

DISTRICT HONORS BRACE BASKETBALL PLAYERS FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP AIM

Wattsmen Defeat Fast Roosevelt Quintet In Action-Packed Tournament Game, Adding New Trophy To Collection

BOYS OBSERVE TRAINING RULES

Northville high is aiming at the class C State basketball championship. One step on the road to state honors was accomplished Friday, March 6 when Northville defeated Ypsilanti Roosevelt 21 to 20 at Ypsilanti in the finals of the district tournament. The Orange and Black cagers received the district trophy for the second consecutive year.

The game started with a bang when Skipp Hochkins, acting captain, sank a difficult toss from the far side of the court to put the local boys in the lead. Essie Nirdler, after missing one attempt at a free throw, added to his team's score by sinking the second opportunity, afforded him scarcely two minutes later.

Roosevelt, however, not to be outdone at any point so early in the game, at once proceeded to take command by sinking two field shots in quick succession both by Edward Fletcher, forward.

Northville then retaliated with some beautiful teamwork, followed by baskets by Tom Gregory, center, and Skipp Hochkins. The Roosevelt quintet proceeded to take matters somewhat in its own hands and before the first half was over, they saw to it that they left the floor leading Northville by one slim point.

The score at the half was 10 to 9 in favor of Roosevelt.

Once in the locker room, during the rest periods, where he could converse freely with his players, Coach Watts mainly pointed out to them where they were slipping, and added a few valuable pointers to guide their second half play. He added confidence and assurance to the sweat-laden contestants, and they left the locker room with a determination to win.

The third period saw the local team falter somewhat though not enough to permit the opposition to pile up to too large a score. Two baskets by Charles White, another forward and Bud Steer, substitute guard in place of Joe Strabbing who

ROTARIANS THANK MINSTREL TROUPE

In order that the members of the Rotary club might express their deep appreciation to the members of the minstrel show troupe for their assistance in giving the very delightful entertainment by means of which the club's treasury was enriched to the tune of about one hundred dollars, the singers were guests at the meeting held on Tuesday, President E. H. Lapham expressed his appreciation for their time and efforts in making the show such an unqualified success and presented Dr. H. S. Willis as chairman of the meeting. Dr. Willis also expressed his thanks to the singers and to all who contributed in any way to the program and expressed the thought that all who took part in the performance were greatly benefited because of the fine spirit of fellowship that brought them together.

Greatly to the delight of all present at the meeting the chairman called upon the singers to render a number of selections, and eight of the gentlemen responded willingly, singing a number of songs. Orlow G. Owen contributed a solo number, and W. E. Forney also repeated his solo which "brought down the house." Merle Frazier sang "Old Man River" in a splendid voice. Mrs. Guy Leach presided at the piano.

It was decided to repeat the minstrel at the Detroit House of Corporation at some future date, all expressing a willingness to assist.

Mr. Cook had been in failing health for a long time, but many visitors greeted him on the street and in places of business just a few days before his death. After years of faithful service Mr. Cook was pensioned in 1931.

Funeral services were held from the home, 124 E. Dunlap, at 2:30 p. m. Monday. The Rev. H. G. Whitfield, minister of the Presbyterian church, conducted the rites. Burial was in the Farmington cemetery.

MARCH DAYS ON THE GULF OF MEXICO

Clearwater, Florida, March 5, 1936.

Greetings to all the readers of The Northville Record! And from the bottom of our heart, we mean them. This is the first editorial writing that we have done since last September—the first enforced vacation of our newspaper life.

Now that these weeks of hospital experience are back of us, we—Mrs. Baldwin and Philip—are with the writer are living for the month of March in a tiny little cottage on Clearwater Beach Island, just a minute's walk from the Gulf of Mexico.

The trip here was very interesting. We had never thought of coming by train until one day, while still in the hospital, Editor Cliff Ward of River Rouge and Brown of Ann Arbor, came to see us and said that simply must not attempt to make the trip by automobile.

Mr. Ward had just come back from Miami (and Cuba) and Mr. Brown hooked him in saying that we should be very foolish to tackle the ice and snow of the mountains of Kentucky and Tennessee.

One extra fare takes your automobile along with you in our case about $26.00. Shipping the car is not as easy as checking your baggage.

We had planned to make only 200 miles a day from Atlanta but the roads were so good and the car rolled along so well that we were in Clearwater in late afternoon of the second day.

Atlanta and Florida are beautiful but you certainly see a lot of desolate land between them—read "The Home-Maker's Gleaner" for more intimate touches of this part of the trip.

The AAA routing cards which we got at Plymouth were a big help in getting and keeping on the right roads.

We had planned first to go to St. Petersburg but are glad that—for the purpose for which we came—the Sam Bradens, the Floyd Lannings and Alec Milne persuaded us that Clearwater is the more quiet and restful place.

They spoke in particular of the fine beach which is four miles long on the island here. Saturday, however, we went to St. Petersburg for a visit with our friends of many years, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Blood of Owosso.

"St. Pete" is all that you hear. A busy, hustling city of about 40,000, running over with tourists, many of whom are in the sunset days of life.

You have heard of the green benches at St. Petersburg. Well, in the downtown section at least, they are everywhere. And full of people, sitting, visiting, reading.

In spite of the conditions of the walks and streets, 611 electors of this village went to their respective polling places Monday. The following is the result of the election, the names of the Workingmen's candidates appearing first:

o'clock—although Monday evening Phil talked us into going down town to see "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Saw more "shootings" than for quite some time. As for breakfast, we sat down this morning at 9 o'clock to our grape fruit—bought 21 big ones for 40 cents.

Sunday we went to the Methodist church, South and found it full of good looking people, many of whom were tourists. The singing was very good and we heard quite a dramatic address by Dr. F. Scott McBride, Anti Saloon League executive from Washington, D. C.

Eating is reasonable here. Sunday we had an excellent chicken dinner for 50 cents and the restaurant, before we finished the meal, was turning people away. Last evening we got enough fish (mullet) for two meals for 20 cents.

We are not planning on much running around here. We do hope, however, to go to Sarasota where the Ringling Bros. circus have their winter headquarters and to Lakeland to see some good Albion friends and, with good luck, to get a look at the Detroit Tigers in spring training.

Good-by and good luck until next week. It is a good world—Michigan and Florida—and there are good folks everywhere you turn. Isn't it so?

Brilliant Plans Made For Ann Arbor Festival—Famous Singers To Appear

In addition to the engagement of the PHILADELPHIA ORCHESTRA under LEOPOLD STROKOWSKI, with its full complement of more than one hundred men, a list of outstanding soloists has been engaged for the six concerts to be given May 13, 14, 15 and 16, including opera stars, oratorio singers, and leading instrumentalists.

LILY PONS, the world's outstanding coloratura soprano, will be heard for the third time in Ann Arbor. She appeared in the Festival of 1931, just after her sensational operatic debut in New York; and in 1934, she was heard in recital.

GIOVANNI MARTINELLI, singing Italian tenor, has been especially chosen to sing in the performance of the "Manzoni Requiem" written by his great fellow countryman, Giuseppe Verdi.

HERN ZIMMELIST, distinguished soprano, the young woman virtuoso of the day, will participate in the Friday afternoon concert. He has been heard in recital in the Choral Society, but never before at the Festival. He was chosen particularly at the suggestion of Dr. Strokowski.

HAROLD BAUER, the master pianist, will participate in the Friday afternoon concert, playing the Emperor concerto of Beethoven. Mr. Bauer has been honored as an artist of stellar importance. At his past concert appearances in Ann Arbor he has always won ovation.

PAULER CHRISTIAN will participate in the Festival on various occasions at the Erie memorial organ.

The deluxe tour of the PHILADELPHIA ORCHESTRA, wherein that organization will cross the continent from coast to coast over a five weeks' period, will culminate at the Festival in Ann Arbor, where they will be present for four days.

The UNIVERSITY CHORAL UNION under EARL V. MOORE, will participate in two programs, offering brilliant choral works, with attractive orchestral accompaniments. Eiga's vibrant and brilliant "Caractacus" will be given Thursday night, and on Saturday night, Verdi's "Requiem" in memory of Alessandro Manzoni, with a cast of operatic singers, will be heard.

At the Friday afternoon concert, as usual, MISS JUVIA HIGBEE will present the YOUNG PEOPLE'S FESTIVAL CHORUS in numerous selections, including the performance of Pierre's "Children at Bethlehem."

Chapter 2—And Then Summer (It does seem rather mean to go on with this story of a stay in the South when letters come from back home telling of Michigan weather. But then, on the other hand, if Michigan were enjoying one of its matchless June days, right now, there would be nothing about Florida to write home about.)

Along in the afternoon we notice that the red clay of Georgia is gradually changing to a sandier soil and even before we expect it comes a sign "Florida 3" and we pass over into the promised land.

Next morning directed by an up-and-coming real estate woman, we take a look around Clearwater with its overcrowded winter population and consider ourselves smitten by Providence when the agent's colored maid unlocks the door of the "loneliest empty cottage on the island" and hands us the key.

An Addition to the House Very few purchasable things add as much to a home—solid value per dollar of cost—as modern telephone service. It adds security. The presence of a telephone in the house means that here no time will be lost when some sudden crisis demands the services of a doctor. It means dependable, 24-hour contact with the police. It is a valuable form of insurance, for its swiftness in summoning the fire department can easily mean the difference between trifling damage and a crippling loss.

Conklin-Rogers Vows Read At Treaty Ceremony

One of the local readings of the new treaty took place at 8 p. m. Friday March 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conklin of Northville. Present at the ceremony were Mrs. Conklin, her daughter, Flora Mae, and united in marriage to Harry Rogers of Ann Arbor. The impressive ring ceremony was held and the vows were read by the Rev. H. G. Whitfield.

An impressive altar of ferns and peonies and white flowers placed before a large window formed a pretty setting. Before the ceremony, Mrs. Marjorie Deane sang "Unite" and as she played the wedding march the bride entered the room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She was gowned in white satin of Grecian design. Plans forming at the waist ended in a drape at the floor. Large sleeves, fitted at the wrist, ended in a point. Silk tulle with lace edging was formed in the veil and train which formed a hat caught with braided net and orange blossoms. She wore white satin sandals. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with baby blue lilies, tied with white chiffon bows.

Miss Sadie Lake of Pontiac, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a floor length pink satin gown and silver slippers. She carried a bouquet of ivory roses and pink snapdragons tied with pink satin ribbons. Miss Jane Grosvenor, the bride's maid, was dressed in a long yellow lace gown and gold slippers. Her bouquet was of yellow daffodils with matching satin ribbons.

The ring bearer, Donna Jean Schmitz, wore a blue embroidered organza, white lace stockings and white shoes. She carried the rings on a small silver tray.

Mrs. Conklin was dressed in a black velvet gown accented with a rhinestone ornament, ear rings and silver slippers.

The bridegroom was attended by his cousin, William Rogers, and Arthur Hayes, both of Ann Arbor.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 30 guests. The bride's table was set with an Italian cut work cloth. Pink candles and a center piece of pink cut flowers were used with mint baskets decorated with wedding bells. A three-tier 25 pound wedding cake was trimmed with roses, gorses and scrolls. A miniature bride and groom, completed the decorations. The bride's cake was white with pink roses and a center piece of two white doves guarding a nest of silver eggs. The cakes were all made by the bride. An elaborate luncheon was served at long tables with pink and white appointments.

The bridal couple left for a brief wedding trip Friday evening in Ann Arbor. Returning Sunday, they left immediately for California where they will make their home.

The wedding day was also the silver wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. Out of town guests included: Miss Virginia Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sells, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Kelley, Mrs. O. D. THE RECORD SHOPPER

The Record Shopper took a trip from a village this week and had a peek at some of the new spring furniture which is being displayed in a local show room. New color interests and combinations were noted. If rooms cannot be completely re-furnished, one or two of these articles will do things for almost any part of the house that may be in demand for want of style and color.

More fully styled in a heart and brown shade was a divan and chair set. The cushions were of rich red in tan and yellow stripes. Along with its partner of the set was a feature which makes for long wearing leather, construction and that in furniture the set means that there is no wearing to stretch, no creasing by use, no fading, no loss of finish, no springs to get out of position and no ticks to mat and pull out. The open bottom make for easy cleaning and sanitation.

Red chintz with willow rose, was used for the cushions on a light maple chair which would add a bright dash of color to a bedroom corner. The seat and back rest with ruffles and ties, bespoke of quaintness and simplicity—the budget who buys these pieces of furniture even a room will make this her purse "find" this spring.

Other small pieces designed in the new low line lines gave a coffee table of walnut with a practical glass top and an end table of the same wood inlaid with maple. Reflectory lamps—the indirect lights—which scientists say are the only safe lights to use to a sure eye protection, are found in the village in white, green and silver combinations.

Further use of white which is pushing its way to the front in the furniture field may be seen in an occasional chair of bone with a brown tapestry cushion and black legs.

For the sun parlor or the second living room, a three piece set—settee, chair and table—of maple with brown plaid tapestry caught the shopper's attention. The economic housewife who has used cast-off articles for these rooms which are usually not open to the scrutiny of callers, will give the old stuff the go-by in favor of the new, which can be purchased at prices which have as much lure as the furniture styles themselves.

LOCAL TEAMS WINS HONORS

(Continued From Page One) was forced out of the game on four fouls, concluded Roosevelt's scoring for the third period. Northville's scoring in the third period consisted of two shots in quick succession by Bruce Turnbull, Northville forward, and small "Chuck" Bishop who took Bob Lyke's place.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter, the result of five months of hard practice began to show up on the Wattmen and they combined as one giant machine, to slowly overcome the lead annexed preciously by the Roosevelt team. Coach Watts then substituted Peet Freddy Van Valkenburg for Tom Gregory, who up to this point had been going at top speed, and was turning fast.

Freddy did not lose very much time in repaying the confidence placed in him at such a crucial time in the game. With the score 18 to 15 in favor of the Green-bergs, (as some female fan was overheard calling them) he placed his confidence in a long shot from middle-court which arched beautifully and finally supplanted the tension, in the stands with a tremendous roar by swishing through the nets without even touching the rim.

When Charles Johnston, Roosevelt center, fouled Freddy Van Valkenburg, Fred missed the first shot, amid moans and too-bads from the stands. The second, however, found its goal, and put the Orange and Black in the lead by one point. At this time that one point looked mighty large. It did not last long, however. It seemed that the opposing team also had intentions of winning that contest, because a fast desperate drive by George Westphal netted the Northville boys the final and deciding point of the game.

Afterwards in the locker-room Coach Watts stood examining the trophy and declared that at the time of the presentation he experienced the greatest thrill of his coaching days.

We quote from the Sun-Peace edition of "The Christian Advocate" for December, 1935, organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church "This school program in many places monopolizes the time and energy of youth that neither home nor church can perform their divinely appointed tasks." The Sunday school is altogether ineffective as an antidote for the present thing.

We endeavor to meet this thing in a small way by our Monday after-school religion classes, at 3:45 and 7:15 p. m. Our attempts too often encounter competition from other activities. As the Advocate says, "straight thinking on this vital question is needed."

Lent schedules—week day Mass at 7:15; Sunday Masses at 8 and 10; confessions Saturday 4 to 5, 7:30 to 9 p. m. Evening services on Monday and Fridays at 7:30 o'clock.

All efforts of a Farmington physician to save the boy's life, failed. He had eaten 28 tablets. Hospital physicians and Dr. Edmund J. Knobloch Wayne county coroner, who made the autopsy, said that there was sufficient poison in the boy's stomach to kill several men.

DOCTOR A. WICKHAM TALKS TO STUDENTS ON SOUTH AMERICA

The students of Northville High school were very fortunate in having the privilege of hearing Dr. A. B. Wickham of Eastlawn sanatorium give his lecture on "A Lost Civilization" in the high school assembly Wednesday afternoon, March 4.

Dr. Wickham stated that people can get much more out of traveling and actually seeing objects than merely reading from textbooks. The doctor has visited 27 countries and hopes to see many more. He is nearly three score years old and said that he is just learning to travel and appreciate the privilege.

His trip included nearly all countries on the west coast of South America, and many thrilling and interesting experiences were related.

The object of such definite research, stated Dr. Wickham, "is to try and link the human race to the races and civilizations of yesterday." Among other things, Dr. Wickham related experiences of seeing the old Indian temples, ruins, buildings, and mummies belonging to the civilization Dr. Wickham termed as "Lost."

After re-living many scenes dear to him, Dr. Wickham concluded his lecture and left his audience awed by the most fascinating and inspiring contentment in the world, South America.

Dr. Wickham told his tales with such vigor and reality, that he enthused his audience so that they saw the enchanted country of South America as a new land.

Dr. Wickham possesses a very remarkable personality and he held the attention of his audience at all times.

Dr. Wickham left his audience spellbound with the fascinating tales of South America, the wonderland, and concluded with the very appropriate quotation from David Copperfield, "The more I see about it, the more I hear about it, I feel like a very humble person."

THE OBSERVER

We have a member of our honor-roll faculty who would rather not have her name appear in any issue of the Northville Orange and Black and it is fair warning reporters that, being of the dominating male type and cruel, she couldn't care who reports. If this bit of blabbing hasn't already given her identity to you and you can still take it, here is some more.

Once in a while you will find this lovely lady hovering around the door outside Mr. Thompson's office. To come right out and tell you she is the English American Literature teacher would spoil everything, so we'll say she is everything to all the boys.

She is very interested in the more cultured offerings of this life and is devoted to good literature, poetry and Katherine Cornell. She is very humorous and makes her classes more interesting to her students.

She loves to dance and one should appreciate the advantage of making her acquaintance. She is always very smartly attired and everyone is positive to enjoy the genial and respected personality of my subject.

Seniors Who's Who

Saveria ("Sadie") Leone Saveria was born on June 13, 1918, and ought to be a cure for anyone who is superstitious. If you ask us, she's anything but bad luck. She began school in Detroit, her birth place, but went to the first one for only about a year. She is another of those people who seem to think that in order to find the "misses school" there is only one way to find out—and that is to try 'em all. "Sadie" can't remember the name of this first one, but it's not so important. From there she attended the Smith school until she finished the sixth grade, then to the Harris for the seventh and part of the eighth. About that time, however, her family moved to a 120 acre farm not far from Northville, and she completed her elementary grades at the Putnam school before entering high school at Northville.

Saveria is not planning on going to college, but just in case she does, it will be a business school; especially as her favorite subjects are typing, shorthand and office practice. Ambition: (naturally) to be a stenographer.

She likes spectator sports and popular music and plays a bit on the piano.

KINDERGARTENERS DRAW SING, LEARN TO DANCE

The kindergartners made pictures of inside and outside of houses. They talked about how to help in the kitchen.

The kindergartners sang "Polly Wolly Doodle" for enjoyment. They have learned two dances—a scarf dance and a waltz.

Miss Mae Keeping has not been absent or tardy from school. Henry Kerr has been absent only one day.

ROUND THE SCHOOL

It is with proud dignity that we display the trophy in our assembly of Northville High school, for which the basketball team won in winning three successive nights at the district tournament held at Ypsilanti playing St. Thomas University High School and Ypsilanti Roosevelt to be acclaimed the District Champion of Class C school for 1936.

This team is making history for Northville High school and we all appreciate it. With the able coaching of Ted Watts, the young green-horns were converted into the fast, aggressive, experienced team that was seen at Ypsilanti by hundreds of fans. They had the championship's team of last year to follow, but ours went ahead and did it one better by receiving the district award.

It's not everyman for himself, but all the fellows working smoothly together to form the machine that has turned everyone's attention toward basketball. The fellows really worked for what they got. For months every man kept training hard, early hours, rigid practice, and the ever-helping hand of Mr. Watts. Their passing was superb and, for the most part, they were making their shots. It's team work that counts, and team attitude that helps—and our Northville fellows certainly have both.

Have you noticed the featured looks the senior girls are wearing? You see it's this way, they are making their graduation dresses you know, and oh what a nerve wrecking job. The best way I have found

Dear Students: Despite the differences of opinion as to the proper fate to which I should succeed as expressed by all you pupils, I bravely reembrace my call to duty and I return once more to bed.

Your dearly beloved Uncle Dudley attended the junior shindig but he can't seem to remember the names of the other two couples there. At times I thought that I was alone but a pop into the far corner generally revealed at least one stag looking hopefully at the female member of a couple determined to sit one out.

How these seniors do love a verbal trade when directed against the seniors. Now's your chance to start a shindig what with all that enormous crowd at the dance.

I got a tip, students! I see that J. H., a glorified member of our basketball team, is willing to stake his everything on a dark little filly who hails from Nov. Of course, you know who; but just to help a little—she is, although she doesn't look it, a close relative to a mountain, at least a smaller cousin.

Remember when, last week? I can still think of more. Do you recall the occasion when Keene B. had to wear a bathing suit over his—ah—unmentionables? Remember how much better R. H. could play basketball when Laune was watching? Remember in the distant past when I started this column? Oh, those happy days! I also remember when Bruce, that red-headed cyclone, was whole heart and fancy free.

I have a reporter friend who picked up a scoop, scooped up a pick or whatever you journalists call it. He had an exclusive information that a member of an interclass team left forty cents in the locker room. But that isn't the climax. He still has it! If we don't watch out we're actually going to become honest in this school.

INTERCLASS GAMES PROVE INTERESTING

Drama, speed, comedy mixed with not a little bit of good basketball, characterizes the exciting practice games between the contestants for the interclass basketball.

There are five teams competing in this scholastic war-fare, and everyone is capable of putting up a good fight. The seniors have a fast team and are pointed to as favorites. The juniors are the seniors' closest rivals and are forcing a complete showdown before the intraclass tournament begins.

The sophomores and freshmen have capable teams, but haven't had quite the experience that the others have. The most astonishing team of the classes is the seventh and eighth graders, who have composed a team with some of the best undeveloped ability of all the squads. Their only drawback is the lack of height, but otherwise the "Infants," as they call themselves, would be worthy contestants for the cup.

At the end of the tournament, an all-star team, with a possible second team, will be picked. The choices will be made covering ability and not the numbers of baskets that have been made. As is the case in many instances, the most deserving player is on the directing end and, unfortunately, not on the scoring end.

The classes have been running in a regular schedule in their practice games and have put as much interest in winning the matches as if they were actual fighting for the cup. They have provided the folks at noon with entertainment which is very helpful in clearing the bulk of the congestion that has been the main trouble in the last few weeks.

The intraclass tournament will begin as soon as Coach Watts thinks that his "Infants" have acquired enough practice to make the play-offs as interesting as possible. The eighth and ninth graders will have the honor of having the name of the class, which is representative of the cup.

GIRL SCOUTS MAKING ASCOTS THIS WEEK

This week the Scouts started making ascots. The troop colors are green and gold, therefore it was decided at the last meeting that the ascots be dark green and the ascots will be embroidered in the center with golden silk ties.

Mary Louise Boyden has joined the Scouts and is a lieutenant at 14 years under the leadership of Miss Dorcas Cornin, captain lieutenant Mary Louise is taking the place of Miss Dorothy Aikfison former first grade teacher of Northville.

Inquiring Reporter

Question: What do you expect to get from your high school education?

E. K. Starkweather: I expect to get material that will help me get a good position and be able to get it when I am older.

Alice Eaton: I expect to get the foundation and requirements for a college education. If I do not go to college at least I will have a basis to work on later.

Ira Davis: I expect to be able to understand the laws of nature and civilization much better after the completion of high school. I believe an education gives a person a better outlook on life.

Herman Toussaint: A high school education trains you for college and gives a person a larger social and educational background.

Mary Louise Boyden: A good background for college work and a few cultural subjects on the side which gives the opportunity to widen one's social advantages.

INFORMATION CONCERNING THE SCHOOL PALLADIUM

The student council and senior class have undertaken the production of a Palladium. The year book will not be printed but will be lithographed. It has been approximately three years since the high school has had a year book, and principally to financial circumstances, but the new process will be used this year which cuts the cost greatly.

All material will be typewritten by members of the staff and the book will be photographed. The art work will be done by the students. It is a much cheaper process and the cost of the annual will be somewhere from 50c to 75c, compared to a dollar or more in previous years. The book will consist of about 48 pages and contain pictures of the various junior and senior high school classes, the senior's names, names of the athletes,

HISTORY CLASSES STUDY INTERESTING MEDIEVAL PERIOD

Mrs. Hawley C. Cobb's world history students have many interesting things to do and make in connection with their study of medieval history.

Among the interesting things done by the classes, are comparing the sky line of a medieval town with the sky line of a modern city, and drawing conclusions from the sky lines regarding the dominant interests of the people in the two places. The following people have done that: Irene Kaluzny, Cecil Oles and J. W. Erwin.

The following girls drew charts and pictures of the material and clothing worn by the medieval people: Gwendolyn Jones, Marjorie O'Neil and Irene Kaluzny.

Medieval galleries were made by Harold Card, Helen Van Sicker, Keene Bolton and Lois Dean.

Interesting articles, concerning the supplies we get from people of Spain, were written by Margaret Nagy and Ralph Lawrence.

Such additional things contributed by members of the class makes their study of history a much more interesting subject and the pupils are given extra credit for reports and articles.

TRYOUTS FOR SENIOR PLAY SUCCESSFUL

The tryouts and first practices for the senior class play "Little Miss Fortune," which is to be held April 2 and 3, went off with a bang. About two dozen of the class members were present for tryouts, held at 3:45 p. m. Monday, March 2, to try their luck or skill at portraying one of more of the play's cast of characters.

The seniors are out; this year not only to top their last year's success "Here Comes Charlie," but also to prove their versatility. By now, practically everyone knows that this year's presentation is "Little Miss Fortune," that it's written by Charles George and that reading rehearsals were started last week.

Those same students who played one kind of role last year, are playing directly the opposite this time. Take for instance Ida Altman, who in "Here Comes Charlie" was the lovable heroine, with her two straight pipettes and a desire to do right. But in "Little Miss Fortune" she plays a directly opposite character. She's Lily Henshaw, the tattletelling brat, who is the bane of every one's life. The pipettes might still be there, or opening night but the desire to do right won't.

Even with all the dances lately, the party-goers never seem to tire of them. There was a gang at the dance, Friday, especially after the basketball game. I suppose there were all there so it would be necessary to tell you everyone who was there. Here's just a few Don't say I left you out because there were just too many. Frances McLoughlin was there with Paul and of course so was Ida Altman with Bob Gray. Herman Toussaint went out of town for a party and another crowd one off as interesting as possible. The eighth and ninth graders will have the honor of having the name of the class, which is representative of the cup.

BASEBALL OR TRACK TO THE QUESTION

Northville's success in the tournament has postponed any definite decision on the topic question of the day, baseball or track.

Principal Paul B. Thompson and Coach Ted Watts will call a mass meeting of all the boys interested in either sport as soon as the regional tournament has been won or lost. This meeting will be for the purpose of finding which sport will have the most participants.

Mr. Watts denies any preference for either sport, at least he will state no definite desire as to which he would rather coach. Mr. Thompson very decidedly prefers baseball to track and will want Mr. Watts to coach it.

Both sports promise to turn out real teams and good records. The baseball fans are just as sure that their team will "go to town" as the track supporters are sure that the league stars will be next suburban league champions if they get the chance.

The student's preference will have very little influence upon the outcome of the meeting. The sport which will provide the greatest number of boys with participation in athletics will be the natural and only sensible course to follow.

Baseball has never made the record that track has made out here. But the material for the makings of a good team. So there is really little choice between the two sports other than that one which will be able to carry the most contestants.

MRS. LOUISE BROWN SPEAKS TO U.S. HISTORY CLASSES

Mrs. Louise Thayer Bryan, president of the local Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, talked Monday morning to the students of the United States history classes. Mrs. Bryan, whose family is one of the pioneer ones of this state, explained the ideals and aims of the D. A. R.

"Not only do we preserve and mark historical spots," she said, "but we also try and arouse the youths of this country to realize how rich historically their own state is."

One of the many projects of the D. A. R. that the local chapter is sponsoring is the annual history contest held each year in the Northville and Plymouth schools. The contest is open to all United States history students, who have and maintain a "B" average or above. Heretofore the Northville and Plymouth school competed against each other. This year however, each school has a prize of its own.

The subject of the essay to be written is "Cadillac and the Founding of Detroit" and is to be limited to 2000 words.

The purpose of the contest, Mrs. Bryan stated, "is to make the school has had a year book, due to how rich historically Michigan is."

The winner will receive three dollars, and the runner up two dollars. The essays will be marked only by number, so that each contestant receives a fair chance.

TOWNSEND PLAN

BY CHARLES C. LOCKWOOD

Charles C. Lockwood, a Detroit attorney, is favorably known by a number of Northville people. He was a resident of the village a number of years ago. According to Mr. Fry, Mr. Lockwood will be a speaker for the Townsend club here at an early date.

It is proposed under the Townsend Pension Plan to pay every American citizen of good record over sixty years of age the sum of $200 per month, which money must be spent within the month in our country. The pensioner must also give up all gainful employment. It is estimated that part of the cost of this pension will come from savings in present care of aged and from lessened cost of crime. The balance of the expense will be raised by a small transaction tax and perhaps by larger income and inheritance taxes.

The aims of the Townsend Plan are as follows:
-To provide security for all persons who reach the age of 60 years to live on an American standard of living.
-To remove from competitive labor a sufficient number of citizens to afford opportunity for all employable.
-To provide a constant purchasing power for the products of American factories, industries, agriculture and services.
-To maintain a balance between consumption and production that will end all depressions.
-To protect and preserve all rights, traditions and customs which have been established as true Americanism.
-To stimulate ambition, and offer incentives to further progress and development of higher standards of living.

To reduce crime by destroying the conditions which breed crime.
-To furnish opportunity for the young for fullest use of their talents and ability.
-To advance the American home as the unit of modern civilization.

Now regardless of what anyone may think about the Townsend Plan, I would like to state, briefly, some of its phases and some of our general economic and social conditions.

Approximately thirty of our population are unemployed, and the unemployment rate is about 14%. The average monthly per capita income is $125.50 per month, and only about one-third of our population is employed for a period or longer.

In Michigan our unemployed persons are provided with a benefit of two dollars per week for the first four months, after which the rate can be reduced a few dollars a month, or on the condition that they consent to the state what ever program they wish, even to equity in the insurance policy. Now I am sure that if that is really the kind of old age protection you face.

RESOLUTION
The death of Mary E. Lapham, M. D., Jan. 26, 1936, a former Northville resident, recalls the great depth of gratitude the people of Northville owe her, as it was the gift of the building known as the Northville Ladies Library, which made possible the splendid library, surpassed by none in the surrounding communities which the people from far and near enjoy.

The Northville Women's Club is also deeply indebted to her for her thoughtful provision that they have the use of it as their club house as long as they care to do so.

Resolved that as a Club we show our deep appreciation by placing these resolutions on our records and a copy in the Northville Record.

for crippled children's services in Michigan. Funds are most inadequate. The number of crippled children is increasing. Twenty-five thousand cases have been reported in the past eight years, and eleven thousand hospitalized. Twenty-seven hundred new cases were reported during the year just past, and sixteen thousand in the active files are in need. They represent every known type of crippling disabilities coming under the general classifications—congenital, disease and accident.
