STOP THE GRABBERS AND GIMMIES.

Would it not be commendable if Governor Fitzgerald, in fulfillment of his 1932 campaign promises to cut expenses, should institute a measure to bring about a reduction of the sales tax?

Rightfully our governor boasts of a $5,000,000 balance for the last fiscal year. That's what we like to hear.

We voice no objection to having him parade about as representing one state in the union which has more than balanced its state budget, and we rather like the advertising value coming to our state when its Excellency broadcasts from New York and tells "How He Did It." That's good politics and good business when intended for outside consumption. To be fair to his predecessor, Mr. Fitzgerald should have given a large measure of the credit for this success to former Governor Comstock, (Democrat) who introduced and instituted the sales tax.

Back to the starting point. Business is getting better. Renewed confidence is bringing with it renewed sales and more sales mean more sales tax revenue, and more sales tax revenue will still further swell our bulging treasury.

Business is still 10 per cent below NORMAL. If normalcy should be reached this year and considering the fact that a pressing need for everything under the sun is apparent, and that when the buying wave begins, which will come as sure as spring is followed by winter, it is likely to push business to a new high; therefore it quite naturally follows that the sales tax revenue will mount correspondingly.

Cunning, conniving politicians and others will cast rapacious eyes towards the bulging state treasury sales tax vaults. Highway departments, staff institution heads, school groups and scores of others are more than likely through propaganda, well-organized, with lobbyists in strategic spots, to lean on the public's shoulder crying for more money.

The sales tax, referred to as a guileless tax, can be made still more painless, and instead of squandering the people's hard earned money, would it not be much better to relieve the taxpayers than to relieve the fancied hardships of some group which will seek more funds with which to carry out some questionable program which has for its sinister objective the circumventing of the people's taxes.

Will Fitzgerald rise to the occasion and advocate a reduction of our state sales tax and then show himself big enough to carry out such a program? We hope he will.

MISINFORMATION, THE ENEMY OF TRUTH

The Sanilac Jeffersonian

Often in the smaller towns the prevalence of that everlasting arch-enemy of truth, misinformation, is more clearly evident than in the larger centers of population where mass human relationship is far less intimate.

It is not that human nature in the cities is any different basically, nor is misinformation less common among city dwellers. But in the small community everything is on such a close, intimate scale that all the traits of human nature are emphasized to the observer.

To the city dweller, living in a small town must be something like looking at human nature through a microscope. The good and the evil are so strikingly manifest.

Misinformation is the result of the human tendency to jump at conclusions and to accept hearsay positively and to pass it on to other ears without questioning its truth or falsity—the same human tendency which is so favorable to the catch-phrase artist and the propagandist. If a rumour is passed about long enough, even under the label of hearsay, it in time becomes passively accepted as reality in the general mind, and once so accepted it is most difficult to dislodge.

The other day the writer chanced to overhear a conversation between a farmer and an elevator man. The talk was of a former administration and what it had or had not done for the farmer. One said that a certain administration had at one time fixed the price of wheat so that it could not rise or lower, while it had compensated an increase in the cost of things the farmer needs.

The elevator man explained that the administration referred to had fixed only the minimum price of wheat and that its market price actually rose more than 50 per cent above that minimum.

"Oh," replied the other. Then I didn't understand it rightly!"

Just one tiny isolated example. Misinformation in that case had been harbored and nourished for years. Many a vital issue can contribute its outcome to misinformation. It is easy to jump at conclusions. But it really is not greatly more difficult to get the truth.

CAN THE WORLD AVOID A DRIFT TOWARDS COMMUNISM? (Birmingham Evening)

Labor applied to the earth produces wealth is distributed among people by direct exchange of goods produced or, as in most of the world, by the transfer of the medium of exchange called money and credit. When a vast portion of people are unable to find employment, government says "We won't let anybody starve or suffer into death. So government, through the power of taxation, gets money or credit with which to distribute food, clothing and shelter to the needy. In the tremendous weapon of taxation ALL citizens of the United States are assured of at least a few scraps of food, a few tattered clothes, a ruce shelter.

Such is the political power in a democracy! Political freedom is the eventual guarantee of economic freedom!

Slowly, but with deadly certainty, the world is drifting toward systems of "economic" control that offer greater and more continuous distribution of food, clothing, and shelter. Russia has Communism; Italy boasts of Fascism; Germany bows to Nazism; Japan is proud of its imperialistic militarism; many other countries have other forms of despotism, each designed in the basically altruistic endeavor to provide food, clothing, and shelter for human beings.

Great Britain for two decades has had its dose, along with very considerable of permanent unemployment; the United States is in the first stages of the permanent color-leaders apply a form of economic truth that allows people to have access to the land—for it is on, and from the land that wealth is produced.

Hunger and distress are terrible evils upon which to build any form of civilization. In their wake is ruin, desolation, barrenness.

TO TAKE MYSTERY OUT OF BANKING

By ROBERT V. FLEMING

President American Bankers Association

The American Bankers Association has cooperated wherever it could properly do so in every measure for national recovery. It has offered constructive recommendations for such changes in banking laws as we recognized were necessary, and we now have a better law under which to operate. The Banking Act of 1933 affords us opportunities for more service and at the same time, retains the fundamental principles which are so vital to our national welfare and which have played a large part in bringing our country to its present position of the most industrial nation on the earth.

The Public and Banking

It is necessary that the public have a thorough understanding of the functions of banks, what they can do and what they can't do, for it must be recognized that to many people the business of banking is still somewhat of a mystery.

We should frankly explain these functions to the public, acquaint them with the basic principles which we operate and to provide the vital part which banks play in the economic life of the Nation. Therefore, in order that there may be the fullest cooperation and understanding between the banks and the people of the country, it will also be one of our objectives to take the mystery out of banking wherever it exists.

Banking Conferences

A series of Regional Conferences on Banking Service will be held in strategic sections of the country, embracing all types of banking, and tracing all types of banking. The new banking laws and the regulations issued thereunder will be carefully analyzed so that our bankers will have a thorough understanding of the broadened services now made possible.

The question of public relations and how we can best serve the people of our communities will be another topic of discussion. Clinics or forums on specific questions of interest to bankers and the problems confronting them in their particular localities will also be included.

"Ruth Can Drive the Oxen"

Around their father's big chair four children used to gather listening to stories of the time when he was a "boy in blue" and marched away to the south.

Self-conscious in their stiff uniforms Company—passed through the streets of Richmond, Ind., cheered by throngs. From an upstairs window his sister looked down and smiled as she waved, while at her side her Quaker grandmother said sternly "Mary, Mary, will thee laugh over thy brother's blood?"

And the gray-haired veteran leaped back and laughed at the memory. "Those were stern days," he said, "when fathers, brothers and sons had to answer the call of their country and leave the women folk to do the heavy work. This was the jungle so often heard on all sides."

"So take your gun and go, John. Take your gun and go. For Ruth can drive the oxen, John. And I can use the hoe."

Lucky women to know how to drive the oxen and use the hoe! We make the guess that quite often Ruth had been called out to buckle the knotty yoke around the necks of "Buck and Brindle." She had learned what "Gee" and "Haw" meant and had even taken a turn or so at a furrow.

No matter what may be our theories about women shouldering the responsibilities of men, there are bound to be emergencies arising in life when "Ruth" may have to prove whether "she" can "drive the oxen." War, other necessary absences, illness, have found many a heretofore sheltered woman rising to the occasion and doing things that before seemed impossible.

Stoking the furnace, carrying out ashes, simple play beside the real responsibilities that come tumbling down over her shoulders.

The man who keeps his wife ignorant of his business problems so that she will not have to "bother her little head" is neither flattering her ability nor doing her kindness.

A local banker admits reluctantly that most women are very helpless in business matters and smiles indulgently as he says "And why should they be expected to know those things? That's a man's job."

And that is the very reason that so many women become panicky when facing unexpected problems. That is why they fall easy prey to the schemes of unscrupulous promoters.

A woman does not need to take her husband's temper and send for the doctor if some day he takes a notion to explain to her where the insurance papers are, what are his assets and liabilities. He might even explain to her some of the business technique that looks so very simple to him. And he need not be surprised if she does not grasp it all at once any more than he would know how to make a perfect cake after watching her nimble fingers beat one together. Let him try it.

Happy the women whose husband now and then lets her hold the reins and "drive the oxen" so that she can manage the unruly team should the need arise.

WOULD PROTECT BANKING FIELD IN RURAL AREAS

American Bankers Association Would Combat Return of Excess Number of Banks

CITES LAX CHARTER POLICIES IN THE PAST

Find a Chief Cause of Bank Failures Was Too Many Banks
—Existing Sound Banks Serving Communities Well

NEW YORK.— Existing sound banks, especially the small banks in the rural districts which are serving their communities well, should be protected from any return of the overbanked local conditions caused by former lax chartering policies, which were mainly to blame for the unfavorable failure record of the past, says the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. This is brought out in a report covering an investigation by the commission of bank failures and chartering policies.

The commission's study gives an impressive revelation of how great a part mistakes, public policies in the chartering of banks played in creating the unsound banking structure which finally collapsed with the Bank Holiday in March, 1933. Robert V. Fleming, president of the association, says in a foreword:

"Overproduction of banks, literally by thousands, over many years in the face of intense warnings not only from bankers and others who recognized the danger, but even more so from the mortgage records of bank failures themselves, is clearly shown to have contributed as a major cause of the present economic crisis in the history of the nation."

A Recurrence Feared
He refers to fears of a recurrence of overbanking recently expressed by Federal banking authorities, to the powers given the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation by the provision of the Banking Act of 1935 which the admission of banks to membership in the insurance fund, to the influence state laws and to the policies now being followed by both national and state supervisors and their agents to encourage the industry against overbanking.

But sound laws and consistent execution of them are of themselves always sufficient safeguard in any field of complex activity and, therefore, they have the active support of public opinion to aid them. It is the purpose of the American Bankers Association to aid in strengthening public opinion in support of the sound and soundly supervised and properly chartered banks, and to protect the banking structure.

The commission's study shows that the relationship between the overbanking of banks and the abnormal bank failure conditions that prevailed from 1929 to the bank holiday in 1933 is so definite that studies be made on the basis of experience to develop standards governing the number of banks.

"Such a study would embrace the question whether banking facilities can best be supplied to the rural districts by small unit banks or by branches from banks of substantial capital in larger centers. Existing sound banks, which are serving their communities well should be protected from any return of the overbanked local conditions caused in the past by lax chartering policies."

Banking Officials Queried
"An inquiry among state commissioners shows a predominant opinion against increasing materially the number of banks, coupled with the fact that present laws give them sufficient discretion to prevent a repetition of errors of the past."

"Under prevailing abnormal conditions, with the Federal Government extensively exercising loaning powers in competition with the banks, and with industry itself so largely supplied with funds as to render it to a great degree independent of normal bank borrowing, the banking structure even with its present reduced numbers, finds it difficult to support its existing capital investment and operating personnel."

"These are new factors, intensifying the need for highly prudent and restrictive chartering policies. We urge the retirement of the Federal Government from the banking business as normal conditions warrant."

Robert V. Fleming, president of the association, will preside over the meetings. It is stated that this conference will be the first of several to be held in various sections.

The general topic of the conference will embrace the managerial, legislative and operative problems confronted by all classes of banks. An outstanding phase of the meetings will be the development of plans for promoting a general better public understanding in regard to the functions and policies of banks.

The FAMILY ROMANCE
By MRS. L. E. WARNER
Social Consultant

Dear Mrs. Warner—We are terribly worried about our 18 year old daughter. She has chosen as her best young man friend a boy twenty years of age who hasn't any sense of responsibility, who is utterly care-free and doesn't even earn the money he uses to take our daughter out on. His mother works and he doesn't. They are out late nights. Sometimes they don't get in until two or three o'clock in the morning. When we reprimand the girl is hateful and disagreeable around home. The boy is not a bad boy. We hear his mother worships him. I have tried to reason with both of them and now we have started quarrelling. My married daughter and her husband, a fine couple, live with us. There is a younger sister and a twin brother. I believe that our home life has been moderately happy. My husband and I do not quarrel but I must be faithful and tell you that when he hurts my feelings by not going out with me when I need a change and want to go somewhere for the evening I just can't speak to him. Sometimes it is several weeks before my hurt feelings will let me talk again. During those times he doesn't speak to me either. The rest of us talk but my husband and I don't talk to one another. I suppose the children sense how we feel but we never say anything unless an "WFI" you tell us what we can do to make this daughter realize that the boy she is going with is not worthy of her.

From what you say your daughter and her husband are somewhat distant. You often find the need of getting away from the kind of the home and even an evening. If you think your daughter is too wild for that kind of life, are you and your husband not in perfect accord? What if you do not feel that the proposed father-in-law is a man you and her father have upon this child?

Your daughter thinks she can have a lot more fun away from home than she can at home. So the first thing to do is to take over the home, isn't it?

Let us do this a few steps at a time and try to do for a good start.

(1) Try to make yourself more light-hearted. You are naturally a little gay in disposition. Your need for recreation and desire for company prove this. You can afford to nurse hurt feelings. Accept your husband as he is a silent, home loving man and go out by yourself or with the children. Ask this daughter to take you out with her.

(2) Make home a little better. Set up a flower shelf and there, add a floor lamp to some cheerful corner, laugh more and worry less. Everyone will be happier if you add a touch of color and brightness to your surroundings.

(3) Open this new, cheerful home to the boys and girls. Let them have their friends there and invite in your own friends. Entertain simply but often. The girl who likes something doing all the time will be pleased by this change in the home.

(4) Do not discourage the young man from coming to the house. If you refuse to let him in she will meet him somewhere else. This is to be expected.

(5) Make this young man a member of your family. Include him in your family parties. Invite him to Sunday dinner. There may be something fine about him which you have not discovered.

(6) If your daughter continues to care for him after she has seen him at home and with her family do not discourage marriage if this is what they plan for.

Remember that this girl of yours needs his light-heartedness to color the drab life she has lead. She likes gaiety. Give it to her at home or she will turn naturally to him.

Mrs. Burkart explained the use of symbolism in Camp Fire and an explanation of the three ranks was given by Janet Stewart, Marie Angerer and Patricia McLaughlin. Vivian Grosvenor and Louise Alexander sang "Dooting Song." Geraldine Johnston talked about the girls' own camp, Wathana, and Marjorie Chase discussed the earning of nature honors.

An impressive fire extinguishing ceremony followed by the singing of "Follow the Gleam" and the playing of taps, ended the afternoon's demonstration.

Mermaid Stories by Sailors

"Dugongs" or sea-cows, as well as manatees, create a mermaid effect as they graze up in weedy shallows along the coast. The mother hoists her young to her breast with one of her flippers, suggesting a mother and her baby. Many of the stories about mermaids were probably invented by sailors to amuse their families. It is not uncommon to find credulous people who believe in the existence of mermaids, and fake mermaids are frequently exhibited at circuses and other shows.

Eight-Day Week

The seven-day week is practically universal. However, there are some parts of Africa, where weeks of three, four, five, six or eight days are found, always in association with the market. In the Congo the word for "week" is the same as the word for "market," the recurrence of the market indicating the length of the week. Some of the ancient peoples, including the Romans, Scandinavians, etc., appear to have had at some period a week with more or less than seven days.

A large granite monument bearing a set of Highland bagpipes in bronze and a replica of the Macpherson coat of arms has been erected on the grave at Newtonmore, Scotland, of John Macpherson, champion piper of Scotland, and was unveiled to bagpipe strains.

Leap Years

The last leap year in the Nineteenth century was 1868 and the first one in this century 1904, making eight years between them. According to the Gregorian calendar, the one year in general use, it is provided that of the centennial years, 1000, 2000, etc., only those exactly divisible by 400 should be leap years. Thus 1900 was not a leap year, but 2000 will be.

Slavery in Senegal

Once the streets of Senegal, now a coastal colony of French West Africa, were witness to a strange and terrible traffic, the slave trade. While the slave trade was in progress, local tribal chieftains formed the inferior for free victims. Entire villages would be captured, their inhabitants marched to the coast to be bartered for beads, handkerchiefs, bright clothes with brass buttons. When the practice was outlawed by the world peace came to the end about the site of South (Senegal) and its 1,000,000 mostly Mohammedan population. Instead of a slave trade, which now deal in peanuts, wheat, the sandy soil grows with cotton, rice and coffee. St. Louis is the capital. Dakar, the largest port and fastest growing city of the French governing several of his headquarters—Washington Post.

Fake Castle Ruin Famous

At Hollywood, Florida, has become so famous that it is to remain as part of the scenery and any attempt to destroy it will meet with the opposition of Hollywood citizens. It stands on a commanding position on a lonely and rugged crag. It has a square tower and a curved wall, embattled and loop-holed, and each window ends with a bastion. The structure was built by the late Sir Walter Raleigh, merely to decorate the landscape.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE!

What's the matter with you? You're tired, you're out of it, you're not working, you're not getting on. It's time to get your bowels moving. If the bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't get to the bowels. Get your bowels moving. You get constipated, your whole system is poisoned and you feel poor, weak and the world looks grim.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get that two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Remember, gentle, yet assuring in making you feel free. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Sublimity, refuse anything else.

NORTHVILLE TO MEET VAN DYKE HERE ON FRIDAY

Westphal Expects to Make Long Shots Tonight; Other Members Also Up to Par

Northville will play the second game of the last half of its schedule when it meets the Van Dyke eagles at 7 p. m. Friday in the Northville gym.

A victory over the Orange and Black's opponents will act as a tonic to the high school squad after its defeat at the hands of Melvindale last Friday. Although Van Dyke has established no impressive score this year, the school has succeeded in showing an increasing strength and fighting spirit that will offset any preconceived ideas about the quality of its team.

The game will be fast and exciting as have been the preceding battles in which Northville has set a percentage of 666 out of 6 games. The local basketballers have more points than their opponents. They have used only 1 time-out to the challengers. They have made only half as many foul shots as have the other teams.

George Westphal since being swung to center, has been the pivot of the team and an exceedingly efficient one. In the last few games, George's only scores have been long shots from the regions around the red-line in the center of the floor. They come when they are needed and seldom fail. It was only this spirit of long shots that brought this acclaim to only one man on the team but it's the team that wins the game. That fact and sure-handed Bruce Turnbull and his small team-mate, Charles Bishop, coupled with those two expert ball-handlers James Hochkins and Essie Nirider, have only to slacken a trifle and they can be replaced by such good players as Fred Van Valkenberg, Tom Gregory, Jack Juind, and Bob Lyke. They are all fighting men and promise an exciting fast game no matter whom they play.

The probable starters for tonight's game will be: George Westphal, Charles Bishop, Bruce Turnbull, Essie Nirider and Fred Van Valkenberg.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSES FOUND SATISFACTORY BY PUPILS, TEACHERS

The grade school teachers and pupils find their new school houses very cozy and feel quite at home in them. The buildings have been altered and made more school-like and convenient.

Miss Leonardson and Miss Kreeger find that the street view from the Packard sales building does not disturb or distract the children's attention from their studies. Miss Leonardson's pupils have desks and Miss Kreeger's pupils have tables to study on.

Miss Jarvis and Mrs. Reng's grades are situated in the bank building. Miss Jarvis' pupils have a very cozy and convenient room to use as a reading and word study room. The first graders have all their chairs and the second and third graders have seats. Being in the bank building has inspired Mrs. Reng's second and third graders to study hard.

This room is also used to play games in at recess as the children are not allowed to play in the streets.

All the buildings have been equipped with school supplies, consisting of black boards, chairs, seats, ventilators and lavatories.

FOUR NEW ELECTIVE COURSES TONIGHT

Four new elective courses are being offered to high school students this semester.

Mrs. Hawley Cobb is the instructor.

Industrial geography, taught by Miss Geraldine Huff, is offered to all high school students. This course is taught in place of the H. S. geography of the first semester.

Miss Dorcas Corrin is instructor of trigonometry. Advanced algebra was taught first semester and trigonometry is offered to those who want to acquire a little more math.

MISS PALMER'S FRENCH CLASS SHOWS SLIDES

Miss Ione Palmer's sixth hour second year French class was shown slides of "Chateau de Loire Valley", which is traveled extensively by tourists.

These slides showed castles of the middle ages, and other pictures of the Renaissance periods.

One interesting slide in particular according to Miss Palmer, was the one showing the cupboard of Catherine Medici with its secret shelves and drawers used to hide her poisons.

Melvindale, the only league team to defeat the Northville quintet, bested the Orange and Black squad for the second time in an overtime period, 20 to 19.

Do some people ever get fooled? Imagine going all the way over to Plymouth in order to see something besides a "Western" picture and then finding that there was a double feature, there and both pictures were "Westerns."

With the temperature down around zero (and it doesn't come out here), Alice Eaton had to change her tobogganing party to one where they could stay inside last Wednesday. 55 games were played and dancing danced and refreshments served. Her guests were Mary Jane Boelens, Marjorie O'Neil, Doris Tewksbury, Albert Boelens, Edward Reid, Keene Eaton and Chuck Bishop.

A group of the boys and girls also had a bus-ride party Saturday night. They had refreshments at Dr. Willis' and then went to a show here.

Lucille Simmons spent the week-end with Mary Jane Boelens. Some fun they had. Jean Baldwin visited Tyn McLaughlin over the week end.

GIVE JUNIOR PLAY TWICE NEXT WEEK

Evelyn Ambler, Isabel Tibble and Herman Toussaint Take Leading Roles

BY NANCY McLOUGHLIN

Just a word from your backstage Walter Winchell to remind you that Feb. 6 and 7 in the high school auditorium there will be unfolded for the world to see, the junior class' first dramatic offering, "Girl-Shy."

The author of this slightly up-to-date comedy is Katharine Kavanaugh, who over a period of years, has gained a name for herself and the plays that she writes for high schools and little theatres.

Please don't think that the juniors are turning loose an untried play. Oh, no. On the contrary several of our more thriving and larger Detroit educational institutions have presented "Girl-Shy" and have received a handsome profit. Cooley High School is at present rehearsing it.

The hard-working juniors have been practicing for a good many weeks and the leading man, Carl Arnold, and leading lady, Doris Labbitt are, along with the rest of the cast, delving into the mysteries of the theatre. Wonder if we have another Katharine Cornell or George M. Cohan in our midst? Better ask for their autographs now.

Miss Dorcas Corrin, director of the play, stated that June Denne will play "Peaches" and also Jane Grosvenor, and Islene Johnson and Ruth Gampbell, both will play the character "Birdie."

Largest Modern Gothic Structure Covering seven acres, the English houses of parliament are the largest example of modern Gothic architecture.

til Turnbull again broke through for an N. H. S. counter. Keeher was fouled by Bishop as he scored. The basket was good but he failed to convert the free throw. Gotz whipped a pass to Hegedus who scored for M. H. S. George Westphal slipped another long shot through the basket to precede Nirider who sunk a foul shot to end the third quarter in Melvindale's hands 13 to 11.

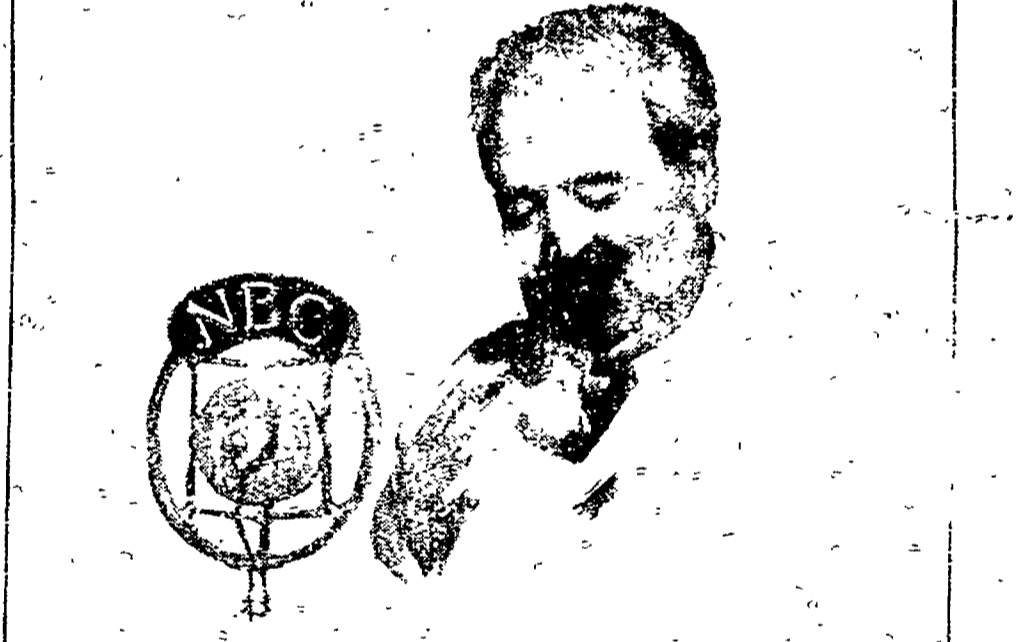

Melvindale again started the action when Keeher sunk a dog shot right under the N. H. S. basket. Celmo raised the tally two more points with a long shot for the blues. Nirider and Kaminskis, respectively, converted a point for their teams. Finding themselves behind, Northville carried the retaining fee minutes of the game to a tie with Westphal sinking two more long shots and Turnbull racing along the complete length of the floor for another score.

With George Westphal's long shot, the legal game ended and a three-minute overtime was called. Kaminskis won the game for M. H. S. in the first few plays of the overtime. Essie Nirider was the only Northville man to score and then it was only a hard earned foul shot ending the game 20 to 19, in favor of a strong and deserving team, Melvindale.

The starting lineup for the game was: Northville-Nirider, Bishop, Westphal, Hochkins and Van Valkenberg, Melvindale-Keeher, Hegedus, Kaminskis, Celmo and Gotz. Substitutions for Northville-Turnbull, Gregory and Lyke. Melvindale-Kozel.

Fruit Salad, Valentine Style***
Prepare any favorite fruit salad. Dissolve cherry gelatin according to the directions on the package, pour into a flat pan, so the gelatin is about 1/2 inch thick, and chill until firm. Cut with a heart-shaped cutter and place a gelatin heart on top of each salad.

Heart Jumbles—Cream 1/2 cup butter thoroughly, add 1 cup sugar gradually and cream until fluffy. Add 2 unbleached egg whites and continue creaming. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and a small amount of red vegetable coloring to make the dough pink. Add 2 to 4 tablespoons cream, then add 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, sifted once before measuring, and once afterwards with 2 teaspoons baking powder, to make a dough that will roll. Roll to about 1/4 inch in thickness, and shape, using a heart cutter. In the center of each cookie, place a spoonful of Currant Jelly. In another cookie of the same shape, cut two or more small circles, using a thimble. Place the cut cookie over the one with the jelly and press the pieces firmly together. Sprinkle with granulated sugar and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) for 12 to 15 minutes.

THE SAME COUNTRY

By ROBERT V. FLEMING
Vice President, American Bankers Association

There is a growing appreciation both on the part of the people and the Government of the earnest and sincere efforts being made by bankers to aid in recovery. It is desirable that we miss no opportunity to foster public understanding of the bankers' problem. We are living in an age of complex and upset economic conditions. Our affairs are closely inter-related not only within the confines of our own borders but extend to other countries throughout the world.

The Greatest Difficulty
I think the greatest difficulty we have to overcome in America today is due to our impatience with the progress we are making towards recovery. We must realize that while the Government can help by directing some measures for relief and recovery, we must help ourselves by doing our share to give impetus to the Government's efforts. We have the same country and basically the same business, factories and people we had prior to the depression, and business initiative must step forward if real recovery is to be achieved.

The theory we often hear expressed that banks create business activity is wrong. Banks can only make a supplementary contribution to business activity. Bankers have the facilities and the desire to extend credit, but business must initiate activity by seeking the credit which is readily available to all worthy borrowers.

Let it be said for business, however, that business men are as eager as bankers to contribute towards recovery. I think some of the trouble is in the fact that too many legitimate business men have proposed a reform which will be an uncertainty in the minds of business leaders as to their eventual outcome and effect. Consequently, they hesitate to expand until the probable effects of such legislation are known.

Diatomaceous Earth
Diatomaceous earth is a specially prepared form of finely divided diatomaceous silt. It is used as an additive in concrete to increase porosity without water and to prevent segregation.

ROTARIANS HEAR OF CLUB WORK FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

International Rotary's Crippled Children week was observed in Northville Tuesday when Percy Angove, executive secretary of the Michigan society for crippled children, presented the facts regarding the work being done in Michigan. The luncheon was held in the Presbyterian church house.

The Rev. Lloyd Douglas, formerly of Ann Arbor, began this project for crippled children 19 years ago. The present activity is an outgrowth of the work done by Rotary clubs everywhere.

Mr. Angove stated that 6,000 crippled children would not today be walking except for the work done by Rotary and the societies that have been formed to carry on the work—July and August are the worst months for infantile paralysis and there were 1,000 new cases reported during 1935 in Michigan. Mr. Angove reported that care was being given all these 1935 cases in Michigan. There are, said Mr. Angove, three steps in the general treatment of a crippled child—first, physical care is provided; second, an attempt is made to get the child into the proper mental attitude so that they may overcome their inferiority complex; third, he is placed in a school where he is taught a trade or an occupation of some kind.

Guests at the luncheon were E. R. Eaton and Howard Eckles of Plymouth, Harry Walker and James R. Lyons of Northville.

MAKING IT HARDER FOR BANK ROBBERS

Mechanical Devices That Impede the Work of Bandits Described by Bankers Association Official.

The impeding devices which the hard working bank robber now meets in applying his trade among small as well as large banks are described by James E. Pania, Deputy Manager American Bankers Association in an article in "Banking" published by his organization.

"Protective equipment will minimize if not prevent loss," Mr. Pania says, "such as the silent automatic type of alarm, approved tear gas systems, several styles of bandit resistant enclosures and timelocks, or safes equipped with timelocks, which can be set for intervals of a few minutes.

"The silent automatic alarms operate in the beginning of a holdup and through action carried out by the bank employees in obedience to the bandits' commands. They are adaptable to the smaller banks which continue to be easiest targets for bank robbery.

Tear Gas Systems

"Tear gas systems have their advantages as self-contained protective units where outside aid is inconspicuous or too remote from the bank to be effective. One objection to the use of tear gas in preventing holdups is the need of pressing a lever or button to discharge it. Although this necessary action seems too much to expect of the victims in a crisis where their lives are in jeopardy, the fact remains that tear gas systems have defeated bank robbery. Its deterrent value is also important.

"Different styles of bandit resistant enclosures are available. The lock manufacturers also produce timelocks which can be set to open at intervals of five minutes or longer. These locks are especially adapted for attachment to small safes or chests for safeguarding surplus funds while the bank is open for business."

Agriculture and Industry

Returns for the first quarter of 1935 for industrial corporations publishing quarterly reports show net profits 21 per cent more than for the same in 1934. The total farm value of all important crops, exclusive of livestock, rose in 1934 to $4,782,423,000, as compared with $4,114,265,000 in the previous year and $2,852,155,000 in 1932.

Eye Is Easily Tricked by Nature's Illusions

Looking at the brilliant plumage of the Kingbird, or the magnificent fall of a peacock, you may exclaim at the wonderful colors you see. But only your eye is being tricked by one of nature's illusions. This magical effect of color is produced by a very thin transparent film on the feather.

The light that strikes the upper surface is partly reflected to the eye, while the rest passes through and is reflected from the under surface of the film. In this way the waves of light that come from the under surface, being delayed by that extra journey, fall somewhat out of step with the waves that were reflected from the upper surface.

This delay causes the blotting out of light waves of some particular color (just as one series of waves on a pond may be blotted out by another); and in consequence the reflected white light, being robbed of part of its color, will shine with the color that is left.

To contemplate the same effect look upon the play of color in a pearl, whose beauty is all due to the fact that it is built up in fine layers of transparent film.—Pearson's Weekly.
