NORTHVILLE'S OUTLOOK FOR '35 IS BRIGHT

Every Indication Points To An Increase In Business

Northville is looking forward. The year 1935 looks very promising. Having successfully survived the worst business depression in history, Detroit's most picturesque suburb is set to take part in the "boom" that appears at hand throughout the country.

Detroit's First National Bank is about to pay off and put millions of dollars in circulation. That will help Northville.

The Ford plants will soon begin the production of a million new automobiles and give work to thousands of men. That will help Northville.

That basic industry, the building business, is showing an upturn. The like of which has not been seen since 1929. People are beginning to buy lumber and hire carpenters and painters.

The wheels of recovery are being set in motion and Northville is already beginning to reflect it.

The Depositors State Bank here continues in the general feeling that a pick-up is coming. Its savings accounts having increased from $15,000 to $380,000, and there is definite indication that officials are able to become more lenient in the loaning policy. The bank has money in the Detroit First National, and will profit from its release. They have, for some time, been loaning money through the Federal Housing Corporation, and find that persons are meeting their obligations better than a year ago.

In Northville's lumber business, local dealers report "a definite upward trend" and that "business is holding up better than we anticipated." Building business, while slow, is on account of the severe drought, "should increase shortly."

The Northville schools, with a record attendance of nearly 600 pupils, are expected to run two weeks longer than last year, nine and a half months, with the possibility of a ten-month year. If financial conditions are stable and it is expected to profit from the recent announcement from Lansing that the latest tax is picking up—an announcement which in itself is indicative of the general upward trend.

The village of Northville, in this era of "wobbling municipalities," is admirably holding its own. While taxes are slow, and the paving tax bonds make a heavy burden, back taxes are being slowly paid up, officials report.

With 70 men being employed in three shifts, the local Ford plant is running full capacity. New machinery equipment has been requested, and it is expected that when the Ford "one million" production program gets underway, the Northville plant will be even more busy than it is now.

The Marz Ford parts factory also added men recently, now employing 14, the highest number he has ever had. With new machinery installed, production is going at a high peak.

Northville's institutions, the Marybury Sanatorium, the Wayne County Training School, and the Detroit House of Correction all continue to employ many and are, at times, drawing in new residents.

With the new parkway, "one of the most beautiful drives in the United States," nearly finished, Northville will receive a constant flow of traffic—traffic which means business for Northville merchants.

HAWK BANDED BY M. V. GUNTZWILLER, FOUND IN SOUTH

Stranger than fiction is this true story told by Martin V. Guntzwiler, corner of Ten Mile and Tenth road. Mr. Guntzwiler received word from a man in Cypress, Texas, saying that a young hawk had been taken with a leg band bearing his name and address. The bird had been taken alive by Guntzwiler while husking corn at his home late in August. He let the hawk loose after fastening his name to its leg.

Guntzwiler is a taxidermist who mounts many a deer head for local hunters.

LIBRARY HOURS LENGTHENED

The Wayne County librarian has announced that the local library will be opened each day beginning Dec. 1 from 12 m. to 9 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. The public will appreciate this extended service.

UNITED STATES HAS THREE NORTHVILLES

Word comes from the geography department of the University of Michigan that besides this village, there are only two other Northvilles in the United States—one in New York and the other in North Dakota.

The other two Northvilles are both smaller than their Michigan sister, averaging slightly above 1,000 population. The 1930 census gave Northville a population of 3,363. It was incorporated in 1867.

The village in Michigan which sounds most like Northville is Northport, near Traverse City.

COMMUNITY UNITES IN GIVING THANKS

To carry out the real purpose of Thanksgiving as begun by our Puritan fathers, a community service will be held at the Baptist church on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. Following is the program:

Special Music—Presbyterian church.
Scripture reading—Rev. H. G. Whitfield.
Music—Methodist church.
Responsive reading.
Music—Baptist trio.
Address—Rev. K. S. North.
Vocal solo—Mrs. K. S. North.
Benediction—Rev. W. Roscoe Barbour.

MEMORIES OF WOMEN WHO WALKED VILLAGE STREETS

MARY P. AXTELL, slender, airy, short, dark-eyed, vivacious, alert teacher and helpful instructor.

FRANKIE STEWART HOOPER, plump figure, laughing eyes, spirited manner, attractive personality, fun loving and genial.

MRS. BESSIE DELANEY, short, amply proportioned, business-like, motherly, public spirited, a church woman, constant and faithful.

JENNIE WESTFALL WHEELER, tall, slender, athletic, keen eyed, studious, sociable, progressive, good homemaker and true citizen.

MINNIE HATHORN CARPENTER, energetic, alert, a typical teacher, able, decisive, dependable, a leader in fraternal work and honored by her friends.

VIRGINIA STEARNS, slight of build, aggressive, an editor's daughter, friend of her pupils, well grounded in high school work, attractive in person and attainments.

HELEN BULLIS ALLARD, brilliant student, wide range of knowledge, tall, erect, good walker, pleasant personality, followed her chosen work of teaching until the recent accident that ended her life.

MARY WAGER, short, aggressive, vigorous in speech, expressive language, cordial manner, neighborly and motherly.

LOCAL NEWS

Northville Main street will take on a Christmas look soon with the small trees with which each business place will decorate.

Mrs. Ida Hunt, daughter of Mrs. Frank Morris, left for Texas Monday morning by automobile with Mr. and Mrs. L. Johnson of Groesbeek Pointe. They expect to be gone three months inspecting oil properties of Mr. Johnson in that state.

The Babbitt children, Lovie and Mary Ellen, are looking forward to going "over the river" through the woods to granddaddy's house in Novi when the "hospitable home of Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Holcomb will be the scene of a family gathering. Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Babbitt and the children, and Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Holcomb and son, Jack, will be present.

Mrs. Paul Thompson of Grand Rapids arrived Saturday evening to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with her husband, Principal Paul B. Thompson at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Babbitt. On Wednesday they went to Addison to the parental home of Mr. Thompson and on Sunday they enjoyed their second Thanksgiving dinner with Mrs. Thompson's parents in Albion.

Baptists Broadcast Program

A very unique radio drama "The Disciple of the Night" was given at the Baptist church Sunday evening by Rev. K. S. North, R. H. Amerman, and several other assistants.

The "studio" was arranged in the basement with a hook-up to a radio on the platform. The listeners were surprised to hear the voices of their friends. The scheme aroused so much interest that it is to be repeated.

Let Us Give & Thanks

HANDEL'S MESSIAH TO STIR NORTHVILLE AT CHRISTMAS TIME

Again Northville will thrill to the grand strains of Handel's immortal "Messiah" when a chorus of 60 voices will present this at the Presbyterian church on the evening of Sunday, Dec. 23.

Last year Leslie G. Lee trained a chorus of 70 singers who gave to our village its first presentation of this great oratorio. The house was filled with music lovers who left the church profoundly impressed, with the finale, the Hallelujah Chorus, ringing in their ears.

This year, an even larger number of singers will form the chorus, which will be comprised of the Northville-Plymouth Male Chorus, the Northville High School Chorus and thirty local women. Solo girls will be taken by Pierre Kenyon, Mrs. Edna O'Connor, Carl H. Bryan and Miss Barbara Horton. Mrs. Sherrill W. Ambler and Mrs. O'Connor will play the pipe organ.

Only the Christmas portion of the oratorio will be sung, this alone occupying at least one hour. Especially appreciated last year were the solos, "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "Come Unto Me."

There will be no charge for admission; Mr. Lee and his singers making this generous contribution of hours of rehearsal as a Christmas gift to the community.

IF THE GIFT IS LASTING THE SENTIMENT IS ALSO

Naturally, if your gift is a temporary thing that is soon worn out, or used up, the sentiment which inspired it is soon forgotten. If you want your good wishes to live on for years—give a lasting gift.

Our stock of distinctive gifts is made up almost entirely of articles of that kind—fine watches—the newest of jewelry—unusual novelties—and many other things such as Waterman Pen and Pencil sets; silverware, clocks, dresser sets at $2.50 and up; Fine cut glass and any other article you would find in a first class jewelry store. The surprising part of it is that most of these gifts cost no more than others which are soon forgotten. Come in and look around—Soon!

LUCIUS BLAKE Jeweler.

AT BUD'S INN—Thanksgiving dinner, roast turkey or chicken, $5.00 and $3.50. Dancing in the evening.

WINGED VISITOR CALLS ON DOLPHS

The Dolphs had a strange visitor Sunday. Like Poe's raven it said "Nevermore" and left on wing.

While peacefully engaged in the lawful pursuits of a Sunday afternoon, Nov. 23, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dolph heard a commotion on the upper floor of their home.

They were astonished to find that a hen pheasant had crashed through the upper section of the window while in flight and lay scathed and panting on the floor. The lower window was raised and the bird found its way out and flew away to the fields of the Griswold farm.

And now all their friends are asking the Dolphs why they did not have pheasant for dinner.

Dunbar Davis, a law student at the University of Michigan, will join with a family gathering, including his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Davis, from North Carolina, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Willis, Sun.

BACK FROM NEW YORK, NEWMAN EATS TURKEY AT HOME IN DETROIT

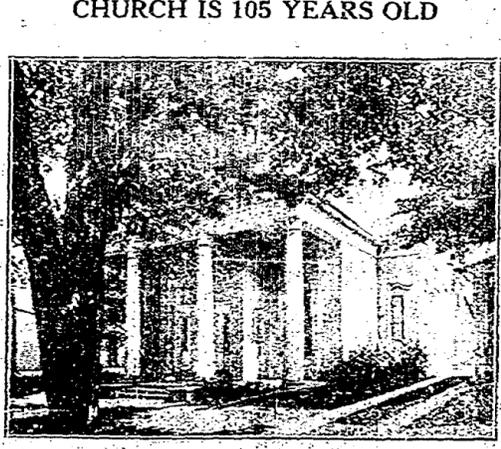

Harry L. Newman, well known all-American football star, now captain of the New York Giants, has been discharged from St. Elizabeth's hospital, New York, where he lay in a cast for nearly a week suffering from misplaced vertebrae caused in the game between the Chicago Bears and the Giants, Nov. 18.

Harry will be out of the game for the remainder of the season. He is expected to be back in Detroit to spend Thanksgiving with his mother, returning to New York Monday following accompanied by his old Michigan room-mate, Ad Schwenger, whom he will introduce to the workers of the big city.

CHURCH IS 105 YEARS OLD

An event of unusual importance to Northville will take place Sunday, December 2, at the Presbyterian church when the 105th anniversary of its founding will be appropriately observed. Dr. M. C. Pearson of Detroit will deliver the principal address.

NORTHVILLE TO AID FIGHT AGAINST TB

Again at the approach of the season of "Good" will toward men" public spirit is reaching out to those who are making a brave fight against tuberculosis.

Christmas seals will be on sale by the children of the public schools, only two days being allowed for their canvass, December 3 and 4.

Under sponsorship of the Northville Woman's club, Mrs. H. H. Burkart has the chairmanship of this enterprise and has rounded up four out-lying country schools, the DeKay, Thayer, Base Line and Hinman as well as the village schools in a contest for sales of penny seals. The winner of the contest will receive a beautiful statue of "The Spirit of Health" which stands two feet high and will be a lovely decoration for the lucky school until the contest again next year.

In Northville, as a fair division, the first six grades and kindergarten will compete with the seventh and eighth grades. A few pennies invested by many will amount to a great deal in the aggregate. Your support will be appreciated.

MRS. P. W. DONON, HEAD OF THE P. T. A., HAS VITAL MESSAGE

Mrs. Philip W. Donon, president of the Parent-Teachers Association, contributed the following Thanksgiving thoughts:

By official proclamation of the President of the United States, the last Thursday of November, of every year, is set aside for a Day of Thanksgiving for every man, woman and child in this country.

This day of Thanksgiving, being by their laws fixed, is a day of national observance. It is a day of national prayer.

It is a day of national prayer for the peace and well-being of our country, for the peace and well-being of our world, for the peace and well-being of our race.

NORTHVILLE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WILL CELEBRATE ITS 105TH ANNIVERSARY

Dr. M. C. Pearson of Detroit Will Be The Leading Speaker At Services
Sunday, Dec. 2

Standing in the heart of the village, the Presbyterian church, the oldest church in Northville, is to celebrate its one hundred and fifth anniversary, Sunday, Dec. 2.

On this same site stood the first modest frame building where worshipped the early founders of the church with staunch faith.

A series of changes in the structure of the old building resulted in the erection of the present attractive, sturdy building of brick in the year 1846.

In early years the worshippers sang fervently to the accompaniment of an old-fashioned organ. Some time later on the luxury of a piano was introduced to add grace to their service until finally the fine pipe organ, now in use, gives dignity to the worship.

Twenty-one years ago the building underwent extensive remodeling. The walls were widened to accommodate the growing number of attendants; the tall spire which had begun to incline with the years, was replaced with the substantial tower and the tall classic pillars were placed at the entrance.

Lacking adequate room facilities for church and school and church social affairs, the new church house was visioned and brought to completion, with dedication January 25, 1911. Incidentally, this church has been the quarters available for community gatherings and social occasions, which in itself is quite an asset.

A full century of history of the First Presbyterian church, of this town, organized Nov. 26th, 1829, had passed when, on Sunday, Dec. 1st, 1929, the event was made the occasion of a full day of celebration.

The day of celebration was raised to relieve the solemnity. The background represented was the interior of the rude cabin which was the abode of the first settlers.

The play of dramatic high-toned humor introduced a touch of levity to the day and added to the joyousness of the occasion.

CERTAINLY YOU ARE THANKFUL

Unselfish people probably are the most thankful folks in the world. And by the same sign, the selfish individual is the one who may ask: "For what have I to be thankful?"

To the ingrate, Thanksgiving day is foolishness. To the man, woman or child, who lives for some one else, Thanksgiving Day may become a hallowed one.

Unless we are hit too hard by physical handicaps, every normal person, not steeped in greed or unholy thinking or living, should be glad for a Thanksgiving day this year of grace, 1934. Thanksgiving is all a matter of proportion and certainly even the most unfortunate of us has something for which to be grateful.

Have you health? Then be glad, for many do not have health or they have it in limited measure. If you can walk to work, swinging a dinner pail, you are as rich as the millionaires (what is a millionaire now?) If you can hoe in the garden or raise tulips or dahlias you are rich in your own right.

Have you a loyal family? A wife or a husband? A son or daughter who runs to meet you when the day's work is done? A boy who plays football or a daughter who can play the piano? Then Thanksgiving day should be a red letter day for you. You are worthy of the envy of the best folks who live.

Are you a lover of truth, beauty, goodness? Then look around you and be glad for life. No matter what your sorrows—and you will never escape those—life for you can be rich and full and satisfying. Thanksgiving day is a milestone for you.

Have you friends? Have you paid the price to have them? Not many friends—just a few, but the kind who stick with you through the years and through all the changes, for better or for worse?

Judged by material values, this Thanksgiving of 1934 may not be the best we have ever had. Too many of us have taken money issues to brag about our resources. But, putting on the Thanksgiving scales, the spiritual values we still have left, this Thanksgiving of 1934 could and should be, one of the finest that we have ever known. The unseen values are still imperishable ones. Things alone can never keep gratitude alive.

ROOSEVELT'S NEW ATTITUDE

Judging by all reports, it appears that President Roosevelt is changing or has changed, his idea about "hearing down" on so-called "Big Business." The word from Washington is that conciliation, instead of controversy, is now in the air.

We hear now that business is to be unfettered by the NRA and the other various alphabetical agencies. The leaders of industry are going to be given a chance to see what they can do on their own initiative without all the shackles that the Brain Trusters have been trying to apply.

There is no question that the leaders of business have been "lying low" until it could be seen what the administration was going to do. They could hardly be blamed. There has been so much uncertainty about the value of the dollar and about possible new forms of taxation and new legislation from theorists that business leaders were simply afraid to venture out on any new paths. We know personally of one case where a big concern gave up putting in a new plant until it had some assurance that it would not be a business hazard. Why take a chance on investing thousands of dollars if you face confiscation of capital?

Now that Roosevelt seems ready to meet business half way, confidence in an industrial pick-up seems sure to come. All that we need to go ahead with a "bang" is confidence. If business does start to boom, you will see the millions of unemployed starting back to work. That will be a happy day.

NO ONE WANTS TO SEE A LOSER

A Detroit man was in town last Friday and while here tried to give away a ticket to the Michigan-Northwestern football game. No one wanted it. Can you imagine that happening five or six years ago when they were packing the big stadium at Ann Arbor?

Even though there has to be a loser in most football games, none of us wants that loser to be our team. Hence you see this season the spectacle of a packed stadium at East Lansing where the Spartans have had a great season and of thousands and thousands of empty seats at Ann Arbor where the Wolverines have been experiencing the natural reaction after years of feasting on other teams. Good sportsmen should not complain.

KEEP THE CONVICTS IN JAIL

There is something wrong with a Jackson prison management that will allow a bunch of convicts to go to a Michigan city for a game of football with a professional team. No wonder that Michigan newspapers are demanding that coddling of criminals be discontinued.

On a recent Sunday the prison players appeared in Flint against a team from that city. Such a protest went up that other games in other cities are said to have been cancelled. That is right. Why make heroes of criminals? Why put the bandit, the bum and the thief up as examples for our youth?

One of the best ways to stop this sort of abuse of public trust would be to put and keep out of politics the management of our prisons.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Start the Christmas buying now.

One of the best influences in Northville right now is the excellent type of music being taught in our schools.

"Why couldn't she say some of the nice things about her as well as some of the mean things," we heard someone ask on a Northville street. Well, why not?

"Can you tell me why so many people make such little effort to be courteous?" asks a Record reader. Just plain laziness and selfishness are back of a lot of discourtesy.

"Why couldn't Northville support a Little Theatre movement?" asks a young man. There's a constructive idea. It would be easier, however, to start and keep such a movement going if we had a suitable auditorium for play production.

"As some one well says, as a nation we are getting 'jumpy.' The wild story about a Wall street plot to have a half million men march on the national capital proves the point. About as much chance of that as of every elderly person getting a pension of $200 a month. Funny what fool stories people will believe!"

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

5 YEARS AGO

Jared S. Lopham, born in Northville April 18, 1886, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Lopham, died at the home of his mother, Sunday, Nov. 25, following an illness of nearly four years.

Northville Methodists will celebrate the 10th anniversary of the founding of the church in this place Sunday.

It is my food brought food news to hundreds of Northville homes last week when he arranged a special week's menu for all his employees.

Miss Helen Allen of Northville and Walter (Eugene) of Detroit, were married by Rev. Joseph Schuler in Our Lady of Victory church, Saturday morning.

Harry German, with a number of Detroit and Carleton friends, has returned from northern Canada where he spent a few days' mooning.

10 YEARS AGO

Norman Cook, Wayne county auditor of the famous Donkey loads, inaugurates the opening of a Donkey load food store in Northville.

On Saturday evening at Brésida, the home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Vermees, Paul Reiger and Miss Helen Conover were married. Mr. Reiger is well-known in the community being a member of the American Legion.

Along about the first of the new year, W. B. Eskott and Waldo Edgett of this place will open a modern bakery and grocery at South Lyon.

E. A. Keeney and Paul Foss left Sunday morning for Iowa where they are spending the week with the former's parents.

Mrs. S. E. Cranson enjoyed a visit from her sister, Mrs. Eugene Troost of Philadelphia last week.

Herman Stamann died at his home on Seven Mile road last Friday.

25 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Electa Morley, who has been ill for several weeks past, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. T. Stewart, yesterday morning.

Cards have been received here announcing the marriage of Ebridge Lapham to Miss Elizabeth Feller, on Sunday, November 22, at Elkhart, Indiana.

Under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tannah, assisted by Mrs. J. B. Tannah, the King's Daughters will give an entertainment in the Northville Opera House next week.

The street lights were on Saturday night for the first time in nearly six weeks and the people of our village are very happy over it.

Charles Thornton left Tuesday for Snohomish, Washington, to install machinery in a condenser for C. E. Rogers. He was accompanied by Alex Christensen.

30 YEARS AGO

A novel form of thievery has been going on in town this fall. One of our citizens who keeps a cow has several times found that someone had entered his stable sometime in the early morning hours and pre-empted his job of milking.

Dr. Francis Woods, national organizer of the American Woman Suffrage association, gave an exceptionally fine talk in the library Tuesday evening. She presented views with a convincing logic which greatly impressed all who heard her.

Postoffice Inspector Hetzenmeyer has made his official call on the Northville office and was very complimentary as to the shape in which he found things.

Mrs. August Murdock has returned from Detroit, where she has been for several weeks engaged in nursing.

Mrs. J. R. Beal left this week for Atlanta, Ga., to spend the winter. Mr. Beal starts soon for a trip to New England.

What we were made and lived on the farm, grandma used to tell us some fairy stories—old grandma's do—when expressed us greatly. It was said that the Red Bad Bear was to get us but if we were good we'd be safe and have lots of money and a fine home and a pig and a pony, etc., etc. Everybody knows how fairy stories are told and their purpose.

Later in life a traveling evangelist very dramatically and very realistically pictured a scorching hell for watermelon thieves and a Heaven paved with solid gold bricks for the nice little Sunday school boys and girls. We do not mean to ridicule Grandma or the evangelist. They meant well, but their methods were—well, shall we say primitive.

One day this week an aged St. Johns resident (he was over sixty) said: "All that's the matter with you is that you are too young to get that $200 pension. We had military questioned the feasibility of the old age revolving pension plan which is being talked about so much right now. The following day a lady who might admit she was past middle-age said: "I was up to the court house and heard that man talk about the $200 pension for old folks. I think it would be wonderful—don't you?" What could one say? This lady, we happen to know, has in late years lost the security she always has heretofore enjoyed.

The cruel thing about the circulation of such plans is the false hope they raise. Many old people who have become interested are actually trying to figure out how they can spend $200 each month. They are speculating on what they would do when they are required to do no work but just spend $200 each month. President Roosevelt last week referred to this and other plans which are being circulated in various parts of the United States. He said something about "untried and un-sound theories." He indicated that some form of job insurance and some form of old age pensions might be worked out. Sober minded people know that $200 a month for each and every person sixty years of age or older is rather impossible.

We are not sure what is behind this move. It may be a sincere and honest attempt to promote some of the rather fantastic ideas of Up-ton Sinclair. Or, it may be the foundation of a wholesale graft in which those interested will be asked to pay in a membership fee and make some jobs for organizers and promoters. Regardless of the motive behind it, the thing is cruel. It binds false hopes in hearts of aged people who are entitled to better treatment.

Let us suggest that possibly out of the destitution caused by the depression and out of the great unemployment problems of United States, there may come some plan which would pay aged people a pension of $30 to $60 a month or some other amount based upon their need and on condition they cease gainful employment. Even such a program would be a long step in this country—the financing of even these more modest and sensible amounts would require billions of dollars which means billions of dollars of taxation.

Grandma was a fine old lady. She told us fairy stories while we were young. Today they are a pleasant memory. The evangelist may have been sincere in his efforts and his terrible threats of high temperatures in the hereafter were never quite sure of his entire honesty. At any rate we noticed that his converts, in most cases, soon discovered and became "backsliders" after he was gone. About this $200-a-month thing we feel differently. It is just plain downright cruelty to tell Santa Claus stories to needy old people and make them believe Utopia is about to arrive.

Later in life a traveling evangelist very dramatically and very realistically pictured a scorching hell for watermelon thieves and a Heaven paved with solid gold bricks for the nice little Sunday school boys and girls. We do not mean to ridicule Grandma or the evangelist. They meant well, but their methods were—well, shall we say primitive.

One day this week an aged St. Johns resident (he was over sixty) said: "All that's the matter with you is that you are too young to get that $200 pension. We had military questioned the feasibility of the old age revolving pension plan which is being talked about so much right now. The following day a lady who might admit she was past middle-age said: "I was up to the court house and heard that man talk about the $200 pension for old folks. I think it would be wonderful—don't you?" What could one say? This lady, we happen to know, has in late years lost the security she always has heretofore enjoyed.

The cruel thing about the circulation of such plans is the false hope they raise. Many old people who have become interested are actually trying to figure out how they can spend $200 each month. They are speculating on what they would do when they are required to do no work but just spend $200 each month. President Roosevelt last week referred to this and other plans which are being circulated in various parts of the United States. He said something about "untried and un-sound theories." He indicated that some form of job insurance and some form of old age pensions might be worked out. Sober minded people know that $200 a month for each and every person sixty years of age or older is rather impossible.

We are not sure what is behind this move. It may be a sincere and honest attempt to promote some of the rather fantastic ideas of Up-ton Sinclair. Or, it may be the foundation of a wholesale graft in which those interested will be asked to pay in a membership fee and make some jobs for organizers and promoters. Regardless of the motive behind it, the thing is cruel. It binds false hopes in hearts of aged people who are entitled to better treatment.

Let us suggest that possibly out of the destitution caused by the depression and out of the great unemployment problems of United States, there may come some plan which would pay aged people a pension of $30 to $60 a month or some other amount based upon their need and on condition they cease gainful employment. Even such a program would be a long step in this country—the financing of even these more modest and sensible amounts would require billions of dollars which means billions of dollars of taxation.

Grandma was a fine old lady. She told us fairy stories while we were young. Today they are a pleasant memory. The evangelist may have been sincere in his efforts and his terrible threats of high temperatures in the hereafter were never quite sure of his entire honesty. At any rate we noticed that his converts, in most cases, soon discovered and became "backsliders" after he was gone. About this $200-a-month thing we feel differently. It is just plain downright cruelty to tell Santa Claus stories to needy old people and make them believe Utopia is about to arrive.

"Side Streets" When a middle-aged business woman married a young seafarer with a wandering foot, and all a sailor's propensities for love making, she is taking on some problems for herself, especially if the young husband has the charm that makes him attractive to other women. A play based on situations like this has great potentialities for real drama, and it is exactly that which marks the new First National drama "Side Streets," with Aline MacMahon in the feature role, which will open at the Penn-

imman Allen Theatre.

When he did arrive it was obvious that he had about four or five too many drinks. He was expansive and jovial as he walked to his seat. When it came time for his talk to rise unsteadily to his feet and started to orate in drunken style about the tariff.

After about 10 minutes of this, the audience thoroughly enjoying the show, the senator, sitting next to Webster poked him in the ribs and whispered: "The national debt, the national debt."

Webster turned to the audience and bellowed: "That's right, the national debt." Then, his face lighting up, he turned to the senator who had poked him and said in a voice loud enough for the whole audience to hear: "How much is it? I'll pay it myself."

TWO KINDS OF MONEY. (Scarth Inglis in the Galesburg Argus) There is considerable discussion that America should have two kinds of money; a commodity dollar to circulate only in the nation; maybe a gold dollar for international trade. It is a strange condition of affairs—really humorous—when the death of a Balkan King in France can effect the price of potatoes in Michigan (by changing the value of the dollar) more than the supply and demand of potatoes can effect the price.

With the Townsend Plan astewing it might be well to have domestic money of two classes: to have pensions paid in money only good for wages and consumers goods—a dollar good to travel on the railroad but the railroad company could not use it to pay interest or taxes—only to pay wages and buy supplies.

"Midnight Alibi" and "Million Dollar Ransom" To Be Featured In Double Bill This Week

A big double bill will be featured at the local theatre on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

"Midnight Alibi": First National's production of "Dames" Runyon's thrilling romance of metropolitan New York of the present day, is scheduled to open at the local theatre Friday and Saturday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, with Richard Barthelmess in the stellar role and Helen Lowell, famous New York stage favorite, in an outstanding characterization.

Much in the same tempo as his "Lady for a Day," Runyon has drawn gangster characterizations in whimsical vein, in a story that carries an unusual romance and many thrills. The unusual friendship that springs up between the proud old aristocrat, Abigail Ardsley, and the young racketeer, Lance McGowan, who seeks refuge in her secluded mansion when pursued by a rival gang intent on putting him on the spot, dramatizes the spirit of New York as few, if any other stories, have done.

"Million Dollar Ransom": Runyon's latest story to reach the screen is "Million Dollar Ransom," produced by Universal and coming to the Penniman-Allyn theatre next Wednesday, December 5. Millions of people read this amazing and gripping tale in Cosmopolitan magazine and millions more will thrill to its reenactment on the screen with such leading actors as Edward Arnold, Phillips Holmes, Mary Carlisle, Andy Devine and many others.

Runyon, for many years regarded as the leading sports writer in America, has reported some of the most important events in the world of sports, his facile pen making his articles breathe and live. It is exactly this faculty which makes Runyon a story teller, whether it is about a prize fight, a baseball or football game, a Kentucky derby, or about plain, everyday people. In "Million Dollar Ransom" he captured the real lowdown on what happened to that great American army of bootleggers for whom Repeal sounded the death knell. This stirring tale on the screen is considered one of the best things Runyon has written.

The screen adaptation by William R. Lipman follows closely the original story as written by Runyon. Lipman, also a veteran New York newspaperman, has worked and known Runyon intimately over a period of years. Ben Ryan, the dialogue author, is considered one of Broadway's most humorous wits among other things. Ryan has written scores of vaudeville sketches and acted in many of them himself. At one time he did an act with George White of "Scandals" fame.

"Side Streets" When a middle-aged business woman married a young seafarer with a wandering foot, and all a sailor's propensities for love making, she is taking on some problems for herself, especially if the young husband has the charm that makes him attractive to other women. A play based on situations like this has great potentialities for real drama, and it is exactly that which marks the new First National drama "Side Streets," with Aline MacMahon in the feature role, which will open at the Pennimman-Allyn theatre Wednesday, Dec. 5.

Aline MacMahon's struggle to hold her young husband, portrayed by Paul Kelly, against himself, against her niece, played by Dorothy Trier, and against the "other woman," Ann Dvorak, with whom the sailor had had a baby, makes a story that is so intensely emotional and dramatic, as to raise it entirely above the level of the usual channels of love's young dream of the stereotyped "triangle."

Father love is emphasized, and the locale is as quaint and colorful as the theme itself, the drama taking place in a woman's fur shop in an ancient section of San Francisco overlooking the Embarcadero, once known as the Barbary Coast.

Other important players include Helen Lowell, Henry O'Neill, Marjorie Gateson, Dorothy Peterson, Mayo Methot, Renee Whitney, Lynn Browning, Lorena Layton, Clay Cennet, and Paul Kaye. The story was written by Ann Garrick and Ethel Hill and directed by Alfred E. Green from the screen play by Manuel Seiff.

There she added the slight vestige of what has come to be termed, in America, a "British" accent. But it still wasn't British enough for true Britons!

Miss Ames has the chief role in "Pursued," the Fox Film, coming to the local theatre on Wednesday, December 5. The cast also includes Victor Jory, Bert Kelton, and Russell Harde.

NIRIDER TO LEAD GRID TEAM OF '35

Chosen Captain at Dinner Given At Boyd Home Last Week

The following football boys enjoyed a delicious chicken dinner given in their honor at the Boyd home last Wednesday evening: Capt. Bender, Nirider, Boyd, Bray, Deal, Duguid, Jans, Myers, Marburger, McGee, Owen, Porter, Reechko, Toussaint, Strautz, Martens, Edward Angove and Coach Watts.

After the beautiful repast Coach Watts thanked the boys for their cooperation during the past year.

Next ex-captain Bender also thanked the boys for the cooperation they showed during the season. He wished the next year's team the best of luck.

Then Nirider, Strautz and McGee were nominated for the important position of captain of the football team of next year. The voting was done by ballot, and Nirider received a majority. Rising, he voiced his appreciation and the fact that he would do his best to be as good a field marshal as was his predecessor, Bender.

The ladies who contributed to this dinner were Mrs. Strautz, Mrs. Bray, Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Watts.

THE DAY OF DAYS

(By Winifred McCardie)

The sweet bliss and care-free feeling one has when Saturday comes is almost unbelievable. About eight o'clock (out of habit) one will awaken and then remember it's Saturday. "Boy! I'm not gonna get up! I'll go back to sleep for a couple of hours more anyway."

Then about nine one hears, "Jane, get up now, you've got to do the dusting." Gosh, the beautiful day already begun to be just like any other day as you slowly roll out of bed and yawn and stretch.

"Well as soon as I get my work done, I'm gonna find something interesting to do," says Jane. And then she recalls that she and some of her girl friends are going to hike to Plymouth to the show.

The time for the hike comes and all the girls meet. When they had done about a half a block Mary just happened to remember that she didn't have any money with her.

"Well," says Marge, "I wouldn't pay your way in. I'd let you sit outside and wait." "So would we," chimed in the rest.

One block, two blocks, eight blocks. "I'm getting tired, how about you?" "Me too, I wish someone would come along and give us a ride," our more blocks, six more blocks and to our rescue comes a dump-truck.

"Want a ride, girls?" "Sure, where ya going?" "Over to the training school." "O. K." "Here," says the driver, "step in my hand and then get in." A couple did but some of the better climbers got in by themselves.

"My heavens! look at my skirt," says Jilly, "and it's my good one, too." "And my good shoes mounted someone else." "Oh, well," replies another very cheerful person, "just let the mud dry on and it will rub off."

Then we started. The truck, instead of going forward went backward. "Hey, where sa' going?" yells Squirly as the driver backed up to the ledge of a gully. Just then we recalled that the vehicle in which we were riding was a dump-truck. Were we ever scared? But alas, the good man was just one with a sense of humor and had no bad intentions whatsoever.

After the perilous ride we began to hike once more.

We soon reached Plymouth and we were very glad and also hungry. "Let's buy some candy," says Bungo. "Gee! that's a swell idea," we all agreed in chorus.

Alas! after hours of endless waiting the show starts. "Gos any more stones, Mary?" "Sure." But after seeing the blood-curdling looks that were cast in our direction we left the rest of the ammunition in our pockets. To be truthful about the matter we discontinued our target practice by request.

We came out of the theatre and found that it was no longer sunny, but raining cats and dogs. "Now what," asks one of the others. "Foot, foot, foot," came the sound of the rain. "It's my mother," said M. M. "I could hardly realize the joy of a nice warm car with comfortable seats and the lovely thought of going home to supper as we scrambled into the waiting car."

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

Well Miss "Ad"
On behalf of the Orange and Black staff we wish to extend to Mr. Schwenger the best of luck in his newspaper career. He helped us many times when we needed assistance. We hope that New York proves very prosperous for "Ad" who will receive an excellent position there. We will miss his services very much and it is only with our deepest regret that we bid him good-bye.

The first basketball game is with Redford Union here Tuesday evening, December 4. The N. H. S. eagles are showing up very good this year and with the student backing them up they will come out on top.

Senior Card Tournament
We are urged to ask every Northville Card Shark to attend the first senior card party which will be given on Thursday evening, December 6, at the high school gymnasium. The tickets have been going very slowly and unless people support this first party it is doubtful whether they will continue with the other four parties in the tournament. This is a very cheap evening's entertainment at only twenty cents a person. Refreshments will be served during the evening's entertainment.

COMMUNITY FAIR GIVEN ON DEC. 7TH

Everything is under way for the big carnival to be given December 7, in the Northville High School. All the classes and clubs have signed their contracts and the plans are all scheduled.

Come and bring your parents and friends. There will be entertainment for everyone—young and old. The General Committee has decided that there will be no general admission but instead there will be ticket booths on each floor near the entrance.

These people make up the general committee: Donna Ferguson, Spence Van Valkenburgh, Dayton Deal, Violet Johnson, Tom Carrington, Leslie Nirider, Keene Bolton, Bob Angove, James Harper, Irvin Marburger, Roland Morris, Charles Strautz, Virginia Washburn, Helen Harper and Stanley Taylor.

The various things that you may spend your money on are: Fish Pond, Bike Ride, One-act Play, Boxing Match, Fun House or Spook House, Jitney Dance, Sweet-Shop, Freak Show, Fortune Teller, Grab Bar, Believe-It-or-Not, Shoot-ut-Whirl, Dance of the Seven Veils, Swimming Match, Character Drawings, Philippine Spider, Miniature Golf Course, Sawwhirs (wooden letter openers), Fried Cakes and Cider, Senic Candy, Apples, Pop Corn and Candied Apples.

FIRST PARTY WILL BE HELD ON DEC. 6TH

The first card party of the card tournament will be held Thursday evening, December 6, at the high school.

The Northville High school senior class is sponsoring these parties for the purpose of earning money for the class treasury.

The parties, five in all, will be held two weeks apart with the exception of the fourth party which will be held three weeks following the third card party. Prizes will be awarded to the different winners each evening and there will be a grand prize given to the winner at the end of the tournament. The tickets will be one dollar for the five games and 25c straight for one party.

There also will be her entertainment provided for those who do not wish to play cards. It is expected that banquo will be the outstanding game.

DEPARTMENT NOTES

Dept. of Science
The seventh grade geography class are working on scrap books. They are made up of pictures and interesting points about France.

Catherine Berry and James Van Atta had perfect science-discovery note books last month.

The chemistry class had its first experiment in the testing of elements last Thursday.

Miss Huff stresses the importance of this type of chemical test.

Language Dept.
The French 2 class have been receiving some very interesting letters from France.

The French 1 class have been learning proverbs and rhymes. Some very interesting and educational reports have been given on French artists.

Commercial Dept.
Mrs. Taylor gave the typing class an office test last Thursday. Each pupil was given a copy of a paragraph on ambition and the pupils handing in the greatest number of copies and the most accurate copies were hired—the very poorest ones were not recommended, etc. The results of the test were as follows: Thomas Carrington, excellent; Juanita Elkington, hired immediately; Rita Sprenger.

Mary E. Elkington, good; William Owen, favorably considered for position.

Helen Christensen, Ronald Keegling, Dorothy Franz, Alice Masters, June King, Dorothy Richardson, Thyra Lester, Maryanne Nilson, Sidney Moore, Isabelle Tibble, Rita Sprenger, Edward Angove, average considered; but only after the A's and B's are hired.

Teacher's Who's Who

Miss Edna Marie Kreeger

Miss Edna Marie Kreeger, who is now a teacher in the Northville grade school, was born in this same community.

Miss Kreeger started her school days in a little country school on the Base Line road. When she reached high school age she came to Northville and here completed her high school course.

After being graduated from high school, Miss Kreeger attended Michigan State Normal, where she obtained her three year life degree. Upon leaving normal, Miss Kreeger went back to the little school on Base Line road and taught for two years. She also taught at the Parker school in Ann Arbor for two years.

Miss Kreeger is now teacher of grade 4-A.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

(Do you think the school should have the Palla-Chron this year?)
Nick Reechko—"Yes, I think we should publish the Palla-Chron. It would be something to recall your activities in high school."

Tom Carrington—"All the school can put out without much expense I think an annual should be published. But if it means a large debt for the school I think it should be discontinued."

William Owen—"I think an annual should be published again this year because anyone who has ever taken part in athletics or class functions would like some memento of it."

Kenneth Porter—"Yes, the Palla-Chron, in my opinion, should be published again this year. It is beneficial to the school as well as a fine remembrance of the class and team members of '34-'35."

Donna Ferguson—"I don't want to say one way or the other as I am the Mayor of the student council and have to decide the issue."

Phyllis Flaberty—"I am not in favor of a Palla-Chron. They may be cheaper than the Palladium but the Palladium is as good and as good as the Palla-Chron."

SENIORS ARE SURE OF GOING AS FAR AS CLEVELAND, OHIO

Stanley Taylor, treasurer of the senior class, pointed out to the class Wednesday, November 14, that the class at that time had enough money to take every senior as far as Cleveland, Ohio. He also said they had over four hundred miles yet to go before they reached Washington, D. C.

HAS PLAY LEAD

Miss Peggy Blake took the leading part in the play "Sun-Up" given by the music class. Peggy played her part very well.

DID YOU NOTICE

Have you noticed that E. B. E. has found another boy friend? The first one lost his job.

How well the seniors looked dressed in their clothes Monday? They think that clothes help improve their looks!

The "Stooge" game that three well known seniors started while away at school this summer and now they're finding it awfully hard keeping those two fingers on their foreheads.

The journalism class has an associate editor next to Taylor himself, she is M. S.

The bromine look on P. A.'s face after hearing that E. N. was next year's football captain?

The little mark T. W. has below his eye? We wonder how that could have happened?

That E. B. likes to play "Doctor" he's always dressing wounds for the boys.

SOCIETY NEWS

A coon hunt was staged last Monday night by Roland Crisler, Eddie Bender, Adeline Boyd, Norma Sopar, Pauline Foreman and Olive Annie Seip but they failed to catch the coon.

Eddie Bender, Adeline Boyd, Bill McGee, Roland Crisler, Essie Nuder and Kenneth Porter attended the Michigan theatre and saw "College Rhythms" Friday afternoon.

Marion Schroeder attended the Fairview dance Saturday evening.

Eloa Mae Gunkin entertained a group of friends from Detroit Saturday evening. June Deane was also among the guests.

Marion and Bruce Turnbull attended the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at the Contraction Hall Sunday.

Dorothy Richardson spent the week-end in Detroit.

Avis Perry went to Wixom to the dance Friday evening.

Sarah Robertson entertained a group of friends Friday evening at her home near Selma.

THE OBSERVATION COLUMN

This boy can justly be called the baby of the senior class for he is about the shortest in the class but he is not in the least of the smallest ability. He is about 18 years old, nice looking and a ratty dresser. He wears glasses, but although he didn't when he started high school here.

He is very well known and liked around the school because of his ability to do things and do them well. He has been in the N. H. S. band since entering this school. He was in the play "The Wreath of Laughter" was out for football, played on second basketball last year. He has held several class offices and is now on the Student Council.

One of his hobbies is horse back riding. He is an excellent student and is very fond of associating with some of the junior girls.

Can't you guess this week? Don't tell me my efforts are in vain.

SENIOR WHO'S WHO

Isabelle Viola Brinza
The blessed event of Izelle's birthday occurred in Grand Rapids on the day of November 10, 1915. Two years later Isabelle and the family moved to Detroit where they lived for about two years, after which they moved to Dearborn for about two years. From Dearborn they moved to South Lyon, where Isabelle now lives. She attended school there for one year, and is now in her first year at Northville. This being her last year of high school.

Isabelle is often called "Ebb" as a nickname. She is one of the "Three Musketeer Cheer Leaders." She is fond of all sports and likes to swim and dance. She considers sewing and reading her hobbies.

After graduating, Isabelle intends to attend a business college in Detroit.

Lewis Bullock
The population of Salem increased on March 24, 1917 as Lewis was born on that day. That month and that year, he claims he has no middle name. He has lived in Salem township ever since, although he has moved once to the house across the street.

Lewis likes all sports, but he is especially fond of baseball. He has been on the team for three years and is now the pitcher. He is not sure what his hobby is—but he's positive it's not making a cow—but he thinks reading is about the closest to the hobby as anything else.

After graduating Lewis would like to attend the Agricultural College and show his love to do some real work.

Society Notes

Past Matrons Give Handkerchief Shower In Farewell to Mrs. Kohler—

An especially pleasant afternoon was spent by the members of the Past Matrons club, O. E. S., Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Leo Larson, 1417 East Main street, Mrs. Mary Cassie of Detroit as assistant hostess.

Mrs. Scott Lovell entertained the Thursday Bridge club at her home Nov. 22, with the usual pleasant time together. Luncheon preceded the games.

Mrs. and Mrs. Stewart extend hospitality to friends Monday evening. A party of sixteen friends had a happy evening together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Stewart Monday evening when cooperative supper was followed by a round of bridge.

Prizes were won by Mrs. E. L. Mills and D. B. Bunn.

Mrs. Sweet Honors Recent Bride At Bridge-Luncheon—

Mrs. Merrill S. Sweet was hostess to a group of twelve friends at a delightful four-course luncheon at the Loce Pine tea room, Thursday, Nov. 15, honoring Mrs. Al Zimmerman, a recent bride.

The tables were lovely with centerpieces of yellow and white mums and snapdragons with lighted tapers.

Following luncheon the party went to the street home and spent the afternoon at bridge. Mrs. N. E. Danne receiving first prize and Mrs. R. L. Lee the second prize. Mrs. Zimmerman received the guest prize.

Mrs. Bunn and Mrs. Scholitz are hostesses to Nellie Verkes Auxiliary. The Nellie Verkes auxiliary held a very pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. Dayton B. Bunn Tuesday evening with Mrs. Clyde Scholitz as assisting hostess.

Mrs. Howard Anwood had charge of the study of Japan for the evening. About 30 were present including a number of guests, among them Mrs. Wild Cobb and Mrs. Daniel Nollar. Delicious refreshments were served.

'Sun-Up' Characters Are Given Treat At Turnbull Home—

Following their creditable performance Thursday evening the cast of characters in the play 'Sun-Up,' together with their director, Leslie G. Lee, and Mrs. Lee, were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull where a delicious lunch was served. There were fourteen in the party.

Mrs. Turnbull is guest of honor at Plymouth party. Mrs. C. B. Turnbull was guest of honor at a luncheon given by her sister, Mrs. August Lundquist, at her home in Plymouth Wednesday afternoon, November 21.

The occasion was the birthday of Mrs. Turnbull and was enjoyed by both Northville and Plymouth friends.

'Ad' Schwenger is honored at farewell by record staff. To honor one of their number, 'Ad' Schwenger, who is leaving for New York City to accept a responsible position, the members of the Record 'family' gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Baldwin Tuesday evening to have a farewell dinner together. Twelve in the party were present.

'Ad' has made a warm place for himself in the hearts of his co-workers and he will be greatly missed.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are hosts of a small party.

Mrs. and Mrs. Fisher Smith invited two birds with one stone Tuesday evening, Nov. 13, when they took a party to the home of Mrs. Fisher Smith and her guests. The party was a most enjoyable one and was held at the home of Mrs. Fisher Smith.

In the group with the Smiths were Mrs. L. C. Stewart, Mrs. E. L. Mills and Mrs. D. B. Bunn. Lunch was served at 7 o'clock.

J. Knapp, who recently enjoyed an ocean voyage.

With just enough of detail to add spice and vividness to her descriptions, Mrs. Knapp took her hearers on her long cruise from New York harbor out across the ocean. Stops were made among the castles of Spain, along the glamorous streets of Paris, and amid the glory of ancient and modern Rome.

With the speaker the audience entered great cathedrals and through her eyes they gazed on the art of the ages.

Touching on the northern coast of Alaska they tasted the arid mystery of the tropics and felt the charms of the eternal summer time.

Abrupt was the sudden contract to the lands of short days when the sun never set and the lights of the jagged coast of Norway and Sweden and very different were the natives here, made rugged by generations of hard endurance.

Most familiar through romance and fiction, were the steeps in the highlands of Scotland and on the moors of 'Merry England.'

Mrs. Knapp added further interest to her talk by illustrations thrown upon the screen. In all this cruise she covered 26 cities in 12 countries.

In Belgium they passed that land which still bears the marks that the horrors of war are greater than its glory and in Holland by the sea, the country constant scribbling and scribbled 'centimes' according to the speaker.

Many interesting snippets of her trip were on display for the inspection of the guests at the close of the program.

Friends Enjoy Dinner Together At Staman Home— Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Staman entertained a group of friends at dinner Monday evening at their home in Northville. The party was a most enjoyable one and was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Staman.
