A GOOD MOTTO FOR NORTHVILLE

In the editorial columns of last week's Dearborn Press there appeared this sentence: "Let us make Dearborn the city of beautiful homes and the city of happiness."

That motto, we submit, would be a good motto for this splendid village of Northville—or for any other good town.

THE HARD LIFE OF THE POLITICIAN

A Detroit writer says that on a recent Sunday there were 150 political picnics in and around Wayne county. If the politicians have to spend money at all these gatherings, they will need a New Deal budget.

SIX GOVERNORS ATTACK LONDON

Writing in The Detroit News, the well known Washington correspondent, David Lawrence, plainly intimates that the recent political addresses by six governors over the radio at one time may prove to be boomerangs.

Mr. Lawrence analyzes the speeches and says that "the six voices that spoke as one" directed their inspired (by the democratic committee) talks at the personality of Gov. Landon. Then Lawrence goes to say that he is very doubtful if this kind of campaigning will get very far.

NAMES MAKE NEWSPAPER

We think it was Horace Greeley—or some other famous newspaperman from our past—who said that the "thing of greatest interest to anyone is himself and the next greatest concern is his neighbor." It is this very human instinct that makes and keeps going the newspapers.

The Northville Record has been publishing names ever since 1889 and unless something entirely unforeseen happens, it will go on publishing names for another century. Our material surroundings change but our human nature is about the same as it was when Jacob cared for his flocks on the hills of Palestine.

THE DEMOCRATIC DISSENTERS

The breaking down of old party lines will be emphasized at Detroit today as the leaders of "The Constitutional Democrats" gather there for their convention. What is done by the dissenting democrats at Detroit may have a big bearing on the November election.

It is the democrats themselves who point out that Franklin D. Roosevelt is no longer a true democrat. He has left, they claim, the democratic party tradition and has thus made it impossible for many democrats to go along with him.

A writer of the non-partisan Christian Science Monitor, recently made a study of the desertions from both the democrats and the republicans and made this assertion: "So far as prominence in public figures goes, there can be no question that the New Deal has suffered more dramatic defections than have the republicans."

In addition to the former presidential nominees the correspondent then lists the following as the most prominent of the dissenters:

- James A. Reed, ex-senator of Missouri.
Joseph B. Ely, ex-governor of Massachusetts.
Bainbridge Colby, ex-secretary of state.
Henry Breckinridge.
Eugene Talmadge, governor of Georgia.
Lewis W. Douglas, former budget director.
Daniel F. Cohalan, former judge, New York politician.
Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war.
Carter Glass, senator from Virginia.
Harry F. Byrd, senator from Virginia.

THE FUTURE OF NORTHVILLE

The inclusion of Northville in the giant plan for a two million dollar sewage project for outer Wayne county communities shows again the promising future for this village. The trend of building in Detroit seems to be to the northwest—out Grand River avenue and surrounding territory—and the activities that are now going on are showing their effect here in Northville.

We are under the eaves of one of the world's greatest cities. As long as Detroit goes ahead, Northville will certainly continue to be "Detroit's Most Picturesque Suburb."

NORTHVILLE'S BIG MONTH

Northville, Michigan, goes on the map in a really big way during August. The four days of our fair, August 26, 27, 28 and 29 are the dates of the Northville Wayne County Fair. Then it is that hundreds and thousands come here, for perhaps their only visit of the year, and get their impressions of our community. It is a pleasure to report that these impressions are in most cases favorable.

Northville and the fair are both going forward together. It is a matter of great pride to this community that while most of the fairs of the state have had a very difficult time in "keeping going" and many have closed their gates entirely, the Northville Wayne County fair kept going during the depression and has yearly added to its fine reputation. The cooperation that has backed the fair, on the part of all the people of Northville and community, is responsible for the continued success of our August carnival and festival.

Our fair visitors this year will see a bigger and better Northville. They will see a marvelous new Ford factory, almost ready for occupancy. They will see the great park development that is being made in the neighborhood of the Ford plant. They will see in a very vivid way the plan of Henry and Edsel Ford to link industry and village life in such a way that workers will get the most out of life.

The new pavement on Main and Center streets will greet our fair visitors in August. Brighter and better show windows of our merchants will, of course, go along with the new pavements. If the visitors travel around town a bit they will see a new grade school going up and many homes being improved. It certainly will be an "up and doing" Northville that will greet the thousands who come here the last week of August.

Get your best welcome out for the coming fair crowds.

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

1 YEAR AGO

Trampers in Northville school district will be provided with a reduction of $2.00 per thousand on their school taxes last December. Gerald W. Appleton, secretary of the board of education, announced this week.

A son, Jud Stewart David was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jud Green at St. Johns Hospital, Aug. 2.

At a quiet ceremony in the Baptist parsonage, Vera Horsfall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Horsfall, Northville, and Walter A. Smith, son of Mrs. Walter J. Smith Plymouth, were united in marriage Monday evening. The Rev. K. S. North performed the ceremony.

Construction of the basement and of the concrete footings for the new ord valve manufacturing plant in Northville is to start at once, officials of the company announced yesterday.

School officials switched their efforts to obtain a direct federal grant from the Public Works Administration to the Works Progress Administration it was learned yesterday.

5 YEARS AGO

Horst Woodman, a boy who "grew up" in Northville, returns here after 23 years in the state treasurer's office to act as permanent receiver for the Laphar State Savings bank.

At the annual meeting of the Northville Loan and Building association on Friday, July 31, two new directors were added to the company. They are Miss Jessie Rose and Nicholas Nerison. All officers were re-elected. Spencer Clark is president and A. K. Dolph is vice president. The secretary is Irvin E. Vanatta and the treasurer is Chas. Dolph. Directors are: John McCully, Roy G. Clark, Carl Schowdtz, Marion Johnson, T. R. Carrington, C. M. Freydl, A. W. Parmenter, Jessie Rose and Nicholas Nerison.

What a terrific punch in the solar plexus Old Man Depression received last Thursday night when nearly 6,000 people gathered in Northville for the Twilight Hummer. This was a free celebration given by the City of Northville for Northville and the neighboring towns, a program which lasted from 9:30 in the afternoon to midnight, was enjoyed.

10 YEARS AGO

The first new plane made in the local plant of the Stinson Airplane company was taken to the landing field being used by the company on the Starkweather farm on the Six Mile road Tuesday afternoon and evening and the work of putting on the finishing touches and testing was carried on Wednesday and yesterday.

15 YEARS AGO

A fair sized crowd gathered at the Northville Fair grounds last Saturday afternoon to enjoy the racemattinee arranged by the horsemen who have horses here for training. The big event of the day was the matched race between Henry Ford and Harry W. Henry Ford is an unruly brute when he takes a notion, and Saturday seemed to be the very day he had chosen to "show off." He acted badly in all the efforts that were made to get the two horses away from the wire and as a punishment for his bad conduct he was defeated by Harry W. Two worked wonderfully well. The time for the two mile heats was about 2:24 and 2:25.

Northville is soon to have one of the "most modern" and up-to-date flouring and feed mills in this section of the state and a large number of men are working hard every day putting on the finishing touches to the new building.

C. H. Bryan of this village was surprised the other day to get a photo of himself and three other "buddies" doing stretcher work three years ago in France. Carl recalled the circumstance but had no recollection that there was any photographer in the vicinity. The picture was taken Aug. 1, 1918.

The Northville Foresters defeated the Hamilton Boulevard merchants of Detroit last Sunday 15 to 6, in one of the most exciting games of the season.

20 YEARS AGO

The class of 1914 will hold its first annual reunion in the Dubuair cottage Saturday at Willet Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Clark are entertaining some boys from Detroit in the interest of the Fresh Air society.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Norton at their home in Detroit last week. Mrs. Norton was formerly Miss Martha Tolls of this place.

Rain and cool breezes bring relief to the state in general, after two weeks of the hottest weather in 15 years. The ice, ice cream and milk program was in a serious condition and would have been critical if the latter had not become cooler.

So hot in northern Michigan that eggs shipped strictly fresh, were sold at their destination as broilers.

On thermometers in the street on the south side of Main street Sunday registered 102.

Don Fall has taken a position in the local Edison office here.

The Kel-Roo girls are planning to "take a walk" at camp on Willet Lake next week.

30 YEARS AGO

The Northville Loan and Building association held its annual meeting in the library Friday night and elected the following officers: J. A. Dubuair, president; E. K. Simonds, vice president; I. E. Van Atta, secretary; P. A. Miller, treasurer; C. C. Yerkes, attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dart have a new son since Wednesday, Aug. 1. P. B. Macomber is again proprietor of the Peerless Laundry, having re-purchased the business from William Phillips.

It is expected that Northville's population will be increased by about ten families in the near future and more when there are more houses for them to live in.

Will Lanning's new house on Center street is enclosed and rapidly approaching completion. When finished it will be one of the neebiest and most up-to-date residences in town with its equipment of electric lights, furnace, bath and all the modern improvements.

There are at least three things that Northville ought to have to substantiate her claim as an up-to-date live little city and these are a new high school building, all-night electric service and a fountain in the public park.

A BREAK FOR HAWAII

(Upland News, Calif.) Those five Hawaiian sugar firms who received about a million dollars each of the AAA as "benefits" for not raising sugar are no doubt well satisfied that Uncle Sam took over the islands.

SUMMER BOARDERS

(R. G. Jefferies in Lowell Ledger) About how the summer boarder fifth-out to some quiet farm or more pretentious hotel, and payeth his good money for summer board. This form of business suffers from the competition of automobile touring.

Many of the people who used to settle down for weeks or months to lazy loafing on porches, now have their going shoes on. If they spend two nights in the same bed, they become bored and want to be off.

If the landlady can no longer persuade the summer boarder to spend four weeks, she may get many more than four transients in his place, who come roaring in at night and go roaring off in the morning. There are some people left who do not measure their happiness by the speedometer. What do these folks want? Good old home cooking same as Ma used to give them, a bed on which they can sleep without rolling off on the floor, and active exercise of the mop and broom, are things for which many still pay good money.

Tax-payers: Your 2nd Payment on 10-Year Plan is Due Sept. 1st

JUST a year ago your state and county officials were engaged in a great drive to encourage the property-owners of Michigan to clear their tax records.

It is estimated that over half a million tax-payers took advantage of the special concessions that were made for their benefit.

Back taxes for 1932 and prior years were put on a ten-year plan, and the first tenth-part was paid. Now the second part, again ten per cent, is due.

You must now make this second payment, with a 4% interest charge, in order to keep the advance you won by coming under the ten-year plan.

Note: If you have not yet put your back taxes for 1932 and prior years on the 10-Year Plan there is still time for you to do so.

If, for any reason, you failed to put your taxes for 1932 and prior years on the 10-year plan last year, you can still do so by making the first two payments, with interest at 4%—plus a small additional charge on the payment you missed last year.

Reception Follows Pledging of Johnson-Martens Marriage Vows in Lutheran Church Last Friday

The Lutheran church was the scene of a pretty wedding at 8 p. m. Friday, July 31, which united Miss Violet Johnson, daughter of Mrs. A. H. Johnson, 344 First street, to David J. Martens, son of Mrs. Martha Martens, 229 High street. The vows were spoken by the Rev. W. K. Kuch of Detroit, reading the marriage pledge.

Becomingly gowned in a floor-length white satin dress which formed a slight train and wearing a long veil of tulle, the bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Leif Larson of Detroit. She carried a bouquet of rose buds.

Her only attendant, Miss Edna Martens, sister of the bridegroom, wore a formal dress of yellow chiffon, a green tulle hat and matching accessories. Her bouquet was of pink roses.

Baskets of summer flowers were carried by Dorothy and Mary Smith, the flower girls, who were dressed in white organza frocks. Alex Johnson, brother of the bride, was Mr. Martens' best man. Arthur and Victor Miller were ushers.

Proceeding the pledging of the wedding vows, organ music was played by Louis Miesner. "I Love You Truly" was sung by the bride's sisters, the Misses Florence and Helene Johnson, who selected dresses of blue for the occasion. "Before the vows were spoken and immediately after the ceremony, Miss Florence sang the "Wedding Hymn."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Martens home which was made attractive with large baskets of flowers used throughout the rooms. Pink and white appointments and sweet past were used on the dining room table, centered with a three-tier wedding cake.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. Okervall and daughter, Miss Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hansson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Elliott, Ray Elliott, Miss Virginia Harbert, Mr. and Mrs. George Wise of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lofton of Wayne.

Returning from a brief wedding trip over the week end Mr. and Mrs. Martens are at home at 229 High street.

Head are listed under 37 different departments. Chief heading in this group each containing several departments are general government buildings and property, protection of persons and property (poison and fire), public works, miscellaneous (accounts payable, loans to other funds, etc.), debt service and capital outlay (payments for additions to village property).

Council Has Full Report The real benefit of this classification, according to Mr. Kirch, is that it enables the preparation for each council meeting of a statement giving the exact financial position of each department and each fund, indicating the reasons for balances or shortages. Before this the council only had information regarding totals.

PRESIDENT NEEDED FOR BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

The Northville Building and Loan association is without a president because it can't find anyone to take the job. Carl Schindler, who has been president for the past two years, refused to be re-elected at a meeting of the board of directors after the stockholders' meeting last Friday night, and none of the other members would accept the post. I. E. Van Atta was re-elected vice president and secretary and Mrs. Willard Cole was re-elected treasurer. Charles L. Dubiar and Miss Jessie Roe were again named to the board of directors. The board will have to meet soon to decide what to do about its presidency. Mr. Van Atta said.

BOND DEFAULT CLAUSE WAIVED IN PWA OFFER

(Continued from page one) Northville, and orders that the sidewalks be kept clear of obstructions. At the present time, there are two poles on Main street which extend over the sidewalk and are supported by posts. With the re-arrangement of the sidewalk in the section where Northville streets were widened and lifted, it was necessary to take down the posts which supported J. G. Alexander's No. 140 East Main street. The council's resolution prevents the poles from being re-erected. Alexander is having the poles taken down. As no street adjustments were made in front of this Main street, it is probable that the poles there will not be taken down until the village does work on the sidewalk or until the business place itself is remodelled by its owner.

NO ACTION ON SIGNS

Despite talk on the street Monday which indicated that something would be done about tearing down signs that have ceased to be attractive and that have not kept in step with the trend of modern sign advertising, nothing was done by vote of councilmen at their meeting. It was their opinion that the merchants themselves would have enough pride in wanting to improve the attractiveness of the business district, to replace at an early date the signs which have out-lived their usefulness and have become "eye sores." The phrase, "sidewalks clear of obstructions," is being interpreted this week by the village law to mean that no displays of merchandise can be made on the sidewalks. All the boxes containing jumper trees and flowers have been removed.

COMMENTS COUGHLIN APOLOGY

(Cleveland Plain Dealer) "Father Coughlin's formal apology to President Roosevelt for calling him a bar at the Townsend convention in Cleveland is straightforward, appropriate and adequate. He could not well have said less. He was under no obligation to say more. For attacking the president as he did, the priest offers the chief executive 'my sincere apology.' At the same time he promises to use every gentlemanly effort to defeat Mr. Roosevelt for re-election. That is fair enough. Father Coughlin acknowledges his error by standing by his guns."

Dr. Thomas W. Smith of Ribbing, Minn., before a union congregation in the Presbyterian church. Dr. Smith is minister of the First Presbyterian church in Hibbing, Minn., where the Rev. Harold G. Whitfield of the Northville Presbyterian church will preach during his month's vacation, which starts this week. Character, declared Dr. Smith, shows up in emergencies. If a person is plagued by the little things of life, he asks, what chance has he of coping with the really big things of life? He cited Jesus Christ as an example of one who was able to handle small things as well as go through major crises untroubled. The Rev. Harry J. Lord will preach next Sunday in the Presbyterian church.

THE OFFICE WASTEBASKET

OF "WARNER WINCHELL" BY FRED WASSER NEAL

CLASS HATRED

We hear a lot these days about "class hatred." One side is supposed to "dominate" it, and the other is supposed to "dispell" it.

As always, a definition of terms is advisable. By class hatred, I suppose our political orators mean conflict between economic classes.

Class hatred is rightly deplored. Any internal dissension should be deplored by the peace-loving patriotic citizen.

Under our present system, capital has the upper hand. Perhaps that is as it should be.

But capital has often fought labor, and when an injustice is worked against the capitalist class, then it too, is entitled to aid.

Such action cannot be rightly called "fomenting class hatred." Instead it is dispelling class hatred.

Our democracy is based, fundamentally, on the philosophy that all men are created equal.

Such equality and protection under the true American system, is due capital and labor alike.

A. L. Anderson Reviews Booklet That Sold Northville to City Dwellers Back in Early Days

As early as 1874, Northville had its fish hatchery. Opened in that year by N. W. Clark it was handed on to his son, Frank N. Clark, in 1876.

The U. S. government assumed control in 1890. In 1892, the ponds and hatching troughs teemed with 10,000 stock fish and 250,000 trout. Fish were being shipped throughout the United States and to England, France, Germany, South America, New Zealand and Mexico.

Gold Fish Had His Day Out on Farmington road, just a mile to the east of the village, gold fish were being reared by the tens of thousands. Starting with only two fish the business grew into big production on Japanese gold, silver and fan-fan fish.

The literary demands of Northville were taken care of in this same year by the Ladies Literary Association. Organized three years earlier with a membership of 89 the group increased to 150 by 1922.

Miss M. E. Lapham was president, Mrs. Frank N. Clark, vice president; Mrs. A. C. Smith, secretary; and Miss J. Isbitt, librarian.

Day of Social Splashes Fraternal social and civic organizations flourished in that year. There were the Mason, Odd Fellows, Knights of Honor, Chosen Friends, Order of the Eastern Star, G. A. O. V., Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans, and the Northville Light Guard.

The bill on which Paulsen succeeded now stands as the property of J. C. B. Miller in that year. The booklet described it as a magnificent grave of five acres, together with thirty-six very desirable lots of high elevation and beautifully located.

The combined efforts of L. A. Lundy, contractor and builder, with that of P. Eugene Wood, architect, produced numerous "elegant residences," J. Morrell, Simmons, and Postmaster Hottel are two dwellings named by the booklet author.

The Northville Record reported that 40 persons "were seeking Louises and finding not a single house was vacant" in that year.

All in all, Northville must have been a busy place in 1892.

Character is like a tree and reputation like its shadow. "The shadow is what we think of it; the tree is the real thing."—Abraham Lincoln.

Commercial travelers and visitors put up at the Park House, the hotel managed by O. Butler and Son. Beaus took their bellies out for rides in buggies rented from the livery stables of M. N. Johnson and Irving N. Szarkweather.

Churches Are Organized Northville had four churches in 1892: Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and Catholic. The Presbyterians organized in 1829, the Methodists and the Baptists in 1834. The founding date of the Catholic church is not disclosed. Catholics were served by a Millard priest, and held services in the Methodist church.

Little information is given in the booklet concerning the early Northville school. In 1822 it was known as the Northville Union school, taught by a staff of eight teachers. The school boasted of "facilities for thorough instruction in the grades, and in the two courses of study for graduation from the high school, enabling students to enter the higher institutions of the state, including the University of Michigan."

Moffat House Center An important feature of the town was the Moffat Opera House, the four story building at the corner of Center and Dunlap streets. The opera house, which comprised the upper stories, seated 600 persons. On the main and second floors were stores, and also The Northville Record offices. P. S. Neal was publisher in 1892, having bought The

Mark Twain Is Creator of Delightful Comedy Which Brought Fame to Writer and Comedian Beloved by All Americans

"How in 'tarnation" wondered Mark Twain, "did a bullet hole occur in the armor of a knight of King Arthur's court? That was just an innocent speculation, but the fearful mind of America's greatest humorist would not rest until it had furnished some deliciously funny explanation. And out of that explanation grew a tale which, when it was put between boards, came to be known as 'A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court,' Twain's masterpiece in satire.

Although Mark Twain never confined to anyone just how he did get his inspiration for this tale, literary critics believe that the clue is in the foreword to the book in which Twain tells of his visit to a British museum.

Among the curios which Twain examined was a breastplate, supposed to date back to the sixth century, and to have belonged to a Sir Sagramore. Twain was gazing curiously at the antique, when suddenly his eye lighted on what was an unmistakable bullet-hole just over the heart.

So Twain furnished the imagination, and out of that glorious blend of nonsense, rollicking fun, romance and adventure has come the Fox picture, 'A Connecticut Yankee,' which stars Will Rogers in the first of his famous talking picture roles and comes Friday and Saturday to the Penniman-Allen theatre.

Brought back by popular request, the picture presents the beloved comedian in a cast that includes Myrna Loy, Maureen O'Sullivan and LOVE BEFORE BREAKFAST Carole Lombard became a "lady with a lamp" during the filming of "Love Before Breakfast," the Universal laugh hit which comes Wednesday to the Penniman-Allen theatre.

Then Carole took a long count, but she gamely resumed work twenty minutes later.

WADENSTORER MAKES PLEA OF GUILT IN RED DAM EXPLOSION

With the arrest Wednesday of Frazer Wadenstorer, 28, Farmington township farmer, the secret of who attempted to destroy the dam at the Workers' Educational Camp in Farmington township June 16, 1935, was disclosed in Pontiac.

The accused has waived examination in Municipal Court and has pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to malicious damage to the dam. Sentence has been deferred by Judge George B. Hartwick until 1:30 p. m. Monday and Wadenstorer has been released on his personal recognizance.

Before the grand jury last week, he admitted he had tried to destroy the dam which backs up the water for a swimming pool at the Communist camp which occupies a farm adjoining his. Slight damage was done by the explosion. Wadenstorer lives on his father's farm. He has a wife and two children, 7 and 5 years old.

Denying membership in the Black Legion, Wadenstorer said his act was prompted by a desire to remove the swimming pool from the camp which he said attracts large numbers of persons from Detroit, many of whom are children, he says, fruit, vegetables and chickens have been stolen and that the noise at night makes living close to the camp unbearable.

KING EDWARD'S PARTY IS RUINED BY RAIN

C. L. Dubuar Brings Paper to Record Office With Story of Palace Scene

From a London, Eng., paper brought to The Record office Thursday morning by C. L. Dubuar, highlights are noted in the write-up about King Edward's garden party.

According to the July 21 issue of The Star, the Londoner's evening paper, the following account was given by a reporter:

"The King's garden party reception at Buckingham palace this afternoon was abandoned at 4:30—half-way through—owing to a sudden downpour of rain.

"The party had been in progress just an hour, and about half of the 500 ladies to be presented had made their curtsies.

"There were a few spots of rain at 4 o'clock, umbrellas were put up and scores of people scurried across the lawn to the tea tents.

"Then the rain ceased, but 20 minutes later it came on again, this time quite heavily. For ten minutes the presentations went on.

"The women passed before the King slowly and unperturbed by the rain.

"As soon as they passed out of the drawing room in lovely afternoon gowns ran across the palace lawns to seek shelter.

"They crowded under the trees and in tea tents. Rain had been falling for about ten minutes while presentations were going on when the King looked up at the sky and ordered the abandonment.

"Those who had not made their curtsies handed in their presentation cards at the doors to the grand entrance, and this will count officially as a presentation.

"The King, for the occasion, wore a dark grey morning suit with a grey top hat and sat on a raised crimson platform under the red and gold Indian Durbar canopy, set on four silver poles in the center of the lawn.

"Queen Mary was not present, and there was no hostess.

"One debutante—one of the older women—fell full length in the roadway as she attempted from her car to walk along the Mall to the palace. She was dressed entirely in white and appeared to catch her heel in the hem of her long dress.

"Her chauffeur sprang to her assistance, and her friend brushed the dirt from her dress. Then, blushing slightly, she entered the palace.

"The crest and crowning of all good, life's final star, is Brotherhood.—Edwin Markham.

"That is a good book which is opened with expectation and closed with profit.—Amos Bronson Alcott.
