Workmen Wreck Old Buildings as New Ale Factory Plans Progress

Architects Submit Drawing for New Village Industry to be Erected on Site Formerly Occupied by Stinson Aircraft

With a crew of men at work this week wrecking the former Stinson Aircraft building on East Main street, the proposed Ale Company of Northville becomes a certainty and will be operating before the summer is over.

Promoters also have men working under Richard Neal, contractor, remodeling the laundry building, which was at one time occupied by the Frid brothers. According to word from the Detroit ale office, a new building will be erected along English designs to resemble an old coaching inn and will house the company offices, and the brewery store rooms. Smith, Hinchman and Grylls of Detroit, architects, have been given the contract for construction.

It is expected that the adjoining frame structure will be torn down and the site made attractive with landscaping. The tramway, too, is being wrecked.

Upon completion of the factory this summer, between 70 and 80 men will be employed to keep the industry in operation.

It has been learned that Northville was selected as the location for the new factory because of the splendid qualities to be found in the spring water. The spring water blends with our ale formula and we think this an ideal location, said one of the backers of the project, when plans were first being formulated here last fall.

If the drawings which have been submitted by the architects are followed, the ale factory will be the second attractive industry site in the village. The Ford factory building and the new Ford lake are projects, which have been designed for beauty and have been under way for some time.

There is but one way in which this need can be met and the houses supplied, and that is to build some new houses and to repair and remodel some of the old houses which do not now present an attractive appearance. There are a number of old houses here that could be modernized and made attractive, and to prove this statement we have only to point to the fine piece of remodeling F. M. Bogart did on the old house he acquired on Grand street or the fine modern home Dr. J. E. Seiadis has made out of the Joslin residence on Dupont street.

There is a great deal of publicity given those who plan to build, offered by the government for the financing of home building. Some complain of too much red tape while others declare it is easy to conform to the requirements of the F. H. A. Thus far no one has made an effort to secure government funds to build themselves a home here in Northville, but it seems that the time has arrived for some action along that line—either by individuals acting for themselves or through the pastorates of the Rev. Frank N. Miner and the Rev. Horace H. Mallinson the struggle to survive was most heavily felt. So many of the members lured by the loss of values, as were the pastors themselves, in bank closings, real estate losses and business ventures that the financial problems became acute, perplexing and disheartening.

Attempts were made to maintain proper salary levels but each year meant a gallant display of pastoral fortitude and delay in the current bills for maintenance.

The struggle is still on but the dawn of better conditions is appearing and if there are no contrary winds the society will have a better story when a new Conference year is ended.

With all the resources of a long experience and good preaching Mr. Miner sought to conserve the faith and courage of the people and hold steady to the society's heritage.

With smiling confidence Mr. Mallinson preached, planned and counseled the discouraged workers to further diligence and during his stay worked out a Centennial program that was most helpful in rebuilding the local spirit.

After these two came the Rev. Harry J. Lord and pitched in for reconstruction plans, among the children, youth and middle life sections of the church plans, which are already effective and will be fruitful by another year.

One of the fall activities will be the Fiftieth Anniversary of the dedication of the present church building.

In the 122 years of Methodism in Northville they have had two church buildings. One dedicated in 1819 and the other in Sept., 1866.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Burgess and daughter, Mabel of Detroit, spent Wednesday in Detroit.

Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Richards of Belleville, were in Northville Wednesday visiting their daughter, Ann, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cobb and calling on friends.

Wayne VanDyne of Chicago, formerly of the village, will appear as a professional guest artist next Sunday evening on Paul Whitehead's Variety hour. Mr. VanDyne was selected for this performance from more than 700 professional singers who competed in a contest. The audition was held at NBC in Chicago and the three judges, Paul Whiteman, Deems Taylor and George Gershwin, listening from Radio City, N. Y., voted him the best professional singer in Chicago.

Miss Ann Richards, Kindergarten Teacher, Names Physical, Mental and Social Needs of Five-year-olds

Your child should be physically fit for school. He should have a feeling of security within himself so that he will develop a happy attitude toward school, kindergarten teacher, speaking Monday afternoon before members of the Child Study club and additional guests.

Miss Richards recommended that mothers have their children examined by a physician in the early part of the summer. If defective tonsils, teeth or eyes are detected, there is time before the fall school term to get them corrected.

She stated that eye strain is often the cause of many nervous and mental disorders. If visual defects are cared for in time, the treatment required for normal vision will not be so extensive. According to Miss Richards, 15 percent of school children have defective hearing in one or both ears.

As a further protection for children's health, Miss Richards advised that they be immunized against diphtheria and vaccinated for smallpox.

In regard to the child's social and mental development before he enters kindergarten, it is important that he be able to go alone for a reasonable distance on familiar streets. He should be able to take care of himself completely—get drinks, go to the toilet, manage his own clothing, clean up after play, tidily put things in their place, assist in care of the room. He should feel some responsibility in the matter of health by wearing a brace when going outdoors.

Further, he should be able to enunciate clearly and state his full name in sentences. He should know how to recognize experiences and begin to differentiate between the imaginary and real.

A child of five, if properly developed, will have a real sense of respect for authority and a friendly relationship with municipal officers, affirmed Miss Richards.

Upon entering school, the child is beginning to force himself into human relationships. He plays with groups and has children of his own age, and he becomes aware of conflict between his motives and desires and those of others of equal authority. Mothers may aid by preparing their children to go along without them. In this way they will be prepared for the experiences school life brings.

The child's daily schedule should have been gradually changed at the expiration of any necessary adjustments when he enters kindergarten. The bed time should be established so that he awakens spontaneously in time to prepare for school without having to hurry, concluded Miss Richards.

Members of Congress representing the board on the Great Lakes have organized a committee for the purpose of forming a commission on the need for the early completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway. Congressman Francis D. Culkin, Thirty-second New York district, is chairman of the group. Other members include William W. Williams, Michigan district, and John D. Dingell, Fifteenth Michigan district. John L. McCarty, Michigan district, is secretary.

NEGLIGENT HOMICIDE CASE AGAINST TODD IS DISMISSED FRIDAY

Max Todd of Plymouth, appearing before the justice court in Farmington last Friday, was released from the negligent homicide charges held against him following the death of James Taylor, 71, whom he hit with his car as the Nov farmer was walking down the railroad tracks near Farmington, April 12. Mr. Taylor died April 5, of injuries resulting from the accident.

The case against Todd was dismissed last week because of lack of evidence. He had been released on a $1,000 bail April 13, after a warrant was issued April 13, from the Oakland county prosecutor's office for his arrest.

Original Play and May Pole Dance Mark Child Health Day in Village

Grade School Teachers, Pupils Cooperate To Present Annual Program Today In High School Auditorium

Carrying forward the May Day slogan for 1936, "Health and Security for Every Child," teachers and grade school pupils are presenting a program at a 2 o'clock assembly today in the high school auditorium.

Among the features to be presented this afternoon is a health play, "Spring Comes to Flowerland," by Miss Olive Markle's first graders. Using a tree trunk as part of the stage setting, fairs and showpieces, representing Miss Ann Richards' kindergarten sections, will give health games and dances.

The traditional May pole dance will be given by Mrs. Frank W. Hawkins' sixth grade girls. Boys from this class will do a stunt exhibition. Miss Helen Leonardson's second graders are to present an original health play, written especially for this May day observance.

May Day this year marks the thirteenth annual observance of Child Health day throughout North America. Health authorities and organizations once again concentrate public attention upon the fundamental need of a year-round community program looking toward the protection and the development of physical and the mental health of children.

The object of the village as well as in each state and community is to focus the far-reaching cooperation of the vast social and health forces for the extending of child welfare services, and for the best of our children. The annual Child Health day program, originated by the American Child Health Association in 1923, is now held in 40 states.

C. A. DOLPH REVIEWS HISTORY OF CHURCH

Appearing in an April issue of the Michigan Christian Advocate, is the following article written by C. A. Dolph of the village:

"Five years ago the Northville Methodist church was hit by the depression. Just to exist has been painful.

Through the pastorates of the Rev. Frank N. Miner and the Rev. Horace H. Mallinson the struggle to survive was most heavily felt. WINTER VS. SUMMER VACATION

A good friend who cannot afford two vacations a year tells us that hereafter he is going to worry along without a summer vacation and instead, spend a few weeks in Florida in the middle of winter.

THE CRITICISM OF A DEMOCRAT

The most bitter criticism of the New Deal that we have read or heard comes, not from a Republican, but from an outstanding Democrat.

The whole New Deal is not only a mistake but a disgrace to the nation. And the time is not far distant when we shall be ashamed of having wandered so far from the dictates of common sense and common honesty.

WHEN IS A LIFE VALUABLE?

How tragically cheap is life in some places and how sacredly valuable in others! Not a new thought but it must be running through the minds of all of you who have been reading the papers.

Human life—men, women or children, it doesn't matter much—is pitifully cheap in Detroit. It is so cheap that almost every week-end the automobile, driven like a literal chariot of death, kills one or more people.

Life is held high in the mines. Last week there were rescued from the dark depths of earth two men who had been caught in a "horrible mine entombment."

What a great day it would be for Michigan and for the United States, if life on the streets and highways were regarded as priceless as life in the depths of a mine!

THAT BRIDGE ACROSS THE STRAITS

The proposal to spend thirty millions of dollars in putting a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac is again being talked.

Former Governor Chase S. Osborn is the latest seriously to suggest that the bridge should be built. Chase Osborn is a brilliant man who has a vast fund of knowledge and anything he says is worth considering.

No one seems to know definitely what the engineers say of the plan and just how feasible it is. Do we need a bridge across the Straits to take across summer tourists and deer hunters?

The bridge idea will never get a better booster than Chase S. Osborn. Maybe more facts will be forthcoming about the necessity of the bridge.

THE HIGH COST OF THE TOWNSEND PLAN

If you earned $1,800 a year and the Townsend plan went into effect, how would you like to spend $300 of your salary in taxes to support the plan?

This is what it would cost, on that salary, stated Economist Robert R. Doane to the house investigating committee. Further, said Mr. Doane, spending of $200 a month by each person over 60 would so increase production that all our natural resources would be exhausted 25 years earlier than otherwise.

Mr. Doane is the man who first said that it might be possible for the Townsend plan to work—at least it was worth investigating, he said. After scientific investigation, he says that the plan simply can't work. How could it?

FINDING THE RIGHT "TEMPO"

Reading of the daily papers shows that death in the sixties is common. One of Michigan's well-known men in public life passed last week at the age of just 60—too young to die.

The doctors tell us that we can all live longer if we have the tempo to adjust our speed of living. Some folks run when they could just as well walk. Some get mad when it would be more healthful to laugh and avoid creating toxins of poison.

Find the right speed that will let you live to a good old age. The world needs you.

STAYING TOO LONG IN SCHOOL

Professor G. E. Carrothers of the University of Michigan faculty is quoted as saying that it would be a calamity to insist that all young people should stay in school until they are 12 years old.

No child or young person who wants all the education possible should be deprived of it—and during the past few years many who wanted to go to college, and who should have gone there, have not been able to do so.

Because it has been the "popular" thing to do, many thousands of young people have gone to our colleges and universities and frittered away valuable time and come out with little real education.

Gone is the old idea that to get a college education means to get riches. Many a former college professor and Ph. D. is on the factory line along with the man with the eighth grade education.

THIS WEEK'S SLOGAN.

"Don't take too seriously the things you hear against other people."

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

1 YEAR AGO

Northville is again to have a furniture manufacturing plant. The industry will be located in the old Globe Furniture company building and will be under the name of the Wayne Wood Products company, incorporated at 10000.

The Northville schools will, according to the pending school budget be open 10 months for the 1935-36 year, and will in all probability open their doors next fall on Sept. 3.

Tony, Harry B. Clark's well-known black and white horse, was purchased Friday by Henry Ford, who has been attempting to purchase him from Mr. Carr for over a year.

Despite the set-back by rainy and cold weather, Contractor Alex H. Johnson is making good progress on construction of the new building for the Record. Brick walls are now up and steel girders for the roof were placed yesterday.

Perhaps it should be said that the newspapers are not entirely to blame in cases such as these. Their business is to sell papers, and it seems to be true that the papers which play up the blood and thunder of life sell the most papers, because they appeal to the most people.

There may be no chance to change this picture, but it makes us feel as if we were not very far from the beasts when the had is given so much prominence over the good.

Hauptmann did harm. It's peculiar and said that these things should be.

Last week too, another physician was mentioned in the daily press. His name is Biddle, and for the past 50 years he has been working in Detroit where he had established a name for himself in the medical world which goes far beyond the boundary of the city in which he had been working.

Perhaps it should be said that the newspapers are not entirely to blame in cases such as these. Their business is to sell papers, and it seems to be true that the papers which play up the blood and thunder of life sell the most papers, because they appeal to the most people.

SOMETHING ON THE BALL

(Dearborn Independent)

When you have something on the ball especially as much of something as has Dizzy Dean you may draw a salary in excess of $25,000. From whatever inside dope sports writers get (and they are very often right) it is believed that Dizzy didn't get the $40,000 he was holding out for but came fairly near it, $25,000 for pitching baseball a few months. What a howl would go up if some college teacher or a bishop or hospital surgeon should hold out for such a sum.

SOCIETY

One of the grandest J-hops ever held in this fair school ran off very evenly last Friday night to the tune of the Columbians of Detroit. Everyone looked so pretty or handsome as they paraded down the middle of the grand march, and seemed to be having such a great time dancing with first one partner and then another.

The Latin II class, under the direction of Miss B. Ione Palmer, will have visited the Museum of Classical Archaeology in Ann Arbor on Thursday.

Some of our more ambitious students hiked to Plymouth to the show and there met some of the most ambitious ones who had ridden over. But no matter, they all hiked back. Those in the original party were Tom McLaughlin, Evelyn Ambler, Ida Altman and Pat Roberts.

MARIANNE NILSON
In this young lady, one of our honor students, we have a seasoned traveler. She's been back and forth from Eskilstuna, Sweden, where she was born, several times.

Inquiring Reporter

"What do you think of the Townsend Plan of Old Age Pensioning?"
Jane King—I don't approve of it. Our generation would have to pay taxes for the rest of our lives.

DID YOU NOTICE

The girls of N. H. S. Friday? Their hair just had to be waved for the J-hop and last minute appointments are unlikely?
Theda F. has her dark eyes on a certain somebody?
Doris L's corsage Friday evening? It was jolly well magnificent.

WRITER OF ESQUIRE GIVES REPLY TO LETTER RECEIVED

Robert T. Angove, writer of Esquire, gives the following reply to a letter addressed to him last week:

Dear Date Dan, Ken, Spence: Our editor of the Orange and Black staff has just closed a letter to you and the staff letter commenting on my Esquire. I wish to write to you in my column and to forward the interest to the students of Northville high school.

I certainly appreciate your helpful criticism and hope to hear more from you. It helps to know that people are reading my column and with your criticism, it is for me to correct my errors that the readers do not get any false impressions.

Without such thought and interest we would have no opinion by which to measure ourselves by, for some times we need outside thoughts and to see our work at a distance, that we may correct them.

Again thanking you for your assistance, I am,
Yours very truly,
ROB. T. ANGOVE

There is an admirer in this school of whom everybody is aware. His dazzling personality has been casting sunshine all over this institution and so we are about to cast reflections about him in his somewhat secluded life.

When you cast your optics on his person, the first thing you notice is his hair and you think that just a prairie flower growing wilder and wilder every hour, idea. His complexion is light and he has a high level with broad shoulders. He is quite an athlete, and after three years on the football team is chosen captain for the coming season.

The medals won by the school champions were awarded before the game began and the judges and officials were the same as in the Detroit News representative school of the spelling bee and football were taken of the water and submerged.

The price to be given for the district championship will be a large amount with the winner's name inscribed upon it.

Dr. Shinn had a try for the Metropolitan championship that is to be held May 15 at the State Fair Ground in Detroit, which will start at 10:00 a. m. to 8:00 p. m. on May 23 for the International Spelling Bee.

Two Sizes of Bottles Sold Ask Townspeople To Order Now

Members of the senior class are engaged in selling vanilla to increase their funds for their Washington trip. They are selling two sizes of vanilla, a two-ounce bottle at the price of 25 cents, and a six-ounce bottle for 50 cents.

Elaine Winters, in charge of the sales, reports that five dozen small bottles have been ordered, of which all except about half a dozen have been handed out to be sold, and seven dozen large bottles, of which practically all have been handed out, also, have been ordered.

The class expects to make a profit of about $23 if all the vanilla on hand is sold. The class hopes more orders will be given by townspeople so it can order more.

THE RECORD SHOPPER

by Virginia G. Anderson

It's Baby Week in a village store where young mothers may select comfortable, correct garments which will look style-wise when the perambulator goes out.

Knitted and crocheted textures, woven firmly enough so that tiny fingers won't catch in their mesh, are being used for saucers. These make acceptable gifts now that the infant is old enough to sit up.

A berette can hardly have too many blankets and afghans. They are needed to wrap the baby after his bath—a soft, blue flannel one for this, we found this week; for covering him in his bassinet—a finely knitted afghan in white, a local clerk will suggest; for keeping him warm and giving style to the "pram"—a pink and blue silk.

At half price—we will close out all our Mother's day cards at half price. Call and make your selections. Lucius Blake, Jeweler. 44-c

PUBLIC ENEMIES

THE CROSSWALK SOMNAMBULIST. Pity him as we do, the Crosswalk Somnambulist has no one to blame but himself. Sleep-walking pedestrians gamble with death.

While it is true that pedestrians have the right-of-way over autos making turns at intersections and that traffic should slow down for persons using crosswalks, neither of these truths can afford much comfort after an accident has occurred.

For your own safety—be alert—look both ways before crossing the street!
