CANDIDATES SEEK OFFICE IN VILLAGE

Voters To Decide Contests For Commissioner and Assessor

Village election, Monday.
The crowds on the corner and serious groups of talkers in the stores these days are the politically minded who are talking over the respective merits of the candidates who have signified that they are running for village offices.
Contests will center around the election of three incumbents for the village commission for four year terms. Two of the incumbents, Geo. A. Hicks and Wm. T. Gregory, are in the race and Harold G. White, Eber Ward Lester and Ernie E. Perrin have also thrown their hats into the ring. Commissioner Howard H. Burkhardt will have no opposition in his candidacy for the office of village president. Dr. L. W. Snow, having completed his term in office, has announced that he will not be a candidate in this election. Wilson J. Perkins, incumbent, has no opposition for the office of commissioner for the two year term. Another village office for which there will be a contest is that of assessor. The two candidates are Charles L. Blackburn and Charles A. Sessions, incumbent. This contest promises to be close. Those offices for which there is no competition are clerk, Frederick H. Hedge, and treasurer, John Littenberger.
The voters will cast ballots on the lot exchange between the village and the local American Legion post. The proposition is fully explained in another column of The Record.
Last day for registration by voters who wish to cast a ballot in the village election is tomorrow (Saturday) at the village hall between 9:00 o'clock in the morning and 8:30 o'clock in the evening.
The election booths are located as follows: for the voters living on the west side of Center street, the first precinct, the village hall, corner of South Wing and West Main streets; for voters on the east side, 103 South Center street under Norton's drug store. The polls will be opened at eight o'clock in the morning and will remain open until eight o'clock in the evening.

SACRED DRAMA AT THE UNION SERVICE IMPRESSIVELY GIVEN

Appropriate to the coming Easter time was the sacred drama, "The Sealing Heart," presented at the union service at the Methodist church Sunday evening before a well filled house.
This drama was the first public effort of Mrs. H. H. Mallinson since her recent coming to Northville, and was directed creditably by her. This is one of a series of similar dramas to be given.
Five young people represented the following characters: Mary, Miss Wilma Rattenbury; Martha, Miss Dorothy Richardson; Rachel, Miss Ruth Mary Bolander; Lazarus, Merle Fraser; Aaron, Donald Bray. Especially reverent was the part of Mary, who "chose the better part."
The scene in the oriental kitchen was very realistic as Martha mixed her cakes in ancient pottery "encumbered with many cares." The drama was an impressive service in the value of not losing the best by straining at mere temporal cares.
At intervals in the drama were numbers sung by a quartet. A series of songs sung by the congregation opened the service with the devotions led by Rev. H. E. Mallinson.

NORTHVILLE RECORD GETS MENTION IN BINGAY'S COLUMN

Northville readers of the Detroit Free Press who turned to the "Good Morning" column, conducted by Malcolm W. Bingay, managing editor, found the following lead paragraph: "I see by The Northville Record that Philip Neudeck, one of Harry S. Toy's assistants, spoke at a republican rally out there. A Neudeck, it seems, but not a 'New Deck'."

ALBERT M. THORNTON DIES AT MONROE, LA.

Albert M. Thornton, brother of Chas. T. Thornton, Mrs. Jennie Robertson and Mrs. Chas. E. Rogers, all of Northville, died at his home in Monroe, La., after a week's serious illness with heart complications. His brother, Chas., had been visiting him for two weeks previously and the brothers had enjoyed each other unusually.
Albert Thornton was born on the old Thornton homestead, now the site of the Chas. E. Rogers residence. Twenty years ago he moved to Little Rock, Ark., and in 1914 he went to Monroe, where he became actively engaged in the interests of the community. He was manager of the firm, Watson and Aven, manufacturers of ice cream. He was a member of the Masonic lodge, a thirty-second degree Mason, and was affiliated with other fraternal organizations.
For many years he was a member of the Monroe Rotary club and took a deep interest in the work of the Boy Scouts. He was an active member of the First Christian church in which he had served for many years on the board of elders.
Surviving are the widow and one daughter, Miss Jewel Thornton, two brothers, Chas. and Wm., and two sisters, Mrs. Hoberson and Mrs. Rogers.
The funeral was held in the First Christian church and interment was made in Riverview cemetery.
Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton, and Mrs. Robertson, all from Northville, attended the funeral.

EARLY SPRING PREDICTED

Northville weather observers are predicting an early spring for this and surrounding communities.

Character Is the Only Challenge That Will Meet New Social Order, Rev. V. Wik Tells Sons and Dads

Approximately 150 fathers, and their sons, or sons borrowed for the occasion, gathered at the Methodist church house Thursday evening to participate in the annual community Father and Son banquet.
Under the chairmanship of Rev. Kendall S. North, of the Northville Baptist church, the meeting was opened and the fathers and sons were welcomed to the gathering. After the invocation offered by Rev. Harold G. Whitfield, of the Presbyterian church, the meeting was turned over to the toastmaster, Richard T. Baldwin.
After a short song session led by Orlow G. Owen, Russell H. American, superintendent of schools, talked to the fathers. "What do our sons see in us as fathers?" They should see in us an example to follow. We, as fathers, should be a physical, moral and spiritual example. The moral training should start in the home and we should be their guide in spiritual things, for all in all, spiritual things make up a greater part of our lives.
"We should always strive to be interesting and always be able to enter into conversation and make it an interesting one for our sons. We should draw them out, and should always be their companion. Have you ever taken your son on a hunting or fishing trip with you? You will find that the sharing of experiences with your son will prove valuable to both yourself and your son."
"Do all you can to prevent your children from growing away from you."
"Always act natural and never take yourself too seriously. There is no one who can take the place of the father and mother in the life of the child," he concluded.
Harry Porter recited a poem entitled "Our House." "In our house," said Master Porter, "the walls are not always clean, nor are the curtains always straight—sometimes they are always straight on the floor. But at our neighbor's house it is different. The curtains are always straight, and the walls always clean. So does the Dad ever wrestle. It doesn't seem much like home there—they have no children. But we like it at our house—it's more like home."
Ernest Racer, high school vishnist of note, read two selections which were well received by the audience. He first played the familiar "Lebensfreud" by Fritz Kreisler, and offered an "Ardante" as an encore.
The quartet composed of P. F. Kenyon, 1st tenor; Leslie G. Lee, 2nd tenor; Carl H. Bryan, 1st bass; and Alfred Smith, of Plymouth, 2nd bass, then entertained the crowd with several selections from their extensive repertoire, including the well known, "Shortnin' Bread."
"The challenge of tomorrow is to build character that will be able to meet the test of the new social order." (Continued on last page)

M. E. CHURCH TO OBSERVE CENTENNIAL

Decision Is Made at Meeting of Congregation on Wednesday

The Northville Methodist church has reached its one hundredth anniversary. The membership decided at its congregational meeting Wednesday evening to make due celebration of this notable event.
A program with features of historical interest will be planned when former pastors and members from far and near will no doubt return to renew old acquaintances and revive old memories.
No member is living who was present at the time William and Sarah Dunlap decided to settle in 1834 the plot of ground on which the old church and the present parsonage stood. Work on the new church was started that same year though after many difficulties the dedication did not occur until 1839.
With a fluctuating history, the organization has continued to function ever since with 66 pastors in turn serving. The present pastor, Rev. H. H. Mellinson is the 67th.
The decision to observe this centennial was made after an impressive sermon by the district superintendent, Dr. A. J. Schmalhuber, of Detroit, who addressed the Lenten service.

EXPLANATION OF LOT EXCHANGE

The proposition that the voters of Northville will have to vote on at the village election Monday, March 12, concerns the exchange of a lot owned by the American Legion for one owned by the village.
For some time the village has been suggesting to the Legion that the lot at the corner of Dunlap and Hutton streets, the property of the Legion, be traded to the village for a part of the large village lot located on East Main street next to the Standard Oil station. The village wishes to exchange the east 84 feet by the south 171 feet of lot 27, block 18, formerly block 12. The lot is 94 feet wide by 171 feet deep. The exchange will leave the village a lot on Main street, adjoining the Standard Oil station, 30 feet wide and 171 feet deep.
Village officials had determined that in order to make the necessary improvement to Hutton avenue, and to make it wide enough so that water washing down the bank would not endanger the persons using the road, it would be necessary to widen the road considerably. In order to do this it was necessary to go over onto the property owned by the Legion, and the Legionnaires were willing that the village go on with this work before the people had a chance to vote on the exchange. At the time it was possible to have the work done as a CWA project. This project specified the building of a sewer culvert and the widening and grading of the street from Hutton to Rayson street.
The sidewalk was in poor condition and would have had to have been repaired at village expense this summer. As it is the sidewalk has been moved back several feet onto the lot that is being considered in the exchange and the road has been widened so that it is between 30 and 50 feet in width at the intersection of Dunlap and Hutton. This improvement eliminates the sharp corner that was particularly dangerous in wet weather.
If the citizens of this village see fit to vote this exchange down the village will have to pay the Legion for the amount of land that has been used. If they vote in favor of it, one of the village streets will have been greatly improved, the Legion will have a lot on Main street and the village will retain the 30 foot wide strip to the Standard Oil property on Main street and the remainder of the lot on Hutton not used in the street widening.

SHORT ONE PLAYER, CASTERLINE TEAM LOSES TO SALEM

Salem defeated the unbeaten Casterline Service team in the Recreation basketball game that was played at the high school last Thursday evening, 35 to 39. But there was not much glory for the victors as the Casterline team played the entire game with only four players and at the end of the first period the score stood at 10 all. The Service players could not hold their five opponents and at the end of the first half the farmers led, 13 to 13.
Other results were Maybury 25, Record Office 29, Twin Pines 15, Men's Shop 18.

40 FRUIT GROWERS HEAR EXPERT AT THE R. FOREMAN FARM

Forty fruit raisers from the surrounding country gathered at the farm of Ralph F. Foreman, on Seven Mile road and listened to the best hints by Don Hoffman, of Michigan State college, last Thursday, March 1.
A general discussion was led by Mr. Hoffman who answered the questions. The Michigan peach crop is gone—even in the fruit belt," he said. "But the prospects are good for a fairly large apple crop."
All of the fruit raisers were told of the importance of following the State college spraying program. Fungus can be controlled, he said, through the pre-blossom sprays. The spraying must be controlled with the alternate of lead and boron July 1.
It is now considered very important to scrape and bend trees to fight the fruit enemies. This is a comparatively new development and all of the fruit growers were urged to adopt this if they didn't already follow it.
County agent H. A. Carr also arranged the meeting and also presided.

REPUBLICANS MEET FRIDAY AT BANQUET

Capt. Denniston and Philip Neudeck Heard in Fine Speeches

The first Northville Community Republican banquet, held Friday evening at the Presbyterian church house, was an outstanding success, according to those present.
Following a pleasant dinner the official meeting was opened by Supervisor Willard A. Ely, president of the Northville Community Republican club. The newly formed by-laws were read to the assembly by Arthur S. Nichols following which Eber Ward Lester was elected as vice-president of the club. Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Mrs. E. R. Eaton, and Harold G. White were added to the board of directors.
Supervisor Ely presented Mr. Eason as chairman, with the general secretary of Exchange in an address that he used many years back when he was the youngest chairman to the Methodist church house. "I have ever held the office on the Wayne County Board of Supervisors. After this term had been completed, Orlow G. Owen led the assembly in a few minutes of community singing which was enjoyed. Old fashioned songs were sung, new ones learned and all this feature of the program was enthusiastically applauded.
The "Drafters," a trio composed of Elmore Grosvenor, Florence Johnson and Gertrude Deal, accompanied by Geraldine Ferguson on the piano sang several harmony numbers which were well received.
Capt. Edward Denniston, superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction, well known to most of those present, was introduced for a brief address.
During his maiden speech, Capt. Denniston said that the victory of 1932 was not an ornate bit of which sprang from the dissatisfaction of the voters from the then existing conditions. The spring election will cast a shadow of what will occur at the fall election.
"If you favor," said Capt. Denniston, "the present chaos at Lansing, vote for those near in power. The time has come when the taxpayers will vote against the overwhelming majority imposed upon them. Get the vote out. Think republican, think Michigan."
The speaker, Philip Neudeck, assistant county prosecuting attorney, alluded to the office of Harry S. Truman introduced. Stating that it was a pinch hitter, Mr. Neudeck stated the fact that our government is on trial. "We are in a very grave position, one and a half centuries of the republican party, which is figured in Dec. 31, 1937, he said, is a party of the constitution and a party of the state. The constitution is the state, the state is the nation."

EXCHANGITES HEAR HEROLD M. HARTER, NATIONAL SECRETARY

In Order to Bring Back Prosperity

"I've got something for you, boys," said the CWA paymaster as he walked into the village hall last Saturday. He was all smiles. He reached into his pocket—the smile faded. "I guess I must have left the checks in my other coat," he mumbled as he went swiftly from one pocket to another of his coat. "But don't worry, I'll be right back." He hurried out and got into his car and drove swiftly away.
The CWA men looked after him as he drove away. They were rather doubtful. They feared. In a couple of hours he returned and gave them their checks—the surprise was over—and the suspense was over.

Under the chairmanship of the oldest township democrat, Charles A. Sessions, and with Fred VanAtta acting as secretary, the party flag was once more vigorously raised in the air for the impending battle.
Moving into action swiftly Mrs. Lillian Blake and Nelson C. Schrader were appointed by the chairman to the posts of tellers. They were sworn in by Edwin R. Perrin and nominations for a candidate for the office of supervisor were asked—K. H. Babbitt nominated Dr. E. B. Cavell, democratic candidate of last year, and Dr. Cavell was given a unanimous ballot of 21 votes. (Please turn to page 5)

DETROIT SUBWAY REJECTED

Detroit's $7 million dollar subway project has been rejected by the state PWA board state daily papers. There is a slight possibility that an appeal will be made to Washington but the outlook is that the new subway plan can be forgotten for awhile.

This news should be no surprise to anyone who has made any study of the Detroit debt situation. A city that is near bankruptcy can hardly hope to get more millions without security—which was the subway plan.

If Detroit does ever get a subway, Northville votes for one on Grand River avenue, as well as out Woodward.

A CHECK FOR FIFTEEN DOLLARS

A CWA check for $15 came into the office today. It set us thinking. The man who earned it probably hadn't worked for months or perhaps two or three years until he got his present job. What a thrill the first $15 check must have given him. Money! Real money! The first in a long while—how it must have seemed like the dawn of a new day. The man who endorsed the check is no one we ever saw or heard of, but if he has a wife and children, they, too, must have been given courage by seeing that check.

The man paid the $15 to someone and started the good work. Then it was paid to us and in a few hours we had paid it to someone else and by the time you read this, that $15 has gone up and down the street like a messenger of good cheer.

If we keep the money moving it won't be long before we shall all be getting more and better checks.

DEARBORN WANTS MORAL CODE

The city of Dearborn is thinking about the morals of its boys and girls.

Over three months ago some one staggered the leaders of the community by saying this:

"Eighty-five percent of the children of our community are without any moral, cultural interests at all—are untouched by such agencies as Sunday schools, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other organizations interested in the moral culture of the young."

When you stop to think that 85 per cent of your young people are growing up like pagans, it is something to make one stop and think. So what happened? Just this: The Dearborn Women's Educational association has a real "code of moral training" to be introduced in the schools. The women ask that every child in the schools be called upon to recite the Ten Commandments as an opening exercise every day. We got to wondering how many of our children know what the Ten Commandments are. One has only to read the daily papers to see what happens to a sick world when the Decalogue is forgotten and even worse, sneered at.

We should soon have a better world if every community got on a little better speaking acquaintance with the Ten Commandments, the violation of which inevitably and everywhere brings sorrow and ruin. Strange we have been so slow to learn this.

"A CRUEL AND DIRTY FIGHT"

We read the other day that some of the great metropolitan dailies are edited on the principle that they appear to the public with the mental capacity of 14-year old children. We don't believe that yet, the other day we found a newspaper in the fireplace the same paper, when we picked it up and found the front page streamer had this great and glorious news: "The Carnera-Loughran Fight Is Postponed—Because of Weather." Is this the greatest bit of news of a whole day for a city of a million and half—not to mention the rest of the state of Michigan that happens to read this paper? Maybe so, but to us it looked like cheap bunk—printed for 14-year-olds to read.

And now, today, on the sport page, where it belongs, we read that Primo Carnera, the giant fighter, defeats Loughran, a man 36 pounds lighter. We notice a headline: "Fights Dirty and Cruel." So we read the opening paragraph:

"The big mar fought a cruel and dirty fight. He roughed and wrestled and mauled; he hooked his left around Tommy's neck and slugged with his right; he tried to mash Tommy's toes beneath his ponderous feet; he used his tremendous strength to wrestle Loughran into the ropes and he leaned on him and mauled him at every turn."

Those who know the inside of prize fighting know it is a "lousy" game, yet the daily papers make the set-ups and the cheap fighters get the glory. Barnum was right when he said one is born every minute.

WHAT IS THE SOLUTION?

"No one gave any solution." That was the comment of one man regarding the talks at the community Father and Son banquet last Thursday evening. This father was talking, of course, of the economic and business troubles that have been facing this country.

"Well, have you a solution?" we asked him. "Surely I have," he came back. "But both of us being busy men, we didn't press the solution and can't tell yet whether or not it will work. That is the trouble with most solutions." They are not given a chance to work.

As a matter of fact, we thought that the chief speaker of the evening, the Rev. Victor Wik, of Walled Lake, did give a solution of our country's troubles. It was a definite, clear-cut solution, viz: the building of character that will do away with the evils that have caused our economic and social order to break down. Mr. Wik gave the solution. If we had a straightforward honesty among all our men and women and boys and girls we should not have our national scandals, we should be free from the bootlegger, the gangster, the crook, the hold-up man, the "chiseler" and the petty criminals that infest our community.

We have worshipped too long, at the shrine of Mammon and have thought that by building vast material structures we could make men and women happy and prosperous. Might has been right. Money has been our god. We have become so smart, so sophisticated, so modern that we have laughed at the old-fashioned virtues that laid the foundation of this country. And now we wonder why the structure has toppled on our heads. The pyramid of gold, turned upside down, has fallen on us and crushed us.

Character is the solution of our nation's troubles and some day the "brain trust," the educators, the economists and the students of government will realize this and will make character training fundamental in our national life. Then will come a new day.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

"He'll spend it all for liquor," said one man of another who was about to receive his CWA check. Pretty tough on the family.

Both The Detroit News and The Detroit Free Press agree that there is "chaos" in our state government at Lansing. When both these papers get together, it must so.

"If you buy a lot with trees on," says Merrill S. Sweet, village commissioner and Edison tree expert. "don't cut down the small trees nor the underbrush. And don't rake the leaves from the ground. All this covering helps conserve the water for the trees."

Some folks say there will be no republicans or democrats when we get around to vote for president in 1936, but that it will be the left wing versus the right, or the progressives against the conservatives. Others think that there will be no party that stands by the constitution and the other that doesn't care about that arch stone of our national life. Personally, we're still for the constitution, the same as we are for the Golden Rule and the Ten Commandments. We can't tear the house all down.

"Both Northville and Plymouth are slow to get acquainted with the young folks who happen to come to these towns to live," says a young chap who has lived in both towns. Some of the older folks make the same complaint. Any town should be grateful for the coming of new people, with new ideas and new blood. And the newcomers, by the same token, can learn from the "native sons." In other words, we all need each other, no matter who we are.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Do you realize that it costs this country twenty billions of dollars every year?

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

WE STILL PAY THEM

The state property tax—the one that has been the most since 1880—is the one that has been the most since 1880. It is the one that has been the most since 1880. It is the one that has been the most since 1880.

WHEN BROTHERS DO AGREE

Some of the discords in the United Church, according to one member of the council (and of course he's a Methodist), lies in the fact that the Methodists pay about 65 per cent of the expenses of the church and get back only fifty per cent for their own organizations and less than that in some of the other divisions made of the finances. But opposite to Rev. Ciley (who is a Baptist) is a based strictly on denominational lines. The Methodists and Presbyterians are divided among themselves in the matter.

CIGARETTE SMOKING BY WOMEN

We are accumulating data on the etiquette of cigarette smoking for ladies and as soon as we have all the facts we will publish the same. We are not saying whether we believe in it or not, but if the ladies intend to smoke they should do it with gracefulness. Here are a few "don'ts" for the ladies—never spit, strike a match on your shoe, blow smoke through your nose or smoke your cigarette to the stub. Can you answer these questions? Should a lady light her own cigarette when she has a gentleman escort? How should you hold a cigarette? What kind of matches should you carry? How should you knock the ash from your cigarette?

WATCH NORTHWESTERN DETROIT

ANOTHER PROHIBITION VOTE

We already hear talk of another vote on prohibition. If and when such may happen, it is the opinion of many people that the country might reverse itself on the question, even after only a few weeks of liquor and its accompanying evils. The only hope of the west has turned out to be the same old story. It was the distiller, brewer and saloonkeeper who forced the country dry before, and it looks as though they may possibly repeat it if they do not watch their step.

WAIT BEFORE YOU LEAP

If you are politically on the fence, if you feel that you are not cashed in on the New Deal as you expected to do, and your heart don't know whether to hop new just off a while, there's a prospect to be a whole lot of new political maneuvering on the track near fall and that will cost some throbbing heart just as fast as the election. Some are all bundled and ready to carry the promises of the party politicians.

ROOSEVELT AND THE CODE

We regret exceedingly that President Roosevelt, in signing the new press publishers' code after seven months of negotiation, should think it expedient to make the drastic revision which he did concerning the freedom of the press for which the publishers had so strongly contended. In referring to the "free press" of the President said: "The recitation of the freedom of the press clause in the constitution would the whole constitution of the ten commandments. The freedom guaranteed by the constitution is freedom of expression and that will be scrupulously respected—but it is not freedom to work children, or to do business in a fire trap, or to violate the laws against obscenity, libel and lewdness." The only inference to be drawn from the above remarks is unworthy of our President for that inference can only be that the newspapers have been guilty of a crime to be guilty of the offenses named. Newspapers do not seem to work children, or to do business in a fire trap, and state laws prohibit such acts if any publisher should attempt them, and as to publishing obscenity and lewdness any newspaper reader knows that the newspapers are not given to that sort of thing. Obscenity and lewdness, by implication and definition if not actual is found in a great class of so-called magazines that may be found upon the shelves in thousands of news stands all over the country, and inasmuch as these magazines are shipped to news agents throughout the country they become a matter of interstate traffic that must be controlled by federal action. The manager contained in the above and to infer that the publisher of a magazine to be a very serious reflection upon newspapers. Mr. President, we are indeed sorry that you have such a mistaken idea of newspaper publishers; in fact, we do not believe you have and we

Another death

"Another death" that arouses a philosophic thought, or two is that of the seventy-five year old man who was found lying on the rocks by the sea at Coney Island. It was fourteen below zero and he had been swimming as per his daily custom throughout the winter. He died. Probably those who abhor the cold bath, or at least, the superior attitude of its addicts, will say that it served him right. However, he was 75, and he did do what he wanted to do; which is not given to many people.

There was an acquaintance of our youth, a Roman of mature years who aroused much condemnation among the neighbors because she allowed her father, a man around eighty to drive a very spirited frothing horse hitched to a "sulky." It was the old boy's only, and daily pleasure. The neighbors said he would be killed, and demonstrated with the daughter. She returned that if he was he would die happy, which he wouldn't do if she kept him in a chair by the fire. Eventually he was killed, just as the neighbors predicted, but he died with his feet out, getting a kick out of it. A lot better than to have to sit around waiting and expecting death to tap you on the shoulder and say, "Come with me, my friend."

GARDEN HINTS

While the long, cold winter is past and spring is just around the corner, our thoughts turn to the flowers of spring, their beauty and friendliness. Just what will we plant in that cool, shady place in the rocky or that vacant place among the shrubbery, where nothing does well for lack of sunshine? Let us try the perennial.

ANCHUSA

Anchusa—A myosotidiflora which comes to us from Siberia, blooms for six weeks beginning the last of April. With its dainty blue forget-me-not sprays and glossy foliage, it is desirable as a cut flower, and when well established will sometimes send up flower sprays throughout the summer. But to be successful with this Anchusa you must remember that it is an ardent lover of shade.

Hours after an evening of bridge proved to be a family affair, Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Willis carrying off the prizes. Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Washburne were substituting guests.

Coincidence or not, the occasion was the birthday of two participants in the party, Mrs. J. N. McLoughlin and Mr. Washburne, who were warmly congratulated by their friends.

Nellie Yerkes Auxiliary Celebrates Its Birthday Wednesday

It was the seventh birthday of the Nellie Yerkes auxiliary Tuesday and in honor of this event 30 members gathered at the home of Mrs. Percy Alsop on the evening to hold a birthday party. Mrs. B. E. Larson assisted as hostess.

Business was dispatched in a hurry and the evening was devoted to a happy time. A beautiful birthday cake, made by Mrs. A. H. Hauger, was carried in with seven lighted candles commemorating the seven years of existence as an auxiliary after the young women, who once were girls in the Sunday school class of Mrs. Nellie Yerkes, outgrew the Westminster Guild, into which she organized them, and became the present organization. In loving tribute to the one who was the ideal of their girlhood, was the Nellie Yerkes auxiliary named. Mrs. Yerkes was present.

The purpose has been both fellowship and service. Expressing the wish for a profitable, happy year to come, the president, Mrs. Merrill Sweet, blew out the candles.

Farrington Women's Club Visits Northville Friday

The Northville Women's club enjoyed having as their guests Friday afternoon the Farrington club. In welcoming them, Mrs. C. M. Chass, president of the local club, recalled the old days when the trolley car brought these two communities together more frequently in true neighborliness. It is still the annual custom for the clubs to entertain each other once a year and these occasions are among the pleasantest of the season.

In company with Mrs. Sherrill Anbler, Mrs. Edna Sherrill, wife of Dr. Edwin Sherrill of Detroit, an old friend of the Farrington club, and Mrs. Sherrill brought with her Mrs. Edna MacFee, soloist in the Farrington church choir, who delighted her audience with two groups of vocal solos sung in a most pleasing manner.

Mrs. MacFee's graceful rendition of "The Lord's Prayer" was a masterpiece. Mrs. Sherrill, a member of the Farrington club of Detroit, and an accomplished accompanist, lent her much to the rendition.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. R. M. McCall of Detroit, an authority on current history. She read woman and incidentally a column in the Detroit Free Press.

With a world-wide sweep, Mrs. McCall pointing out locations on the map before her, presented a veritable picture of various nations, her travels abroad adding zest to her descriptions.

"Wouldn't it be better?" Mrs. McCall replied with encouragement. "The very fact that we care now about the things that we ignored fifty years ago and are making some attempt to cure these evils is proof that conditions are hopeful."

So full of information was the speaker that her hour passed too quickly and she continued her remarks informally during tea.

A very attractive tea table centered with a bowl of yellow and white blossoms, suggestive of Springtime, was laid. Mrs. Harry B. Clark and Mrs. T. THEATRE TO SHOW "JIMMY AND SALLY" AND "LOST PATROL" - You have to be able to take it if you're going to be a motion picture actor, whether you specialize in stunt pictures or in movies played within four walls.

Anyone doubting this statement can check the matter with James Dunn, now completing his fourth year on the screen. And Dunn, in no uncertain terms will explain that the life of a screen star is no bed of roses.

Possibly the most unappreciated rough handling he has received, however, comes in "Jimmy and Sally," his latest production, which is to be shown at the Penniman-Allyn theatre, Saturday, March 10. In this picture a half dozen gangster leaders join hands to make things unpleasant for Jimmy, and a single exit from a cafe sees him sent flying a dozen feet before making a four-point landing at the curb.

Claire Trevor, late of Broadway, appears as Dunn's new screen sweetheart in "Jimmy and Sally," written especially for them by William Connelman, and directed by James Tinling. The cast also includes Harvey Stephens, Lya Lys, Jed Prouty, Gloria Roy, Alma Lloyd and John Arledge.

In the picture, it is no Eden, however, but a desert of death. Eleven British soldiers are lost on the shifting sand dunes when their officer is killed by Arabs. Taking refuge in an oasis, the troopers wait for the circle of death, made by besieging Arabs, to close in upon them.

Michigan is one of the four states in the Union which have become notorious in the past few months for inefficiency in government, he affirmed. The situation at Lansing, he said, would fill with astonishment and are those who have not actually had a view into its workings.

"I doubt whether some of the men in office there ever read our constitution. Surely our governor is not acquainted with the constitution when he asks the power to appoint a congressman whose place has been vacated by death. That is something that is never done."

Mr. Neudeck lashed the parole system for its loose method of releasing criminals. Michigan is in a state of chaos so far as government is concerned. Legislators laugh at the governor and the democrats fight among themselves," said Mr. Neudeck in concluding his indictment. "I urge you republicans to work in harmony. Reform the ranks; let criticism be constructive; eradicate abuses; let the republican party be one that recognizes its spiritual significance."

A. E. Fuller had the honor of bringing the largest number of members to the republican club 49; also the two youngest ones. They were Helen Ermina Meaker, 136, Valley View Drive, Syracuse, N.Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Meaker, and Aurelia Catherine Chapman of Ionia, Michigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Chapman. The feature of these young members was that their announcements came on the same night—they were both born the 14th of February—they are both girls and they are both republicans. Mr. Fuller has sent each girl a membership card. Mrs. Meaker was Miss Mary Fuller, and Mr. Chapman was a member of the Michigan State Fair board with Mr. Fuller under Gov. Fred W. Green and Gov. W. M. Brucker.

voice was recorded by the latter. Mr. Murphy nominated J. W. Johnston as candidate for the office of justice of peace (four year term) and he was given 21 votes. A Detroit newspaper erroneously gave Dr. Johnston credit Tuesday for being the incumbent office-holder. Wellington Roberts is the incumbent, having been appointed by the township board last year to fill the vacancy left by Ralph Willis. Dr. Johnston withdrew Thursday in favor of John Walker who will run for the post. As candidate for the board of referees, E. C. Bryan nominated B. C. Stark, and 21 votes were cast for him.

The democrats nominated Louis A. Lanning, Fred Elkins, M. J. Boelen, and Willard F. Cole as candidates for the office of constable, four to be chosen. Arthur Lyke and Harvey Van Valkenburg were substituted by the township committee for M. J. Boelen and Willard Cole who withdrew from the race.

Named to the democratic township committee for the ensuing year were M. J. Murphy, chairman; Mrs. Lillian Blake, Mrs. Zetta Cavell, K. H. Babson, and Fred Van Atta.

Dr. Johnston made a motion that the township committee also elect an empowered to fill any and all vacancies that should occur and the motion was carried unanimously.

Following the conclusion of the caucus the democrats held an informal meeting during which various campaign problems were discussed. Advertising is a less expensive method of salesmanship. Use it!

A good crowd attended the play given by the high school last Friday. The parts were all well taken and the whole performance was an improvement over the play presented last year. THIS WEEK

By H. H. WHITE

A recent article which I read concerning the theatre said that the better element of playwrights for the stage were emerging from murders, underworld life and kidnappings and love intrigues and were going back to religion, faith and the spiritual life of peoples of their times. And so many of the new screen pictures recently have turned to romanticism instead of realism for their themes.

It simply bears out the idea that the average public craze for sensational bloodshed and vice was only temporary and one of the evidences found in post-war hysterical reaction which is abnormal and therefore transitory.

Undoubtedly the outstanding reason for the change to theatre entertainment of the better sort lies in the fact that fundamentally Americans have sound antecedents and still retain pure instincts. Curiosity of themselves is only of the momentary and often quickly satisfied and this no doubt was one of the reasons for the tolerance and apparent outward approval of stiff risqué in theatre lore.

Flith and flair certainly are essentially stage and it has always been that when the first glimmer had spent itself it had nothing else to offer. Witness the fact that jazz soon becomes tiresome, exploited and banal and the same is true of the modern morality revolting to say nothing of the crudeness involved.

The rather surprising thing in all of this is not that the public has commenced to become a little fed up with the tinsel and cheap tawdriness of entertainment but rather that they endured it so long.

But goodness, decency, righteousness and the compelling desire for the better and more wholesome things of life are fundamental characteristics of the American people and if given time will always manifest itself.

OBSERVATION COLUMN

Certain blonde basketball player is being talked into the team because of her size. Although this is her first year in the club and she has not had time to play in a game, she is rather sarcastic at times. Will me, anyway. I really don't mind though, because I know she lives me deep every, very deep down in her heart.

Slong.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

What is your opinion of the outcome of the girls' basketball game with River Rouge high school last Saturday?

MISS LUDVIG (Cautious)—The girls not only played excellent ability, but also displayed the finest team work I have ever before seen. I was certainly pleased when the referee, Helen Wilpin, told me that it was the best game she had ever referred.

IDA ABTMAN—I certainly do believe the girls displayed real valuable ability in that game—all proved by the score—25 to 14 in our favor.

EVELYN KIMMEL—Especially considering that the team played two court basketball for the first time, I believe their achievement is worthy of a great deal of mention.

MARGUERITE NORTON—They played two court basketball for the first time and on strange floors, and yet they showed their opponents a fast, clean battle.

BETTY HAYSTEAD—I thought the girls played a real game and I also thought of the wonderful possibilities in store for a girls' basketball team to represent N. H. 3.

LUCILLE CAVELL—The girls certainly did uphold their title Saturday. Everyone cooperated and enjoyed the day.

JANE GROSVENOR—I also thought the girls did remarkably well in their contest with River Rouge high school (which only proves the desirability of a regular girls' basketball team).

GERTRUDE DEAL—Without a doubt the girls surely showed their true colors Saturday. Defeating a class B school (in a game of two court, which they had never before played), unquestionably puts a fine feather in their caps.

MARION TURNBULL—The game was fast and exciting all the way through. Northville not only came out on top in the game, but also tied for first place with New Haven in the foul shooting contest.

GILBERTA OSEORN—I believe Saturday's game to be an exceptionally fine one. The team members not only played very well, but they also displayed good sportsmanship, and that is needed everywhere. I only wish we could play other schools more often.

THE OTHER DAY

By Miss "19"

We were no less than flabbergasted when we came upon Don Robinson at the "N" club dance last Friday night. It seems he decided to run up to Northville from Cleveland the last minute and arrived here only in time for the dance at his alma mater. While here, Don stayed with Jack McLoughlin. Bob Power is now employed in the office of the local gravel company and is making his home at the Mrs. Bernice Neal residence. We wish him all kinds of luck in his new work.

Among those from out of town at the dance Friday night were Miriam Dundas and her brother, William, Jr. The Dundas are now living in Detroit. It seemed nice to see them here again. Esther Owen was at the dance with Gus Tewksbury. She is now residing in Ferndale. Her sister, Frances, who was formerly employed at the Hill-top Nursery, has returned to her home in Ferndale.

Esther Parmenter and Ruth Mary Baldwin spent Wednesday at Ann Arbor with Wilma Rautenbury. We hear that said Wilma has been asked to join a number of sororities. Ruth Roberts spent the week-end at her home. She still likes school at Ypsilanti as much as ever. Mary Jane Junod was in Detroit, Sunday. We noticed Jean Hill at the dance (same one) and believe she was in the company of Nelson Schrader, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schulte entertained a number of friends after the dance. Among them were: Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lapham, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kolfer, Helen Bridge and Sam Stalder. Have you noticed the patches on Sam's knees? There've not from praying, either. We wonder if Elliot Fox has left for New York yet? Florence Johnson was in her old place in the Methodist church choir Sunday. Seemed good to hear her voice again. She has been working for one of the doctors at the sanatorium. (Kendall) Catherine was here at the dance and agreed with us that the Orchestra at the "N" club party was good. Marshall Hyde spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in Charlotte, Durcan Fry and Alex Johnson, Jr. were in Detroit, Sunday, to take in a show and a hockey game. Harry Cassie of Detroit, formerly of Northville, is employed on Saturdays at the C. P. Smith store. He tells us that his sister, Lillian, who was graduated from the Northville high school in 1931, is enjoying the work with her dancing school, which she is conducting in Detroit.

Now, children, for our bedtime story—Once upon a time a young chap by the name of Harold Blooin (I said "years ago" children, he's 31 old married man now) went skating and not being a master of the sport, young Harold fell down. Now, it seems he was carrying a box of matches in one of his hip pockets and when the fatal plunge was made they ignited—leaving Harold a wiser and sorer man.

CORNER FOR BOOK LOVES

By Rita Sprenger

Almost any person who reads at all has been disappointed in some book which he had been recommended...

One of those experiences I shall always remember was my first acquaintance with Christopher Morley, the story being "When the Bells Begin"...

After that I never cared to try any more of Christopher Morley's stories. But only a week or two ago someone told me that his (Morley's) "The Haunted Bookshop" was one of the best books he'd ever read...

"Parissus on Wheels" was the name of a traveling library with which its owner made the rounds of the rural districts...

It was housed in one of those comfortable old brown stone dwellings for which New York is famous...

This is not a ghost story. The "haunted" part is the owner, Roger Millfin's idea that it is haunted by the ghosts of all great literature...

From then on the two really do begin to run away with the story. But what a story! Never have I come across such a one...

RESULTS OF GAMES PLAYED DURING '33, '34

Varsity Gains 10 Victories Out of 15 Reserves, 7 From 13

The varsity team of N. H. S. has done remarkably well and made fine progress in the basketball season which just passed...

Northville Rival Where Played: Alumni 22 here; Berkley 18 there; Farmington 24 here; Trenton 20 there; Melvindale 12 here; Plymouth 18 here; Van Dyke 9 here; Berkley 5 here; Farmington 21 there; Trenton 20 here; Plymouth 21 there; Melvindale 9 there; Van Dyke 8 there; Sacred Heart 26 Ypsilanti 12 Ypsilanti 26 Ypsilanti 12

The reserves, although their importance is never stressed as much as that of their big brother team, displayed lots of spunk and ability. They too have a good record, winning 7 games out of 13.

Northville Rival Where Played: Alumni 9 here; Berkley 14 there; Farmington 14 here; Trenton 18 there; Melvindale 18 here; Plymouth 18 here; Van Dyke 10 here; Berkley 22 here; Farmington 16 there; Trenton 18 here; Plymouth 14 there; Melvindale 19 there; Van Dyke 18 there

Duguid and Lyke handled, for the most part, the forward positions, while Schradar and G. Westphal took care of the defensive work at guard Bender played center.

It can't possibly be mentioned every boy on the squad because there are too many and the allotted space too small. Suffice it to say that each one did a fine job when he was on the floor.

A second team and a squad may not appear to get along without trouble to the average observer, but if they do not scrap hard every minute of practice, how would the first-string men get in shape?

Hoffman, with a total of 101 points, was high man for the season. He was followed by Bender with 79, Deal with 77, Westphal with 59, Duguid with 58, Marburger with 41, Lyke with 40, Bray with 36, Schradar with 20, Nirdler with 18, G. Westphal with 15, Myers with 15, Baldwin with 14, McCoughlin with 11, Carrington with 9, Junod with 7, E. Angove with 2, Moase with 2, and Hochkins and Turnbull with 0.

Nelson Chamney Schradar. Almost eighteen years ago, April 27, 1915, to be exact, a wonderful event occurred in this fair city of Northville. Nelson Chamney Schradar, Junior arrived bag and baggage. This same young chap attended our school ever since he entered kindergarten.
