The kindergarten teacher was telling her class about the canary bird.

"Can any little boy tell me what a canary can do that I can't?" she asked.

A hand went up.

"All right, Marvin."

"He can take a bath in a saucer."

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT IN FULL MEASURE

(The LaGrange, Ind., Standard)

"We have no money or food supplies to give, but we want to help at Christmas time by bringing these garments for the county nurse's collection for needy children."

An elderly couple, uniformed and provided scarcely with this world's goods, gave this explanation as they handed two packages of clothing over the counter this week, all carefully sewed and washed.

How poor have the rest of us become, in comparison, in observing the true Christmas spirit. Santa Claus could appropriate most of this country's highest honors and say to many of us, "Your Christmas lasting average is just about 300 per cent in comparison with these good people."

Albert W. Schrader son of Mr. L. Schrader of Ida, is an aspirant for the local police force.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weller of Plymouth had as their New Year's guests, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tippert and daughter, Kathleen.

ALUMNI TRIMS SCHOOL FIVE HERE, 27 TO 23

for the school team. James Hochuns, high school goalie, tied the score on a pass from Gregory. Neider, vastly forward, ended the quarter by sinking a foul shot, leaving the tally 7-6 in favor of the high school.

The undergraduates went into a four-point lead when George Westphal and Hochuns, respectively, came through with a field goal and a foul shot to open the second quarter.

After being fouled by Gregory, Irvin Marburger, Alumni guard, sunk a foul shot paving the way for a basket by Henry Hoffman, Alumni forward, to shorten the youngsters lead to two points.

The younger Westphal piled up two more points for the high school to end the first half in favor of the Orange and Black, 11 to 9.

The school squad was on the defensive during the opening minutes of the third quarter until Hoffman broke the defense with a well-shot basket. Marburger contributed to the Alumni score with a foul shot and Don Bray, with the help of a splendid pass from Deal, slipped through Northville to sink a foul shot.

Also with the help of good passing, Hoffman became outstanding marks of the quarter with two foul goals to end the period.

Ray Westphal, alumni substitute for Choate Myers, started the last period off with a long shot to score.

Hoffman stole the ball from a sleeping George Westphal to double up another basket, for the grads.

Coming through to break the high school's non-scoring streak,

George Westphal staked a chance on a long shot and made it.

Following that score he made a foul shot, and Bruce Turnbull, high school forward, turned to his only cruiser of the game, a field goal.

Ray Westphal scored two points and gas immediately copied by him for both pitch a score for the orange team. Ending the game with a flourish, Bray sank a foul goal to give the Alumni the win 27 to 23.

The fares for the 1200 fans who attended the game were $1000.

INSIDE IS THE THING

The Dearborn Press.

A newspaper publisher declares that the Republican press should concentrate on issues rather than men in preparing for the 1936 pre idential campaign.

The answers to two questions, he says, must be found:

First how can our economic sys tem be made to function, within the constitution, so that private busi ness can re-employ ten million idle men?

Second, how can agricultural in comes be raised, by constitutional means, so that the wage of the 10,

$90,000 Americans gainfully em ployed on farms can rise above the $1.30 a day at which it stood in 1934.

There can be no doubt that these are questions which the American people would like to see answered above others. Both parties will come forth with staved and guaranteed panaceas. We have had it before and well we get it again. Disarmers must be used, however, in testing the shortivity.

There are able men who can ap proach a satisfactory solution to some of our problems. And these are the men to look for. Issues are only as good as the men behind them.

A Sunday school teacher, trying to put over the wholesome idea of being good, asked her class of little boys and girls this question: "If all the good people were white and all the bad people were black what cou ld you do?"

Some of the youngsters answered

"White" and others "Black." But little Joany replied: "I guess I would be streaky."

Judge—Well, Jim, I can give you

this divorce, but it will cost you ex actly $30.

Judge—Thirty dollars, does?

Judge—Well, Judge, I don't believe I wants no divorce. There isn't any difference between them two, am

I confirmed Townsend's. There are some things that only time can continue with this man. Isn't there friends in some distant town go about the episode? It does not linger there. Do not tell this man, he will think you are afraid of him? Well, you should be Kept command. I have not fulfilled my duties to the government and my responsibilities to the people.

If I remained in office one more

Even if I die, my death would be of no advantage to the government;

nor would it improve the situation.

Therefore, I ask the government to allow me to resign as a sign of its dissatisfaction and to appoint a capable successor."

You must get out of this man's sight. If necessary tell your mother what you are running away from.

Undoubtedly she has an inkling of the situation and is becoming more afraid just to protect you. If she knows that you were distressed about it she would have more confidence in you and would help you put as many miles as possible between you and him.

Very likely this is quite foreign to the occidental mind and yet something the westerner would do well to emulate. And we all might try this when checking up the ledger of our life for 1935 and wondering what spirit we should post our accounts for 1936.

Not that it will help you much but it is a good thing for a girl to think of social security for the aged and in agent. That is as it should be. We favor that, as do most people.
