harmless, Prevails

Northville youngsters took over things in our usually quiet village Tuesday evening. All of the old folks made preparations, or peace offerings, wondering all the time whether they would be effective in soothing the destructiveness of the youngsters. People who would usually have to spend the day after Halloween making repairs are just straightening their cupboards around preparatory to stocking up again for next year.

Gay parades of goblins, Dutch girls and boys, dancing girls and clowns shouting and blowing horns, continued to enliven the streets until quite late in the evening. All the people in the vicinity of Northville must have contributed something to them, for they had apples, candy, pears, cookies—some of them had cabbages, but they weren't eating them. Their parade, continued from house to house, one of them went into the same house twice, but refused one of the pears offered him saying that he had already had one and they were flat. One of the cannons at the school had a wagon for decoration; another wagon full of corn stalks was left on Dr. Johnston's porch. But the massed ranks had nothing to do with that; they were out to have fun, not to destroy property.

Some people thought that Tuesday would be a good time to attend a show; Mrs. T. G. Henry of the Wayne County Training School thought the Redford show would be a good one. It was a funny picture but she lost her sense of humor when she came out and found that someone had deflated all the tires and thoroughly wiped the windows of her car. That Tuesday was a bad evening to pick for visiting, one's sister will be attracted to Joe Reivler. The Reivler family went to the Redford, where Joe's sister lives and spent the evening. What they were going some of the wanderers discovered that there was an actor in the back yard of the Reivler home, when Joe returned the actor was gone and the dog was all the while.

Mrs. Archie Kerr was one of the most astonished people in Northville when she looked out on the front porch and saw a large sign in the shape of a barrel and it was advertising a well known brand of beer. As Mrs. Kerr is ex-president of the W. C. T. U. she very probably appreciates this more than we do. Right down to that neighborhood some of the busy ones tipped over the ticket offices at the fair grounds probably with the idea in mind that the Fair Association would have to put someone to work—even the pranksters are backing the NRA.

The children who visited Orchard Heights were very fortunate, especially if they stopped at the home of William Forney. Mr. and Mrs. Forney gave away fifteen pounds of candy.

Some would-be smart ones threw something through the windshield of the car Doris Evers was riding in, some of the glass cut Doris' face quite badly.

THE RADIO PERFORMER AGAIN

Last fall Father Chas. E. Coughlin in one of his strange radio talks gave the impression that he was speaking for the government of the United States. We wonder what has happened to his "stand-in" with the capital. Last week he made a violent attack on the NRA. We just wonder how the secretary of the treasury, for whom the radio performer assumed to speak last fall, thinks of him now.

NORTHVILLE'S POSSIBILITIES

Standing alongside a prominent citizen at the football game last Thursday afternoon we saw him look up at the surrounding hills and heard him say: "Northville has wonderful possibilities. We have just about everything that a small town could want. Look at those football boys of ours playing on as good a field as you find at colleges. Here we are in the prettiest spot of all Wayne county. More people are coming out from Detroit to live here—and it seems to me we have the finest chances of any town in this whole part of the world."

And this man is right. Given the proper leadership, Northville will make a steady and fine growth and be more and more what it is now, one of the "show places" of suburban life around Detroit. We have the ideal location and once these things straighten out, Northville is bound to boom.

Main street is our weakest spot. Dating back as it does, for nearly a century, it needs a touch of new life. It seems to us that it is inevitable that sooner or later, it will have to be widened and made a real boulevard of business. Detroit can widen its Woodward avenue, Northville can widen its Main street and give a chance for business to expand. There are hundreds of suburban towns, specially on both of our coasts, where Main street is a thing of beauty and where wide-awake and alert business people compete successfully with the nearby big city. What others can do, Northville can do. "Keep your eye on Northville."

"PAY NOW" — "BUY NOW"

"Buy Now" is the slogan of the hour. We are all being exhorted to "buy now" — to start the wheels of prosperity moving. But how are people to buy if they have no money? How would it be to put another slogan alongside this "Buy Now" and have it read: "Pay Now—only a little on the debts you owe."

We got to thinking about this in contemplating the results of two trips Record representatives have made to Detroit to collect overdue subscription accounts. The first day 33 calls were made and after 80 miles of driving the total collected was $6.59. The next full day netted only $3.50. If the full amount due had been collected it would have been a considerable sum. If all these people in Detroit had paid only a small part of what they owe this newspaper, we could pay up some of our debts and before long a whole row of people would be "buying now."

No reasonable person blames any honest person these days for not paying in full. In many cases, due to the way in which we are caught between the "upper and nether millstone," it is simply impossible to pay debts in full. But except in rare cases, everyone can pay a little on an account and that little sometimes means more than the payer can possibly realize. Take those Detroit subscribers. They think the amount they owe this newspaper is small and that it doesn't matter. But if everyone of those called upon would send us 25 or 50 cents next week it would pay the wages of one of our workers.

"Buy now" is a fine slogan. We do need to do this to start industry and business going. But if we should all take to heart more "paying a little now" it would result in ultimate buying.

HE WILL KNOW HOW HOOVER FEELS

"Did you notice that he had a tired voice and seemed weary?" asked a Record reader in telling of the President's radio speech a week ago Sunday.

Without doubt the great burden of the Presidency is weighing down on the shoulders of the chief executive in the same way it crushed down on Herbert Hoover and every other president.

An analysis of Roosevelt's speech showed that his optimism for the success of the NRA is guarded. "We are experimenting," he was frank to say. And the people are beginning to realize that their high hopes of six months ago have not been carried out and may not be realized for some time. President Roosevelt still holds the high regard of the people who believe he is showing great courage and doing all in his power to bring about a return of normal buying. Unfortunately, he cannot do it all alone. He must rely on thousands and thousands of fellow workers to bring in the new era. And among these thousands are hosts of bureaucrats, such as those who have paralyzed our banking situation in Detroit for months. Another bunch of these autocratic bureaucrats must be in the personnel of the Public Works Improvement department which is to spend three billion and three hundred millions to put men to work. We notice that Ann Arbor protests that their project, planned months ago, still waits for approval at the hands of the snail-like movement of the bureaucrats.

With only eight months of his administration completed, President Roosevelt is finding that "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" and that the burden of bringing our country back to good times is a heart-breaking task. He begins to know something of how President Hoover felt, as he battled fruitlessly for the last years of his term to bring about a new day. Unlike Hoover, Roosevelt so far has not had to feel the sting of cruel ridicule and criticism that was poured upon the brave man who now in California undoubtedly has the keenest and most kindly sympathy for his successor in the White House.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

You can spend that dollar no better way than to take out a Red Cross membership.

That N. H. S. football team is "going places." What will it do to Plymouth?

Let's make it a good Christmas — not the kind that depends so much on money. It's not far off.

The Northville Record will give a three years' subscription to the first person who starts a new house in the community next spring.

Having your appendix out seems to be a pretty good tonic. Haven't seen "Nels" Spradler looking so good in months and we note that Don Yerkes is hoping to go hunting while up north.

One way that the state of Michigan can save money is for its officials to stop sending to the newspapers, propaganda from practically all its departments. We have sometimes felt like getting a baling machine for the stuff, the high cost of which comes out of the taxpayers' pockets. Not one paper in ten makes any effort to print this propaganda.

And now the politicians are predicting that they may bring back former mayor, Frank Murphy, from the Philippines to battle Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg for the senatorship in 1934. The democrats want to get Vandenberg out of the way so he won't be running for the presidency in 1936. We wish our chances for living to be 80 years old were as good as Vandenberg's to be our U. S. Senator as long as he wants the place.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

What suggestion have you to improve Northville? (Send them in to the Record.)

THEY SUFFER MOST

(W. H. Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant)

"My mother will be worried to death," said a young man who was arrested before Justice Sweeney on a charge of stealing Monday morning. "It is the same old story. When a young man goes wrong it is always his mother, or his father, and possibly some brother and sisters who really suffer more because of the youth's misdeeds than does the youth himself. If every young fellow, before he goes wrong, would stop to think of the effect it was going to have upon those to whom he is near and dear, there would be far fewer crimes committed."

BETTER TIMES COMING

(Frank Bryce in the Grand Ledger Independent)

The Independent believes that better times are on their way and that 1934 will be better than 1933. This will not be because of the NRA and its affiliates, but in spite of the NRA. Improvements would be now speedier were it not for government interference. Eggs were 9c per dozen just when the NRA came into effect. They are now 50c, yet there has been no governmental ban lifting nor any egg processing tax! And there we are again at the same old starting point. If all this vast experimentation were cast into the deep, deep sea, and the same efforts were made to open our banks — well we'd just think heaven were opening up to us again!

FITZGERALD STARTS IT OFF

(Schuyler Marshall in The Canton Co Republican News)

The 1934 campaign for state office is on. Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state has announced his candidacy for governor on the republican ticket. This is a signal for the fight to begin—more than a year before election. We had hoped that the campaign would not start for several months. There are too many important, even vital things to be settled between now and that time. When men start weighing their public acts on the scales of political expediency, we do not always get the best government. But this cannot be charged up against Fitzgerald alone. Democratic incumbents of state office have been frantically playing politics all summer. Never in the history of the state has there been more evidence of this. Practically every department is busy. Every newspaper is receiving regular bundles of publicity copy from several departments. This is not entirely new in Michigan. It is being carried on to a greater degree than ever before. The question that the average taxpayer can well ask himself is whether men are elected to office to discharge public duties, or to perpetuate themselves in office. There will come a time next spring when the people of the state will have time to reflect on what has happened in state government during the past eighteen months and express their approval or disapproval at the polls.

"THE UNITED STATES has given more consideration to building and loan associations than any other type of an institution and for the very good reason that these associations have accomplished the most wholesome results in thrift and home ownership, and the promotion of these objects is absolutely essential to the welfare of the United States."

The above is taken from an address by HORACE RUSSELL, COUNSEL FEDERAL HOME LOAN BOARD. Delivered September 15, 1933, to Annual Convention of UNITED STATES BUILDING AND LOAN LEAGUE, Chicago, Illinois.

A MONEYLESS CHRISTMAS

(Dearborn Press)

On the money side it will be a sad Christmas for many this year. No use denying it. And yet it is so unnecessary. When Christmas began, when it flourished, even in the time of my own boyhood, it was not a financial festival at all. It was Christmas, and everybody was glad, and everybody was busy weeks and months before the time, making this and that, planning this and the other, and all of us together had not enough money to finance one respectably-priced present of this modern time, and we didn't care at all for it was CHRISTMAS.

Oh, how people have come to hate the money Christmas! How we swear year after year that we shall never again go through that paganish rout! That's fine. Maybe we shall all take our separate ways back to the real Christmas—the kind that begins just about now. Anyone with two hands and two feet who complains they can't have Christmas for their children because they have no purse full of money this year, doesn't know what CHRISTMAS is. And they don't know WHEN Christmas is.

ROOSEVELT RESPECTS TRADITION

(Al H. Webster in Cheboygan Observer)

Just how ridiculous people have become, particularly at this time, when they seek to make the "New Deal" cover everything from grave robbery to bank wrecking, along comes a request to President Roosevelt that he put Thanksgiving a week ahead this year, so as to give sales organizations more time in which to promote holiday sales.

If may be good politics for Superintendent of Public Instruction Vecker to hunt to school officials not to stick too strictly to present school laws, and for Auditor General Stack to set aside laws governing our property taxes, as long as they effect his payment of taxes on thousands of acres of timber lands he owns in the upper peninsula, and if must be all right for Governor Comstock to ignore our election laws and our present state administration to scoff at all laws, but we are glad that our Federal government under President Roosevelt still shows a respect for long established laws and, for those cherished things like Thanksgiving, Christmas, the Fourth of July and Labor Day and Halloween and the birthday of our great leaders.

WHAT A MESS WE MADE OF IT

(Grand Rapids Press)

When the people of Michigan went to the polls last April they made one of the worst messes of the use of the ballot they have ever made. They defeated Grover C. Dillman, then state highway commissioner, and put in his place young Mr. Van Wagoner, a fire young man whose first idea is that he is a democrat and must show up all republicans whose second idea is that he is a democrat and must replace with democrats all republicans in his department, and whose third idea is that he is a democrat and nothing else but.

What has been the result of the election of Mr. Van Wagoner, democrat? The first result is that because Mr. Van Wagoner could see nothing good in the work of his predecessor, he must change all the plans and specifications of work laid out with the ultimate result that while Uncle Sam has allotted about $12,750,000 to Michigan to be used in public works and while had Mr. Dillman's specifications been accepted and the work pushed as he had planned we might have had under way long ago some $3,500,000 worth of work. We have actually taken on only $1,600,000 of this and meantime are carrying that additional burden on our welfare rolls.

The result was so calamitous that even the democratic administration in Washington saw fit to verbally chastise Michigan for failure to get busy and find ourselves 27th in the list of states instead of one, two and three as we always have been heretofore.

Not is that all the results we have had from our hallooting for this one office last spring. Here are the officials who go to Lansing to try to get South Division Ave. into decent condition for winter traffic. Our officials are abused, sworn at, treated like—rather worse—than bank bandits and get nothing whatsoever. Nor are Grand Rapids officials alone thus treated. The complaint is general throughout the state that instead of getting aid from the highway department, they get only curses and abuse.

Whatever fault's may ever have been laid at the door of "Fete" Dillman, this sort of thing was never one of them.

Obituary

MRS. ROBERT J. GIBSON

Mrs. Robert J. Gibson passed away Oct. 22, at the University hospital, Ann Arbor, after a long illness.

Helen Elizabeth Smith was born in Plymouth, May 1, 1894. She was the third and youngest child of Charles Frederick and Lucy Brown Smith. Their old home is now a part of the Detroit House of Correction farm.

Helen received her early education at the district school west of Plymouth and later graduated from the Plymouth high school and the Michigan State Normal college. She taught in the district school which she had attended in childhood.

On Nov. 3, 1915, she was united in marriage to Robert J. Gibson. Mrs. Gibson was an active and a valued member of the Northville Woman's club where she made many contributions which were appreciated by the members. She was always interested in civic affairs.

She was a descendant of several old Colonial families, being brought up by parents of sterling character and high ideals. She was guided by their precepts throughout her life and was a firm believer in the Golden Rule. "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you."

Mrs. Gibson leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Robert J. Gibson, a sister, Mrs. Ada Murray of Plymouth, a brother, Roscoe B. Smith of West Canaan, New Hampshire, thirteen nieces and nephews and a host of friends who will miss her cheery smile and sunny disposition.

The following tribute to her memory was paid at the funeral service which was conducted Tuesday afternoon, at the home by John S. Dayton of Plymouth: "The bare facts of life, as stated, have little significance. Similar facts may be stated of many."

"It is to the attributes or qualities of life, back of stated facts to which we must go for that something which gives to each one a proper relation with family, neighbors and friends. Mrs. Gibson was rich in these attributes and qualities and through them, we continue to remember and to know the departed. We may even say there is no departed since the qualities of life endure. They are remembered and continue to live."

Interment was made in Riverside cemetery.

EDWARD TESKHA

After a long illness of two years Edward A. Teskha died at the University hospital, at Ann Arbor, on Saturday evening, Oct. 23, where he had been a patient for more than three weeks.

Edward Teskha, son of August and Amelia Teskha, who came to this country from Germany, was born in Detroit, Aug. 27, 1884. He was one of thirteen children and is survived by four brothers: Otto, Emil, Arnold and Herman, and two sisters: Clara (Mrs. Arthur Bloom, of Detroit), and Helen (Mrs. Harry Sommers) of Northville.

On Dec. 23, 1908, he was married to Miss Ella Foss, of Northville. To them two children were born: a son, Alvin, now of Hillsdale, and a daughter, Dorris, now Mrs. Aubrey Gates, of Plymouth.

For eleven years Mr. Teskha was employed as inspector for the Detroit United Railway, coming to Northville at that time. Later he moved to the farm four miles west of town on the Base Line road, where for years he conducted a milk route in the village.

He was a member of the Methodist church, a former member of the Foresters and a member of the Cleaners of the Hillsdale arbor.

Mr. Teskha was an industrious man, a kind neighbor who had many friends. His life was quiet and unassuming, his great efforts being made for his home and family.

The funeral service was held at the Schrader funeral parlors, Rev. P. N. Miner officiating. Interment was made in Rural Hill with six close friends acting as pall bearers: Wm. Dickerson, Clinton Lyke, Chas. A. Seckerson and Ed Balko of Northville, R. W. Worley of Osceola, and Herman Ladzick of Detroit.

ARLENE AUDREY CRAIG

Arlene Audrey, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Craig, South Wing street, died Tuesday morning after only a few hours' illness. The baby was born July 12, and was three months and twenty days old.

The funeral service will be held at the home this afternoon (Friday), Rev. P. N. Miner, officiating. Interment will be made in Rural Hill.

One little sister, Patsy, survives. Mr. and Mrs. Craig have the sincere sympathy of all in their loss.

MRS. CHARLES LARKINS

Mrs. Charles Larkins of 622 West Main street, Brighton, died at her home there, Oct. 20, and was buried in Rural Hill cemetery, Northville, Oct. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Larkins were at one time well known in this community, having owned and lived on what is now known as the John Cleaver farm.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and one son, Mark.

E. E. BROWN PAYS SPLENDID TRIBUTE TO MRS. WM. J. COWELL

The following tribute to the late Mrs. W. J. Cowell comes from E. E. Brown of Ann Arbor, former editor of The Northville Record and will find an echo of response in the hearts of many friends:

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 31, 1933
Friend Baldwin:

During my recent illness I learned with deep regret of the death of Mrs. W. J. Cowell. She was a noble, generous woman, just the kind of a wife that a genial and generous small town hotel keeper needed for a help-mate, and the Cowells were very happy through all their married life. Some towns might boast of a larger and finer hotel than the Cowell house, but none were cleaner. The meals were wholesome and bountiful and right now I would be willing to disregard all the doctor's orders for a stack of steaming hot buckwheat cakes with fresh pork and real maple syrup prepared in the Cowell kitchen. Yes sir, I would be willing to continue with blue and Aileen Honsinger had a group of her friends at a party at her home on the Eight Mile road. . . . Alex Milne and Jack Blackburn spent the week-end at the World's Fair. . . . Marshall Hyde was among those of the gang from the post office who spent the week-end at the World's Fair—he also took in the Michigan-Chicago football game. . . . Alex Johnson is now employed with the Twin Pines Dairy. . . . Margaret Norton, Esther Parminger, and Violet Sheppard were among those present at the dance Thursday night from the class of 22. . . . Don Robinson is working down in Columbus Ohio, for a few days—he now lives in Lakeside, Ohio. . . . Dorothy Richardson was in Ann Arbor visiting her aunt Wilma Robertson, from Thursday until Saturday night. . . . Bob Power also spent Saturday at Ann Arbor for the same reason. . . . Greenan's had a large party Tuesday night in honor of Genevieve Hamilton—many of the young folks from Northville attended. . . . We saw Helen Fleischman down town the other day looking sweeter than ever. . . . Ted Watts is spending the week-end in Albion and while there will attend a party of the Sigma Nu fraternity of which he is a member. . . . Johnny Steeneken is a member of the glue club over at Ypsi. . . . Elden Bury seems to be a permanent resident around town. . . . Wish this nice summer weather would last the rest of the year.

A few Northville young folks plan to go to Walled Lake today (Friday) to see Farmington play Walled Lake and also to get the well known "log down" on our opponent's team. Among those present will be Captain Schrader. . . . A certain Northville home gave fifteen pounds of candy to Halloweeners who came to its door. . . . pink tablets for a few days longer for such a feast.

Should all the men to whom the Cowells gave meals and lodging during the years they operated the Cowell House elect to appear in Northville on one particular day, I am sure you would conclude that a large portion of Corey's army had decided to include the village in their journeyings. You will notice I said GAVE—not served at regular rates.

Let's see, what are those lines about "Let me live in the house by the side of the road and be a friend to man?" Well, to my knowledge, the Cowells lived in just that kind of a house in Northville.

"I was hungered and ye gave me meat, I was thirsty and ye gave me drink, I was a stranger and ye took me in."

May her rest be calm and peaceful through all eternity.

"Almost every man can find work if he uses his brains," asserted the man who had traveled a good deal—that is, if he has the ability to adapt himself like the piano-tuner I once met in the West of America.

"Why," I said to him, for we were in a wild, unsettled country, "surely piano-tuning can't be very lucrative here? I should not imagine that pianos were very plentiful in this region."

"No, they're not," said the piano-tuner, but I make a pretty fair income by tightening up barbed-wire fences!"—Portage "a Prairie Graphic

American Legion Auxiliary Party Tuesday Evening

The party given by the American Legion Auxiliary at the Legion home Tuesday evening was a success and the members appreciate the support of the public and the members who worked for it.

Mrs. Eds. Murphy was presented with the quilt.

Royal Neighbors Hold Halloween Party

The members of the Royal Neighbors met Monday evening, October 30, at the home of the oracle, Mrs. Augusta Ford.

After the business meeting which was held in the living room (everybody adjourned to the basement, where a Halloween party was held, nearly everyone being in costume. Cards were the diversion of the evening.

A number of ladies from Belle Isle were guests at this affair.

Scouts Follow Mysterious Lead and Find a Treat

On Monday evening, in the lead of the new Scout leader, Ted Watts thirty Scouts started off on a mysterious hike across country. Through devious paths about the town and north on the railroad tracks the final round-up landed them at the garage of Chas. Scholtz on the Base Line road where a treat of cider and doughnuts was waiting for these hungry boys, provided by Scout Committeeman Scholtz and Deputy Chairman of Plymouth district Orlow G. Owen.

Miss Bebe Johnson Entertains At Halloween Party

Miss Bebe Johnson was hostess Saturday afternoon to a group of 14 girls at her home at 218 West street.

The young ladies all came appropriately dressed in various costumes. The house was decorated with pumpkins, witches and all kinds of signs of Halloween.

The afternoon was spent in playing games and later a dainty lunch of sandwiches, ice cream, and cookies was served. At the close of the party Mrs. Thad Knapp took pictures of the group.

Miss Aileen Honsinger Entertains Saturday

Saturday evening Miss Aileen Honsinger entertained a number of her friends at her home on West Eight Mile road.

For this were in keeping with the Halloween theme. The afternoon was spent in playing various games and dancing, and delicious refreshments were served later in the evening.

Those present, beside the hostess were: Misses Ruth and Gertrude Schmidt of Plymouth, Miss Betty Gordon and Kenneth Woodrow of Detroit, Miss Eleanor Grosvenor, Miss Kathleen McKenna, Miss Sally Richardson, Miss Mary Jane Junod, Sam Lawrence, Kenneth Kerr, Nelson Schrader, Jr., Jason Lyke, Melvin Kirken, Jack McLoughlin, and George Richardson, all of Northville.

Many Parties Are Given By Northville Girls

A number of Halloween parties were given by young girls in the village which for the lack of space we condense.

Katherine Marburger entertained fifteen girls of the 6th and 7th grades at her home on East Main street, Friday evening.

Miss Beatrice Johnson was hostess to more than a dozen little girls at the courtesy of her grandmother, Mrs. Amelia Ford, West street, Saturday afternoon.

Ruth Mary Mills invited sixteen school friends to make merry on Monday afternoon at her home.

Thirty-five Camp Fire girls, nine to twelve years old, gathered in masquerade at the high school gym last Saturday evening and played games. They were chaperoned by their leaders, Mrs. Orlo G. Owen, and Mrs. L. C. Stewart and Miss Gladys Ludwig.

Almea Outthawed

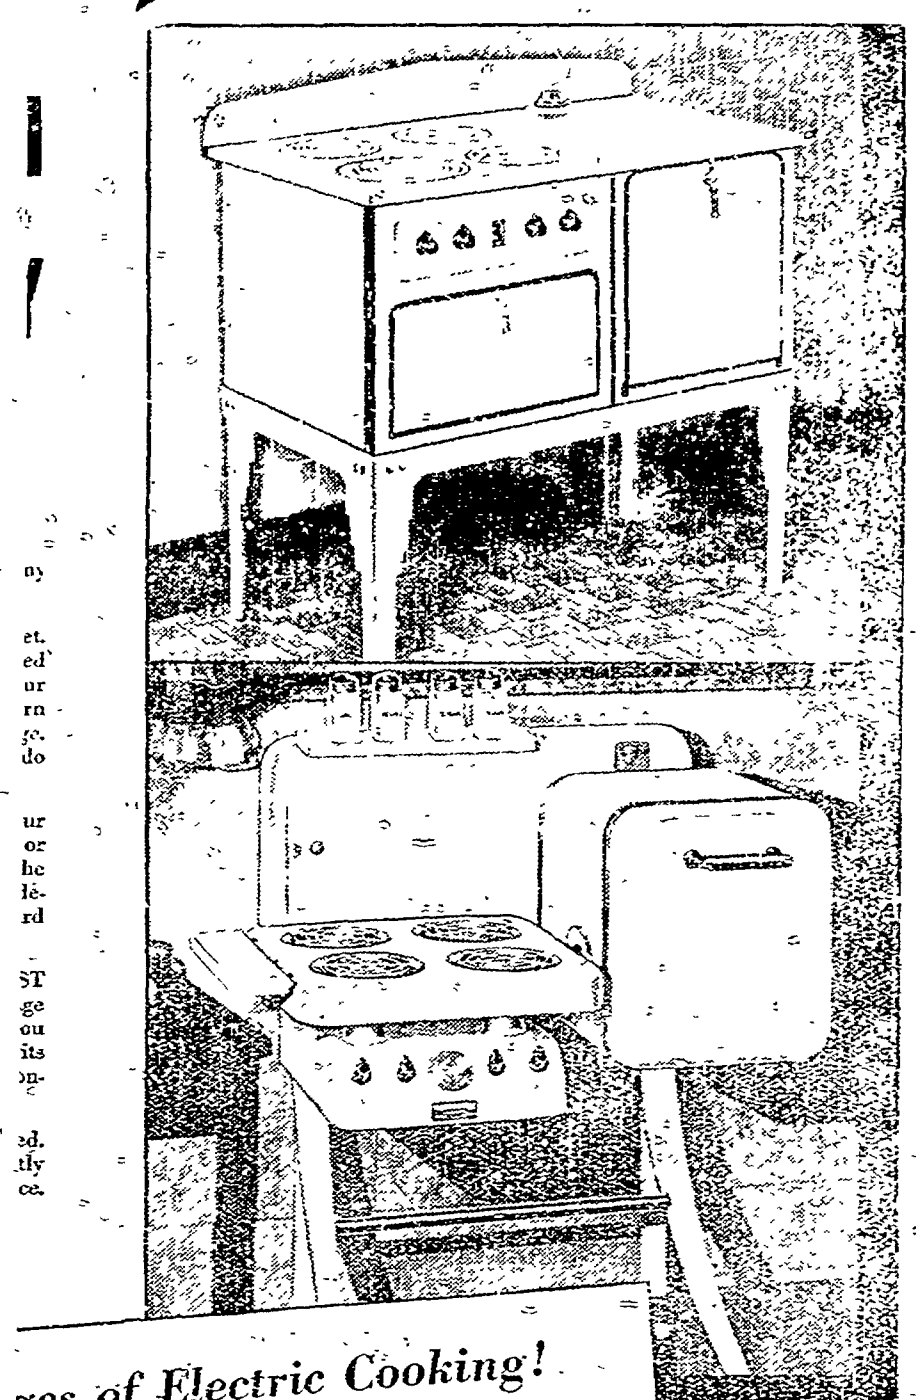

Beverly Elk's Citizen: Almea's disappearance in the ocean and coming up in the desert has had its parallel in Huey Long who was hit in Long Island and landed in Milwaukee.

When Nature Fails

Summer Boarder: "What a beautiful view that is!"

Farmer: "Maybe. But if you had to plow that view, harrow it, cultivate it, hoe it, mow it, fence it and pay taxes on it, it would darned ornery."

a feeling of nervousness to en. They are finished in porcelain of special importance to like to keep things clean.

Electric cooking seals in natural elements in foods. Important minerals stand of being lost in steam. Water is ample to cook vegetables, and there is no flavor-laden residue of water to be poured down the sink when the cooking is finished.

FULL FLAVORED. Electric cooking has a deliciously different flavor—a natural flavor in foods. Meat and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices—and cakes are light and fine-grained, with a uniform, even texture. You must TASTE the golden, fluffy biscuits and flaky pastries that once can bake in an electric oven!

N. McLoughlin Is Honored On His Birthday

When a party of friends responded to the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Washburne Sunday evening they were welcomed by the hostess as the guests of a little Italian girl, "Annie."

The host was "Tony," who proved to be an expert cook and the spaghetti dinner served at the four small tables gay with their red checked cloths and lighted by tapers.

At the close of an informal evening the guest of honor, Mr. McLoughlin, was presented by the hostess with a gift in token of the regard of the party of friends.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McLoughlin, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Nalbant, Dr. and Mrs. H. Burkart, Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Sney, Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Harry

P. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Stearns and the hospitable hosts.

Mrs. Ed. Sessions Is Hostess To New Era Club

The New Era club was pleasantly entertained at the home of one of its members, Mrs. Ed. Sessions, Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 25. A very delectable luncheon was served at one o'clock and the hours following were passed with bridge. Mrs. Sessions' daughter, Mrs. Amy Simmons, of Armada, was a guest.

Pearl Denton Is Hostess To Young Friends

Pearl, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Denton of the Farmers' farm, entertained a merry bunch of eight little girl friends at her home Saturday afternoon. Most of the party came in Halloween costumes and enjoyed a happy time with games, stopping only for "tea" served by the young hostess' mother.

The guests were from both Northville and Plymouth.

Mrs. Dickinson Entertains Get-Together Club

The president, Mrs. Carrie Dickinson, entertained the Get-Together club with a Halloween party, sweet cider and fried cakes being served to about forty.

Only one lady but several men were "lined" for not "looking funny." Prizes were won by Mrs. Howard Hunt and Mrs. Elmer Perkins. Mrs. Oliver Herrick will entertain Nov. 8 with the first potluck supper.

"Try-to-Find-a-Night" Club Begins Its Social Season

Opening their social season with a cooperative supper the club of young married folks were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bloom at their home Friday evening. So busy are these young folks that it was with difficulty that a free evening for this event was found. Hence the new name adopted by them, "Try-to-Find-a-Night."

The usual bountiful supper was followed by a pleasant evening at bridge.

Home Economics Class Studies Home Furnishing

The Northville Home Economics extension class met at the home of Mrs. C. L. Pierpont for its first lesson, Monday afternoon. The lesson was brought from Miss Piess, home furnishing specialist at Michigan State college, by our two capable leaders, Mrs. Marshall Herrick and Mrs. Pierpont.

The class is learning a very practical lesson in how to make old chairs useful and attractive by covering with new upholstery or slip covers.

Look for a notice of the next meeting.

Mrs. Alfred Pattinger, Secy.

Orient Chapter O. E. S. Celebrates 42nd Anniversary

On Friday evening, Oct. 27, Orient chapter No. 77 O. E. S. celebrated its forty-second anniversary with a dinner and initiatory work exemplified by the past matrons and past patrons of the chapter.

Thirteen past matrons and five past patrons were seated as guests of honor at the dinner table where gay Halloween decorations added to the festive tone of the party. Hollowed-out pumpkins were filled with fruit, gayly colored napkins and favors brightened the tables.

For once, all of the members of the chapter were able to sit down at the tables and enjoy being served, the dinner being prepared by Mrs. Iva Brumbridge of Detroit, who was assisted in serving by daughters of the members. The menu was very delicious, the crowning feature being the pyramid cake, made by Mrs. T. B. Henry, which was carried to Mrs. Scott Lovewell, president of the Past Matrons' club, who blew out the candles and cut the cake as she made appropriate remarks.

Following dinner the party assembled in the chapter room where a pleasing musical program was presented by Miss Mary-Jane Denne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman F. Denne, who sang two solos accompanied by Mrs. N. F. McKinney, and Merle Fraser, who contributed two vocal numbers, with Ernest Racz accompanying.

As tribute to the past matrons, the present officers retired from their positions in deference to their predecessors and the work was very impressively exemplified by these to whom years of association with the order had given special significance.

Adding to the interest of the evening was the presence of a number of visitors who were introduced and who responded with well-chosen words. Among these were: Past Grand Patron, Blaine Coleman, and Mrs. Coleman, of Park Corinthian chapter, Highland Park; Past Grand Esther Mrs. Isabel Schumaker, past matron of Park Corinthian chapter, Jack Staller, and Mrs. Staller, president of Wasque county association.

Other guests present were Mrs. Mary Casie, of Detroit, and Mrs. W. H. Caltrone, and daughter, Miss Helen, of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Chubb Smith, of Northville, a member of Alma chapter, Brooklyn, N. Y. was also introduced.

A very pretty tribute of appreciation was the presentation of flowers to each past matron and past patron.

Worthy Matron Mrs. Vance Masters, made the presentation. Included in this row of honorees was Dean Griswold, introduced as the "grand old man" of Orient chapter, who has served faithfully as sentinel for twenty-seven consecutive years.

In concluding the program Mrs. Masters gave a brief summary of the achievements of each past matron during her "reign."

The past matrons honored were Mrs. Georgiana Lovewell, Mrs. Mollie Lawrence, Mrs. Kattie Harmon, Miss Ruth Gillis, Mrs. Stella Stark, Mrs. Celeste Kohler, Mrs. Lydia Fly, Mrs. Lida Murphy, Mrs. Nellie Freydl, Mrs. Dawn Holcomb, Mrs. Hazel Boyden, Mrs. Mary Casie, and Mrs. Catherine Johnston.

Past patrons present were: Dean Griswold, Fred Lyke, A. E. Fuller, Norman P. Denne, and Horace Boyden.

Miss DeLaney Honored At Shower in Redford

Mrs. Frank Perkins entertained delightfully at her home in Redford last week in honor of Miss Ann DeLaney of this place, who will become the bride of Richard Smith on November 15. The affair was in the nature of a kitchen shower and the bride-to-be received many pretty and useful gifts.

Bridge honors went to Miss DeLaney first, and second to Mrs. Glenn Hammond and low to Mrs. Ward Riley.

Miss Floy Jackson and H. H. Bald Are Wed Tuesday

A romance which had its beginning in the sunny South was culminated Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock when Miss Floy Jackson became the bride of H. H. Bald of Pittsburgh, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. Richards at the parsonage at Belleville, the bride's brother, Berton H. Jackson, and Mrs. Jackson, of Birmingham, attending the couple.

Miss Jackson was becomingly attired in a tailored gown of dark blue appropriate for the motor trip which was begun immediately following the ceremony with St. Petersburg, Fla., as their destination.

It was while Miss Jackson was wintering in that place that she met Mr. Bald, a retired business man of Pittsburgh, and through merry competition at the shuffle board acquaintance developed into romance.

Mrs. Bald came from Birmingham to Northville with her parents and sister, Miss Golde Jackson, nine years ago to the home two miles east of town on the Base Line road.

The new home will be established in St. Petersburg. Northville friends extend best wishes.

A pleasant pre-nuptial affair honoring the bride-elect was given at the Jackson home on Monday evening when about twenty friends gathered to extend felicitations and to present the bride with gifts.

During the evening five hundred was played and refreshments were served. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stuart and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Christensen of Northville and other friends from Birmingham and Romeo. H. H. Bald of Pittsburgh, was also a guest.

Lucille Lapham Entertains Merry Party Halloween

Thirteen girls were guests of Lucille Lapham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lapham, at her home on North Center street, Halloween. The basement was transformed into a "spooky" place with all kinds of appropriate decorations and the young folks made merry all evening with games.

Individual pumpkin pies, Halloween cookies and other good things to eat were served by the young hostess' mother.

Baptist Beginners Romp on Lawn At Halloween Party

"What's a little work, when it brings so much pleasure?" asked the leaders of the primary department of the Baptist Sunday school Tuesday afternoon when 42 youngsters in grotesque garb romped happily on the lawn in the late October sunshine and then made their way to the basement of the church parlors for the rest of their party.

Here jack-o-lanterns grinned at them, and all kinds of decorations appropriate to the season made the place fantastic. The kiddies were seated at gaily decorated tables where their teachers served them with homemade fried cakes, punch and apples. At each place was a small basket of candies.

Mrs. Earl Montgomery, superintendent of this department was assisted by her five teachers: Mrs. R. H. Aimerman, Mrs. Geo. Biery, Mrs. M. Nagy, Mrs. Roy Matthews and Mrs. Bailey.

The Murphys Are Hosts to "Buddies" Saturday Evening

Eight members of the Detroit Drum and Bugle Corps of which Chas. P. Murphy is a member, with their wives, were entertained with true Murphy hospitality by Charles and his wife on Saturday evening. Halloween games renewed their youth and whetted their appetites for an appetizing lunch.

YOUR Mouthwash CUT IN HALF... with this NEW reinforced formula

More mouth wash for your money! That's what M-31, the "mouth-tested" antiseptic now gives you. The same pleasant taste, the same safe action—but its NEW reinforced formula kills germs even when diluted half strength. This means that you can get the equivalent of two pints of antiseptic for less money than you would pay for a pint of mouth wash that can do no more than M-31 Solution. Try it.

Something should be done about the distribution of radio programs. The three big stations of Detroit, CKLW, WWJ and WJR are all horrible together. That is if one of them has a woman talking about how to cook steaks, both the others will tell you either how to cook steaks or something at the same hour. That happens every morning from about 9 a. m. to 12. It is intermittent all afternoon until the kiddies' hour starts, then they all blab a horrible line of stuff together. A program that really interests the children is a fine thing, but—there are adults whose children are too old for it, and there are many who have no children that this sort of tripe drives one nearly wild. It does seem that at least one of these stations could omit that type of thing and when the man of the house arrives home tired after a day's work, give him a little soothing music—a quartet, even a phonograph record. Anything is better than the general line of so-called children's programs. Let's have a little better distribution so that when you want music, at least one station will have it.

There also should be a law regulating advertising claims. There is a federal statute governing the printing of false claims on the packaging itself, but apparently nothing can be done about the same utterly spurious claims on the air. A flagrant example of this is a program of Water Crystals. The whole case was put forth before the public at the federal building in Chicago this summer. The government tested thoroughly every claim made for these Crystals on the box it was sold in. They found it was false and made the company remove claims of health benefit that appeared on the box—and yet—the law has no teeth to stop the making of these claims on the air. The government of these United States found this product practically worthless—yet the company forced to remove false claims from the package, can go on and on over the air—do what you? The next time you get a chance—fight for a law that has enough teeth to stop this sort of thing.

MCDONNELL MAKES TWO "HOLES-IN-ONE" TO SET NEW RECORD

(Detroit News)

Except for a promise that it took him five months to keep, Edward J. McDonnell might not have made two holes-in-one in a single round of golf to his credit, the first time this feat has been accomplished in the Middle West.

McDonnell, professional at Plymouth Hills Public Golf Course, promised his friend, G. J. Rafferty, 14871 Prairie, they'd have a round of golf together. That was last May. The months passed. One thing and another prevented. And then Rafferty showed up at the course Thursday McDonnell nearly failed to keep his promise, the weather was so threatening. But he did, and the acres resulted. McDonnell had the wind at his back on the 240-yard hole. He used his driver. They weren't even sure the ball had reached the green. Then they found it in the hole.

The 135-yard fourth hole is uphill. The green is bowl-shaped and McDonnell had a crosswind to contend with. This time they knew it was a hole-in-one before they left the tee. McDonnell used a No. 4 iron for the second shot.

The scores evidently unnerved Rafferty, as his golf became worse after the second one. On the other hand, McDonnell scored a birdie on the sixth and was only over par on one hole, the 410-yard ninth, which was uphill and into the wind.

McDonnell had a 30, six under par, and a new course record for the nine holes. He now has three aces to his credit. He aces the sixth at Plymouth Hills last year. In addition to Rafferty, McDonnell had J. E. Robertson and A. H. Lowther, of Detroit, as witnesses to his two aces.

The first annual memorial service was held at Glen Eden Lutheran Memorial Park Sunday afternoon on Eight Mile road, also called the Base Line road. The address was given by Rev. O. Riess. The Strophus Mixed Choir with E. Busse, director, sang two numbers. There were about three thousand present. The property was formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Stuckey, and will be used for a cemetery for Lutherans.

Harry Wolfe, accompanied by his father, attended a banquet given by the legion-Pittenger Post base ball team of 1933. Roosevelt Vankers' ball team that won the championship this year was invited. After they were all satisfied with the good eatables prepared the managers. Mr. Edwards gave a talk on what each one had done for the team. He said Harry Wolfe from West Point Park came nineteen miles and never missed a practice and had not lost one game he pitched in the league. Sometimes when he was late for practice and asked why he would say he had a tire puncture as a joke. So the ball boys would say, "Here comes Harry with his flivver."

Glad to report a slight improvement in Mrs. L. Witten's condition since last week. Mrs. B. F. Shobridge helped care for her Wednesday and Mrs. Jay Clark, Saturday night to Sunday.

The annual bazaar and supper in the town hall, afternoon and evening, takes place Thursday, Nov. 23, given by the ladies of the Congregational church. A delicious chicken supper and what goes with it will be appreciated by the guests.

There was a happy family gathering in the Ed Bauman home on Miller road Sunday, celebrating Mrs. Bauman's natal day. A beautiful birthday dinner was enjoyed by the nineteen guests present, all wishing the honored guest many returns of the day.

THIS WEEK

By H. H. WHITE

To the beholder—his belief is so important to him that he feels the necessity of imparting it to his neighbor and friends. He is very pleased with himself when he has converted someone to his ideas. It is quite apt to add to one's ego and to give the believer a sense of power he has not had before.

Also it strengthens the faith of the believer to gain a convert to his ideas for it is our belief that gives us our self-justification and self-realization.

Thus what we believe is quite important. Many of our beliefs though are founded on tradition which were fostered in our youth and as a youth we accepted these on authority, which we little questioned.

Our beliefs oftentimes are the result of asserting things are so merely because we want them to be so. Usually they are based on prejudiced experience and also legendary ideas. Also many beliefs are the result of compulsive thinking for men often hold to a belief because they have to do so, and continue in them long after they are convinced their beliefs are not so.

One of the most difficult things to do is to secure a meeting of minds in a believer for what he wants is not so much a verification of his arguments and hypotheses as a vindication of his principles.

FRIENDS

A letter from a friend the other day ended "With the same old love."

That letter we kept about a while where our eyes fell often on it as we stirred marmalade and did the Saturday baking. The same old love—throughout more than twenty-five years. A friendship that began in the care-free days when two young brides sewed together, took long walks together and talked of our hopes and plans. Few of those dreams have come true just as we planned but the beautiful thing called friendship has remained as strong as a rock through "thick and thin."

This is what Dr. Frank Crane says of a friend:

"A friend is a person who is 'for you,' always, under any suspicion. He never investigates you."

"He likes you just as you are—does not want to alter you."

"He likes your success. And, your failures endear you to him the more."

"He is better than a lover because he is never jealous."

"He is one with whom you can feel safe. With him you can utter your heart. You don't have to be careful."

Anybody can stand by you when you are right. A friend stands by when you are wrong.

It is he who keeps alive your faith in human nature, who makes you believe it is a good universe.

When you are vigorous and spirited you like to take your pleasures with him; when you are in trouble you want to tell him; when you are sick you want to see him; when you are dying you want him near.

"You give to him without reluctance and borrow from him without embarrassment."

If you can live 50 years and find one absolute friend you are fortunate.

A voice on the radio was singing. We seized a pencil and saved this last verse to remember. One old friend sings to another:

"Let me stand with you When the last lamp burns low. One of us or both of us the long, long road must go."

Look with your dear old eyes in mine, Give me a hand shake true, Whatever fate our souls await Let me be there—there with you!"

FROM THE PRESERVING POT
Apple, Quince, Cranberry Jelly
An old friend sends an acceptance.

able hint for a jelly that is different. She says: Try equal parts of quince, apple and cranberry for jelly. Use a dozen quinces, 2 lbs. of cranberries and 3 or 4 lbs. of apples. Cut up and cook. Strain and cook juice with equal parts of sugar.

Marmalade
Neighbor Turnbull sent over a pan of quinces from her own tree. Taking liberties with the above rule we cooked these quinces with a liberal amount of apples and one lb. of cranberries. Mashing this all through the colander we cooked the pulp with equal parts of sugar. To part of it we added ground raisins.

To another quantity we added the juice of 2 cans of plums that no one seemed to like. The result was 51 glasses of delicious marmalade to put upon the shelves (and it will melt away like dew before the sun).

Apple-Pineapple Jam
A Northville cook with a reputation for an excellent cook, suggests the following as a new spread which children like. Soak 1 lb. of apples over night. Put through food chopper and add 1 No. 2 can of grated pineapple. Cook until thick with equal parts of sugar. Delicious.

Additional recipes will be acceptable. Send them in, please.

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

5 YEARS AGO

The "Don" will be opened in the Richardson building Monday.

Mrs. Myrtle Ford spent last week-end visiting her daughter and husband and other relatives in Flint.

Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Douglas of the William H. Maybury sanatorium spent the week-end in Lansing with friends.

Mrs. Glenn Beach, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Eva Johnson, returned to her home in White Cloud, Monday.

Mrs. Glen Hammond and Mrs. Bernice Day were hostesses at a bridal shower in honor of Mrs. George Hopkins, nee Geraldine Young, Thursday evening.

Miss Anne Richardson very pleasantly entertained a number of friends at a Halloween party Wednesday evening at her home on Dunlap street.

Announcements are out of the marriage of Miss Geraldine R. Young to George W. Hopkins of Detroit, who is employed by the Shuman Aircraft Corporation operating a ship out of Freeville, Texas. The young couple will reside in Texas.

10 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Potts have gone to Florida to spend the winter. N. C. Schrader and E. L. Smith went to New Baltimore on Monday to enjoy duck hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Sealey and Mrs. T. L. Irving of Farmington were Sunday guests at the J. D. LaRue home in Ypsilanti.

Peter Perkins' orchestra furnished music at the annual banquet of the South Lyon Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening.

A fire at the home of Dr. L. W. Snow, caused by the "blowing up" of the furnace, caused an alarm to be turned in Thursday forenoon. Fortunately but little damage was done.

Mrs. O. N. Barnhart is in a hospital in Pontiac suffering from a broken hip caused by a fall on the cement walk at their new home near Farmington.

A party of twenty-nine men left Northville Wednesday night in a special pullman car attached to the northbound Pere Marquette train for the upper peninsula where they will enjoy a couple of weeks' deer hunting. Those going from Northville are S. A. Lovell, Fred Fry, Howard Bollitt, G. E. Richardson, W. H. Stark and George Hueston.

25 YEARS AGO

Mrs. W. J. Turner is able to walk around the room but is still very weak.

George Taylor and family have moved onto the L. N. Starkweather farm west of town.

Mrs. Mary Yerkes passed away at her home on the Base Line road Tuesday afternoon.

Arch Johnson, head clerk in the Dresden hotel at Flint, visited his brother, Milo, several days this week.

Twelve of Miss Irene Dixon's friends enjoyed a chestnut hunt and marshmallow roast at her home Saturday evening.

Hoyt Woodman and Will Lawrence of Lansing, Ralph Pomeroy of Detroit, Ward Bowers of Washington and Elbridge Lapham of Salt Lake City, Utah, were all home on Tuesday to vote.

Robert Lanning and Miss Iva Low were quietly married at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Smith, at St. Clair, last Thursday and left immediately for Northville, where they at once went to housekeeping in part of Mrs. Sara Lapham's house on the north side.

30 YEARS AGO

Dr. J. M. Burgess has returned from his trip to the north woods hunting grounds.

Mrs. Neal left yesterday morning for Chicago with the Eastern Michigan Press club party.

Mrs. Sackett of Baeltown is suffering with a badly scalded hand as the result of trying to work with the aid of her broken wrist.

Charles A. Baldwin of Foshell, N. Y., and Mildred L. Sackett were married Saturday at the home of the bride's mother in Baeltown.

R. J. Willis has resigned his position as cheese maker at the Warm-Chase factory here and has accepted a similar one at the Zeland Cheese Company's plant.

F. N. Perry left his home and home Wednesday morning, and the house, did a mid-Lent walk for a few minutes. No damage was done except a few minor breakages to the fire.

The Huston-Morris-Stark sportsmen are to return tomorrow. When last heard from they had six deer to their credit, and probably by this time have their full legitimate number of pieces if not more.

ORANGE AND BLACK ELEVEN BEATS RIVAL

Clawson Downed 27 to 12; Bender Scores 13 Points, Baldwin 12

Northville, in a well fought and exciting game, came through for a 27-12 victory over Clawson here last Friday. After taking defeat from Trenton the week before, the boys retaliated by winning from the Clawson eleven by chalking up four touchdowns, a successful try for the extra point, and a safety.

Clawson received the opening kick-off and immediately punted to Northville. On the first play, the pass from center was high and the Orange and Black team felt about twenty-five yards, Bender falling on the ball to recover. Northville kicked, and Clawson started up the field, showing much determination to keep the ball in her possession, but her onslaught was stopped when Duguid intercepted a pass on the forty-five yard line. N. H. S. quickly relinquished the ball, Clawson intercepting a pass from Marburger intended for Porter. This time Clawson reached her destination, and on a triple pass behind the line, which resulted in a forward pass, she crossed the goal line to score. The try for the additional point was wide.

Northville again kicked to her opponent. After an exchange of several punts, the Orange and Black warriors started from their own forty-five yard line and plucked and fought their way to a touchdown, tying the score as Bender went over. The try for point failed.

In the second quarter N. H. S. plucked the ball to the one yard line, where it was fumbled. Clawson recovered. When attempting to kick from her end zone, the Northville line rushed the kicker, and he was tackled before he was able to carry out his purpose. This was N. H. S. a safety and a two point lead. Later in the period Bender made his second touchdown of the game. Schriener's kick for point was blocked. Northville kicked just as the half ended.

After the half, Coach Watts' men again kicked to start the battle royal. During this half, our Black and White rivals resorted to a passing attack, but with very little success. Their passes were frequently batted down or out of the reach of the intended receiver.

In the third quarter Northville again fought her way from her own territory to score, Baldwin, who was playing with an injury, securing the touch-down. Bender made the extra point. The ball changed hands several times and one of Clawson's kicks was downed on the one-yard line. On the next play, Bender ran the ball back to mid-field.

Early in the fourth period, Baldwin gained his second touchdown, bringing Northville's total points to 27. Clawson, late in the period, managed to get another touchdown, making the final score Northville 27 and Clawson 12.

Both Northville's ends, Nander and Porter, were playing with injuries. Bender was the outstanding ground-gainer and point-maker of the day. He made thirteen points and practically every time he carried the ball, he made a good gain. Most of the second string men were in action at the end of the game.

SECOND SUCCESSFUL CARD PARTY HELD

Last evening (Thursday), the senior class and the mothers conducted their second highly successful card party. It is certainly obvious from the merry atmosphere of these parties that everyone of the many patrons, those who attend only when convenient as well as those who are enthusiastically striving for grand prizes, are greatly enjoying these events.

The senior class transfers the credit for all that was accomplished to their mothers.

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

Correct Speech

There are some, so it would seem, who are literally consecrated to the usage of improper and ungrammatical English. The fault may lie in their rudimentary training in the grades, in their failure in the higher classes to learn what is correct, or merely in their own laziness of preparation. No man, even though he is a leader of industry, has a complete education unless he can handle the language as it should be handled. A woman can dress in the height of fashion, but if she is afraid to speak for fear she will lose her charm. Others, who can talk fluently and intelligently are always welcome, whether their clothes "speak" of Paris or not.

Of course there are many intricacies which we in high school cannot be expected to master, but the ordinary mistakes, such as "it don't," "he don't," "she don't," "her and it" etc., are so unnecessary.

You who notice errors will please overlook the "everybody" in the article on the senior card tournament in the October twenty-seventh issue. When we turned the copy in, the verb was in the singular, so it must have been the weather that changed it.

We don't wish to infer that we possess the virtue of infallibility, however, for didn't we forget to put Frances McLoughlin's name on her feature last week? Scuse, Tom.

We find that if we don't study, our guessing powers are greatly exercised. Take the civics test, for instance.

Turn about is fair play. Ruth, your "The Other Day" is done well and is very interesting.

WANT "FREAK DAY" IN SCHOOL AGAIN

(By Helen Johnson)

In the "good old days," "Freak Day" was one of the main events to look forward to for a freshman entering his first year of high school. A certain day was set, usually a Friday, and the victims (freshmen) were supposed to be prepared for anything out of the ordinary.

The first thing on the plentiful morning the class, dressed in all manner of freakishness, proceeded to parade up and down the assembly, to the great amusement of all the students.

Members of the freshman group who did not come in costumes were usually the first to be called upon by the sophomores who were the chief aggressors, to give speeches or to perform. As a rule the seniors and juniors were on-lookers while the freshmen were initiated.

Usually the freaks remained in costume the entire day, going to classes in their "outlandish get-ups," and presenting a very colorful and variegated spectacle indeed.

The last few years have seen this custom done away with, and a dance given in its stead. I believe that a certain feeling between the freshman and sophomore classes is lost by this practice. Let's have "Freak Day" again!

SYNCOPIERS ARE HEARD OCT. 25TH

The "Blue Room Synco-paters," that new orchestra you have heard so much about, put on a short assembly program last Wednesday afternoon. It is composed of Edward and Robert Angove, Ida Altman, Frances Alexander, and Charles Strautz. The experience they gained from the junior dance has helped them a lot.

They played "Learn to Croon," "Petting in the Park," "Thanks," "It's the Talk of the Town," and then, with the "Drifters" (Florence Johnson, Eleanor Grosvenor, and Gertrude Deal), "Blue Roosters," and "Trouble in Paradise."

This was the second program of the year, and it seemed to be received with enthusiasm by the students.

HIGH SCHOOL HONOR ROLL

A's and B's:

Charles Ash, Edward Angove, Ruth Angell, Frances Alexander, Mary Louise Boyden, Peggy Blake, Edith Barley, Helen Carman, Lenna Coe, Marjorie Chase, Thomas Carrington, Cerena Carman, Lloyd Coleman, Catherine Duguid, Kenneth Eicken, Harriet Gibson, Evelyn Kimmel, Jane Lester, Marjorie Pierpont, Alfred Parmenter, Kathleen Rinck, Betty Randall, Lucile Simmons, Stanley Taylor.

The following received a grade of "C" and better, but a "C" is not really an honor mark:

Ida Altman, Evelyn Ambler, Howard Balko, Alvin Bauman, Eddie Bender, Norene Blake, Alice Boelens, Catherine Bongiovanni, Grace Bowens, Donald Bray, Robert Bray, Helen Christensen, Betty Clark, Art Cook, Francis Cousins, June Denne, Billy Duguid, Revere Dundas, Juanita Ekington, Mary Elizabeth Ekington, Louis Faedde, Olin Foglio, Catherine Gibson, Maurine Gies, Ernestine Grace, Mary Jane Gregor, Henry Grieve, Isabel Grieve, Jane Grosvenor, Eleanor Grosvenor, Dean Hardesty, Mary Harper, Betty Harstead, Junior Hicks, Marjorie Hills, James Hochkins, Vera Horstall, Mary Hostetter, Violet Johnson, Edward Lanning, Jayson Lyke, Lulu Lyke, Robert Lyke, Winifred McCordie, Ellen McClellan, David Martin, Alice Masters, Pauline Neely, Marianne Nilson, Essie Nider, William Owen, Avis Perry, Leslie Pierpont, Kenneth Porter, Ernest Racz, Carl Stevens, Beverly Stamann, John Sprenger, John Shinn, Nelson Schrader, Isabel Tewksbury, Betty Ann Taylor, Geo. Ulrich, S. S. Van Valkenburg, Sam Witt, Elaine Winter, Raymond Westphall, George Westphall, Leonard Young.

LIZZIE MOORE FORGOTTEN

Conclusion:

I wonder whether she ever knew how much her pupils in that district owed to her. I wonder whether she ever knew of anything beyond their devotion to her at the time. She must have known of the appreciation of parents. But I fear she never realized how much she put into the lives of children in that school and in the other schools in which she taught.

Next to the help which came from my parents was that which I received from Lizzie Moore. Perhaps next to that was what I received from Jim Blackburn when I was fourteen, and from J. M. McKendrick when I was eighteen. These were classroom teachers. I owe very much to other friends along the way, but these names stand out in my memory. I have given essentially my own experience and that of leading citizens everywhere. I see among the teachers of today many a Lizzie Moore. There never has been a better type of devotion among teachers than at the present time. Since that experience I have written other favorite teachers. One of the saddest thoughts of my life is that I failed to keep track of Lizzie Moore and to let her know later in life what I owed to her.

Have you not already caught the suggestion to send a note of appreciation of your own Lizzie Moore? Have I not encouraged teachers to pour out their hearts to children not only on Christmas but on every day? I wonder whether citizens in all the states may not wish to join me in a word of tribute to the teachers of today who are holding the line of courage and optimism in this terrible depression! It is great to be a leader in industry or finance. It is still greater to lead directly with youth, inspiring children with ideals, and putting into their lives the desire to become useful men and women. Next to that of maintaining and creating a school the teachers are a fine example. Teaching may not pay so well, but it is the highest type of service in the world.

THE BENEFIT OF AN EDUCATION

(By Geraldine Hoff)

Before taking up the question of "Why an education?" it might be well to mention, also, the question, "What is education?" There are various answers to the latter inquiry, all of which might be summed up in this manner: education is the systematic training of the moral and intellectual faculties.

The words do not mean much to us, however, unless we realize what the "moral and intellectual faculties" are. Fortunately, we have today (and have had for many centuries) an institution called the school, whose purpose it is to interpret just phrases.

The school of today, moreover, exists not for subject matter ends alone; it has now come to be conceived as a social institution, maintained by society to fit young people for the responsibilities of life in a complex social, scientific and economic world. This "fitting the young people for the responsibilities of life" is brought about in a gradual and closely related program—extended over a period of at least twelve years. During this time the child is guided in the building of his foundation upon which his existence will rest. He is introduced to the group or social order and to his surroundings. He also is given or may secure with his own ingenuity something upon which to base an aim or goal; something to strive for and thus make life worth living. He, as a member of society, has a large part to play in the drama called "Life," and even as only one of the billions of people taking a part in this play, his cues influence and affect many.

Is it not essential therefore, that we allow education to be the directorate of this drama? For education has been the chief human agency by which the advance of civilization has been brought about, and may I add, it is still the chief agency for the advancement of civilization.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

What do you think is accomplished at pep meetings?

Eddie Bender: Before any game there is always a tenseness in the air and the only way to get rid of this feeling is to yell. It certainly helps a lot.

Mrs. Chapman: I think that the program could be made more interesting by having a committee in charge who could vary it somewhat each meeting.

Dayton Deal: In a pep meeting the boys that are on the team get the feeling that the whole school is behind them. It also helps to break the tense feeling the boys have before a big game.

Nelson Schrader: I think a pep meeting breaks the tenseness of waiting until time to get dressed for the game. It helps the team to know that the student body is interested in it, and makes you want to fight just that much more to win.

Jane Lester: A pep meeting renews the interest in the game. It makes a student feel that he is really missing something if he doesn't go.

Donald Bray: Before a football game all the players are nervous and feel sort of hollow in the middle. A good pep meeting helps because the players can yell and release the nervousness.

Jane Grosvenor: Pep meetings inspire the team to fight and the students to go to the games and cheer.

Charles Strautz: A rousing pep meeting before a game changes an uncertain feeling to one of confidence and determination to win!

Ida Altman: It shows the moral spirit of the school and our interest in athletics. Also, it serves to pep up the boys.

Mr. Watts: The fellows usually have a sinking feeling in the pit of their stomachs on game day, which is always a good sign. The more evident the feeling, the quieter and more determined the individual. A pep meeting on game day usually makes that sinking little deep-sea and so helps noticeably.

FARMINGTON GAME TO BE NEXT WEEK

Will Begin at 3:30 Because Of Darkness; Today Is Open Date

There is no football game today. The boys have played pretty regularly for the past month, and will no doubt welcome the rest.

The team's record is one to which it can point with pride this year. Out of five contests the Orange and Black eleven has lost only two games. The scores of all past scrimmages were: Melvindale, 13, Northville 6; Northville 7, Van Dyke 6; Northville 0, Berkley 0; Northville 0, Northville 27; Clawson 12.

There are several outstanding players on the team who get a great share of the glory. In spite of this, there is a fine spirit of cooperation and good-fellowship among the boys.

The Farmington game will be played here at the changed time of 3:30 and it is sure to be a "trim-dinger."

GRADE NOTES

The children in Miss Helen Leonardson's first grade dramatized a story entitled, "The Gingerbread Boy," for Miss Jarvis' first grade. The first graders are planning a large farm poster. Everyone is to have something in the picture. They all hope to visit a farm.

Mrs. Reng's second and third B grades are holding a spelling contest. There are two teams; the boys against the girls. The object is to see which team can have the fewest misspelled words at the end of the month. The losing team will "treat" the winning team. At present the girls are ahead.

The members of Mrs. Congo's third grade have been making Halloween decorations. They had a party last Tuesday.

Miss Ellen Reincke's fifth graders made Halloween masks and decorated them.

Mrs. Hawkin's sixth grade held a Halloween party last Tuesday. A witch came to tell fortunes, and refreshments were served.

Miss Dorcas Corrin's fourth and fifth grades, too, enjoyed a Halloween party last Tuesday. They have honor charts in that grade on which the names of all honor students appear.

THE FUN AND CRAZY PRANKS OF HALLOWEEN

(By Peggy Blake)

(A note by R. T. Baldwin, Record editor—The following splendid story came into the Orange and Black section of the Record without any evidence of authorship. Investigating showed that Miss Peggy Blake wrote it and much against her protest we are giving her credit for the article.)

I've reformed. I always used to think it was swell to tell bull-dozers over and to swipe steps and carts and stuff, but after last Tuesday night, I changed my mind. It happened like this:

Slim and me started out about eight thirty; you know, when it's real dark and sorta spooky looking—to round up the gang. We got 'em all together a little after nine, and then nominations was in order as to what dealment we could get into first.

Tubby kinda thought it'd be fun to soap windows, but the rest of us called "no sissy, so he, as I seen in a book, subdued. Legs said he guessed the most natural thing for us to do was to go and hook ol' man Grange's wagon, told 'er up Dundee's Hill and let 'er roll into the gully at the bottom of the far side. We agreed and started off. On our way we threw a few cabbages and tomatoes that Lem remembered to bring.

When we got within hailin' distance of Grange's barn, I took charge, 'cause I had been readin' detective stories and I knew how such things should be done.

"Tubby," I said, "you go to the north side of the house where you can see the road. If anybody comes along, you holler."

"Oh, heck, Pips," he said back to me, "I wanta go with you fellers."

"No," I said, final-like, "you can't run fast enough, but you sure can let a powerful yell outa you, so you stay there."

"Lem," I went on, "you and Stacks go up to the house and beg so's to keep the ol' man from comin' out to the barn. Slim, you an' me an' Legs will go an' get the wreck an' start draggin' 'er for the hill. You fellas who are at the house wait till you think we got a good start, and then come an' give us some help."

When we seen that they got nearly to the door and that Tubby went around the side of the house, Slim an' Legs an' me run down to the back of the barn and climbed in a little cubby-hole which the chickens get in and out of. It was blacker than pitch inside, an' we had a awful time findin' the wagon. Slim got to it first—I was helpin' Legs to get untangled from some ropes an' wire which he had fell on. Touchin' them ropes gave me a idee, so I took 'em an' tied 'em on the front axle. While I was finishin' this, the other two went to open the big doors in the front of the barn. I thought they was gone an' I was alone, so I asked 'em where they was an' what they was doin'. No answer. I asked 'em again. I thought I heard a funny noise. Could it be Slim's voice? It was, only I'd never heard it like that before. I was beginnin' to get a little scared—not that I ain't as brave as the next one, but how'd you like to be in a dark barn hearin' strange sounds? I said to myself that there was somethin' queer goin' on here, an' then started toward the doors to see what had happened to the fellas.

"Slim," I whispered, "where are you?"

"Right here," he answered in sort of a chokey voice. "Pips, let's get outa here."

"Well, what in thunderation—" I stopped. I'd swore somethin' cold was on the back of my neck. "M-ni-my goch," I stammered, "w-what's that?"

"What are you bad boys going to do with that wagon?"

It was the hollowest, ghostly, scary voice I ever heard in my life.

"I will give you a chance to run. If you aren't out of here when I count to ten—"

Well, I was home, a mile an' a half away, before that spook counted to ten. Slim an' Legs come in the house with 'em an' I turned on all the lights. They said they felt somethin' cold on their necks, too. So, I say, I've reformed. Nothin' more than soapin' windows with Tubby for me from now on!

CHURCH NEWS

Methodist Church

Sunday service of worship at 10:30 with sermon by the pastor, Frank N. Miner. The membership and public are reminded of their privilege and responsibility in the worship of God on the Sabbath day. All owe to themselves and to the future of society the recognition of God in public worship and daily living. "Go to church Sunday."

The Sunday school is getting under way. The children are responding. The teachers and officers are working hard. Let the adults help with their presence. Mr. Dolph had 15 in attendance Sunday. Why not 25? Remember the school begins promptly at 11:45 a. m.

The Young People's devotionals service on Sunday evening at 8:30. The attendance and interest are growing. Mary Louise Boyden leads the devotionals service, and Marian Cousins conducts the study and discussion. This is your meeting, young people.

Chicken pie supper. Yes, that supper is dated for Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Christian Science Churches

"Adam and Fallen Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Nov. 5.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Eph. 5: 8, 10, 14): "For ye are sometimes darkness, but now are light in the Lord; walk as children of light: Proving what is acceptable unto the Lord. Wherefore be not asleep, awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 557): "Divine Science rolls back the clouds of error with the light of Truth, and lifts the curtain on man as never born and never dying, but as co-existent with his creator."

Salem Congregational Church

Rev. J. M. Smith, Minister. Services next Sunday at 10:30 a. m. The pastor will bring the message of God's word, "Holy Prophecies in the light of present day events." There is a great significance in the word of God as to the prophecies of today. Every moment in our world's history has been foretold. Come and learn the true meaning of life. Sunday school follows at 11:45. All are most cordially invited.

Prayer meeting and church practice Wednesday evening in the R. W. Kitchin room in S. C. M.

Thursday, Nov. 9, the Ladies Auxiliary society will meet with Mrs. Henry Lathrop on the Base Line road near Northville, for dinner. The meeting will be held in the afternoon. All friends having their calendars filled in kindly turn them in at this meeting.

The big annual Bazaar given by our ladies will convene in the town hall, Thursday, Nov. 23. The attractive booths will have many fine suggestions for Christmas gifts, fancy work, aprons, baked goods, home made candies, fruit, etc.

Beginning at 6 p. m. the public will be served one of those delicious roast chicken with biscuits and gravy dinners, our ladies are so famous for. All the other delectable foods that go with the making of a Thanksgiving dinner, including apple and pumpkin pie, will be served. Be sure and get your places reserved early. This will be a treat to your friends and family. Come and enjoy a delightful evening.

Baptist Church

Rev. W. M. McMaisters, of Detroit, will preach Sunday morning and evening. The Sunday school follows the morning service. Supt. C. B. Turnbull would like to see every scholar on our enrollment present at the Sunday school.

Prayer meeting each Wednesday evening.

The Wagon young people are visiting our society Sunday evening at 6:30, and will have charge of the service. Their pastor, Rev. Tolly, and congregation will also worship with us at 7:30. We are glad to have them with us.

Salem Federated Church

On Nov. 5 it is hoped to have a double sextette of young people from the Metropolitan Methodist church sing for us in the regular morning service which begins at 10:30 o'clock.

The Bible school lesson about Paul in Jerusalem will be studied from the fifteenth chapter of Acts. The golden text is: "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." Second Corinthians 3:17.

"I will meet you at the by-ways" at 7:30 Sunday evening. This service is the great gloom-chaser for all who attend.

Commencing at six o'clock on Friday evening, Nov. 3, the ladies of the North Circle plan to give a "Hard Time" supper consisting of spareribs or frankfurts with home-made sauer kraut and dumplings, mashed potatoes, rolls, fried cakes and coffee. Under the direction of Mrs. Frank Buers, the ladies will present "Mrs. Apple and Her Corps." Supper and program, fifteen cents.

First Presbyterian Church

Harold G. Whitefield, Minister.

Sunday morning, Nov. 5, at 10:30 church service will be held in the First Presbyterian church.

The church school meets at 12:09 noon.

November is known as Record Month. We hope to get records in attendance and enthusiasm in all the church activities. Will you do your share to help?

Your attention is called to the great Presbyterian Rally to be held throughout the Presbytery Friday, Nov. 10. Our section meets at Plymouth, where the host church will furnish dinner for only twenty-five cents. A large number from this church should attend. Prominent speakers will address the mass meeting.

The Nellie Yerkes Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. Katharine Todd on Tuesday, evening, Nov. 7. Potluck dinner will be served at 6:30. All members are urged to be present.
