JUNE 7 NAMED AS DATE FOR GRADUATION

Largest Class in History Of N. H. S. To Hold Exercises At Training School

Thursday, June 7, has been named by Supt. R. H. Amerman as the date when 48 Northville high school seniors, comprising the largest graduating class in the history of the school, will receive their diplomas at the Wayne County Training School.

Plans for the whole graduation week, beginning with the baccalaureate services on Sunday, June 3, are being formulated, the superintendent said. The diplomas have been ordered, student and faculty committees are conferring to work out a detailed program.

As has been the custom in previous years, the school board provides each senior with fifteen commencement announcements, with the student buying more if desired.

School officials say there is a possibility that, due to scholastic standings, all of the 48 seniors will not be graduated, but as yet they are not sure. Two or three appear to be near the "border line," it was inferred.

The Women's club has again offered prizes for the best graduation dresses made by the senior girls, and already, under the direction of Miss Mildred Zimmerman, home economics teacher, the needles and thread are hard at work.

Supt. Amerman expressed his gratitude toward Dr. Robert H. Haskell, Training School head, for permission to hold the commencement exercises there. Transportation for those without cars will again be provided on request, Mr. Amerman said.

School authorities were a little undecided as yet regarding Class Night. However, it is expected to be held Tuesday, June 5, in the high school auditorium.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In mentioning the names of the library board last week the name of Mrs. May Perkins was omitted and instead of Mrs. Margaret Yerkes, it should have read Mrs. W. H. Yerkes.

WE MUST GET OUT OF OURSELVES, SAYS THE REV. MALLINSON

In a sermon, "The Overcrowded Life," the Rev. H. H. Mallinson in the Methodist church last Sunday decried modern conditions in which men have time only for things of the world.

Even as Jesus, our souls must have two sides, he said—one for business and routine affairs, and one for art, religion, and the higher things of life.

"We are victims of high-powered salesmanship," Mr. Mallinson said. "Against our will, we have an appetite created for things." The minds of modern men and women are jammed with a kaleidoscopic array of facts, he continued, and we must straighten them out.

Quoting Theodore's "Walden," Mr. Mallinson recommended the manner in which the author escaped "the tyranny of things." He also blamed "The Overcrowded Life" for the many suicides of the past few months. "We must get outside of ourselves," he advised. "The self-centered man lives in a room of mirrors. A better way is to live in a room of windows—to see beyond yourself."

"How did Jesus escape this overcrowded condition?" the minister asked. And, answering his own question, "It was simply because he knew when to stop. He realized the need of getting out of Himself and of His worldly affairs."

EASTLAWN PATIENTS WILL HEAR SERMONS

To extend the privilege of enjoying the church service to the patients at Eastlawn sanatorium, the members of the Baptist church will install a microphone in their church.

This action was the outgrowth of visits made by the pastor, Rev. K. S. North, to that institution, where the wish was heard that they might listen in on the Sunday services.

Clifford B. Turnbull is generously contributing his service in the installation of the necessary equipment and the members are raising the amount of the cost.

It has been suggested that, later on other microphones may be installed elsewhere to extend the opportunities to these patients who are for a time shut off from outside.

"JIM" SAVAGE MARKS EIGHTY-THIRD BIRTHDAY

Strong and Healthy, He Looks For Work, Has Held Many Poles Here

Time marches on—and "Jim" is keeping up with the parade. James "Savage," known to all Northville as "Jim," celebrated his eight-third birthday Monday. Strong and in good health for all his years, "Jim" is out looking for work. For many years he kept the Lapham bank building spick and span. During his long career he has had numerous jobs, big and small, around Northville.

Getting his first job as a lumberjack in Northern Michigan, "Jim" has been logger, farmer, carpenter, painter, and landscape gardener. Often called the best painter who ever worked at the old Bell Foundry, he is now one of the only two men alive who worked on the notable molding crew of more than 50 years ago.

Now living up in the Lapham bank building, "Jim" hopes for a pension from the State, but says, "If I had $3,000, I would give every penny toward fixing up the Rural Hills cemetery."

LESLIE G. LEE IS NEW ROTARY HEAD

Leslie G. Lee, head of the high school music department, was elected president of the Northville Rotary club Tuesday, succeeding Chas. A. Rogers, who automatically became vice president.

E. L. Mills was re-elected to the post of secretary-treasurer, while superintendent of schools, R. H. Amerman, and W. L. Forney were elected to succeed Charles Scholtz and Percy Argote as members of the board of directors.

A special feature of the meeting was a talk by Dr. Robert H. Haskell, Wayne County Training School head, on the bond issue up for approval on Michigan taxpayers April 30. Dr. Haskell is a member of a special committee appointed by Gov. William A. Comstock to inform the public about the act.

Next Tuesday, the Rotary clubs of Plymouth, Wayne, and several other nearby towns will be the guests of the Northville club. Dr. Frederick B. Fisher, pastor of the First Methodist church in Ann Arbor, will be the speaker.

SOUTH AMERICAN TO SPEAK TODAY AT THE WOMAN'S CLUB

The Northville Woman's club will meet this (Friday) afternoon at 2:30 in the library.

The speaker for the Foreign Day program, April 13, is Mrs. Therese Volkmann, who was born in South America in Uruguay, and who gives an interesting glimpse of South American condition and customs.

She is a member of the staff of The International Institute, a branch of The Y.W.C.A., and comes well recommended by Mrs. W. R. Alford, executive of The International Institute. Inasmuch as April 14th is considered Pan-American Day, the South American program is timely.

SUFFERING IS A TEST SAYS REV. K. S. NORTH

"Mind how you behave in trouble," warned Rev. Kendall S. North to his congregation Sunday morning in a discourse on "The Ministry of Suffering."

"Trouble, when rightly met, helps us to honor God," he continued. "Bearing suffering bravely is excellent discipline in building strong character."

A good-sized audience listened to these timely words by their pastor, who paid high tribute to the assistance of his father, Rev. G. H. North, who has been supplying the pulpit during a period when the son was afflicted with throat trouble.

Mrs. Elaine Winter began her duties for the first time as pianist.

FORMER NORTHVILLE BOY WINS M. I. A. A. BOXING TITLE

Lawrence Moore, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Moore, formerly of Northville and Novi, who is now attending Adrian college, won the M. I. A. A. boxing championship last week.

Mr. Moore, who weighs 158 pounds, defeated Bob of Michigan State, mid-western collegiate champion and a victor in the recent Golden Gloves boxing matches, to win a gold medal. His triumph is unusual in that until last year he had never boxed at all.

MAIL CARRIER SERVICE HERE IS CURTAILED

Part of the Village Will Be Given Only One Delivery

To comply with recent department instructions, announced Postmaster T. R. Carrington, Wednesday, the local post office has been forced to curtail service until July 1.

Part of the village will receive but one delivery daily, he said, although this inconvenience has been largely overcome by including the ten o'clock mail in the delivery to people who normally receive their regular delivery after that time in the morning.

The post office now employs 11 persons regularly and three auxiliary helpers. The economy measures taken recently by United States Postmaster General James P. Farley have cut deeply into the Northville post office appropriations for the coming quarter. One phase of the measure is that all postal employees will have to take a compulsory four day furlough without pay, and no substitutes can be hired to take their places.

Elimination of deliveries will occur on days and at times when the mail-load is the lightest, according to Mr. Carrington, and postal employees will make every effort to keep the delivery service to a high standard. The new system will go into effect immediately, he said.

SALEM FEDERATED CHURCH TO PRESENT COMEDY APRIL 18TH

The North Circle of the Salem Federated church, assisted by the young people, will present the comedy, "Bonds On a String," Wednesday evening, April 18, at eight o'clock. The play is sponsored by the church and will be given in the Salem town hall.

The cast is as follows: Bennie Davis (Zezelle Davis), Knowles Davis, J. H. Davis, Bennie's father, Russell Walden (Benjamin Davis, Esq., a rich uncle, Louis Bohling, Harold Deem, Bennie's friend, Neil Currier, Ab Dinkler, a would-be detective, Ronald Lyke, Mrs. J. H. Davis, Bennie's mother, Gladys Whipple, Molly Mallett, Bennie's sweetheart, Irene Lyke, Jeanette Blue, Uncle Ben's niece, Doris Lyke, Cleopatra Odomargara, Johnson Emma Buers.

The play will be directed by Mr. Emma Buers.

DANCE AT SALEM

An old time and modern dance will be given at the Salem town hall, Saturday, April 21, at 8 p. m. A remarkable man stood and addressed under the auspices of the Thayer school Good music. Admission 35 cents a couple and 15 cents for single ladies.

MRS. WHITE WILL BE HONORED

Tomorrow, April 14, will be the ninety-fourth anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Jennie White, the "grand old lady" of Northville. Mrs. White has lived in this village all through these years, winning many friends by her cheerful good humor and keen interest in the affairs of the present day.

Since these early days when, as a little girl, she romped over the broad stretches of the farm of her father, Capt. Wm. Dunlap, one of the pioneers of this section, she has seen the town grow up from a stretch of uncleared woods to a fine suburban village.

She has seen many changes in the community. She has seen men come and go and no doubt has often said to herself:

"How strange it seems with so much of life and love, to still live on."

Many Northville friends who are grateful for the fine example of undaunted good cheer with which Mrs. Jennie White has met circumstances join in heartiest good wishes to this friend of all.

In honor of this notable event, a luncheon will be given by Mrs. Allen W. Barron at the Lede Pine Tea room when a few of Mrs. White's intimate acquaintances will dine together and then conclude the afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dean P. Griswold.

Mrs. White has been in excellent health all winter, spending the time at 461 Grace street.

RAY WATTS OUT OF HORTON STORE AFTER 12 YEARS

Raymond H. Watts, after 12 years of service, is no longer connected with the C. R. Horton Rexall drug store located on the corner of South Center and Main streets.

In 1919 Mr. Watts started working at the store after school hours and four years later left to attend college at the Ferris Institute in Big Rapids. He spent two years there and then worked in Detroit as a drug clerk for two years. He came back to Northville seven years ago to go to work for C. R. Horton and has been behind the counters here ever since. He met his wife, then Miss Florence Bennett, while they were clerks in the Horton store and their friendship culminated in their marriage. They have a daughter two and a half years old.

Walter C. Peters, of Monroe, is now managing the Horton store for Mr. C. R. Horton, the present proprietor, who is also a clerk.

Mrs. T. B. Henry Makes a Cake With 100 Candles to Help Observe Rev. Timothy Edwards' Centennial

Of all the birthday cakes, it is noted by Mrs. T. B. Henry, the hostess, to be adorned with 100 candles, was made for Rev. Timothy Edwards, who reached this remarkable age Easter Sunday.

This aged Methodist minister was a well-known figure in these parts for many years when he occupied pulpits in surrounding towns and "sided" Northville at intervals. His son, preached for a time in this village. Throughout the intervening years Timothy Edwards has kept an active interest in the affairs of the church and in the world in general.

Having worn the "harness" of the ministry so many years he is very reluctant to lay it aside. On his one hundred anniversary this remarkable man stood and addressed for twenty minutes a congregation gathered to honor him in his home town, Washington, Mich. With the keen sense of humor with which he

ELECTION ON BOND ISSUE IS APRIL 30

Taxpayers Will Decide On The Expenditure Of $37,874,458

Taxpayers of Northville and surrounding townships will have a chance to approve or disapprove of the state $37,874,458 bond issue which will go for highways, hospitals, and armories in a special election to be held Monday, April 30.

This election is authorized by a writ of election issued by Gov. William A. Comstock, after the bill passed the legislature with a referendum clause attached. The act provides $18,937,229 for highways, $17,500,000 for hospitals and $2,437,229 for new armories in Michigan. It is expected that this construction will provide unemployment relief. Only taxpayers are allowed to vote.

This is the so-called "insurance bill." The state constitution forbids the state to contract debts in excess of $250,000, except in case of insurrection, invasion or war. In order to get around this constitutional provision, Gov. Comstock declared that there was an "insurrection" in Michigan.

According to Fred J. Cochran, local attorney, many of the legislators before the bill, officially known as House Enrolled Act Number 23 of the 55th Legislature of Michigan in Extra Session of 1934, is unconstitutional. Mr. Cochran concurs in the belief. In his opinion, that part of the state constitution requiring that the money so raised (for insurance etc.) will be applied to the purpose for which it is raised, interferes with the treaty of the act.

Gov. Comstock himself has said that it does not really believe there is an insurrection in Michigan. That is just an excuse, the States chief executive has stated, to obtain funds for a "worthy purpose." Many persons, however, believe that this excuse does not warrant the expenditure of such an amount of money.

Mr. Cochran also believes the governor's reason for the bond issue to be invalid. In his opinion "the vote will be killed by the taxpayers."

There is, however, another angle to this bond issue. In order that Michigan may get its share of the PWA funds, the state must match the federal grant with a similar amount. Thus so that Michigan taxpayers pay for the benefit of their taxes paid to the federal government, this expenditure, or one similar, must be authorized.

The opinion of public men throughout the state is divided on the merits of the act.

E. M. B. MARKET CELEBRATES ITS 1ST ANNIVERSARY

Many Improvements Result Under the Management of LeFevre

The E. M. B. grocery store is celebrating this week the first anniversary of its meat market under Charles LeFevre.

Sprung as an experiment, the market grew by leaps and bounds until today it has an electric shaver, a cube steak machine, a new large capacity meat grinder, and mechanical refrigeration. The market part of the store was newly-decorated only this week.

Mr. LeFevre, who was with the Palace meat market for 22 years, heads the E. M. B. market. E. M. Bogart, proprietor, expressed himself as greatly pleased with the results the market has brought.

J-HOP TO BE HELD TONIGHT AT SCHOOL

The 1934 J-Hop will be given in the high school gymnasium from nine to one this evening, Friday, April 13.

The price of admission is $1.25 per couple. Spectators will be admitted to the balcony for 25c cents. Tickets will be sold at the door.

The grand march, to be led by the junior president, Eddie Bender and his partner, Miss Wilbur McCardie, will take place about 10:30 p. m. It is expected. The dance is semi-formal, both dress suits and tuxedos being in order.

The decorations will transform the gymnasium into an open air ballroom under a story sky, containing a huge star revolving star and some. The floor will be surrounded with white lattice and beautiful flowers.

The dinner is a suggestion that during the intermission a novel program has been arranged. This is a cake, a N. H. graduate now heading a dancing studio in Detroit and Northville, will give a tap dance with his little girls trained by himself. Several solo dances will be given by Miss Emily Hayes and Thomas Dart of Detroit. Miss Hayes recently won the state champion tap for waiting.

The program contains twelve dances besides extras. The grand march coming after the fourth of the dance punch will be served on the floor.

The J-Hop will be organized by Supt. and Mrs. R. H. Amerman, Coach Ted Watt and Miss Margaret Springer, Mrs. Ida Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Ambler, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Boyden, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCordle, Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Cavel, Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Base, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alford, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Martlar.

NORTHVILLE BOYS RETURN HOME FROM NORTHERN CCC CAMP

Back from the northern CCC camp at Keaton five Northville boys, also cultured and these facts urged upon the attention of his hearers.

His fine talk was concluded by presentation of Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

The program was listened to attentively and greatly appreciated.

LEGION HOLDS PARTY IN PLACE OF USUAL ARMY DAY BANQUET

In place of the traditional Army Day banquet, the Lloyd B. Green post of the American Legion staged a dinner party in the Legion Hall.

Nearly 40 persons attended and were addressed by several local as well as out-of-town speakers.

Speeches were heard from various members of the Village Council, and from former President Snow, Edward L. Mills of the Detroit Edison, who is a captain in the Reserve Corps spoke effectively on "Why we was a member of the Reserve."

The talks were concluded by Col. Carl Standard, who explained the defense program of the Michigan Bell Telephone company.

WHITE SHRINE WILL HOLD DANCE PARTY IN DETROIT FRIDAY

The association of the White Shrine of Jerusalem of Michigan and Ontario will hold an informal dancing and card party Friday evening, April 20, at the Peck Cadillac hotel, in Detroit.

Dancing will be in the Crystal ballroom with Stewart's orchestra furnishing music.

Cards will be played in the Italian Gardens with prizes for each table, floor prizes, and other forms of entertainment.

SITUATION IN BEER GARDENS IS IMPROVED

Move By Commissioners For A "Clean-Up" Is Approved by Citizens

Quiet reigns within the walls of Northville's several beer gardens, following the start of a campaign last week by the village commission and local citizens to end a recent era of rowdiness and disorderly conduct.

Almost unanimous approval on the part of Northville citizens greeted the announcement by commission that the liquor law, pertaining to the operation of beer gardens here, will be strictly enforced.

That the village governors meant exactly what they said was indicated by the arrest Thursday evening of Thomas Slessor, who was sentenced to 30 days in the House of Correction, Friday morning by Justice of the Peace Wellington Roberts. Sentence was suspended.

Slessor was found wandering on Northville streets by Chief of Police Wm. H. Safford, and was locked up. He was sentenced Friday morning.

Caroline Schnaebly, addition to the Northville police force as night watchman, is keeping the beer gardens under surveillance. Mr. Schnaebly, fully capable of backing up his commands by force if necessary, visits each garden several times every night to suppress any disturbances or signs of disorderly conduct, such as have been too common during the past few weeks.

Commissioners have said little since their initial announcement (except to state that they are prepared to back up their campaign to the full extent of the law).

FLORIDA VISITORS RETURN THIS WEEK TO EXCHANGE CLUB

The Exchange club had a lively meeting Wednesday noon. Robert G. Yerkes and Dayton B. Dunn were welcomed most heartily, while their respective sides, the Vultures and "Bardards" glared at each other across the well-filled table.

Visitors were present in the person of Arthur Schuyler, George Martin, Bruce Howard, William F. Jones and Scott L. Hall.

Nelson Schrader had charge of the day's program and in a few fitting words he introduced a fellow townsman, Fred Foreman who spoke on American history. He said in part: "We hardly appreciate the value of the American flag. The various flags of our nation were once a symbol of our nation and then he referred to the respect given to the stars and stripes in other lands that he had visited."

Mr. Foreman called attention to the acts of patriotism by such men as Nathan Hale, Joan Paul Jones, and Francis Scott Key also to the freedom of men at Valley Forge, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg.

The symbolism of the flag was also cultured and these facts urged upon the attention of his hearers.

His fine talk was concluded by presentation of Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

The program was listened to attentively and greatly appreciated.

NORTH CENTER STREET IS "LOOKING UP"

Business is better in the Schrader block of Northville, thank you. The Schrader Bros. furniture store has a new electric sign and new awnings, just put up, and this week furniture buyers from nearby towns have been customers at this store—one of the very finest of its kind in the whole state of Michigan.

LET THEM GO HOME

Most thoughtful citizens will breathe a fervent "Amen" to the news from Washington that Congress may quit its floundering around and close its sessions about the middle of May. We know of nothing better for the country than that.

The country needs a rest from law makers and reformers. We have too many laws now and we certainly have more reforms than we can digest. The country is moving ahead to do more business unless Congress throws a monkey wrench into the machinery. We have had uncertainty and anxiety enough about the doings of Congress for some time. Everyone needs a rest, including the Congressmen.

If our senators and representatives go home in a month it will be good news. We all need a chance to settle down to business.

HIS WAY SUCCEEDS

In a discussion of philosophers, The Christian Science Monitor says that the "most practical philosopher of all ages is Jesus of Nazareth."

With gross materialism so rampant around us, it may be well to read further what the Monitor says: "Mankind's happiness was always nearest his heart, and he showed men that the one great achievement worth while is not strife, but harmony, love and harmony. This great teacher is the one philosopher who can offer men the way to attain equality, abundance and success in individual and national life. His is a way of revolution, not war, not revolt, but the simple rule 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.' Here is the one teacher who has ever been able to practice with entire consistency what he taught. Modern youth may study his teachings without danger to themselves or their neighbors."

PROSPERITY IN BUILDING

The Home Owners Loan Corporation has done the country a great deal of good in saving homes of citizens from mortgage foreclosure. Right now in Northville scores of homes have been saved and foreclosures have been stopped in all these cases. Our bank has been able to lend over many of its mortgages to the government, in exchange for government bonds.

All this is very fine but the government is doing a very commendable thing in attempting to get its plans for home building into operation. One reason for our depression has been the complete paralysis of the building trades. Carpenters have almost forgotten how to use their tools; plumbers haven't had a new house to fit up for years; electricians try to keep busy on repair work.

If 25 homes could be built in Northville in the next year or so, it would be a wonderful boost to a class of workers who have been desperately hit since 1929. If the government will be as helpful to the home builders as it has been to the home mortgagees, prosperity is ahead for a big class of workers.

THEY DESERVE OUR THANKS

No one can ever tell how a good book may have influenced a life or turned the steps of a boy or girl into the right path. Some books that have been written have almost rocked the world. "Uncle Tom's Cabin," written by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, was translated into 37 languages and literally millions of copies of the book were printed. No one can measure the effect that it had on bringing the final emancipation of the slaves.

Northville owes an undying debt of gratitude to that little band of book-loving women who made it possible for this community to have a public library ever since 1889. They did a pioneer work and a work of community building that is literally priceless. A community without good books is a starved community and one with good books is one where the rich joys of life are unfolded in large measure. Without its library through all these years, who knows how poor Northville would have been?

These women who kept our library going will not be forgotten. Their labors of love will become part of the history of Northville. Their sacrifices will become their memorial. Often building the fires with their own hands, they have fired the hearts of a great host with a love of good books and now that they hand on the torch to the county system, with its larger storehouse of books, we all thank them for their vision, their loyalty, their devotion to a great cause.

As we thank them let us remember what Emerson said:

"When I get a little money, I buy books; and if there is any left, I buy food and clothing."

WHO ARE THE "NIT WITS"?

It is reported to us that a local citizen, after reading the article about the beer garden "clean-up" in last week's Record made this remark: "Well, those commissioners are a bunch of nit wits."

Well, commissioners, we congratulate you that you have done so well. That makes a certain type of citizenship rant at you. But we want to say to you that those kinds of men are not the ones who build a community. They are not the ones who are picked to lead in good movements. These defenders of drunkenness are not the ones who will be long remembered for any service to their fellowmen.

On the other hand, commissioners, we have heard scores and scores of fathers and mothers commend you for your effort to "clean-up" the streets of this town. We have heard you commended by many of our finest businessmen. We have heard you congratulated by the people who are making Northville one of the finest towns of the suburban area of Detroit.

There are always two classes of people in every town. One is composed of the vast majority of our people. This group stands for decency and attractiveness of a town. It is the group that maintains the business section, that builds schools and hospitals, that supports churches and that builds the homes of the community. Northville has an exceptionally fine group of this kind of people.

The other class of citizenship is composed of the easy-going, the easily-satisfied, the irresponsible. Some of them have some standing and some of them simply "don't count." Then there is a fringe attached to this general grouping that is simply "ne'er do wells." The latter bunch is worthless to itself and to the community. They are a liability to a town but there isn't much you can do about improving them. They have no ideals, no vision and if they get enough to eat and a roof over their heads, they are satisfied. They might perhaps be called "poor white trash."

So, commissioners, if they call you "nit wits," remember the source of your detractors.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

The price of automobiles is going up. What are we going to use for money to buy them?

"It is a terrible thing for a man to be content to ride through life on the backs of others," says a writer in The Dearborn Press. Think that over.

A drunken driver is blamed for the tragic death of a fine Lansing young man just a few days ago. How would you feel had it happened to a member of your family?

A long-time reader of The Record says that it has always been an exceptionally good newspaper but that it has never been better than it is now. We thank him for the gracious compliment.

The so-called "teetotaler" has the least worry when it comes to the drinking habit. He doesn't fool with it or try to do it half way—and yet not too much. All in all, when you simply don't drink at all, your problem is easy. You know where you are and so does everyone else.

If you plant—and care for—a few flowers this spring you won't be sorry. Going by the high bank on the Perle Marquette right of way between the local station and the Six Mile road the other day we thought what a gorgeous sight it would make to splash all those slopes with beds of petunias.

At times we get a little resentful at our business because it gives so little leisure at home. Last week four full evenings were given over to activities for the interest of this newspaper. Yet we should not complain. If we were the farmer we should have to milk cows seven days a week and we should not like that. And if we were the grocer we should have to stay up until near midnight Saturday and we certainly haven't the constitution for that.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

How are you going to vote April 30 on the state bonding issue?

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

THEY DON'T WANT IT

(LaGrange, Ind., Standard)
Evanston, Oak Park, River Forest, Glenview and Winnetka, all Chicago suburbs, have just voted to bar the retail sale of liquor within their limits. Huh!

LOOK OUT FOR THEM

(A. Van Koverling in The Zealand Record)

Playing ball on the basis of the Golden Rule just isn't in the cards for some people. They would "gyp" their own grandmothers if they were able to see some advantage for themselves.

COEDS OUTSMOKE BOYS

(Robert Gifford in The Eaton Rapids Journal)

A vote taken at Northwestern University recently, so we are informed, proved that 92 per cent of the girls smoke to only 72 per cent of the boys. Just another case of the lady folks going to the extreme.

HE KNEW HIS AGES

(Birmingham Eclectic)

"How old are you?" inquired the visitor of his host's little son. "That is a difficult question," answered the young man, removing his spectacles and wiping them reflectively. "The latest personal survey available shows my psychological age to be 32, my moral age two, my anatomical age seven, and my physiological age six. I suppose, however, that you refer to my chronological age, which is eight."

PREFERS THE OLD SALOON

(Wayne County Review, Wayne)

Personally we believe that most of the modern beer gardens are far worse than the old-fashioned saloons. Women didn't patronize the old saloons and there wasn't any dancing, which grows revolting and nauseating under the liquor-stimulus. We purposely called on a number of local beer gardens recently on an inspection tour, as it were, and in each instance we were more than glad to get out in the fresh and wholesome air again. Even in the old blind pigs the air, atmosphere and morality was a great deal better.

A SERVANT, NOT A NUISANCE

(Bangor Advertiser)

Newspaper advertising says the Bangor Advertiser is a nuisance, not a nuisance. It doesn't shout at you when you are trying to concentrate on something else; it doesn't obscure the view and the landscape; it doesn't interrupt your enjoyment of a grand opera program; it doesn't clutter up your mail and waste basket; it doesn't mess up your front yard or obtrude itself on the seat of your auto; it is like a well-trained servant, never intruding or making itself obnoxious, but always quietly at hand ready to give service when called.

RICHEST MAN DIES

(M. H. DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune)

If we said that the richest man in Eaton county died, this week you would at once think of one of the Horner Bros. of Eaton Rapids, or possibly a banker, like John Beach, or a farmer, like John Deere, or a shop, are in splendid health and we hope this will long be a fact.

The rich man who died was Dr. Charles S. Small of Vermontville. He probably didn't leave much of an estate, just guessing we would put it at $15,000. And yet, if every account honestly earned and still owing this man was paid in six point type there would not be enough space in this paper this week to carry such a list.

Dr. Small was a country doctor of the old school. He was even more, for Dr. Small was the embodiment of all the little refinements which go to make up a scholarly and godly man.

He is at rest among the neighbors he served so long and faithfully but his immortalized influence will live on and on as long as Vermontville is a spot on the map.

SUPPORT THE CHURCH

(George Averill in The Birmingham Eclectic)

Easter Sunday has again brought to the world a renewed consciousness of the Nazarene and His great place in the heart of civilization. Throughout the Christian world various church organizations seek to present Jesus' life and teachings to contemporary human beings. It costs money to operate these church organizations, without them the world we live in would indeed be a little better than a savage jungle. Are you doing your part to maintain this Christian movement? Are you making a little sacrifice of time and money so that the world you shall leave behind will have been made a better place because you aided your preacher in his effort to reveal Christ to you? Some day you will be old and helpless in body, as some preacher or priest presides over the funeral of one of your association members, your dear ones, your friends and your neighbors, do you think of your own salvation to the while you yet live, to assist in the support of the institution that will save your souls, and even yours? Think it over, good friend!

EDUCATIONAL LIQUOR SHOW

(Hensville Times)

Mistake the New York liquor show for an act of repentance. It is a show of one of the most advanced and far-reaching high school educational projects in the United States. The educational industry like the other industries realize the need of promoting sales by display and argument. So, too, drinking is done, combined with the possible amount of drinking, is a matter of grave concern among producers, whose investments are large, whose overhead is large, whose field of competition is crowded with establishments of competitors.

The abstainer is an obstacle to the producer's success, and in millions of cases, nothing but education is needed to make him a serious and consistent drinker, a profitable customer.

The brewer the vintner, the distiller must meet the competition of the dry goods store, the grocery, the milk dealer, the Community Chest, the automobile maker.

More drinking in the home, more drinking among the younger set, more drinking at college would help. But regular drinking is the important thing; drinking when constitutes a habit so fixed that nothing which competitors may hold forth, as an inducement, will interfere with it.

NOT FAIR TO THE BOYS

(W. H. Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant)

One of the things we don't like about the NRA code for limiting offices is a rule which prohibits a youth under sixteen years of age from starting in to learn the printing business.

We object to it not on our own account, but on account of the boys. We have a very wide acquaintance with Michigan newspaper men and we believe that if a census were taken we would find that more than half of them began to learn printing when they were schoolboys, and Michigan has a large group of mighty fine competent newspaper men who started in just that way.

And we recall that a number of boys helped themselves through high school by working in the Vigilant office while going to school, and without exception they were good students and were not hurt in any way by working; in fact, it is our firm conviction from both experience and observation that work is a good thing for youth, and that to deprive boys of work is far more apt to be a menace to them than a blessing.

The boy who learns while young to work, and while he is learning that also learns a useful trade, is far better equipped for life than the boy who has nothing useful to do. We insist that this ruling is a crime against youth.

THE POST TURNS AGGRESSIVE

(W. S. Kennedy in Albany Evening Recorder)

The editorial policy of The Saturday Evening Post has always been sound, but very conservative. It has rarely been aggressive. In its issue of April 7th, The Post becomes very decidedly aggressive in a 2,000 word editorial, the longest we remember ever seeing in this magazine. It attacks the business and the social conditions of the nation and the other recovery acts, but deplores the manner in which they are being interpreted and revised. It says the question before the American public is "Do we want a democratic or a collectivist system?" Do we want freedom as individuals, to live our lives under the Constitution and free courts, or do we want individual opportunity and scope to work out our private and business lives within sane and law-abiding limits or do we want to be regimented—told what we can do, how much we can do, and when we can do it." The Post thinks we are drifting toward the latter.

Commenting on recent efforts to regulate business it says: "If conditions are made impossible for the employer and Government finally has to take over, as many of our left-wingers hope, labor will find that, in the end, it has the hardest taskmaster and the lowest scale of living in its history. The proof is in many countries today. In giving a forty hour week and the increase in pay already made, always excepting the so-called chiselers, industry has gone about as far as it can safely go under present conditions."

If the present drift continues, the farmer, too, is in for a rude awakening from his illusions. Already it is apparent that AAA is not working out on schedule, and ambitious plans to move a large population of marginal lands are in the making and cotton planters are in for real re-orientation. It is, of course, only a step from this to telling producers of wheat, cattle, hogs, dairy and other farm products what and how much they can raise, where they can live, and whether they can farm at all. Finally, such a program would lead to the dispossession of the kulaks—that is, the owners of good farms on which they can make a profit above their living expenses—and the collectivization of their land by the government."

Summing-up the editorial says: "When one looks over all these measures, when one considers their kill-to-cure provisions, one can only conclude that they have been planned and drawn by men untainted by any practical experience. There is something almost sophomoric about the ideas and plans of these smart, shallow young men who are so cocksure and so determined to make us all over in five or ten minutes."

It is impossible to escape the conclusion that today we are having government by amateurs—college boys irrespective of their age—who having drunk deep, perhaps, of the Flertan tonic have recently taken some hearty swigs of Russian vodka. We cannot solve our problems with a discredited European ideology and a Marxian philosophy. This is the most vehement editorial we have ever read in The Post. We recommend it to our readers for study, for it may have a large influence on public opinion.

wondering as to the why and wherefore of Bob Power's injured looking-eye the explanation follows: It seems that our hero heard that a rabbit was trapped in a large pipe out at the Northville gravel pit and so Bob went out to investigate. He threw some stones into the pipe to see if he could scare the rabbit into coming out. The ending is sad, for, much to Bob's surprise and chagrin, the rabbit jumped out right into Bob's eye and there you have the story. We hope everyone is planning on donating to the strains of George Wilson's Ambassadors tonight (Friday) at the annual J-Hop at the high school gymnasium. From all reports this is going to be a good party with clever decorations and good music are signs.

A trial for reckless driving was held Thursday evening in the Redford township hall. Mr. Smith, of Jackson, was arrested for going through the red light and colliding with Mrs. Edna Painter. Both cars were demolished. Mrs. Painter, a nurse on her way to see a patient, was thrown out of her car and the car alighted on top of her, badly bruising and crushing her. Mr. Smith pled guilty and was fined $25. His neighbors and friends and also his wife were present to testify to his good character. They said he was not a drinking man. The policeman said he was drunk and took him and locked him up. Mrs. Painter is now able to sit up a few minutes. Officers have charge of the case of a settlement for damages.

The other day I happened upon the report of the Motion Picture Research Council, which is an organization created and promoted by some of the best and finest minds in this country. The report pointed out the fact that the findings of this council was a purely scientific one—in which moving pictures were neither condemned nor approved. It went on to say that many benefits could be derived from this form of entertainment and at the same time suggested many improvements.

It was astonishing in his condemnation of crime pictures and yet it might go so far as to make up the average movie show as formative years and thus transitory.

The other day I happened upon the report of the Motion Picture Research Council, which is an organization created and promoted by some of the best and finest minds in this country. which makes heroes of the society's enemies must not be overlooked. It is a known and proven fact that the average child has no inherent tendencies for crime, but they must have impressed upon their juvenile minds that the pictures of criminals are not to be imitated nor are they desirable. Unfortunately we have had far too many pictures of this sort who are to say the least, pernicious. The report goes on to tell us that in 1933 a large percentage of pictures produced that year displayed the techniques of killing, robbing and other crimes. It was also shown that a large percentage of delinquent children who were questioned in juvenile courts and institutions openly confessed that the movies showed them how to fool the police authorities, also how to do a job and what was equally worse, gave them ideas to carry guns, obtain money easily and live without work.

Katherine Hepburn and Richard Barthelmess Head The List Of Coming Attractions at Show

When a rare star such as Katherine Hepburn is given a vehicle that gives her full scope, a dazzling performance is assured.

This is just what is offered in her powerful new drama, "Morning Glory," which appears Saturday, April 14 at the Penman-Allyn theatre.

Great characterizations are woven into a highly dramatic and intensely interesting story in this production. Added interest is attached to the story through its resemblance to many details to actual events of Miss Hepburn's real life career.

Briefly, the drama centers about a girl's gallant struggle for success on the New York stage, and her final triumph after a bitter, disappointing and cruel experience. The girl of the story is an amazing mixture of genius, naive enthusiasm and courage.

Not a backstage production in any sense of that term, "Morning Glory" can be fittingly described as an epic of devotion to an ideal and unselfish love. The girl could just as easily have been fighting to "win" success as a writer or an artist.

George Fox was born, Dec. 10, 1894, in Northville, Mich. He is a writer and actor. He is a writer and actor. He is a writer and actor.

Miss Hepburn again drives her fight to consideration as one of the greatest stars of screen history. Far from being a "lead" in the part, this dynamic actress not only repeats the triumphs of the "won" in "A Bill of Divorcement" and "Christopher Strong," but even improves upon them with her amazingly understanding interpretation of the girl in "Morning Glory."

Richard Barthelmess, latest First National picture, "Massacre," which will be seen Wednesday, April 18, at the Penman-Allyn theatre.

In addition to the whites in the past there are 200 red Indians. In the extra parts, a representative gathering of twelve different tribes of the Standing Bear of the Sioux tribe, and a Caribbe graduate, the technical advisor for the picture, is responsible for its authenticity in authentic details of Indian life and customs.

The picture is based on a story by Robert O'Neil, based on a book, "Massacre," which was dramatized for the screen by Ralph P. Blum and Sheridan Gibney and directed with great skill by Alan Crosland.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Langfield returned to Northville Sunday from a three-months' trip of 6500 miles in the South, fanned in good health, and with ever so many interesting experiences to recount.

Starting January 5, one of the first points of interest visited by the Langfields was the Muscle Shoals power plant in Alabama. It is a wonderful place, said Mr. Langfield. He stressed the great power now being used by the government, and the unusual real estate business. "Everybody tries to sell you a lot," he commented.

The couple went through Alabama to the Gulf of Mexico and over to Tallahassee, Florida, where they stayed in the oldest inn in the city. From the State capital they went through St. Petersburg and Tampa to Clearmont. In Clearmont's hotel stayed at T. G. Richardson's hotel for two weeks, greatly enjoying themselves in the heart of Florida's orange belt. One orange grove, said Mr. Langfield, covered 15,000 acres. An interesting feature in the orange country, he said, was a "postal colony." Here every U. S. postman has an opportunity to buy a lot for a reasonable amount and live on it after he is retired.

The next stop the Langfields made was at the famous Bok tower. Arriving at high noon, the Northville couple heard the beautiful notes of the canaries mingled with the singing of thousands of birds. "It was one of the most wonderful places I have ever seen," the local chemist said. "I would not have missed it for anything."

At Sarasota, the Ringling Bros. circus training camp was visited. Also a stop was made at a museum donated by Mrs. Ringling, where, according to Mr. Langfield, the exhibit is as good as any in Europe.

From Sarasota, the Langfields journeyed up the wild Everglades to Miami. This famous resort was so overcrowded that in the entire city, they were able to get nothing but a room for one night. Leaving this condition behind, the Northville travellers took a boat from Fort Lauderdale through the jungle, Landerdale through the mangrove, and escaping the numerous "alligators" and "snakes" of the Everglades, they reached West Palm Beach.

At West Palm Beach, the Langfields were met by a car and taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Langfield. They were met by a car and taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Langfield.
