WE THANK MR. VANATTA

Postmaster Fred E. VanAtta and The Record editor are good neighbors. We live just a couple of blocks apart and his place of business is just across the street from ours.

So we felt honored one day last week when Mr. VanAtta invited us to go over to Plymouth to hear Frank Murphy, democratic candidate for governor. "You can wear that Landon flower of yours and you won't be embarrassed in any way," said the local P. M. So we went and enjoyed the experience of sitting for an hour and a half with a bunch of outstanding democrats.

Mr. Murphy gave a splendid speech, entirely free from any "mud slinging." In fact, he paid very high tribute to his republican rival and to Governor Landon and to his predecessors in office in the Philippines. The man who is said to be as good a speaker as President Roosevelt, discussed issues and not personalities. He asked that the campaign be kept on this high level. After hearing Mr. Murphy, one could better understand why he won so decisively from Mr. Welsh in the primaries.

It would make for more tolerance and respect for each other's opinions, if we all once in a while heard what the "other side" has to say. We are all Americans before we are anything else.

SEVENTEEN MORE DAYS

In just seventeen days after today, millions of American people will march to the polls to pick a president who will take office next January for the coming four years. In that army of voters should be every able bodied man and woman of legal age, in the whole Northville area. Do we appreciate the high honor of American citizenship? If we did not have it, what wouldn't we give to possess that marvelous right—the right to help settle the destiny of the greatest nation on earth?

No election since the Civil War has had such significant issues at stake as will be settled on November 3. Gone are the traditional republican and democratic parties. Instead, there come the over-vehement issue of the New Deal adherents and the anti-New Deal followers. The issue to be settled on November 3 strikes deep at the future of every home, indeed at the very future of every boy and girl. With the national debt at an all-time peak; with the prospects of the workers and employers paying forty-seven billions of dollars into a social security fund; with the outlook for a bureaucratic government that will have literally armies of workers dominating every feature of our social and business life, who is there to deny that the voters are at the cross-roads and must decide whether they will turn their backs on the American form of government that has made us all so rich in opportunity and in the enjoyment of a full and abundant life? Yes, November 3 may well mark a mile-post in our national life.

The next seventeen days are days for cool and calm thinking. They are days for tolerance and vision. They are days for thinking for yourself and for rising above prejudice. Above all, they are days for rising above class division and class hatreds—an issue that has raised its ugly head already in this campaign.

Seventeen more days! Great is the duty and challenging is the opportunity of American voters.

INTEREST RATE IS DROPPING

There are probably dozens or scores of Northville boys and girls who have already started saving their money and are learning what interest is. The boys and girls don't realize it, but the parents know that this interest isn't what it used to be. In fact, it is just about half what it once was. The man or woman who formerly was thrifty and had good habits and ambition and industry, could safely save a few hundred or a few thousand dollars and then rely on getting six per cent on the money. What of today? The places where the thrifty man can now get six per cent with safety are few and far between. For example, thousands of Michigan farmers, after a life time of hard work, careful planning and right living, have taken ten thousand dollars and retired to the sunset days of life secure and safe. To watch this same security and well-earned days of retirement today, the farmer has to lay away, not ten thousand dollars but twenty or even thirty thousand dollars! How many can do that?

The blame for falling interest rates can be placed squarely at the door of our national New Deal administration which has floated so many bond issues at low interest that our banks everywhere are full of these bonds. Yet these banks, to pay expenses, must get six per cent from the borrowers—and borrowing from the banks is harder than it ever was. Every man, woman and child who has insurance policy is interested in these low rates of interest, made low by the New Dealers. Insurance companies have to loan their vast funds out at interest—on bonds, stocks and mortgages. If the interest they receive is even a little lower, then obviously our policies lose some of their value. We continue our national policy of spending money and we are not getting any more insurance policies will be endangered—not because these policies won't pay us dollars but because they will pay us cheap dollars. How does that appeal to you?

Whether we like it or not, the New Deal is coming home to every one of us!

"DIRTY" CAMPAIGNING

This is what we call "dirty" campaigning. During the past few days unsigned postal cards have been sent to wet voters of the state, in the hope of defeating Wilber M. Brucker for the U. S. senate and L. D. Dickinson for the position of lieutenant-governor. The cards, which the senders did not dare sign, are headed: "VOTE MICHIGAN DRY" and then go on to state that both Brucker and Dickinson are dry.

The whole aim of these cards is to poison the minds of wet voters—both republicans and democrats—in order to defeat these two exceptionally fine public servants.

Has this campaign reached the pitiful state that men who choose to leave liquor alone are to be boycotted and persecuted? Has it reached the contemptible point where character, ability and public service mean nothing and where drinking is to be the whole issue?

Repeal is not an issue in this campaign. Everyone should know that and the sending out of these thousands of cards was done to confuse the issue. It is not square shooting.

No one has told us whether Prentiss Brown, Mr. Brucker's democratic rival, is wet or dry. Knowing something of his background and of his high standing in his home section, we should say off-hand that he is personally dry. He is a graduate of the same college of which both the writer and Mrs. Baldwin are alumni and our daughter is now going to classes on the same campus with the fine daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Brown. The other day, in fact, Mr. Brown sent to us his own regards, through a mutual friend, and we felt honored to have a personal word from such a splendid man. We should think it contemptible if some republicans, in an underhanded way, should start sending out post cards against Mr. Brown, just because of his personal habits.

We have plenty of wet friends, here and elsewhere, many of whom differ radically with us on the question of drinking. Yet in 25 years of newspaper publishing, we have been boycotted only four or five times, because we happened to be a "dry" in our personal habits. And we can't recall ever having boycotted a good honest man just because his views on liquor dealing were different from our own.

There are plenty of out-in-the-open issues to be settled in this campaign. Let's keep it above the mud-slinging of the back alleys.

Those were smart teachers out in Minnesota who agreed that sending their pupils out from school with high ideals was even more important than the proverbial "reading, 'rithmetic and 'rithmetic."

Asked if anyone had been dismissed because of his inability to add or spell one man said: "Give me a boy on the job, one that we can depend upon 24 hours of the day, and we'll risk his spelling and arithmetic."

The teachers next considered what built a successful home and listed the traits necessary: unselfishness, self-control, honesty, economy, thrift, orderliness, the ability to reconcile differences, to direct cheerfully and intelligently, and above all a loving disposition which is able to stand under many tests.

Unanimously these teachers planned a scheme to fortify their pupils for their entrance into the big world after school. Sound character was their aim, not an outward veneer so they established a report-card system in which each child marked his own progress in the traits which were considered fundamentals in right living.

Reliability. I must learn to think honestly. I must never tell anything untrue or let anyone think anything untrue about me.

I must do right when I am alone and there is no one to tell me what to do, as well as when others are with me.

I must not give or take unfair help. I must not take anything belonging to someone else.
