ISSUE BONDS TO COVER PWA CITY PROJECT

Attorney Cochran Reports to Councilmen That Reservoir Will be Approved

Stating that there was little doubt about the water reservoir being approved by the PWA, Village Attorney F. J. Cochran reported to the councilmen Monday evening that only slight changes had been made in the ordinance for the water works. Full publication of the ordinance is being made this week.

The only thing that might stand in the way is the fact that the village is in arrears with the general bond issue. If we can show that we are about to refund it, I think there is little doubt about the project going through," stated Attorney Cochran.

At the suggestion of Mr. Cochran, a resolution was passed by the council for the issuance of self-liquidating revenue bonds of the village of Northville for the purpose of defraying the cost of the concrete reservoir, sereator, settling basin and sand filter and extensions of distribution system. The total cost of this improvement has been estimated by Herald S. Hamill, engineer, at $20,900.00. The bonds to be issued will total $11,500.00.

Bids for the sale of these bonds will be accepted by the village clerk until 8 p. m. March 23. All bids will be opened at that time and the village reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Under this system, the rates for services are to be levied upon each lot or premises that have connection with the system on the basis of the quantity of water used and measured by the village water meter. The user of water will be classified and charged in the following manner: minimum charge, $1.50 per 6,000 gallons; next 4,000 gallons 25 cents per 1,000 gallons; over 10,000 gallons 10 cents per 1,000 gallons; factory rate, 7 cents per 10,000 gallons.

EXCHANGITES HEAR DR. WICKHAM TELL ABOUT CRUISE TRIP

At the meeting of the Northville Exchange club Wednesday noon the members and a number of guests were pleasantly entertained by an interesting talk by Dr. A. B. Wickham of the Eastlawn Sanatorium, who told of his recent voyage along the west coast of South America. With a doctor friend of Detroit he made the trip in January and February. He told his hearers that he was much surprised at the developments that have been made and that are being made along the route. South America, especially along the west coast is rich in mining and on the return journey immense cargoes of goods—copper, wool, bananas, water melons—were loaded for shipment to American ports.

START REHEARSALS FOR SENIOR CLASS PLAY PRESENTATION

Cast Is Named For "Little Miss Fortune" To Be Given April 2, 3

BY EVELYN AMBLER

The seniors have, after much deliberation, chosen the play which they will present April 2 and 3. "Little Miss Fortune" is a widely acclaimed and well-known play, and has a good plot. Each character is outstanding although the part of Mrs. Cooper is the most difficult to portray. Lily Henshaw, better known as the "brat," provides many good laughs and Katherine Cooper is just the ideal eighteen-year-old girl.

Tryouts were held last Monday and conducted differently. Typewritten parts were given each person interested in trying out for the play on Friday and they were asked to learn these parts by Monday. Mrs. Dorcas Corbin, who will direct the production, believes that in this way she may better get an idea of the person's acting ability. Reading practices began this week.

This play is being purchased from the famous Samuel French Company in New York. The royalty will be ten dollars for each performance.

WOMEN OF THREE CHURCHES UNITE FOR PRAYER DAY

Women of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches united in the World Day Prayer services Friday afternoon at the Methodist church.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Duncan Samson of Detroit, used John Owen's theme, "Come Back to God," as the basis for her talks. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Marshall Herrick. Mrs. E. M. Bogart, Mrs. Leslie G. Lee, Mrs. A. E. Fuller and Mrs. Wm. B. Horsfall. A review of mission work was given by Mrs. L. M. Eaton. Sacred music was sung by Mrs. K. S. North.

GRANT BEER LICENSES TO 5 MERCHANTS

Village Commissioners Say Rigid Sanitary Check-Up Will be Conducted

Unsanitary conditions and lack of necessary conveniences in the beer gardens in Northville were brought to light by Commissioner Wm. B. Gregory Monday evening when members of the village council considered the renewing of the licenses.

When the applications from the five beer merchants were presented by Chief Wm. H. Safford, Commissioner Gregory voiced an emphatic complaint about the dirty toilets in most of these places and stated that the "business should only be renewed with the understanding that these conditions be greatly improved and that all applicants be required to install lavatories.

At the request of the council, rigid inspection is to be made in the beer gardens during the year. It is probable that the village health officer, Dr. W. H. Johnston, will be asked to inspect the "places." A monthly state check-up is made by Chief Safford.

Licenses were granted to R. L. Lee, class A restaurant; John Norton, class B, beer and wine permit; L. M. Coe, special dedicated merchant and tavern keeper; John Asimakopoulos class A restaurant; Clifford LeFevre, class A and special dedicated merchant.

If dancing is to be allowed in any of these beer gardens, permits must be given by the village council. Commissioners George Hicks and John W. Perkins are expected to dancing being permitted in such places.

LENT IN NORTHVILLE

Take Time For Reading And Meditation

Once again the minds of Christian people turn to a consideration of the meaning, purpose and possibility of this season which occupies a place in the calendar and experience of every Christian.

To many, Lent is associated with abstinence and fasting, but the words "Lenten fastings" may be rightly translated into modern English as "spring strengthenings."

It is the meditative season of the Christian year. Lent should prompt and challenge people to an honest inner inspection and the cultivation of those disciplines of the soul which, spiritual reality, may become very unreal. Self discipline is the basis of all self achievement. Lent is a reminder of the fact that

The death of Mrs. Cora Macomber Clark of Colorado Springs, Colo., which occurred Feb. 22, while she was spending the winter with her niece, Mrs. Arbutus Carlson at Leona, W. 4 SEEK SEATS ON COUNCIL AT NEXT ELECTION

President Burkart's Chair Is Not Being Contested This Year By Petition

With the filing of two additional petitions for seats on the village council, competition for the office increases. Elections must select on March 9 two men to serve for four years. Petitions seeking votes have been circulated by E. M. Bogart, Orin Owen, Floyd G. Shafer and John W. Perkins. Mr. Perkins is asking for re-election. He has been a member of the council for two years.

Harold Bloom, running against the present treasurer, John Litsenberger, is seeking the votes of the villagers. Proceeding Litsenberger's election to the office six years ago, Mr. Bloom was the village treasurer for one two-year term. This is the second time these two men have run against each other, for election in 1928 Mr. Bloom defeated Litsenberger for the treasurership.

No petitions have been filed contesting the office of the clerk, held by Mrs. Mary Alexander, president, held by Dr. H. H. Burkart and assessor held by Charles L. Blackburn. These office-holders have all filed notice for re-election.

Turnbull is moving his electric and radio business to the Ware building on East Main street this week and on Saturday he will have an opening in his new location. The public is cordially invited to attend this happy event and all are invited to come. The new location will afford more room for the display of the line carried by this firm, and will also provide a place by which better service can be rendered to the public.

When Mr. Turnbull first came to Northville he was employed by William A. Lutz as a member of the legislative council. He was elected to the office of the S. Thomsen-Lincoln County, last year. Northville was defeated by Lincoln. The game will be played at Central School in Ypsilanti.

TOWNSENDITES SEND GUEST SPEAKER TO DISCUSS PLAN HERE

If Congress does not pass the proposed Reverting Old Age fund this session there will be a revolving Congress," stated Dr. Sam Jones, author of the plan. When the revolving author are members of his staff have been efficient and courteous and it has been their good pleasure to witness a cordial expansion of the business which makes this change of location desirable.

The annual council of the change of location which appears in section a total of 22 local signers. It is necessary that there be 50 members to form a recognized Townsend club.

The speaker stated that the Townsend plan is a prosperity plan first and last. It was reported by Dr. White that there are eight million who would receive the $200.00 a month making an outlay of $12-200,000 a year. This money, said Dr. White, will come from the two percent transaction tax. It was his thought that there would not be a serious problem in raising that amount of money, through this tax system.

All of the expenses for the trip are paid by the college.

LEAGUE TITLE SHARED WITH MELVINDALE

Wattsmen Honored Again This Year, Adding Laurels To Coach's Record

BY ALEC F. MILNE

Northville High has tied for first place honors with Melvindale in the suburban league. As a result of the Melvindale victory over Van Dyke last Friday, Northville and Melvindale are tied for first place in the Suburban league and will receive cups.

In the past three years the basketball teams representing Northville High School have compiled an enviable record, under Coach Ted Watts. In his first year as coach, Mr. Watts developed a fast, diversified attacking team that kept every opponent on the jump. Last year the Orange and Black squad took first place, winning all games in league competition and defeating all non-league opponents. This is said to be the best record in local high school history.

Coach Watts has been highly successful in developing teams with deceptive passing attacks that have kept the ball through the most air-tight defenses. Playing a zone game, Northville has smothered many highly touted attacks.

Starting this year with only two members of the squad having had previous varsity experience the local quintet has been moulded into a tough fast organization that can only be the result of good coaching and cooperation between coach and players. Watts and his players have compiled a splendid record.

Yesterday evening Northville was to play University High of Ann Arbor in its first game in the annual tournament at Ypsilanti. The Northville will play the winner of the S. Thomsen-Lincoln County game. Last year Northville was defeated by Lincoln. The game will be played at Central School in Ypsilanti.

Plans to make the trip to the tournament are Turnbull, Gregory, Lynn Journal, Westphal, Bishop, Melvin, Brooks, Da. of. Street, Fred Van Valen.

A school man writes the editorial for this issue. He Robert E. Sharer, principal of the Coldwater high school.

Bob Shareg was a one-time Albion College boy in the editor's home for three years and his friendship has since been kept "green." Serious-minded and hard working, he closed his door to the other boys during school hours and dreamed of becoming a great physician. The boys called him "Doc."

Something side tracked "Doc" to school work, and while the world may have missed a real physician the young folks of Coldwater are glad to have him as a leader and an ideal.

"EDUCATION THE GREAT EMANCIPATOR"

(By Robert E. Sharer)

Individual Americans—you and I—and millions of them, these days are questioning and wondering about this America of ours. We have always maintained that the American ideal of government and society was the best. But recently we have seen nation after nation toss aboard their forms of popular government, and set up various types of dictatorships. We have been engulfed in a flood of propaganda and counter-propaganda. Bewildered by the complexity and the number of the problems we must solve, we have sometimes half wistfully thought that it might be good to have some one step in and solve them all for us, even if it meant the surrender of our rights. We have sometimes forgotten that although a dictatorship may be slow, expensive, inefficient, and sometimes disappointing, that it is still a democracy; that the American ideals of freedom, security, and social justice have begun to atrophy at a price to be traded off for a handful of banners of a militant dictatorship.

How can we be sure of what to think of what to do, how to vote? We must think, act, and vote intelligently. To stop learning, to cease being informed, when we graduated from school is not only unwise, it is unbecomingly.

The time will come when our public schools will not confine the scope of their work to childhood and youth. They will serve all ages. Special courses, techniques, and hours, will be planned to meet the special needs of adult citizens. The time for this continuing education will be adjusted to the need of the adult who must find time to earn a living and to keep up a home. Teachers will be trained and selected for this task. Public school buildings will be specially planned and equipped for this type of education.

Although in a few communities this ideal has been realized, for most Americans it is still impossible for adults to attend such a school. How then, is the average citizen to inform himself? How can he continue his education in civic, social, political, and economic problems?

In every community there exist today, many agencies which can assist the adult who is anxious to continue his education. The public library can render great help. Hundreds of books have recently been written which analyze modern trends and problems from every angle. Newspapers and magazines feature the articles of trained and competent commentators. In many towns, various civic clubs have organized public forums and discussion groups. The luncheon club and the service club can be made a vital educational agency.

To continue one's education is no mere whim; these days it is a duty and a responsibility which cannot be shirked. Constant and continuing education is the price we must pay to insure a continuing and an intelligent democracy; to make certain that we do not lose or barter away our liberties through ignorance or lack of understanding.

Education is the great political and social emancipator. It can accomplish more for the individual than laws made by congresses or fiat of dictators. James Oppenheim thus, in lines we should all remember:

They set the slave free, striking off his chains . . . Then, he was as much of a slave as ever!
He was still chained to servility,
He was still manacled to indolence and sloth,
He was still bound by fear and superstition.
By ignorance, suspicion, and savagery.
His slavery was not in the chains,
But in himself!
They can only set men free, . . .
And there is no need of that:
FREE MEN SET THEMSELVES FREE!

30 YEARS AGO
The financial condition of the village has greatly improved since Mr. Harrison and a portion of the present council took hold of the village affairs. Three years ago the village was "in the hole." Besides being badly in debt there was no money in the treasury. Today there is something like $1,000 in the treasury, no debts beyond the bonds, and $2,000 in the sinking fund.

Mrs. Anna Ella Waterman, wife of Chas. D. Waterman, died of pneumonia at her home here Tuesday morning, after an illness of but little more than a week.

The citizens of Northville evidently want Mayor Harrison to stand for re-election again, and they expressed it to him in an unmistakable manner by circulating a petition to that effect last week.

The marriage of Miss Clara Johnson to Mr. Frank D. Clark of Ypsilanti was solemnized at six o'clock Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Johnson by Rev. W. G. Stephens of the Methodist church, in the presence of 65 guests.

Northville was greatly honored by the conferring of honors upon one of its boys, Freddie Warner Neal, when a group of Boy Scouts, accompanied by their Scout Master, Rev. Wm. Richards, went to Plymouth last Thursday evening.

The life size home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Herr on North Center street is nearing completion. The finish being made on the interior.

A slight blaze in the roof caused by sparks from the chimney at the home of Andre Fritz on North Center street, called out the local fire department about 3:30 p. m. Tuesday. A quick run was made and by the use of the elevator truck the fire was readily extinguished.

The next was the church at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. It was decorated with streamers and bunting by Northville's and the high school boys. The church was open for a special service at 8 p. m. on that night.

The home of Mrs. Lizzie Harrison on the east side of the street is being built. The school is being built on the corner of Northville State 5000. It will be welcome news to Northville people to learn that C. R. Higgins expects to build the A. A. M. temple in the spring.

A case containing ten happy laughing canaries in the window at James Huff's hardware store last Saturday attracted a good deal of attention, and made one feel that spring was not far away. The birds belonged to Ledger Brown, who is a bird fancier and raises some very fine singers.

30 YEARS AGO

The marriage of Miss Clara Johnson to Mr. Frank D. Clark of Ypsilanti was solemnized at six o'clock Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Johnson by Rev. W. G. Stephens of the Methodist church, in the presence of 65 guests.

SPRING COMES ON
 We have always supposed it was only in fairy tales that one could fall asleep in winter and wake up in the spring time. But we, really did it.

 Late Tuesday night we made our way thro' deep slushy snow, the sun beam train in Detroit, poked our heads, mole-like between the heavy green curtains of a Pullman and awoke next morning as the train rolled over the muddy Ohio into Kentucky. Not a sign of snow or ice!

down into a bed of yellow daffodils who seem to smile up and say "Winter is over, that chapter is closed. You're on the way to sunshine and health."
 Ever eat Georgia sausage and hot cakes? Nothing to beat it to start a day's journey. The sun is out. We are off on highway 41, the route that "Sherman's dashing 'Kankée boys' went marching thro' Georgia." (But we sang this under our breath down here).

MARY ALEXANDER,

At Lexington all the passengers piled out onto the platform, hatless and careless to revel in the first taste of balmy spring time. Never more welcome than after the record-breaking past winter.

"All aboard!" and we scrambled back to rush on thro' the hills of Kentucky and Tennessee. All day we enjoyed the beauty of the changing panorama.

Past small towns. At some we stopped and everyone took occasion to get out and walk up and down the platform to feel again spring in the air.

Around the stations stood the typical bearded group exchanging yarns and watching the train come in. Over at the hitching post waited the mule teams.

Now the train labored up rocky steep, now along the bed of a deep, green river churning its way over a stony bed. Pastures turning green, cattle and sheep grazing, drab little cabins perched on the hill sides, high shelves of shale with water trickling thro' the strata and now and then a rush thro' a birch tunnel in a mountain.

The day was punctuated by three meals in the diner, all pleasant social events, even to seasoned travelers. At lunch Paul ate with some Rosedale Park children whose mother asked "Do you know the Rogers in Northville?" (and how?)

A government road agent and a general Packard manager, from Jacksonville added spice to our day and made us feel that it's a pretty good old world the more you see of it.

By the second night the passengers from London, Alpena, Pontiac and elsewhere felt quite like one big family so that when three "hot boxes" made long delays and finally caused our car to be abandoned, all the precision marked good natured two cars back carrying their luggage. The Packard man shouldered the little Rosedale Park road from deep in the pajama.

At Atlanta we left the party with real regret to pick up our auto and continue south next morning.

From that vagueness between dream and reality we awakened to the music of rain—a gentle spring rain. Our first feeling on waking was that we should run down cellar and coax a stubborn furnace to make the house comfortable for Mr. Convalentz. But no! It is spring here and to prove it, not a dream we run to the window and look down into a bed of yellow daffodils who seem to smile up and say "Winter is over, that chapter is closed. You're on the way to sunshine and health."

Ever eat Georgia sausage and hot cakes? Nothing to beat it to start a day's journey. The sun is out. We are off on highway 41, the route that "Sherman's dashing 'Kankée boys' went marching thro' Georgia." (But we sang this under our breath down here).

Lucky for us that a white highway stretches away thro' that sticky red clay. But the slow-moving mile teams that come out from the side roads did not seem to mind, nor did their dusky drivers, they were in no hurry.

Our imagination runs riot as we pass pitiful little cabins along the way, many of them in huddled groups, and sometimes not far from them we see rows of stately cotton-woods indicating the site of "Old Massa's" mansion. Often old women and little children trudge along carrying bundles of wood on their heads. ("Sufficient unto the day," their easy-going policy.)

But the towns are beautiful, green lawns, green hedges, palm trees, fruit trees abloom, narcissus, daffodils and dandelions. Rows of over-lapping trees, live-oaks with green leaves, or cottonwoods, line the picturesque streets where once rolled stately coaches with ladies in hoop skirts.

And high in those trees sing mocking birds. Oh, this is the south!

Evening comes on and we draw up before a stately old Georgian mansion in Thomastown.

"You all come right in," says a hospitable southern voice and we sit before a glowing fireplace while our boots are made ready.

Now, to the music of the other shores we write this letter back home and feel foolish that "you all can't be awakened, as we will by singing of birds as we look out upon green trees and flowers.

N.H.S. GIRLS' SQUAD WINS OVER BERKLEY

Girls' Team Takes An Easy Victory From Opponents By Score of 24-13

Berkley was defeated by our girls' cagers, Thursday, Feb. 27, in an uneven match at the high school gym.

Betty Haystead, local forward, sunk a field goal to open the game. Davidson committed a foul which Altman pocketed for the home team.

Winter, replacing Altman, opened the second quarter with a field goal which McLoughlin matched.

The fourth quarter moved rapidly with good passing on the part of Northville's team with McLoughlin and Haystead adding eight points to the score.

The girls' mascots, which were two cats, one black and the other white were lucky pussies and the cause of the victory, so the girls claim.

Much of the credit for the victory goes to Mrs. Gladys Ludwig, athletic director, for the splendid coaching she has given them.

Grade Notes Mrs. Markley had graders again having a library project. It is book work for the first graders and they bring their story books to put in their library to let other children read them.

Elizabeth Lester is back in school after being ill. Mrs. Clark's fifth graders are having a citizenship contest between the morning and afternoon sections.

Kathleen Newton and Donna Dickerson have moved to Detroit. Saurley MacLean wrote a play dealing with spelling and geography.

Miss Jarvis' first graders received some goodfish from Mrs. Johnston, their music teacher. Mrs. Coyne's third graders are working hard on their long division problems.

Miss Jarvis' first graders have been talking about the necessity of feeding birds in the winter. They have been scattering food for the birds in various places where they will find the food.

The first graders received a P. T. A. book, "Ship, Snapp, Spurr, and the Magic Horse." They hope to get the whole set of books. At the last P. T. A. meeting there were six first graders' mothers present.

The pupils are studying about Eskimos, and Miss Jarvis is reading them the book "Eskimo Twins." Mrs. Larson got this book for them from the Wayne County Library, as theirs burned in the fire.

The first graders are enjoying music from the victrola donated by Earl Montgomery. They play it at recess time and have their exercises.

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

Mr. Thompson is trying to find a solution that will stop all the confusion in the halls. Not only while passing to classes but during the noon period also. Can't you people who insist on racing in the halls during your noon hour run outside in the playground? Must you scream at the top of your voice all the time? Seems to me you'll strain a lung. Isn't it just as easy to come in and sit down in your assembly seat and amuse yourself? It seems that the people who are receiving the lowest marks are the ones that are guilty of this constant noise in the halls. Couldn't some of that wasted time be spent in study or would this be too much of a strain? Weren't you ever taught to lower your voice? What would you suggest to stop all this so called ruff?

JUNIOR DANCE HELD TONIGHT

A junior dance, with all the music, floor and dancing that can be had when Rip Collins' orchestra plays "The Music Goes Down and Round", will be enjoyed in the high school gym from 8 to 11 tonight, by all those loyal supporters who wish to see this year's juniors make a satisfactory deposit in their treasury.

Chairman J. J. Grayson of the orchestra committee, expressed great satisfaction in being able to secure Rip Collins as the musical entertainer for the dance. A beautiful dinner, sponsored by the Junior class, has already a future and a success. This time will prove on the week ends on the Junior dance treasury box.

Ample preparations for the junior dance have been made and a good turnout is expected. A rapid sale of tickets before hand always produces a large "pay at the door" crowd.

Other committee chairman are Laurence Way, advertisement; Lucile Simmons and Ruth Campbell, tickets. Posters have been distributed to the most prominent places in town, many tickets have already been sold and with the school and the townspeople support the dance should be a financial and social success.

Seniors Who's Who

Lulu Mae Lyke Lulu, who is a 100-100—that's not to be taken too literally, it just rhymes so nice—was born Jan. 30, 1917. The place, a farm about four miles west of Northville.

She began school in Saïem, but went there for only one year before changing to the Stone school. There she passed through the second, third and fourth grades. But Lulu has a gipsy soul (perhaps) so she also attended the Wood and Wash Oak schools before giving it up and coming, like all the rest of us, to NHS.

Lulu loves all sorts of sports, she tells us, summer and winter; but her hobby, believe it or not, is sewing and embroidery. Her favorite subjects in school are typing and shorthand, and these she intends to keep up at business college after graduation. And so, of course—life ambition: to be a stenographer, and a good one.

Typewriting News, Flashes

Evelyn Raymond had a lucky take-off to Paris this week with a 34 test with no errors! Lucille Simmons is now almost in sight of the British Isles in her plane "Speed" at 53 words an excellent pilot in a good ship!

Well—the budgets are all done! They were tell-tale things too! There were only 10 people from all three classes whose budgets did not contain the required number of letters. That is a good record. Fifteen minute accuracy tests again! In the third hour typing class, Tom McLoughlin and Evelyn Ambler will each receive 40 word tests for 42 and 43 words respectively.

JOINT COMMITTEE MEETS TO DISCUSS YEAR BOOK TERMS

A joint committee, composed of members of the student council and senate class, met last week with Supr. R. H. Amerman and a representative of Edwards Lithographing company of Ann Arbor in regard to a year book. It was decided that the two organizations would undertake the project with Mayor Essie Nurdie in charge.

A new process will be used this year. In previous years the Palladium was printed, but this year the material will be typewritten and then photographed. It has been two years since the school has had a year book, and it is hoped by those in charge that the school will give its greatest support. The cost and size of the annual is yet to be decided. There will be various committees appointed to make up the book.

SPORT FLASHES

Season's are changing, students and the annual question of having baseball or track of both as the spring sport is in session. The question can not be decided until the tournament is over and so any advance theories should be worth naught.

The method of arrangement as suggested by Principal Thompson was to have baseball as the major sport and to only send a representative team to the regional and suburban track meets. This, of course, would prohibit any dual meets between any of the schools in the league and also would cross out the annual match with Plymouth.

Coach Ted Writts last year's track coach, will manage the efforts of the sport which is selected as the multi-sport athletic program. Mr. Thompson will be too busy to coach the baseball team as has been the case in former years and thus will force a direct acceptance of either baseball or track.

If the students were to draw up a petition for one of the sports and if the petition should contain a larger number of backers than the other sport, then the petition would have to be accepted. Whichever sport will have more students participating in it will be the most logical course to follow because it is the object of athletics in schools to give the most students a chance to participate in their favorite sport.

This column has been drawn up in the course of its usual voyage but it has taken the most important question of the moment and if it has clearly presented the problem that will be such a topic of discussion in the week to follow, then it has served its purpose to the students.

UNITED STATES HISTORY STUDENTS TO ENTER CONTEST

The essay contest sponsored by the Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter of the D. A. R. is to be held again this year for the students of both Plymouth and Northville school history classes, according to Mrs. Harvey Cobb, history teacher.

The subject of this year's essay is to be "Caddillac and the Four-ling of Detroit," and is open to any student in United States history who is maintaining a "B" average. They are to be from 1200 to 1500 words in length. The finished products will be judged for historical material (50%), originality (25%), composition and neatness (25%). Separate prizes, which are $30 for first prize, and $20 for the second, will be awarded in the two schools.

The Northville students who are eligible to enter are: August Card, Jesse Bowers, Dean Hardesty, Gilbert Osborn, Lawrence Way, Lois Chapman, Mary Chesbro, James Hochkins, Helene Johnson, Nancy McLoughlin and Clayton Parmalee.

Dear Pupils: Well, students, I'm still a bachelor. I guess last year doesn't make any difference. The girls are still using those subtle methods coaxing a man to ask the fatal question. Not that I'm worried about matrimony. Oh, no. But some people seem to be. Look at N. K. and P. S. Why, just the other day they were up to their necks in a discussion of the marriage situation and all its angles. Of course, it doesn't mean anything, but who am I to say so?

Wandering down the long, tedious aisles in our massive assembly, I noticed red is fast becoming a fashion color for Doris. You know, the girl with the two b's and two r's in her surname. Not that she wears red, exactly, but she does like to have it around—and, well—you know how things are—Bruce doesn't mind obliging either.

I'm not a sentimental man, but these little bits of sentiment flying about, generally with caution, seem to get me. I found one, yes, I found one, with no name or address so I thought it would be a good one for all of us to study and dream about. I'll quote it word for word.

MISS OLIVE MARKLE NEW FIRST GRADE INSTRUCTOR HERE

Avez-vous rencontre notre nouvelle maitresse? Which in plain every day English means, "Have you met our new teacher?" If not, then let me have the honor of introducing you.

Her name is Miss Olive M. Markle and she teaches the first grade. She has dark hair and a sparkling personality. She is also a very obliging person. Her high school years were spent at Central High School in Detroit from which she was graduated. She then attended Detroit City college, now called Wayne University, from which institution of higher learning she received her degree in June, 1931. Previous to coming to Northville,

Discussions were carried on as to the prospects of selling vanilla to gain the profit for the class. Robert L. Angore and Ida Altman reported that their interview at the Northville Laboratories resulted in gaining of considerable facts. The seniors will probably sell two sizes of vanilla, small and large.

Last minute details dealing with the card party were discussed. Sponsors, Mrs. Claude M. Zimmerman and Mrs. Jack Taylor, are pleased with the way the seniors are selling their tickets and the cooperation of the townspeople in promoting the senior card party.

THE OBSERVER

There is an outstanding person in this school of Northville whom (we are sure) is in the minds of everyone. He is a member of our beloved faculty (don't hold that against him) and not very distant or unconnected with the Northville Institute of Musical Art, or something. He is a person with the ability to achieve perfection in every field and always is positive to gain recognition in his many exploits.

He has made Northville's musical department famous and his chorus, his solos and drama; he has raised standards which make them and him outstanding.

He possesses a genial character and is forceful when necessary, thus earning the honor of his position. He is very much in love with his job, he confesses, and claims to be at least some man. He also is a member of the Northville year club.

With all these qualities as well as the ability of this man in his admiration and respect of everybody having the privilege of knowing him.

Can You Imagine?

Junior Cole falling around the assembly with whiskers? Bob and Barbara not sticking it close together as fly and spider? Mr. Thompson not adopting the demurest of the type, but instead having to "hiss" teachers, and then tell us before we know?

Some Native taking the loved profession of minister? Herman Toussaint caught in the throes of his last singing? Frances Alexander getting along with Mrs. Chapman?

Paul Beard and Tom McLoughlin playing Romeo and Juliet on a stage?—Everything else is like Romeo and Juliet except the harmony.

Miss Dorcas E. Cornu with grey hair?—she soon will have over the senior play.

Viv Grosvenor not following in the footsteps of her sisters?—We can't either and don't expect you to.

word, "Why don't you turn around and look at me. It gets so lonely in this big assembly and I think you're swell, unique. Isn't that sweet? What connection is there between his being lonely and her being swell? Oh, but that is love—or is it?"

There they were, Laurence and Lucile. The bonds of affection were growing tighter and tighter but suddenly—snap! Why? I ask? Why? Or should I say why not?

Can you remember when? I can. Remember when Irvin Marburger was never mentioned without Jane? And how about the time when Carl and Evelyn were excellent topics to discuss? Remember our high hopes when the students were to participate in assembly programs? How swell everyone thought the idea until they discovered that everyone wanted to listen and no one would perform.

I am no different from the rest. I can't dance, and when I sing it only makes me sound better when I talk, and I won't talk so what have you? I've got ten off fact. I was trying to dish you the news but I guess no news is funny until you see a play practice. I have. The seniors, they have a part in their play that calls for a natural. It's the "brat." Two demure young maidens modestly seek the role. Ida Altman and Dorothy Frank. Now, well watch them proving that one's a bigger brat than the other.

In this column, I suppose I have qualified for that part and if it weren't a female character, I'd be tempted—Oh, I'll stay as I am and maybe you'll want me to call again sometime, eh?

Secretly yours, Uncle Dudley, Gossamer.

WASHINGTON TRIP IS SENIORS' GOAL

A senior class meeting was called to order Wednesday, Feb. 25, by President Roland Morris, to make a final decision as to the trip the seniors will take. A majority vote pronounced the fact that the seniors prefer a Washington trip and they will work towards its end. Up to date, there was some uncertainty as to where the seniors would go.

Reports from various dance committees were given. Following are the committees: publicity, Robert L. Angore; orchestra, Robert Lyke, Charles Strautz and Juanita Ekstrom; tickets, Rita Hearley and Rita Sprenger.

Discussions were carried on as to the prospects of selling vanilla to gain the profit for the class. Robert L. Angore and Ida Altman reported that their interview at the Northville Laboratories resulted in gaining of considerable facts. The seniors will probably sell two sizes

DID YOU NOTICE

The two cat mascots that were at the girls' basketball game last week? The two or three boys in the three hour study period who can't get a dog without whistling? The dusky blue taffeta blouse that Gladys H. was wearing last week?

Some of the embarrassed looks on the students' faces last Friday. (P. S. The report cards are out.) Eddie Bender visiting school last week? Kathryn M. wandering around the assembly? Barbara P. wearing glasses? How hoisly Howard M. walks in and out of the assembly, not to mention how he shuts doors?

Last minute details dealing with the card party were discussed. Sponsors, Mrs. Claude M. Zimmerman and Mrs. Jack Taylor, are pleased with the way the seniors are selling their tickets and the cooperation of the townspeople in promoting the senior card party.
