The son of a newspaper man, Mr. Gildart has grown up with "printers' ink on his fingers" and his son, Lee, now a senior in the University of Michigan, is following in the footsteps of his father and grandfather. Lee will be remembered by many Northville folks when he helped out in the Record office one summer.

Emerson Gildart and his wife have been friends of the Record editor and his wife since college days in Albion.)

SEGREGATING EVIL

It's a favorite indoor sport to lament the prevalence of crime, and our lack of adequate means where-with to cope with it. A couple of unmasked young men of apparent personality walk into a clothing store in a quiet country village just before closing time, and in masterly fashion hold up the lone proprietor, and with people passing and repassing the door, and with imminent likelihood that some customer will drop in on the show, they go away with $60 cash and $400 worth of high grade merchandise in a few minutes, in awaiting car from the rear of the store. The same week, a few miles away the body of a new-born babe is found beside a road, frozen stiff in a pitiful little bundle, and the coroner, after his autopsy, says the child was left there alive.

Things like these are going on all the time in the neighborhoods surrounding Detroit. We shake our heads and say something acrid about our sheriffs and prosecutors, and then go about our business, and try to forget it.

Is this the end of the story? Every reader knows it is not! The frightful record of man's inhumanity goes on, and on, getting worse and worse all the time. What does it all point to?

What must be the ultimate end of the life history of a virulent parasite? It begins as an apparently insignificant creeper climbing the trunk of a vigorous young tree. It grows and grows and grows, until the tree comes to the point where the task of furnishing life to itself and the poisonous, rank alien that curses it, becomes too much of a burden, and both parasite and host give up the ghost together.

This crime situation has got to be solved, or it will kill America. We may yet be vigorous in our national youth. But the more vigorous we are the faster will the life blood of our nation flow into the greedy coils of the underworld that clings with more tenacity to the body social than the arms of the old man of the sea gripped the neck of Sinbad the Sailor.

Before we blame everybody else under the sun, including the politicians we elect, the schools we don't visit, and the churches we don't support, let us try a little introspection—and frankly, friends, what do we find? We find a habit of mind, more damning than the crack of doom.

What is our characteristic habit of mind regarding evil? Why, we segregate it! We separate it into two parts—the part that we favor and the part we taboo. The beer drinker will start off his conversation this way: "I like a glass of beer, but—". And he will proceed to tell you of the habits other people have acquired that he condemns. And don't we all do the same way?

So long as we go on dividing evil into two classes, what we think of as the comparatively harmless evil, and the contemptible, we shall go on hopelessly floundering in the morass of our own inconsistency.

Because we do this, the evil is so mixed up with the good that it is the despair of our police agents to sort out the evil and deal with it.

General Smealy Butler's experience in trying to put the fear of God into the underworld of Philadelphia is classic. They gave him a "free hand" and he went at it man-fashion—until the elite of the city, horrified at the result came to him demanding that he—lay off? No! Segregate! Divide the evil of Philadelphia into two parts, the bad evil and the good evil, and let the good evil alone! Smealy wasn't used to that kind of cerebration, and he threw up the job in despair.

I walked into a church parish hall the other afternoon. They were getting ready for a social event. As I entered, a beer-truck drove away. In the basement of that church building were five barrels of beer.

The despair of our police officials is church gambling. Because churches want indulgence in the more general sort of crime, those despairing officials let the gambling houses run, incidentally lining their own pockets, and at the same time financing the underworld from haunts of the gangster, armed to prey upon the same church folk who are too blind to see the connection. And if the blind lead blind both must call the wrecker to get them out of the ditch.

A lot of editors would refuse to publish this article because they would feel that an easy public conscience makes it necessary for them, too, to segregate the evil. I might have "tone it down" to print it in my own paper.

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

1 YEAR AGO

For more than 1,200,000 trout at the U. S. Fish Hatchery in Northville, life has just begun.

Mr. and Mrs. James Goodale are proudly laying claim to being the parents of the first baby born in Northville in 1935. A son was born to them at Sessions Hospital on Jan. 11, weighing six pounds 14 ounces. He has been named James Beup.

E. S. Beard was elected vice president of the Depositors State bank at a recent meeting.

E. C. Langfield caught two sailfish near Palm Beach which are as tall as he is.

For the second time this winter the country home of John Kalliesch on the Fishery road has been robbed of valuable articles.

Ralph Foreman is the new member of the board of directors of the Northville Wayne County Fair.

The Plymouth-Northville Male chorus, under the direction of Leslie Lee gave a concert in the Mt. Hope Methodist church, Detroit, last Sunday night.

5 YEARS AGO

Last Friday Nelson G. Schrader was elected president of the Northville Wayne County Fair association for another year. Other officers elected were: vice president, T. E. Murdock; secretary, Floyd A. Northrop; treasurer, Ernest E. Miller; director, Russell Walker, C. A. Ponsford, T. G. Richardson, Mark R. Sealey, Glenn Richardson, Charles Altman, Fred W. Lyke, H. R. Richardson and E. R. Eaton.

Differences between Mayor Harry German and members of the village commission led Monday night to the removal of Harry German from office by four members of the commission.

Miss Caroline Threl aged 81 years, mother of Mrs. Herman Brund of 150 Orchard Drive, died at 11:30 P. M. Monday after an illness of five months.

The Plymouth De Molay officers were installed Thursday evening. Master counselor, Chase Willett; senior counselor, Gerald Hoadorp; junior counselor, Marvin Tibbitt; scribe, Harry Segard; treasurer, Stephen Horvath.

The Education program for the new church lot of the Presbyterian church has been completed and it is possible to start at the west of special meetings, banquets and other interesting features.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Miller are the parents of a new-born baby girl born at 2 a. m. Saturday morning. She has been named Carol Ann.

10 YEARS AGO

The passing of Mrs. Abbe Clark last Wednesday morning caused sorrow in the community where she had spent so many years and was so generally loved.

During the local Red Cross roll call, the sum of $913, was collected and of that amount the employees of the Ford Motor company, under the direction of C. H. Bryan, contributed $300.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Session on North Center street a little girl, Marjorie May on Jan. 9.

At a meeting of the directors of the Northville Wayne County Fair association last Thursday night Ernest Miller was elected treasurer of the society to succeed C. A. Ponsford who refused re-election.

Mrs. Kate L. Green, widow of George B. Green and mother of Frank Green, died at the home of her son in this village last Friday, aged 80 years and 10 months.

Friday night there will be a debate between Northville high and the Oak Ridge high. Our team is composed of Russell Atchison, Margaret Stafford, and Carlie Lovewell. The question for debate is the child labor amendment.

15 YEARS AGO

Additional honors came to Northville high school last Friday evening when its debating team defeated the team for the Monroe high school.

The Plymouth-Northville Gas company held its annual meeting last week and elected the following Northville men directors and officers for the year: C. A. Dolph, Nelson Schrader, Charles Filkins, C. A. Dolph was elected president.

After the business of the regular meeting of the Orient Chapter O. E. S. had been concluded Friday night, Mrs. George Clark, one of the most faithful and esteemed members of the chapter was given a birthday party. Worthy Patron Fuller presented Mrs. Clark with a beautiful cameo pin.

The following were elected officers of the Northville Commandery Shriners last Monday evening at the Masonic Temple: President, J. A. Egan; secretary, James A. Hart; treasurer, C. A. Dolph; grand warden, J. A. Egan; and grand master, J. A. Egan.

A GOOD BOOK, AN EASY CHAIR, A QUIET EVENING

(Schuyler L. Marshall in the Clinton County Republican News)

"The book business is not what it used to be," said a merchant this week as he ruefully looked over his after-Christmas stock. It was evidence that people do not turn to books as they once did.

Likely there are many reasons for this. Radys in homes are not conducive to long quiet evenings in an easy chair with a good book. Often the programs are distracting—the adventures of "Speed Roberts" is great for little Johnny but not exactly the atmosphere for perusing "Pilgrim's Progress."

There's another element which may have discouraged people reading books—the books themselves. Colleges and universities are turning out thousands of aspiring authors. Writing is one thing they think they can do. Fortified with a good knowledge of grammar and a bag-full of ten-dollar adjectives, they write with authority about things they know little or nothing about. Their books are worthless, not even good entertainment—and the reader is that they get them published.

The drift away from books—good books—is to be deplored. Most of us are not bookworms. We could and should read one or two good books a year—read them and re-read them. If a book is worthwhile it is worth re-reading. Magazines, newspapers, and a host of periodicals of various stripes together with radio programs make quiet evenings and book reading more and more difficult for most of us.

POLITICAL EXPEDIENCY NO ANSWER

(Dr. William H. Phelps in the Michigan Christian Advocate)

Our Senator Vandenberg recently addressed the Michigan Press club on "Can America Stay Out of the Next War?" It was a fine exposition of our move for neutrality and a comment in favor of perfecting the terms of that neutrality, rather than jumping into the League of Nations. He closed with these words:

The new policy is still in its adding clothes. It remains to be developed and refined and expanded in the crucible of experience. But I claim for it a degree of honorability and public hope that, by making our own business we may help to save America from any war, that be none of our concern. That achievement would be a benediction upon every home and bedside under the flag.

These are my convictions. I hate war and its stupidity, its horrors, increase with each year of man's devious progress in the intricacies of mass murder. Secretary of State Hull has spoken eloquently of the responsibilities which may rest upon the Western Hemisphere to preserve civilization. He could have amplified this text—because the Old World is darkened not alone by persistent clouds of war, but also by persistent threats to free thought, free speech, free religion and free knowledge. His emphasizes our obligation to remain aloof so far as humanly possible, it is even more necessary to day than when Washington wrote his Farewell address.

Premier Baldwin of Britain, addressing a public meeting in Worcester, England, on last October 19th, declared that our policy of detachment may not be enough to keep us out of another war in Europe. Perhaps not; but the more the reason to exert our maximum efforts to emphasize our detachment, and to pursue a new formula of neutrality which gives larger warrant of security against this plague. We are not too proud to fight. We shall never surrender to offense against the integrity and honor of the United States. But I pray we shall never expose ourselves to wars that need be none of our direct concern, that we shall scrupulously preserve neutrality in respect to the quarrels of others; in a word, that wherever possible hereafter we shall stay out of war by staying out."

PARALYSIS TREATMENT POOL NEAR COMPLETION

Victims of infantile paralytic undergoing treatment at the University of Michigan hospital will be able to make use of the institution's new therapeutic swimming pool some time in January, according to hospital officials.

The pool is being built in the basement of the hospital and is the gift of the Rackham Fund of Detroit. It will give the institution facilities similar to those at Warm Springs, Ga., and other sanitariums for the care of victims of poliomyelitis and related diseases.

Treatment of certain types of paralysis by submersion of the patient in water is based on the fact that the water tends to support a large part of the weight of the limbs. This enables the patient to move with little effort, any good portions left of his wasted muscles. In some cases muscles retaining but five per cent of their pre-sickness strength can be exercised and gradually developed until they are more or less useful again.

The water in the new pool will be constantly circulating and purified with chlorine.

Following is the outline of an excellent talk given by a representative from the Home Economics extension department of East Lansing. The talk was given recently at the class in Salem and the notes were kindly sent in by Mrs. Myra L. Taylor of Salem.

Putting Fun in Family Living

"Children love a charming home; they love to take part in making it so; and they love best of all finding that their own special pleasures and chosen occupations can be welcomed, appreciated, and needed in it."—Edward Marsham.

1. As community life becomes more complex, the home becomes more important in its contribution to the happiness and well-being of the family members. It contributes to the individual a consciousness of:

A. Security for there the needs of life are met.
 B. Comfort and understanding.

2. The family work shop for creative work, the development of hobbies and sharing of individual interests.

3. The family bulletin board for the sharing of individual interests.

4. Musical equipment for the enjoyment and appreciation of music.

5. Books and magazines for individual and group reading.

6. Recreational activities outdoors require space and convenient set-up.

7. Penmanship of games.

8. "Out-door" living room.

9. Recreational activity away from the home.

1. Commercial.
 2. Family divided and acen-

ed such as hikes, excursions, picnics.

D. New Family Interests can be developed.

1. Tree planning and study.
2. Developing the home museum.
3. Studying color and planning color schemes for the home and family.

VI. Community recreation and home recreation are mutually supplementary.

A. Neighborhood activities create a happier relationship.

B. Organization activities round out individual development.

"We are all blind until we see that in the human plan Nothing is worth the making if it does not make the man. Why build these gaudy, glorious if man unbuilds gods? In vain we build the world, unless the builder also grows."

—Edward Marsham.

Economical Meat Recipes

Meat prices so high that they cause us cooks with large, hungry families? Here are some ways to stretch the meat budget and leave the youngster satisfied.

Meat Stew

The recipe calls for two pounds of beef, one of the cheapest cuts of meat; three medium potatoes, halved; three medium carrots, halved; one-half cup tomatoes, three medium turnips, one small onion, one-half cup of celery, one bay leaf, and one-quarter cup flour.

Cut the meat into small pieces, sprinkle with salt, and dredge with flour. Brown in a small amount of fat, cover with boiling water, add the bay leaf, and simmer until tender. During the last hour of cooking add the vegetables. Place the meat in a mound in the center of a platter and arrange vegetables around it when served.

Spanish Meat Balls

Another inexpensive meat dish. Spanish meat balls may be made with one pound of ground beef, one cup cooked rice, one-half cup tomatoes, one grated onion, one tablespoon fat, and one teaspoon salt.

Shape into small meat balls and brown in fat. Pour tomato sauce over the balls, cover, and simmer for ten minutes. Chopped green pepper may be added.

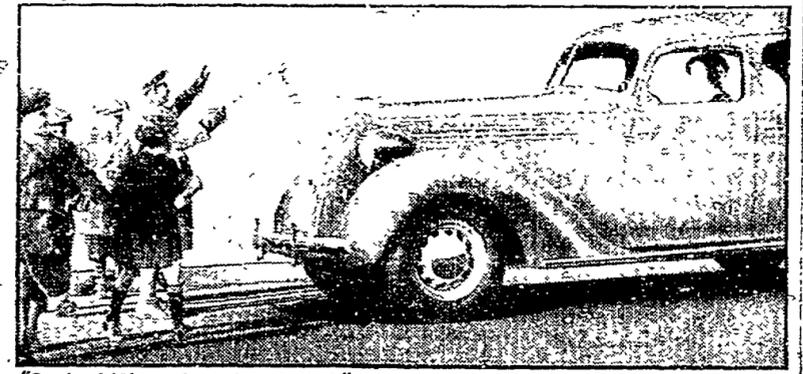

To make a little meal go a long way, try this steamed dish: Cook meat, three cups cooked macaroni or spaghetti, two cups milk, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon flour, one teaspoon all-soft oil, one-half cup buttered bread crumbs. Arrange meat and macaroni in layers, cook green pepper in butter a few minutes, add flour and salt, and cook until thick. Pour over macaroni and meat. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake until thoroughly heated and browned.

"I put TERRAPLANE first because I put Safety First"

"Go ahead, kids... that car's got BRAKES!"

NO one needs to be reminded that safe driving in winter, more than at any other season, calls for a car that is safe.

Then why not start this new year with the "safest car on today's highways?" Terraplane—with more new and important safety features than any other low priced automobile ever had!

Bring Safety up to Date!

For safer riding, safer steering, safer stopping, Terraplane brings you Radial Safety Control (patent applied for). Here is a revolutionary principle of front axle and spring design which new owners from coast to coast are hailing as the greatest safety feature in many years.

None but the best brakes are good enough. And no other low priced car but Terraplane meets that demand with Duo-Automatic Hydraulic Brakes (patent applied for). Latest and best hydraulics with a separate safety braking system that takes hold automatically if ever needed.

For added safety on the highway—greater steadiness on curves—two more 1936 improvements: Tru-Line Steering and the Rhythmic Ride.

Safer Bodies! Safer Chassis!

The world's first safety engineered chassis is now combined with America's first bodies all of steel, and seamless roof of solid steel.

There is extra safety, too, in Terraplane's record-breaking performance, to take you out of traffic "tight spots." And in the Electric Hand, an optional extra, for easier gear shifting and safer driving.

Drive safely in 1936—in a car that you know to be safe. Drive a new Terraplane.

MAYBURY NEWS

Maybury was agog over the arrival of the son of Dr. and Mrs. Anthony Calomoni. The child of so much excitement was born Jan. 19, at 6 p. m., and he showed right then and there that he intends to be a big man, for he sent the pointer of the scales skimming to the eight pound mark. Papa Calomoni, pale but brave, is recovering quite nicely, thank you.

Tuesday afternoon Floyd Snyder and his Eastern Star cafe orchestra braved the elements to come out and play for the patients. The kindness of those of the entertainment world is sincerely appreciated by the sanatorium. (Some were slightly disillusioned, however, in the more popular novels, people in bands never see the light of day, and here they were, chipping from the top tooter to the harpest, facing it bravely and never even blinking. Shucks!)

"Kentucky Kernals" was the weekly picture which was shown Wednesday evening.

Our branch of the Municipal Employees club held its first meeting Monday night, Jan. 20. The more clever readers of this McKinire-like column will immediately discern that this club is for employees. Charles Chappell was elected president; Joseph Babola, vice-president; Harry Wilde, secretary; and Merton (not of the movies) McCormick, treasurer. This thriving organization in a thriving institution in a thriving town already has 80 members, and the future promises many more—well, six or seven, anyway.

George Duggan, who has been our mailman for a number of years was taken to Harper hospital Saturday for an operation. Good luck, George, if you're reading this, and if you're not, good luck just the same.

When asked if she knew any news for this week, Mrs. Marjorie Owens gasped in a surprised voice, "Certainly I do! I went home to Kalamazoo over the week-end to see my David." So it would appear that Mrs. Owens visited her son David over the week-end.

A dinner will be served at noon by the ladies of the church. Other speakers will be Miss Elsie Root of Kalamazoo, Burma, India; Commerce township treasurer, Dr. Farmer of Colorado; Mrs. W. H. Dorrance of Detroit; and Dr. Anden, Executive Secretary of the Michigan state convention.

The young peoples rally and pot luck dinner will be held in the evening at the school.

BY THE WAY...

Theodore Roosevelt once said "Let us go ahead and make mistakes, as few as we may, as many as we must BUT let us go ahead." There is a lesson for business men in 1936 that is a hard one to see, but it is still pertinent about "going ahead"; they are still fearful. Fear has stopped more progress, closed more doors of opportunity than any other human emotion.
The boy who had to walk through the woods at night said that he was whistling to keep up his courage—some men have been doing the same thing during the last few years but now we can all whistle because we are happy doing the day's work, doing the work that needs to be done.
The marching orders are "let us go ahead." There is no way of standing still—as individuals we are either going ahead or going backward. We may think we are standing still but that is impossible. The next part of the marching order is "and make mistakes." People have been known to be so fearful of making a mistake that they failed to go ahead until the opportunity they were facing had gone. Evidently Theodore Roosevelt felt that being human we would make mistakes but he did not want any one to make the mistake of not going ahead.
Northville has as fine a future as any village that we know of. It has the "natural charm that makes the title "Detroit's most beautiful suburb" appropriate. Northville has some manufacturing and wholesale business, it has a retail business section that is improving every week, merchants that are progressive and alert to the new merchandising ideas. They merit our support in every way possible. The thing most needed is for every one interested to get together and boost for Northville and its greater future—boost even if it takes business time. "Let us go ahead and make mistakes, as few as we may, as many as we must, BUT let us go ahead."
R. W. L.
Missed Something
Boss (to office boy, who is half an hour late)—You should have been in here at eight o'clock.
Office Boy—Why, what happened?
"A good many of us were disappointed this afternoon."
The guest was spoken of as a bridge expert and he turned out to be nothing but a famous engineer.

SENIORS TAKE ECONOMICS SECOND TERM

Mrs. Hawley Cobb Teaches Economics Dealing With Every Day Problems

Mrs. Hawley Cobb is offering a course in economics for the seniors this second semester. Mrs. Cobb stated that this is a very practical subject because it deals with problems we face in every day life...

During the year Mrs. Cobb arranges to have outside speakers give talks to the students on the various subjects covered, which will be consumption, production, exchange, distribution and finance.

Senior Who's Who

Dorothy Spitz Kent We tried our best to get a nickname for Dot, but the only one we did get (between D.C. and your S.W.W. reporter) we decided had better be kept in the family.

Dorothy was born in Novi, July 15, 1918. She entered school in the old school building at her home town and attended there until the fourth grade. Then she moved into the newly completed building where she continued until she was graduated from the tenth grade.

She likes dancing, but is not especially fond of sports - except hiking - We might add that she is the first student we've interviewed who said that she liked all her subjects - her favorites, perhaps, are typing and shorthand.

Dorothy is not planning to attend college, but her chosen work after graduation would be in an office.

Fred Hicks, Jr. As Fred you'd probably never recognize him, but as "Junior" and "Shadow," you'll know him immediately.

He is one of our original home town boys - as he was born right here Dec. 13, 1918, and has always attended school in Northville.

Everyone knows his chief hobbies, which are hunting and fishing. Probably a few of us remember when he brought grasshoppers to school in his pockets. Next in the hobby is swimming.

Junior says his favorite subjects are chemistry and physics. He does not intend to go to college - "Unless something happens" - and is uncertain about his future.

TWO NEW SUBJECTS OFFERED TO PUPILS

Two new classes will be offered the students the second semester, according to Paul B. Thompson, assistant principal. They are vocations and trigonometry.

The vocation class is open only to freshmen and will be given the ninth hour. The teacher has not been decided upon. The trigonometry class which will be open to juniors and seniors, will also be given the ninth hour. Miss Corin will be the teacher.

JUNIOR HIGH NEWS

Barbara Simmons is recovering rapidly from an appendicitis operation. She is able to be up and around the house.

Roger Miller is still in a serious condition from a sled accident.

Two new pupils in the eighth grade are Betty Jane Maddox and Loraine Niles. Mary Burgess, who was a student here, and then moved to New York, is again living in Northville and attending school here.

The junior high has been having tests every day for some time, preparing for the spelling bee which begins early in March.

Edythe American has been visiting school for the past three days with Marie Angove.

ROUND THE SCHOOL

Why do the students of our school show such a lack of interest in the girls' basketball team? Last year when the girls went to play in other towns the gyms were packed with students to see the games.

SOCIETY

The lure of the "pines" simply lured some of our girls and boys after they first saw the decorations that they simply had to go.

DID YOU NOTICE

That there is one thing in the world that can really frighten Herman? That is, singing in the choir! How very lonesome it was at school last Wednesday with the seniors gone?

THE OBSERVER

Can you guess who she is? A freshman girl, dark hair that curls a bit, and is of medium height. Her hobby seems to be horseback riding, although she has a deep admiration for winter sports.

MOST KINDERGARTENERS UP TO NORMAL WEIGHT

Miss Ann Richards, kindergarten teacher, is glad to report that the children have gained weight and are almost all up to normal weight. The reports were given out Friday.

TRENTON DEFEATED BY LOCAL TEAM

Malshans of Trenton was fouled. It was converted to a point for Northville by Westphall. He made a field goal to this, which Nirdler, matched ending the game. Final score, Northville 21, Trenton 9.

COMMERCIAL NOTES

Marjorie Chase, Lillian Fritz and Ida Altman, have typed above 40 words on ten minute accuracy tests. Jack Seberry has a record of 44. Robert Snow earned the only silver star that has been put on the chart for the last month or more! 32 words! Dorothy Kent has at last made her 40 words after hovering in the high thirties for quite a while.

Inquiring Reporter

Question: Would you alter your plans or change the routine of your studies if you had to begin high school again?

Fred Hicks: I would not make any different plans. I would carry the same routine of studies, also.

Paul Beard: Yes, I would learn something instead of arguing with the teachers so much.

Mr. Walls: Live and learn. We never really appreciate a chance to learn until we lose it.

Alice Masters: No, I would not change the subjects or my plans, but I would distribute my subjects more evenly during the first three years instead of carrying so many in my senior year.

Mr. Thompson: I don't believe I would make any changes in the courses I took, but would try to come out of them. We should make the most of the opportunities given us if it is but a very brief period of our life.

Jane Greenleaf: Yes, I would change my courses and take as many foreign subjects as offered.

Jesse Bowers: I don't think I believe the gotten as much in the course. I've taken as I would have from any other course.

All the high school girls were high-tops to classes. Confort before beauty is their motto.

That Lorry P. is inclined to make rather unnecessary remarks? At least so J. G. thinks.

Rumor has it that B. H. and L. P. have been seen somewhere together. When could this unusual occurrence have taken place?

The write-up T. G. got in the Free Press concerning his basketball powers? "But time honors" got a little publicity? Now, George, was that remark necessary?

That the "Top-Top" club seems to get all the publicity? Maybe the S. S. S.'s are just shy.

The shifting in passengers for the trip to the courts? (Chris classes on Wednesday.) The girls decided the boys had the right idea - believe it or not.

The absence of a certain justice boy last Thursday? That Bob L. has light feet in circles class? He can't seem to keep them on the floor?

What a Romeo George W. has become? Scott Coyle's "specs"?

BOOK COMEDY HIT AT CASS THEATRE

Coming directly from record-breaking engagements in Philadelphia and Washington, a special cast will be seen in Broadway's hilarious comedy hit, "Personal Appearance," at the Cass Theatre.

JUNIORS PREPARING FOR PLAY 'GIRL SHY'

If you, dear pupils, see the juniors of this time-honored high school rushing about whispering lines to themselves, or see Carl Arnold murmuring sweet nothings to the air, do not rush to the nearest doctor to have the aforesaid juniors examined for bats in their collective brains. Oh, no, dear pupils, those talented juniors are only rehearsing for the coming play, which will pop up for your entertainment on Feb. 6, and 7.

SENIORS COMPLETE REQUIRED COURSE

According to Mrs. Hawley, the senior class students have completed the "American Government" study. It is a state law that all seniors are required to take civics a half year.

N.H.S. GIRLS' TEAM MEETS MELVINDALE

Melvindale, basketball champion of the girls' suburban league last week will meet Northville's team at Melvindale. According to Mrs. G. J. Ludwig girls coach, the first game will play starting at 4 p. m. Mrs. Ludwig says, "Even though Melvindale has one of the best teams in the league I think we have a better chance to beat them."

SPORT FLASHES

The girls' basketball team played a very close game Thursday, Jan. 16. In fact they don't get on the floor. Well, you can try again Feb. 4.

Benny Duguid's shoulder is coming along in good shape. He will be awaiting the call Friday.

Trenton, the team that was leading Melvindale's first place team at the hall, found it impossible to score against the Orange and Black five in the first half and were able to tally only a few points in the second. So look out championship Northville's on its way.

Have you noticed how hard George tries to make at least five points in a game - if he makes less than five Paul Beard may give him a so called good kick. Paul had the chance just once and George had to eat off the mantle for a week.

Just on account of because Chuck B. was an old smartie and hid team members towels, etc. he got fouled. His pants were missing for two days and was in cold waiting home.

Benton, well remembered as the sponsor of "Cooling Zero" and "Strictly Dishonorable."

The principal character in "Personal Appearance" is a Hollywood screen star, Carole Arden, who makes a tour of picture theatres in Pennsylvania, to appear in connection with the showing of her newest film, "Drifting Lady."

The play opens with the showing of the film in a Seranton theatre and an intimate talk to the audience by Carole. The scenes that follow show what took place in a tourists' home the next day when Carole, with her press agent and maid, are stranded with a disabled automobile. The actress takes a strong liking to a handsome young gasoline station attendant, Bud Norton, and attempts to carry him off to Hollywood despite the fact that he is engaged to a home town girl. There is an exciting battle of wits between the two girls with the actress running second, much to her disgust.

The play is a good-natured razzing of the film industry and was rated as the best fun the theatre has brought to Broadway in a generation. In addition to the bargain matinee on Wednesday the usual Saturday afternoon performance will be played and seats for the eight performances will be on sale at the box office Monday morning, Jan. 13. Mail orders will be carefully attended to.

SENIORS COMPLETE REQUIRED COURSE

According to Mrs. Hawley, the senior class students have completed the "American Government" study. It is a state law that all seniors are required to take civics a half year.

N.H.S. MEETS MELVINDALE HERE TONIGHT

Northville to Play on Home Court Team That Holds First Place at Present

Northville cagers will meet Melvindale on the home court tonight, Jan. 24. The first game will start at 7:30 p. m.

Melvindale at the present time holds first place in the Suburban League and is the only team in the league having beaten Northville this season.

In a game during the early part of the season Melvindale was fortunate in beating the Orange and Black five, by two points in an overtime period.

Last year Northville played the last of the season with Melvindale to determine the undisputed championship for Northville of the tied championship with Melvindale. Northville was successful in winning this year the game will yield a tie for first place if Northville wins or second place if she loses.

This game marks the beginning of the second half of the basketball season. Boost Northville as she battles for the championship.

CLASSES ENJOY SEEING MUTTON PICTURES ON RUBBER, DINOSAURS

All of Mrs. Geraldine Huff's classes saw the films last week on "The Story of Rubber" and "Digging in the Past."

"The Story of Rubber" showed the planting of rubber trees, how the sap is taken, and the shipping process.

"Digging Up the Past" dealt with digging up dinosaurs and sending the bones found to museums.

According to Mrs. Huff and Mrs. Cobb, both pictures proved to be educational as well as interesting.

GEORGE RECTOR Says:

MR. RECTOR IS A MEMBER OF THE KITCHEN STAFF

"There used to be a slogan (maybe there still is) - 'Let George do it,' and I suppose that is how I got into this business of converting meats and vegetables from their natural state into a semblance of a well-cooked meal. But now that we're on the subject, let's settle once and for all the age-old question - What is the best way of cooking: electrically or otherwise?"

"I've always maintained that a good cook can turn out a masterpiece with nothing more to aid him - or her - than a primitive wood fire. But there's no denying the helpfulness of the electric cook stove, especially in its state of perfection today. I think it is perfectly obvious that no man or woman is going to march out in the woods and build a fire, labor with crude cooking utensils and struggle along under other handicaps just to show that he can do it - at least, not every day in the week.

"I like my civilized comforts and conveniences as much as anybody. And also - to get colloquial - 'I can take it,' as the saying goes regarding punishment. But cooking - to my way of thinking - should be a pleasure. And electric cooking, in view of the present advanced state of the art, multiplies that pleasure a hundredfold. Please understand, this is merely my own preference. Others may have their own pet cooking method, and that is all right with me!"

THE COUNTRY'S MOST IMPORTANT CONSIDERATION: Schuyler L. Marlow in the Clinton County Republican News.

It takes three generations to get a shirt collar to turn down. It is an old proverb which will stand the test of time and again. Every thread of civilization is a part of the past. The shirt collar is a part of the past. The shirt collar is a part of the past. The shirt collar is a part of the past.

The United States is a wealthy nation. It is the greatest percentage of its people who are doing it. Our country is a part of the past. The shirt collar is a part of the past. The shirt collar is a part of the past.

One of the saddest and best-informed men in Michigan, last week agreed that he was not worried about the present national debt. While thirty billions of dollars of debt is the greatest any nation ever had, it can be paid. The growing disposition of an increasing number of people to believe that they can get something for nothing is what worries me," he said. "That is our greatest debt. That is the biggest problem we are facing. If the United States is to fail it will not be because of a thirty billion dollar debt. It will come because we will have a thirty million-army of spongers trying to live off those who still do believe in working."

We are going into a new year. We have used up thirty-five years of the twentieth century. In those thirty-five years we have seen more changes and greater increases in wealth and greater changes in the standards of high-living than in all the history of the world during the other 1,900 years. No wonder we have cracks. No wonder when economic upheavals come, people look for an easy way out. Ten years of national easy-living is not good preparation for five years of hard-going.

This country's—any country's—most important asset is the quality of its citizenry. The poor boy, fired up his unhappy lot, becomes by dint of hard work and frugality, a rich man. Inspired by his example and enabled by his accumulated wealth, his children may live in security and comfort. "His children's children, however, are apt to have been spoiled by easy-living and again revert to poverty. That is what is meant by the three-generation shirt-collars solution.

Nations are made up of people. Are we, as a nation, going to disintegrate because we have had too much wealth and too easy living? Or, are we going to work and plan and fight to remain self-sustaining.
