

WHITE CROSS SEALS TO AID THE CRIPPLED

Local Group Joins in the Campaign to Sell 10,000 Here

Northville hopes to sell 10,000 White Cross Seals—all to help crippled "kids."

Representatives of the various village organizations and clubs met at the high school Wednesday evening to plan a program for selling of the White Cross Seals.

The White Cross Seal drive is to be put on during the coming week and Northville has its quota at the present time 10,000 seals to sell.

At the meeting Wednesday evening, Percy C. Angove explained the purpose of the campaign and cited several examples of crippled children who had been brought to his attention and through aid had been made self sufficient to a great extent.

Infantile paralysis, one of the chief crippling diseases of the children, has to be fought just as a concerted attack has been made on T. B. and other diseases in the past.

Through a recent survey it was ascertained that there are approximately 400,000 crippled children in the United States, and that there are approximately 14,000 in Michigan.

Most of the work done along this line has been done through the Rotary club and other local organizations, with some work accomplished through the state society.

But this is the first time that a thorough state-wide campaign has been carried out.

As the Rotary has always been interested in the care of crippled children it makes it all the more important that the work should be carried on through a central steering committee from the Rotary.

The local committee is composed of Don Yerkes, Sr., chairman; Russell H. Amerman, superintendent of schools; and Harry B. Clark.

Starting yesterday the seals were to be released in the school and Boy Scouts were to place posters in the stores. The Girl Scouts were to canvass the business section to discover how many seals would be taken by the business and professional men.

The seals are to sell for a cent apiece and the proceeds are to be divided with 50 per cent retained for local use, 30 per cent going to state aid, and the remaining 20 to the international organization which takes care of the printing of the literature, and helps to pay running expenses.

All of the organizations are co-operating to the full extent of their ability and all of the 10,000 quota for Northville should soon be absorbed.

Northville is out to boost the sale of White Cross Seals—to save the crippled children.

MARVIN BOGART VISITS FRIENDS ON HIS 34TH BIRTHDAY

On His Return Home He Is Guest of Honor At Dinner

Achieving the age of 34 years in his hale and hearty condition as has Marvin Bogart, Civil war veteran, is no mean accomplishment.

Mr. Bogart, well known here, resides on the farm near Wixom which has been his home for over 20 years. He is the grandfather of E. M. Bogart, head of the E. M. B. Food Market of Northville.

His birthday, falling on Saturday, March 17, Mr. Bogart celebrated the day by visiting friends in this and surrounding communities. Most people his age would have waited for friends to come and see him, but Mr. Bogart, as aptly phrased, "has been mentally as many years a score of years his junior, with right out and visited the neighbors he has known for so long."

But when he arrived Saturday evening a surprise was in store for him. Waiting for him were his children who came from Flint and Pontiac to help him celebrate the occasion. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Richard McGuire, of Flint, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Bogart, of Pontiac. The immediate children of Mr. Bogart are Mrs. McGuire and Harry Bogart.

A pleasant dinner, with a huge and handsome birthday cake, were features of the party which all enjoyed. Mr. Bogart joined in the festivities and pronounced it even better than the 93 birthdays which preceded it for him.

Paul Steencken, N. H. S. Graduate, Has Many Thrilling Experiences In Three Years of Navy Service

(By Warner P. Neal)

"The life is in."

At least one member of it is, in the person of Paul Steencken who arrived here last week, tall, bronzed, good looking, and in the pink of physical condition, after three years' service in the United States Navy.

Following a family tradition that embraced nearly all of his family for more than a generation, he joined the navy in 1930. Now, after three years of adventure with the nation's first line of defense, he is home. He enlisted in June, 1930, following his graduation from the Northville high school. He was at the Great Lakes Training station until January, learning the fundamentals of seamanship. Then he was transferred to the electrical school at San Diego where he studied until August.

His first experience on an ocean-going man-of-war came when he was transferred from the school in San Diego to the small destroyer, "Melville." Here for two weeks Paul scrubbed decks, working up an appetite to eat what he calls "the best food served in the whole Navy."

Then finally, he was sent to the 32,000 ton battleship, the "Colorado."

Paul's first interesting experience came when, going from "The Melville" to the "Colorado," he nearly got lost in the San Francisco harbor. He had many more during his three years in the Navy. His first task on the battleship (battleship) was to learn the ropes of the ship.

Sydney Fox In Thiller And Gloria Stuart In Musical Comedy To Please Show Fans

Superb direction, an exciting story, and convincing performances by a cast of Broadway and Hollywood stars combine to make "Midnight," the Universal film which shows Saturday evening (tomorrow) at the Penniman-Allyn theatre, a genuinely dramatic thriller.

"Midnight," originally a Theatre Guild play, tells the story of a man, father of a family, who believes in upholding the law. Appointed jury foreman in the trial of a murderer, he asks the woman a single vital question. Her answer results in a verdict of "guilty." Then public opinion rises against the foreman for his part in convicting the woman. He is harassed by reporters. Even the sympathies of his younger daughter are with the murderer.

On the night of the execution, which is set for midnight, the foreman sits at home, surrounded by his family. The impending execution preys on his mind. The situation grows increasingly tense as the clock ticks off the minutes. Outside the house, reporters battle with police. Then suddenly events take place which completely turn the tables. They make you gasp and wonder. And shudder, too, if you are like us.

It would be criminal to even guess the outcome of "Midnight," or to spoil in any way the marvelous suspense which Chester Erskine, the director has built up. You must see "Midnight" if you enjoy real gripping entertainment.

"I Like It That Way"

A rollicking, robust comedy-drama that will keep you in a hilarious mood from first reel to final fade-out is Universal's new film production, aptly titled, "I Like It That Way," which will play Wednesday evening at the Penniman-Allyn theatre.

You will like Roger Pryor, one of the most promising young stars the screen has garnered, from the stage, whose first screen appearance was in "Moonlight and Pretzels"—and you will more than like Gloria Stuart in this modern, up-to-the-minute film. Miss Stuart has never had a better opportunity to display her beauty and her acting ability than in this musical.

The secret of successful salesmanship as expounded by Pryor provides this picture with a gleeful zest that is irresistible. The story is a happy mixture of sophisticated dialogue, wise cracking lines, scintillating songs and dancing feet. Through this light and frothy frolic runs the serious vein of a good girl who is determined to stay that way when life compels her to sacrifice herself.

to the Great God Mammon. Miss Stuart and Pryor are happily teamed together for the first time, sharing featured honors. A truly splendid cast of players surround them in lovely Marian Marsh, Shirley Grey, Noel Madison, Lucille Gleason, Mickey Rooney, Olan Soule, Merna Kennedy, Gloria Shea and others.

The song hits of the picture are "I Like It That Way," "Miss 1934" and "Let's Put Two and Two Together," all of which are being heard on the radio constantly.

Homemaker's Corner

MRS. EDITOR

"What Makes Life Worth Living?"

"Is life really worth living?" Full many of us homemakers have "blue" moods, if we will honestly admit it. When we have actually wondered.

Rounding around we go to our tasks and the very next day the same things to be done over again. "Where are we getting? What's it all for?" we ask and then that most abominable old hypocrite, "Self Pity," whispers in our ear "Nobody appreciates it—what's the use of it all?"

In some such mood, perhaps, we went to hear Dr. Frederick B. Fisher in Ann Arbor who spoke on "What Makes Life Worth Living?"

Of course, we thought, he would line up all those things that are supposed to bring happiness and comfort, just enough money, a comfortable home of one's own, a family, friends, health, education, appreciation of the beauties of nature, music, good books—all those things that seem to spell contentment.

But not so. To him had come very often those who had asked "Is life worth living?" Discouraged spirits, men who had lost fortunes, men who to escape it all by the cowardly road of suicide, baffled wives of untrue husbands—all asking the same question.

No soft and coddling answer did this strong man give. "Life is a challenge," says he, "and only when it is accepted as a challenge is it worth while."

The very center of existence is a dream and real happiness only comes in making this dream come true. "Have a faith in to live by, a self, fit to live with, a work fit to live for."

PROPHET PREDICTS PLEASANT SUMMER

William Molt, Canada's weather prophet, recently forwarded some good news to Michigan. Mr. Molt has looked up very carefully the present status of the signs, planets, and constellations, and says:

"The weather for the balance of 1934 has been much harder than usual to predict reliably, because of conflicting influences. However, I now see quite plainly that Michigan and Ontario will have a pleasant summer in the main and are sure to be unusually abundant in both sections for 1934."

Mr. Molt has gained fame and fortune in Ontario and Canada by the publication of an almanac in which he accurately predicts the weather. He is editor of The Kitchener Record.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bauman arranged in their home on Miller road a double birthday party for their second son, Alvin, and wife, Miss Jeanette Bauman, greatly enjoyed by all present.

The official board and pastor of the Congregational church met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Clark, Seven Mile road, for a very important and successful business meeting, Friday evening.

Rev. Lila M. Stroh left Monday afternoon for Hamilton, Ohio, called there to the bedside of her father-in-law, who is critically ill. Mrs. Stroh expects to be back to fill her pulpit in the Congregational church next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilson and sons, joined in a family gathering Sunday, celebrating their father's and grandfather's, Frank T. Galpin's, 81st natal day with a sure birthday dinner at his home in Whitmore Lake.

Mrs. Henry Whitaker returned home Thursday from Howell after spending several days in the home of her son and wife, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Crockett. Dr. Crockett had been in a local hospital for the removal of his appendix.

The Congregational church had a wonderful prayer meeting and song service, with a special celebration at the Helmut Ritgel home, Wednesday evening, in honor of their 31st wedding anniversary. A splendid lunch was served at the close of the evening.

A large crowd of relatives and friends gathered in the town hall Saturday evening to help celebrate the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schroeder of Seven Mile road. Among the many fine cake topped by a cute little couple was greatly admired. A jolly time was enjoyed by all, wishing the happy guests a prolonged happy wedding life.

Salem Union School, Primary Room. We have been studying a diagram of the sky. By it we are learning to locate different stars and planets in the sky at night.

In the sand table we have a Holland project.

Miss Frances Anderson, former teacher here, called on us Monday morning.

We are watching for the arrival of different birds for our bird study. We are making a "Bird Arrival Chart."

Nearly every pupil is ordering seeds and is going to make a flower and vegetable garden.

A bronze medal will be given to the best gardener.

Mary Ann Atkinson, teacher.

It means tackling a hard job in a "dirty world and being willing to scour, to take up some unpopular cause even at one's peril.

No life ever came to greatness by undignified and one is still an adolescent who is groping in indecision. Devotion to the task chosen makes life a romantic adventure and when at last the dream is realized there comes that "glorious humility" such as the great musician Handel felt when he saw the throngs moved by his masterpiece. Back in an obscure corner the composer fell on his knees and wept tears of triumph.

John Brown, that great, anti-slavery advocate, seemed to have not defeat in a prison but he said with a tone of victory "I have planted a seed that will grow to a sapling and finally to a tree so large that you can't shake it." Even in defeat his soul goes marching on.

The sermon was ended and with the crowd we were moving down the stairs and out into the night. "A challenge, a glorious adventure." Why, yes, even homemaking may be that. Who said life wasn't worth living?

The daily round, the trivial task, Cap furnish all we ought to ask, Room to deny ourselves, a road To lead us daily nearer God.

Sandwiches

"What dainty sandwiches—and how good they are!" so many women exclaimed at the tea served by the Northville Woman's club recently when Farmington women were their guests that we inquired the secret of the chairman, Mrs. H. S. Walsh, who was assisted by Mrs. Eural.

Clark, Mrs. Soley and Mrs. Handorf. Here are some sandwich hints that are a bit different.

Roller Sandwiches

On bread thin, spread a little mayonnaise dressing, sprinkle with a dash of paprika and roll up an asparagus tip. Roll in waxed paper until ready to serve.

Layer Sandwiches

Cut the bread lengthwise. Spread first layer with a mixture of cream cheese, pineapple-nuts; second layer with peanut butter and mayonnaise. Alternate. Use brown and white bread. Slice thin.

Open Sandwiches

Mrs. Handorf made open sandwiches cut in attractive shapes and spread with creamed cheese, sprinkled with a dash of minced parsley.

Miss Stringer's Sandwiches

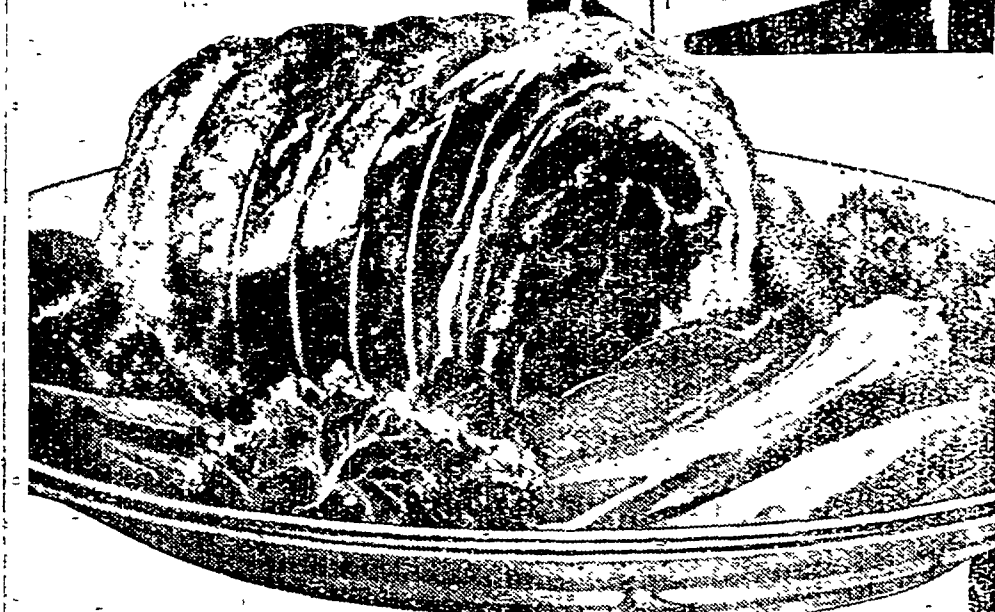

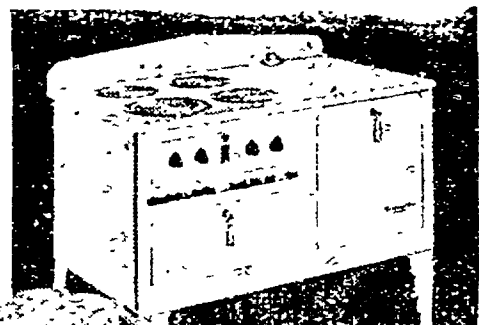

At the Free Press Home Economics Institute, Tuesday, Miss Stringer made some very pretty sandwiches. Here are some of her hints: (1) Cut rounds of bread with the top round cut with doughnut cutter. Spread with cream cheese and in the center of the hole place a slice of stuffed olive. (2) Spread open sandwich with pimento cream, cheese and make a shamrock in the center with slices of tiny Heinz pickles. (3) Spread with anchovy paste garnished with sliced olives. (4) Use flat potato chips, spread with Philadelphia cream cheese and garnish with a stuffed olive. The chips are easy to use when the hostess is hurried.

TRIAL ELECTRIC RANGE!

There are roasts and roasts, big and little, tough and tender... as every good cook knows. But the best roasts are electrically cooked roasts. Even tough cuts of meat will cook tender in an electric oven. Because—to bring out their fullest flavor—it is necessary that meats cook in their own juices, preserving all of their delicious natural elements. This is one of the most popular features of electric cooking. The modern electric range SEALS IN nourishing and healthful juices in roasts, and cooks them to melting tenderness without the addition of any water. This conserves precious minerals and important food values and imparts the delicious natural flavor that is so distinctive.

★ To let you prove for yourself this feature and all of the EIGHT EXTRA THINGS electric cooking gives you, we want you to try an electric range in your own kitchen. We want you to enjoy electric cooking without making any investment or being under any obligation. So we have arranged a special trial offer. We will install an electric range in your kitchen without initial charge, and let you use it for six months, removing it without charge if you do not like it. During the trial period, you pay for the service as registered by your meter, plus a monthly charge of $1 for the range. If you decide to keep the range, your monthly payments will be applied toward the purchase price. If you decide that you do not want it, the range will be removed at our expense. Since this trial plan was begun a short time ago, over 1500 of our customers have taken advantage of the offer. Send in your application for a trial range today!

Women are Stirred by Talk On Racketeers by L. J. Flint, Detroit—

The members of the Northville Woman's club listened to a very enlightening talk by L. J. Flint, vice-president of the Citizens' Commission, Detroit, on the underground work of the racketeers who prey upon the sympathies of the public.

Many and "smooth" are the wily methods of extortion. One of the smoothest games is the "Samantian Army," represented by men pretending to be clergymen who appeal to those of generous impulses. Fake tickets for an O. E. S. ball for the benefit of crippled children at $5 a ticket "take in" a neat profit for these racketeers.

At Christmas time ragged little children are sent out selling cookies, and "fake Santa Claus" boys "for the poor." One of the most conscienceless games is to deliver C. O. D. packages a few days after the death of the addressee; when the mourners have not the heart to refuse.

Perhaps the meanest game is to insist on applicants for a job buying a fake bond and of course no job follows.

Several cures were suggested by Mr. Flint to this insinuating menace: (1) to stop violent interference with interstate commerce; (2) to be able to punish when threats of extortion are discovered; (3) to extend provision of interstate commerce act to things other than cars; (4) to make it unlawful to flee from the state to avoid acting as witness; (5) to make it lawful for prisoners to testify; (6) to prohibit machine guns and pistols.

John Poulos and James Tsatsas, managers of the Northville restaurant, were released from any further questioning Monday afternoon after a conference with officials of Wayne county sheriff's department and the prosecuting attorney's representatives.

THE OTHER DAY

By Miss "19"

Fifth Whitehead, who has been staying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Whitehead, returned to her home in Rockford, Ill., Sunday evening. We'll miss her. Geo. Richardson is an employee at the local factory. He began work a week ago last Monday. Hugh Horton of Plymouth, but well known to Northville young folk, is also employed at the Ford plant. Esther Parmenter became one year older Wednesday. We won't tell you the exact number of years but assure that it's a ripe old age. You'll probably see her tottering around the streets in her agedness.

"Toni" McLaughlin entertained twenty-two of her friends at a St. Patrick's party Friday evening. "Pat" Roberts of Detroit came out for the event. Dancing was the diversion of the evening. Jean Baldwin of Ann Arbor spent the week-end at the McLaughlin home. Sam Stalter attended a bridge party at the home of Helen Bridge in Plymouth Monday evening. Bernice Clark has received two high honors at Ypsilanti. She has been elected to the judiciary board of the college and also corresponding editor of the Pi Kappa sorority into which she was initiated last Saturday morning. We hear from friends that Charles Munzinger is enjoying college life just to remind you, he is a student at Michigan State.

George Beasley chore Tuesday as his day off to wash the windows of the C. F. Smith store. Arlene Richardson arrived home yesterday from Michigan State for the annual spring vacation. Edna Martin was admitted to Atchison hospital for appendectomy Tuesday afternoon. Ella Mackay was the guest of Leona Moffitt over the week-end.

Week-end guests of Lucille Webster were Gladys Atwell and Mary Black of Toledo, and Mary McClarin of Detroit. Anna Richards had as her guests over the week-end Gladys Monroe, Port Huron, and Mary Shiraphell, Deckerville. Evidently it's quite handy for Frances Bacon to be working at Ely's. We see these two good friends, Frances and Violet, together often. We hear that the Junior play, "The Sweeping Victory," was more than good. We congratulate the cast.

Back again next week!

MRS. WM. TAFT

As the result of a complicated illness of five weeks, Mrs. Wm. Taft passed away at Sessions hospital Saturday morning, March 17. She was taken to the hospital one week previously, pneumonia having set in.

Margaret Daisy was born in Ontario, June 22, 1863. In early childhood she came to Michigan with her parents when they made their home near Dearborn. Margaret attended the country school with Henry Ford.

Forty-six years ago she was married to Wm. Taft and the new home was established at the old family homestead on the corner of the Eight Mile and Taft roads, just west of town. This homestead was granted to Wm. Taft's father when this spot was a wilderness.

Three sons were born to them: Wm. Guy, now of Evanston, Ill.; Gerald, who makes his home here; and Starr, who died in 1916. It was for these sons that Mrs. Taft devoted the best of her life. She asked no greater joy than to make a happy, comfortable home for her family. Mr. Taft preceded her in death two years ago.

Mrs. Taft was a total member of the Baptist church, being especially active in its women's organizations.

She was a motherly woman, a kind neighbor and a true friend to many. For ten weeks previous to her illness she had enjoyed a visit in the home of her son, Wm., in Evanston.

Beside her two sons, she is survived by four little grandchildren who were very dear to her: Barbara, Patricia, Lois and Wm. Dale.

The funeral service was held in the Schrader chapel, Monday afternoon, with Rev. H. G. Whitfield officiating. She was borne to her last resting place in Rural Hill cemetery by six old friends: E. H. Lapham, Floyd Northrop, H. B. Clark, Fred Fry, Dr. E. B. Cavell, and George E. Ralls.

MRS. JOS. W. PRIEST

Mrs. Jos. W. Priest, wife of a former pastor of the local Baptist church, died in the University hospital Saturday, March 17. Mrs. Priest had undergone an operation three days previously from which she did not recover.

During her residence in Northville, in the years 1927 - 1929 Mrs. Priest won many friends by her kindly spirit and helpfulness to her husband in his ministry.

One daughter, Miss Frances, and Mr. Priest, survive. The funeral was held in the home town, Alma, Monday afternoon, at the Baptist church.

After leaving Northville, it will be recalled that Mr. Priest became superintendent of the Old People's Home in Pontiac. After the sale of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Priest moved to Alma and purchased the present home.

GARDEN HINTS
(By Jessie F. Mahmborg)

Doronicum-Leopardbane is the earliest daisy-like flower and one of the few hardy plants which blossom early in the spring. Its single flowers are produced on long stiff stems and resemble a very large daisy with a yellow center. It is an excellent cut flower and they last for several days when placed in water. It is at home on the perennial border or rock garden and its large, golden flowers come when yellow flowers are few in number.

I have found that Doronicum-caucasicum which comes from the shady woods of Caucasus, Scythia, is a dependable kind, although it likes shade and will die back and disappear through the months of July and August, springing up again in the month of September, putting forth its broad ovate leaves of a soft rich green color which makes it a good plant for the Rock Garden.
Rock plants that have bloomed throughout the summer are shabby.
So Doronicum with its charm of new green foliage adds to the rock garden in the fall.

PROF. HARRISON OF ALBION TALKS HERE

Addresses Senior Class And Assembly On College Advantages

The seniors spent the ninth hour of last Monday in Mrs. Taylor's room listening to Professor S. J. Harrison give some interesting facts about Albion college.

He first showed them a panoramic view of the entire campus of this 99-year old institution, which covers six city blocks. There are 10 well-equipped buildings and 50 well-trained instructors. Robinson Hall, the library, the physics laboratory, the gymnasium, and a girls' dormitory were separately displayed. The gymnasium was donated by S. S. Kresge and is one of the best in the state; 40,000 volumes are contained in the library; and the dormitory that was shown houses 200 girls and has a graduate nurse to take care of their health.

There were, Mr. Harrison remarked, several reasons for attending college. Among them were: to avoid joining the army of the unemployed, to prepare to compete in our modern world, to add to the earning capacity for life, to help find a way out of the woods of confusion, and to learn to use your spare time profitably.

Last year 674 students attended Albion college. They have, he pointed out, more opportunity to become acquainted with their instructors because of their small number. The tuition, fees, books, board, and room amount to from $325 to $550 per year—the difference is made by the type of board and room one selects. Both men and women have a chance to join a fraternity; there being six for the former and five for the latter. Mr. Harrison felt that Albion warranted anyone's attendance, for it offers a wide range of subjects, has good buildings, a fine faculty, and its credits are accepted everywhere.

Following this he also addressed the assembly on choosing a vocation. He illustrated four ways in which a boy or girl may decide on his or her occupation.

First—write down all fields you are interested in—in school and out. Second—rate yourself as to skill in the field you prefer. Here you may see that the activity you are most capable of doing will not be your choice.

Third—analyze your type of personality as to fear, neatness, adaptability, etc. Fourth—go to people who are successful in different fields and ask their advice about their work.

SENIOR WHO'S WHO

Marjorie Glibbreth Pierpont

September 6, 1915, was a red-letter day for Marjorie (popularly known as Margie), for that was the day on which she was born. She was born way up in Waterbury, Conn., and lived there (and also in Massachusetts) until she was fifteen. Then she and her family moved to West Point Park, where Marjorie spent her first two high school years in Pierson High School. She entered the eleventh grade here after moving to Northville in 1922.

Marjorie has capably filled the position of secretary of the senior class this year. She is also serving on one of the senior prom committees. Marjorie has taken part in the glee club and choir during her eleventh and twelfth grades, and is practicing now for the senior play and the opera to be given soon.

Girl scouting is Marjorie's hobby, and she is at present taking a lieutenant's training course. Her pastimes are sewing, gardening, all sports, and swimming. She is interested in dramatics and music, is fond of all kinds of animals, (especially cats), and collects wild flowers (having a large collection at present).

Marjorie plans to go to college to study for Social Service work.

Louise Elizabeth Faele

Louise was born in Caro, Mich., in 1915 (Sept. 24) was the lucky day. She has always lived around Northville. Her ninth and tenth grades were spent in Novi. She came here to enter the eleventh grade. Her home at present is in Novi.

Louise tells us that her hobby is music, and her favorite pastimes are movies and roller skating.

Louise wishes very much to take up a course in a music conservatory.

Violet Melissa Booth

December 29, 1915, was the day that saw Violet Booth enter this world in the little (?) city of Detroit. Anyway, it's a memorable day in Violet's life. In 1925 the Booth family moved to Northville, living there until 1931, when they moved to Redford. Violet went down to Florida for the winter of 1931.

THE OBSERVER

By "The Observer"

Excuse last week, please, I quite forgot I was "The Observer." Guess whom I'm abusing now? She is of a large build, being about five feet, seven inches tall and is rather heavy. Her hair is dark and cut in a short bob. Her pictures were the envy and pride of the senior class—she looked so fresh, eager, to meet the world, so keen-minded.

When I first knew her, she had very set ideas. She is completely rid of the fault now. She is ever thoughtful of other people's feelings (mental, of course), and has the art of being frank without being blunt.

I can wager you never knew that she was like this, did you?

Here's a teacher with a dual personality. Most of you, commoners (meaning average and worse students) just don't realize it. You have even heard her saying that she is "cranky." I, too, thought that a year or so ago, and stood in awe, fear, and what not of her. She is just making the student toe the mark, and he doesn't like it. Here's the other side—all summed up in a sentence. She is one of the most cheerful, companionable, fun-loving teachers existing.

She is short, slight, with dark hair, and hazel eyes, please pardon the bluntness, but she is good-looking. (She doesn't photograph well either. I know, cuz she told me.) I'll let you have three guesses.

SOCIETY

Violet has been on the girls' basketball team during her last three school years. We find that Violet likes swimming as her hobby, and golfing and reading as her pastimes.

She plans to take a beauty culture course somewhere after graduating in June.

Howard Fred Balko

Howard was ushered into the world at Nine Mile and Nalper Roads, August 6, 1915. He attended a rural school through the eighth grade, when he moved to Northville to spend the rest of his school days in N. H. S.

Howard is on a committee for the senior prom. He has played on the interclass basketball team for his ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades.

Farming is Howard's hobby, while fishing and all other sports are his favorite pastimes.

Howard is a yet undecided as to what he will do on leaving high school. He also is wondering "What Next?"

The boys have been circulating a petition among themselves this week. It states: "The undersigned wish to organize a boys' gymnasium class which would be held some period of the day."

Ha! A Rival!

The Orange and Black has some active competition. The seventh and eighth graders, feeling in need of strenuous exercise, are at present, if you please, printing their own paper. This new and novel creation is called "The Junior Star" and shows promise of outshining Mars Venus, and yes, even this noteworthy sheet. Virginia Porch conceived the brilliant scheme when she saw one of the reporters of this staff busily thinking of an excuse he could use for not having his assignment in, so she hurriedly conferred with Betty Schrader, Keene Bolton, Alice Eaton, and Constance Burgess, who approved it immediately. They comprise the editorial department, while Virginia fills the position of editor-in-chief (poor thing).

The purpose of their page is to provide funds for library books with which to replenish the stock of the Junior Assembly. Every Wednesday is publication day and each copy is sold for two cents. It is patterned somewhat after the O. and B., having a society column, etc. The typing, duplicating, and paypurs are furnished by the school.

And now just a word of advice to Virginia. When your reporters fail you, when your sensorium sits down on its haunches like a stubborn donkey and positively and invincibly will not yield one single solitary, companionless iota of an idea, when you feel smothered with work, don't, as someone more notable than we will ever be said, give up the ship-stick with her and keep balling it. The satisfaction that you will acquire from knowing that you tried is worth a lot.

Rita Sprenger's indisposition prevented her writing an article this week, and the absence of her article distinctly proves that they are both needed.

Junior Class Play Is Acclaimed A Huge Success By Those Who See It

The Juniors certainly made a hit of Katherine Kavanaugh's play "A Sweeping Victory," which they produced March 15 and 22. Good-sized audiences attended both performances and the frequent bursts of laughter denoted that they were pleasantly entertained. This three-act comedy was directed by Miss Dorcas Corrin, to whom the class, to show its appreciation, presented a bouquet of roses.

William Owen as Thomas, the butler of the Ferguson home, gave a fine characterization. The part of Angus Ferguson was taken by Maurilio Gules on the sixteenth and David Martens on the twenty-second. Both were excellent. Peggy Ferguson was played by Myron Schroeder (on the sixteenth) and Violet Johnson (on the twenty-second), who starred the laurels equally. Stanley Taylor portrayed John Ferguson, the serious, hard-working young man, very well. Mrs. Dierow (Marguerite Norton), Mrs. Swan (Frances Cousins), and Miss Metcalf (Betty Rand) all on the first night and Catherine Bongiovanni (on the second) added much amusement with their intent to clear up city politics. Don Bray very capably handled the role of Johnnie X. Ferguson, the football-loving son of Angus. The stuttering "Slew" Irwin was done well by Eddie Bender. Tom Carrington as "Hack" Durkin (who was always going to smoke a cigar, but didn't) was good. Helen Christensen as Pertia Durkin, who spoke French and called Tom Carrington "fath-ah," supplied much amusement. (It was rumored that they were going to have Helen sing at the second performance because she brought "the neighbors" all in.) Edina Corrin took this role on the twenty-second and did excellently, too. Stella Holane, Johnnie X's fiancée, was well presented by Dorothy Richardson.

The play is the result of much effort, and shows what a really fine job the junior class can do.

SOCIAL SCIENCE NOTES

The ninth hour World History class has started work on its play "Sauce for the Gessler" which it hopes to give in front of the assembly some time in April.

The other portion of the Vocations class visited the laundry and was shown all the appliances by Mr. Frid.

Last Friday they listened to a lecture on "Opportunities Offered in the Field of Dramatics" by Valentine B. Windt, instructor of speech at the University of Michigan. Mr. Windt is in charge of the Play Production Classes of the University in which acting, stage direction, costume, etc., are studied. This week (Friday) they will hear "The Architect—His Education and Career" by Emil Lorch, professor of architecture. On March 30 these talks will be concluded with a talk on "Vocational Guidance for Women" to be presented by Miss Gertrude Moxen.

DID YOU NOTICE

How reluctantly the seniors admit that the junior play was "pretty good?"

The proud way in which Miss Palmer asserts that she attended the morning service at the Methodist Church last Sunday?

That engagements (even in a comedy to be given by the senior class) are really not bad? Well, at least the opinions of Marie and Mary seem to lean in that direction.

That instead of holding hands, Maurice holds wrists? Ask Marguerite.

The unavailability which has been so abundant at school the last few days? Ah, yes, it takes the thoughts of a vacation to make everything run smoothly.

Bob Angove's rather warmish hat? The girls like it, spake he.

That Don's anger at finding Dorothy and Eddie getting along so companionably in "A Sweeping Victory" looked quite real?

How late Mr. Thompson works after school hours? That since the girls have seen the type of boy going to Albion, their interest in college has increased? Once versus twice for the boys?

The freshmen squad was composed of Bob Bray, Frances Huff, Lee Thompson, Fred VanValkenburg (captain), Milton Hagemaster, Harry Richard on, Charles Parmenter, Halley Baker, and Tony Bender.

Gerald Trotter (captain), Charles Strautz, Thomas Gregory, Herman Hartner, Roland Morris, Donald Lanning, Ralph Matthews and Jack Stenbuhl made up the sophomore group.

The juniors who were on the squad were: Adeline Boyd, David Martens, Sidney Moose, Kenneth Porter (captain), John Sprenger, Melvin Stomora, and Spencer VanValkenburg.

Sam Lawrence (captain), Herbert Ray, Ernest Racz, Ottie Tewksbury, Darrell Bulmon, Norwood Dickinson, Olin Foggate, and Ace Cook comprised the senior squad.

Racz was high man; he scored 76 points. Next in line came Lanning with 59, Porter 56, Moose 25, Gregory 24, P. VanValkenburg 24, Boyd 17, Lawrence 16, Ware 15, Dickinson 14, Tewksbury 13, Stenbuhl 13, Martens 11, Morris 11, Bulmon 10, Stomora 9, Trotter 8, Foggate 6, Parmenter 5, S. The third day game was the first had only instead of being worse than the second it was worse than the first.

There was just ten minutes and five to go. The first three people were not prepared that meant only two were left and I happened to be one of them. Irene Modas was the next on the program. I didn't know Irene then, but I did hope that she was long winded. At last she sat down and I could hear the sigh of relief that escaped her as she did. That made me feel worse, 'cause I knew she wasn't half as bashful as I was. "Dear teacher" closed the little book in which he put his black crosses (that really are the symbol of kisses) after your name when you misbehave. I couldn't imagine why he hadn't called on me. He stood up and gave the assignment for the next day. Then he looked down his list of names and didn't find a black mark after my name. I heard my name called, and not knowing how I got up in front of the class. I started to give an introduction including my past, present and future. I managed to get through and after sitting down in the seat I was so reluctant to leave I made up my mind speeches weren't bad after all. That was until I started to write my last speech.

THAT AWFUL FIRST SPEECH

By Dorothy Richardson

I had thought about this speech ever since it was assigned and almost gave up hope of ever finding a topic I could talk six whole, big minutes on. Then I had an inspiration. I hoped this would be my last speech, so I decided to talk on my first speech.

The assignment was to introduce myself. I looked around the room and saw only seven fair faces that I wasn't frightened of when speaking to—and these were girls. Well, what are seven girls to a roomful of young schoolboys? My first thought was—"Ah, I'll never be able to do this!"

On the way home the only thing I could remember was the introduction that must come tomorrow. Coming so near my lunch hour, I simply took away my appetite. I went home and complained to mother that I had to introduce myself. She said, "Hearns! Doesn't everyone in your class know you?" I replied, "That's just it; introducing myself to people who really know more about me and my affairs than I do myself."

The fatal day arrived. In French I forgot how to conjugate "to be" and in English Lit. I said "Bogwell" was a Greek Goddess and in History I said the War of 1812 was fought two years later. I just couldn't collect my thoughts. Then came Public Speaking. Shaking like a leaf, I took my place in the second seat from the front waiting for "dear teacher" to call on me. Tom Carrington was the first victim. He got up and told his full name, address, and telephone number. Brave Tommy, you can't imagine how much I envied him. Oh, well, he does have a way with the girls.

Then Nelson Schrader was on the list. His introduction went off with a bang too. The bell rang and I hadn't given my speech just another day to worry about it.

The next day arrived. It was worse than the first, but still "dear teacher" didn't ask for my speech. This day proved just as the first. Again the bell rang. We were dismissed for noon hour. This noon I ate better than the noon before.

After becoming alarmed, asked if I felt all right. I thought it was just my nerves but she said plainly, "Better go to the doctor this afternoon. Then I put up my objections. Cuts 1 go tomorrow morning. Doctors are always busy in the afternoon, was my last excuse. You see, I thought I'd miss public speaking class. Anyway, I would go in the morning because I had a physics test in the afternoon and I simply could not miss that. The doctor said that that and it happened I went to the doctor at all.

The third day came as the first had only instead of being worse than the second it was worse than the first.

There was just ten minutes and five to go. The first three people were not prepared that meant only two were left and I happened to be one of them. Irene Modas was the next on the program. I didn't know Irene then, but I did hope that she was long winded. At last she sat down and I could hear the sigh of relief that escaped her as she did. Walled Lake high school junior has play, "Here Comes Patricia," provided a hilarious evening of amusement at the local school auditorium last Friday evening.

The annual production was produced under the direction of Gladys Myers, English teacher.

The act came forth from Tim T. (Clive Hutton), the town clerk, as easily as water off a duck's back.

While Mrs. Smith-Potter, of Secoy, the town auditor, and the butt of his jokes Mary Dutton, playing Minnie Knoop, showed her audience what a nuisance a tag-a-long sister can be when she falls in love with her cousin's sweetheart, Bud Flannigan, as played by Raymond Nelson, the chauffeur of Jimmy Clark. (Bob Dickman), a newcomer in town.

Doris Chaffy as Patricia Grayson, carried off the honors as the leading lady and kept her spectators guessing as she changed from a disguised gasoline station attendant to the niece of the governor's daughter, falling in love with the young man, Jimmy Clark. Adam Wade's peppery boss in the expulsion act. But romance was not confined to "this couple." Elbert Hastings (Bob Hamilton), a much abused member of the governor's staff, is sent to town to protect the governor's daughter and promptly falls in love with one of the town belles, Elsie Crowder (Louise Garner), who is mistakenly informed that he is a prize fighter and promptly arranges a bout for him. And finally there is Bud Flannigan who finds the apple of his eye when he meets Angelina Knoop (Ettie Richardson) another neighbor of Mrs. Carroll (Frances Bachelor) in whose house all the scenes take place.

Best shot in the play comes when Bud is embarrassingly trying to propose to Angelina and in bursts Minnie with her pistols and big shell-firm glasses to say that she would "just as soon marry you, Bud, as Angelina can find somebody else."

Whereupon Angelina, promptly, becomes exasperated and shoos her out of the house. With "Go find your mother, she's looking for you."

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

The meeting held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Bolton last Thursday evening was well attended. Several business discussions came up. Let's have more girls out at the Legion Home Tuesday evening, March 27. This business concerns all you Auxiliary girls so be on the job. This Friday evening, March 23, the 17th district meeting is being held at Rochester. Dinner at 6:30, followed by the district meeting. At the meeting to be held March 27, a children's handkerchief and wash cloth shower. Each girl please bring one or two of these articles for the bait. Mrs. Gladys Connors has charge of the Junior members of the unit. Mrs. Bolton has the Junior girls' scrap book. Each one of you Junior girls try and get a new member. Mrs. Edna Murphy is ill. Sorry as we can't miss her at our meetings, we hope she is much better at this time.

Our sympathy goes out to Mrs. Helen Reider, who has just lost her brother. Mrs. Reider is with her having the largest junior member brother at Port Arthur, Ontario. Three birthday cakes went to the Maybush sanatorium this month. Two of them were on St. Patrick's Day.

"Junior Membership"

Recently I attended a splendid meeting given for the public by a Legion Post and its Auxiliary. The speakers were the Junior members of the unit. I can't tell you how deeply they impressed me. If you could have seen them as they stood at attention and pledged allegiance to our flag, I am sure you would enroll every Junior in your community. The training of these young daughters and sisters to carry on the aims and purposes of the American Legion Auxiliary is a most important duty for you and for me. With this thought in mind I am inspired to dedicate the month of April as Junior Membership as well as Child Welfare month.

PAUL STEENCKEN HAS THRILLING TIMES IN SERVICE IN NAVY

new quite a thrill, and Paul says he felt "apprehensive." "No true sailor is afraid of war," he stated, "but nobody welcomes it."

In the big California earthquake of last year, the Colorado, off the California coast, shook from bow to stern, and Paul was among those who were knocked down. Enormous destructive tidal waves usually follow such earth tremors, and Paul says the ship was kept in a state of excitement while a special watch was kept for 12 hours waiting for it. When it did not come, the crew was disappointed. A sign of relief—Paul was in several bad "storms" in which he saw waves over 20 feet high, but his "battle wagon" was never troubled in the least.

A great part of his adventures came with the traditional Navy pastime of "sailing the world." He sailed all along the western coast, went through the Panama canal, stopped at Haiti and Cuba, and came up the Atlantic to Hampton Roads.

During the annual maneuvers, Paul had an occasion to visit Honolulu. In 1932 his ship was a member of the attacking party, and successfully "captured" both Honolulu and California. In 1933 he helped in the defense and was "defeated."

The off-beat statement that the navy is useless "because airplanes can blow the ships all to bits" was called false by Paul. "Airplanes are effective," he said, "but anti-aircraft guns are very accurate and I would just as soon shoot my chum with a battleship any day. Battleships are obsolete. The main use of airplanes is when they are able to drop bombs on the ships, he claimed."

Paul's opinion that, while the navy is "ship for ship as good as that of any other power," we should build our naval forces to a point where they are better equipped than they are at present he brought out that the average enlisted man in the navy does not want war and does not expect war.

"I have people believe that the fear of war with Japan is entirely groundless," Paul said. In spite of this, however, he called the people on the California coast "Japanese-minded," and said that they, particularly were afraid of a naval attack. In Paul's opinion, if war did come, the U. S. navy would be superior.

Not all of Paul's time, however, was devoted to affairs of the Navy. In the field of athletics he was considerably "prized." He won three medals for swimming the 200 yard race. His time was 2:40, which he modestly calls slow in several swimming meets, both on his own ship and between ships. It was outstanding. That swimming was done in pools on shore, but occasionally they dived in and splashed around among the sharks.

Gifted to be home, Paul is interested in electrical engineering, and is planning to take a short course in electrical engineering at the University of Michigan next year.

He appeared to have enjoyed greatly his period of enlistment. "I would not mind going back into the navy," he said. "It is a good life."

Christian Science Churches

"Matter" will be the subject of the Lesson-Scripture in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, March 25.

Among the Bible citations is this passage: (Luke 21: 27, 28) "And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud with power and glory. And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 95): "Lifted by spiritizing visions, the world is asleep in the grade of infancy, dreaming away the hours. Material existence does not unfold the facts of existence, but spiritual sense lifts human consciousness into eternal Truth."

St. Paul's Lutheran

CONFIRMATION

The Lutheran church very properly observed the beautiful rite of confirmation. After adequate instruction children publicly avowed their faith in Christ, their Savior, and publicly the church acknowledged them as members eligible for the highest privilege at the disposal of the Church of God—the Blessed Sacrament of Holy Communion.

By the laying on of hands, the church through the pastor, confirms these young confessors in this new privilege and invokes upon them blessing from heaven, that by God's grace they may remain faithful even unto death.

Confirmation is not a Sacrament. God has not instituted it for has at any promise of spiritual grace bestowed through it. But it serves a very fine purpose, offering as it does to children an opportunity to renew with their own lips, the vows which at Baptism they made through their sponsors. Nor is this done in ignorance of the meaning of such an avowal. For months before the day of confirmation, careful instruction is given which aims at making clear what the Christian faith and the Christian life involve.

The confirmation rite thus is infinitely superior to the so-called confession of Christ. The previous instruction therefore prevents it from being a mere emotional spasm.

day and Easter will be dropped. The half hour of Faith and Fellowship is broadcast on Sunday afternoon from 1:30 to 2 o'clock over station WXYZ. The speaker is Rev. P. A. Hertwig of Detroit, first vice-president of the Michigan district of the Missouri Synod.

Time forever! God of love, Hear us from Thy throne above: Thine forever may we be, Here and in eternity.

Isaiah 9:6.

If you enjoy singing or hearing hymns we welcome you to the church singing at 7:30 o'clock.

There will be a rehearsal for the Easter program at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the church. The young people's choir will meet with Mr. Ronald Lake at the same hour.

First Methodist Church

Did you ever ask—What welcome would Jesus receive were He to ride forth today? Would the great throngs of people who are being held captive by materialism, secularism, and other forces which have come between them and their King, come forth to hail Him? Would men listen to acclaim Him their King?

If we are truly sincere with Jesus, this Palm Sunday, we will ride with Him in the highway of service, we will renew our loyalty to His will, and we will more dedicate our lives to the fulfillment of His Kingdom.

The Methodist church invites you to worship with them this coming Sunday. The preacher of the morning will be the Rev. J. A. Halmhuber. In the evening Stainer's Crucifixion will be given by the united choirs under the leadership of Leslie G. Lee. This will be a beautiful service to end your day. Come yourself and invite your friends to be your guests.

The last week of Lent will be observed by this church with a unique program for the whole community. Wednesday as the day of silence, Jesus spent the day in quietness. We shall have a quiet service for meditation with the choir and organ presenting music in keeping with the day at 7:30. An evening meditation, "The Cross for our Nation," by the preacher. Thursday night is Gethsemane Night. The church will be in darkness except the illuminated Cross. Music again will tell us the story, and the evening meditation is "The Cross for the World."

Good Friday—what a night. Everybody should be in church. The church will present to the community a beautiful garden scene, with nothing but green for the "color" scheme. With a black cross at the side—a silent and somber reminder of the dark fact of the crucifixion. The evening theme is "The Cross for Christ." At this service there will be an opportunity for people to unite with the church in membership. Then will come Easter Sunday morning service at 6 o'clock. We will tell you more about that in next week's Record.

Church of Our Lady of Victory

Catechism classes Saturday morning at 9:30.

Ladies' Communion day is next Sunday, March 25.

All next week is designated as Holy Week. It is the last week of Lent, and affords an opportunity for any neglect of the rest of Lent. Since it's vacation week for the children it is advised and urged that Christian children make a special effort to attend church services.

McCARDLE STARS AS CASTERLINE'S WIN

Casterline Service again stole the show at the Recreation league basketball games played at the high school last Friday evening. With a four-man team Casterline's pushed the Sanatorium boys into the cellar position by a score of 40 to 6. Bob McCardle continued to show the way to the Servicemen, scoring 14 points.

The Record Office quintet, working with unexpected precision, surprised the Men's Shop, setting them down 16 to 13, in a fast game. Arthur Miller fed the printers with seven tallies. Lemon and Greenlee each made two baskets for the Glosters.

Tom Pines and the Salem squads battled for four quarters on even terms with the Dairymen finally losing out the Farmers 21 to 20. A Johnson led the Milkmen with 13 points. Smith tallied eight for the Farmers.

The scheduled games for Wednesday were to bring the Salem and Record office teams together at 7. Men's Shop and Maybury at 8 and Casterline and Twin Pines at 9 o'clock.

The games played at the high school last night resulted in two forests. The Record Office forfeited to Salem by playing two ineligible players, and Casterline Service forfeited to Twin Pines.

In the other game the Men's Shop defeated Maybury sanatorium 23 to 22. Next week the games will be played Thursday evening. At 7:30, Salem plays the Men's Shop, Casterline and the Record play at eight, and Twin Pines meets Maybury sanatorium at nine.
