NORTHVILLE ENTERS 1936 OUT OF DEPRESSION AND ON ROAD TO PROSPERITY

BANK REPORTS NEW ACCOUNTS Business Men Say That Conditions Are Definitely Better As Christmas Trade Soars Over Year Ago

Northville is out of the depression. The "corner" has been passed and Northville, with dynamic Detroit and the rest of the United States is definitely on the way out, in the unanimous opinion of Northville business men, expressed this week to "The Record" as the village gets ready to start a new year.

Ranges of business increases varied all the way from 15 to 50 per cent over trade conditions a year ago, merchants, bankers and professional men said, and they agreed that the upswing is a continuous trend, rather than a perky spurt.

These indications of better business in Northville came along with statements of similar bills from all over the nation. Retail trade for December, as well as wholesale, the recent Dunn and Bradstreet report stated, was nearly 30 per cent better than it was in 1934. Men are being put back to work and their purchasing power is being increased as the greatly increased output of factories is not only reducing the ranks of the unemployed but is finding a market among the American people.

In the field of retail trade especially, optimism is evident, although local public utilities, banking and manufacturing concern heads are not far behind.

More than 60 telephones were installed here during the past year, as against a decrease for the past five years, an official of the Michigan Bell Telephone company said, he declared that "our business is greatly improved from what it has been in a long time."

Although retail sales of the Detroit Edison company are away ahead of what they were in December 1934, an official of that organization declared that the rebuilder of business was the payment of bills. "Bills are being taken care of much better than a year ago," he said.

The Depression State bank officials reported that they find local men and women in a much better condition to meet their obligations.

SNOW BLIZZARD HITS NORTHVILLE AS MERCURY DROPS

The snow, which started falling Christmas Eve, continued to fall through the night and until dark Wednesday. Nearly six inches of snow were recorded by Wednesday night to make one of the whitest Christmas days Northville has experienced in years.

Temperatures of 15 degrees above zero were reported Wednesday night, and although the mercury rose somewhat yesterday, it began to fall rapidly toward dark, and weather observers predicted near zero temperatures late last night and this morning.

Although in the country huge snow drifts made driving difficult in places, the heavy snow was a welcome cover for ice roads. No accidents resulting from the snow storm were reported. The county road commission truck, however, was on the job Thursday morning, throwing sand at dangerous corners and plowing snow off city streets.

There was no city snow plowing, but a horse, once a familiar sight in Northville, instead of being plowed in, was being plowed off the streets in spite of the cold. On one of the streets, a horse was plowed off by a plow, and the driver was rescued by a passerby.

The snow spoiled ice skating to some extent, but many ponds surrounding youngsters had, already on Thursday morning, cleaned it off and were ready for skating.

On every hill, boys and girls were sliding and skating yesterday.

360 ARE THRILLED AS 60 VOICES SING 'MESSIAH' SUNDAY

Lee Heads Chorus For Third Year; Audience Nearly Forgot to Leave

The stirring strains of Handel's glorious oratorio, "Messiah," thrilled nearly 300 persons in the Presbyterian church auditorium Sunday night.

The presentation of the "Messiah," most popular of all Christmas music for all the 300 years of existence, was the third consecutive time that Leslie G. Lee, high school music director, conducted the chorus at the Yuletide here. More than 80 persons participated in the rendition.

PHILO B. CLARK, 92, A PIONEER FARMER, DIES HERE SATURDAY

Funeral services for Philo B. Clark, 92-year-old Northville pioneer, who died Saturday, were held Tuesday from the Schrader funeral home.

Mr. Clark died at the home of his brother, the late Elias Clark, on the East Nine Mile road. He had been there since his poor health started some time ago.

Mr. Clark was one of the oldest farmers in this area. Since he was 11 years old he had lived on his home on the Eleven Mile road. One of a family of 13, he had always been a farmer. He had been an honorary mason since he was 28 years old. Mr. Clark, who remained unmarried, is survived by a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore of Detroit.

DEADLINE FOR AUTO PLATES JANUARY 31

A month's extension of the deadline for the purchase of 1936 automobile tags was announced this week in Lansing by Orville E. Atwood, secretary of state.

The new deadline is Jan. 31, but the secretary of state warned that no further extension is contemplated. Driving with 1935 plates after Jan. 1 may incur a fine, or a motorist driving in other states, he said, because their deadlines are in many instances, absolute for Jan. 1.

MR. RICHARDS A SURPRISED CLERIC - AS HE GETS CAR

The Rev. William Richards of Belleville, former Methodist pastor here, was the most surprised man in the county Sunday when the members of his congregation called his attention to a fire-passenger sedan just outside the church door and presented it to him as a Christmas gift.

For once the genial, ever-ready cleric looked speechless to voice his pleasure and gratitude.

The gift was prompted by a kind word which Mr. Richards has given to Belleville people during the four years he has spent among them.

THE YEAR 1935 PASSES IN REVIEW

Sorrows and Joys Come and Go as Eventful Days Speed By

Eventful 1935 passed in review. The past year has rolled swiftly by, bringing with it hardships, pleasures, joys and sorrows. Many are glad that it is over, yet many would like the chance to begin it anew.

TWO ARE CAUGHT STEALING BULBS OFF XMAS TREES

The mystery of where the colored bulbs on the Christmas trees in front of local stores have been going may be solved.

Two men—Burgess Jordan of Northville, 30 years old, and Rupert West of Detroit, 32 years old—were nabbed by police Friday while smashing the bushes in front of the stores. Jordan was taking bulbs from the trees in front of Ponsford's store and West, said to be intoxicated at the time, was stealing them from in front of the United States Post office.

Robbers who broke into the Renne-Mahre Inc. store, 11600 Michigan, on Monday night, failed to get away with $1,000 worth of merchandise.

The store was broken into about 11:30 p. m. Monday night. The thieves, who were armed, entered the store and made off with a large quantity of merchandise.

Make The Most Of The New Year
"Each day for a year." Num. 14, 34.

By the Rev. Leo C. Eickstaedt
Pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church

Another new year will soon be upon us. What new duties, new conflicts, new trials, and new opportunities it will bring we cannot foresee. The best we can do is to take each day as it comes, attend well to its duties, be alert to seize its opportunities, meet bravely its difficulties, and bear with patience its trials and burdens. Only let us do this, only let us make the most of "each day for a year," and we will be surprised at the total result when this year is gone. Though it should be the hardest year we have known, we will look back upon it as the most fruitful and the happiest.

This is the secret of triumphant and happy living. Let us all lay hold upon it, and apply it in our own living. Make the first day of 1936 an example of what you would wish every day of the year to be like. Wipe clean the slate of your heart. Repent of all the sins and wrongs you have done in the past, and count them as washed away by God's forgiving grace. Let old animosities and quarrels be forgotten. Forget all your old cares and worries. Let the past year be as dead history. Make today a fresh beginning. Let the day be filled with love, prayer and praise. Let your heart be as sunshine. Be bright of disposition. Make the day a happy one in your home. Have a kind thought for everyone; extend to everyone a kindly greeting. Carry your cares easy. Bear your cross with a smile. Go to your task cheerfully. Be careful not to let slip by any opportunity for self-improvement, or of doing good for another. Commit the day to God; trust everything to Him, and trust Him for everything. And having done all this today, make this your pattern day "each day for a year."

"The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. My love be with you all in Christ Jesus."

This does not put the curse of idleness on men and women watching a steam shovel excavating for what appeared to be a new garage. The machinery was operated by six or seven men and as many trucks, while 600 or 700 people watched the interesting activity.

HARD WORK AND IDLENESS
From the pen of our friend, Scarth Inglis, editor of the Galesburg Argus, Galesburg, Mich., comes the following contribution. Editor Inglis was formerly associated with the State Department of Public Instruction along with his newspaper work and is noted among the craft as one of its most outspoken, free-thinking members.

Probably from these facts President Roosevelt said in Atlanta in December 1935. "The average of our citizenship lives today on what would be called by the medical fraternity a third class diet. If the country lived on a second class diet, we would need to put many more acres in use. If the nation lived on a first class diet, we would have to put more acres than we have ever cultivated to supply things for Americans to eat. Why are we living on a third class diet? Because the American people do not have the purchasing power to eat more and better food."

Some of the men have been confined for some time so that the auxiliary committee has become quite well acquainted. Mrs. H. E. Harry Blake, well known in Northville, was one of the men visited. His happy optimistic manner is as always gratifying to anyone calling on him.

THERE'S A BIRTHDAY COMING

(Clinton County Republican-News) "Probably there are some people in Clinton county who have all their Christmas shopping done, all packages mailed and nothing to do until December 25. Some folks are like that, and the rest of us envy them. We, the rest of us, will join the mad scramble in the last minute rush to buy gifts for dad or mother; sister, brother, Uncle Jim, Aunt Sarah, little Joe, Cousin Mary, and all the rest. What to buy, what to give? A present, a greeting card, or maybe Countless other organizations will spread cheer to every nook and corner. Toys, food, clothing—happiness in many forms will be broadcast. What can you contribute? Your family comes first, of course, that's human nature, but how about those folks down the street or around the corner? Things may look pretty bleak for them. Are you sure they won't be missed? Bells will ring, carolers will sing, kids will dance around the tree and we'll all be happy Christmas Day. Who's birthday is it, anyway?

Beginning Sunday and continuing each Sabbath thereafter until Easter, the Methodist church Sunday school will present a series of still pictures depicting episodes in the New Testament.
The slides will be shown by the Rev. Harry J. Lord, pastor, who will lecture on the life of Christ as the pictures are flashed on the screen.
The pictures should be of especial interest because this year is the 40th anniversary of the printing of the English Bible. Mr. Lord declared, as well as because "younger people have no systematic knowledge of the Bible."

The FAMILY ROMANCE
By MRS. L. E. WARNER
Social Consultant

Dear Mrs. Warner:—Not long ago you wrote something about hobbies, and the desirability of cultivating one. I am a young man of 25, because of a disfiguring scar I can't feel free to mix with other young people. Naturally I am lonely. Could I help it and be human? Up to this time I have found some solace in books but eye can not read all the time. I want something to take me out of doors, something not too active but sufficiently urgent to make me get out and meet people. One of my friends has a fine collection of stamps. This is a hobby which might satisfy me but with this wonderful collection so near me I am discouraged at the outset. Someone has mentioned glass. Frankly I don't know what this woman meant. Can you tell me? What else might I collect? I know nothing about period furniture except that there is such a thing. How can I find out about it? I might become interested in painting if it were not for the fact that I should be kept indoors. Do you think it might prove a stepping stone to out-door sketching? Are there correspondence schools which teach painting? I shall be grateful for anything and everything you can tell me regarding hobbies and where to find out about them.—N. C. D.

Of course I can tell you about hobbies. I have several of them myself and find them thrilling. Forget your misfortune, become a connoisseur and no one will notice the scar which makes you self-conscious. You mention stamps. I can understand how you might feel a bit discouraged with this fine collection at your elbow but there has never been a better time to begin a stamp collection. New ones are issued almost every day, colorful, beautiful stamps which will some day be the pride of a collector's heart. Both American stamps and foreign stamps are well worth collecting even if you do not aim to make this type of hobby your main interest.

Next you speak of glass. If you have a large house glass collecting may be made a real joy. The names of the old pressed glass are bewitching. Here are some of them: Dew Drop and Jewel, Cord and Tassel, Peacock Feather, Rose in the Snow, Daisy and Button, Thumb Print, Bull's Eye, Hot Nail, Bell Flower. The Sandwich glass, made in Sandwich, Mass., is now hard to find and expensive but in design it is as dainty and delicate as lace work. I shall be glad to send you the name of a book on glass if you can not find one in your town library.

Furniture: There is nothing more lovely than the old furniture. Sheraton, Heppelwhite, Empire, Colonial, all of it so beautiful that much of it has been carefully duplicated in modern factories. You will find it in the antique stores, but you must

VILLAGE PROCEEDINGS
A special meeting of the village commission was held at the village hall Monday evening, Dec. 23, 1935, for the purpose of receiving all bids for the construction of Water Works Improvements, as same were not approved by the state director, PWA.
Present: Pres. Burkart, Comm. Gregory, Sweet, Hicks, Perrin and Perkins.
It was recommended by Mr. Hamill, engineer, that the commission comply with the request of the PWA to reject all bids already received and to re-advertise for new bids.
A motion was made by Sweet, seconded by Perkins, that the motion made on Dec. 9, 1935, to award contract for the construction of certain items of the original proposal, to E. B. Culbertson & Co. be rescinded. Carried unanimously.
Motion was then made by Hicks, seconded by Gregory, that all bids be rejected. Carried unanimously.
After much discussion, a motion was made by Perkins, seconded by Sweet, that the village of Northville re-advertise for bids on this project. Carried.
No further business appearing, motion was made by Sweet, seconded by Gregory, that the meeting adjourn. Carried.

made from woods and hand carved in rude designs. There are books upon old furniture also, if you care for the name of them please write.
Yes, there are schools which teach art by correspondence. Of course they will provide a general background, a knowledge of media and of color which will prove valuable in sketching. If you are interested in art there is an opportunity to collect rare and lovely etchings and prints which will in time prove valuable.
Why not learn photography? It is for a man one of the most lucrative of hobbies. Newspapers and magazines afford an active market for everything that is of timely or historical interest. In collecting furniture or glass it is always helpful to have a photograph of the genuine article and so be fortified against reproductions which are so often found for sale in antique shops.
If you have leisure and an old car go adventuring into out of the way places when making your collections.

WINTER ROAD CONDITIONS
(Iron River Reporter)
Upper Michigan newspapers go to the mat regularly in and out of season to bring more handsurfaced highways to the peninsula. They talk in terms of tourist trade and all the rest and paint a rosy picture of what may result.
Few of them take time out from their worrying about the tourists' happiness to point out that winter road maintenance is just about as essential for the people who from choice or circumstance live throughout the year in upper Michigan.
Snow plowing has been almost neglected in every aspect but the expenditures. An attempt is being made to secure recognition by the state legislature of the added difficulties that must be overcome in the peninsula. The legislative and state highway funds also appropriation state fund among county commissioners should take this into account. For a time last winter it cost Iron county $1,000 a day to keep its principal thoroughfare clear.
Snow is only one of the hazards that beset the winter driver on the peninsula. Ice and slick road surfaces are equally dangerous, but they get little attention. A few of the worst hills will be sand and some of the curves may receive a little abrasive but on the whole driving conditions are far from good.
Competent highway engineers have estimated that the cost of treating icy roads is more than returned in the additional gas tax revenue that comes when motorists can make use of highways without fear of ending in a ditch or worse.

N. H. S. MEETS ALUMNI TEAM HERE TONIGHT

Tonight's Game To Be One of the Most Exciting Games of Season

By WILLIAM OWEN

The Northville basketball team will play one of the closest and most interesting games of the season when they encounter a very threatening alumni squad in the high school gym tonight at 7.

Confidence pervades the atmosphere when the respective teams voice their opinions as to which of the teams will emerge victorious from the struggle. A shade more cockiness may be found on the alumni team because of the record that they so valiantly set up in 1935, but the present team points out the fact that the alumni have not been playing together for a year while the high school squad has. This in itself is an advantage but not one strong enough to even indicate the termination of the contest.

The present squad has shown a great deal of good, strong, intelligent playing and have more than proved that they are one of the "lightest" teams in the suburban league. Given the breaks of the game, Northville will give the alumni a battle that they will not easily forget.

Taking the slightest and advantages of both teams in hand and comparing them leaves many of the local authorities with undecided opinions as to the final outcome of the game. The members of both teams promise to be in their best form possible and if the game is either slow or uninteresting it will not be the fault of either squad.

Can You Imagine?

Jack S. without his horsing laugh?
Mrs. Chapman not sending eggs and student back to the assembly?
Maurice H. not playing jokes on someone?
Irene M. with red hair?
The student body as a whole not wanting anything for Christmas?
The juniors arriving on time for play practice?
The proof of the seniors pictures having finally arrived?
Mr. Lee looking startled?
Mrs. Cobb not spending Christmas with her husband?
David H. telling a new "joke" now?
Ah, David, we're just kidding.
Rita S. staying one who's hour on hall duty? Journalists calls to hear and one must do their duty.

THE OBSERVER

The class isn't especially important as long as we know he's a member of the Northville high school. We shall begin by using the gifts mother nature has bestowed upon this lad's fair boy. His eyes are blue with a drop of light brown hair adorning his head. He is tall and has often had to struggle to get his height in the seats provided for the students by the school. He has a certain look in his eyes, as he gazes across the aisle at a certain girl, betraying the fact that Venus' smile will have been re-created by his heart.

Inquiring Reporter

Who do you think was the most valuable player on the football team?
George Westphall: Esse Nirder. He was always fighting and had a lot of spirit for the team and for the chances the team had against the other teams.
Isabelle Terkshury: I believe it takes the whole team to win a game and not one certain player.
Bob Snow: Esse Nirder. He was the most valuable player because he had the school spirit and he played even when he had a sore knee that might have developed into something serious if he had hurt it—he made a good captain.
Thyrza Lester: It is hard to pick out any special one for the one man couldn't have been outstanding without the help of the others, so I think that the nearest one can come in judging the best player is say the first team.
Gerald Trotter: I believe that Chuck Strautz was the most valuable player, because of his aggressive play in fighting spirit.
Marianne Nilson: Nirder. He knew how to handle the team and had very much experience.
Harry Richardson: I think that Chuck Strautz was the most valuable player on the team. He was always fighting and trying to pep the team up. He also would help anybody on anything they didn't know.

Non-Quota Aliens

Non-Quota aliens are those who reside in the United States and are not citizens because of some technicality. There are a few in Northville and it is well known.

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

"Hope Santa was good to all you girls and boys, and now is the time to make some good New Year's resolutions like never fighting again with brother or sister, beh, beh, beh."

We discovered a lot of hidden talents during N. H. S. situation. Lawrence P. took the part of dressing up like a clown, so much that he wants to join the Ringling & Barnum circus. We also discovered that Leonard Young has a sense of humor that's worth noting and by the way, Carl Arnold can really tap dance even if he is stubborn.

Talking to some of the college students certainly made us realize how important it is to study in high school.

Kathleen Rinek played a parody for the girls' sewing class, and was it ever intelligent. There is real talent there and we know Kathleen will go far toward success.

We hear the boys initiation into the N. Club have had to eat their meals off the mantel for the past week. Those paddles, that the old N. Club members raised so gently, certainly did make an impression.

Northville certainly has one keen basketball team this year—lots of speed and good all the way round. We wish them luck.

Irene Modos loves to compliment people when it comes to writing articles for the paper. If you manage to hear a low "Gosh that's Lousy," you are really pretty good. Usually she only throws it in the wastebasket.

If you want to know any dope on any senior just ask Rita Sprenger. Rita writes the seniors. Who's Who and knows particularly the life history of everyone by now.

See you at the alumni game tonight my hearties. Don't celebrate too hard on New Year's Eve. Happy New Year!

Senior Who's Who

Marijane Eleanor Hetchman

In spite of a "mouicker" that long she's just "M.A." to the school, which makes everything a lot simpler.

She was born on November 28, 1913, in Redwood in honor of the Thanksgiving season, and entered the Coffey school near there. When she had passed from the sixth grade, she went to the Purser school at West Point finally when she had finished the tenth grade, she came to Northville for her last two years.

Marijane is very fond of dancing and credits she likes roller skating. She also loves to watch basketball and hockey games, especially the latter.

Office work interests her very much, as Mrs. Yerkes might tell you. After graduation she wants to attend either the Wayne University or McCreary's Business college.

THANKS EXTENDED

The student body wishes to thank the management of the Penniman-Allyn theatre for the Christmas show put on for the students on December 20.

The football boys also wish to express their thanks to the management for entertaining them the other night. It pleases the pupils to know the management takes such an interest in Northville high.

DID YOU NOTICE?

That the juniors are carrying out the age-old jealousy for play parts.
All the alumni who couldn't stay away from the "dear dear school" last week?
J. G. looking droopy? Oh, those Sunday nights!
That Billy H. is quite the "romantic" There's a romance budding—Strippy's theme song is "Dark Eyes."
The Christmas tree in the assembly?
The various bets being placed on the Northville-Alumni basketball game? The alumni are rather sure they will win. Time will tell.

CAST FOR JUNIOR PLAY TO COME SOON

According to Miss Dorcas Corrin, director of the junior play, January 3 is the date set for the final choosing of the cast for the play. Supt. R. H. Amerman and the class sponsors, Leslie Lee and Miss Corrin, will make the decision. The characters as they now stand are as follows:

Tom Carl Arnold
Babs Flora Mae Conkin or Doris Labbitt
Oke Scott Cole
Peaches Jane Grosvenor
Mr. Arsdale Bob Bray
Carolina Marjorie Chase or Mary Jane Gregory
Sylvia Betty Haystead
Alfred Lawrence Way
Birdie Evelyn Raymond or Ruth Campbell
Arma Mary Chesbro
Chuck Macey Zayt or Harry Richardson
Dean Ira Davis

SEVENTH GRADERS GIVE CHRISTMAS PLAY FOR MOTHERS

Virginia Labbitt, who chose the play, "The Bird's Christmas Carol," was the director. Members of the cast were: Doris Hogan, Eugenie Stanford, Marie Angove, Jean Lyke, Jean Marburg, Mary Porter, Pat Johnson, Doris Hubbard, Rose Mary Renne, Ruth Knight and Amelia Sutton.

SPORT FLASHES

After seeing the variety team practice this week, we wonder if a certain alumni member still wishes to spot the boys a number of points or would you rather play on an equal basis? Oh, we'll see. Bill, tell Dick Ambler has a hard time keeping his size 34 basketball trunk above his knees, but pats the game anyhow. Keep it up, Dick. Good things come in small packages.

Beside being good looking the girls on the girls' basketball team are also very good shots and excellent basketball players. They are out to uphold the school motto, "never say die, say, da-uh."

Students! Allow me to thank, on behalf of the team, for the splendid sport shown at the last three games. Please keep it up!

SCHOOL SPIRIT GOOD SAYS BILL DUGUID

By BILL DUGUID

The other day I was asked if I would like to write a small article for the Orange and Black.

I would like at this time to compliment the Northville football team for their splendid spirit. Our team this year was rather light and small. Although the spirit of the school wasn't up to standards as in the past few years, the cheering was good. Let's hope during basketball you will really back your team.

Friday, Dec. 27, the high school meets the alumni in their annual game. Although N. H. S. lost its championship team of last year through graduation, it has shown in its game so far this season that it is a team to be reckoned with in the battle for the "league" crown, won by Northville last year. I hope to see you all at the game December 27 and may the best team win.

Christmas Customs of Countries Told

By MARGARET LACKAYE

In Sweden the Yuletide frolic is rather a prolonged one. To begin with, every house receives a thorough cleaning. Some weeks are spent in the preparation of special foods. Döppar Daggen, is the name given to the day before Christmas. Translated into English, it means "Dipping Day." The term originates from a Swedish custom of dipping a large fish in a tub of water. About five o'clock in the afternoon, before the main-course meal is served, the kettle is placed in the center of the kitchen where all members of the household may come and dip a slice of bread in the gravy. This is eaten as a sort of opening ceremony. Smorgabord (appetizer to you) and gallons of coffee are also consumed in these preliminaries. The main meal consists of Lute Fish (cod fish) and rice pudding, among other foods and these are as essential to a Swedish Christmas dinner as turkey and mince pie are to our Thanksgiving feast.

The evening is spent in trimming the tree in anticipation of the visit of Jule Tomte, a legendary gnome who brings gifts.

The sacred services are observed in the early morning hours of Christmas day. Carols are sung and the regular religious rites observed.

From Christmas Day until Trettondagas Jul or Thirteen Day Christmas there is general feasting and merry making. January 6 is a legal holiday and ends the festive season.

In Poland, when the first star appears on Christmas Eve, the people sit down to a table spread with straw—reminiscent of the first Christmas—and covered with a fine white cloth. It is customary to include a stranger to the family board. Many varieties of foods—excepting meat—are served.

After supper Gwiazdka, or old Santa Claus is known in Poland in a time's appearance. After other year confident and serene. In the distribution of gifts, Kotwani are sung by the children who go from house to house. These festivities continue until the solemn hour of midnight mass. Christmas Day is spent at home and the following day is the time for visiting.

In Czechoslovakia, "telling" fortunes by significant shapes formed as wax is melted in a tub of water, is one of the exciting events of Christmas Eve. Later in the evening the children hang their stockings outside the window for St. Nick to fill with gifts.

The origin of the Christmas tree has long been disputed but it is generally conceded that it was first used in German homes. Kris Kringle brings presents to the children on the eve of December 6—St. Nicholas Day. At six o'clock a bell rings and the doors open, revealing a tree loaded with toys, tinsel and apples. The whole family joins in the singing of carols and eating traditional Yuletide foods. The Swiss Christmas is very similar to that just described.

In Old Mexico, nine days before Christmas, two people, dressed as Mary and Joseph, wander through the streets seeking shelter, singing of the coming of the Christ-Child. On Christmas Eve they reach the house which has been prepared for them, then there is singing, dancing and feasting until Midnight Mass.

Christmas morning presents are given to the children but the elders do not exchange gifts. There is no Santa. They believe the Christ Child brings the gifts.

Canada celebrates Christmas much as we do, also intermingling the traditions of the English and French who settled there.

Our own Christmas carries threads from many lands, yet our Yuletide traditions are individual. American. They are like those of no other one country, but they are a tapestry that has been patterned with various threads, reflects the traditions, beliefs and superstitions of many widely separated lands.

For us all, let this be a season of new joy and—may we go on to anticipate a time's appearance. In the distribution of gifts, Kotwani are sung by the children who go from house to house.
