DR. ALEXANDER PASSES AWAY AT AGE OF 46

Prominent Dentist Dies In Detroit On Monday

The death of Dr. Paul R. Alexander, for 22 years a Northville dentist, early Monday morning shocked and saddened this community.

Dr. Alexander was stricken with appendicitis following his attendance with some friends on a fishing trip North recently. Immediately after his return home, Sunday, May 27, he went to bed and Thursday he was taken to the hospital in Detroit and an operation was performed. His condition became steadily worse and at approximately 3 o'clock Monday morning he passed away. Mrs. Alexander and Arthur Power, a close friend, were at his bedside.

A loyal citizen, a good sportsman, popular with everybody, he was everything a man could wish for in a friend, declared one who had known him ever since he came to Northville 22 years ago after graduating from the Dental College of the University of Michigan in 1912.

"You could disagree with him and he would still be your best friend. He was the best company on any kind of trip and he was the kind of a friend that you find hard to replace." Thus did one of Dr. Alexander's most ardent friends describe him.

Dr. Alexander was born at North Manchester, Ind., and received his early education there. After graduating from the University of Michigan, Dr. Alexander opened his dental offices over what is now the Royal Ann Cafeteria. He married Miss Mary Kunkel, who at that time was secretary to the president of the Standard Scale Company which was located here. Had not Dr. Alexander been ill, he and Mrs. Alexander would have celebrated their twenty-first wedding anniversary Saturday, June 2.

Dr. Alexander had served as president of the Northville Exchange Club from January to July in 1926; he was Worshipful Master of Northville Lodge No. 266, F. & A. M.; he had been treasurer of the Northville Board of Education for the past four years and held the office up to the time of his death. His position on the school board was one in which he took a keen and astute interest. He delighted in the progress made by the local schools and served in the duties of his office capably.

Fishing was his hobby and trips to the northern fishing streams were the source of much recreation to him. Together with a few friends who make the trip several times annually, he had taken trips similar to the expedition to Bust Lake which he so enjoyed just previous to the time he was taken ill.

Dr. Alexander died, besides his widow, Mary, two children, Frances and Louise, both in high school, and a sister, Mrs. E. N. Zimmerman, of Tacoma, Washington.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Presbyterian church, the Rev. Harold G. Whitfield officiating.

The church was filled to capacity with friends and relatives of Dr. Alexander. The entire front of the auditorium was bidden with a great profusion of beautiful flowers eloquent though silent expressions of the high esteem in which he was held by all.

The sermon of the Rev. Mr. Whitfield was a sincere tribute to the life of Dr. Alexander. Basing his address on the foundation that faith in God is the only thing that brings real success and satisfaction in life, the pastor of the deceased closed with this beautiful tribute to him:

"The passing of our brother, Dr. Paul, has cast a shadow of gloom over this community. We just can't afford to lose such men. And yet, with our crushing sense of loss, we must sample a note of praise and gratitude for his life. For 22 years he graced and dignified the profession of his choice. The many loved ones of the broken family mourned, call forth our praise."

"They with us, will thank God. Though returning by nature, his good and praise him for this life and the judgment, sense of fairness, and will be enabled to believe in God's generosity fitted him for the public grace and power to sanctify the office of his service, of which he sorrowed. With us they will appreciate the fact that his virtues lay heavy responsibilities upon us."

A member of this church, he generously supported the work. He will be missed because his seat will be empty. He was a friend of all and, as Mrs. W. E. Johnston and many are the groups and circles Carl H. Bryan furnished an impression which have been touched by his presence.

His philosophy of life was simple. Interment was made in Rural Hill Cemetery. He lived to make life a cemetery. Pall bearers were just little better, in this worthy ambulatory friends. Sherill W. Amberg, he was unusually successful. Undayton B. Burn, Dr. E. B. Cavell, and many are the groups and circles Carl H. Bryan furnished an impression which have been touched by his presence.

NORTHLIVE HEADS LEAGUE BY BEATING YPSI IN TWO GAMES

Northville Wolverines, leaders of the Michigan State Baseball League, decisively beat Ypsilanti to first place Sunday by defeating Ypsilanti in both ends of a double-header, the last grounds. The scores were four to nothing and eight to six. Northville has won eight and lost none.

In the first game the battery of Moore and German blanked the Ypsi team, allowing seven hits. Northville also collected seven hits and converted four of them into runs. Northville scored one in the third inning, two in the fourth and one in the sixth. Northville's Wolverines played errorless ball.

In the second game, Northville scored four runs in the third inning, three in the fifth, and one in the eighth for a total of eight runs. They got to Wright, Northville pitcher, in the fifth inning for five runs and tallied one more in the eighth for a total of six runs. Salvatore, Ypsi pitcher in the second game, allowed the Wolverines eight hits, all of which were converted into runs.

The following played for Northville: Hammond, DeStefano, R. Wofford, Maron, C. Wolfson, Malross, Broadbrook, German, Gates, Wright, Gates substituted for Hammond in right field when Hammond injured an ankle, running bases.

This and his family came first. And how rich and helpful will be the redeeming memories these of his life. The many loved ones of the broken family qualities of his life embodied in his circle will cherish!

They with us, will thank God. Though returning by nature, his good and praise him for this life and the judgment, sense of fairness, and will be enabled to believe in God's generosity fitted him for the public grace and power to sanctify the office of his service, of which he sorrowed.

DR. PAUL R. ALEXANDER

Moving with a swiftness that has stunned and shocked us all, death has come to Northville and taken from our midst, Dr. Paul R. Alexander. "Gone" from our sight and sound is this splendid friend, this good citizen, this departing optimist, this noble husband and father. His departure leaves this community poorer but eternally grateful for the splendid life he has left behind as a priceless treasure.

Having lived in the same business block with "Dr. Paul," we can speak with some degree of intimacy and certainty concerning the worth-while career that has been cut short so unexpectedly and so many years too soon. He was the sort of man that you will always remember kindly—can anything finer be said of one? Personally, we remember only good of him and it is a splendid memory that in the scores of times he dropped in at The Record office, he always went out leaving behind a smile and kind words to work their leaven of good through the day. What a cheerful world it would be if all did that!

Dr. Alexander took pride in his profession and to a unusual degree spent time and money to make himself better fitted to serve his fellowmen. And best of all, he had a remarkable interest in his patients. He gave all he had to them, in sympathy and professional aid.

In the community he fulfilled the same obligation of service. His work for our schools through his connection with the school board was notable for its efficiency and its far-reaching aid to boys and girls and fathers and mothers. Members of other organizations will not forget the saying sense of humor with which he touched every activity with which he was connected. Only the immediate friends of the doctor know the great physical handicaps under which he struggled manfully and cheerfully in recent years. In spite of this burden his unfading optimism flowed from his kindly soul. That is heroism.

The stream of this good man's life ran deeper than its outward cheer and joyfulness might have indicated. After he had become a member of the Presbyterian church here, a friend jokingly said to him: "Well I see you have joined the church." "Yes," said Dr. Alexander, "I don't see much difference in you," rejoined the friend.

Then from the real soul of the doctor came this revelation of the inner streams of life: "Maybe you can't see as far inside as I can."

Farewell, good friend! Life is richer because you have lived among us these years. Your memory will abide.

INFLUENCE OF THE BLUE EAGLE

According to all reports from Washington, the NRA officials are planning to "ease up" on codes.

In the National Whirligig which purports to be the news behind the news, we are told that "men close to the administration are predicting that President Roosevelt will give NRA a complete overhauling as soon as congress gets out of town" and that "some of the wise ones are guessing knowingly that he will limit future operation of NRA to about a dozen of the biggest industries and let all the less centralized trades go back to shift for themselves."

That looks like sense to the average small business man. The NRA heads are finding out that the American business world cannot be "regimented" into observance of elaborate rules and regulations. The great mass of good Americans still believe at heart in "rugged individualism" even though some of the so-called "Brain Trusters" have tried vainly to laugh out of court that kind of individualism. We heard the sarcastic "Gininal" Johnson talk over the radio last Thursday evening and we are impressed with his lack of sympathy for the critics of NRA. He spent a lot of time lambasting those who disagree with him. Well, the general is simply finding out that the NRA isn't working.

The NRA's failure can be found in the failure of the Blue Eagle to function. The power of public opinion was to make the NRA work. Well, this same public opinion notices the Blue Eagle little and cares less. At first, most of us were afraid of what might happen if we did not stand in awe of it. But that awe soon faded away and now the Blue Eagle gets about as much attention in windows as the posters of last year's circus. In our own community we haven't heard of one case in recent months where the Blue Eagle, in or out of the window, made the slightest difference in people's buying. People in general feel that NRA is a "flop" and will not work. If it will not work, except in big industries, the sooner it goes, the better off we shall be. We can't regiment ourselves into prosperity, no matter how much General Hugh S. Johnson scolds. We were not brought up in the army, like he was.

CHAINED TO A BAD HABIT

Exhibit A: Two Northville women, one married and one unmarried, smoke cigarettes. That, of course, is known to all, yet we just happened to hear some comments on their smoking which set us to thinking.

The older woman, according to the story we heard from good sources, is getting to be a slave to cigarettes. Nervously she lights one after another and burns up a good many during the day.

The younger woman got in the habit of smoking and thought that there was no great harm in it until her brothers happened to come to see her—successful men who know something of life—and they were not pleased at seeing their sister smoking cigarettes. So they got her to promise to stop. But when she started to stop she found it very hard—just as we imagine it is hard for any cigarette smoker to stop.

The World war brought in the cigarette habit to millions of young men. The boys could hardly be blamed for turning to some sedative during the awful experiences through which they went. Since the war cigarette smoking has become a nation-wide habit—the great majority of men smoke them. In fact, so many smoke that it is now "smart" not to smoke. Many smoke at a cost they cannot afford, but the average man goes with "the crowd" and hence he gets chained to a habit that costs him a lot of money during the course of the year.

Smoking by women has become more or less of a fad. Society women think it "swanky" to strut their cigarettes; college girls everywhere think it smart to copy the men in smoking.

The result of these millions of smoking is that the tobacco trust is waxing fat with profit and that millions are trying up to a habit that makes them slaves whether they admit it or not.

Will the women now smoking be still smoking cigarettes when they get to be grandmothers and what will their grandchildren think of them?

LET'S BUILD SOME HOUSES

No village is badly in need of some modern homes for rent. People are finding it next to impossible to rent such homes here and within the last month we have lost several families to Plymouth, because they could not find residences here.

We know what a lot of folks who own houses will say: "It does not pay to rent houses." Maybe not, in many cases, yet we really think that some modest—but modern—houses could be built now and constructed so easily that a good return could be secured on the investment. People won't pay much for old, inconvenient houses, but will pay good rent for modern plumbing, a fireplace and hardwood floors.

Truth—a few good apartment buildings could be used in the village right now. Not too large but comfortable and well located. Here again, the demand is for modern rooms, and certainly a small apartment building here now would bring good returns.

With all the staffs of the institutions around us as available centers, Northville should make a big effort to meet the demands of these people for comfortable places in which to live.

Who will be the first to cash in on this splendid opportunity?

One fine by-product would be that the builders would be put to work and another slice of prosperity would come our way.

Northville, "Let's go!"

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

One good indication of better times is that folks haven't had a vacation in some two or three years, making their plans to get away this summer.

That's fine. We hope you all get rested up with gain health and strength, and best of all, get a new outlook on life. It's a great world in which we live.

P. S.—See you at the World's Fair in September.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Northville is proud of its high school graduates.

You can't travel far by treading on people's toes.

A political prediction: Alex J. Groesbeck won't be a candidate for the republican nomination for governor.

Dreamed the other night that Governor Wm. A. Comstock came to our home for dinner and a stay until the next morning. Now what should put that kind of a dream into our subconscious mind?

If we were a Michigan farmer and raised potatoes, small fruit or garden truck, we should certainly look up the claims of Michigan State college that irrigation will help them make a success of this kind of farming. There are many seasons in Michigan when the rainfall is nowhere near adequate. Without irrigation, certain parts of California would be barren desert. If irrigation can be used successfully in California, where water is very hard to get, it certainly can be used in Michigan where water is more plentiful.

In spite of all the propaganda to the contrary, it is still our idea that certain parts of Russia are hell. No one would ever claim that The Christian Science Monitor is a member of the "capitalistic press" about which we hear some speak so glibly. Yet the May 29 issue of the Monitor has an article by William Henry Chamberlin, who has spent ten years (not ten weeks) in Russia and he says that between four and five millions of peasants literally died from hunger and its attendant causes during the year 1933. If that isn't literal hell, you tell us. And yet some of our so-called intellectuals are trying to tell us what a grand thing it would be to have some of these Soviet ideas put to work in the United States.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

DON'T LET IT HAPPEN TO YOU

(Harold M. Bizer in The Crossell Jeffersonian)

A woman who was too economical to subscribe for her home paper sent her little son to borrow the copy taken by their neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in 10 minutes lost his life, a summer squash. His cries reached his father who ran to his assistance and failing to notice a barbed wire fence ran into it, breaking it down; cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and running a $5 pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating corn. Hearing the racket, the mother ran, upset a four gallon churn of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole litter. In her hurry she dropped and broke, past all hope of mending a $2 set of false teeth.

HOBOES UNDER NRA

George Averill in Birmingham Eccentric

NRA has attracted that most romantic of all American institutions, the true and tried hobos. Organized under what they call the Brotherhood of Migratory Workers, and holding themselves as a part from ordinary loafers and panhandlers, this Brotherhood now comes forth with a "code" of its own: it inputs hours of gainful employment to four per day at not less than 40 cents per hour.

Geo. Averill, one of the Brotherhood, knows at your door book and declares him. If selling "pig iron" trade within the provisions of the Code, we suggest that you make him aware of his creditable Blue Eagle being most important. Perhaps, it may develop, the expert will indeed impress the Faith upon some portion of the Brotherhood in 1934, or the General Johnson may devise a plan to mark the forehead who knows, who can say what may happen when a beautiful Blue Eagle crosses in uncharted flight over the vast terrain of American soil.

By MRS. EDITOR

"If for Mothers An unusually busy day. Work was piled to the sky. From one job to another the woman flew with one eye on the clock."

"Where has the morning gone? and she hung another little shirt on the already crowded clothes bar turned off her iron and hurriedly sifted the flour for a short time."

"Hoo, hoo!" called a child's voice from the doorway. "Oh, mother, see what I made for you in school?"

"Yes, yes, child, but don't bother me right now. My hands are all flour and can't you see it's almost time for Daddy to come home. Oh, don't bother me now."

"But I made it for you. I thought you'd like it."

Clapping the short cake into the oven the mother washed her floury hands and sat down to admire the painstakingly-made little flower-

"To make an 'if' for mothers, friends, yet keep the kingdom of heaven within me."

The smell of baking shortcake brought the woman back from her reverie and as she piled the crushed berries on the flaky crust she said to herself, "Well, if I could carry out all those 'ifs,' I guess I'd be ready to spread wings!"

Cold Coffee Cake

One of the nice cakes served at the Woman's Club luncheon was the following made by Mrs. Lily Angel.

"It might be called 'Angel cake' though this is a dark one, especially good flavor."

"One cup sugar, 1 cup shortening, 2 eggs, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup cold coffee, 1 rounded teaspoon soda, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg to taste, salt, 1 1/2 cups (1 1/2) flour, butter and egg with powdered sugar flavored with vanilla.

Scalloped Asparagus

A popular dish at this was the scalloped asparagus by Mrs. E. L. Mills.

Two layers of cooked asparagus (4-inch lengths) and red-boiled eggs. Over each is a cream sauce into which sliced mushrooms which are sauted in butter. Sprinkled crumbs over the top and broil until golden brown.

DR. PAUL R. ALEXANDER

Moving with a swiftness that has stunned and shocked us all, death has come to Northville and taken from our midst, Dr. Paul R. Alexander. Gone from our sight and sound is this splendid friend, this good citizen, this unfailing optimist, this noble husband and father. His departure leaves this community poorer but eternally grateful for the splendid life he has left behind as a priceless treasure.

Having lived in the same business block with "Dr. Paul," we can speak with some degree of intimacy and certainty concerning the worth-while career that has been cut short so unexpectedly and so many years too soon. He was the sort of man that you will always remember kindly—can anything finer be said of one? Personally, we remember only good of him and this is a splendid memory that in the scores of times he dropped in at The Record office; he always went out leaving behind a smile and kind words to perk their leaven of good through the day. What a cheerful soul it would be if all did that!

Dr. Alexander took pride in his profession and to an unusual degree spent time and money to make himself better fitted to serve his fellowmen. And best of all, he had a remarkable interest in his patients. He gave all he had to them, in sympathy and professional aid. To his community he fulfilled the same obligation of service. His work for our schools through his connection with the school board was notable for its efficiency and its far-reaching aid to boys and girls and fathers and mothers. Members of other organizations will not forget the saving sense of humor with which he touched every activity with which he was connected. Only the immediate friends of the doctor knew the great physical handicaps under which he struggled manfully and cheerfully in recent years. In spite of this his unfailing optimism flowed from his kindly soul. That is heroism. The stream of this good man's life ran deeper than its outward flow and mystery might have indicated after he had become a member of the Presbyterian church here, a friend jokingly said to him: "Well, I see you have joined the church?" "Yes," said Dr. Alexander. "I don't see much difference in you," rejoined the friend. Then from the real soul of the doctor came this revelation of the inner stream of life: "Might you not see as far inside as I can?"

Farewell, good friend! Life is richer because you have lived among us these years. Your memory will abide.

INFLUENCE OF THE BLUE EAGLE

According to all reports from Washington, the NRA officials are planning to "clean up" on codes.

In the National Whirligig which purports to be the news behind the news, we are told that men close to the administration are predicting that President Roosevelt will give NRA a complete overhauling as soon as Congress gets out of town and that "some of the wise ones are guessing knowingly that he will limit future operation of NRA to about a dozen of the biggest industries and let all the less centralized trades go back to shift for themselves."

That looks like sense to the average small business man. The NRA heads are finding out that the American business world cannot be "segmented" into observance of elaborate rules and regulations. The great mass of good Americans still believe at heart in "rugged individualism" even though some of the so-called "Brain Trusters" have tried vainly to laugh out of court that kind of individualism. We heard the sarcastic "Gineral" Johnson talk over the radio last Thursday evening and we are impressed with his lack of sympathy for the critics of NRA. He spent a lot of time lambasting those who disagree with him. Well, the general is simply finding out that the NRA isn't working.

The NRA's failure can be found in the failure of the Blue Eagle to function. The power of public opinion was to make the NRA work. Well, this same public opinion ignores the Blue Eagle little and cares less. At first most of us were afraid of what might happen if we did not stand in awe of it. But that awe soon faded away and the Blue Eagle gets about as much attention in windows as the posters of last year's circus. In our own community we haven't heard of one case in recent months where the Blue Eagle, in or out of the window, made the slightest difference in people's buying. People in general feel that NRA is a "flop" and will not work. If it will not work, except in big industries, the sooner it goes the better off we shall be. We can't regiment ourselves into prosperity, no matter how much General Hugh S. Johnson scolds. We were not brought up in the army, like he was.

CHAINED TO A BAD HABIT

Exhibit A: Two Northville women, one married and one unmarried, smoke cigarettes. That, of course, is their own business, yet we just happened to hear some comments on their smoking which set us to thinking.

The older woman, according to the story we heard from good sources, is getting to be a slave to cigarettes. Nervously she lights one after another and burns up a good many during the day.

The younger woman got in the habit of smoking and thought that there was no great harm in it, until her brothers happened to come to see her—successful men who know something of life—and they were not pleased at seeing their sister smoking cigarettes. So they got her to promise to stop. But when she started to stop she found it very hard—just as we imagine it is hard for any cigarette smoker to stop.

The World war brought in the cigarette habit to millions of young men. The boys could hardly be blamed for turning to some sedative during the awful experiences through which they went. Since the war cigarette smoking has become a nation-wide habit—the great majority of men smoke them. In fact, so many smoke that it is now "smart" not to smoke. Many smoke at a cost they cannot afford, but the average man goes with "the crowd" and hence he gets chained to a habit that costs him a lot of money during the course of the year.

Smoking by women has become more or less of a fad. Society women think it "swanky" to strut their cigarettes; college girls even the men in smoking.

The result of these tobacco trusts is waxing fat.

Are they trying to foist a habit upon us?

Will the women no longer smoke cigarettes when they get to their grandchildren?

LET'S BUY

Northville is badly in need of new homes. People are finding homes here and several families to Plympton find residences here.

We know what a good house is: "It does not pay in many cases, yet we're building modern houses reasonably that a good investment. People won't buy houses, but will pay good fireplaces and hardware.

Further, a few good houses in the village rightable and well located, fine living rooms, and comfortable new would bring pleasure.

With all the staff available centers Northville at the demands of the market in which to live.

Who will be the first to take advantage of this opportunity?

One fine by-product will be put at work and can come up.

DON'T LET IT HAPPEN TO YOU

(Harold M. Baker in The Croswell Jeffersonian)

A woman who was too economical to subscribe for her home paper sent her little son to borrow the copy taken by their neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a 5¢ stand of bees, and in 10 minutes looked like a summer squash. His cries reached his father who ran to his assistance and failing to notice a barbed wire fence ran into it, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $5 pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating corn. Hearing the racket, the mother ran, upset a four gallon churn of thick cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole litter.

"If" for Mothers
An unusually busy day. Work was piled to the sky! From one job to another the woman flew with one eye on the clock.

Where has the morning gone?

It is time to get dressed.

If I can care for my family and not become a drudge or maid.

Hoo! hoo!" called a child's voice from the doorway. "Oh, mother, see what I made for you in school."

"Yes, yes, child, but don't bother me right now. My hands are all full and can't you see it's almost

"But I made it for you. I thought you'd like it."

Clapping the short cake into the pan the mother washed her floury hands and sat down to admire the painstakingly-made little flower with the inscription written in childish hand, "To one I love."

"And you made that for me? Why, nothing in the world could make me so happy."

The little fellow ran off content to play and the mother sat of the back porch and thought, "If more than meat."

Saying "If" to herself made her

The only come back to hail damage is Hail Insurance in a sound company whose policy guarantees you prompt and conscientious adjustment and settlement of losses.

WALLED LAKE GRADUATE HONORED AT M. S. C.

Ada Mary Button, who was graduated from Walled Lake high school in 1932, a sophomore at Michigan State College in the Home Economics division, was one of the 378 students to be placed on the 1934 honor roll as a result of maintaining a "B" average for two consecutive college terms, according to the list of names released by the college administration office.

Recognizing the fact that students scholastically able to make a "B" average are deserving of more privileges than the average student, the college each year publishes the list of honor-roll students and accords them the right of unlimited "cuts" or absences from classes. Past records show that honor-roll students seldom avail themselves of this opportunity to "cut" classes.

Miss Button is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Button of the Haggerty road near Twelve Mile road.

THIS WEEK

By H. H. WHITE

Recently I read a book on propaganda in which the writer, who is a subtle and skillful molder of public opinion here in America, revealed some interesting and startling ideas on the nature and practice of this profitable if dubious art.

From the book one gathered the idea that propaganda was so cleverly devised and perfected that an almost invisible regime can be placed at the disposal of any group who is inclined to use it and financially stable enough to employ such means to gain their ends. It really frightened me into the idea that they may be the unwilling victims of such chicanery without any concrete knowledge of the facts.

The book gave the impression that when we are thinking and acting most freely, our choices are often determined by subtle and skillful plotters behind the mirage of propaganda. It has been only in the years since the World War that we have become cognizant of the awful devastating facts concerning the falsehoods propagated by the nations involved in the international conflict. The diabolical tool of falsehood was not only used against the enemy but also by the nations themselves amongst their own countrymen even to propagate perfidious methods and ideas of the real issues involved.

The author of the book continued by saying that the art of propaganda has been worked to such a fine degree that the minds of men may be regimented just as easily as the bodies of any military organization. Thus we are led to the alarming conclusion that any and every approach to social communication may be used as an avenue of propaganda. There are no means of human association which can escape any external or outside purpose when any organized group has something to put over.

The propagandists have well learned the methods necessary to propagate their ideas and how to cater to the prejudices of the public mind in order to achieve their purpose.

For three weeks he had borne all the horrors of the annual house-cleaning without a murmur. Then his patience gave way.

"And you," sobbed his wife, "you used to say I was your queen."

"Yes," he responded with a wild glare in his eye, "but when a man finds that his queen has used his tobacco jar for pale oak varnish and his snuffbox pipe for a tack-hammer he begins to grasp the advantages of a republic."

Rev. and Mrs. Carless attended a pot-luck supper at the home of Mrs. Alma Rose in Commerce Wednesday.
